AT OSGOODE HALL.

Judgment Given by Justice Rose in the Express Companies Case- One Company Entitled to Discriminate.

In Johnson v. Dominion Express Co., Mr. Justice Rose gave judgment dismissing the action with costs. He holds that the defendants are entitled to discriminate and are bound only to make reasonable charges, and that the plaintiffs, when desiring to send by defendants' company a hamper containing a number of small packages, and tendering the ordinary fee for carrying a hamper of like weight, were not offering a reasonable fee under the circumstances. He thinks that the evidence has not established that defendants have held themselves out to the public as carriers of the goods of a rival company. He does not decide (because unnecessary) whether the defendants have a right to refuse to carry a hamper containing smaller packages.

THE NOTE WAS SATISFIED.

In McQuarrie v. Brand, the Divisional Court (Armour, C.J., and Falconbridge, J.) has given judgment allowing the defendant's appeal from the judgment of the County Court of Perth. The defendant was sued by executors of a deceased holder of his promissory note for $300, and he defended on the ground that by an agreement made between the deceased and himself he was to board her sister, and that he had done so, and thus paid the note. The Court hold that he satisfied the note in that way and dismissed the action with costs.

SMACKS OF REAL ESTATE.

The Court of Appeal reserved judgment in Petman v. City of Toronto, and then proceeded to hear the appeal of the defendant, Maloney, from the judgment of Robertson, J. The case savors of real estate. The learned trial judge decided that the defendant Maloney was liable under an implied covenant or equitable obligation, notwithstanding his alleged agreement to the contrary, to pay off a mortgage upon property he had purchased. Judgment was reserved.

Canadian Relations.
New York Tribune.

The Pacific Cable Conference has resumed its sittings in London. We might say it has begun them, for the two held early last summer were purely perfunctory. Now the Conference is getting down to serious business. The new Liberal Government in Canada is settled in its place, and knows its own mind and the temper of its constituents, and the voice of Canada is likely to be dominant in this conference. The Pacific cable is an imperial enterprise, but Canada is the member of the Empire more intimately concerned. The engineering practicability of the scheme is now fully established. The only question remaining is that of financial practicability. That is what this conference will deal with, and it will not be Canada's fault if the result is not a determination to proceed at once with the work.

Another legacy of the Conservative regime—the Liberal Government of the Dominion has cordially accpted. That is the scheme for the expansion of transatlantic commerce under the Canadian-British flag. A new line of large, swift steamships is to be established, plying between Canadian ports and Liverpool, and heavily subsidized; as usual, by both the Colonial and Imperial Governments. Since the St. Lawrence is closed with ice in winter, an all-year service is to be maintained by using, in winter, Portland or some other United States harbor, the railroad and other rates being adjusted so as to give it the advantage, to Canadians, over New York and Boston. This enterprise the Liberal Government is pushing with even more energy and enthusiasm than its predecessor displayed. We may, therefore, presently see a swift Canadian line, aided by Government subsidies, competing for some of the ocean traffic now handled in New York and Boston, and using a United States port in winter as a base from which to wage war against United States shipping, just as Canada now uses, and has long used, the United States bonding concession as a means of warfare against the railroads of the United States.

Simultaneously with their promotion of these enterprises, Canadian statesmen are expressing satisfaction at the election of McKinley, and hope that under his administration tariff changes and reciprocity laws will be adopted which will be of great benefit to Canada. Perhaps. We have no idea that a Chinese wall will be built along our northern frontier. But the rule of "give and take" is a good one to make work both ways. For many years most of the giving has been done by the United States, and most of the taking by Canada. "Turn about is fair play." It is scarcely to be expected that even the most liberal Government at Washington will still further increase Canada's advantages and add to the handicap the United States now suffers, in the industrial and commercial competition between the two nations.

Do Fish Suffer Pain?

All fishes have nerves, and in some respects fishes are extremely sensitive, says The London Mail. A fish that has buried itself in sand or mud sb completely that only the tip of its tail fin is above the bottom will feel the slightest touch and instantly start out of its sandy bed. A fish is very sensitive to movements in the water surrounding it. Ashadow falling upon the water will startle a fish into flight. But sensitive as fishes are in some respects, it is probable that they do not suffer pain from injuries received.

Fishes are extremely sensitive at the nose. A fish that had in pursuit of prey run its nose against a rock might shake its head violently, perhaps in pain, but fishes sustain serious injuries from actual wounds without showing any indication of pain. In fact, the indications tend to show that they do not suffer.

THE ROADS IN BRUCE.

Governme t Missionary Campbell Has Been Shaking Up the People.

Mr. A. W. Campbell, C.E., the Good Roads Instructor, has returned from a missionary tour in the Country of Bruce. He says that a considerable fall of snow has left the roads in a miserable condition up there just now, and this state of affairs was perhaps very opportune in that it served to emphasize to the residents in that district, the need for road improvement. He learned that some twenty years ago, the County Council had expended the sum of $250,000 on the main roads and that, consequently, they were in a fairly good condition. But such other highways as did not receive attention at that time are now in a wretched state. The good roads meeting, which Mr. Campbell addresses at Paisley, was attended by some 300 of the ratepayers of Eldersby, Grennock and Bruce, and the various speakers expressed themselves as being in accord with the Instructor's suggestions. The meeting advised the council to lay down some plans to remedy the condition of their road beds.

Army Work in Winnipeg.

Editor World: I have been an interested reader of the reports published by the press of the good work being accomplished by the W.C.T.U. as given at the convention which has closed in this city. I have always been an admirer of the work of this society. I was rather surprised, however, in reading the report of the union work in Manitoba at an inference made. In speaking of Winnipeg The World of Monday, the 9th, says: "The members of the Union visited a house of destruction on the prairie countenanced by the city twice," but added, "Where are the poor girls to go?"

Now, having been a resident of Winnipeg, and knowing that the Salvation Army has a Rescue Home in that city, and that their work has been much appreciated and generously supported by the citizens of the Prairie City, it struck me as rather an oversight on the part of the W.C.T.U. that such a question should be asked the convention. I have since made inquiries at the headquarters of the Army Rescue work on Albert-street, as to whether there was still a Home of Refuge in Winnipeg. I find that there is a comfortable home on Yonge-street accommodating 22 inmates and that within one year and one-half 114 cases have been received in the above city by the Army workers; and that almost 100 of these have been satisfactory cases. One "house of destruction" has been closed, largely through the efforts of the Army. I have also learned that besides the good work the Army is doing for Manitoba they have homes situated in Toronto, London, Hamilton Ottawa, Montreal, St. John, Halifax; and that in four years 1400 girls have been received in these institutions, 1200 of whom have been reported satisfactory cases. There is accommodation in their homes for 158 girls and 85 children.

I am a lover of justice and consider the efforts of the Army among the fallen should meet with heartier recognition from the public, which would doubtless be so if their work was better known. Thanking you for the space allowed me, and wishing godspeed every effort to ameliorate the sorrows and sins of the needy.

An Unprejudiced Reader.

The New Mother in 1900.

Mother, dear mother, come home with me now,
The clock in the steeple strikes one;
You said you were coming right home from the club,
As soon as the session was done.
The baby has spasms and father's worn out
By long nights of watching and care;
His face is a terrible thing to behold,
For a week's growth of stubble is there.

Mother, dear mother, come home right away,
The clock in the steeple strikes two;
The country will wobble along for a while
Without further guidance from you.
The home you deserted is chilly and bare,
There's nothing left in it to eat,
And father, poor father's converted the last
Clean tablecloth into a sheet.

Mother, dear mother, come home with me now,
The clock in the steeple strikes three;
The shred man's wearing your bloomers, and oh,
He's a horrible object to see!
Come home with me, mother, before it's too late,
For father is losing his grip,
We've run on the rocks and the deuce is to pay
Since you have deserted the ship—
Come home, dear mother, come home, come home—
Oh, mother, dear mother, come home!
