FROM ALL OVER THE MARITIME PROVINCES

Saturday, May 11.

The past week has been one of absolute social quiet, hostesses taking more interest in household matters than in anything else. The refurbishing which takes place annually is now in progress and until that disturbing period is passed it is needless to expect entertainments of any kind. However, out-door sports do not interfere with domestic arrangements, consequently patrons of golf and tennis are rejoicing inasmuch as play has begun at both clubs. At the golf club golf enthusiasts have been hitting the ball for some weeks past, and although the ground is not yet up to the mark, at times the links have presented a gala appearance. Today at the tennis grounds four of the courts will be ready for the players, and while tea will not be served until later, it is expected that a large number of the members will be in attendance. A few days of bright sunshine is all that is required to arouse interest in these invigorating pastimes which heretofore have proved so successful.

The one bright particular star in this social firmament was the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's lecture last Saturday night in the Keith assembly rooms before the members of the Women's Canadian Club, the subject being The Celebration of One Hundred Years of Peace Between the Anglo-Saxon Nations On the North American Continent. The fame of the lecturer attracted a large and fashionable audience who unstintingly applauded the good points made by the talented speaker. Before entering upon the theme of the lecture, Hon. Mr. King paid a glowing tribute to Lady Tilley, speaking of the influence for good which she had exerted at Ottawa and which had in some measure inspired his public work. Lady Tilley occupied a seat on the platform beside the president of the club, Mrs. E. Atherton Smith. Refreshments were served after the lecture, the table which was presided over by Mrs. J. V. Anglin and Mrs. Landers being prettily decorated with white stocks and white carnations. Mrs. H. A. Powell was convenor of the tea committee and was assisted by Mrs. Rupert M. Rive. Mrs. Chisholm presided at the piano, and as Mr. King entered the hall, played a patriotic selection. A pleasant hour was spent while the refreshments were being served, during which Mr. King met a number of the members.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foster, at whose residence Mr. Mackenzie King stopped while in St. John, entertained on one of the evenings at supper in his honor, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. George K. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. William Vassie, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thomson, Miss McMillan and Mr. Alexander McMillan.

Edward Hailstare, curate of the Cathedral at Fredericton. The bride was given away by Canon Smithers and was charmingly gowned in white chiffon satin with bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of carnations and ferns. After the ceremony a reception was held at Glenora, the residence of Mr. Sherman Peters, at whose home the bride has been a guest since her arrival in Canada. The bride's traveling suit was navy blue with hat to match. From the parishioners the bride received a purse of gold.

Mrs. George Wetmore entertained the Saturday afternoon bridge club at her residence, Summer street, last week. Her sister, Mrs. Doheny, of Toronto, who was present, was beautifully gowned in royal blue satin with garnitures of jet and black cluny lace. First there appeared a man with a gun; another two cats, and the third was a fashionable lady with a profusion of feathers in her hat.

The pillars were encased in fir and evergreen ropes were carried fom post to post, while more of it was fastened to the white netting which was prettily draped above the entrance. The receiving was done under a bower of evergreens. A large banner being directly overhead bore the inscriptions 1902 and 1912. Wreaths of chrysanthemums, cut flowers and palms added a finishing touch to the display. Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Baker, Rev. Mr. Baker's parents, of Fairville (N. B.), received with Rev. and Mrs. Baker. At the conclusion of the congratulatory speeches the presentation was made of a gold watch to Rev. Mr. Baker and a beautiful solid silver teapot to Mrs. Baker.
