An exhibition of the manual training and household science departments was held in the Fisher Vocational School on Wednesday evening, from 8 to 10. The whole building presented a gala appearance, decorated as it was with bright flowers of all kinds and colors, and all blended with the most exquisite taste. As you entered the reception hall, you were met by the reception committee, which consisted of Miss Winnifred Smith, manual training teacher; Miss Marven, domestic science teacher, and Mrs. F. H. J. Dibblee and Mrs. Charles Comben, members of the board of school trustees. From the tiny handkerchief to the middy blouse, the same neatness and correctness was seen. In grade 5, which, of course, is composed of tiny tots, it is only fair to mention the work of Thelma Burden, Edith Grant, Effie Kierstead and Grace Smith. In the cooking department the table presented a most tempting appearance. It was tastily decorated with field daisies and samples of the culinary art were shown b ythe Misses Ruth Dibblee, Pauline Prescott, Mabel Clark, Mary Balmain, Rose Lenehan, Winnifred McCann, Alice Clark, Marguerite McLauchlan, Gertrude Thompson, Dorothy Smith, Harriet Gray and Gretchen Smith. Both these departments are under the efficient management of Miss Marven. The exhibits of Sloyd work were most excellent. The work in all the grades was highly creditable but especially so in the cases of three boys in Grade 10, that of Wilbur Rideout, Harold Brewer and Ralph Holyoke. Wilbur Rideout had five pieces on exhibit, a china cabinet, a chair, library table, tabaret, and magazine rack; Harold Brewer exhibited a china cabinet, and Ralph Holyoke a music rack. These exhibits certainly spoke well for the work of the boys as well as for the careful training of the teacher, Miss Smith. The young ladies of the science department served tea and cake to the visitors. Too much praise cannot be given to the teachers of these two departments, Miss Smith and Miss Marven, for their painstaking and careful training of the young people.
