BOYS AND GIRLS.

LETTER BOX

[Under this heading we will insert letters on any subject from boys and girls. The letters must be brief and written on one side of the paper. The name and address must be given, to appear with the letter. Address: "AUNT PRUDENCE, ADVERTISER Office, London Ont."]

HUBREY, Sept. 23.

DEAR AUNT PRUDENCE:
I have just read some letters in the ADVERTISER, so I thought I would write one, too. I go to school and am 11 years old. I am in the Fourth book. We have a Mercy Band at school: it is called Lily Band. Miss Maggie Jenken is secretary and Colin Munro is president. I am on the committee. Please put my letter in the ADVERTISER. From your dear friend, ALICE KERR.

* * *

HENBALL, Ont., Oct. 20, 1890.

DEAR AUNT PRUDENCE:
You do not know how glad I was to see your name in the ADVERTISER, for I had completely lost track of you. I was glad to hear that you are big and fat, for the last time I saw you, you were very thin. But I suppose aunties all get fat as they grow old. I am going to school, and am in the Fourth Reader. Pa is going to take me next fall to the Western Fair, and I shall call at the ADVERTISER office to see you. I am sorry you cannot take dinner with us to-day, for ma is roasting a goose. Good-bye. From your loving niece, ANN ELIZA TROYER.

* * *

MOULINETTE, Ont., Oct. 26, 1890.

DEAR AUNT PRUDENCE:
I am a boy 10 years old. I am going to school every day. My teacher's name is Mr. John Short. I like him very much. I am in the third class. I have one brother only; his name is Floyd. I was visiting at my Aunt Sade's, at Potsdam, N. Y. I was at the fair, and saw a balloon ascension and a man jump from it with a parachute. My dog Rover was glad to see me when I got home. Papa has taken the ADVERTISER fifteen years. I hope to see this in print. Good-bye. From RALPH H. RAYMOND.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29, 1890.

DEAR AUNT PRUDENCE:
I am a little girl 12 years old. I live in Winnipeg, Manitoba. It is very cold here in the winter. I have been in London (your London) visiting my grandmother, so I know what sort of a place you live in. I used to live there when I was a baby, but papa moved up here. We have grand sleighing up here in the winter. I have four sisters and three brothers. We have jolly times together. Mamma let me make cookies this morning. They were a great success. I do wish I could send you one in this letter. Saturday afternoons I often make taffy. My kitten is on my lap, and is trying to walk all over this letter, so please forgive the blots. Her name is Tiny; she is black, and I always keep a blue ribbon on her. I think blue and black go together so well. Good-bye, dear Aunt Prudence. AMY HOWARD.

BOWMANVILLE, Oct. 21, 1890.

DEAR AUNT PRUDENCE:
I am 13 in December, am growing tall though not stout, and wish to become a good figure and upright. Can you tell me how best to develop my chest and overcome a tendency to being round shouldered? There are many other boys and girls like me, and you may be able to give us some very valuable information. I saw something a little time ago about deep breathing for chest expansion. Can you tell me how best to practice it? E. S. JAMES.

DEAR E. S. JAMES:
ANS.—Deep breathing practiced mechanically can never be so effective as a means of chest expansion as the naturally deep breathing produced by active exercise. The best rules for developing a good figure are: 1. Abundant exercise in the open air. 2. A determination to keep the body habitually erect—head drawn back, chest lifted high and abdomen drawn in—whether walking, standing or sitting. 3. Fifteen minutes use of dumb-bells or Indian clubs on rising in the morning and retiring at night. Get into the habit of carrying the head in the correct position and you will not be round shouldered. But if the head is allowed to droop forward the most careful attention to the shoulders will not produce a good and straight figure. Let me hear from you again as to your progress in physical development. You write an uncommonly good hand for a boy of 13. AUNT PRUDENCE.

PUZZLE BUREAU.

90.—ARITHMETICAL.

A owes B 15s. 10d.; if A has only sixpences in his pocket and B only fourpenny pieces, how can they most simply settle the matter?

91.—ENIGMA.

To fortune add an adverb,
And you will find, I trow,
The site of a famous battle
Fought not so long ago.

92.—SIX HIDDEN PLACES.

[Forwards and backwards.]

1.—If you should be sending me a parcel, would you kindly send it per the Grand Trunk, if I shall get it sooner?
2.—Tell me who it was made you cry, Annie, and I will whip them very severely.
3.—After I had wandered about for some time, I saw a man who asked: "Is Sutton far from here?"
4.—Do you mean to say that John is not in? Oh! what a falsehood, to be sure.
5.—If you will forward some cash I will call on Donnethorpe, and go for it to-morrow.
6.—All I can say is, that it is my opinion he is not so bad as you would have me believe.

93.—DOUBLE ACROSTIC.

An article small,
But useful withal,
To the reader, when wishful to look
At the half-hidden treasure
Of knowledge or pleasure
Contained in a newly-bought book.

1. A flower view
Most fair in hue,
Of a fragrance rare professed.
2. A name by which
Our island rich
In song is oft addressed.
3. A place famed for
A shining ore.
4. And a Saxon king reveal.
5. He dwells alone,
To the world unknown;
Let us hope his peace is real.

94.—CHARADES.

Dreaming one fine summer day,
As close to the little brook sitting;
On a moss-covered bank by the way,
I watched the fleet swallows at play.
As over the stream they were flitting.

My first in the distance I heard,
As my second so slowly went round;
So still was the air, not a single leaf stirred,
And hum of the bee, or sweet song of the bird,
Mingled soft with my whole's pleasant sound.

2.

My second she was at our home,
We both lost our first when out walking;
She was so determined to roam,
So my whole it was no use talking.

The First Justices.

Justices of the peace were first appointed in England by Edward III. in the year 1327, and in 1360-61 they were empowered to try felonies, while their wages were fixed by Richard II. in 1389.

An examiner at a [illegible] for young ladies requested one of them the other day to give him her notion of what sort of telegram she would send to her father in the event of her having met with a railway accident. It was a thing that might occur, of course, and the lesson prove useful; but, in any case, it would give an idea of her mental resources. He threw out no hints, but, with the proviso that it should be as brief as possible, left the whole composition to the young lady's imagination. This was the telegram: "Dear mamma is killed; Jane (her sister) and I are in the refreshment room."

Consumption Surely Cuerd.

To the Editor,—
Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P.O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M.C., 164 West Adelaide street, Toronto, Ont.

THE HORSEMAN.

Breed horses that will hold their heads up, and you can sell them at a good price for saddlers or drivers.

A big horse should not be kept where a small one will do the work as well; nor a light horse be forced to do the work where a large one would be best. In one case we lose food, and in the other, horse.

Senator Cochrane, of Quebec, is taking a shy at the thoroughbreds. At New York he bought the following: Catoosa, b. f., by Faustus, dam Lighthead, $475, and a brown filly by the same sire out of Zula for $225.

Now that, less than a year after his sale, two stallions have beaten the 2:12 of Axtell, people are beginning to realize that when the innocent-looking Mr. Williams from Iowa took $105,000 for the stallion and placed the money carefully in his inside pocket, he knew exactly what he was doing.

The souvenir number of the Kentucky Stock Farm recently issued was a capital thing in the horse line, containing a fine supplement picture of Fayette Wilkes, and illustrations of Red Wilkes, Moonstone, Clay and a group of equine heads, including those of Sultan, Dictator, Egbert, Simmons and Belmont.

Colman's Rural World gives the following remedy for colic. It is good for any form of colic and should be given as soon as possible. If one does not relieve, follow it in half an hour with another. This medicine should always be at hand:

Chloroform	1 oz
Laudanum	1 oz
Sulphuric ether	1 oz
Linseed oil	8 oz

A prominent breeder once remarked: "I stood once and saw fifteen of my colts given away by an auctioneer. None of them were sold under contract to bring so much or no commission, as is now done by a man I could name and who will soon hold another sale, and they proved the best sales I ever made in my life, as I afterwards received three or four customers from every town to which one of these youngsters was taken."

Senator Stanford, owner of Electioneer and Palo Alto, is home from Europe. He thinks his great stallion and Sunol were "carted around the country too much in their efforts to lower their records," and says that if he had been in this country different tactics would have been adopted. Perhaps the Senator does not know that his horses were "carted around" in order that they might make money for him by giving exhibitions.

It matters not how obscure the source may be from which the charge emanates, it appears to be quite willing to give it currency, and nothing appears too strong for his palate. Now, I don't pretend to claim that all owners of race horses are honest men, or that all jockeys are trustworthy, but I don't hesitate to say that the running turf, on the score of honesty, will compare more than favorably with the trotting turf, which is such a special pet institution with our confrere.—[Canadian Sportsman. Is this another case of "pot and kettle" calling names?

The emotional life of the horse is remarkable in that it seems to undergo a transformation in the hands of the horse-tamer. Instances are given of the wild horses of the prairies being completely tamed in a few hours by subjecting them to certain methods of breaking. Another curious emotional feature which has probably come under the observation of all who have had experience with horses, is the liability of all the other mental faculties of the animal to become abandoned to that of terror, and, according to Dr. Romanes, the horse is the only animal which, under the influence of fears, loses the possession of every other sense in one mad and mastering desire to run. For its other emotions, the horse is an affectionate animal, pleased at being petted, and exhibits considerable pride.—[Kentucky Stock Farm.

A decidedly attractive publication, typographically and otherwise, is the Horse World, issued weekly at Buffalo, N. Y. Its illustrations are very well done, too, if those of Jolly Friar, Egmont Chief and others appearing lately may be taken as fair samples. The paper aims to be cosmopolitan, as its name indicates, and its title page gives promise that practically the whole equine race will be represented in its columns. It is only right that the interests of the heavy work horse, the ordinary riding or driving pleasure horse, as well as those of the race horse and trotter should receive a fair share of attention. From time to time, however, the trotting horse seems to enjoy somewhat of a monopoly. However, the horse world is a wide one and tastes vary. Our Buffalo contemporary is to be commended if it succeeds in maintaining this as a characteristic feature of its bright pages.

ONE WOMAN.—Rev. S. N. Lapsley, missionary of the Southern Presbyterian Church, in his travels up the Congo, visited Bishop Taylor's missionary, Miss Kildare, at her station, Nitamba's, "one woman alone among the heathen." He found her "a genuine heroine, full of faith and courage," but with material surroundings pleasant enough, living "in a corrugated iron house, built high enough for a good room beneath, with a cool porch in front, a clean, nice yard on one side of the house, and a great, thick growing baobob or calabash tree, seven feet in diameter, on the other. She owns 10 acres of land around her house, on which plantains, guavas, and coffee trees flourish. The missionaries of the region told the traveler that the natives have learned the important lesson of discrimination between missionaries and other white men. The missionary is "God's white man," or "God's medicine man," and is always welcomed; but if the coming white man be of the common or official stamp, their impulse is to run and hide in the grass.

THE Turks have good coffee to drink, and hence drink no liquor. In pure coffee is all the stimulus the human system needs. It warms and strengthens the body; it invigorates the mind, and cheers the spirit when oppressed by overwork or worry. Coffee is the temperance beverage of mankind. McCollom's
Rheumatic Repellant
Has won an excellent reputation from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, as a wonderful rheumatic cure, and in numerous instances where it has been thoroughly tested during the past sixteen years it has proved the most reliable remedy known for this distressing complaint. It is neatly put up in $1 bottles, agreeable to take, operates well on the liver, kidneys and blood, and effectually removes rheumatism, gout and neuralgia from the system. Prepared by W. A. McCOLLOM, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and sold by wholesale and retail druggists. xt

"THE BEST ARMOR AGAINST DISEASE IS GOOD DIGESTION."
It is a hard, uncontrovertible fact that more disease is directly attributable to disorders of the Stomach than to all the other organs combined; this is not hard for even the unprofessional to understand when we take into consideration the mass of food that it is made the receptacle of for a time, there to be churned, digested and so assimilated.

MALTOPEPSYN
(an artificial gastric juice—formula on every label) will aid the weak stomach and so cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia etc. In fact, it is a good aid to digest a hearty dinner, and can do no harm, as it is only adding an extra amount of gastric juice, does not stimulate, and so there is no reaction. ABOUT HAIR

Editor of the ADVERTISER:
Sir,—I have, as you know, for some time advertised in Canada and the States a preparation for the hair called "Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic." I have received some thousands of flattering testimonials from those who have used it as to its merits as a restorative of gray or faded hair; also as a promoter of the growth and a certain cure for dandruff.

A great many of my correspondents ask the questions: "Why is my hair turning gray so early? Why is my hair falling out?" As it is impossible for me to answer every one, I take the liberty of encroaching on your valuable space to make a general reply. A great many persons do not seem to be aware that excessive washing and rubbing is injurious to the growth of the hair; such is the case, however. Constant washing and rubbing the scalp and hair causes over irritation and removes the oily substance which gives strength to the hair; undue heat is also injurious. Anything that will tend to dry up the sap or life of the hair will cause dandruff, falling out of the hair, gray or faded hair and finally baldness. Of course there are other causes as diseases, hereditary tendencies, etc., but the first mentioned are the main and most common.

Dr. Dorenwend, an eminent German physician, has given to the world after years of toil and experiment his now famous "Hair Magic." The object of this preparation is to assist nature in the production of this oily substance absolutely necessary to the growth of the hair. It is now sold by all reliable druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, or will be sent on receipt of price to any address. See that each wrapper bears the seal and signature of the manufacturer.
