Canada S. S. Association.

The Eighth Provincial Convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada will be held in the North street Wesleyan Methodist Church, at London, Ontario, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, the 10th, 11th and 12th of October. James Young, Esq., M. P., President of the Association, will occupy the chair. All the railways will convey passengers to and from the Convention at reduced rates. Invitations to previous Provincial Conventions have limited the attendance to ministers, and one delegate from each Sabbath School, but the Christian people of London are desirous that this shall be a mass Convention. Pastors and other ordained ministers of Evangelical Churches, and delegates representatives of Sabbath Schools (without specifying any number), in the Province of Ontario and Quebec, and delegates from Sunday School Associations in the other Provinces of the Dominion and from the United States, are affectionately invited to be present and take part in the meeting. The Committee of arrangements will provide homes for all who give due notice of attendance, and are calculating upon 1,000 visitors. They pledge themselves to make this the best Convention ever assembled in Canada. All may rest assured of a most cordial welcome. They will find both "hearts and homes" in London to receive them.

Secret of a Wholesome Life.—Why is it that the state of vitality among the American people is so low that diseases, especially of the nerves, are so common and that as a nation we are so short-lived? Is it not because we are the most reckless people on the face of the earth? And yet we never try to calm down this feverish recklessness but rather encourage it. The little boys in our public schools are urged to aspire to the chance of being told that they may become President of the United States some day. One rich and glorious country indeed is our land, so many prizes to all! We all work for them, that our little children become scholars, even before they know how to spell the word. We force them on, we urge them on the road to fame, and bring them up at last under the weight of the one great fault in our system, which can we expect? Too much attention to the mere culture of the mind, exercise will counteract the evil, the greatest of all—nothing happens until the age is forty, when it comes, and how can we think of it? Our children, who not content with flying round the world, have even sent a message of lightning to carry our thoughts to distant lands in the twinkling of an eye, shall we stop now? We call to stop anything else you tell us, dress our children in flannel, give them cod liver oil, give them a dozen baths a week, put them through courses of gymnastics, feed them on Graham, and deny them meat, but how can we teach them rest, when the watchword of the age is Progress, and the motto of the world, Excelsior? Now after all, the little lamps burn out early, all because we would not listen to the voice, which said, "These ought you to have done, but not to leave out the other undone."—Health.

Fine German Vessels.—The navy question—German Coalage, German Diligence, German Science of Health and German Perseverance—have to us the sure warrant of victory. They pervade the whole army; I may name for each a thing representative. As representative of Germany, I name Bismarck; as heart of Fed. him. As representative German Diligence, I name Moltke. He is the steel, true, [illegible] Professor, and though he has [illegible] languages, he [illegible] be forgotten by the [illegible] sentative of Germany [illegible] name the Crown Prince. [illegible] war more than [illegible] has done so far fully to [illegible] with a heavy heart. As representative of German Perseverance I name our Emperor. That name has indeed clung to his purpose. At the battle of Gravelotte was overthrown and as formidable when his father made him take his father's oath, and what bitter days he has gone through since! But, undismayed, he persevered on the onward work of his life, the raising and strengthening of the German army. Of the disgrace of Jena was wiped out on the field of Sedan, and the German nation can look every nation boldly in the face again.—Professor Max Muller.

Missionaries and others sojourning in tropical climates should not fail to provide themselves with a good supply of Holloway's Antidote Linament. It is the most reliable medicine for their purpose in the world. Contagious diseases, such as bite, sores, gland, &c., may be prevented by its use. Holloway's Healing Ointment Purifies. Persons traveling with horses should take note of this.

Speaking of a Nightcap by the Queen and other members of the royal family to a fancy bonnet, an exchange says:—The weather was so [illegible] and the proceedings partook more of the character of an excursion for the [illegible] of a Sunday [illegible]. The toilettes of the ladies were very varied. Walking costumes were much worn, displaying pretty petticoats, high boots and buckles, and coquettish little hats. The young ladies' waists were encircled by [illegible] by the famous Stowe [illegible] with its silver horse [illegible] and other pretty trifles. Muslin over silk and taffeta were very much in favor, the weather being too warm for costumes of silk. Grenadine dresses, especially of white and green stripes, looked very pretty trimmed with green ribbon. Large white hats, with bouquets of corn flowers which are very becoming to young ladies, were much in vogue on the occasion.

How to Quarrel with a Wife.—Wait until she is at her toilet preparatory to going out,—she will be sure to ask you if her bonnet is straight. Remark that the lives of nine-tenths of the women are passed in thinking whether their bonnets are straight, and wind up with the remark that you never knew but one who had common sense about her. Wife will ask you who that was. You, with a sigh, reply: Ah! never mind! Wife will ask you why you did not marry her. You say abstractedly, "Ah! why, indeed?" By this time the climax is reached.
