The Governor-Generalship of Canada.

A London despatch of the 4th to the Toronto Globe anent the Governor Generalship, contains the following:—

In the Imperial House of Commons Mr. Gladstone refused this afternoon to reply to Baron Worms' question respecting the desire of the Duke of Albany to hold the post of Governor General of the Dominion, stating among other reasons that the question raised points of a delicate nature undesirable to bring under discussion. The opinion is still prevalent that in addition to objections raised by the Ministry, difficulties existed in other quarters. The Marquis of Lansdowne will sail probably in October.

A London special says the refusal of Mr. Gladstone to give the facts connected with the Duke of Albany's Canadian offer caused much comment, and is regarded as significant as to the conditions of the Queen's health. It is said to have been directly at the request of the Queen that the Ministry refused to discuss the matter, as it was at her command the Premier declined to accept the Duke of Albany's proferred services. Her Majesty recognizes the precarious condition of her health, and does not wish any of her children to leave the country at present. The Marquis of Lorne would like to remain in Canada another year, but the Queen would not permit, and Princess Louise would have been recalled to England permanently early this spring, had it not been that such excuse would have been misunderstood and misconstrued. The Queen's health affects the detail of Government matters in many respects, and since her fall from the stairway with the nervous troubles that followed, and the effect of the death of John Brown, the Ministry and those who personally surround the Queen have had frequent cause of anxiety. Hence such action as that of Mr. Gladstone to-day in turn causes some popular anxiety.

Political Honors in China.

In order to secure even the first-fruits of political emolument, a mode of procedure diametrically opposite to that which obtains in most nations, (and especially in the United States), is required. Instead of money or its equivalent in "backers" and "heelers," brain is there required, and an exceedingly well-balanced and disciplined brain at that. In no other nation upon the earth are political honors based upon scientific attainments in all branches of study as they are in China, wherein are illustrated the true principles by which talent and wisdom are honored and rewarded, literature, science, morals, and philosophy encouraged, and a nation's happiness and prosperity secured.

The avenues to station and power are open alike to all. There are no distinctions save those of education; none relative to nationality, color, or previous condition of servitude. All are alike free to seek, and, if competent, to obtain, positions of honor, from that of petty magistrate of a village to Grand Imperial Secretary—an office second only to that of Emperor.

Few there are, it is true, who possess the fortitude to undergo the necessary educational training consequent to, and upon which depends, his sole hope of success. Of his studies there is no end. To diligence he must add patience, and to patience continuity, else will he fail to secure the coveted prize.—WONG CHIN FOO, in Harpers Magazine for July.

They Hit It Again.

Whoever it was, he will enjoy learning that the 156th Grand Monthly Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans, on May 8th, resulted as follows: Ticket No. 71,189, sold as a whole for $5 to a wealthy Cuban at Havana, drew the first capital prize of $75,000. No. 47,803, sold to a New Yorker as whole, drew the second prize, $25,000. No. 23,433 drew the third capital prize, $10,000, and was sold in fifths, at a dollar each, to Messrs. Jas. J. McMillan, through Messrs. Jones & Hamilton, Caldwell, Texas; to Mr. Sam. Jones, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mr. P. Schumacher, of Allentown, Lehigh Co., Pa. Nos. 10,299 and 20,203, drew each the fourth capital $6,000—sold in fifths at $1 each—among others to Henry Ehrhardt, S. W. cor. 10th and Market st., St. Louis Mo.; J. F. Albert, 614 Locust st., same city; two-fifths collected by Messrs. C. B. Richard & Co., No. 61 Broadway, New York city, for a party in San Francisco, Cal. Many winners among those who captured $265,500 in prizes desired their names withheld. The next drawing occurs Tuesday, July 10th, and M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will furnish any desired information on an application.

General Notes and News.

One of the largest and most complete barns in the Maritime Provinces is now being built by Mr. Charles Fawcett, Sackville, N. B., who, by recent purchases, has increased his farm to 150 acres of upland and 100 of marsh, and intends to devote considerable attention to live stock. The barn, which is a side hill one, is 112 x 50 feet, with 21 feet posts and will contain a cellar 8 feet high, with cemented floor under the whole. The cellar will contain the manure and be used for the storage of roots. The main floor will contain large rooms for grain and other feed, agricultural implements, and room for 90 oxen. Cut feed and roots will be carried along before the cattle by a hand rail-car, and water will be supplied to the cattle in the barn. The feed boxes will be movable, so as to be easily cleaned. The building is to be thoroughly ventilated. An adjoining building will contain a steam engine to supply the power for pumping water, threshing, and cutting feed. It will cost $2,500, and be completed by fall. Amherst Gazette.

Robert Collyer says, "In America dyspepsia lurks beneath the pie-crust," and if what follows be true we may well believe him. Jack had been away for twenty years, and after journeying to many lands returned to his native town to find none of the old faces there, and even the old home gone. With some trouble he at last found what seemed to be the old cellar, but was undecided for a time until he found among the rubbish what seemed to be a round bit of very old leather. He gazed at it for a while, and then exclaimed: "Yes, it is! Now I know this is the place; for if here isn't one of dear old Aunt Sue's undercrusts, with the plate all moulded away from it!"—Harper's Bazar.

London, June 16.—Mr. Quartermaine East, Mr. Anthony Biddulph (Sir Roger Tichborne's cousin), and Mr. B. Croft, of Nottingham, have had an interview with the Tichborne Claimant in Portsea Convict Prison. The Claimant was in excellent health, but somewhat dejected in spirits when informed that in consequence of an informality in the proceedings, delay would follow in the matter of the identification of the lunatic Cresswell in Australia, though he was gratified to learn that within the last few days the Government had been officially informed that Charles Orton had identified Cresswell as Arthur Orton. He was also informed that the recognition was mutual and on the news reaching this country it was hoped that the Claimant's release would be immediate, though that could not now take place until the affidavits had been formally made out. The Claimant complained bitterly of the system under which he was allowed to speak to his friends only once in three months, and that a letter written in the most formal language on the 12th of May had been suppressed though addressed to Mr. East. Mr. Croft then assured the Claimant that his friends in the midlands were as firm as ever in his cause, and that except by death he had not lost a single adherent during his imprisonment, while a dozen homes were open to him as soon as he came out of prison. In bidding his visitors farewell, the Claimant remarked that should he be liberated on ticket-of-leave on the usual terms his imprisonment would end in November next year.

The Toronto Globe's special London correspondent says,—There is no doubt that the complimentary dinner to Mr. Henry Irving previous to his departure for America will be a very remarkable affair. The date fixed is curiously enough the 4th of July, and the first list of stewards, which has just been announced, shows that the event will be one of the most noteworthy that has ever occurred in the annals of the stage. Every section of of society, every shade of opinion will be represented on the occasion. Lord Justice Coleridge will take the chair. Mr. Gladstone, Earl Granville, Mr. Chamberlain will be amongst the foremost representatives of politics. I must not attempt, however, to enumerate even the most prominent among the names on the list which even now numbers nearly 200. I must simply say that the gathering will probably prove in some respects the event of the season. Never before has such a compliment been paid to an English actor. Mr. Irving will no doubt assure his audience, when he rises to respond to the toast of his health, that it is the proudest moment of his life, and few will doubt that he is speaking the simple truth. It is hardly necessary to add that the limited number of performances he is now giving of plays in the Lyceum repertoire are attracting crowded houses, and that the demand for seats has been such that it has been necessary to book seats weeks in advance to secure admission at all to any part of the theatre except the pit and the gallery.

Mr. W. G. Smalley, the New York Tribune's London correspondent, and a keen observer of men, give us a pen picture of Canada's coming Governor. He says nobody was ever less theatrical than Lord Lansdowne, in whose bearing simplicity and dignity are equally marked traits. He has had, at times, a difficult part to play, and he has played it well. In the Lords he has shown singular coolness, and a very considerable power of "thinking on his legs, but he speaks with a certain hardness of manner. Addressing a different assembly recently at Albert Hall, His Lordship was more successful and before he sat down had completely captivated his audience, which was composed of school children and their parents. To sum up, Mr. Smalley says Lord Lansdowne is indisputably a man of great power, knowledge, and dexterity. In London, his future office is accounted one likely to call for the exercise of these qualities. Those who know him best adds Mr. Smalley, anticipate most surely for him an honorable and brilliant career.

The Canadians have been trying their prentice hands in the game of protection for the sake of protection. For awhile the increased price of manufactured articles made the business of manufacturing a charming persuit. But the flush times are already over and the season of collapse is at hand. They can refine more sugar, make more boots and shoes, weave more woolen and cotton cloths, than they ever could before; but they no longe sell their product in Canada, and they cannot afford to sell it elsewhere. This is the fools' paradise into which the devotees of protection sooner or later enter. Mushroom industries are nourished into existence by government premiums only to find themselves hemmed in by a restricted market and compelled to prey upon one another. In the end there is, of course, a survival of the fittest, but the survivors would have been better off without the protection, taking their chances in the markets of the world.—Philadelphia Record, June 14.

The New York Herald, which, by the way, is not given to saying flattering things of Englishmen generally, pays a tribute to the good sense of one of that nationality in the following:—"The other evening there happened to be sitting in a Madison-avenue car a number of men of noticeably different nationalities. An unmistakable Englishman calmly waited until the car came to a dead standstill before he composedly left even the door. The German suddenly rose with a bounce, bolted for the door and, on the steps, called for the car to stop. An Irishman strongly broke his way through a crowd and bumped against a fellow-countryman who was trying to get on the car. An American swung himself off while the car was in rapid motion, had to run a half dozen steps to catch up to himself, and swore because he got off a block too soon."
