ELECTRIC LEATHER DRESSING is the best thing yet invented for making leather water-tight, and it is particularly effective in keeping snow-water out. It is put up as a paste, just like blacking, but is not a blacking as it goes into the leather at once and leaves the surface ready to be blackened and "take a shine" forthwith.

VIGOROUS GROWTH:—About a mile from Chatham station, on the railway line, there is a tract of ground which appears to be particularly adapted to vigorous vegetation. A willow that was cut down a season or two ago sent out new shoots last spring, some of which have grown during the season to a length of 9 ft. 6 inches. An elm that was similarly treated grew again and, this season, produced new wood 6 ft. 3 in. long, the leaves of which measured 5½ inches across. A poplar stump under the same circumstances sent out hardy shoots last spring which have grown to be about four feet long, having leaves 9½ inches across. Mr. Hawkes, trackmaster of the road, rightly thinks these specimens of the season's growth cannot be beaten anywhere else on the North Shore.

MRS. BERRIE'S METHOD:—Rev. J. C. Berrie. Methodist clergymen of Milltown, Charlotte County, was on his way from Montreal the other day in the same train in which the Bishop Coadjutor of Fredericton was a passenger. The latter had ordered breakfast for himself, but through some misunderstanding the meal was placed by the waiter in front of Mr. Berrie, instead of the bishop. The former, asked no questions, but at once set himself to dispose of the repast. He had succeeded pretty well when the waiter discovered his mistake. He hastened to where Mr. Berrie was seated and explained how matters stood, but the explanation came too late. Mr. Berrie seemed to think he had done quite a clever thing and his feat was duly reported in a Charlotte County paper when he returned home.

The Reporter says:—Bishop Kingdon besides losing his breakfast met with another incident on the same journey. Continuing in the train to St. John he got off to buy a ticket to go up the Intercolonial. He had nearly reached the ticket office when a stranger breathlessly accosted him with the exclamation "Sir you have taken my umbrella." His Lordship, without answering the startling accusation, held up the umbrella to the excited gaze of the stranger who was satisfied of his mistake when he read in bold letters in the handle Bishop Kingdon's name and address. We have not heard it stated whether or not the man's name was Berrie.

Miramichi on "The Sound".

Mr. Peter Turner, formerly of Chatham, seems to be at the head of a new and thriving industry on the Pacific coast. The Port Townsend Argus of 17 ult. says:

"Among the recently established industries in this vicinity deserving of encouragement is that of Turner, Raven & Co., on Scow Bay. These gentlemen located on the land about a half mile from the "spit" about two months ago, and they now have two large and well arranged smoke houses and a wharf, and have in course of construction a warehouse 40 by 70 feet. Their output in smoked salmon is six tons each week, the market being the sound cities and Portland, and to housekeepers we can say that a piece of this firm's smoked salmon nicely broiled is a morsel for an epicure. They do also an extensive business in putting up jars of cardines none of which are sent to market until they have been in the jars two weeks. The company owns thirty acres of land where the smoke houses are, and which has been recently platted and called Eastport. It is a suburb of Glennan but just across the bay. The lots will be sold to families only, and, we believe, to those engaged in the fisheries. Most of the land is being cleared, and before very long houses will be erected as a number of families from different parts of the territory signified their intention to settle here. Messrs. Turner & Raven are men of clear grit, which is plainly shown by their entering into what is practically a new business in this neighborhood, they believed it would pay and it has."

Marriage of Mr. Killam, M. P. P.

There was quite a social flutter at Doaktown on Wednesday of last week at the residence of Mr. J. L. Murray, when Mr. A. E. Killam, M. P. P., of Moncton, and Mrs. Mary A. Hallet, sister of Mrs. Murray and of Mr. J. D. McKay, late of Chatham, were married by Rev. T. G. Johnstone, pastor of the Blackville presbyterian church. After breakfasting at Mr. Murray's, Mr. and Mrs. Killam went by Northern & Western train to Fredericton, being met at the depot by Mr. J. D. McKay, in one of the Queen Hotel's nobbiest turnouts, and driven to that gentleman's residence where luncheon was served to the happy couple, who left by the noon train for Moncton, via St. John.

It was unanimously agreed that £40 stg. be sent as a free contribution to the parent society, and that the balance of money on hand be used in furthering the work of the society in the home districts. A committee—consisting of Mr. Brown and Mr. Brander, Mrs. Park and Mrs. Anderson—was appointed with instructions to endeavor to secure the services of a colporteur during at least three months of the year.

At this stage Mrs. McCurdy called the attention of the great loss they recently sustained in the death of Miss Percival. In reference to this the following minute was adopted. 'We the office bearers and members of this society deeply regret the great loss we have sustained in the death of Miss Percival, one of our Vice-Presidents. Miss Percival was much and deservedly esteemed. Her high christian character, her devotedness to the interests of this society; and her unselfish and self sacrificing disposition had endeared her to us all, and indeed to every one who had the privlege of knowing her.' It was reported that Mrs. A. Loggie of Black Brook, one of the most active members of the society, was suffering through severe illness. Upon this it was resolved—'That this society express their sincere sympathy with Mrs. A. Loggie who is at present laid aside through severe illness, and cherish the hope that she may soon be restored in the providence of God to her usual health and vigor.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

1st, that the office bearers be re-elected, and remain as during the past year.

2nd, That Mrs. Street be appointed vice-president in room of Miss Percival deceased.

3rd, that Mrs. McCoy be added to the committee.

4th, That a cordial vote of thanks be given to the collectors for their diligence and success in the work of the past year —also the press for gratuitous advertising.

A Praiseworthy Step.

A number of citizens were called together in the office of John Sadler, Esq., on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of offering aid to the good sisters of the Hotel Dieu, whose Hospital wards are filled with typhoid fever patients. The meeting organized by appointing Mr. J. L. Stewart, Chairman and R. B. Adams, Secretary.

The following preamble and resolutions were moved by L. J. Tweedie, Esq., and seconded by Mr. J. D. B. F. MacKenzie, and adopted.

Whereas Typhoid fever is almost epedemic in Chatham and the Hotel Dieu is taxed to its utmost in providing for the large number of patients now in the wards of that institution, and

Whereas the resources of the Hotel Dieu are limited and the good sisters must find themselves handicapped in their good and charitable work of attending the wants of the sick and preventing the spread of the disease by throwing open the doors of their institution to all classes of persons afflicted with it.

Resolved that a committee be appointed to receive subscriptions on behalf of the good sisters of the Hotel Dieu from all persons who may desire to subscribe to the fund to be raised for their benefit, and that a subscription-list for that purpose be opened by each of the members of the committee hereafter named.

The following gentlemen were then elected a committee to receive subscriptions:

J. B. Snowball, F. E. Winslow, John Sadler, H. S. Miller (of the N. B. Trading Co.) A. A. Anderson, J. D. B. F. Mackenzie, R. A. Lawlor, Roger Flanagan, R. B. Adams and E. Hutchison.

Mr. J. D. B. F. Mackenzie was appointed Treasurer of the fund and has already sent $50 to Mother Renaud.

We hope that our citizens generally will take advantage of the opportunity now presented of doing something to show their appreciation of the work done by the Hotel Dieu, not only in the present emergency, but for many years past. The public hear very little of the self-denying and charitable labors of Mother Renaud and her devoted staff, for they never seek publicity, seeming to find their reward in benefitting their fellow-creatures —protestant and catholic alike. Rev. Father Joyner, whose well-known labors amongst his parishioners have won their love and the respect of the whole community, has contracted the fever while discharging his pastoral duties, and one of the sisters is also down with it. Twenty patients are being treated and more are seeking admission. It is, therefore, a time for all to do what they can—whether it be little or much—to show the sisters that they have the sympathy and support of the community in their labors past and present. Let those who can do so, not wait to be solicited, but go to one of the above-named committee and hand in his or her contribution.

Temperance.

Rev. Mr. McCoy, pastor of St. Andrew's church, preached a temperance sermon on Sunday evening last, from the text, VI Cor. 10 * * "nor drunkards * * shall inherit the Kingdom of God." Treating intemperance as an admitted evil, he showed that it was condemned of God, as proved by His word, a defilement of man as His temple, a sin against the Almighty, against man, himself, against society and the family, and a bar of the soul, from heaven. The arguments presented in support of the preacher's position were scriptural, practical and effective. The sermon was one well calculated to encourage total abstinence as the only safe practice, and the best for both individuals and the comminity.

Rev. R. S. Crisp, of the Methodist church preached on the same subject on Sunday, taking his text from Esther I—8—'and the drinking was according to the law. The sermon was against drinking, whether sanctioned by law or not, the preacher arguing that no law can justify a thing which is wrong in itself. Drinking was condemned as altogether wrong and the traffic a gigantic evil to be discouraged and condemned in every way. The liquor question, he said, had become one which our politicians were compelled to discuss and it was discussed "in the parliamentary world and the very best of them are continually debating it." Mr. Crisp said he was informed that there were thirteen places in Chatham, between Morrison's and the Canada House, where liquor were sold before the Scott Act was in force, and he seemed to believe what he said, and also to think there were less now. He commended Ingersoll's views of the temperance question, and said those who were the best friends of temperance got the worst name. Politicians profess temperance with a view of helping them to be elected, but he warned the electors to vote only for men who were sound on the prohibition questiop.

Railway Visitors.

Mr. Hector Cameron, Q. C., of Toronto, vice-president of the Temiscouata Valley railway, Mr. Charles Riordon, of St. Catherines, Ont., a stockholder in the same railroad, Mr. W. H. Armstrong of London, England, representative of the Temiscouata railway, Messrs. E. D. Boscaell and John J. Macdonald, contractors, Rivière du Loup; Mr. Alex. Gibson, Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Gregory, Solicitor, Mr. Thomas F. Hoben, Superintendent, and Mr. J. B. Snowball, President, of the Northern and Western Railway accompanied by Messrs. Chas. H. Lugrin and Edward Jack, of Fredericton, and Mr. Robinson of Marysville, arrived at Chatham on a special train of the N. & W. Railway on Thursday last, making the run from Fredericton in about four and a half hours. The gentlemen representing the Temiscouata railway had with them a combination car, which was fited with everything necessary for travellers, from kitchen and dining room to sleeping accommodation. They arrived about three o'clock, their train running to the Chatham deep water terminus, whence they proceeded to the Pulp Mill and, after spending a short time there, boarded Mr. Snowball's Steamer St. Nicholas and took a run down river, accompanied by a few Chatham gentlemen. On their return they proceeded at once to the Railway station, Mr. Gibson and the Fredericton contingent of the party leaving for home, while the gentlemen of the Temiscouata Railway party remained for a few hours and then left in their own car for north, having the privilege of going over the Intercolonial. One of the objects of the excursion was, no doubt, to afford the visitors from the Upper Provinces, who are interested in the proposed Grand Trunk short line to Moncton, an opportunity of seeing, for themselves, the Northern and Western and Chatham roads, which would form important lines in the extension of the Grand Trunk system, should it be made as indicated by the surveys now being carried on to the east and west of Doaktown.

Miramichi-Bound Vessel Sunk.

The barque Petitcodiac, of Moncton, arrived at Campbellton on Monday last with the master and eleven men of the ship Minnie Swift of Maitland, together with nine men belonging to the barque Zullette, of North Shields, and six cattle men, of the steamer Geographique; four men, the stewardess, and Miss Masters, a passenger of the Minnie Swift, were drowned in collision with the steamer and one man is missing. The captain, two boys and two men of the Zullette were drowned and one man is missing.

The "Minnie Swift" was bound from Greenock to Miramichi. Only a few days out she rescued 12 men from the barque "Zullette," the captain and three seamen of which vessel were washed overboard and drowned. Resuming her voyage the "Minnie Swift" was run down, on October 3rd, some 45 miles from St. Pierre, by the French Steamer "Geographique" from Montreal and sank. A lady passenger of the "Swift", named Masters, the steward and stewardess five of the "Swifts" crew and two of the men saved from the "Zulette" were missing after the collision, the rest being saved by clambering on board the Steamer. Those on board of the latter made no effort to save their missing ones, pleading it was too dark. Thinking the steamer was sinking there was a panic and 27 of the Swift and Zulette people secured a boat and after drifting about for 8 hours were picked up by the Petitcodiac and taken to Dalhousie.

Presbyterian Synod.

The Synod of the maritime provinces, in connection with the Presbyterian church in Canada, met at Picton N. S. last Thursday. In the absence of Rev. J. M. McLeod the retiring moderator, who has recently gone to British Columbia, Rev. E. A. McCurdy ex-moderator, opened the synod by conducting public worship and preaching from the closing words of 1st Timothy, 3:15.

After the sermon and some routine business the election of Moderator took place.

Rev. Neil McKay and Rev. John McMillan, were nominated for the position by Presbyteries. Rev. John McMillan positively declined the nomination and moved Rev. Neil McKay. This was seconded by Dr. Burns and supported by Dr. McCulloch and Rev. L. G. McNeil.

Rev. James McLean moved, Rev. H. B. McKay, seconded by Rev. T. Sedgewick.

Rev. D. B. Blair, seconded by Rev. W. S. McKenzie, moved Rev. Dr. Isaac Murray.

The vote being taken Rev. Neil McKay was declared elected. The ex-moderator stated that Mr. McKay is the only minister of the late Free church now in charge of a congregation, He spoke briefly.

Dr. Burns moved a resolution of condolence and sympathy with Rev. George Christie, of Bedford, Rev. W. L. Macrae, of Trinidad, and Rev. Dr. Macrae, of St. John, in their sad bereavement in the loss of their wives.

At Friday's session an overture from the presbytery of Miramichi to the next general assembly through the synod was taken up regarding the reception of ministers from other churches, and asking that regulations be made not to receive any ministers whose literary and theological training is not equal to that required by this church. Rev. William Hamilton spoke in support of the overture. It seeks (1) to maintain our high standard of education; (2), to insure that ministers be up to that standard; and (3), to allay any dissatisfaction on the part of our own students. This overture is not to debar ministers from coming from other churches, but to secure that those who are admitted be of equal educational standing with our own students. Rev. A. F. Thompson said as the overture is in line with the regulations now in the church, he need not say more.

Rev. A. McLean opposed the overture. We are all in favor of an educated ministry; at the same time there are exceptions to the general rule. If this overture prevailed it would exclude even a Spurgeon. It makes no provision for such exception. What we should do is to have confidence in the good sense of presbyteries in the general assembly. He moved as an amendment that while in sympathy with the object aimed at the overture is unnecessary, and the synod refuse to receive and transmit it, seconded by Rev. D. B. McKay, who thought such an overture equivalent to a vote of want of confidence in the assembly.

Mr. Robert Murray felt sure our students are not afraid of competition, and besides we have no grievance, for those received in the past have proved themselves good and successful men, and he hoped that the overture would not be received. Mr. Hamilton thought the presbytery would be ready to accept provisions for such exceptional cases as have been mentioned. The vote being taken the amendment was carried and the matter dropped.

A report from the presbytery of St. John, regarding the McLaggan trust, giving a statement of the trust, recommending that, as the parties interested live in the bounds of the presbytery of Miramichi, the synod be relieved of all responsibility, and that the trust be transferred to the presbytery of the Mirimichi, was read.

Rev. A. F. Thompson moved that the report be submited to a committee of the synod to examine and report at a later sederunt.

The moderator left the chair to second the motion and support it.

Mr. Forbes, St. John, was fully favorable to having such a committee appointed.

Dr. Bennett referred to the history of the trust, and said it should never have been brought into the synod. The motion carried.

The moderator and clerk were authorized to send an official telegram of sympathy to Dr. Macrae, whose wife was on that day (Friday) being laid in the grave.

Discussion on mission work of the church occupied the afternoon.

In this debate Elder Grierson described the religious destitution prevailing in some of the back districts of New Brunswick. The synod he said had there some twenty mission fields in which there are ninety-seven preaching stations, about thirteen hundred families, and six thousand eight hundred people, one-sixth of whom are communicants. The Canadian census credits ten thousand more New Brunswick people to the Presbyterian church than its statistics account for. He had been endeavoring to hunt some of these up and not without considerable success. He spoke of the damage that resulted to religion in that province from unscriptural revivalism, and instanced a case in which a good Baptist deacon had mourned to him that in July they could not get twelve out of their whole membership to a prayer meeting, though they had had a great revival in March with seventy baptisms. The demoralizing means so generally resorted to for raising money for the churches was another curse to religious work. He did not wonder that the young people, who were milked that way for church support came to despise the church and became the pray of unbelief. Basket and pie socials, which were liable to such abuse that they were an insult to decency, were enlisted in aid of the church treasury. They often ended in scenes of the most disgraceful rowdyism. He complained of the lack of organization in the church's work. But in spite of all obstacles he said that the work was progressing.

Reports presented on Monday showed that 225 students were in attendance at the Halifax ladies' college. J. G. Forbes testified to the popularity of the college in New Brunswick.

The report on systematic beneficence showed that arrears of ministers' salaries are becoming smaller. There is also progress in the methods or raising ministers' salaries. Sixty congregations have adopted the weekly offerings system.

Rev. E. Grant reported from the committee to appoint standing committees. Conveners of committees are as follows:

(1.) Sabbath observance—Rev. Thomas Cumming, Truro.

(2.) Temperance—Rev. Neil McKay, the moderator.

(3.) Systematic beneficence—Rev. M. G. Henry, Shubenacadie.

(4.) Public education—Principal McKnight.

(5.) State of Religion—Rev. G. S. Carson, Pictou.

(6.) Synod fund—Rev. J. R. Monroe, Antigonish.

(7.) Sabbath schools—Rev. T. C. Jack, Maitland.

(8.) Bills and overtures—Rev. E. Smith, Lower Stewiacke.

(9.(Widows and Orphans—(nominated for the assembly) Rev. R. Laing.

The synod accordingly appointed the next meeting in St. John's church, Moncton, on the first Thursday of October, 1890, at half-past seven o'clock.

A Lansing, Mich., Minister Gets $5,000.

On Saturday, July 20th, the official card from the Louisianna State Lottery company announced that ticket No. 38,607 drew the second capital prize of $100,000 in Tuesday's, July 16th. drawing, the ticket being held in twentieths, one-twentieth, sold in Lansing Mich. Conjectures as to who held the lucky number ran rife. Some were of the opinion that a young man by the name of Cospers, employed at the iron works, held it, others thought the entire thing a snide, delusion and snare. By pursuing investigations unremittingly, The Republican has ascertained the owner of the ticket to the fortune of $5,000 to be none other than Rev. Fred Mayer, the German Evangelical minister. —Lansing (Mich.) Republican, Aug. 7.
