POOR COPY

The Parrot Spoke Up.

A New Jersey politician and his wife boarded a late boat from the Pennsylvania depot on Monday night to come to New York. A colored nurse followed the couple with the politician's baby and a cage with a parrot in it. The cage was covered with a white cloth, and the nurse set it carefully on the floor of the ladies' cabin so as not to jostle the parrot.

Just as the boat was entering the Cortland street slip, the nurse stooped over to pick the cage up, and accidentally seized and lifted up the cloth cover instead.

"What in——are you doing!" screamed the parrot, dashing at the startled nurse.

Even the ladies in the cabin joined in the roar of laughter. The New Jersey politician glared at the parrot and covered him up just as Special John P. Peck, of the New York Custom House, stepped up to him.

"The bird seems to have forgotten that he was in the ladies' cabin," Mr. Peck said.

"I have to be very careful with that bird, the politician replied. I can't take him anywhere in public except to the assembly chamber at Trenton. He learned to debate when he was on shipboard."

Practical Hints.

Best French Naphtha Polish.—Solution of shellac three pounds, and wood naphtha three quarts.

Best French Spirit Polish.—Shellac, two pounds; powdered mastic and sandarac, of each one ounce; copal varnish half pint; spirits of wine; one gallon. Mix in the cold till dissolved.

Glass vessels and other utensils may be purified and cleaned by rinsing them out with powdered charcoal.

Glass should be washed in cold water, which gives it a brighter and clearer look than when cleansed with warm water.

To Clean Knives.—Cut a small potato in two, dip one-half in brick-dust and rub the knives, and rust and stain will disappear like magic from their surfaces

Another Method.—Lime, one part; sand three parts; soft soap, two-parts. Lay a little on the board with a scrubbing-brush and rub thoroughly. Rinse with clean water and rub dry.

Cleaning Floor Boards.—Scrubbing them with a mixture made by dissolving unslaked lime in boiling water will have the desired effect. The proportions are two tablespoonfuls to a quart of water. No soap need be used.

Polish of Mahogany Color.—Two ounces of beeswax, cut fine; spirits of turpentine, one ounce; one dram of powdered rosin; melt at a gentle heat, and add two drams of Indian red to give a mahogany color.

Oil for Red Furniture.—Take linseed oil; put it into a glazed pipkin with as much alkanet root as it will cover. Let it boil gently, and it will become of a strong red color; cool it will be fit for use.

Silver Soap.—For cleaning silver and britannia: one-half pound of soap, three tablespoonfuls of spirits of turpentine, and half a tumbler of water. Let it boil ten minutes; add six tablespoonfuls of spirits of hartshorn. Make a suds of this, and wash silver with it.

Cleaning Tinware.—An experienced housekeeper says the best thing for cleansing tinware is common soda. She gives the following directions: Dampen a cloth, and dip in soda, and rub the ware briskly, after which wipe dry. Any blackened ware can be made to look as well as new.

To Polish Tins.—First rub them with a damp cloth; then take dry flour and rub it on with the hands; afterward take an old newspaper and rub the flour off, and the tins will shine as well as if half an hour had been spent in rubbing them with brickdust or powdef, which spoils the hands.

To Clean Silver.—Cleansing silver is not an easy task. The use of kerosene will greatly facilitate the operation. Wet a flannel cloth in the oil, dip in dry whiting, and thoroughly rub the plated or silverware; throw it into a dish of scalding soapsuds, wipe with a soft flannel, polish with a chamois skin.

Polish of Oil and Alcohol.—One pint of linseed oil; one wineglass of alcohol; mix well together; apply to the cloth with a linen rag; rub dry with a soft cotton cloth, and polish with a silk cloth. Furniture is improved by washing it occasionally with soap suds. Wipe dry and rub over with a very little linseed oil upon a clean sponge or flannel. Wipe polished furniture with silk.

Scouring Knives.—Place a quantity of brick-dust on a board, and having the knife perfectly dry, press it down hard and rub it back and forth, crosswise of the blade. When bright turn and scour the other side. Then wipe off with chamois leather. Knives thus treated will retain their brightness much longer and have a new look after years of usage.

To Preserve Steel Goods from Rust.—After bright grates have been thoroughly cleansed, they should be dusted over with unslaked lime, and thus left till wanted. All the coils of piano wires are thus sprinkled, and will keep from rust for many years. Table knives which are not in constant use ought to be put in a case in which quicklime is placed, eight inches deep. They should be plunged to the top of the blades, but the lime should not touch the handles.

Paper for Cleaning Stoves, Tinware, Furniture, etc.—After a stove has been blackened, it can be kept looking very well for a long time by rubbing it with paper every morning. Rubbing with paper is a much nicer way of keeping the outside of a tea-kettle or coffee-pot and tea-pot bright and clean than the old way of washing them with suds. Rubbing with paper is also the best way of polishing knives, tinware and spoons; they shine like new silver. For polishing mirrors, windows, lamp-chimneys, etc., paper is better than a dry cloth.

How to Remove Stains from Floors.—For removing spots of grease from boards, take equal parts fuller's-earth and pearlash, a quarter of a pound of each, and boil in a quart of soft water; and while hot lay it on the greased parts, allowing it to remain on them for ten or twelve hours; after which it may be scoured off with sand and water. A floor much spotted with grease should be completely washed over with this mixture the day before it is scoured. Fullers' earth and ox-gall boiled together form a very powerful cleansing mixture for floors or carpets. Stains of ink are removed by strong vinegar, or salts of lemon will remove them.—The Restaurator.

LAURENCE'S SPECTACLES.
When are Spectacles Required?

When the eyes water or become so fatigued by use as to be obliged to be frequently closed or relieved by viewing different objects
When more light is required than formerly.
When the letters of a book appear to blend with one another or to become double.
When the lamp has to be placed between the eye and the object.
When objects cannot be seen without holding them at an increased distance.
When much difficulty is found in threading a needle.
When the eyes appear confused as though they had a mist before them.
When black specks seem floating in the sight.
When any of the above indications arise all affectation should be laid aside and a pair of Laurences Spectacle's or eye Glasses should be worn immediately.
Good fitting glasses are a great comfort. Our facilities for testing the sight and suiting the age are not surpassed anywhere.—Prices to suit everybody.
