Farming by Machinery

Farming by machinery will allow more time for horse, cattle and sheep breeding and thus help diversify agricultural pursuits in this Province. Diversify of farming was in the minds of the promoters o fthe tournament. Among these may be mentioned Professor Cumming, Secretary for Agricuture and Principal of the Agricultural College at Truro, who went to Detroit and secured the loan of the tractor from Henry Ford for exhibition. As these tractors are not yet on the market and will only be exhibited in one other Province in Canada (Ontario), Nova Scotia was really fortunate in securing the opportunity to see it at work.

It is only fair to say, however, that the tournament at Kentville was developed by the Dominion Atlantic Railway. George E. Graham, General Manager of this railway, is himself an ex-farmer and a firm believer in agriculture as the foundation of any country's prosperity Ever since he took over the management o fthe road he has been endeavoring to establish cordial relations between the road and the farmers.

Serve Interests of Farmers

It is his policy to find out in what ways the Dominion Atlantic can serve the farmers from Yarmouth to Halifax and make the farmers feel that is the primary purpose of the road. It is wisdom of the highest type, because if he can teach producers and shippers that the railway is for their use and convenience that very use means the prosperity of the railway.

Realizing the value of such exhibitions the Dominion Atlantic went systematically to work to make it a success. Special trains were run from points east of Annapolis, and large crowds showed their appreciation of the efforts. Had the day been less threatening in appearance, doubtless the accommodations would have been insufficient, liberal as they were. General Manager Graham proposes to make the Dominion Atlantic Railway serve the farmers of the valley asthe C. P. R. served those of the West. The Dominion Atlantic Railway has also had a film made of the fruit trees ravaged by moths, the method of spraying and the marvellous result. This film, of great educational value to the orchards of the Valley, will be shown tomorrow.

the orchards was shown Wednesday.

Principal Cumming's Tribute

In an address before the prizes were awarded Professor Cumming paid a high compliment to the whole-hearted work of General Manager Graham, whose big vision and unlimited faith in the future of Nova Scotia's farming industry had made the occasion possible Professor Cumming also said that this day marked an epoch in the farming history of Nova Scotia. "You have this day seen a tractor at work for the frst time in this Province and that means eventually the revolutionizing of farming here. You may not own a tractor this year or next, or perhaps, even the next, but I look forward to the day, not so very distant either, when tractors will be as common as automobiles now are."

Professor Cummings remarks were received with great approval, as was Professor Blair's little speech at the Experimental Farm in the morning. The Kentville brass band furnished excellent music during the afternoon, and the rain which had held off to allow the completion of the competition, began to drizzle, ending finally in a downpour before night closed in. But the events, even the awarding of the well earned prizes, were all over and the congestion of people and vehicles was greatly relieved before that.

One of the interesting and amusing events was not on the programme at all, yet attracted much attention. The daredevil driver o fthe Ford tractor cut circles round the big International and then dashed at a high bank, climbed up into the field and raced off at a fifteen miles an hour rate. The "Smith-Form-a-Tractor," an arrangement that may be geared to the rear wheels of any Ford car, also exhibited its powers in ploughing.
