Western Jockey Club Rulings.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—D. J. Lynch and Fred Foster et al. applied for reinstatement at the monthly meeting of the stewards of the Western Jockey Club. The application of Foster et al. was dismissed. No action was taken on Lynch's case.

Fred Foster's petition was accompanied by those of Matt Foster, James Gray and Charles Gray, being in the form of an appeal from the decision of the Hawthorne judges. Other cold deals were handed out to Jockeys J. M. Gormley, R. Slater and T. J. Walker, and Trainer William H. Sperling; also all Union Park and Newport repentants.

Jockey William Penn, canned at New Orleans in 1902, and Jockey Hugh Hayes, chased at Hawthorne in 1903, were taken back thru the kitchen door. Jockey Burt Knapp and Trainer J. E. Doyle were told to wait until it got a month colder. Jockey R. S. Sullivan got back his license. Jockey Whitcomb's application and that of Apprentice Keogh were denied. The stewards decided they had no jurisdiction in the case of Jockey C. Smith, suspended at Fort Erie.

Two disputes over jockeys' contracts came up. Feicht's appeal to have his contract with James Robertson annulled was denied, and that of S. Morsell for an amendment of the contract held by W. J. Houck on Fred Morell was passed.

These licenses were granted:

Gun Fight at Race Track.

New Orleans, Oct. 5.—As the result of an inexcusably poor start in the second race at Highland Park, a cheap outlaw track near here, there was a desperate free-for-all fight among Tony Mendola, Charlie Petrie, Officer Charles Louque and L. H. Marrero, jr., son of Sheriff Marrero of Jefferson parish. Mendola, who is well known around the French market, was horribly beaten by Marrero, Louque and others before the victim was finally taken to jail. Marrero pulled his revolver and snapped the trigger, but the timely interference of Frank Faget, a horse-owner, who succeeded in jamming his finger between the hammer and the cartridge, prevented the weapon from going off, and probably saved Mendola's life.

Steeplechase Circuit.

Baltimore, Oct. 5.—With the return of Secretary W. P. Riggs of the Maryland Jockey Club from his trip to Philadelphia and vicinity, renewed interest has been created in racing circles, and the work of preparing for the November meet goes merrily on. Mr. Riggs while away, saw many of the Pennsylvania horsemen, especially those members of the various hunt clubs of the Keystone State who own strings of runners.

Beginning on Oct. 8 at Chestnut Hill, there will be four race meets in and near Philadelphia, each having a splendid program for one day's sport. After the Whitemarsh Valley Hunt at Chestnut Hill there will be the Rose Tree Hunt meet at Media, then the Lima Hunt meet at Wilmington, Del., and finally the West Chester Hunt meet at West Chester.

At these meetings there are always many good runners in evidence, as well as a contingent of first-class timber-toppers. Mr. Riggs has been working to bring these horses to the Pimlico meet, and has been very successful.

Steeplechase Great Race.

No prettier steeplechase has been seen this season than that witnessed at Morris Park yesterday in the Corinthian Steeplechase Handicap, for gentlemen riders, which had five starters, all ridden by gentlemen, and three of whom came to the last obstacle so close together that it was difficult to then predict the winner. Mr. Chamblett's game gelding Royelle, with H. S. Stone of Toronto in the saddle, came away under a drive and won easily at the end. Connoisseur, with his owner, Charles J. Harris, up, was a good second and M. J. Cavanagh's Flying Buttress, ridden by Robert M. Taylor of Maryland, was a good third.

The other two starters were Harry Page's Ivan, owner up, and S. J. Holloway's R. B. Sack, also with owner up. Both finished, but were well beaten. Not one of the five fell, and there was nothing like the usual amount of "bobbing," "shuyling," and knocking to pieces the timber composing the jumps. The race was a handicap and afforded a really excellent betting medium, the three placed horses ranging from 3 to 2 to 12 to 5 against. Royelle ran in third position until the last mile, when he easily forged to the front, but nearing the last fence both Connover and Flying Buttress were determined competitors. Unfortunately, the rider of Flying Buttress lost one of his stirrups, and this helped to beat him. Royelle won with Mr. Stone's hands down on the gelding's withers.

Evidently a distance of ground suits Royelle to perfection, especially when there is a fast pace. Nothing but praise was forthcoming from the thousands who saw the gentlemen riders' efforts to promote a sporting contest. The stake was worth $1030 to the winner. Royelle, while Mr. Stone, who so cleverly rode him, received a piece of plate of the value of $100.—New York Herald.

McPherson will play right half, with Kennedy in centre and McKay left. The scrimmage will be heavy and strong. Burwell weighs 211, Ritchie 197 and the third probable 185. This will make a heavy scrimmage, and this division of the team does not look the weakest part at the present.

The blue and white realize that they have a big proposition on their hands when they tackle the easterners on Saturday, and the management are making every effort to have the team in the best possible condition. The Varsity students will attend in a body, and will occupy a special bleacher on the east side of the field, and it is expected that organized rooting will enliven the afternoon's proceedings. The wings in Saturday's game will likely be Jermyn, Lash, Burns, Davidson, Nichols and Reynolds. The scrimmage will be chosen from Burwell, Christie, Ritchie, Johnston and Hamilton.
