RIVER TRAVEL FEELS EFFECTS OF THE WAR

Speaking of passenger traffic on the river, on the steamer Oconee this morning, Capt. Taylor, who is the purser, said there had been some falling off compared with last summer, due to the war. Quite a large number of the young men who spent the week-end along the river last summer are now at the front. Also quite a number of young men whose homes are along the river have enlisted.

The Oconee, however, has a large number of passengers every Saturday night, and also on Monday morning, when she comes down early for the convenience of week-end visitors at points along the river. This morning was no exception.

Yesterday was a delightful day along the river. There was no fog, and in the middle of the day the weather was hot. The usual large number of motor boats went up Saturday afternoon and yesterday, as well as a number of sailing yachts. It must have been quite a surprise to the boats coming down last evening to find thick fog in Grand Bay.

There was a large attendance at the dancing pavilion at Public Landing on Saturday evening.

FIRST PRINTING OF GERMAN NEWSPAPER IN BRUSSELS

Brussels, Aug. 2.—The first daily newspaper in the German language appeared yesterday. It is financed by private people, although it is expected to be supported officially. Many sharp laws published against the expression of national Belgian sentiments are taken in some quarters to indicate the intention of the Germans to retain Belgium.

COMES BACK WITH A CHARGE AGAINST ONE WHO ARRESTED HIM

Interesting Case in Court—Police Force Sees One More Departure

An teresting case was heard in the police court this morning, when Urban J. Sweeney, appearing for John Griffin, who was arrested on last Friday evening on charges of drunkenness and using profane language, accused Policeman Martin Bowes of assaulting his client by hitting him over the head with a pair of handcuffs and later striking him in the face with his fist. He said his client had been drinking, but was not drunk, and said he could bring witnesses to prove that the policeman was the one who was drunk.

He then called Frank Freestone, who swore he saw the policeman strike Griffin over the head with handcuffs when he was endeavoring to arrest him, and as a result blood spurted all over the sidewalk. He said he later saw him deliberately strike Griffin in the face with his fist. He said the policeman was drunk, and had previously in the dav seen him staggering while patroling his beat.

Magistrate Ritchie said he considered the young man had suffered enough and hoped that it would be a lesson to him and stop him drinking. He imposed a fine of $16 or four months in jail, but allowed them to stand against him.

When questioned about Policeman Bowes, Chief Simpson said he had discharged him on last Saturday night. It was intimated this morning that a charge of assault would be laid against the ex-policeman.

SERGT. DEVENNIE IS HURT AT SHORNCLIFFE

A card received by his mother, Mrs. Alex. Devennie, 27 Barker street, on Saturday, said that her son, Sergt. Walter Devennie, of No. 5 Co. C. A. S. C., had been thrown from his horse on the camp grounds at Shorncliffe, Eng. While the boy was thoughtful enough not to say how painfully he might have been hurt, he did say that he expected to be laid up for a time from his injuries. It is hoped that they are not serious.

26TH HANDICAPPED BY LACK OF FIELD KITCHENS

"There is another matter for thought—Men are wanted, and lots of them. It is all 'buncombe' to talk 'business as usual.' The Germans like this kind of stuff, but when the war is over, if they It is all 'buncombe' to talk 'business as all the business should now be directed into the channel of food and munition supplies, all superfluities being cut out. Over here everyone is curtailing his expenses, and before long Canada will have to do likewise. My advice is for Canadians to get in practice immediately along these lines.

"My regiment started yesterday on a fourteen days musketry course at Hythe, and on completion will have a while on brigade and divisional training before going to the front.

Major McAvity to France

"Major McAvity (Bumps) brigade major of the 5th, left for France yesterday and will be back in about a week. Then all the colonels commanding regiments of infantry will get a turn over there also, so that we shall know what the real thing looks like before going across for good. The health of the regiment is fine, and officers and men never looked better. The 12th N. B. and Quebec battalion, Lieut. Col McLeod commanding, is to be a reserve battalion furnishing drafts for the 26th when necessary, and remaining at Shornecliffe. This was in divisional orders on July 15.

"Every day some officer drops in here on his way to or from the front. Yesterday it was Capt. Jack Parks, D.S.C., who has almost recovered after his wounds, of which he had four; a few days ago it was Don Fisher, lieutenant in the Strathcona Horse, recuperating from shock received in shell fire; Major Clinch, Captain Jim and Doug Adams, sons of the late T. S. Adams, have also called on us.

"The regiment participated in a great review before our premier, Sir R. L. Borden, and Major General Hughes on July 18. On the reviewing stand immediately behind the premier were Sir Max Aitken and James Dunn, Esq., who certainly gave the 26th all the applause that could be desired. The march past of the 20,000 or more men who comprised the 2nd Division under General Steele was a sight long to be remembered. There is not a division in the whole British army which is in their class on physical lines. The march past was superb. We marched by brigades in column of platoons, one hundred paces between regiments, and I was very glad I had brought my horse "Bob," for he is a star on parades and he did his work like a veteran.

"I sincerely trust that you will use your best efforts to raise sufficient funds to enable me to provide comforts for my men when necessity arises, which is indeed often. One regiment in the 5th brigade has $20,000 funds, raised for it in a few days by friends, and also field kitchens and a brass band, all contributed. To date I have seen that my men are looked after and have gotten all necessities. We will undoubtedly be in a winter campaign so that the women of New Brunswick can immediately start on socks. All we can do is to thank them, and remember them in our prayers. This is the only letter I have written on this subject and in view of the exceedingly friendly relations which have always existed between you and myself, I perhaps have made parts of it pertty strong, but only to emphasize the necessity.

"Again thanking you for your continued interest in our welfare, I have the honor to be, Sir,

(Signed.) J. L. McAVITY,
Lieut. Colonel,
O. C. 26th Batt.

WAS FRED M. McDONALD

Soldier Killed by Lightning at Shorncliffe Formerly a School Teacher

Ottawa, Aug. 1st, 1915.

Charles L. McDonald,

McDonald's Corner, N. B.

Deeply regret to inform you 6447, Pte. Fred M. McDonald, 6th Regiment Canadian Mounted Rifles, officially reported killed by lightning, July 30th.

ADJT. GENERAL.

Kenneth W. McDonald, who arrived from Boston this morning, was greatly shocked to read in the Telegraph that his brother, Frederick M. McDonald, of McDonald's Corner, Queens County, might have been the soldier killed by lightning at Shorncliffe, England. A cable on Saturday said the man's name was McDonald, of the 6th Mounted Rifles, but did not give the first name. A cable on Sunday said the full name was Frederick Malcolm Douglas. There was no man of this name in the 6th, but a Frederick Malcolm McDonald, who was in B. Squadron, and was a brother of Kenneth W. McDonald. His parents are dead, but he and a sister had lived with their grandfather at McDonald's Corner, and he had two brothers in Boston. Kenneth and Charles. Me had been a school teacher before enlisting. Kenneth was anxiously seeking further information today, and went to the telegraph office to wire to the minister of militia. On arrival there, however, he was handed the telegram quoted, which is addressed to his elder brother, who is in Boston, but which, of course, would be delivered to the family at McDonald's Corner.

Fred M. McDonald was only twenty years old. He was teaching school at Campobello, but came to St. John to enlist. He is a grandson of Joseph McDonald, of McDonald's Corner, where his sister, Lilian, also lives. The brothers, as already stated, are Charles L. and Kenneth W. of Boston.

WAS VERY SICK ON WAY ACROSS BUT NOW IS OUT OF THE HOSPITAL

That Private Charles Tait of the Second Canadian Expeditionary Force is quite well again was the good news contained in a letter from Charles to his mother, Mrs. John Tait, 71 Somerset street. The letter was written at East Sandling Camp on July 18, and stated that the writer had left the hospital a short time before, after having been seriously ill on the trans-Atlantic passage.

"The people here were very kind to me," he wrote, "and brought me fruit and berries every day."

Charley wrote that his brother Bob had left for the front, and he referred to another brother, Chesley, of the First Canadian Expeditionary Force now on the firing line. Both, he said, were well.

ST. JOHN ENGINEER ON COMMISSION INVESTIGATING TORONTO HARBOR WORK

(The Canadian Engineer, July 22.)

Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works of Canada, has appointed Edward T. P. Shewen, M. Can. Soc. C. E., Roger Miller and John Sweeney as a commission to investigate the Toronto harbor works. It is alleged by the Toronto daily newspapers that the appointment of this commission is the result of a charge said to have been made by E. L. Cousins, chief engineer of the Toronto Harbor Commission, to the effect that some of the material being used by the contractors is inferior and certain workmanship defective.

Mr. Cousins has not officially made such a charge as yet, however, nor have the contractors replied to the newspaper charges. The contractors, the Canadian Stewart Company, Limited, have stated to the newspapers, however, that, if there is any inferior work, they will see that it is made good.

Chester H. Mathewson, A. M. Can. Soc. C. E., resident engineer of the Toronto harbor improvements for the department of public works, has also been involved in the matter by the Toronto newspapers, which state that he supports the contention of the contractors that the design of the work is wrong in part.

Meanwhile much of the work is being held up, this being largely due to a disagreement between the contractors and two sub-contractors—viz., Herron Brothers and the Hodge Company. The contractors had ordered the subcontractors to cease work pending investigation into the work that they had done, and had also blockaded certain plant of the sub-contractors in the Ashbridge's Bay Ship Channel. In retaliation, the sub-contractors have blockaded the entrance to the ship channel in such a manner that it is difficult for the contractors to supply with coal their huge dredge Cyclone.

Meanwhile, the report of the commission and official statements by the various engineers concerned are being awaited with interest. Mr. Shewen is district engineer at St. John, N. B., for the department of public works. Mr. Miller is a well known contractor of Toronto and Ingersoll, Ont. Mr. Sweeney is a district engineer for Manitoba for the department of public works.

SOLDIERS' COMFORTS.

The Soldiers' Comforts Association have moved their quarters from 92 Princess street to the new C. P. R. building at the corner of King and Germain street. They are on the fourth floor, in Room 43, entrance from Germain street. The regular monthly meeting will be held on Wednesday afternoon at half past three, and the president, Mrs. George McAvity, wishes the executive to meet at three o'clock.

DEATH OF LITTLE ONE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McIlveen will have the sympathy of many friends in the loss of their infant son, Albert Alwyn, whose death occurred on Saturday at the home of his parents, 218 Prince street, west. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to Cedar Hill cemetery. Rev. W. H. Sampson officiated.
