Poetry.

The Greatest Boon.

The greatest songs that were ever sung
Are those that please the heart
Though serene, and quiet, and tender are the song
From some sphacelated heart,
Though the words brittle only of earth
and bloom,
And the tunes are the gladdest and
lightest,
Remember, that after a night of gloom,
The rays of the sun are brightest.

The greatest deeds that were ever done
Were done in the dark of night
Green fields, and grass, and grain, and wheat
Through the purge of travail and pain
Are a song in best complete.
After a winter of storm and snow,
Blossom the buds in our bowers,
After a season of tears and woe,
Blossom the poet's flowers.

There are few who give the poet a thought,
When they read the glorious strains;
There are few who know that poem is wrought
Through nerves, and heart, and pain
The merriest song and the liriest lay
And those that are sweetest and gladest
of
Are woven in gloomy and shadowy ray,
When the poet's heart is sad.

ODDS AND ENDS.

An affecting sight—barrels in tears.

The sun says, with a leap, "I have it."

Something that ought to be put down—carpets.

Theory may be all very well, but young doctors and lawyers prefer practice.

The merriest place in the universe is just beyond the earth's atmosphere, for there all bodies lose their gravity.

Don't imagine that you were born to reform the world. You can't split a mountain with a toothpick.

Mark Twain denies that his "Gilded Age" was a failure. He says it gave a poor earthy bookbinder a job.

The crocus put its head out from under the snow and said to its companion, "you like everything if you say this is spring."

A man is said to be short-sighted when he thinks he has left his watch at home and takes it out of his pocket to see if he has time to return home and get it.

Why is a drunkard like a bad politician?—Because he is always poking his nose into measures that spoil the constitution.

"Did you know I was here?" said the bellows to the fire.—"Oh yes; I always contrive to get wind of you," was the reply.

A man was arrested in a market for stealing four bunches of thyme. His name wasn't Procrastination, but it should have been.

A married man entered a bachelor's room, and, looking round, said, "Very snug—rather too snug—but I suppose if I had not had a better half, I might have had better quarters."

It was an Irish Coroner who, when asked how he accounted for an extraordinary mortality in Limerick, replied sadly: "I cannot tell, there are people dying this year that never died before."

"Agustus dear," said she, tenderly pushing him from her at the moonlight flooded the bay-window where they were standing, I think you had better try some other hair dye; your mustache taints like turpentine."

A man had better have a millstone tied to his neck and be cast into the sea than to promise to marry a Texas girl and then refuse. The girl in country towns cut to hunt him, and he is generally left to grow up with a tree.

Apropos of old bachelorhood, we quite agree with a contemporary who advises young men not to load themselves to its support. In this sense, as in many others, it is not good for a man to be a load.

A South Carolina verdict on the death of a negro boy who had been killed by a whipping is as follows: "Hezekiah Walker, by misfortune and contrary to his will, by whipping or breaking the boy with a stick, did cause the death of Thomas Berry, on the night of Monday, the 15th of February."

In what vehicle did the man ride who was driven frantic? When a man revolves much in his mind, does it make him dizzy? If all things are of the best, where do the rations for the second-best come from? What is the exact width of a broad grin?

A captain in the navy, on meeting a friend as he landed, boasted that he had left his whole ship's company the happiest fellows in the world. "How not? asked his friend. "Why I have just flogged seventeen, and they are happy it is over, and all the rest are happy they escaped.

Cowden Clarke tells a story of a gentleman who lately, in making a return of his income to the tax commissioners, wrote on the paper: "For the first three years my income has been somewhat under £150; in future it will be more precarious as the man is dead of whom I borrowed the money."

During the progress of a duke's funeral through a small town in Scotland, the following colloquy between two women was overheard. One absorbed in contemplation of the signs of woe, exclaimed, "Poor woman! She will be sair lamented." "Woman!" said the other "Gae awa' wi' ye—it's a man!" "Gae awa' wi' ye yoursel!" rejoined the other with an expression of the utmost contempt. "Wha dinna ken that a duke's the sho o' a drake!"

From the time negotiations were entered into with the G. W. R. Company by the late directors of the L. M. & B. R. Co., the public were given to understand that the former company would not engage to build the road further than Blyth; but subsequently the offer was made to continue the line on to Wingham, if bonuses to the amount of $10,000 were voted, and for that object Lucknow, Wingham and Kincardine were canvassed by the late directors, who succeeded in obtaining from the two latter places, good bonuses, but Lucknow could not be induced into giving anything. It appears by the following extract from the report of Mr. Childers, that instead of the agreement being limited to the construction of the line only as far as Blyth, it was agreed to build through to Wingham.

"The agreement with the London, Huron and Bruce Railway Company referred to in the resolution of the special meeting of October last, has been entered into. The line of 69 miles, extending from near London, on the main line, in a northerly direction to Wingham, a station on the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway, will be constructed by the Great Western Company, who will receive the municipal bonuses and the Government subsidy granted in aid of its construction."

If this turns out to be the case, the old directors have been obtaining money under false pretences, and they, therefore, ought to be punished for so doing. —Clinton New Era.

The Captain of the propeller Asia, just returned from the first trip, reports meeting a large quantity of ice on lakes Huron and Superior, both going up and on the return trip. The ice in front of Prince Arthur's landing the Captain reports as being between eighteen and twenty-four inches thick. He fell in with the Quebec there, and tried to break the ice. He tendered the Quebec all the assistance possible, and finally reached the landing at 6:30 on the eighteenth of May. The Asia was the first arrival at Fort William this season.

The best mode of oiling a belt is to take it from the pulleys and immerse it in a warm solution of tallow and oil; after allowing it to remain a few moments the belt should be immersed in water heated to 100 deg. Fahrenheit, and instantly removed. This will drive the oil and tallow all in, and at the same time properly temper the leather.

Romance in Real Life.

In New York, in 1798, my store was in Maiden Lane within three doors of the store of John Pelton, an extensive dealer in China. His foreman was John Palmer, who sat behind the counter, attending customers and writing on memoranda as they stepped in. One day a purse was found in the dock at the foot of the street. The Coroner took the jury from the neighborhood, among others Mr. Mowatt and his foreman, John Palmer. The purse lay on a table in the parlor of the house. Some of the jurors around the table, as soon as John Palmer looked upon the purse he started to Joint. He hesitated, however, but his subsequent movements occasioned some curious remarks. The jury having sat, flared a verdict of death by drowning. were discharged. Mowatt turned round to look for his foreman, but behold, he was not there. He stepped out of doors and saw him high up the street on a half run, when he quickly turned a corner. All sorts of conjectures were made, but nothing could be heard of him. This, with his turning pale at the first view of the purse, occasioned some strange surmise among the jurors for many days afterwards.

John Mowatt was a bachelor of thirty-five, and Pelton had seen about thirty summers.

On a certain day, about one month thereafter, a lady in deep mourning entered into Mowatt's store and asked for a pair of gloves. While John was trying now the shoes fitted, the lady inquired, "You had a man in your store—John Palmer by name—what has become of him?

"Yes," said Mowat, "but what has become of him I wood give a good deal to learn." He then related the story as above stated.

"Strange," replied the lady. "And you have not seen him since?"

"No," replied Mowat, "I have not seen him since."

"Yes, you have seen him," replied the lady.

"I certainly," said Mowatt, "would not contradict a lady of your appearance but I have not seen him, to my knowledge."

"Well, then," said she, "I am John Pelton; and that subject on whom we had the honour was my husband. My family name is Randall. I was born in Philadelphia. I married (against the wishes of my parents) John Connor, a sober, industrious man, by trade a shoemaker. He took to drinking, neglected his business, and once struck me while in liquor. We had no family, so I resolved while we were stitching shoes together, to learn his trade and leave him. I soon made a tolerable shoe, when I assumed male attire, came to New York, and you gave me work as a journeyman. The rest you know."

John told the narrator, some days after, that on hearing this he was dumbfounded.

"Well, madam," said John, "what are your plans for the future?"

Says she, "I have not yet formed my plans."

"Well," said John, "I like you as a journeyman, "and when my foreman, I was pleased; suppose we now go into partnership for life?"

In forty-eight hours thereafter they were married. She was a fine-looking woman, and might have passed for twenty-five.

This, perhaps, is the first instance on record of a woman sitting as a Coroner's jurryman on the corpse of her husband.

The above is a simple tale of truth.

Some Scotch Anecdotes.

The minister's man at Lintrathen seldom indulged in the complimentary vein On one occasion, however, he handsomely acknowledged a compliment by returning another. The minister had got married, and was presented with a carriage, for which John was appointed to provide a horse. Driving out with his wife, the minister said to John when starting, "You've got us a capital horse" "Weel sir," said John, "it's just sae ut as difficult to choose a gude minister's wife, and we've been gay an' lucky wi' baith."

The late Rev. John Muir of Glascow was for some years minister of the beautiful parish of Leeroph in Perthshire. He had returned to that parish to assist his successor on one of the days of worship at the communion season. In his morning walk he met with a shrewd old woman with whom he had been in the habit of conversing familiarly. "What a lovely view, Date!" said the doctor pointing to the Carse of Stirling; "I can fancy this is just like Paradise!" "O ay, sir," responded Kate, "but wae's me, for I aye fancy you're like Adam yae war in Paradise but ye wouldna bide!"

A worthy old Scotch minister, who didn't object to put his hand to a bit of work when occasion required it, was one day forking sheaves in the stackyard to his man John, who was 'biggin'." One of the wheels of the cart on which the minister was standing happened to be resting on a sheaf, and when the cart was empty his reverence said: "That's them a' noo, John, excep' ane at's aneath the wheel, an' ye'll hae to come an' gie's a lift up wi' the wheel ere I get is out." "Oh" replied John, "jist drive forrit the cart a bit." "Very true, very true," rejoined the minister "every man to his own trade."

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"We are authorized to state that an assertion in the Times of this morning, to the effect that His Excellency the Administrator of the Government has commuted the sentence of death passed upon the Brockville abortionists, is wholly incorrect and unauthorized.—The case has not yet come before His Excellency for consideration."

"What is love, Nanny?" asked a minister of one of his parishioners, alluding, of course, to the word in its Scriptural sense. "Hoot fie, sir," answered the blate Nanny, blushing to the eenholes, "jinnna ask me sic a daft-like question. I'e sure ye ken as weel as me that love's just an auce fykiness in the mind; and what maic can onybody say about it?"

While a number of persons were firing a royal salute in Victoria Square, Brantford, on the 24th, Mr. McCann, Chief of the Fire Brigade, was seriously burnt, and David Barnfather had his right arm and several fingers of his left hand blown off, besides his face and body being severely burnt. He is not likely to recover. Another young man named Duke received severe injuries. The accident was caused by the premature discharge of the cannon.

Special Notices.

An easy method of breaking glass to any required form is by making a mark, by means of a file, on the side of a piece of glass; then heat the end of a piece of iron about the same size, and hot in the fire, apply the hot iron to the notch, and draw it slowly along the surface of the glass, in any direction you please; a crack will be made in the glass and will follow the direction of the iron. Round glass bottles and flasks may be cut in the middle by wrapping round them a worsted thread dipped in spirits of turpentine, and setting it on fire when fastened on the glass.

THE USE OF DR. WHEELER'S Compound Elixir of Phosphites and Calisaya as food for the brain and nervous system is founded on well established chemical and physiological laws, since it is composed of elements entering the formation of these organs and capable of supplying them with nourishment. Great mental efforts, anxiety, excitement, worry, fatigue, blood poisoning from disease or impure air, excess or indulgence in habits that use up the vital powers, speedily interfere with the nutrition of the brain and nerves which preside over all the functions of the body, and sooner or later fatal consequences must inevitably result. In the Elixir we have a reliable remedy for nerve exhaustion and loss of constitutional vigor from these causes.

A PUBLIC CAUTION.

Holloway's Pills and Ointment are neither manufactured nor sold in any part of the United States, although they may be obtained in the B. N. American Provinces.

Each Pot and Box bears the British Government Stamp, with the words, "Holloway's Pills and Ointment, London," engraved thereon.

It has become necessary to make this announcement, because the New York Chemical Company (who pay nobody), finding at last that their name has been so exposed, have assumed the title of "Holloway and Co.;" but, even now, no one will buy their medicines direct from them, so that they have made arrangements to supply exclusively the firm of Messrs. Henry and Co., of New York, with their so-called "Holloway's Pills and Ointment."

It is presumed that, from the large connexion Messrs. Henry and Co. have in the British Provinces and elsewhere, the public is very likely to be imposed upon by unscrupulous vendors and others unless they exercise great caution to prevent their being misled, by finding these medicines bearing a stamp with the name of "Holloway and Co., New York," printed thereon.

Many respectable Firms in the British Provinces, who obtain my medicines direct from here, have very properly suggested that I should, for the benefit of themselves and the public, insert their names in the papers, that it may be known that my medicines can be had genuine from them.

The following is a list of the Firms alluded to; and I particularly recommend those who desire to get my medicines to apply to some of the Houses named:—

Messrs. Avery, Brown & Co., Halifax, N. S.
Messrs. Forsyth & Co., Halifax, N. S.
Messrs. T. B. Barker & Sons, St. John, N. B.
Mr. T. Des Brisay, Charlotte Town, P. E. I.
Messrs. Langley & Co., Victoria, B. C.
Messrs. Moore & Co., Victoria, B. C.
Dr. John Pallen, Chatham, N. B.
Messrs. Munro & Co., Montreal.
Messrs. J. Winer & Co., Hamilton, Ont.
Mr. H. J. Rose, Toronto.
Mr. A. Chipman Smith, St. John, N. B.
Mr. John Bond, Goderich, Ont.
Messrs. Elliot & Co., Toronto.
Mr. J. Chaloner, St. John, N. B.
Messrs. Hanington Bros., St. John, N. B.
Mr. R. S. Priddy, Windsor, Ont.
Mrs. Orpen, Morden, N. S.
Mr. George C. Hunt, Jun., Fredericton, N. B.
Mr. W. H. Thompson, Harbor Grace, N. F.
Mr. J. M. Wiley, Fredericton, N. B.
Messrs. W. & D. Yuile, Montreal.

The medicines are sold at the lowest wholesale prices, in quantities of not less less than £20 worth—viz., 8s. 6d., 22s., and 34s per dozen boxes of Pills or pots of Ointment, for which remittances must be sent in advance.

Chemists and other vendors of Holloway's genuine Pills and Ointment may have their names inserted in the local papers if they will please apply here—

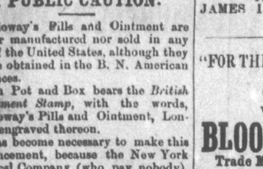
DOCTOR BALLOU'S OFFICE

No. 10 King Street West,

Three doors from Yonge St., Toronto.

A few evidences of his ability we give below. A few of the testimonials of some of our best citizens of cures he performed when he was with us before, which is, in our opinion, sufficient proof to keep him busy as long as he chooses to remain in the city, which will be until he cures every case he will take.



I desire that the citizens of Toronto and vicinity (to whom I am well known) should know of the wonderful cure that Dr. Ballou performed upon my son, William J. Spears, in this city, on January 14th, 1874. He had a very severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism, and was brought home from school at Cobourg in a helpless condition, and was confined to his bed, on which we carried him to the Albion Hotel, suffering indescribable torture, to be treated by Dr. Ballou, having little hope that he was ever to be cured, after seeing so many afflicted with it for a lifetime. But what glad surprise awaited us! After one single treatment he rose entirely left him, his swollen knees and ankles became as natural as ever, and in three days he was, and is to this day, as well as heavy was. In any other age such a cure would be considered almost a miracle. If there is any who desire further proof let them come and see.

ACHIBALD SPEARS,

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable of all the preparations of its kind. Major Cavan, officers Detlor and Constable Trainer made a raid on the premises of one Lewis on the Bayfield Road, where they began to believe an illicit still was in operation. The apparatus for distilling liquor was found in operation and having just been distilled and being in process of fermentation the apparatus was of the most primitive character, and together with the liquor found in the house, all were seized.

by Business Men to be a thoroughly practical business school. A large number of its graduates and pupils are occupying responsible positions in Canada and the United States, on their own as well as others' accounts, and by the satisfactory manner in which they discharge their duties plainly evince the benefit to be derived by pursuing a systematic course of instruction in accounts and business under the supervision of a practical accountant and a man of business experience, not one of whom is a mere scientific teacher; and to which all, both Principals and employees, give their unqualified assent and endorsement.
