THE PRESIDENT'S FORTUNE.

He Will Have About $200,000 With Which to Begin Life Anew.

From The Baltimore American.

In view of the fact that more than half of the term of President Cleveland has expired, and of the further fact that the chances of his re-election are not nearly so good as they were, a good deal of interest is shown in the probable future of the first Democratic President since the war. It has been stated that Mr. Cleveland does not expend more than half his salary, if, indeed, his expenses exceed 40 per cent. of his income, and he will doubtless have at least $100,000 of his compensation as President remaining when he leaves the White House—if he does leave it—on March 4, 1889. A friend of his, who is in a position to speak with force on the subject, says that when he was inaugurated the President had $65,000 in hard cash. This money was made principally out of his fees while Sheriff of Erie County. His four political campaigns, in which he was elected successively to the Shrievalty of Erie County, to the position of Mayor of Buffalo, Governor of New York and President of the United States cost him in all in round figures $20,000. With the $65,000, therefore, which he had when he entered the White House, the $100,000 which he will save and the fortune of his wife, President Cleveland will have in the neighborhood of $200,000 as a fortune upon which to begin life anew when he leaves the White House. Carefully invested, this would yield him an income sufficient to take care of him very comfortably for the rest of his days. "In what is this money invested?" enquired your correspondent. "I don't think the President has any investments other than bank deposits. He was never of a speculative turn of mind and never engaged in a speculative enterprise. I think the great portion of his money, at least, is deposited in banks in Albany and Buffalo, with, perhaps, some in New York, and I do not believe Cleveland is likely to invest it anywhere in the hope of securing big dividends, unless he is absolutely satisfied that his investment will be safe. When he dies his wife will have, perhaps, $20,000 from life insurance policies to add to his savings. He has no very heavy insurance on his life for the reason that within the past two or three years the principal companies have instructed their agents that they do not care for risks on the life of the President, because of his mode of living and his disposition to apoplexy. He will probably devote his time to ease and comfort. It is likely that his name will be in demand for the presidency of one or more corporations, and from this source he will be able to derive a very respectable income."

"I do not think," continued this gentleman, "that the President will return to the practice of law. While he has been an exceedingly close student since he was elected President, his past life showed that he was not fond of musty law books, and that, although he was well posted generally when he was engaged in legal proceedings before the courts, he always crammed for the occasion, and seldom started without close study and careful attention to the books for weeks before argument in the case in which he was interested began. While he has shown that he can on occasions devote himself assiduously to the law books, he does not like to pore over knotty questions, and it is safe to say that he will not do so when he retires from public life if he can possibly avoid it."

Advice to Consumptives.

On the appearance of the first symptoms, as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night-sweats and cough, prompt measures of relief should be taken. Consumption is scrofulous disease of the lungs—therefore use the great anti-scrofulous or blood-purifier and strength-restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by all druggists. For Dr. Pierce's treatise on consumption, send 10 cents in stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main-street, Buffalo, N.Y.

Gay Fans of Gems and Feathers.

From The London Queen.

Swan-quill fans are used by young girls, and those of large ostrich plumes by matrons. The former have either gilt sticks or are mounted in ivory, dyed to the color of the feathers and finished off at the side by a pinched bow. Those of ostrich plumes are usually finished with massive mounts of either shell or mother-of-pearl. The mouchete fans, which show a portion of one feather upon the extreme tip of each strand of another, acquire by this means the peculiarly light effect characteristic of thistledown. Tufts of marabout are thus imparted to ostrich and shown both in white and natural tints. The adoption is also reversed, and in one instance flecks of crimson ostrich appear among the dark brown of the natural marabout, while both the decorative bow and the frame work of the fan are in the brighter color.

High-priced fans are still shown in Chantilly, Alencon, Brussels and other places, but inserted in their centres is frequently a medallion representing in water-color some sylvan scene or effect of light upon water. Monograms and butterflies in diamonds are occasionally seen. These gems are, however, more frequently used to accentuate the centre of plumes or to give brilliancy to dragon flies and other insects. The bases of such fans are usually of carved mother-of-pearl in coral tints decorated with finely chased flowers and other designs shown in gold and silver.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of 'em. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain. 135

Women in Paris Gambling Hells.

Paris Letter to The London Telegraph.

The Paris gambling hells are rather busy just now, more particularly those in which women play. A police inspector and his men made two swoops yesterday evening. In one place in the Rue de la Terrasse fifteen demimondaines were playing with all their might when the agents of the law entered the room and seized a sum of about £350 which was on the table as well as the roulette and the dice. A less important seizure was effected in a house in the Rue de Jacquemont, where eighteen females of the fashionable cocotte type were at the tables. One of them remarked to the police that she wished they had put in an appearance on the night before, as they might have hindered her from losing an insignificant matter of £300 or thereabouts. In this place about £15 was seized, the woman having had time to thrust a good deal of the gold and bank notes into their pockets. The proprietresses of the hells were arrested, the others being allowed to go away. The mania for gambling in hells and on the race courses, which has been developed of late years among the Paris courtesans from the mouquette or trottesse of the streets to the dashing Aspasias of the boudoirs and the Bois, is, according to the best social authorities to be traced partly to the decline in their ignoble earnings and partly to their desire to kill time, which hangs heavily on their hands.

Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for your children while teething. It has been used by millions of mothers during the last forty years for their children. Cures wind colic, diarrhœa. Be sure and get Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. 25c a bottle. 135

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla operates radically upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing and invigorating it. As a safe and absolute cure for the various disorders caused by constitutional taint or infection, this remedy has no equal. Take it this month. d

He Knew How It Was.

From The Chicago Tribune.

"There's a dime for you," said the gray-headed old Board of Trade man, as he dropped a coin into the hat of the one-legged mendicant; "I would make it more, but I've lost more money in the last two weeks than you have ever seen in all your days. You don't know anything, after all, of the ups and downs o'life," he added with a sigh.

"Don't I?" replied the mendicant, grinning. "I was an elevator boy for ten years."

Try It.

"What shall I do for this distressing cough?" Try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam; it is soothing and healing to the throat and lungs, and loosens the tough mucous that renders breathing difficult or painful. 246

—Avoid the use of calomel for bilious complaints. Ayer's Cathartic Pills, entirely vegetable, have been tested forty years, and are acknowledged to be the best remedy for torpidity of the liver, costiveness and indigestion. d

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspension of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling, and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver, and biliary organs, Burdock Blood Bitter. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure. 135
