SLOCAN SILVER MINES.

Which Are Said to Have Been Closed by American Operators.

Yukon Mining Trust Formed—The Telephone and the Telegraph in the Klondike Region—A Visitor From Camp McKinney, B.C.—Some Seine River Items of News.

Mr. George B. McCaulay, treasurer of the Cariboo gold mine in Camp McKinney, is in town. He is, it will be remembered, by World readers, the man who was held up and robbed of $12,000 worth of gold bricks while taking them out from the mine to Spokane. Not very long ago the highwayman who compelled delivery at the end of a rifle was shot dead by a party of police, who met him almost on the scene of the robbery. Mr. McCaulay brings word that Camp McKinney is showing up better than ever. It lies in the Boundary country and its properties are free-milling propositions. The Cariboo is turning out its gold bricks weekly and paying its dividends monthly, and the Minnehaha, the adjoining property, which is owned chiefly by Toronto people, is looking even better at a depth of 90 feet.

SILVER MINES CLOSED

And Concentrators Shut Down in the Slocan—That U. S. Import Duty.

Word comes from the Slocan that the Omaha and Grant Smelter Company are withdrawing entirely from the Kootenays. For the action of the big company no motive is given, but they have suspended operations in all directions.

For some weeks the company's concentrator at Pilot Bay was run with a plentiful supply of ore, but the daily expected blow-in of the smelter has never occurred. The company have also, it is stated, ceased work on the Lucky Jim in the Slocan and on the Tariff in Ainsworth camp, though high-grade galena ore has been coming from the 100, 200 and 300-foot levels. It is suggested by a United States contemporary that the cessation of work is the result of the low price of silver and of the big duty on lead imported into the United States. The Spokane Spokesman is also responsible for the assertion that, owing to the closing down of the Little Donald and Black Diamond mines in the Ainsworth camp, the Stevenson smelter has been shut up

More Sales of Claims.

Last week the Canadian Pacific Exploration Syndicate purchased the Big Four, near Nelson, B. C., for $50,000, and now it is said they have bought the Apex group of claims on the Salmon River. The claims are free-milling propositions.

A KLONDIKE TRUST

Said to Have Been Formed to Run Everything on the Yukon.

An advice from Skaguay, via Seattle, says that James E. Scoville of Syracuse, N.Y., has arrived there from Dawson. He is the contractor for the Yukon Telegraph and Telephone Syndicate, which has recently been incorporated to construct and maintain telegraph and telephone lines in the Klondike region. The first line built will be between Dawson and Klondike City, and thereafter a line will be run from Dawson to Skaguay or Dyea. The company is controlled solely by the mine-owners of Bonanza and Eldorado Creeks, and the general manager is Alexander McDonald, the "bonanza king."

Mr. Scoville brings interesting word out from Dawson. It is of the formation of a gigantic pool or combine, known as the Bonanza-Eldorado Company, capitalized at $200,000,000, which proposes to control mining operations in the Klondike country.

Mr. Scoville says it will revolutionize the method of mining. Hydraulicking will be substituted for the present wasteful and expensive system, and the miner who is unable to work his claim successfully will be given an opportunity to sell it to the trust, or the syndicate will work it for him at a rate much cheaper than he could do it himself. The formation of this syndicate, Mr. Scoville says, will have the effect of reducing the output next spring quite materially.

THE FARMERS' LOAN CO.

legislation. The following clause of the Farmers' Loan Company's Act of 1874 is common to all:

"Upon the said change taking place [the change of name by striking out the word mechanics], the said company and all its then members, their successors and assigns forever shall thenceforth be and be held to be constituted and shall continue to be a body politic and corporate under the name specified, having its principal place of business in Toronto," etc., and the powers and rights of the company under its old name were continued in the company under its new name.

The Dominion Parliament has a general Act entitled The Companies Clauses Act, the provisions of which, by section 3, are extended "to every joint stock company incorporated subsequent to the 22nd day of June, 1869, by any special Act of the Parliament of Canada, for any of the purposes or objects to which the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada extends," excepting railways, banks and insurance companies. As the Farmers' Loan Company was incorporated by special Act, subsequent to 1869, and does not come within the exceptions, it is subject to this Act, and the liability of its directors is to be determined by the provisions thereof. The Act has this provision respecting the liability of directors:

"If the directors of the company declare and pay any dividend when the company is insolvent, or any dividend, the payment of which renders the company insolvent or diminishes the capital stock thereof, they shall be jointly and severally liable as well to the company as to the individual shareholders and creditors thereof for all the debts of the company then existing, and for all thereafter contracted during their continuance in office respectively. If any director present when such dividend is declared forthwith, or if any director then absent within twenty-four hours after he has become aware thereof, and able so to do, enters on the minutes of the board of directors his protest against the same and within eight days thereafter causes such protest to be published in or as near as may be possible to the place where the office or chief place of business of the company is, such director may thereby, and not otherwise, exonerate himself from liability."

To determine the liability of the directors under this Act, it is only necessary, it would seem, to determine what were the debts of the company at the declaration of each dividend for the last six or seven years and what further debts were contracted by the then sitting directorate. It will be noticed that the right of action is granted not only to the company now represented by the liquidator, but also to the depositors and shareholders. Mr. Mulock's offer of settlement, read with this statute, bears the intrepretation that he is seeking either to escape a great liability or by a friendly suit by the liquidator to block, in the event of a friendly determination, actions by the shareholders or depositors or any of them. So long as some of the persons engaged in the liquidation stand in such complexity of interest, it is not unjustifiable for those injured to fear that these persons will at least take a position prejudicial to others.

There remains the question of criminal liability. Section 365 of the criminal code provides:

"Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to five years' imprisonment who, being a promoter, director, public officer or manager of any body corporate or public company, either existing or intended to be formed, makes, circulates or publishes or concurs in making, circulating or publishing any prospectus, statement or account, which he knows to be false in any material particular, with intent to induce persons whether ascertained or not, be become shareholders or partners, or with intent to deceive or defraud the members, shareholders or creditors or any of them, whether ascertained or not, of such body corporate or public company, or with intent to induce any person to entrust or advance any property to such body corporate or public company, or to enter into any security for the benefit thereof."

That the directors from time to time have made or concurred in making statements false in material particulars is admitted. That these statements were known to be false when made all the directors deny. Whether they are telling the truth, a criminal prosecution even may not be able to determine.

The following are the directors from 1891 to the date of liquidation, among whom some of the living at least must square their acts with the legislation set out above:

1891—Joseph Cawthra, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, James Loudon, William Mulock, A. Ross, James Scott.

1892—George C. S. Bethune, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, James Loudon, William Mulock, A. Ross, James Scott.

1893—John Aikins, George C. S. Bethune, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, William Mulock, A. Ross, James Scott.

1894—John Aikins, George S. C. Bethune, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, William Mulock, A. Ross, James Scott.

1895—John Aikins, George S. C. Bethune, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, William Mulock, James Scott.

1896—John Aikins, George S. C. Bethune, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, Charles Moss, Q.C., William Mulock, A. Ross.

1897—John Aikins, George S. C. Bethune, D. B. Dick, J. D. Laidlaw, J. C. McKeggie, A. Purse, E. W. Spragge.

The liquidator is not yet able to say whether the encroachment upon capital began as early as 1891 or 1892, though he thinks it probable.

PLUCKY POLICEMAN KILLED.

Single-Handed He Tackled a Gang of Robbers and Was Shot Dead But Not Before He Shot a Robber.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 26.—Single-handed, facing disadvantages of numbers and a murderous ambush in the dark, Officer Louis Keller of the South Bend police fought grimly to his death last night.

Shortly before midnight Keller noticed the back door of a cigar store unlocked and the inside lights extinguished. The policeman went in to investigate and a bullet whizzed past his head. A fusilade followed. A moment later the door opened and out rushed five men, leaving Keller shot through the heart, dead, on the floor behind them. Officer Derrent had just come up and one of the men ran into his arms. Derrent found him to be mortally wounded, one of Keller's bullets having passed through his abdomen. He gave his name as Jack Burke of New York.

Four more of the burglars were captured—Robert Powers, James Burns, Frank O'Connor and Frank Monroe—all said to be Eastern crooks, whose field of operations has been Montreal and Buffalo. Burke in his dying statement said that he fired the shot that killed Keller.

Occident at Home.

Never has Occident Hall, Queen and Bathurst-streets, contained a more brilliant assembly than on the occasion of the annual at home of Occident Lodge, No. 546, A.F. & A.M., G.R.C. The guests numbered 300, and everything went off splendidly. The lodge room was artistically decorated. The refreshments were supplied by Bro. Tasker, caterer. The feature of the entertainment was the rendering of selections by the Toronto Hand Bell Ringers, under the leadership of Bro. E. J. Cashmore.

An excellent concert was held in the Blue Room, the following taking part: Mr. W. Dunn, Mr. F. Broomhall, Mrs. Lillie, Master Willie Whitesides, Miss Cahoun, Mr C. McGreath, Bro. J. Alexander, Miss Siddell, W. Bro. F. M. Bell-Smith and Harry Bennet. Mr. Bohme had charge of the phonograph. The piano was ably presided over by Miss Good, assisted by Mr. W. Dunn. At the close of the concert dancing was indulged in. The committee was composed of the following brethren: W. Bro. E. J. B. Duncan, W. M. V. W. Bro. J. R. Dunn, chairman; Bro. W. J. A. Lake, treasurer; Bro. J. Muir, secretary; W. Bro. T. W. Barber, V. W. Bro. E. M. Donovan, W. Bro. F. Prince, Bro. H. G. Brown, Bro. G. V. Foster, Bro. T. Barber and Bro. A. Gourlay.

Two ways
to use up clothes—rubbing them on a washboard, and washing them with harmful things. Unless you want to waste money, don't do either. Use Pearline. Use Pearline rightly, and there's no washboard needed. No rubbing to speak of. No wear. No hard work. As for the safety and utter harmlessness of Pearline, let its twenty years of uninterrupted and constantly-growing success talk. Anything that hurts or weakens the clothes couldn't be used, year in and year out, by millions of careful women. 555
Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled; if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back.

Dear Sir,—The profit sharing plan of the Klondike Exploration Company (Limited), of London, Ont., is so well arranged that the shareholders and promoters, in a company organizing with headquarters to be at Toronto, have abandoned the hope of carrying their company through. They think the plan of your company the best in the market, and have taken the stock of the Klondike Exploration Company to fill the many orders they had taken. Wishing you success, I remain, yours respectfully,
