Medical aid was at once summoned, but before the doctor arrived he died.

The funeral of the late Robert Vance took place at Ingersoll on Friday with full Masonic honors by the members of King Hiram Lodge, of which the deceased was a past master. The band of the "D" School of Infantry, London, headed the procession, which was nearly a mile long. Mr. Vance was born at Wigton, Scotland, in 1835, and came to Canada when 18 years of age. In 1860 he started a confectionery business in Ingersoll, which he conducted until his retirement, about a year ago. He leaves a widow and six children to mourn his loss.

The other day while digging for a drain near Parke, Davis & Co.'s new laboratory, Windsor, Charles Coste, when only about eighteen inches deep, came across the skeleton of what must have been an immense Indian. The remains were in a sound state, the teeth being exceptionally firm and white. Close by was found his stone-headed pipe, which had apparently been much used, as the inside of the bowl was charred as if burt by tobacco. It is conjectured that the Indian must have been buried there upwards of a century ago.

At noon on Monday Timothy Ryan, the 12-year-old son of Patrick Ryan, laborer, St. Thomas, was gored by a heifer, and received probably fatal injuries. He was chased by the animal and gored, the horns piercing the abdomen, tearing a frightful gash. Before attacking young Ryan the heifer made a rush at Charles Smith, son of J. B. Smith. Mr. Smith saved himself by catching the infuriated brute by the horns and holding on, but he was thrown over a fence and had his back hurt very badly. A doctor was summoned to attend young Ryan, but at last accounts there was very little hope entertained of the boy's recovery.

James Sackrider, who is supposed to be insane, left his daughter's place at Currie's Crossing, on the 1st of June, and has not been heard of since. His relatives have done everything in their power to learn his whereabouts, but without success. Mr. Sackrider is worth about $5,000, and has only one child, Mrs. E. Tucker, of Currie's Crossing. Mr. John Sackrider, of Burgessville, is a brother of the missing man. The following is a pretty accurate description of the man: He wore a light suit of clothes, cap, and a full beard, tinged with gray. He has a scar on his nose and another on his forehead; is 5 feet 8 or 9 inches in height, and his left hand is partially paralyzed.

NILESTOWN.

A. Barnard, while fishing in the Foster pond Saturday toward night, was treated to a free boat ride by a large member of the finny tribe back and forth over the waters. He got the fish near the boat once, but it eluded capture by getting free from the hook, when it sped away—it may be to tantalize some other fisherman that may try those waters.

An intoxicated man came here from London the other day, and going up to a gentleman on the street, much to his annoyance and disgust, began to rapturously hug him about the neck.

Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Kingslake, was calling here of late.

Mrs. W. B. Fluelling, of St. Thomas, reached here (her mother's home) on Saturday.

Mr. John and Miss M. Goble, of Ingersoll, and a lady friend of London, were the guests during the past week of Mrs. M. Jackson.

Mr. Irwin Piggott, another Ingersollite, spent the Sabbath here.

STRATHROY.

J. T. Vokes, of Strathroy, last week while walking along the 2 R. S. of Ekfrid, was bitten by a dog who came up slowly behind him and seized his left leg, sending his teeth through the skin. But little notice was taken of the bite until he returned home, when he found strange pains shooting up his left side. He immediately called for advice on Dr. McCabe, who dressed the wound. It is hoped no serious results will follow. He thinks the dog should be destroyed along with many other useless curs that run at large through town and country, to the annoyance and danger of travelers.

On Saturday, while A. Meekison's delivery wagon was about to start out on its rounds, the driver by some means cranked or locked the wheels, which had the effect of sending the hind wheels up in the air and scattering the groceries, brooms, etc., all over the street. The horse run away and smashed the wagon, and to make matters worse a dog belonging to a hotel man ran after the horse and caught his hind legs with his teeth. The principal regret is that the horse did not kick the dog and finish him, as the town is overrun with them and the Town Council refuse to put the bylaw in force so as to have dogs muzzled.

The semi-weekly open air meeting, held under the auspices of the Templars of Temperance Lodge, on account of the inclemency of the weather was held in the Front Street Church. Rev. Dayfoot delivered an able address to a fair audience. He held that as we had prohibition for two days in the week, and at other time, he could see no reason why we could not obtain it altogether; he believed in holding on to the license laws, as it was much better to regulate the traffic than to have free whisky. He also referred to the local option law just passed, whereby we can prohibit the sale in our town as well as in villages and townships. His watchword was to fight the monster until the time arrived for total prohibition, and paid a very high tribute to the teaching of temperance in the public schools.

Some time ago the Templars of Temperance organized a lodge of that order here. The temperance sentiment has grown so lately that their numbers have increased so as to compel them to vacate their present lodge room, the Orange Hall. They have therefore rented and fitted up a hall over Mr. Scott's store, 50x25, and intend opening it on Wednesday, Aug. 13. The lodge now numbers nearly 150 members.

The ADVERTISER has a large circulation here. On Saturday one of the newsboys sold 50 copies alone, so that if all the others did in proportion over 150 copies must have been sold. It is an admitted fact that the ADVERTISER is a very newsy and spicy paper, and has the right moral tone about it.

BEE-KEEPING AND FOUL BROOD.

Bee keeping is attaining great magnitude in this Province. The Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association was organized in 1880 and has a membership of over 300. Of course large numbers not members are engaged in the business of producing honey. The officers for 1890 are: President, Allen Pringle, Selby; vice-president, F. A. Gemmell, Stratford. Directors—District No. 1, W. J. Brown, Chard; No. 2, J. K. Darling, Almonte; No. 3, M. B. Holmes, Athens; No. 4, C. W. Post, Murray; No. 5, S. Corneil, Lindsay; No. 6, W. Couse, Streetsville; No. 7, A. Picket, Nassagaweya; No. 8, F. A. Rose, Balmoral; No. 9, Martin Emigh, Holbrook; No. 10, R. McKnight, Owen Sound; No. 11, J. B. Aches, Poplar Hill; No. 12, Peter Bussey, Cottam; No. 13, F. H. Macpherson, Beeton; secretary, W. Couse, Streetsville; treasurer, R. McKnight, Owen Sound. Auditors — D. Anguish, Brantford; R. F. Holterman, Romney.

Secretary Blue, of the Ontario Bureau of Industries, has just sent out a bulletin prepared by a committee of the Bee-Keepers' Association, entitled "Foul Brood Among Bees: Its Causes, Management and Cure." The bulletin covers 30 pages and embraces an introductory article by Allen Pringle, exhaustive papers on "Foul Brood" by D. A. Jones and Wm. McEvoy, and a copy of the new Ontario Act for suppressing this terrible apiary disease. In his introduction, Mr. Pringle says:

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association in January of this year (1890) the question of foul brood among bees was discussed, and as the disease was known to be spreading in Western Ontario it was decided to seek legislation from the Ontario Government to aid in its suppression. In a paper which the writer read to the meeting on "The Sunshine and Shadow of Apiculture" the following passage occurred:

"To avoid the origination of foul brood or less formidable diseases in your own yard attend to sanitation. Keep yard and hives clean, and never uncap or behead drones in a weak colony where they are liable to rot instead of being carried out."

Mr. F. A. Gemmill, of Stratford, having suffered much from foul brood through the negligence, or what is worse, the perversity, of a few neighboring bee-keepers, seized this opportunity at the conclusion of the paper to bring the subject before the meeting, and urged that steps be taken by the association to secure an act from the Ontario Legislature. To this end a deputation consisting of the president and the vice-president of the society was appointed by the meeting to draft a bill covering the desired legislation and await upon the Minister of Agriculture—the Hon. Charles Drury—to urge its passage through the Legislature, then about to meet. The result of this was the "Act for the Suppression of Foul Brood Among Bees," which is printed in full in this pamphlet, and which every bee-keeper in Ontario ought to read carefully, so that, knowing the law, he may obey it for his own benefit as well as that of others. On behalf of the Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association, and, indeed, of all Canadian bee-keepers, I beg here to record our thanks to the Minister of Agriculture, and our appreciation of the kind and valuable service rendered us by him in obtaining the passage of this act, which is perhaps the best of its kind in the world. Under its provisions, it became the duty of the O. B. K. A. through its board to appoint a foul brood inspector and sub-inspector. A meeting of the Board of Directors was accordingly called and Mr. William McEvoy, of Woodburn, was duly appointed first inspector under the act. Mr. S. Bray, of Alliston, was appointed sub-inspector. As many Ontario bee-keepers were doubtless unaware of the existence of the recent act, and quite ignorant of the causes and treatment of foul brood, it was thought advisable by the Board to prepare a pamphlet on foul brood (which had been suggested by Mr. Gemmill at the annual meeting) including a copy of the act, and send it out to all Ontario bee-keepers whose names and addresses could be obtained. In pursuance of this a committee consisting of F. A. Gemmill, F. H. Macpherson, D. A. Jones and the writer was appointed to look after the pamphlet. As the association was not in a position financially to bear the expense of such an undertaking, and as the matter in hand affected a large class of agricultural bee-keepers, it was decided to ask the assistance of the Department of Agriculture. The committee accordingly interviewed the Minister, who kindly consented to issue the work as an official bulletin provided we furnished the manuscript ready for the printer, with a list of the names and addresses of Ontario bee-keepers. This we agreed to do, and the writer was delegated by the other members of the committee to arrange the matter for pamphlet and edit the manuscript."

The act clothes the inspector with large powers in ordering the destruction of diseased colonies or infected appliances, and imposes very severe penalties (fines running as high as $100) against those who violate its provisions. Bee-keepers or others aware of the existence of the disease are required immediately to notify the president of the Bee-Keepers' Association or be liable to a fine of $5 and costs. The severer penalties are directed against the selling or bartering of diseased colonies, etc., or interfering with the inspector in the discharge of his duties. The ADVERTISER recommends every bee-keeper who has not seen a copy of this bulletin to send for it at once to Mr. A. Blue, secretary Bureau of of Industries, Toronto, Ont. As to the nature of the disease and modes of treatment, the ADVERTISER not long ago gave considerable information from a bulletin issued by Prof. A. J. Cook, of Michigan.
