Wheat Crop in Michigan.—The Detroit Advertiser of the 28th ult. says: "A friend informs us, who has just returned from a tour to Grand River, that the crops of wheat of the present season will exceed in quantity the total amount raised for the three past years. Corn and oats are equally abundant. This year Michigan will export to the east, in lieu of purchasing half a million from Ohio."

The Collector of the Port of New York has published the late Act of Congress for the better security of the lives of passengers in steam vessels, and given notice that so far as the execution of it devolves on him, it will be rigidly enforced. One of the most important steps in the execution of the law, is the appointment by the District Judge of each district, of suitable persons competent to examine the boats and machinery, on whose certificate the public may rely for the safety of the boats. The law requires that the certificate shall be exacted by the Collectors on or before the first of October next.—Boston Daily Adv.

Harlem Rail Road.—It is stated that the receipts on the Harlem Rail Road during the last month, were over $11,000, and as the average price of passage is not over 10 cents, more than 100,000 persons must have passed during that time.—N. Y. American.

CARL KING'S PRESENT TO QUEEN VICTORIA.—The return of the Great Western has bro't us the news of the beautiful bonnet sent by the celebrated Carl King of New York, to the Queen of England. As soon as the Western reached England, Captain Hosken opened a correspondence with Lord John Russell, Secretary of State for the Home Department, relative to that Bonnet. His Lordship notified Her Majesty—she wrote a beautiful complimentary letter;—the bonnet was sent on to the Queen, and no less than three dozen ladies of the English Nobility forwarded back orders and complimentary letters to the celebrated Carl King and his lovely lady for bonnets of the same style. Carl is a lucky dog! This King has given the Queen a bonnet. The Queen has given the King a smile of approval, and the Ladies and the Queen will make this King's fortune.—N. Y. Herald.

Benefit to the United States of Atlantic Steam Navigation.—Mr. James R. Wilson, President of the Tioga Navigation Company, went out in the Great Western, arrived in London in fourteen days, succeeded in negotiating a loan for the Company over which he presides, on very favourable terms; contracted for iron for constructing their railroad; saw the lions of the British metropolis, and returned in the Great Western; being absent exactly six weeks. We congratulate the Company on the success of their agent, and the country on the advantages which will be derived from the increased introduction of British capital which steam navigation will bring among us.—Phil. Gazette.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Aug. 3.—Wm. C. Anthony and others, versus Cargo of Ship Mersey.—This was a libel for Salvage. The facts set forth in the libel were as follows:—The fishing smack General Jackson, of Marblehead, while pursuing her voyage to the Banks on the 19th of April last, descried in distress the ship Mersey, Capt. Bainbridge, of and from Liverpool, for St. John, N. B. The master hailed the Mersey and offered assistance; his offer was accepted, and he was requested to carry the crew to St. John; this he declined, but engaged to take them to Marblehead. Capt. Anthony received the company of the Mersey, being about 25 men, with as many goods as his vessel could contain, amounting by the appraisal to $2000 worth. After three days they hailed the ship Mozambique, bound for St. John, which took off the master and crew of the Mersey. The smack proceeded to Marblehead with the goods, and on her arrival they were libelled for salvage. It was also alledged in the libel, and proved at the hearing, that the delay occasioned by this salvage service had caused a loss to the fishermen of one fare of fish, which, according to the testimony, was a loss of not less than $2000. The duties on the goods amounted to $640,35. The gross amount of sales were $2187, 46. The Court decreed to the Salvors three-fifths of the amount after deducting duties, and that all costs should be paid from the remaining two-fifths, so that the Salvors will receive nearly $900, and the Claimants about $600.—Boston Patriot.

THE BRITISH ARMY.—Nothing can exceed the high state of discipline for which the army is distinguished; the administration is perfect in all its parts, and the manner of conducting duty, from the highest to the lowest, is exemplary in the extreme. The utmost urbanity, totally free from foreign martinet pedantry, marks all the orders and communications from the superior to the inferior ranks. The best spirit and disposition pervade all classes; and subordination has taken so firm a root in the service as to set all attempts to shake it completely at defiance. In the most distant parts of our vast possessions—on the shores of the Ganges, and at the foot of the Himalaya—by the ocean lakes of Canada, and in the humblest of the Carribean Isles—in the wilderness of the Cape, and the forests of Australia, duty is as regularly performed, and the rights and comforts of the soldier are as well attended to, as within sight of the Horse Guards. The whole of this magnificent system of discipline depends upon the word and signature of the officers, the truth of which is never known to fail; and it is the high and perfect sense of honour which pervades all classes that can alone perserve the efficiency of an army scattered over every part of the earth. The world has never seen any thing so perfect as this chain of discipline; its establishment and preservation reflect the highest credit on the authorities, who, by their noble conduct, have redeemed so many evils in our military system, and counteracted so much injurious influence constantly exerted to the prejudice of the army. Our empire extends to every quarter of the globe, and the sun never sets within the bounds of our dominions; and yet, even in these times, when all civilized nations have learned to assemble and wield their forces with a promptness and efficiency never dreamed of by our immediate ancestors, less than a hundred thousand British soldiers, a smaller army than second-rate continental states keep on foot, maintain the power and supremacy of their country, unshaken and unassailed, to the utmost verge of these gigantic possessions. It is a noble task nobly performed, and no honor to those engaged in the arduous duty. Feeble in number, scattered on so many distant points, the fame and character of the troops can alone keep nobitious and jealous rivals in check. But all who might be disposed to attack the few know the determined resolution of the men: they know that aid from weakness or treachery is not to be expected; that nothing can be anticipated from a combat against such soldiers but the fierce life and death struggle, the prospect of which, fortunately, makes even the boldest pause.—Monthly Chronicle for June.

79th HIGHLANDERS.—The united services of nine men of the 79th Highlanders, about to be discharged at Chatham, amount to 265 years—they are all Waterloo men—some of them were present at the battle of Copenhagen, and shared in the glories of the Peninsular war. There are only two officers and five men remaining in the regiment, who were at Waterloo.

PROSPECTUS.

3d. That Ten per Cent. be required to be paid on the fifteenth day of September next.

6th. That Subscriptions and Donations be solicited, in behalf of the Church, to secure accommodation for the Poor, and others who are not able to purchase Pews, or who may be strangers;—for whose benefit the whole Gallery will be devoted to free Seats.

And all Donations shall be considered as bestowed freely, to make up for the loss occasioned by the free seats of the Gallery, as there will be no annual fund coming from Pew Rents: and no shareholder, in any future division of the funds, in any manner raised, is to be entitled to have repaid to him, or allowed in the purchase of Pews, any greater amount than he paid for each share, in order that the overplus funds, if any, may be devoted to the purpose of supporting a Minister, maintaining the Meeting House, Insurance on the Building, and other purposes connected with the prosperity of the Church.
