THE CURLING SEASON.

INAUGURATION BY THE TORONTO CLUB.

President McGaw Entertains the Members to Beef and Greens—Victory of the President Over the Vice-President.

President Thos. McGaw treated about forty members of the Toronto curling club to beef and greens in one of the large rooms over the Adelaide street rink building last night. He had succeeded during the afternoon in defeating with his four rinks of players an equal number of Vice-President May's by 2 shots. After full justice had been done to the substantial fare, the usual toasts were drunk in good style. Speeches were made by the president, vice-president, Delegate Pringle of the Caledonians and others.

The match in the afternoon was closely contested and proved that this annual trial of skill is yearly becoming more popular:

In the evening after dinner the members took to the ice again. A magnificent portrait of the late Capt. Perry, which was painted by Forbes, the artist, and which has just been hung up in the club rooms came in for a large share of attention.

A Good Age for a Pony.

Mr. A. Andrews of Eglinton has a pony 37 years old. She has been in his possession nearly 20 years, and was supposed to be about 18 years old when purchased by him. She was well known in the city, having been one of a span Mr. Andrews used to drive. The pony is in excellent condition and can eat both hay and oats, and is as lively as a colt when turned loose in the paddock. She is perfectly sound, stands under 13 hands, and has trotted a mile in 3 minutes and 10 seconds. She has been a little wonder. Mr. Andrews is very proud of her and has pensioned her for life.

General Notes.

McArthur, late of the Syracuse and Toledo clubs, has signed with the Clippers as pitcher for next season.

The Caledonian curlers of Hamilton have opened their season with matches with the Dundas and West Flamboro' clubs, beating the former by 26 to 20 and suffering defeat by the latter by 40 to 32. Two rinks a side played in each case.

A novel race took place at the Alhambra rink, Syracuse, N.Y., last evening, before a number of spectators. The contestants were Chas. E. Courtney and Wallace Ross, who propelled themselves upon rowing machines recently invented by Courtney. They skipped along at a lively rate, the Union Springs oarsman winning a two-mile spin by a length in 13 minutes 30 seconds.

The Rochesters (N.Y.) have engaged Horner, pitcher, and Warner, catcher, of Baltimore, also formerly of Toronto, with Visner, change catcher; also Kennedy, first base; Joe Quest, second base; Whitney, third base; Meyers, shortstop; Jones, left field; Kenzie, centre field; Vandyke, right field. Horner will have to quit the racket he played here or Frank Bancroft will quickly quit him.

It is understood that all the members of the Toronto baseball nine have been engaged, excepting one, it being the intention not to sign the twelfth man just yet, the round dozen constituting the list of engagements. Following is the team as it stands: Humphries and Dell Darling, catchers; Wm. Veach, John A. Davis, E. D. Emslie, pitchers; Jay Faatz, first base; Fred Macklin, second base; Frank Spill, third base; Gus P. Albert, short stop; Chas. Osterhout, right field; Jonathan Morrison, centre field.

Worth Knowing.

The Mackenzie-Rolph Controversy.

Editor World: The Globe of to-day has an article under this heading in which it refers to a letter received from me—a triplicate of that published in the Mail and World of Saturday. It says "that the whole controversy is as to who was most active and influential in opposition to the tory family compact." That, I respectfully submit, is not what the controversy was about.

The real question is, whether the charge of treachery to Mackenzie, Baldwin and their friends, preferred by a correspondent of the Mail against Dr. Rolph, is well founded. The Mail's correspondent produced evidence in support of his statements. Mr. T. T. Rolph, evidently speaking for Mr. Dent, the author of the "Story of the Rebellion," as well as for himself, and without offering a scintilla of evidence in reply, denied the charge in toto, and brought a counter charge of universal treachery against Mackenzie. It was this last statement particularly which called forth my letter in which I alleged, on good authority, that Mr. Dent had found in Dr. Rolph's private papers "the most damning proofs of Rolph's treachery to Mackenzie."

The controversy has in fact broadened out into a question of the honesty and good faith of the author and his narrative. If Mr. Dent found such proofs of Rolph's treachery, and I am satisfied he did, no language is too strong, even at this stage of the "Story," in condemnation of the author and his book. I don't think Mackenzie was faultless, but I do say that he has been most unfairly dealt with in this narrative, and I shall very soon convince the public of this, if they are not fully convinced already. I shall also have something to say about John Rolph, the only perfect personage in Mr. Dent's gallery of "personalities."

I agree with the Globe that "different views may with perfect honesty be held over the relative merits of two such men." But what should be said about Mr. Dent's "honesty," in view of the statements in my last letter that are as yet unanswered?

Berlin, January 11. JOHN KING.

In the Police Court Yesterday.

Annie McDonald, a confirmed drunk, $20 and costs or 30 days. Thomas Benson, four months in the Central prison for stealing a pair of pants. Charles Jones was sentenced to 30 days, and Frank Wilkinson to 40 days for stealing bacon that was hung up outside a Yonge street provision store. Edmund E. "Hayfork" Jones was handed over to St. Thomas authorities, to answer a charge of fraud in that city. Daniel Slattery, fined $4 and costs for smashing windows in Whale's hotel.

"THE RIVAL QUEENS."

Rev. Lyman Abbott, of New York, Talks About Mary and Elizabeth.

Shaftesbury hall was well filled last night by an audience composed principally of members of Chautauqua literary circles, to listen to a lecture by one of the original founders of the institution, Rev. Lyman Abbott, of New York, well known as editor of the Christian Union and a forcible writer on the labor and Indian questions and similar topics. His subject last evening was "The Rival Queens"—Mary and Elizabeth. He first pictured the state of the nation in the time of Henry VIII., during whose reign a political, ecclesiastical and religious reformation was effected, the latter brought about by Wycliffe and Tyndall. Glancing at the reign of "Bloody Mary," she was described as being a woman that fanatic, ambition and disappointment in love had spoiled. Three hundred persons were destroyed in her reign. Queen Elizabeth, the lecturer held, was not a lawful occupant of the throne, inasmuch as Anne Boleyn, her mother, was not the legal wife of Henry VIII. She deserves the sobriquet of good Queen Bess only by comparison with her royal predecessors. Politically, she was a Protestant; religiously, a Romanist. She struggled against the supremacy of the Pope as well as against absolute religious liberty. Referring to Mary Queen of Scots, Dr. Abbott asserted that there is no character in history more unscrupulously wicked, except Jezebel of Israel. She was as treacherous to her nation as to her husband and she suffered the usual fate of a traitor. Her school was in the corrupt court of France, to which she secretly signed away her Scottish throne. The death of Rizzio, the Jesuit musician, was graphically described, as well as the murder of Darnley which proved that vengeance was dear to Mary. She ceased, however, to be a rival queen on the day that Darnley was killed. Only a short time ensued before she was taken to England a prisoner and the block ended her romantic life.

Hon. G. W. Ross occupied the chair and Mr. L. C. Peake expressed the thanks of the audience to Dr. Abbott for his lecture.

Amusement Notes.

The World cannot speak in too high terms of Prof. D. M. Bristol's drove of trained horses now being exhibited at the Grand opera house. The entertainment is simply wonderful. There will be a matinee this afternoon for ladies and children, and it is to be hoped they will turn out in hundreds to see the Professor and his horses, mules and ponies. The little ones would never forget the sight. At the conclusion of the entertainment the Professor will invite the children on the stage and they will be treated to a ride on horseback. The performance is a real marvel.

The Amateur Christy Minstrels will shortly appear in public again. They have a new and fine program in full rehearsal every Wednesday and Friday evening under Mr. Schuch's direction, and number many new and good voices, so that an interesting performance may be expected.

There will be a grand march at the Adelaide street roller rink to-night.

A Domestic's Claim for Wages.

Before Mr. Justice Rose at the civil assizes yesterday the first case heard was Leveridge v. Robinson, a suit instituted by Ettie Leveridge, 21, one of Miss Rye's girls, to recover $400 for wages with interest alleged to have been due her by William J. Robinson, formerly of Lindsay but now of this city. The jury gave a verdict for plaintiff for $176. Brown v. Phipps was an action for $1000 damages for alleged slander. The plaintiff, William Brown, and the defendant, John Phipps, both reside on Spadina avenue, and the former claims that Phipps falsely accused him of stealing lumber. The jury allowed Brown one shilling and costs. Allan v. Porter was a case instituted to recover $200 damages on property on Lippincott street and $100 for assault. Evidence was heard and the court adjourned.

To-day's peremptory lists: Martens v. Billings, Ollendorff v. Toronto Street Railway Company, Macmillan v. Grand Trunk railway, Wyllie v. Toronto, Connor v. Cooper. Chief Justice Cameron will sit in the division court room to-morrow and following days to assist Judge Rose in disposing with the cases on the docket.

Final Meeting of the Waterworks Committee.

The waterworks committee held its final meeting for the year yesterday morning. There were present Ald. Walker (chairman), Hall, Frankland, Brandon, Mackenzie and Barton. The annual report of the superintendent stated that 2370 house services had been inserted during 1885, making the total number 21,077. Nearly five miles of pipe have been laid. The record of attendance at meetings stands: Ald. Walker (chair) 29, Ald. Barton 29, Ald. Lamb 28, Ald. Hunter 28, Ald. Sheppard 25, Ald. Mackenzie 24, Ald. Hall 21, Ald. Brandon 18, Ald. Smith 17, Ald. Taylor (for early part of year) 8, Ald. Frankland (for latter part of year) 17, Ald. Hastings (former part of year) 3, Ald. Saunders (latter part of year) 18, Ald. Gormley 14.

Redemptorist Fathers at Work in St. Mary's Parish.

For the past two weeks special services have been conducted at St. Mary's church by three Redemptorist priests, Fathers Leivritz, Biel and Frimpel. The first ten days the services were specially for women; those at present are only for men. To show the interest taken in these meetings there was an attendance of nearly 1000 at 5 o'clock mass yesterday morning, and last night over 1400 men and boys crowded into the building, when Father Leivritz delivered a stirring address, urging them to be true to their church and its precepts. The meetings will conclude Friday night, when the clergymen proceed to St. Paul, Minn. St. Mary's church is soon to be replaced by a $35,000 edifice, the chancel of which is at present being erected.

On Monday evening P. M. Patteson, supreme organizer, assisted by D. Dunlop, supreme guard, organized a large circle in the Oddfellows' hall, at Berkeley and Queen streets, with the following officers: Past leader, Samuel Francis; leader, W. S. Graham; vice-leader, John Forster; recording secretary, Geo. W. Dies; financial secretary, James Gorrie; treasurer, Samuel Mitchell; chaplain, S. T. Slade; marshal, I. C. Hoare; warden, George Brown; guard, C. Mainprice; sentinel, Francis Dale; medical examiner, Dr. James Bray.

Of Interest to the Boys Who Went to the "War."

During the long march of the Toronto volunteers across the gaps on the Canadian Pacific railway en route to the front last March, one of the halting places was at Port Munro, on Lake Superior, and all the troops from the east were barracked in a schooner, the Mary L. Breck, which was laying up in harbor there. That same craft now lies quartered for the winter at the foot of West Market street, within a stone's throw of the gathering place of our volunteers.

WHAT IS LLOYD'S?

A Question Often Asked Answered—The Greatest Marine Insurer.

From the Pittsburg Despatch.

What is Lloyd's? a question often asked, is thus answered by an English paper: The great marine insurer of the world. And yet it is not a joint stock company, nor a "limited" association, nor are its members bound together by any mutual interest. It is a perfectly anomalous institution, and yet the greatest of the kind the world ever saw. The rooms of Lloyd's are the rendezvous of the most eminent merchants, shipowners, underwriters, insurance brokers and bankers. The merchants' room is superintended by a shipmaster, who speaks a dozen languages or more, and welcomes business men from every nation. The captains' room is a coffee room where shipowners and sea captains meet together, transact business, and discuss the news. But it is the subscribers' room that makes Lloyd's the attraction it is. The 2100 underwriters and subscribers who pay their annual two guineas here, and their £25 initiation fee represent nearly the whole commercial wealth of England. Lloyd's itself does not insure; it is only the members of Lloyd's. You wish to insure £10,000 on a venture to the Bermudas. Your broker goes to Lloyd's and proposes, naming ship and cargo. An underwriter turns to the register, ascertaining how the vessel is rated, speaks to two or three others, and then says to the broker, "Yes, we will do it at one-eighth of one." "Who signs?" asked the broker, "Magnay, Richardson, Coleman, Thomson and myself." "That will do," replies the broker, who, while the clerk makes out the policy, proposes again and again for other ventures. "Is this considered perfectly safe?" does the reader ask. Perfectly. The broker knows his men. Besides, to fail to meet a loss forfeits forever all right to do business at Lloyd's. There is no other marine insurance regarded so safe.

The Toronto Harbor Trust.

Harbor Master Baldwin presented his report for 1885 at the annual meeting of the harbor commissioners on Monday afternoon. The report showed the total receipts for harbor dues to amount to $7597, an increase of $500 over the previous year. The following is a list of vessels in winter quarters at this port:

Sir Richard Cartwright Elected President of the Reform Club.

The first annual meeting of the Reform club was held in the new club house on Wellington street west (Mayor Manning's late residence) yesterday afternoon. Considerable routine and private business was transacted. Sir Richard Cartwright was elected president, and Mr. Kenneth D. Miller secretary. The club starts out with a membership of over 500. The club house is being elaborately furnished, and the privileges of the same will be open to members on and after Wednesday of next week. The formal opening and housewarming takes place on Jan. 28, the date of the opening of the legislature.

House Cleaning at the Parliament Buildings.

The annual application of paint and the use of brooms and dusters in the dingy old corridors of the parliament buildings is actively under way in view of the opening of the house on the 28th. A load of short logs has been deposited in one of the back yards for use in the big grate in the smoking room, and the cobwebs in the speaker's reception room have received formal notice to quit.

A Crematory for Toronto.

A number of gentlemen are talking of building a crematory in or near Toronto. They will probably apply for letters of incorporation in a few days. One has been erected in Buffalo. The Episcopal and Roman Catholic bishops are against it while some members of other denominations favor it.

The Northwest Loot.

The government have been making inquiries into charges of looting in connection with the late unpleasantness in the Northwest and a commission will likely be named to sift the matter to the bottom. Those who have theirs still hid ought to keep it dark.

Mrs. Villard Could Not Act as Barmaid

From the Woman's Journal.

Mrs. Fanny Garrison Villard, the wife of Henry Villard, was recently asked by the Crown Princess of Germany to take the part of an English barmaid at a fancy fair in which that lady was deeply interested. The Princess and Mrs. Villard are on intimate terms, and the former meant to offer her friend a compliment by the invitation, not knowing that the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, like her father, is a total abstainer. Mrs. Villard, although conscious that requests from the royal family are considered commands, declined the intended honor. She expressed her cheerful willingness to aid the fair, which was a charitable object, but not in that way. The Princess, on learning the American lady's feelings, apologized. Total abstinence in Berlin, or in any part of Germany, is so rare that nobody is ever suspected of being its advocate.

Forests that are Worth More Than Gold

From the Florida Herald.

The eyes of the northern mill men are turning eagerly to the comparatively virgin forests of the south, and heavy sales of timbered land are constantly being announced. If the ravenous saw must be fed, and no better and cheaper material than wood can be devised, then the people of the south should not dispose of their heritage for a mere pittance of its actual value. These huge tracts of yellow pine can be converted into yellow gold, and should not be sacrificed as a worthless possession. We should make the most of our opportunities, and not yield too readily to the pressure of greenbacks. These huge areas of undisturbed trees are daily enhancing in value and importance as the supply in the North and West diminishes. It is idle to talk of the "inexhaustible" forests of the South, when Mr. Little of Montreal, an authority on the subject, estimates that the sawing capacity of the North is sufficient to consume the merchantable pine of this state in less than a year. The South possesses mines of wealth in her noble forests, and they should not be disposed of carelessly, and without a full appreciation of their true and real value.

The English Hangman.

Berry, the English hangman, is a tall, respectable-looking man, with the appearance of a mechanic. He is a shoemaker by trade, but does not work now, as the executioner is well paid. He gets $50 a head, or, when there are more than one, $50 for the first, $25 for the second and $25 for the third, with all his expenses paid. The first essential is nerve, and Berry has nerve. Binns, who preceded him, was a braggart, and liked publicity. He would smoke his pipe outside half an hour before an execution, and drink, and had an active tongue. Now the executioner is obliged to sleep in jail the night before a hanging. Calcraft, who was hangman for so many years, was also a shoemaker, and, like Berry, a quiet, retiring man.
