RAILWAYS TO RUN ON STANDARD TIME

But Several Commuters' Trains May Adopt Daylight Saving.

CONFUSION IS LIKELY

"What train do you want, lady?" Officials are not always as polite as this, but we will assume that this question was asked at the train wicket at the Union Station. The lady in question, a Torontonian, is one of many who intend taking the 5.30 commutation train to G. some time next week. This scene is being enacted about 5 p.m., daylight saving time, in this city.

"I want the 5.30 to G," she replies, at the same time moving forward thru the wicket.

"Sorry, you can't go thru yet, lady. The train is not made up for another hour."

This is one of many similar scenes which will be enacted after next Sunday, when Toronto adopts the daylight saving measure. The railways who are forced to run trains so as to connect with the international and other Canadian lines, are not in a position to adopt the measure, and will continue to run on standard time.

"We have no alternative in the matter," C. E. Horning, district passenger agent of the Grand Trunk, told The World. "The only way in which the railroads could conform to daylight saving is by having that measure made national, or rather international. As it stands now Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston and a few other cities are virtually the only points in the Dominion where it will be observed. The farming centres are opposed to it, as are many of the smaller cities.

"Here's one case that will serve as an example. A train leaves one of the smaller cities in the Georgian Bay district at 5.30 in the morning, standard time, and arrives here about noon. This district is opposed to daylight saving, and you can imagine how overjoyed they would be to have to get up an hour earlier to catch a train at 4.30 just to accommodate Torontonians."

Commuters' Trains.

"Yes, but what about commutation trains?" he was asked. "Won't you be able to do something about them?"

"Well, practically speaking, we have no commutation trains," was the answer. "There are certain thru trains, which the commuters use, but they also have to make connections with trains from other points. However, we are now considering certain changes, but it is too early to give out any information."

"You will continue to run these commuters' trains on standard time?"

"Yes, for the present," was the reply. "In any event we cannot change train time on any line without ten days' notice, as provided by the railway board. Daylight saving going into effect in this city next week will not make any difference with us."

It is understood that one of the trains running between Hamilton and Toronto may run on daylight saving time.

With only one exception, all the trains on the C.P.R. will adhere to standard time.

"The only commuter's train which will be changed," said a C.P.R. official, "will be the passenger train from Guelph Junction to Toronto. This train at present arrives here at 8.23 a.m. and you can readily see that under daylight saving, when it would arrive at 9.23, it would be much too late for people to get to their work. Under the new schedule this train will arrive at 7.23 standard time, and leave here at 4.40, instead of 5.40 p.m. It is going to make it very difficult if Hamilton adheres to standard time, as it did last year."

Courts to Decide.

Many of the bigger industries and commercial houses of the city have not yet made a decision as to whether daylight saving will be adopted. For that matter neither have the courts, altho it is expected that the question will be decided by the latter some time this week, at a meeting of the judges in Osgoode Hall.

President Thomas Findley of the Massey-Harris Company, stated that his firm had not yet taken the matter into consideration. "It will depend largely on what the workingmen want done," he said. "However, if daylight saving is adopted, it may mean that the shipping department employes would have to work on standard time to conform with the railway schedules."

Manager R. J. Fleming of the Toronto Street Railway Company assured The World that the street cars would run on daylight saving time. This was somewhat of a shock to the reporter, who was not aware that the trolleys ran on any time.

Chief Inspector Cowley of the board of education said that in all probability the Toronto schools would observe the new time. Pupils hail this information with delight, as it gives them more daylight for sports and athletics.

His worship Mayor Church, acting on the instructions of the city council, is issuing a proclamation today asking all citizens of Toronto to observe daylight saving, starting at 2 a.m. on Sunday.

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die," will be the subject of Judge Rutherford's lecture at Massey Hall, Sunday, May 2, at 3 p.m.

"I want the statement: 'Millions now living will never die,' to be taken literally, as it is in the light of recently fulfilled prophecy, a provable Biblical proposition."—Judge Rutherford.

STORY-TELLING AN ART IN EVERY LAND

At the meeting of the Women's Art Association yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Horace Parsons gave an interesting talk on the "Art of Story Telling." That every country has story telling as its heritage thru various mediums was the statement of the speaker. Chaucer and the minstrel bards were mentioned in this connection. In telling the story to a child, the one who relates the narrative must herself be filled with its truth, sufficient at least to make it forceful. There should never be any hesitancy in the relation. The story, while not necessarily true—as the fairy story—should teach truth, but should not teach a moral, tho the moral is often there. Books, new and old, were spoken of as helps in developing the art.

An exhibition of portraits in oil by Mrs. H. R. Jarvis was on view.

FIRM HAS CLAIM ON AMBROSE SMALL

Cannot Serve Writ or Even Find Solicitors as Substitutes for Missing Man.

A KNOTTY PROBLEM

An application was made before Judge Denton yesterday by Gordon N. Shaver of the firm of Price, Cochrane, Shaver & Parry, solicitors, on behalf of a departmental store, which have a claim of $419 against Ambrose J. Small, that a receiver be appointed for the estate of the missing millionaire. Mr. Shaver stated that the writ was issued in December last, but on account of Mr. Small's absence it has been impossible to serve it, and that the claimants fear it may be impossible to collect the debt if a receiver be not appointed.

Application had been made to serve Mrs. Small substitutionally, but the court had refused this.

Judge Denton suggested that a motion for substitutional service of the writ issued against Small on Mr. Small's solicitors be made, and that the motion for a receiver be left in abeyance until judgment was obtained. The judge promised to issue the order for substitutional service as soon as an affidavit was filed stating who the solicitors are. The motion was then adjourned.

Has No Solicitors.

From inquiries made by The World last night it will be a somewhat difficult matter to place Mr. Small's solicitors, and legally the judge cannot name anyone to act for him. Mr. Small had several firms of lawyers who have acted for him in various business matters, but as all these have been cleaned up and the cost as between solicitor and client paid, these solicitors cannot claim to be the missing man's lawyers, or in any way authorized to act on his behalf. Yesterday's action therefore appears to bring no one any further to obtaining an order to open Mr. Small's private safe in the Dominion Bank.

OPEN VERDICT IN TRUSTEE'S DEATH

Witness at C. A. B. Brown Inquest Thinks Car Was Ford Sedan.

SPEED LIMIT HIGH

The inquest into the death of the late C. A. B. Brown ended last night, when the coroner's jury brought in an open verdict against some party or parties at present unknown. The jury decided that Mr. Brown "came to his death on the 10th day of April, 1920, thru shock and injuries received by being struck on April 9th by a motor car driven at an excessive rate of speed, by a person unknown, in violation of the city bylaw respecting standing street cars."

The jury also recommended that the bylaw requiring all vehicles to stop before reaching standing street cars be strictly enforced. The members were agreed that the speed limit of 20 miles per hour is excessive for the city of Toronto.

Little New Evidence.

There was little new evidence brought out by the two witnesses who were heard last night. Dr. R. W. Emerson, 56 West King street, was driving south on St. George at the time of the fatality, and was the first to reach Mr. Brown. He assisted in carrying him to the sidewalk, and later taking him to the nearest physician's office, but could give no information regarding the car which struck Mr. Brown, except that he had the impression that it was a roadster with a fawn top. A. L. Wagner, 41 Wroxeter avenue, also gave evidence, but did not see the tragedy actually happen, and could give no information regarding the motor car. C. T. Newhouse, 55 Bay street, was prevented from attending by illness, but informed the police that his impression was that the car which struck Mr. Brown was a Ford sedan.

NEW MAP OF CANADA.

A "map of the Dominion of Canada indicating natural resources, transportation and trade routes," scale 100 miles to the inch, has just been published by the department of the interior.

On this map varieties of mineral, agricultural and fishery resources, and the timber and fur in general, are printed in red lettering in their proper locations. The sites of important waterpowers, developed and undeveloped, are indicated, and the lines of all railroads completed up to date are clearly defined.

The map can be obtained free of cost on application to The Superintendent, Natural Resources Intelligence Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

PROPOSE TO HURRY HOUSING PLANS

Mayor Will Ask Board Today to Permit Erection of Frame Residences.

GUILD NEEDED AT ONCE

At a special meeting of the board of control this morning Mayor Church will propose an amendment to the building bylaw to permit the erection of cheap houses, and will suggest that a special meeting of council be called to put it thru.

Speaking to the press yesterday, he said he had information that people were being turned out of their houses.

An appeal has been made to Mayor Church to allow soldiers who have been turned out to use a number of city buildings for storage room. His worship has given instructions that St. Andrew's Hall, the transportation building at the Exhibition grounds and several buildings belonging to the school board be made available.

Information Bureau.

A civic information housing bureau will be opened in the old Registry Building or city hall corridor, with a staff to adjust complaints and help those turned out of their houses, with a competent real estate and legal staff to give advice and secure aid for those in need of help and assistance.

A conference will be sought with the harbor commission to see if they can erect for the city with their organization, 300 to 500 houses on harbor property or other civic property or at Stanley Barracks property, some of frame, roughcast or brick at the city's expense, on account of the extreme urgency.

Owing to the alleged activity of bailiffs, in ejecting people, Mayor Church says the legislature will be asked to give the police commission power to license these officials so that they can be controlled.

"These people are much too active," said the mayor yesterday. He had heard, he said, of 15 to 20 ejecments. Mayor Church gave out the following statement yesterday:

Amendment to Bylaw.

"The mayor will move that the board of control recommend to council:

"(1) To amend the building bylaw in certain sections of the city, under the control of the city architect and the fire chief, to enable the construction of frame, rough-cast and other cheaper classes of houses, and that permission be given to build these small houses in parts, from time to time.

"(2) That Mr. Gunn and the Trades and Labor Council be empowered to erect a reasonable number of houses on the Trades and Labor Council's civic guild plans forthwith on tax sale lands already selected, and that the city give these lands to the guild for the charges against the same, the land to average from $20 to $25 per foot.

"(3) That the city lend some of these tax sale lands, or other lands left from the housing commission's operations to tenants who will build their own homes, with a small loan from the city, on plans prepared by the city architect.

Prepaing Plans.

"(4) The city architect is preparing a set of plans which should be ready in a few days, and I propose that tenders should be called for from the builders' exchange, or from other builders, for the erection of one thousand small houses, of various designs, of brick, roughcast and frame, immediately, and that any lands the city has, or can be acquired by negotiations, be used for this purpose, and also that a small section of some of the larger parks be made available for this purpose, if necessary and deemed advisable.

"(5) That the city secure the Krausman House, the Arlington Hotel, the demobilization building, at the Exhibition, St. Andrew's huts, old Givens and Park schools, and other old schools and buildings in the city, temporarily, and fit them up cheaply, with a view to renting them as a temporary policy to those who have been turned out of their houses.

"(6) The mayor suggests that the old housing commission organization, with Mr. Swaine as manager, be retained to assist the city architect in the administration of the aforesaid, and that the labor council's civic guild be formed immediately, and a special meeting of the council called to give effect to this program forthwith."

David L. Baumgarten Too Ill To Attend Larceny Hearing

Montreal, April 28.—David L. Baumgarten, whose extradition to the States on a charge of larceny in Boston is being fought out in the courts here, was too ill to attend the hearing today before Judge Choquet, extradition commissioner. Argument by the defence was heard, who claimed that the crime of larceny was unknown to the Canadian criminal code. The prosecution presented no argument, merely stating that Baumgarten was wanted in Boston on a larceny charge, and that he was considered to be a fugitive from justice.

Judge Choquet said he would render judgment tomorrow morning.

TEMPERANCE MEN HAIL REFERENDUM

Dr. Grant Would Have Vote Taken Under New Franchise Act.

DOUBTFUL OF ISSUE

The two temperance organizations of the province—the Dominion Alliance and the Referendum Committee—were naturally very much up in the air yesterday over what they term the wonderful majority recorded in the legislature for a referendum to make Ontario bone dry. Both organizations desire that the plebiscite should be taken at the end of June. This, however, may be delayed owing to the new Dominion franchise act, which has not yet passed the house of commons. And, then, again, it is said the authorities at Ottawa are not desirous of the vote being taken before August or September.

The Rev. Dr. Grant of the Referendum Committee explained yesterday that his committee wanted the vote taken under the new act. This may be brought about by June, and the committee are working to this end. Dr. Grant has no other belief than that the vote against the importation of intoxicating liquors into Ontario will be a large one, and the result will be a bone dry province.

The Dominion Alliance, who declare they will be in it when the fight comes, are unable to forecast what may be the result of the vote. They point out that the proposed referendum is quite a different matter to that initiated by the Hearst government, and in addition it can hardly be expected that as much enthusiasm will be shown over the new vote as in the last.

ST. SIMON'S BAZAAR.

In aid of St. Augustine's parish house a bazaar was opened yesterday at St. Simon's parish house. Fancy goods, home-made cooking and candies were offered for sale at attractive booths. Tea was served in the evening.

Canada Bread Company Makes an Apology to the Grocers of Toronto

Through an error on the part of the Canada Bread Publicity man in our big announcement in the daily press of the increase in the price of bread to the consumer, he intimated that the GROCER WOULD HAVE A SHARE IN THE INCREASE OF THE ONE CENT A LOAF. This was wrong---and we hasten to inform the public of the fact---and to express our sincere regret that such a statement should have been made over our name---for the GROCER DOES NOT RECEIVE ONE TITTLE OF THE INCREASE.

We apologize to the grocers of Toronto for having in any way conveyed any false impression.
