No Special Steps Taken to Quarantine Ships from New York.

Py Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Aug. 17.—No special steps are considered by the British government to be necessary in connection with the epidemic of infantile paralysis in New York, according to a statement made by Walter Hume Long, president of the local government board in the House of Commons yesterday. Proposals have been made in this connection to enforce a quarantine against the disease on ships from New York.

Mr. Long, who made his statement in reply to a question by Carlyon W. Bellaires, Unionist member for Maidstone, said that the government was fully acquainted with the facts regarding the epidemic in the United States. The disease, he added, had been known here for a considerable period, and the ordinary administration machinery for the protection of this country was adequate to deal with it. He did not consider any special steps called for.
