MONEY IN CHEESE.

In 1883 Ontario made $5,589,000 worth of cheese. This year the value of the product exceeds $15,000,000. How much of this fifteen millions will come to Kent, the best pastoral county in Canada? Very little? We have within our borders only two or three factories, whereas we ought to have two or three dozen. Middlesex, Oxford, Perth and Elgin, without half our advantages in that line, each make more cheese in one summer than Kent does in twenty years. And the greater part of the cheese product of the above named counties is sent to England, sold at good prices, paid for in good gold, and the money returned to the factory patrons who supplied the milk.

Why cannot this county imitate the others mentioned in this industry? Why do not the farmers of the various sections get together, agree to supply so much milk each, engage competent cheese-makers and dot the county with factories from end to end? There would be millions in it.

INSURANCE LOSSES.

THE PORK MANUFACTURER.

The Hamilton Times seems to be of opinion that the present government made corn free that Canadian "farmers" might have cheap corn for "feeding purposes," says the Spectator. We believe that the distinguished municipal statesman who mixed up the tariff said something to that effect as an excuse for his folly.

But the farmer's business is to grow grain to sell, either as grain, or as beef, pork, mutton or fowl. Free corn cheapens the native corn of the Ontario corn belt, and damages the farmers who grow it. Free corn cheapens oats, peas and barley, and damages the farmers who grow them. The purchasing of cheap American corn and converting it into beef or pork is not farming. That sort of "farming" would in a few years lay waste every farm in Canada. Cheap corn favors the man who grows hogs in large numbers or purchases young hogs in large numbers, and feeds them for the market. He doesn't farm. He never uses a plow or a reaper. He produces no grain, no fruit, no dairy products. He is simply a manufacturer of pork. And he not only injures the bona fide farmer by importing free corn to cheapen the price of the latter's product, but he ruins the market for the bona fide farmer's pork by manufacturing an inferior article, which injures the reputation of the entire product of the country. The farmer has no use for free corn.

20 YEARS OF BONDAGE

Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills Loose the Shackles of Constipation and Stomach Disorders.

In summing up the causes of human misery it will be found that by far the greatest sources of disease originate in derangement of the Stomach and Bowels. People will abuse their stomachs and neglect the calls of nature till they bring on themselves her vengeance. To get back to nature's paths, to have the Stomach and Bowels once more fulfilling their function properly, to clear the system of all the results and consequences of poisons accumulating and circulating in the Blood is the work of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Thos. Miller, Lucknow, Ont., says that he was afflicted with Stomach Trouble and Constipation for about 20 years, during which time he tried almost everything he heard of, but to no purpose. Mr. H. Day, the popular druggist, sent him a sample of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills. The first dose he took did him good, and they have proved so effectual in his case that he recommends them to all those afflicted as he was.

These Pills may be had of all Dealers at 25 CENTS A BOX.

THE COUGH MIXTURE

That leaves our place in a season would make a good sized river. That is a proof of its popularity. And that it is effective in curing the most stubborn cough, or warding off a cold is beyond the possibility of doubt. Thousands of relieved sufferers can testify to its wonderful powers. Don't let a cough or cold get a grip now and perhaps hang on all winter. Take a bottle of Gunn's Cure Cough. Price 25c per bottle.

THE LODGE DOCTOR.

In the near future the subject of the lodge doctor is going to become a live one in medical circles. It is not unlikely that the medical council will step in and put an end to the practice of having court physicians altogether. While a few people may dislike the interference, to the majority it will without doubt prove satisfactory. We can hardly conceive of a practice being really popular by which a man gets his medical attendance in the way he does his winter's coal—by contract.

The Globe suggests as a party cry "Hardyism be hanged." It'll do.

Shooters these days seem to be faring somewhat worse than the game.

A number of Hallowe'en jokers were fined in Hamilton. Let the good work go on.

The Globe insinuates that Mr. Whitney has stolen Premier Hardy's policy. It should have him indicted for petty larceny.

Storm signals should at once be ordered up along the St. Lawrence, Lake Ontario, the Welland Canal and Lake Erie. The Yantic is coming.

Yesterday's Mail and Empire had a very appropriate cartoon of Hardy and Croker in which the former as "Tammany jr., is remarking, "allow me to congratulate you, pa. You did nobly."

Since jurymen have to be paid, inquests are luxuries that the average municipality cannot indulge in too freely. If the law were changed, juries could be dispensed with and these investigations promptly and cheaply made by the coroner, crown attorney and a constable.

The Ontario Government has apparently forgotten all about the Ontario Constabulary Association's proposals.—Toronto Star.

The Ontario Government is too busy scheming to get back into power to attend to any of the province's needed reforms just now.

A PRAYER.

O Lord, the hard-won miles
Have worn my stumbling feet;
Oh, soothe me with thy smiles,
And make my life complete.

The thorns were thick and keen
Where'er I trembling trod;
The way was long between
My wounded feet and God.

Where healing waters flow
Do thou my footsteps lead,
My heart is aching so;
The gracious balm I need.

The ruling instinct is strong in a thrifty housewife. "My dear," said the husband, who had to tell his wife that he had failed, "the wolf is at the door." "Tell him to wipe his feet," said she, absently.

RUSSIA'S RULER'S RICHES.

A Rothschild Among European Sovereigns Is the Czar.

The Emperor Paul, whose reign was certainly not one of the most brilliant, was nevertheless one of the greatest benefactors of the dynasty. He not only settled the order of succession on a permanent basis, but also endowed his posterity with the material means of maintaining their position. It is claimed that no other reigning family in Europe is so well provided for. Paul I set aside a vast amount of landed property, under the name of the Imperial appanages, for the sole benefit of all grand dukes and grand duchesses not in the direct line of succession, while the sovereign and the heir apparent, together with their respective families, were to be supported out of the funds of the state.

These appanages of the Russian imperial family now cover the enormous total area in different sections of Russia of 21,000,000 acres, an extent of land larger by 2,000,000 acres than the whole of Scotland. This total includes 15,000,000 acres of wood and forest, producing yearly more than 5,000,000 rubles. The total annual revenue of the imperial appanages now reaches 20,000,000 rubles, or more than £2,000,000, and, with no fewer than 46 members of the imperial family to support, the expenditure at present amounts to a yearly average of over 5,000,000 rubles. In 1891 it was over 6,000,000 rubles.

The appanages are quite separate and distinct from extensive private property, and from the crown or state domains, administered by the minister of agriculture, and they do not contribute toward the annual expenditure of the imperial court, amounting, as far as can be ascertained, to about £1,000,000, nor toward providing dowries for imperial grand duchesses. Before the emancipation of the serfs the appanages possessed over 800,000 peasants, who paid annually in land and poll taxes for the benefit of the imperial family nearly 3,000,000 rubles and during 68 years, up to their liberation, altogether 119,000,000 rubles, or £12,500,000. The department of imperial appanages has since become the largest landed proprietor, the largest agriculturist and the largest wine producer in the empire. Its industrial enterprises in timber, sugar, cotton and other products are rapidly developing on a proportionately large scale. During a century of existence it has furnished the collateral branches of the imperial house with altogether 236,000,000 rubles, and as the imperial progeny continues to increase a large reserve fund is employed in preparing to meet their ever growing demands.—London Times.

Muskets.

While the introduction of portable firearms into Europe is of comparatively recent date, their use was frequent among the Mohammedans of eastern Asia at a very early period. La Brocquiere, who made a journey to Jerusalem in the middle of the fifteenth century, and who traveled extensively in the east, mentions the firing of small arquebuses at the great festivals in Damascus.

The first use of muskets in Europe was at the siege of Rhege in 1591 by the Spanish soldiers. These arms were so extremely heavy that they could not be used without a rest. They were provided with matchlocks, and were effective at a considerable distance. While on the march the soldiers themselves carried only the ammunition and the rests, and boys, bearing the muskets, followed after, like caddies on a golf course.

Loading these cumbersome arms was a slow operation. They were clumsy and awkward to handle, the ball and powder were carried separately, and the preparation and adjustment of the match took a long time.

Before long, however, improvements began to be made. The guns became lighter in construction, and the soldiers carried their ammunition in broad shoulder belts called bandeliers, to which were suspended a number of little leather covered wooden cases, each of which held a charge of powder. A pouch, in which the bullets were carried loose, and a priming horn hung at the side of the soldier.

As late as the time of Charles I muskets with rests were still in use, and it was not until the beginning of the eighteenth century that firelocks were successfully employed.—Harper's Round Table.

The Big Brother.

Children early learn to adopt the manners and the speech of the elder brother; the small boy is educated by the one who is at college or in business much more than by his governess or his tutor. Said a wise observer once: "If only you can get your eldest son well started, if he is manly, truthful and of high principles, the others in the family follow right on in the same direction. The judicious father will take great pains with his oldest boy."

In a neighborhood or a school the large boys influence social opinion and set the fashion for the rest. Always there is some larger boy whom the little lad greatly admires, who is his model, whose smile or whose frown makes or unmakes his happiness. The big brother does not know it, but he is in this changeful world the one personage whose scepter never totters, whose popularity never wanes and who never goes out of fashion.

To his sisters he has the opportunity of showing chivalry, kindness and the deference of the stronger to the weaker. To the baby of the household he is little short of a king. The big brother, bless his heart, when he is a nice, obliging, affectionate and generous fellow, is as important a member of society as any one who can be mentioned.

If, as sometimes happens, he is either a bully or a coward, then he is more contemptible than he would be if he had been born in a less fortunate order in the family, for he has, so to speak, broken faith with all that was expected of him.—Harper's Bazar.

What Is a Gentleman?

The old story about the French marquis who opined that the Almighty would think twice before damning a gentleman of quality, doubtless finds an echo in all genuinely "armigerous" bosoms, but there is another tale in Evelyn's diary which puts what I believe to be the English position as pointedly as the other does that of the ancient regime: "March 10, 1682.—V. told a friend of mine who accompanied him to the gallows and gave him some advice that he did not value dying of a rush and hoped and believed God would deal with him like a gentleman"—i. e., with courtesy and consideration. Everybody would admit that breeding has not a little to do with gentle instincts, but three generations may be trusted to do as much as 30.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Slight Drawback.

Snodgrass—The world has a place for everybody.

Micawber—Yes; the only trouble is there's generally somebody else in it.—London Answers.

SUBTLE REASONING.

Wallace—Did you know that the proportion of bald-headed men among criminals is exceedingly small?

Ferry—No, I never heard of it before, but it only proves what I have contended all along.

"What it that?"

"That matrimony had a tendency to keep a man from crime."

Mail and Empire.

The Ontario Minister of Education is having hot shot poured into him by the Belleville Intelligencer, which declares that "his reputation has become so notorious that no public man in Canada dare ever attempt to rival him in bold declarations, or in the perversion of facts whenever he makes a speech, whether it be in parliament or elsewhere." The advisability of returning an administrator with such a character is open to question.

NEWS FROM ST. KITTS.

E. J. Musson, Jr., sings the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills—He was Bedridden for months and his strength was sapped by Diabetes—He found his cure in six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Catharines, Nov. 1.—For several months E. J. Musson, Jr., one of the most capable painters in the city, was confined to his bed, a sufferer from that painful disease—diabetes. The complaint sapped his strength, fed upon his muscles, and reduced him to a skeleton almost. Then, providentially, he heard of what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done in similar cases. He bought six boxes. This is what he says of their work: "After using the third box, I could lift light weights. I used the other three boxes, and now I am well. I have tried many other medicines, and consulted many doctors. All gave me poor encouragement. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

LAID TO REST.

The Victoria Daily Colonist says: "The funeral of Mrs. A. W. Semple took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence in Victoria West, Rev. Donald McRae officiating and the various temperance organizations of the city attending, in addition to very many representative citizens of the suburb of which the deceased lady has been so much esteemed a resident. Messrs. William Mable, Thomas Gold, T. Tray, John Meston, J. Park and D. McBeath—intimate friends of the bereaved family—acted as pall-bearers, and the services throughout were unusually impressive. To-morrow morning special services in connection with Mrs. Semple's demise will be conducted at St. Paul's church by Rev. Mr. McRae. The late Mrs. Semple had been during all her life a resident of the western suburb, where her father, Mr. A. Oldershaw, has his home. She was but thirty-one years of age when consumption claimed her for the grave."

The deceased lady was a cousin to Geo. Bartlett and a former resident of the Maple City.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Take notice that the partnership heretofore subsisting among the undersigned as manufacturers of wagons or under the style of William Millner and Company, has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. The manufacture of these wagons will be hereafter carried on at Walkerville, by the Milner-Walker Wagon Works Company, of Walkerville, and the factory at Chatham, of the late firm will be used as a warehouse, where a full assortment of the wagons of the company will constantly be kept on hand.
