Handling the Fever.

The Board of Health Consider Press Comments

And Make Inquiries of the Medical Health Officer,

Who Says That Everything Is Looked After Properly—He Denies That Fever Is Contracted in the Schools and Says the General Health Is Good — No Favoritism in Placarding — A Ward Full of Typhoid Fever Patients — Threatened Suit Against the City.

"I called this meeting in consequence of an article in Tuesday's ADVERTISER," said Ald. John Heaman, chairman of the Board of Health, to the members of that body who had assembled in the City Hall yesterday afternoon in compliance with his request.

Ald. Parnell was asked to read a portion of the newspaper statement in question. In substance it urged the board to adopt some stringent means to compel the proper reporting and placarding of infectious and contagious diseases in the city, as complaints had been made that some medical men and householders were lax in this respect. It was alleged, continued the article, that children living in houses where the disease existed were permitted to attend both Sunday and public schools. Scarlet fever prevailed more extensively in London than was generally supposed.

"When the papers of this city give forth an expression of public opinion we ought to take cognizance of it," said Ald. Parnell. "Those statements criminate this board, and I do not intend to sit on it unless it does its duty."

DR. HUTCHINSON'S STATEMENT.

Dr. Hutchinson, the medical health officer, was called upon to explain. He said he had seen the accusations in both the ADVERTISER and the Free Press. He had visited the schools and found that there was not a single case in which children in fever stricken houses were allowed to attend. He had written a letter to each paper in reference to the matter.

Following is a copy of the document:

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to contradict a statement made in the papers a day or two ago that typhoid fever and scarlet fever were prevalent in the city, that the General Hospital had now a large number of these cases, and that the attendance at some of the schools had perceptibly diminished in consequence. As a matter of fact, the city was never more free from infectious diseases than at the present time. There is not a case of scarlet fever in the City Hospital, and only three were admitted since the 1st of April, although this is the season of the year when typhoid fever is generally most prevalent. There were only seven cases taken into the hospital during the month of September. In the city there are now seven cases of scarlet fever and seven of typhoid, both diseases being of comparatively mild types. Careful investigation has shown that none of these cases were contracted in the public schools. The danger of scarlet fever spreading can be reduced to a minimum by isolation—disinfection and cleanliness. But so long as well water is used—and the medieval privy pit tolerated in the city—just so long will we have typhoid fever, and kindred filth diseases. The city is now in as healthy a condition as it has been for three years. At the same time I will take this opportunity to urge upon all good citizens who have the welfare of the city at heart, and who desire that London shall maintain its record of the last three years, as the healthiest city in the Dominion, to cheerfully cooperate with the sanitary officers and thoroughly clean up their dwellings, yards, pits, lanes and shops before the winter sets in, leaving as little to do in the spring as possible, and should cholera then visit us the city will be well prepared to meet it.

T. V. HUTCHINSON,
Medical Health Officer.

A "FEVERISH" DISCUSSION.

Dr. Hutchinson said there were thirteen cases of fever in the Sixth ward alone last year, so that the city's condition now was more satisfactory.

Mayor Spencer—There must have been talk or the papers would not have taken this up. I know that when attending the Hospital Trust meeting last week the typhoid fever ward was full of patients, and there were two scarlet fever cases upstairs.

Ald. Parnell said he had been led to believe there were many cases not placarded. A couple of residents in his ward told him their children had caught scarlet fever at school—from others in whose houses the fever existed. Dr. Gardiner had said that typhoid was not contagious. If that disease was in some cases placarded, why was it not necessary in other cases? He had been told that where it was requested by interested parties placarding had not been done at all.

Dr. Hutchinson denied the latter statement. He defied anybody to say he had ever discriminated. He had placarded the bishop of Huron's house three times and other houses of prominent people. When a doctor telephoned him he placarded the place at once and notified the school teachers that the children must be kept from school. There was no law to compel the placarding of typhoid fever cases. In malarial types and under certain circumstances it was unnecessary and would be unjust to poor men.

Ald. Heaman said the children of a placarded house on York street were running around as usual.

Dr. Gardiner—You can't keep them in.

Ald. Parnell asked if the charge that South London people with fever in their families were going to school was true.

Dr. Hutchinson—No; there's not a bit of truth in it. As for doctors not reporting fever cases, I do not know of an instance when they have failed to do their duty.

Dr. Gardiner said that each member of the board should report any case that came under his notice. His statement that typhoid fever was not contagious was a qualified one; under certain condition it was infectious. Dr. Hutchinson had investigated the charge that children from fever-stricken houses were going to Askin street school and had proved it was incorrect. The health officer had always promptly placarded houses when he (the speaker) had reported, and no doubt he did the same with other physicians. They should thank the papers for putting people on their guard. They wanted the papers to make every citizen put his house in as clean condition as possible. He said the discrimination used in allowing certain people to drain into Carling's Creek, while others were not, was wrong.

A LAW SUIT THREATENED.

Mr. Thomas M. Green, 589 Princess avenue, complained of the nuisance at the corner of Princess avenue and Adelaide street, in the shape of gully holes from sewers draining into Carling's Creek. The stench was intolerable and unless it was abated in three days he would take action against the city for the loss and suffering it had caused him.

Dr. Hutchinson said he and Dr. Gardiner had visited the place. Two of Mr. Green's family were now in the hospital with fever, his wife was ill with it at home. Some years ago Mr. Labatt and Mr. Cronyn got permission to lay this sewer down Adelaide street to Carling's Creek. It was now used by Messrs. Leonard and Labatt. Mr. Cronyn drained into a cesspool at the rear of Dufferin avenue. The sewer was not flushed enough to keep it sweet. He had asked that the cesspool be closed and a pipe run down Adelaide street, to be flushed once a week. The gentlemen interested expressed themselves as willing to do anything the board wished.

Mayor Spencer said the city would sooner or later have to face the sewerage problem —the sooner the better.

The M. H. O. was ordered to attend to the matter and have the sewer regularly flushed, Messrs. Leonard and Labatt to put it in proper condition.

A WONDERFUL CURE IN WINDSOR.

In the town of Windsor, Ont., Paine's Celery Compound has accomplished wonders. Judging from reports recently received, it is safe to say that Paine's Celery Compound is the leading and popular medicine.

We are permitted to refer to one great cure which was brought about by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. It proves the power and virtue of Canada's popular remedy, and must help to encourage every man and woman in Canada who has to seek a cure.

Mr. M———, of Windsor, suffered terrible agonies from rheumatism and neuralgia for nearly seven years. The ablest physicians were consulted, and all kinds of medicines were used, but without avail. Mineral springs and waters were tried several times; electric belts of various makes were worn from time to time, but a cure was yet far off.

Hearing of Paine's Celery Compound, this gentleman determined to give it an honest trial. The first three or four bottles convinced him that he had found a power that was working mightily and with good results. Six months' regular use of Paine's Celery Compound sufficed to eradicate every trace of rheumatism and neuralgia.

This gentleman's friends are joyfully surprised; they freely admit that Paine's Celery Compound worked out the great cure.

In Philadelphia on Monday refined sugar declined ⅛ cent to ¼ cent per pound, the reduction in granulated being 3-16 cent. The concessions were necessitated by slow trade and the desire to prevent accumulations of stock, which were probable, as refiners had caught up on recent orders. The cholera scare raised the price owing to the short supply of raw sugars, resulting from quarantine restrictions.
