CHILDREN

Are always liable to sudden and severe colds, to croup, sore throat, lung fever, etc. Remedies, to be effective, must be administered without delay. Nothing is better adapted for such emergencies than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It soothes the inflamed membrane, promotes expectoration, relieves coughing, and induces sleep. The prompt use of this medicine has saved innumerable lives, both of young and old.

"One of my children had croup. The case was attended by our physician, and was supposed to be well under control. One night I was startled by the child's hard breathing, and on going to it found it

Strangling.

It had nearly ceased to breathe. Realizing that the child's alarming condition had become possible in spite of the medicine it had taken, I reasoned that such remedies would be of no avail. Having a part of a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses, at short intervals, and anxiously waited results. From the moment the Pectoral was given, the child's breathing grew easier, and in a short time it was sleeping quietly and breathing naturally. The child is alive and well to-day, and I do not hesitate to say that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved its life."—C. J. Wooldridge, Wortham, Texas.

THE CITY DEBT.

The magnitude of the city debt supplies the best of possible reasons for economy in the matter of expenditures. The net-sum we owed in the 30th. Dec. 1890 exclusive of sinking funds was, according to Sheriff Harding, $2,513,013. The addition of the school debt, brings up the total of our liablities to $2,757,538 which is a respectable figure for a population of 45,000 persons. In addition to this we are liable for considerable expenditures on the streets of the North end and West side under the union act, and also for the purchase money of the Carleton branch which we propose to present to the C. P. R. These and other items of expenditures already contracted will probably bring up our net debt to $2,900,000 or possibly to $3,000,000. In view of this fact the wisdom of issuing $250,000 worth of additional bonds for harbor improvements on the West side is not very apparent. Yet that is the proposal which is now finding favor with a number of persons who are anxious to be elected as aldermen. It is we think very necessary that a halt should be called in the business of incurring additional indebtedness and that the reign of economy should begin. We have incurred certain obligations in the way of expenditure which we are bound to carry out, but beyond that we should issue no more bonds.

ITALY AND THE UNITED STATES.

It is hardly likely that the strained relations between Italy and the United States will end in war, yet as such a result is not impossible, it may be worth while to consider what the outcome of such a contest would be. Italy and the United States are separated from each other by more that 4000 miles of water, so that there would be little chance of one invading the territory of the other. The United States have no colonies and Italy has only a strip of territory at the entrance of the Red Sea, the loss of which would be rather a grain than otherwise. The war therefore would be waged on the ocean and its results depend on the force that each nation could place upon the sea. The navy of the United States, notwithstanding some additions during the past five years, is still in a very weak condition. It comprises 13 armored and 36 unarmored ships completed and 8 armored ships and 8 unarmored under construction. The completed iron clads, 13 in number, are all of the second or third class. They are all of the old monitor type and there is not one of them that can be regarded as a sea-going ship. The armor of most of them is thin and few of them have modern guns. Two or three of them might be useful for harbor defence but they would be of no value on the sea. The unarmored ships include a few modern vessels, but they are simply cruisers and not fighting ships. So far then as the navy is concerned the coast of the United States is practically defenceless. The navy of Italy on the other hand is after that of Great Britain and France the most powerful in Europe. It contains 17 ironclads of the first class 10 of which are of 11,000 tons and upwards and have armor from 18 in. to 22 in. in thickness. All of these vessels are famous for their high speed, from 16 to 18 knots an hour, and they are very heavily armed. Seven of them mount 100 ton guns of the Armstrong pattern, and the others are armed with guns that are equally efficient. Besides these powerful ships, Italy has 21 ironclands of the second class, several of which are large enough to cross the ocean. Altogether the Italian navy comprises 238 vessels, with a tonnage of 209-138 tons, armed with 583 guns and manned by 16,786 seamen. Four of the big Italian iron clads could destroy New York and Brooklyn from a point south of Long Island without the possibilty of injury from any fortifications which the Americans have there. They could do the same to Portland, Boston, Baltimore and the other cities of the Atlantic coast. San Francisco on the Pacific would be still more open to their attacks. The only inconvenience the Italian navy would suffer from would be the lack of a depot for coal on this side of the Atlantic, but they could easily obtain one by taking possession of some small island on the coast of the United States, with a good harbor, such as Martha's Vineyard. Once in possession they could not be dislodged, owing to their great superiority in naval strength and from it they could keep the whole coast north of Cape Hatteras in a state of alarm. The Commercial Marine of Italy numbers 8,610 vessels of 853, 033 tons. Of these 5,304 are vessels of 100 tons and under, only snitab'e for coasting voyages; 62,632 sailing vessels of 382,723 tons, and 70 steam vessels of 115,121 tons are put down as suitable for long sea voyages. Italy, therefore, has a considerable amount of property on the sea, which would be liable to destruction by United States cruisers, but the United States would also suffer from the same cause. That country has about 900,000 tons of shipping engaged in foreign trade, to say nothing of 3,000,000 tons of coasting vessels, many of whom would be subject to the attacks of Italian cruisers. It is very evident that a war with Italy would be extremely injurious to the United States in every way and that the efforts of the statesmen in Washington should be directed to the preservation of the peace.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Mr. John Lovell's private census of Montreal, which gives it a population of 211,302, is probably correct. Montreal, although still the first city in Canada, is yet not so far ahead of Toronto, which will probably take the lead within the next twenty years. It will be interesting to compare the Dominion census, which is to be taken in a few days, with Mr. Lovell's enumeration.

The ship repairers of Halifax have had a fall and winter's work out of the repairs of the Ulunda, which will come out of the dry dock there a fortnight hence. If St. John had possessed a dry dock this work, which has been the means of expending tens of thousands of dollars among the working men of Halifax, would have been done here. The persons who think blocks are as good as a dry dock will please make a note of this.

The death of Thomas Charles Baring, a Conservative member of parliament, will open the important constituency of London city which has 31,685 voters. Mr. Baring was returned unopposed in 1887, for the constituency is intensely Conservative. In 1885, the highest Liberal candidate was 3000 below the lowest Conservative. In 1886, the two Conservatives were unopposed. The Liberals have hardly a fighting chance in London, yet they will probably contest the constituency.

The sneer at hospital nurses which the Sun has copied from the Chicago Times is one that should not have been published here. We do not believe that any hospital nurse in St. John has ever been influenced in her choice of an employment by the idea that trained nurses have a better chance of marriage thon other women. From their tenderness of heart and sympathetic disposition nursing is pecularly a woman's occupation, and the St. John young women who are engaged in it are worthy of all praise for their devotion to this good work.

The Globe thinks that Mr. C. W. Weldon ought to get the first judgeship which becomes vacant in this province. Mr. Weldon is without doubt a very good lawyer, but his chances of becoming a judge have become seriously impaired by his attitude of violent hostility to the Dominion government. His paper, the Telegraph, omits no opportunity of abusing Sir John A. Macdonald in the most offensive terms possible, as witness its attack on the aged first minister to-day. We are of the opinion that Mr. Weldon will have to wait some time yet for a judgeship.

THE BOYS BRIGADE.

A Sketch of its Origin and growth—The Great Object Which it Proposes to Accomplish.

From twelve to twenty is the most critical period in many human lives. Then habits of thought and associations are formed the influence of which in a greater or less degree is permanent as life itself. It is pitiful to see a young man "go wrong," for though in after years he may right himself in the eyes of the world he can never do so in his own. He may forget, but not for always, and his conscience, at times quet enough, sometimes will rouse itself and tear his heart as if with red hot pincers. It was W. R. Greg who once said that among the most solemn facts of human existence was the fact that no spoken word could ever be recalled and no action, however trivial or momentous, could ever be undone. As the first word spoken by Adam in Paradise is still pulsating in the air, so the effects of all we do and say, unconsciously in most instances, are felt forever. The influence of our lives, though it may be as a grain of mustard seed, continues as assuredly as that of the most scholarly of men. This being so, as has been said, it is pitiful to see a young man go wrong. Yet they do so not unfrequently, especially in cities and great towns, and the first steps out of the right path are usually taken between the ages of twelve and twenty. It is easy to discover why this is the case. The youth at twelve or thirteen begins to place more confidence in himself than he does at forty; he scorns to be tied by his mother's apron strings, and he is confident that it would be a slur on his manliness to continue a member of the Sunday School. He feels that he is too old to associate with children, and he has little relish for the society of his elders. Consequently associations and habits are formed, frequently of a vicious character, which too often color all his after life.

It was to meet the dangers to which boys between twelve and eighteen are exposed that the first company of the "Boys' Brigade" was formed in Glasgow, Scotland, on the 4th of October, 1883, by Wm. A. Smith, who is now secretary of the brigade. The object of the organization is tersely set forth in its constitution:—

The object of the Brigade shall be the advancement of Christ's kingdom among boys, and the promotion of habits of reverence, discipline, self-respect and all that tends towards a true Christian manliness.

Of the organization the Earl of Aberdeen is the honorary president, and Professor Drummond is one of the honorary vice presidents. On the 31st of May last there were in the United Kingdom 39¼ companies, 1250 officers, 2424 noncommissional officers, 16,752 boys on the roll, with an average drill attendance of 12,338; 192 bible classes, at which the average attendance was 4,501; the number of drills held during the session was 10,317 and the number of boys at the annual company inspection was 9,088. The average contribution of the members of the several companies to the headquarters' fund was about 3½ pence. At the same time there were seven companies in the United States with headquarters at San Francisco, one at Cape Town, South Africa, and three in Canada, (St. John, Sarnia and Toronto) the one in St. John under the captaincy of Rev. T. F. Fotheringham, M. A. The supreme object of the brigade is to lead the boys to Christ and to develop in them Christian character. Everything else is made subordinate to this. Failure here is failure at the vital point. A manly, Christian boy, not ashamed of his colors, is the ideal kept before the Companies.

The Constitution this states its object: "The object of the Brigade shall be the advancement of Christ's Kingdom among boys, and the promotion of habits of reverence, self respect, and all that tends toward a true Christain manliness." In the words of its secretary: "We make a point of acknowledging God in every thing, of putting Christ at the head of everything, and in trying to do it in such a way that a boy will always feel that the religious element in the work is a pleasure and not a bore." And again: "The ultimate success of the Boys' Brigade will depend on the spirit which animates the work, and on the high Christain aims of the movement being kept persistently in view. If a company be officered by men who are thoroughly in earnest—men who have an intense sympathy with boy life, who love their boys and who are prepared to make any personal sacrifice for the sake of the boys—it can hardly fail to succeed, and to become a source of satisfaction and pleasure to the officers and a means of much help and blessing to the boys enrolled in its ranks."

Military organization and drill are used "as a means of securing the interest of the boys, banding them together in the work of the Brigade, and promoting among them such habits as the Brigade is designed to form." This is attractive to boys, and, kept in its proper place, is fitted to form in them those habits which are the best foundation on which to build a healthy Christian manhood.

Scripture also teaches that every Christian is a soldier, that he is "to put on the whole armor of God," that he is under "marching orders" from the Captain of his salvation, and that he is to fight "the good fight of faith." As Mr. Smith has recently said: "The external aspect of the Organization, with its Drill, its Manœuvres, its Inspections, and Church Parades, comes no doubt the most prominently under the public eye; but it must be remembered that these are but the finishing touches, the legitimate outcome, of the force which has been called into play for binding the boys together, and which is working throughout the companies, and making for the first and main object of the movement."

There is a threefold division in the company and the work. 1. A weekly drill in which the regular army tactics are used. 2. A weekly Bible class and prayer-meeting usually held on Sunday, one hour before the evening services. 3. Once a month the Bible class is a missionary meeting. All these meetings are under military rules, and are meetings of the company. Attendance of all the members is required and even on the drill night the religious character of the work is made plain—the drill being always opened with prayer and sometimes a brief address is given.

It will be seen that there is great room for development of plans and methods in each company while loyal to the main design. A company reading-room, athletic clubs, rambling clubs, and a summer camp, are some of the ways in which different Companies carry on their work. Under wise management much good can be accomplished in many directions.

No uniform is absolutely essential, but caps, at least, are eminently desirable. The following have been approved by the Council. A cadet cap, a navy-blue blouse, a belt, and a rifle.

In May last, the Saint John Company under Rev. Mr. Fotheringham had 35 members, and at present a much larger number. Taking those young lives at their formative period, when most susceptible, laying in the formation of a healthy moral tone, and forming habits of orderliness and prompt obedience, it cannot fail to make itself felt as a great power for good. The Christian Leader says: "The movement meets, as no other scheme has met, more than one great want of our age. It retains hold of the lads when they used to slip away from the Sunday school; and it promotes habits of reverence, self-respect, obedience, and all that tends towards Christian manliness." We would like to see Companies formed in connexion with all the churches in the city.

Messrs. C. C. Richards & Co.,

Gentlemen,—I take pleasure in giving my testimony to your well known MINARD'S LINIMENT, as I feel that it saved my life. In the winter of 1887 I was attacked by a severe pain in my left side caused by a fall from a building during the previous summer. I got relief every time it was bathed with the MINARD'S LINIMENT and eventually cured by the use of only a few bottles. This liniment has made some wonderful cures.

TEMPERANCE.—Grand Secretary W. R. Robinson returned yesterday, from his lecturing tour in St. John and Kings counties, where his mission in Good Templary has been crowned with success. Mr. Robinson spoke at City of Portland Lodge last evening. To-night he visits No Surrender Lodge at Fairville; to-morrow evening he addresses a mass meet- of the City lodges at Haymarket Square, and on Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, he will hold a gospel temperance meeting at Coldbrook. On Monday, the Grand Secretary proceeds to St. Stephen where he will consume two or three weeks in Charlotte county in the interest of Good Templary.

On Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock a gospal temperence meeting will be addressed by grand secretary Robinson, in Good Templar Hall, in which the public are cordially invited.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.
