DUDIE ARCHDALE TAKES HANDICAP

Beats Out Charlie Mitchell, Joe Bowers, Billy Burke, Wilmering, Joan, Creighton.

SIR R. WINS 2:13 PACE

Murphy's June, With Silver Tube in Throat, Goes Fast Enough for 2:13 Trot.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 7.—President Taft was a spectator of the first handicap racing of the season on the grand circuit, as he was at Charter Oak Park today when the final in the Hartford handicap was raced and the little black mare Dudie Archdale, the leading money winner of last season, was returned the winner. It was the second big day of the week, the crowd this afternoon rivaling that of Labor Day, when over 50,000 were present.

After the handicaps were announced last night, based on a distance of 11-4 miles, a change was made today, the distance being reduced to 11-8 miles. Billy Burke and Joan were the heaviest handicapped, then came Dudie Archdale, Charlie Mitchell, the half-mile track star Joe Bowers, making his first start in grand circuit society, Creighton and Wilmering, the last named pair on the scratch. According to the conditions the event was raced in two preliminaries and all started in the final.

Was Loafing Match.

Dudie Archdale broke at the start of the first preliminary, which was a loafing match to the three-quarter pole. In the sprint from that point, Joan had the most speed and Billy Burke made a break, Dudie Archdale coming second the time of the last quarter being 29 seconds. As there was no flag up and all were bound to qualify for the final there was little of serious effort in the preliminaries, Joe Bowers winning the second easily from Creighton, Murphy trailing along with Charlie Mitchell and finishing last. The presence of President Taft seemed to have a disquieting effect on the horses in the race for, in the final Joan, Billy Burke, Joe Bowers, and Wilmering made breaks shortly after the start.

Dudie Archdale Wins.

Dudie Archdale and Charley Mitchell went out in front and it was a two-horse race between them all the way until close to the wire when Joe Bowers, who had trotted very fast after his break, came up and was lapped on Charley Mitchell as they passed the wire, Dudie Archdale winning handily, having trotted the last half in 1:02 3-4. There was a light field in the stake for 2:13 pacers, Sir R. and Brangham Baughman being the class, and this was a two horse race with Sir R. on the winner's end all the time, Cox tried going slow the half and then brushing home, but failed. Then he tried the brush system away from the wire, but this was also ineffectual. The 2:13 trot was easy for Murphy's mare, June, an early season candidate for the M. and M. at Detroit. This mare had trouble with her breathing apparatus early in the season and is fitted out with a silver tube in her throat as a means of respiration.

LONDON RINKS AT TORONTO TOURNEY

Big Entry for the Globe Scotch Doubles, Despite Bad Weather.

ALL ARE WINNING

Every Team From Forest City Has Yet To Be Beaten—Scores.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Despite the wet and chilly weather, the preliminary, first and second rounds in the Globe Scotch doubles tournament were played yesterday. Usually the weather man is very decent in the Globe doubles, and, to show that they did not mind his erratic ways, the bowlers played through the rain as cheerfully as if the sun had been shining. Of the 144 players who entered, only Long Branch and one Brampton rink defaulted. The play, generally speaking, was close. Some one-sided scores are shown in the results, but, as a rule, these were due more to hard luck than interior play. Galloway and Boyd, Toronto Thistles, were six up, with two ends to go, but lost to Allen and Mann, London Thistles.

FIGHT GAME LOSES BY DEATHS OF REFEREES

Malachai Hogan and Eddie Smith Have Taken Count in Last Few Days.

Detroit Free Press: Instead of one, the sporting world today is suffering the loss of two men who earned enviable reputations and much prestige through their connection with a game that holds a prominent place in the hearts of all followers of sports. When the news of the death of Malachai Hogan at Denver last Saturday flashed on the wire to all parts of the country, heartfelt sorrow was expressed for the Chicagoan's untimely end. But following closely upon that blow comes one more staggering and pathetic in the announcement that Eddie Smith, the famous referee and sporting writer of Californian, has lost his battle with the grim reaper.

Smith gave up his life after a stubborn struggle against the ravages of heart failure that had compelled him to take to his bed five weeks ago.

The deaths of Hogan and Smith deprive boxing of two of the foremost of referees the game in this country has ever known, and now and in years to come, their names will be linked with those of George Siler, probably the greatest of them all; "Honest John" Kelly and others who have helped make history in the sport. As long as glove fighting is fostered, the names of Hogan and Smith will live in memory.

Smith More Respected.

Of the two, Smith doubtless commanded the more respect. There never was a time when his methods, either as a writer, fighter or referee were questioned. He had a reputation for honesty that men in the same station of life would have striven a lifetime without financial gain to attain, and until the day of his death he commanded the respect and earned the friendship of all who chanced to meet him.

Though Smith numbered his acquaintances and friends in the thousands, probably the one who believed in him and his ways most was Battling Nelson, and it was the Dane whom Smith deprived of the world's lightweight title when he waved Wolgast to his corner and pasted the battered and bleeding Battler to a chair in the fortieth round of the famous contest at Port Richmond, Cal., Feb. 22, 1910.

Smith's Methods.

That was the way Smith did his work. The Dane was his friend, but he didn't let that friendship interfere with the duty before him. He knew, much better than the spectators at the ringside, that the battle was won and lost, and that the title must leave his friend, and he acted in the manner that he thought was right.

That is not the only important contest presided over by Smith. When Joe Gans and Joe Walcott met in their memorable battle of 20 rounds on the coast some years ago, Smith was the third man in the ring. It was erroneously reported in press dispatches out of Oakland that Gans won the lightweight title in that bout. No title depended upon the outcome.

THE HALEY FAMILY FAVORS RECIPROCITY

Conservative Cattle Exporters Say Oxford County Is Full of Men Like Them.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—The Haleys of Springford, P.O., Oxford County, know how to raise Holsteins. With their stock at the Exhibition this year they have won four out of five championships, one gold medal, two silver medals, two sweepstakes, ten first prizes, five seconds, six thirds, two fourths, two fifths, and two sixths. This is the first time they have exhibited.

The Haleys of Springford also take a keen interest in all questions relating to the farmer. As a result of this, according to their own statement, they are going to vote for reciprocity, although they have been Conservatives all their lives, and are still affiliated with that party.

Are Strong in Favor.

Martin L. and Melbourne H. Haley were quite outspoken in their advocacy of the trade agreement.

Their father also, William Haley, who was at the Exhibition last week, thinks the same as they do about the merits of reciprocity.

"In fact, all our family has the same opinion," said Mr. Martin Haley:

"In South Oxford, our constituency," continued Mr. Haley, "there are scores of farmers, formerly Conservative who will vote in favor of larger markets and better prices. Of course, there are some men so hide-bound to party that they would vote against the King himself if the party leaders gave the word."

The Haley brothers are in favor of reciprocity, not so much for what it will do for them personally, but for the benefits it will bring to the rest of the farmers, and therefore incidentally to themselves. They are largely breeders of cattle, and do not export as much cream and dairy produce as many of their neighbors.

Pittsburg, Sept. 7. — A New York vaudeville manager has made Pitcher Marty O'Toole, the St. Paul pitcher for whose release Pittsburg paid $22,500 recently, an offer to star in a short sketch on the stage. FOR WHIPPING A BOY.

Ingersoll, Sept. 7.—D. A. Bucknell, a West Oxford farmer, was today fined $5 and costs in the police court for whipping Aubrey Carruthers, a 15-year-old boy, who has lived with him for about a year. The boy came here from Montreal. He told the magistrate there were seven boys in the family and that his step-mother did not want him. The Children's Aid Society will temporarily look after the boy.

CHOP SUEY KING.

Boston, Sept. 8.—With a fortune of half a million dollars, made through serving Bostonians with chop suey and other Chinese delicacies, Jang Po, proprietor of Boston's first Chinese restaurant, will sail for Canton, China, early next week to spend the remainder of his life in affluence.

Much of his money is said to be invested in conservative securities in this country. Po's wife and children, whom he has seen but once in thirty years, live in Canton.

IMPERIAL WIRELESS.

London, Sept. 8. — Recent experiments that have been carried out in Newfoundland by Signor Marconi with a view to perfecting wireless communication upon the Canadian shore line, are understood to be part of a huge scheme now under consideration by the Imperial Government intended to unite various parts of the Empire in a wireless telegraphic system, having direct communication with the admiralty in London.

EDUCATIONAL MOVING PICTURES

The heads of various departments of governmental activity in Washington have given, it is reported, permission to a Chicago moving picture concern to take motion pictures of the workings of various industries of the Government. The pictures are to be taken, primarily, for the private benefit and behoof of the moving picture concern, which will find its profit in paid exhibitions, but in return for the permission granted the Government is to have the use of such films as it requires for public lectures and so forth.

More and more is the invention of moving pictures demonstrating its high educational value, and few things will increase this value so much as the plan of taking picture records of the Government's work. It is highly desirable that the average citizen should know as much as possible about the actual workings of the Government.
