PROVINCIAL FAIR PRIZE WINNERS

List of Those Who Carried off the Prizes at Last Week's Splendid Show—A Success in Every Way.

The exhibition is now a thing of the past. The weather on the first three days was all that could be wished for.

Wednesday and Thursday were the big days in point of attendance. Both days the grand stand was filled to overflowing and then there was not accommodation for all who wanted seats. The directors will do well to consider the enlarging of this building before another year.

That the exhibit of stock was the best ever held in Western Canada was the statement by many. However that may be, true it is that there was an excellent exhibition of hogs, cattle, horses, and to a less degree, sheep.

The poultry classes were also well represented. The dairy exhibit was not as good as it might nor yet were the main building exhibits.

The machinery was an attraction in itself, and was one of the main exhibits.

The prize winners in all classes was as follows:

Opportunity

He was a yokle, freckled and tanned,
Who stood with a rope in his horny hand
And tried to inveigle a fractious goat
To give him a chance to encircle his throat
With the rope.

It was the goat, contrary-impelled,
That laughed at the yokel and the rope he held,
And wouldn't admit for a moment that he
Was foolish as 'tother had thought him to be,
He should hope!

Then raced the two all over the field,
The man wouldn't stop; the goat would't yield,
Till, what with the steps they had run and retraced,
They found the flight and pursuit had embraced
Quite a scope.

Tired of battle the goat turned round
And brushed with his whiskers, the racing ground.
Then lowered his head, and proceeded to dash
'Twixt the yokel's legs, in a fractional flash,
Slick as soap!

Now there was his chancei Had the yokel grabbed
The fugitive's horns, he'd have had him nabbed—
But he didn't, and then with a hopeless wail
He caught t the brief, inexpressible tail
On the lope.

Now you know of course, or hear it from me,
A goat's tail's not long as a tail ought to be,
And so when he grabbed the tail wasn't there,
And the goat was exciting the yielding air
Up the slope.

Now here is the moral: You needn't try
To catch opportunity that's gone by,
His tail is the briefest that ever was
Don't hang near as long as a goat's tail does.
If you're after old Oppor., you're certain to find
That you can't head him off by getting behind.
