400,000 RAIL MEN TO STRIKE IN U. S. JULY 1

Walkout Can Only Be Averted If Roads At Once Agree To Continue Present Wages.

MINERS DELAY WALKOUT DESPITE RESULT OF VOTE

Decision Follows Conference At Washington With President Harding.

CHICAGO, June 27.—A strike of the 400,000 railway shop men of the country will be called for July 1, unless the railroads agree to stay the $60,000,000 wage cut due the shop workers on that date, and to restore certain working conditions formerly in effect, it was made known tonight through a telegram from B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts, to the Association of Railway Executives.

Decision to call a strike came late today, after a lengthy discussion by the executive committee of the six shop crafts unions, based on the strike vote of the men thus far tabulated.

Should the rail heads arrange for an immediate conference, agreeing meanwhile to continue present wages, restore working rules modified by the railroad labor board and discontinue farming out railroad work, however, a walk-out can be halted, the telegram said. Otherwise, "a sanction of withdrawal from employment on July 1, 1922, as voted by the employees will be unavoidable."

DELAY MINE STRIKE.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 27.—Upon receipt of a telegram from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, who conferred with United States President Harding at Washington today, the general scale committee of the anthracite workers abandoned all plans for immediately calling an absolute strike, and the contemplated withdrawal of the pumpmen from the mines.

The committee adjourned indefinitely, leaving the anthracite situation as it was before it convened Monday morning, when it received the practically-unanimous permission by referendum vote of the 150,000 idle miners to make the prevailing suspension an absolute strike.

Labor officials and members of the committee expressed great elation on the tone of Mr. Lewis' message, although they declined to make it public.

Await Developments.

"It appears that immediate developments in both the bituminous and anthracite industries may be looked for, as a result of the conference with the president and government officials," said Thomas Kennedy, president of the general scale committee and of district No. 7, at Hazelton.

The miners' contemplated drive for funds will go on as planned yesterday, Mr. Kennedy said.

As proof that the union is not abandoning steps for preparedness in the event of an ultimate strike, he announced a meeting to be held at Hazelton Thursday when committees and campaigners will invade a dozen of the larger cities of the east with an appeal for public financial subscription to the "war chest" of the United Mine Workers of America.

ARMIES BATTLING FOR IRISH POWER

and ammunition, while machine guns are posted on the roof. The number of the defenders is unknown, but it is expected many have deserted since the early days of the occupation. Nevertheless it is believed some hundreds are still within, and well provisioned against a siege.

The determination of the provisional government to recapture the Four Courts is ascribed entirely to the insurgents' act in seizing Lieutenant General O'Connell, assistant chief of staff of the regular forces, and not to Colonial Secretary Churchill's warning in the House of Commons.

About 700 men are engaged on the government side, and the rattle of rifle and machine gun fire was punctuated by the explosions of bombs and the occasional booming of 12-pounder artillery.

Orange Hall, taken over by the insurgents as a "refuge for Belfast Catholics," was also attacked.

Newspapermen were not allowed to approach the scenes of operations, the surrounding streets being cordoned with troops, consequently authentic details are difficult to obtain.

DUBLIN NOW ISOLATED.

Belfast, June 28.—Dublin this morning was isolated from Belfast, so far as telephone communication was concerned, Dundalk being the nearest place possible to reach by telephone. It is understood that the provisional government in Dublin has occupied the telephone exchange, replacing the girl operators with men.

BRITISH TROOPS READY.

London, June 28.—It is believed here that the Irish regular forces under Michael Collins are sufficiently strong and well equipped to deal with the situation which has arisen in Dublin.

A majority of their arms, including machine guns and artillery, have been supplied by the British government under the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty. They are manning their own artillery.

There are several thousand British troops still in Dublin, and it is intimated that, should Collins request aid from this source, troops would be placed at his disposal exactly as was done when the Ulster government desired military assistance in putting down the rebellion in the north.

SUN YAT SEN'S WIFE TELLS OF MASSACRE

also commanding the bridge connecting the house with Sun Yat Sen's offices. This bridge, a third of a mile long, was constantly under fire.

Was Bravery Itself.

My bodyguard was bravery itself. Because of the darkness they withheld their fire and sought to beat off attackers who came to grips with them. My house boy fearlessly took an exposed position and killed man after man of the rebels.

At 8 o'clock in the morning, after we had returned the insurgent fire for several hours following dawn, our ammunition ran out. Our only hope of escape was to cross the exposed bridge.

It was decided that Sun Yat Sen's aide de camp, Col. George Bow, and two guards should accompany me across this narrow path to possible safety, and that the rest should remain to face certain death, and worse if captured, to enable us to escape. All that noble guard that stayed behind died facing the enemy.

We started on our journey across the bridge. Bullets zipped past us, while shells exploded nearby. Col. Bow was shot through both legs. A bullet grazed my scalp.

I ordered the guards, despite Col. Bow's protest, that it imperiled the entire party, to carry the gallant officer the rest of the journey across the bridge. It was only a third of a mile, but it seemed endless. Col. Bow repeatedly asked to be left to die in order that I might make better time.

Shell Struck Bridge.

As we reached the offices at last a shell struck the bridge fair and square, destroying it with a terrible detonation. Rebels laid siege to the offices where we took refuge. Some loyal troops nearby aided our defence, and my guards did wonders, while Col. Bow, terribly wounded, took part bravely.

At four o'clock in the afternoon, after a day of horrors indescribable, the rebels captured us. They stormed the offices and burst in the doors.

I pulled on my husband's raincoat and Col. Bow's hat and was not instantly recognized by the rough rebel troops who surrounded me.

So avaricious were the rebels in their search for loot that they tore from our hands packages we were carrying, and in the resulting scramble amongst themselves, permitted us to escape.

Fled Down Alley.

I fled down a dark alley, deadly everywhere. I stumbled over corpses of people horribly killed by shell fires. I slipped in pools of blood; finally, I reached the countryside, my guards still beside me.

Just as we thought we were safe an enemy patrol approached. A heap of dead bodies lay near. My guards ordered me to lie down and feign death. I threw myself onto the pile of dead and lay there.

The patrol passed without looking.

Hours later I reached a farmhouse, where I obtained a coolie woman's dress and escaped to the Christian college outside Canton. There I met the brave Wu Ting Fang, himself near death at that time, who sought to cheer me up. He said my husband had reached a point of safety, but I was certain he had perished in those awful shambles in Canton City.

Later, hearing the booming of guns of loyal warships, I knew he was safe, and made my way to his side.

Through all the terrible experiences, I suffered only a slight scalp wound, but there were times when I begged my guard to shoot me to save me from torture at the hands of the rebels.

URGE SCHOOL BOARD TO TAKE ACTION

numerous complaints have already been registered from industrial concerns as well as the parents and dependents of those pupils who will be affected by the new stipulation in the act, the attendance officer calls attention to the fact that several weeks ago he urged that a special committee of the board or of educational officials be chosen to confer with representative manufacturers and other employers of adolescent labor.

Seeking Information.

"Nothing was done, however, as I can note," Dr. Weir commented Wednesday. "In the meanwhile, I am writing today to the department in Toronto, asking for definite information as to what methods are employed and what success, if any, has been noted in several of the bigger American cities where a similar law is in effect. When I receive this data I hope to be in a position to have a report to offer to the board at the next regular general session."

Dr. Weir was inclined to believe that the trustees during the past few weeks had been occupied to a considerable extent with such burning issues as the "Dakin street site," to consider with any degree of appreciation, the enforcement of the adolescent act.

That the latter enactment will create not a little confusion and resentment among the poorer people when it is declared effective, is the general consensus of opinion at this moment. The provincial department is adamant in the stand that each child must attend school at least a portion of each day. Evening classes will not suffice.

Dependent on Wages.

As scores of families are dependent, it is claimed, upon the wages obtained by adolescents, both girls and boys, and employers of labor will, it is reasoned, decline to retain workers who may have to leave for school at frequent and uncertain periods, it is feared that considerable hardship will be evidenced in many families.

WROTH AT MOVE TO BLOCK BUILDING

be overruled very quickly if this bylaw goes through.

"We will not fight the bylaw," concluded the director. "We have never asked the city of London for any concessions, nor do we intend to."

Mayor Cameron Wilson, who moved that the Dufferin avenue property be included in the restricted building area of the bylaw Tuesday night, declares that should it go through it will prohibit the London Life Insurance Company from erecting office buildings in this residential district.

Await Legal View.

The bylaw must be passed upon by civic officials that office buildings becomes law, and it is pointed out by ciic officials that office buildings are not included in the list of buildings described by the municipal act as liable to restriction.

In addition to the Victoria Park district, the proposed bylaw protects South London as a residential district and will govern the site of warehouses, gas and oil filling stations, livery stables, laundries, butcher shops, blacksmith shops, tinsmith and plumbing establishments, theatres, stores, private hospitals, dog kennels and dog hospitals, undertaking parlors, and dance and amusement halls in the city of London.

U. F. M. CONTEST ELECTION IN WEST

Winnipeg, June 28.—The United Farmers of Manitoba, who are entering a provincial election campaign for the first time have 39 candidates in the field and are very optimistic regarding the election of July 18, according to W. R. Wood in a statement today. The U. F. M. are linked up with the Winnipeg Progressive Association, which is contesting the ten Winnipeg seats under proportional representation.

Be Sure You Put Them Out

CARELESSNESS with matches, cigarette butts, cigar ends, pipe ashes, camp fires, fly smudges, railway locomotives, slash-burning operations—human carelessness of some kind accounts for 97% of the forest fires which every year add further devastation to the northern areas of this province.

DON'T

DON'T take any chances with fire in Ontario's forests.

DON'T throw away cigarette or cigar butts, pipe "heels" or burnt matches until you are dead sure they are out.

DON'T neglect to drown out your fire with lots of water.

DON'T build your camp fire against a rotten log or stump; nor on windy points; nor near moss patches; nor at the base of a tree.

Build it in a former fire place, or on a flat rock, or on a spot cleared down to the true soil below, or by the edge of the water.

DON'T forget that the upper layer of ground in the forest consists of partially rotted wood which will burn.

Here are typical cases picked at random from last year's Fire Rangers' reports:

The rangers on the Ombabika to Fort Hope canoe route in the far north on July 4th found an area 10 miles long by 4 miles wide which had been swept by fire since their previous trip. A camp fire left on a portage was the cause.

A prospector on the Montreal River started a fire on July 7th which burned over 4,800 acres in Baden Township, destroying 1,000,000 feet of pine and 9,000 cords of pulpwood, and which required attention for a month.

A party of fishermen camped on Porcupine Lake, Burton Township, Parry Sound, were responsible for a fire on July 10th, which burned over 25,000 acres and 2,000,000 feet of timber.

Indians smoking moose meat started a fire on June 26th, which ran through 1,700 acres of young jack pine trees.

Careless trappers on May 7th caused a fire in Head Township, which burned over 2,280 acres, half of it young white pine.

The best way to fight forest fires is to prevent them.
