IN BUYING DIAMONDS

One of the first considerations in the buying of a Diamond is the dealer you patronize. A person who does not understand Diamonds might easily be misled as to the value of a stone.

You can absolutely rely on us to tell you the truth about a stone—at least, hundreds of people in our quarter century in the business have relied on us and have been pleased and satisfied with both the value and quality of the stone they have bought.

All our stones are bought loose and mounted in our own settings, by our own workmen in our own workshop. We can, therefore, at very short notice, mount any stone you wish in any setting you may choose.

Colored Dining Car Chef Proves First Victim.

Charles Songer, the colored chef of the G. T. R. diner, where a suitcase full of whiskey was discovered by License Inspector J. E. Keenleyside and Inspector Birrell of the police force last Wednesday morning, was found guilty in police court Monday afternoon of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and had the fine boosted $100 on him. Magistrate Graydon shoving it to $300 and costs, or four months in jail. Songer paid the fine.

"I intimated some time ago that I would increase the penalty," stated the magistrate in passing sentence.

"Does that mean that everyone will be fined $300 in future?" asked W. R. Meredith, one of the counsel for Songer.

"It will when I think necessary," replied the court.

The officers of the law told of hopping aboard the diner and finding the suitcase with the liquid refreshment in the kitchen, also a partly-empty bottle in a cubby-hole.

Henry Childs, a steamfitter, who had stopped Richard Gray earlier in the morning with a bag of whisky bottles, stated that he had seen Songer on the back of the car just about the time the bags appeared on the scene.

The defendant declared that he had never seen the suitcase before, and didn't know anything about any whiskey. The magistrate stated he was not prepared to accept Songer's story and fined him the above amount.

"Couldn't you make it $200 straight?" petitioned W. R. Meredith, of the court.

"No. If I did anything I would make it more," replied Mr. Graydon. A revolver, fully loaded, was found in a black bag belonging to Songer, but no charge was laid against him for having it in his possession.

NAZIMOVA'S ACTING IS MAGNIFICENT IN HER NEWEST PLAY

Distinguished Russian Actress Is Appearing at the Grand in "Eye For Eye."

Nazimova, the distinguished Russian actress, was seen in her greatest role in "Eye for Eye," a thrilling photoplay presented at the Grand Opera House yesterday. In the role of Hassouna, a young and beautiful Arab girl, she portrays a character that abounds in excellent acting. The production and acting were both of superlative quality, and the audience was on the qui vive of excitement and enthusiasm during the entire period of the performance.

Hassouna, a young and very beautiful Arabian girl, lives in the tented city of her tribe in the desert. Here comes Capt. Cadiere, an officer of the French navy, in pursuit of his duty. In a religious frenzy the tribe capture and make him prisoner, intending to kill him at dawn. Hassouna has seen the handsome young Frenchman, and falls in love with him. By strategy she effects his release and escape, and then confesses her deed to her father. The tribe is enraged at her act, and condemns her to death—choosing to abandon her in the desert, where she will perish from thirst. She is rescued by another tribe, who take her to the city of Tangiers and sell her as a dancing girl to a traveling circus.

A Child of the Desert.

After many hardships and much ill-usage at the hands of the brutal manager of the circus she is rescued and taken to the home of the man she aided in the desert. In scenes which occur during this period of the thrilling drama Nazimova is superb in the utter abandon of her art—she becomes the passionate, fiery young child of the desert, who does not know the meaning of the work restraint.

In the scenes in which she does the dance of the Veils she holds the audience in the palm of her hand—not a sound to break the rapt attention with which her work is received. It is a picture which arrests the attention and expands the imagination—transporting the beholder to the heart of things Oriental and mysterious, and telling a story of intrigue and passion, which is not to be surpassed.

Additional Features.

A British-Canadian Pathe News Weekly, a Keystone comedy, "Haunted by Himself," and special musical selections by the Grand Opera House orchestra, complete a thoroughly excellent program that will be repeated today, Wednesday and Thursday.

AT THE STAR

"SWAT THE SPY!" NOW SHOWN AT THE STAR THEATRE

Today is the day that all lovers of clean, wholesome comedy have been looking forward to for some time. Jane and Kathleen Lee, the "Baby Grands" of the motion pictures, are to be presented in an uproarious, side-splitting farce, called "Swat the Spy!" The Lees' surpassing ability as funmakers has been so thoroughly established that it has only become necessary to announce their appearance at a motion picture house to bring the crowds.

This newest feature by the Lee children is described as a merry melange of mischievous pranks and mirth-provoking situations, placed in a setting of exquisite pathos and practical patriotism. The comical kids not only prick the inflated bubble of a montrous alien plot, but they perform the operation in such an exquisitely humorous fashion that it becomes a constant source of delight and a joy forever. Clumsy Karl and lumbering Lena are as much a match for the keen-witted kids as a hungry fly would be for a sheet of tanglefoot.

MILD WINTER HARD ON COUNTY'S ROADS, SAYS THE ENGINEER

Autos Have Been Used Continuously For First Time.

Owing to the weather conditions this winter, many of the roads of Western Ontario, according to County Engineer Charles Talbot, are in need of more repair than at the close of other winters, when the snow was deep. This winter, on account of the light snowfall, was practically the first that autos were used on country roads, and these, aided by the wet weather of last autumn, have played havoc with the highways.

The difference in the conditions of various sections of the roads in this end of the province is due to the various degrees of snowfall in various districts. In Essex and Lambton counties there is scarcely any snow during the winter. In Elgin County there is only a light snowfall. The average depth in the winter is greater in Middlesex than the county to the south, while north of this county the "beautiful" is more plentiful still.

SUGGESTS ORDINATION OF ALL MINISTERS IN THE EPISCOPAL MANNER

A paper on the subject of "Church Reunion," presented Monday by Rev. Dr. L. N. Tucker at the monthly meeting of the Anglican Clerical Association, furnished material for an interesting discussion at the close. So great, indeed, was the interest manifested that it was decided to continue the discussion at the next meeting, Rev. Canon Gunne to give the leading paper.

In the course of his paper, Dr. Tucker dwelt upon the historic episcopate, pointing out that to his mind, this was one of the great barriers separating the Church of England from the dissenting bodies of the present age. The speaker said that this difficulty might be overcome if nonconformist ministers would receive episcopal ordination and at the same time they would not be called upon to renounce the former system of ordination.

Dr. Tucker further stated that more co-operation and sympathy would be necessary to promote the spirit of reunion and that without this spirit, little could be accomplished.

Considerable discussion took place in regard to the "Father and Son" banquet to be held in Cronyn Hall next Monday evening, February 10, at which fathers and sons of all the Anglican churches in the city will be represented. Following the banquet, a meeting at 8 o'clock will be addressed by Rt. Rev. Dr. Roper, Bishop of Ottawa, the Bishop of Huron to perform the duties of chairman.

DOROTHY GISH IN FASCINATING PLAY AT THE MAJESTIC

Famous Little Comedienne Makes Great Hit in Her Latest Photoplay.

Majestic patrons were delighted at all performances yesterday with "The Hope Chest," Dorothy Gish's latest screen success. In the role of Sheila Moore, the popular little comedienne made good use of many of the characteristic actions that gained her fame as the "Little Disturber" in "Hearts of the World."

The story tells a fascinating tale that holds the attention of the audience every minute. In many scenes Dorothy Gish uses almost the same costume, the chic and teasing expressions, and the same disdainful tossing of her head that made her love well liked in "Hearts of the World."

Story of the Play.

Sheila Moore, the daughter of a vaudeville actor who finds it difficult to earn a livelihood, determines to go upon the stage, but it told by the manager to whom she applies for an engagement that her work was the poorest he had seen in many years. Thus, without employment, and little to eat, Sheila becomes a clerk in the fashionable Ballantyne chocolate shop, where she meets Tom, the son of her employer. He becomes infatuated with Sheila, and without realizing that she is marrying a mere boy, she finally becomes his wife. Her father, as well as the Ballantynes, are shocked at the news, and the young bridegroom is obliged by his father to go to work for a living. The bride becomes in effect a ward of Ballantyne, Sen., and when a friend of her husband, who knows nothing of the marriage, makes violent love to her, she resents his course vigorously. She faints in his arms just as her husband appears on the scene, the result being a family suarrel which ends in Sheila quitting the Ballantyne home in anger. Tom then realizes that he has lost something, and his chase of his vanished bride, the reconstruction of ideas on the part of some of the family and the repentance of certain sinners, concludes an interesting story.

The portrayal of the role of Sheila by Miss Gish was thoroughly delightful. George Fawcett, the veteran player, was artistic as the old vaudeville actor, while Richard Barthelmiess, as the young husband, was all that the most exacting taste could demand. The support given by Sam de Grasse, Kate V. Toncray, Carol Dempster and Bertram Grassby, was adequate.

The photoplay is in every respect a charming production which may safely be recommended to all who love the best the cinema art provides.

Harold Lloyd Comedy.

Harold Lloyd, in "Wanted 500," is good for a laugh ever foot of this two-reel comedy.

A news weekly depicts many interesting scenes.

In vaudeville Eileen Castles, formerly of the New York Metropolitan Opera House, renders a number of high-class vocal selections.

The entire program is above criticism and will be repeated again today only.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL CLASSES CROWDED

Waiting Lists Formed Even On First Night.

Nearly every class overcrowded; the largest attendance by far that has ever been recorded; waiting lists formed for several classes.

This is the report from the Technical School which opened the winter term Monday night. Principal H. B. Beal is almost at his wits' end to find places for the numbers of applicants for tuition, and says it will be necessary to form additional classes, with assistant teachers, at once. Only in home nursing, architectural drafting, building and afternoon art classes is there any room for more pupils, and these vacancies are likely to be filled immediately.

Husband Devoured All Food; Wife and Baby Went Without

Young Woman Likely Will Go To Her Parents To Live.

Scantily clad, her feet covered with rubbers, tied on with pieces of string, and carrying a babe, mother and babe clearly showing the lack of nourishing food, a woman, who looked much older than the 26 years which she stated as her age, walked into Inspector J. W. McCallum's office the other day. She had no food or fuel in the house and her husband was sick; in fact, he had been to see the doctor that morning. Mr. McCallum was out, but Miss V. Reid promised that her case would be taken up immediately.

Upon investigation, Mr. McCallum found that the couple had recently moved into the city, and while he gave immediate assistance, decided that it was not a case for the city to undertake alone.

A few days later the wife again came into the office of J. W. McCallum, and stated that her husband had eaten the last bit of food in the house. It appears that with her last nickel she bought a half loaf of bread and took it home. Hubby, who had promised to love and protect her, saw the tempting morsel, and he devoured it forthwith. This was more than the wife could stand, and she appealed to Mr. McCallum. As the parents of the wife live near Kitchener, and are willing to keep her, the city will likely provide transportation for her. She is said to be willing to leave hubby, who, according to Mr. McCallum, is apparently able to work, to his own devices hereafter.

CHILDREN AT P. O. H. ALL ESCAPED "FLU"

OTTAWA CITIZEN BACKS ADVERTISER IN ITS CRITICISMS

Capital Newspaper Supports Arguments Advanced by London Journal.

STATEMENTS ANALYZED

Federal Government Spared Wealth by Omitting Taxation of It During War.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The Ottawa Citizen takes issue with the editorial comment of its contemporary, the Journal, upon the figures published in the London Advertiser, designed to show that the Dominion Government had during the war spared wealth, and had thereby gone into debt practically to the extent of the cost of the war. The Citizen says:

"The London Advertiser's statement that the Dominion Government has refused to tax wealth, and that as a consequence we have gone into debt to the extent of the cost of the war, is controverted in some quarters. The fact is, however, that the London journal is nearer right than wrong in its statement. We have taxed wealth, it is true, but the taxation has been mild, indeed, compared to similar taxation imposed by such other democratic countries as Britain and the United States.

Analysis Is Startling.

"There has been some disposition to dwell on the fact that last year, to quote a local journal, 'we paid off almost 20 per cent of war costs with current revenue.' That sounds very well, but on analysis it does not look the same.

"Our net public debt at the end of March, 1914, amounted to $336,000,000 in round figures. In the first year of the war the revenue not only did not provide enough to pay for the war, but it failed to secure enough to cover the civil budget. A SUM ADDIBLE THE AMOUNT SPENT ON THE WAR WAS, HOWEVER, ADDED TO THE NATIONAL DEBT. In the second year the revenue and the expenditures practically balanced, leaving the whole war outlay to be met by borrowing. In the third year there was a surplus of $41,000,000 applicable to the principal of the war outlay, and in the fourth year a similar sum of $26,000,000.

"DURING THE FOUR YEARS OF THE WAR WE SPENT ALL WE RECEIVED IN THE WAY OF REVENUE ON CIVIL EXPENDITURES, EXCEPT $12,000,000. Up to April of last year (1918) we had met less than 2 per cent of the total principal of the war outlay from current revenue. In the past year the surplus available for application on war outlay was $26,000,000, or 8 per cent.

"During the present year the surplus is likely to reach forty millions, which will be about 9 per cent. But it must be stated in all fairness that war interest and pensions have been paid out of this year's revenue. As against this there is the item of ordinary military and naval expenditure to be deducted, the civic budget being relieved of that sum, which, in peace time, totalled about $15,000,000.

Wealth Has It Easy.

"As for the incidence of taxation claim that we have not taxed wealth during the four years of the war the sufficiently has certainly strong support in the figures. In Britain in 1914-15 the tax on property and income was 48 per cent of the whole revenue. In 1917-18 it provided 51 per cent of the total revenue from taxes. In the United States in 1916-17 the tax on property and income provided only 17 per cent of the revenue. Within two years that proportion had changed to the remarkable figure of 69 per cent of the total.

"In Canada there was no tax on property and income at all during the period 1914-15. In 1915-16 it was the pitiful source of 1 per cent of our total revenue from taxation. In 1916-17 it provided 8 per cent of the revenue; in the last year 11 per cent. In other words taxes on consumption which bore 100 per cent of the burden in the years before the war, and during its first year, were carrying 89 per cent of the load at the end of the war.

"These figures are of interest at this time, too, for another reason. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, is anxious to know what the advocates of abolition of the tariff have to offer as a revenue-producer in the event of their demands being granted."

TWO HAD ARMS BROKEN

While cranking an auto Monday Jos. Donnelly, 24 Argyle street, had his arm broken and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He is a chauffeur of the Marley & Hexter Garage.

PEERLESS HOSIERY CO. HAS CHANGED HANDS

Ownership of the Peerless Hosiery Company, Limited, has changed hands. Richard L. Baker of Toronto has purchased the business from Douglas R. Teasdall, Waterloo street, this city, who organized the firm and who, through his careful management, was instrumental in bringing it to its present size. In 1917 the plant was small, but now more than 150 persons are employed, and a large factory on Adelaide street, near the C. P. R. tracks, which, with the equipment, is worth more than $100,000, has been built.

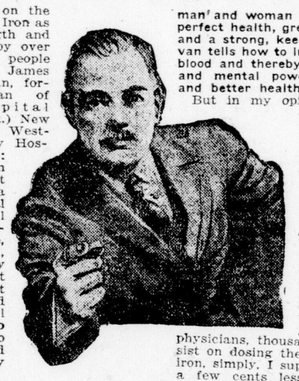
Physicians Explain Who Should Take Nuxated Iron

Practical Advice on How to Help Build Up Great Strength, Energy and Endurance.

Commenting on the use of Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood builder by over three million people annually, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York, and The Westchester County Hospital, said: "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life.



man and woman who wants to possess perfect health, great physical endurance and a strong, keen mentality, Dr. Sullivan tells how to increase the iron in our blood and thereby gain greater physical and mental power, brighter intellects and better health.

It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, rundown patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly-nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all "run down," while at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy."

The accompanying article of Dr. Sullivan should be carefully read by every man and woman who wants to possess perfect health, great physical endurance and a strong, keen mentality. Dr. Sullivan tells how to increase the iron in our blood and thereby gain greater physical and mental power, brighter intellects and better health.

But in my opinion you can't make strong, vigorous, successful, sturdy iron men, and healthy, rosy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist on dosing themselves with metallic iron, simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble then purchase Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron.

Manufacturers' Note.—Nuxated Iron, which is used by Dr. Sullivan and others with such surprising results, and which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee sucessful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Standard Drug, Limited, and all other druggists.

Bunn the Baker of Bara-Boo

Ever Eat Bacon on Bread?

THREE things, for most people, cook with an irresistible, fragrant smell. They are—toasting bread, brewing coffee and frying bacon.

Can you think of any one of them without getting hungry?

What a perfect breakfast they make when combined!

Use NEAL'S ALOAFA BREAD for your toast, of course. No bread toasts like it—you'll see why.

But particularly, we want to speak today of NEAL'S ALOAFA BREAD when eaten with bacon. Have your bacon fried just to suit, then placed between two medium-thin slices of NEAL'S ALOAFA BREAD and—

C-r-u-n-c-h! My, but that's good. The sweet, nutty flavor of the bacon blends perfectly with the cereal goodness and toothsome flavor of NEAL'S ALOAFA BREAD, and you have found a new palate delight, and one that is beneficial to your body, too.

One thing, please—no other bread but NEAL'S will do. See that it comes to your table three times a day. Sold for cash only to the best homes in London and district.
