His Choice

There came to a home of a negro in Tennessee an addition to the family in the shape of triplets. The proud father hailed the first man who came along the road and asked him in to see them. The man, who was an Irishman, seemed greatly intetested in the infants as he looked them over, lying in a row before him.

"What does yo' think?" asked the parent.

"Waul"---pointing to the one in the middle.--"I think I'd save that one.

A old gentleman accustomed to walk around the James Park every day was once asked by a friend if he still took his usual walk.

"No sir," replied the man. "I cannot do as much now. I cannot get around the park. I only go half way around and back again.

"Pa," said Tommy "my Sunday school teacher says if I'm good I'll go to heaven."

"Well, what about that?" said his pa.

"Well, you said if I was good I'd go on the circus. Now, I want to know who's fibbing you or her."

'Twas midnight, yet mother sat stitching with care.
Her labor still for from its end;
And she smiled as she said, with a half plaintive air:
'It's never too late to mend.'
