are not satisfied with it, or where the necessity for St. Dunstan's? If it be true, as he asserts, that the Academy will meet the need of this island, let him show us the wisdom of his spiritual guides in erecting that large and expensive building north of Charlottetown. And what pretext can he devise to cover (if our estimate of the Academy is wrong) priest McDonald's folly, in hounding every member of our Assembly for his vote to endow this new "sectarian college," whose very existence stultifies Mr. K.'s bold pretensions, and emphatically proclaims the great need of something educationally better than the Academy. Why is Mr. Kenny not employing his great "talents" in exposing the folly of Mr. McDonald's scheme? He is busy though,—now writing to Mr. Mooney, now to Mr. McAulay, now attacking Protestant meetings, now praising himself, then dispraising Messrs. Lochhead and Murray, now quieting his "co-religionists," and anon dealing with political economy; then, in a private way, repudiates the idea of ministers "discussing subjects about which they are ignorant." Why does his zeal shew itself to be so one-sided, and tending to one end? Why does the college (the heaviest blow his Academy has received comes from that quarter) pass unnoticed, while attention is turned to every thing else? Ask why the notorious Dr. Webster, of Boston, exercised his utmost skill to divert attention from the Medical College? He had something there he wished to conceal;—and Mr. Kenny knows something about St. Dunstan's he, too, wishes to conceal! What consummate pharasaism and hypocrisy!—does it not reveal the Jesuit?—to tell us that he knew of nothing transpiring that opposed his Academy, until the Protestant meeting disturbed his too lamb-like confidence? Why, is not THE College a standing protest against the efficiency of the Academy? And to talk as he has done, with that large object before his eyes, argues little favorable for his veracity or judgment. If we do not need the Academy improved, where is the earthly need of St. Dunstan's? Either Bishop McDonald and Priest McDonald have blundered, or Mr. Kenny has. Indeed, these are the gentlemen to whom he ought to have written his famous epistles, satisfactorily proving that we need nothing higher than the Academy,—he ought to have poured out his grievous lamentations about "long services" and "little pay" in their ears. But as he has not done this, it must be understood, as Protestants have no college and are not seeking to establish a denominational one, that Mr. K. considers the Academy good enough FOR THEM, though not for Catholics, who, he hopes, will provide some better "thing" for themselves,—and for him too: even a professor's chair in the new college!—IF he cannot serve them better in the Academy. He flings at denominational colleges in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, but quietly passes over the only denominational college of this island. His "co-religionists" have sectarian schools; they have their convent,—their college; an undue authority over the normal school and the academy. And now, Protestants cannot talk about improving the academy, without being scandalized by Kenny,—a Catholic! Is not this grievous oppression? Is it not alarming? Does it not reveal the workings of a plogradually strengthening itself, and proportionally emboldening its accomplices? Popery is ever the same—crafty, cruel, persecuting.

Hoping that you will give place to the foregoing in your popular periodical, and promising (D.V.) that I will pursue this subject next week,

I am,
Yours very truly,
ISAAC MURRAY.

Cavendish, April 14, 1858.

THE following correspondence will show the public the spirit which animates the Examiner and its contributors. Regard for truthfulness, and respect for the character of distinguished citizens, seem no longer to restrain the most reckless and disgraceful accusations. One resource is open—a further repetition of such attacks must render the Examiner unfit to be seen in the office or on the table of any intelligent gentleman.—[ED. PROTECTOR.

(From the Examiner, April 12.)

LIEUT. COL. GRAY AND THE PROTECTOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER.

SIR,—Learning that the Hon. Mr. Gray is about re-entering public life, and thereby giving as a hostage to society, his reputation for the fidelity of his future conduct, we have a right to see what the article is worth before society should accept it. And as a disregard for truth is a very serious blemish on the character of a man who aims to be the expounder of truth, I am inclined to think the gallant Colonel should be voted out of the service of the people.

In a letter lately addressed to you by Col. Gray, he stated that he had no further connection with the Protector—of the management of which he was evidently much ashamed—than the payment of his subscription of twelve shillings a year. Since then I have learned that two persons waited on the publisher of the Protector, and asked to be allowed to insert a short communication in that paper. Mr. Haszard stated that he could not comply with their wish unless he had the approval of the Editorial Committee. He was requested to name the Committee, and he did so. They were the Hon. Col. Gray, Reverends Messrs. Fitzgerald, Duncan and George Sutherland. Mr. Coker can, if he please, testify to the truth of this fact.

Now, what are we to think of a gentleman who deliberately informs the public that he has no interest in, or connection with, a certain newspaper beyond the paying of his subscription to it; while we have undoubted testimony that nothing can appear in the columns of that paper without his sanction? There is one thing certain—either Col. Gray or the publisher of the Protector has stated a falsehood. Let them settle the matter between them.

ANTI-HUMBUG.

April 12, 1858.

The following communication was sent to the Examiner for publication, on Friday last:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER.

Sir,—In your last issue there appeared a letter from some person, who, ashamed to attach his real name, makes a most unwarrantable and unfounded assertion. He says, "I have learned that two persons waited on the publisher of the Protector, and asked to be allowed to insert a short communication in that paper. Mr. Haszard stated that he could not comply with their wish, unless he had the approval of the Editorial Committee. He was requested to name the Committee, and he did so. They were the Hon. Colonel Gray," &c. One of these persons, I presume, was Mr. Roberts, who, accompanied with another person, called at my book-store, and offered a communication for insertion in the Protector; the Clerk, in the shop, submitted the communication to me in the printing office, where I usually do business, and I told him to state to the parties, that I could not, on my own responsibility, insert it, even as an advertisement, as it reflected on the character of the Hon. Mr. Lord and others; that I would submit it to the Committee, but that I did not think they would allow its insertion, without the objectionable passages were struck out. The communication was returned to Mr. Roberts. After a few days Mr. Roberts called again, and saw me in the office. He requested me to ask if the communication, as published in the Islander, would be inserted in the Protector, and I promised him to submit it to the editors in time for our first issue. Mr. Roberts did not ask me who the editors were, nor did I tell him. I submitted the communication to them, individually, and it was rejected. The assertion, therefore, that "Mr. Haszard was requested to name the Committee, and did so," is positively untrue.

I am, your obedient servant,
GEORGE T. HASZARD.

Instead of the above communication appearing in the Examiner, we have the following notice to correspondents:

WE acknowledge the receipt of the following correspondence—"George T. Haszard," in reply to "Anti-Humbug," which appeared in our last issue. We will cheerfully publish this letter in our next issue, but we shall take occasion to state the whole truth of the subject involved, which Mr. Haszard has not done.

TO THE PUBLISHER OF THE PROTECTOR.

Sir,—With reference to the information you this day afforded me, relative to the note you sent last week to the editor of the Examiner, but which has not appeared in his issue of yesterday, so far as my name is concerned, I regret you should have considered it necessary to reply to such an attack as that you have referred to in your note—the vail which would cover the animus displayed by "Anti-Humbug" is too transparent to deceive, and it would have been as well to have left such a shallow and puerile attempt unnoticed.

Much as it is to be deplored, yet there are but few communities exempt from the presence of characters so shameless and depraved, that communications under their real signatures would be passed over as equally worthless with their authors; such individuals cling to a medium through which their effusions may at least be read, and amid this class doubtless would be found the writer of the letter headed "Lieut.-Colonel Gray and the Protector," published in the Examiner of the 12th inst.; but in addition to the misstatement about yourself, there is another which Mr. Whelan knows to be palpably untrue, and yet he has readily given it a place in the columns of his paper. Mr. Whelan is well aware that I never wrote him any letter in which I stated that I had "no interest in or connection with" the Protector, further than the payment of my annual subscription; he is equally aware that the allusion to the Protector in my letter in the Islander was in ridicule of the absurdity of Mr. Whelan's statement: that the officers of the Gulnare were the principal contributors to a fund by which the Protector was supported, and which statement those officers showed the value of by an immediate refutation.—As one of the foremost among the well-wishers of the great and good cause the Protector so ably advocates—the next fabrication would probably have been that I was one of the contributors to this imaginary fund, therefore, en passant, I pointed out that Mr. Whelan need not indulge his peculiar infirmity in further error, as I was quite willing he should know that my support reached the large sum of twelve shillings per annum; and yet Mr. Whelan permits this to be maliciously exaggerated into my having written him to say I had "no interest in or connection with" the Protector beyond my subscription. On the contrary, I have ever taken a very great interest in your excellent and well-conducted paper, a journal which, I have no doubt your numerous subscribers will agree with me, is as eminently calculated to uphold a good tone in society, as unhappily the columns of the Examiner would tend to depress and degrade it.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient,
JOHN HAMILTON GRAY.

Royalty, 20th April, 1858.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER.

Sir,—In a communication in your paper of last Monday, I am accused of uttering or writing "slanders" against Mr. Kenny. I demand of you, as proprietor of that paper, an immediate enumeration of those "slanders," otherwise I shall hold you guilty of wilfully disseminating false and libellous accusations.

Yours,
GEORGE SUTHERLAND.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1858.

PRAYER.

"Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, believing, ye shall receive." These are the terms on which we are told to expect blessings from heaven. Ask them in Jesus' name, and exercise faith till the request is granted. These two conditions fulfilled, the whatsoever includes all our hearts desire, that is at the same time in accordance with the will of the great Hearer of prayer. "Whatsoever." Sinner, is it your soul's interests about which you are anxious? "Whatsoever ye shall ask." The whatsoever includes the salvation of your soul. Ask for pardon, nothing doubting, and thou shalt have it, sooner or later. You wish an admittance into the kingdom of heaven. "Knock and it shall be opened." No faltering knock. Let your confidence be humble as it may, still have confidence, knock as if you felt it would be opened.

Is it the spiritual welfare of a friend for which you are concerned? It too is included in the whatsoever. Jesus would have your friend to be saved. Very likely he is about to send salvation to him or her, and puts the prayer or the desire in your heart at present, that when the blessing is sent you may see it and know that it is of the Lord. That is a very noticeable feature in God's method of procedure. The holy desires that come into our hearts are frequently prophecies of the coming good. God determines to send the blessing, and he prepares us for it by making us pray and long. Pious prayer and longings are the Urim and Thummim of the Christian. They are God's voice in the soul, the Spirit taking of the things of God and showing them unto us, the things that God hath purposed, and is shortly to accomplish. If the anxious desire is given, the blessing will soon arrive. Pray. The salvation of your friend is near.

Are you interested in your church? Do you wish to see greater vitality in it? So does Jesus. It is a prayer acceptable before him. Ask, and you shall receive. The blessing is about to come. Your anxiety is the earnest, and the pledge;—continue praying, day after day—month after month—year after year, if that be necessary; and in due time thou shalt reap, if thou faint not. Pray on. The blessing is coming. Have faith. Look not to your prayer to gain the blessing, but to the name of Jesus. The church will grow in grace. Religion will be revived in the midst of it. Or do you mourn for a world lying in wickedness? Oh, there is much to be done—very much. How few real Christians are there among the millions by whom the world is peopled. How many that have never heard of Jesus. How many that have heard of Him, but have received as much error as truth in the report. Many an idol must be cast to the mole and the bat: many a temple overthrown, many a barbarous practice got rid, before the knowledge of the Lord cover the face of the earth, as the waters cover the channel of the mighty deep. Satan holds an extensive sway on the earth still. Oh, we have need to pray—we have need to be earnest. Be earnest. God is not displeased with your prayers. He would have all to come to him. "Go and preach the Gospel," was his command, "to all nations." If you cannot preach, pray for all nations. Oh! prayer is a mighty engine. It moves the arm of God to work. It brings a divine power to operate on sinners' hearts, to build up saints. Do you feel a great anxiety for the heathen? Then pray. The anxiety is the prophetic whisper of God to your soul, that you are safe in that prayer, that its answer is ready, "Before they call, I will answer."—Is. lxv, 24. Reader, now is the time for prayer. Every day is so; but more especially to-day is. It is your accepted time. It is your day of salvation. Seize it, friend. To-morrow may be too late. God may not be on his throne of mercy to-morrow.

"Prayers then extorted shall be vain,
The hour of mercy past."

Be up and doing while God is favourable. Pray for yourself, for your friends, for the church, for the world; and God, who is faithful, shall hear you.

UNION PRAYER MEETINGS.

The Union Prayer Meetings will be continued as follows:—THIS EVENING, (Wednesday,) in the FREE CHURCH; THURSDAY EVENING, in the TEMPERANCE HALL; and on FRIDAY EVENING in ST. JAMES' CHURCH, all to commence at half-past Seven o'clock. All who have a desire for the prosperity of true religion, and the awakening of sinners from their state of slumber, are expected to attend.

A Sermon introductory to the establishment of a weekly prayer meeting in connection with the Episcopal Church in this city, to be held on every Friday at 7½ p.m., will be preached (D. V.) at the Infant School Room this evening, at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—The writer of a communication from Antigonish, N. S, did not send us his name—an indispensable requisite before we can publish his letter.

Several other communications received, will be attended to in due course.

A LINE OF STEAMERS BETWEEN THE LOWER PROVINCES AND CANADA.—We are glad to observe, that our rising trade with the Lower Provinces is attracting attention. An effort is being made to obtain the advantages of direct steam communication, but the attempts are desultory and unconnected. All the Provinces are actuated by the same desire, but there is no concert or unanimity of action. What is wanted is rapid and speedy communication with the Lower Ports. This could be efficiently secured by a line of three strong steamers adapted for ocean navigation, with good passenger accommodation, and of sufficient power and speed to make a weekly trip from Montreal to Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, and vice versa, touching at River du Loup and Rimouski, and thus securing and accommodating the large Canadian travel to the watering places of the Lower St. Lawrence, then at Gaspe, affording outlet to the important trade of that district, and next at ports in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia before arriving at the terminus of Prince Edward Island. Such a line would command a large and remunerative business. It would attract a tide of ocean pleasure travel, and it would develop and build up our inter-provincial trade. Besides the passenger traffic, it would have down freights of flour and provisions, and return cargoes of fish, sugar and molasses. With the legitimate business that would speedily be developed, and subsidies from the Lower Provinces and Canada to foster it until self-supporting, the inter-provincial line would be a feeder to the ocean line of steamers, and would do much to advance the interests of all the Provinces. We hope that this subject will engage the prompt attention of the Government, and that immediate steps will be taken to secure the joint action of the different Provinces. It is a pity to see isolated attempts made for want only of mutual conference. We would be glad to see this subject taken hold of, in an energetic manner, by some of our practical business men. The Canadian Ocean Steam Company might well consider whether it would not materially benefit their enterprise, were they to institute such a feeding line as we have suggested.—Montreal Gazette.
