THE FORDNEY BILL

New York, Feb. 3.—The failure of the Senate to adopt closure, so as to get a vote on the tariff bill makes its dropping for the session certain, the N. Y. Times says today.

The newspaper continues: "It may be called up now and then when some senator wants to cleanse his stuffed bosom of five or six hours of solitary speech, but it will no longer be seriously pressed for passage. Real public business will demand all of the time of the Senate, if the appropriation bills are to be passed before March 4. The tariff bill is as good as dead."

STRANGE IDEAS OF CANADA.

The Lost Balloonists Still Some Distance from the North Pole.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having spent many years in Canada, I cannot help being amused and sometimes not a little provoked by the ridiculous notions the average New Yorker entertains concerning that country. Apart whom this criticism does not apply, the general impression seems to be that, once across the American border, you are somewhere in the vicinity of the North Pole.

Let me illustrate: We were discussing the late adventure of the navy balloonists, and one of our number, having been informed that James Bay was about four hundred miles from the American border, say at the northern point of New York State, then asked how far it was from the pole, adding his own supposition that it was probably about the same distance. When I informed him that it was a matter of 2,500 miles or more he laughed outright and left me as if I had sworn black was white.

I wonder in what latitude this type think the American border line lies? Do they think the United States embraces all of the North American continent except a fringe around the Arctic Circle?

Now, I do not deny that it is cold in the Hudson Bay country. It is often 30 degrees below zero and more, but so is it in Ogdensburg, N. Y., now and then. And even so, 30 degrees below zero there is no worse than 15 degrees below zero here on the seacoast.

We were told that it was 10 degrees below zero when the balloonists landed. That would be like about 5 or 6 degrees above here.

If we would stop to think, we would realize that hungry-half-naked men do not wander through the woods four days and four nights and be little the worse for it, in Arctic regions.

Again, others reading that 'the snow had no bottom to it" jumped to the conclusion that it was so deep there seemed to be no end to it, as we say of a lake beyond the length of our plumb line. Any one familiar with the terms of the woods knows that this does not apply to depths, but that the snow is "slushy," having no frozen foundation under it—further proof of the mild weather prevailing.

Do you know that the point where the balloonists landed is south of the most southerly point in Ireland, south even of the Straits of Dover? Do you know that there are points in Canada as far south as Central Spain and Portugal?

Now this is not intended to detract in any way from the exploits of these daring balloonists. They are the kind of brave men we need—men who dare for knowledge, not for spoilation, after the manner of our heroes of the past. But I cannot say as much for the officials who sent them north in the dead of winter and in a craft they could not control. But here I may be wrong, so will say no more.

I had a letter from a friend in Nova Scotia dated Dec. 20, 1920. My friend happened to mention the fact that the farmers throughout the country were still ploughing their fields. Think of it, ploughing in the Arctic at Christmas. How the seasons have changed!

G. M. LEWIS.

LOCAL NEWS

As a result of a split rail the incoming Valley train was derailed near Gagetown yesterday afternoon and did not reach the city until midnight. An engine was sent out from the city and most of the passengers arrived here on a freight train. The track was cleared about 9.30, but the derailed engine was left on the side of the track.

A Scottish concert under the auspices of the Young People's Association of St. Andrew's church, was given last evening in the school room of the church, with Charles Robinson in the chair. The feature of the evening was the presentation of a scout flag, as a prize for the boy selling the most tickets, to Everett Robinson, who in turn presented it to St. Andrew's Boy Scouts, of which troop he is a patrol leader. The presentation was made by Mrs. E. A. Smith. Rev. Dr. Fraquhardson gave an address and those who took part were John Currie, W. A. Weeks, Miss Ross, Charles Ross, John Rosseley, Miss Frances Murdock, Miss Roberta Roberts, Miss Kaplin, Thomas Guy, D. A. Fox and Hon. R. J. Ritchie.

A meeting of the Lancaster and Indiantown ferry commissioners was held last evening in the office of the county secretary with Warden T. H. Bullock in the chair. Besides a considerable amount of routine business disposed of committees were appointed to see to the smearing of the boat for its protection against the ice and in regard to driving pies and making repairs to the floats.
