STREET RAILWAY MATTERS.

The Conductor Bylaw to be Repealed —Opening the Tracks.

The board of works yesterday recommended that the bylaw requiring the Toronto Street Railway company to employ conductors on one horse cars be repealed. There were present Chairman Carlyle, Ald. Steiner, Hall, Allen, Jones, John Woods, Turner and Baxter. Hon. Frank Smith was also present. Ald. Hall said that the bylaw had been an election cry for a long time. If the bylaw remained on the books it should be enforced; if it were not enforced it should be taken off. His motion was carried without discussion.

Senator Smith offered to pay $1.25 per day to all the unemployed hanging about the engineer's office for removing the ice from the company's tracks. Permission was granted the company to open up their tracks provided the snow be spread out and traffic not interfered with.

The Labor Question.

Editor World: The strike at Massey's factory brings the labor question again into prominence. Labor alone is not to blame for the agitation fomented, for the moment the employer has any idea that his employes are striving to better their condition that moment he commences to grind them still further down towards starvation. In order that he may nip in the bud any tendency on their part towards advancement. Employers who employ skilled workmen, pay the best prices, and are liberal other ways, seldom have trouble with their men, and they attribute it to the fact that they do not recognize trades unions. But this is where they make a large mistake, as trades unions are not aggressive when all they ask is granted. Unions are always ready to submit to arbitration. The workman knows the state of trade, how much he requires for the necessaries of life, and to what extent the labor market is overcrowded. He accepts a reduction with as much grace as he received an advancement, because he knows that the reduction means a saving on the capital invested by his employer when business was brisk. But the employer who makes 40 per cent. in brisk times is not content unless in dull times he realizes an equal amount. Then he cuts down wages, and the poor workingman is the sufferer. Consequently strikes have become a necessity, a duty, a matter of self-preservation to workingmen and their families, who have no other resort when "crowded" by the grinding penuriousness of wealthy corporations. The workingmen fully realize that if the strike is unsuccessful they will be no worse off for their efforts to secure in advance compensation, as each striker receives from his union enough money to pay his living expenses during his enforced idleness. Hereby is demonstrated the advantages of organization and mutual self-protection. Workingmen rarely strike without just cause—either on the part of the employer, or because they are eking out such a miserable existence between low prices and half-time, that the struggle to live is not worth prolonging, or the situation not worth holding. GOMER.

The Legalization of Wrong.

Editor World: "You cannot legalize wrong, Mr. Pepler," said the mayor, meaning "you ought not to," I suppose. But having done so—if it be wrong—and the city having received a large share of the profits—having done so, Mr. Mayor, would it not be "right" to say: "You cannot creep out honorably without returning some of that profit to those of your partners whom you now repudiate." Fancy a man buying a barrel of beer, drinking it, then refusing payment because of conscientious scruples. Fancy 76 new stores compulsorily put in operation to contest trade with other stores, already overdone, and bringing down the value of the whole property and trade alike. B.

—Grandma, said a Rosedale young lady indignantly, Clara Brown says that grandpa kept a corner grocery when you were young? She is mistaken, said grandma. I knew she was, the mean, spiteful thing. Yes, she is mistaken, the old lady repeated; it wasn't on a corner, it was in the middle of the block near where quinn's beautiful shirt store now stands. x

J. & A. Carter, 372 Yonge street. 36

A Wise Choice.

—In selecting a remedy for coughs and colds the wise choice is to take one that loosens the tough mucous clinging to the air passages. Such a remedy is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which promptly breaks up hard colds and their troublesome effects. 246

The Strikers.

—The men say that there is always consolation and happiness to be had, rain or shine, work or play, morning, noon and night, in fact all the time. Well, you are anxious to know how all that is to be obtained? I will just tell you.
