THE HUNT CLUB ENTRIES.

A Total of 45 for Saturday's Races at Woodbine Park.

More Horses Expected from Windsor Next Week—The Wellington Stables' Lionheart May be Allowed to Race Here—Red Monk and Chiquita Win at Windsor—Cards for To-day.

The entries for Saturday next, which inaugurates the five days' meeting of the Hunt Club at the Woodbine, have filled remarkably well, and the excellent list given below is subject to additions received by letter mailed in time from distant places. A total of 45 entries for five races is a distinctly good showing, and as many owners now engaged at Windsor will not come till Wednesday next, when the four days' consecutive racing begins, there is every prospect that there will be more than enough horses to give good sport for the five days' meeting, which has been so pluckily undertaken. Among the horses from Windsor which will be seen here next Saturday will be the fine string of the Clyde stable, owned by Mr. W. W. Lyles, and the Newmarket stable, which has some of Mr. Seagram's campaigners in it, and J. C. Dixon, with Rideau, a crack 2-year-old, Arab and a couple of others. There is a remarkably strong showing in the cross-country division, and the entries go into double figures. The hunters' flat has nine, but of these one or two will be struck out for lack of qualification.

In regard to J. Nixon's entries, the Executive of the Hunt are in correspondence with the stewards of the National Steeplechase Association. The owner and stable were not ruled off, as many people suppose; their entries were merely refused by the stewards, and this applies only to clubs racing under the rules of the National Steeplechase Association. The Hunt Club need only be bound by feelings of respect for the rulings of the National Steeplechase stewards, but unless these intimate their desire that the Wellington stable entries be refused at Toronto, Lionheart will be allowed to start.

WON A COASTING MATCH.

A remarkable victory was won by the "Yellow Fellows" at Trenton, N.J., last Saturday. The day was perfect and a great crowd of spectators lined the course and encouraged the riders as they rolled along. Out of 57 entries, 49 contested, representing 23 different wheels. Sixteen machines of one well-known make alone were in the race. Out of the lot there was just one Stearns entered and ridden, a wheel which had seen about 2900 miles of hard road service, the property of Joseph Leach. Three heats and a final were run, Leach winning every hat. Mr. Leach's best coast was 2503 feet and 6 inches, his nearest competitor being able to make but 2486 feet. In the first heat the wheel ran 2486 feet and 6 inches; in the second heat, 2503 feet and 6 inches; in the third heat, 2503 feet and 5 inches, and in the final 2470 feet.

ROYALS' FAST 20 MILES.

The Royal Canadians held a 20-mile race on the Woodbine track last evening, all but the first and last miles being paced. The contest was to select five men for the Dunlop Trophy race, the other five being the club's best placed men in the R.Q.T. race. H. Parkins won by a wheel, the third man being a mile behind. Result: H. Parkins 1, A. Oake 2, C. Leeman 3, W. Simpson 4, A. Lennie 5, G. Abbott 6, T. Smith 7. Also started: P. Humphries, A. Lesslie. Time 55.04.

ANTELOPE ROAD RACE.

D. McKinlay, chairman of Judges' Committee, writes: In reply to the letter of Mr. Stewart of the Tourist Cycle Club, I would say that he appears to be as unfamiliar concerning the facts after the race as he was ignorant of the rules before the race. In explanation of this matter, I would say that the rules governing the race were posted in Mr. Lochrie's public show room for a week before the race took place, and after the men were lined up at the starting point the rules governing the race were announced. It is, indeed, unfortunate that Mr. Stewart, neither having seen the rules nor heard the warning at the starting point, did not think to enquire concerning the conditions.

THE CHURCH'S NEW VOICE

Which will be Heard in the Diocesan Conference.

IT IS A FRESH DEPARTURE.

Amusement, Recreation and Other Social Problems to be Discussed.

Canada Follows the Example of England and Will Freely Consider Social Problems—The Conference Opened Last Evening by Interesting Services in St. James' Cathedral, St. Philip's and the Church of the Redeemer—Program of the Three Sessions To-day.

Diocesan conferences are very popular in England, but hitherto they have not been held in Canada. They differ from meetings of the Synod in that business matters are not discussed, but only questions bearing upon practical Christianity. In connection with the first to be held in Toronto there were special services last night in St. James' Cathedral, St. Philip's Church and the Church of the Redeemer.

AT ST. JAMES'.

Here the attendance was very large and the service, which was choral, was admirably rendered. The Lord Bishop presided, Rev. Canon Mockridge read the prayers, and Rev. J. C. Inglis and Rev. Street Macklem the lessons.

The sermon, which was preached by Rev. Dr. McConnell of Brooklyn, N.Y., was a remarkable one, entirely out of the beaten line of Anglican discourses. The preacher, a tall, thin, dark man, attempted no flights of eloquence, but he enunciated many views to which a congregation in St. James' Cathedral is unaccustomed. His text was Mark xvi., 17, "These signs shall follow them that believe; in My name they shall speak with new tongues." He said Christ showed all that was necessary to be believed, but the process of apprehension had been very slow. He would speak of two or three of the phases or stages in which the Christian world had adopted Christ's words, and would then consider whether the last phase had been reached.

The first was the theological, or doctrinal stage, which occupied four centuries, during which councils determined coherently what Christ taught. At this stage the Church of the Orient has sat mumbling its prayers, helpless to move one hand at the present day for any practical progress.

The second stage was the ecclesiastical, which occupied all the centuries till the Reformation, and stopped there without further development.

The third stage was that of experience of truth in the individual. Then the church spoke with the tongue of evangelicalism. Alas, it thought the last word had been spoken, that Christ's truth had been exhausted.

But orthodoxy, catholicity and piety had not said the last word. The Christian world had already advanced a stage as distinct as any of the three he had sketched. There are signs of dissatisfaction widely spread. One was the increasing large number of godly men and women who live their religious life outside of any church organization. Another sign was the prevalent discontent with the existing formularies of Christian doctrine. Revision was in the air. Men do not care for doctrinal sermons now. They either go to sleep when they are preached, or stay away.

The decadence of ecclesiasticism was also noticed and the fewer conversions. Mr. Moody, 25 years ago, used to count his converts by the hundreds; now the revivalist has turned into a teacher. Still the Spirit of God was at work, but in different directions. Proof of this the preacher gave in the interest which was taken in the life of Christ. Up to 50 years ago, there was no written life of Jesus Christ; now they abound.

Again there was an intense desire to make Christ known in common life, apart from doctrines and creeds. That complex theory known as church work did not exist 40 years ago.

The church had in 18 centuries emerged into the Christianity of conduct, and it was this that made possible a diocesan conference, and enabled the church to speak with a new tongue on such topics as "amusement and recreation in the Christian life," "Recreation and Sunday," and the other social problems which would be considered at that conference.

IN ST. PHILIP'S.

The service in St. Philip's was attended by an audience comfortably filling the stately edifice. Rev. Canon Sweeney, D.D., the rector, conducted the preliminary services, to which the choir contributed very acceptably.

The Hon. and Rev. Dr. Prall of Detroit preached a very eloquent and timely sermon, taking as his text the familiar exhortation from St. John: "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations." The distinguished divine began with a review of the different religions which mankind has believed in from the beginning. Of these, said he, the only aggressive ones have been Christianity, Mohammedanism and Mormonism. The Egyptians, though they persecuted the Hebrews in civil life, are not mentioned anywhere as interfering with the religious faith of their bondsmen. The Greek and Roman mythology was not accepted by all the people, many of whom looked upon it as a poetical attempt to explain the mysteries of nature, and, consequently, this lack of unanimity prevented intolerance among them. Whatever religious bigotry existed among the Medes and Persians was only characteristic of the over-zealous priesthood. Judaism did not spread, on account of the rigid ceremonial law which forbade it, and no attempt was ever made to force the propagation of the teachings of Buddha.

Comparing the three spreading religions, the speaker said that Islamism was proved by long and bloody wars of conquest to be aggressive. The zeal for Allah was great, but that for self was greater. Surely, said the eloquent gentleman, it will not be long before Constantinople is taken and the Greek and Armenian Christians set free. Mormonism he characterized as a blot on the escutcheon of the young republic, and should be crushed as we would crush a rattlesnake, as it made war upon society. Christianity has used the persuasive force of arms only once, and that was when Charlemagne waged war against the barbaric Saxons. The sermon was concluded with an urgent appeal to Christians to follow their great Leader's methods of propagation and to work with renewed vigor with the aim of advancing His cause.

AT THE REDEEMER.

In the Church of the Redeemer the Rev. Henry Tatlock, M.A., of Ann Arbor, preached a very strong and impressive sermon from the subject, "The Church of the Living God," to a very small but attentive audience. Mr. Tatlock is an eloquent speaker of great force and persuasion. He handled his subject logically and philosophically, dividing it into three headings, the character of the church; its mission; and the source of its power. He said it was as natural for people to hold different views on religious matters as it was for them to think divergently on other affairs of life. In man there is an inherent propensity to revolution, and this is more true of the church than of any other institution. It was for this reason, he said, that all attempts to form a church on a purely ritualistic basis had failed. Though there are divisions in the church, as an institution of human ordering, in the true Church of God there is unity and harmony; there are no intellectual tests to enter it; no human barriers to shut out the poor and the weak. The Church of God is for all men, and for all ages. The foundation of the church must be as sure and as sound as the throne of God itself. It must not be a society of ethical culture; its basis must not be a system of thought, but of truth; yet it has a rational basis in the Apostles' Creed, whose facts are the foundation of the church. The great divine then went on to show that these were not views or opinions of men, but facts, facts as lasting and as indestructible as the steps leading up to the great white throne. Continuing, he said: If the church was to live it must embrace all sorts and conditions of men—the rich and the poor alike must have an entrance. When a man entered the church he did not become a member of a society, but a citizen of the Kingdom of Heaven. Man is a freeborn agent, and may join this citizenship or not, but as a creature of God it is his solemn duty to do so. With awful earnestness Mr. Tatlock impressed upon his hearers that the only redemption for the woes of man was religion. Coming now to his second division, the Mission of the Church he said the work of the church was to rescue man; not to save man on the earth, but to rescue him out of it; not to save him from the effects of sin, but from sin itself; not to save man for the future life only, but that the future life may be a result of the present. Its work
