McIntyre of South Perth To Be Deputy Speaker and Mr. Marcil To Be Speaker---Johnstone and Logan to Get Senatorships

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—J. J. Hughes, ex-M. P., who suffered defeat in King's County, Prince Edward Island, was looked on as the strongest candidate that the Government had in that province. His defeat, however, will doubtless be solaced by the receipt of the first senatorship which falls vacant for the island province.

There are also two vacant senatorships for Nova Scotia to be disposed of before the House meets. Neither of them has yet been promised, but the chances are that one will go to Hance J. Logan, late Liberal member for Cumberland, and the other to Alexander Johnstone, ex-M. P., who suffered a defeat in Cape Breton at the hands of a Socialist.

Local issues had a great deal to do with the results in Nova Scotia and in New Brunswick. In the former the Murray Government has recently imposed a tax for the maintenance and improvement of the roads, which has been intensely resented in some parts of the province. In the present instance this resentment has found expression in some of the Nova Scotia constituencies against the Federal candidates. It was the imposition of a somewhat similar tax in New Brunswick which defeated the provincial administration at Fredericton a little over a year ago.

Why the N. B. Slump.

When Premier Hazen came into power New Brunswick had expected that this obnoxious road tax would be removed. But instead of being abolished the rate had been doubled, and this is why Premier Hazen's Government proved a source of weakness rather than of strength to the Conservatives in the present fight.

Friends of Hon. Dr. Pugsley had counted on him giving a good account of himself, but none had looked for the almost clean sweep which he made of his apponents.

House to Meet on Jan. 6.

A call will doubtless issue within a few days or the session of Parliament which will assemble, it is expected, on Wednesday, the 6th of January. The first day's sitting of the House of Commons will be devoted to the choice of a speaker, and the formal opening will take place on the following afternoon, that is to say the 7th of January. It is expected that Mr. Charles Marcil, M. P. for Bonaventure, who has filled the post of deputy speaker for the past four years, will be the unanimous choice for the speakership.

In that event the deputy speakership will go to an English-speaking member, and the only name so far mentioned for this post is that of Mr. G. H. McIntyre, M. P. for South Perth.

The Loyalty of Ridings.

A survey of all the constituencies in the Dominion on the eve of yesterday's contest showed that there were seven which had returned none but Conservative members since confederation, and seven others which have been represented throughout the same period by Liberals. Whatever changes have occurred elsewhere in the present contest, none of these fourteen districts has even wavered in support of the political principles which they have so long cherished. Charleton, South Lanark, East Middlesex, East Grey, South Simcoe, and East Hastings in the province of Ontario, and Sherbrooke, in the province of Quebec, are still the strongholds of Conservatism that they have been through the forty-one years.
past forty-one years.

Carleton County, at the door of Parliament, has never returned a Liberal member since it received Parliamentary representation over seventy years ago. On the other hand, Lotbinere, Berthier, Chateauguay and St. Johns, in the province of Quebec, and North Oxford, South Oxford and South Perth, in the province of Ontario, have been equally constant in their adherence to the Liberal cause.

Horrors! List to This Tale of Woe Curzon Has But $69,000 Per Year

Was Docked $10,000 of That and Pleads Great Poverty.

Chicago, Oct. 27—Revelations showing the poverty of Lord and Lady Curzon, who was Mary Leiter, after their return from India, where they had ruled over millions of subjects in regal splendor, and disclosure of the actual sum, $9,000,000, that "Joe" Leiter dropped in his famous plunge in the wheat pit, were made public for the first time in the suit of Hugh Crabbe against the Ziegler Coal Company for $416, on trial in Judge Eberhardt's court now in progress.

Because of Leiter's unfortunate speculation, as was shown, his allowance is now only $54,000 a year, while both his sisters are receiving more than twice this amount. Lady Curzon's poverty followed her to her grave.

When she and Lord Curzon returned to Europe they could not open their magnificent London house, but were forced to take rooms in a hotel and live inexpensively while waiting for funds to arrive from America.

In a few months Lady Curzon died, but in a letter, which was produced in court yesterday, she wrote that until she knew whether she was to receive the full income from her father's estate she could not open her town house.

At this time, however, Lord Curzon has sufficient money for his and his child's needs. He is receiving $69,000 a year from the Levi Z. Leiter's estate. When Joseph Leiter dropped $9,000,000 in the wheat pit his father came to his rescue and assumed $7,000,000 of the burden. When he died, however, he charged each one of the children up with the money they had received from him before his death.

Lady Curzon's letter, in which she told of her financial strait, was written to Hugh Crabbe in February, 1907. A short time after this Lady Curzon died and Lord Curzon received a settlement in part of the L. Z. Leiter estate. It appears that he was paid too much money, and because of this he was informed that his income from the estate would be forwarded to him less $10,700. His lordship expressed his "horror" at this and said so plainly in a letter to Crabbe.

Crabbe says that the trouble between himself and "Joe" Leiter, which finally led to the young millionaire dismissing him from the employ of the Leiter estate, arose over the fact that Leiter knew there was a spy in the offices of the estate who was keeping Lady Curzon informed regarding the management of the Leiter millions.

Leiter thought that the spy was Crabbe when he saw the letter from Lady Curzon, in his sister's handwriting, addressed to Crabbe. An attempt to get these letters before the jury by Attorney Elias Mayer, who is representing Crabbe, was promptly checkmated by Attorney Miles for the defense.

Bulgaria Bends to Powers' Will

Sofia, Oct. 27.—The Bulgarian Government today informed the representatives of the foreign powers here of its acceptance of the principle of paying compensation to Turkey, which has been the burden of persistent diplomatic representation during the past fortnight on the part of all the great powers. This decision was arrived at by the cabinet after a long debate, in which Emperor Ferdinand used all his influence in favor of peace with compensation.

As a further step in the direction of peace, 60,000 reservists will be discharged tomorrow, leaving the army at its normal strength of 60,000. The Government within a day or two will send a plenipotentiary to Constantinople to negotiate a treaty with Turkey.
