GORMAN DEAD; COLLE TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

Englishman Succumbs To Bullet Wounds Received In Recent Shooting Affray At Plaster Rock.

Andover, N. B., Sept. 7.—James Gorman died at 10 o'clock this morning as the result of bullet wounds inflicted on him on Sunday, August 29th, at R. H. McDonald's camp on the Tobique, by Samuel Colle. This adds another to the already long list of victims of the Italian assassin in this province. Since the shooting occurred Gorman's condition has been anxiously watched and at times hopes had been held out for his recovery. However in spite of all that could be done by the doctors attending him, he suffered a relapse. The shooting took place in a crowded shanty where the men were gathered together to spend Sunday. There was much drinking and as the result of the liquor inflamed passions aroused and a fight broke out in which Gorman received his fatal wounds. His assailant who was shortly afterwards apprehended did not deny the shooting; but claimed that it had been done in self defence.

Every Assistance.

Gorman had been attended at the camp by Drs. Coffin and Taylor, who have rendered him every assistance in their power. Three days after the shooting took place Dr. Puddington was called upon to perform an operation for the purpose of locating the bullet. The operation was unsuccessful. In spite of this however, encouraging reports have been daily received from the camp and the news of Gorman's death comes rather as a surprise.

The deceased made no ante-mortem statement.

Colle was taken to Andover, where he now awaits a preliminary hearing, which will take place before Magistrate McQuarrie on Friday, when he will face the charge of murder in the first degree.

The efforts to locate the relatives of the murdered man have been unsuccessful. He is of Irish descent but is supposed to have come from England. As there is no apparent likelihood of relatives claiming the body, arrangements will be made to have him buried at the expense of the county.

Hearing Postponed.

Constable Brown arrested "Mike" Slams and two other Hungarians here Monday morning, charged with assault upon Mr. John Day. The Hungarians, who are employed at Donald Fraser and Son's mill, late Sunday night went to Mr. Day's home and induced him to come out on the street, where they pointed a revolver at him, and acted in a most threatening manner. Mrs. D. McDougall, who happened to be in the vicinity, placed herself between Mr. Day and his assailants and by her loud cries frightened them away. The trouble is believed to have arisen over an agreement made between Mr. Day and the Hungarians, who are his tenants.

The arrested men were taken to Andover yesterday, but as the circuit court is at present in session there, their preliminary hearing was postponed until next week.

TRUE BILL FOUND AGAINST M'DOUGALL ON ALL COUNTS

Grand Jury at Opening of Circuit Court Yesterday Indicted the Accused--Trial Will Begin This Morning---Free Speech Case Only Criminal Matter on Docket.

The September Circuit Court opened yesterday morning in the Court House with His Honor Mr. Justice White presiding. The only criminal case presented to the grand jury was that of the King vs. C. Bruce McDougall, charged with publishing four defamatory libels in Free Speech. The grand jury after being out less than half an hour found a true bill against the accused on all four counts submitted to them.

Attorney General Hazen and Mr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., will appear for the crown, and Mr. A. J. B. Mellish and Mr. J. G. Sherren for the defence.

The following composed the grand jury:—R. Keltie Jones, foreman; Rupert G. Haley, Douglas McArthur, Gideon Hevenor, Chas. S. Everett (absent) Geo. M. Murphy, Chas. S. Philips (absent), Charles K. Cameron, John H. Bond, John Splane, John T. McGowan, Chas. H. Gibbon, Joshua Ward (absent), Thomas Gorman, Robert M. Magee, William A. Munro, Geo. H. McLaughlan, John Russell, Jr., (secretary), Robt. J. Armstroug, Adam J. Charlton, B. R. Macaulay (absent), Robert T. Worden, Samuel C. Drury (absent), and James Patterson.

Charge The Jury.

In charging the grand jury His Honor said in part:—"It is the practice of the court to summon grand jurors from the leading citizens. I know that it causes great inconvenience to you, gentlemen, but you must assist us in carrying out the law. Those who neglect to obey the summons are amenable to punishment. I would impress this fact upon the absentees.

Referring to the McDougall case, His Honor informed the jury that it was the only criminal case to be presented to them for consideration. "This" he continued, "is a case of rare occurrence in this province, which is very fortunate indeed."

After reading the charge upon which C. Bruce McDougall was committed, His Honor quoted the law respecting defamatory libel. The indictment in this case contains eight counts. The principle governing the first count governs them all.

His Honor then took up the first count regarding Dr. A. W. MacRae. After reading the section of act defining defamatory libel, His Honor said that if the jury found that the accused knowingly published the alleged libels, he should be indicted under the first count, otherwise under the second count.

Regarding Publication.

Regarding whether or not the alleged libels were published by the defendant, His Honor explained that "publication by the defendant included aiding, abetting or authorizing such publications." His Honor thought that the jury would have no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that the defendant was the publisher.

In coming to a conclusion whether or not the prisoner should be put on his trial, the jury were to consider:

1. Were the statements defamatory libel.
2. Were they published.
3. If so, were they published by the defendant.
4. Did defendant know they were false. If so, find a true bill on the first count.

In conclusion, His Honor warned the grand jury not to be influenced by what they might have read or heard. The defendant, he said, was entitled to a fair trial whether guilty or not.

At 12 o'clock the jury retired and at 12.30 returned a true bill.

Courtesies of the Bar.

Attorney General Hazen moved that the courtesy of the bar be extended to Mr. A. J. B. Mellish, a member of the P. E. Island bar, who is to appear for the defence in the McDougall case. His Honor said he had great pleasure in acceding to Mr. Hazen's request.

His Honor instructed the sheriff to fine the absent jurors unless a good excuse was furnished.

Mr. L. P. D. Tilley read the naturalization papers of Alessie Luccesi, an Italian. His Honor ordered the papers filed.

The following are the petit jurors summoned: J. Sidney Kaye (absent), Eustace Barnes (excused), Henry E. Iddiols, Benjamin J. Dowling, Thomas H. Linton (absent), H. Beverley Robinson (absent), Kendall Hall, Charles W. Bailey, Arthur T. Thorne, Alfred L. Dodge (absent), Walter B. Campbell, G. Wilford Campbell, Frederick H. Tippett, C. Dawson Trueman, Edward L. Rising, S. A. James (absent), John R. Vaughan (excused), Fred C. McNeil, J. L. Thorne, J. Hunter White (absent), and Frank J. Likely (absent).

The court adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock, when the McDougall case will be tried.

SCHOOL TEACHERS HOME FROM TRIP TO OLD COUNTRY

Miss Annie Whittaker And Miss Jennie Lawson Resumed Their Duties Yesterday.

Miss Annie Whittaker and Miss Jessie Lawson yesterday resumed charge of their respective grades in the High School after a two months trip to England and France. They returned to the city on Monday having spent some time visiting Montreal and Quebec where they arrived on the Empress of Ireland from Liverpool. They sailed from Quebec the last of June and landing at Havre visited Paris, Amiens and Calais in France and then crossed to Dover and visited Canterbury, London, Winchester, Salisbury, Oxford, Warwick, Chester and Liverpool, from which city they sailed a week ago last Friday.

Speaking to a Standard reporter Miss Whittaker said, that the most beautiful building they visited was the great cathedral at Canterbury. She also visited the Amiens cathedral, said to be the greatest church in northern France. While at Oxford, Lady Evans took them through the Asmolian and showed them her son, Dr. Evan's collection of relics of old Cretan civilization said to be the largest and most valuable collection in existence.

While in London they met Rev. G. F. Scovil, rector of St. Jude's church, Carleton and Mrs. Scovil who were married here on August 7, and are spending their honeymoon in England.

At Warwick they examined the only Ducking Stool now left in England which is kept in the crypt of St. Mary's church. The stool was formerly in the courthouse of the city and was used until the beginning of the last century to "duck" gossiping women in a neighboring stream. Miss Whittaker said that they had an enjoyable time during the entire trip.

AN ANXIOUS WORLD STILL WAITS FOR STORY

dition and he repeated the declaration of his intention to withhold details until the publication of his book.

The King and Queen, Prince and Princess George of Greece, and many of the members of the royal family, together with a large gathering of the most prominent people in Copenhagen this evening, witnessed the presentation to Dr. Cook of a gold medal by the Crown Prince, and listened to the explorer's lecture afterwards. Standing in front of an immense map of the Arctic region, which was surmounted by the Stars and Stripes, Dr. Cook outlined his progress to the North Pole. In introducing the explorer, the Crown Prince said that his reception in Greenland and at Copenhagen showed the way the Danes appreciated his wonderful exploit. The Prince then begged the honor of presenting to him the medal of the Geographical Society. Dr. Cook told his story coolly and without hesitation, but most of his statements had been given out before.

Time Required.

"It is too early," said the explorer, "to give the general results of the expedition. Time is required to digest the work of polar effort. You have not allowed time in Copenhagen. The northward dash has occupied the minds of men for more than 300 years. Slowly and surely the ladder of latitudes has been climbed with various degrees of success. Experience was gained and each expedition profited by the misfortunes of its predecessor. The failure of one expedition led to the success of subsequent efforts.

"The art of Polar travel had been created and this art was the nucleus of our equipment. We changed tactics to suit our purpose, but I am bound to acknowledge at the outset that success would not have been possible without the less fortunate forerunners. All honor to the pioneers, the pathfinders to the Pole, the earlier explorers. We are particularly indebted to Nansen and Peary and many Danish explorers for the last stages of Polar progress. In my case I am especially indebted to Captain Sverdrup who is here tonight. His work gave us a new road which afforded us a chance to try the a little further west.

"Although profiting by our ventures, our expeditions in some important respects. The route we selected I had planned out years ago as a result of reading the splendid narrative of Sverdrup. About the middle of 1907, when we started, the Pole was no part of the programme which aimed altogether at study and recreation with the Pole possibly as a further problem."

Similar Recital.

Then the explorer went over the preparations for his departure and the journey, his recital being similar to that already published. He cleared up the doubts about the lowest temperature recorded, which he reiterated was 83 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. He said that he had no doubts that the observation made would prove that he had been on and around the 90th degree. "If I have been within a circle, a kilometre in diameter, where the Pole is situated," exclaimed the explorer, "I am satisfied that this is quite sufficient for practical purposes. I will say no more until my book is published."

When shown the despatch which said that Commander Peary claimed to be the first man to reach the north pole, Dr. Cook said:

"Commander Peary, of course, can say whatever he wishes. I am not accustomed to indulge in controversies. All I have to say about Commander Peary is that if he says he reached the north pole, I believe he reached the north pole."

With regard to the statement that he had chosen the western route to avoid observation by his competitors, Dr. Cook said that he could only repeat the statement made in his speeches and lecture that he had selected the western route simply as a result of a careful study of Sverdrup's explorations, which convinced him that that was the most feasible road to the pole.

STANLEY CARR ARRESTED LAST EVENING ON RETURN TO CITY

Meteoric Career of Nineteen-Year-Old Youth Cut Short by Clever Police Work---Obtaining Money Under False Pretences, The Charge---Owes $1,300 After Four Months in Business

After a week's absence in Boston, Stanley D. Carr, who for the last few months has been doing business in Waterloo street as a grocer, returned to the city yesterday and was promptly arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Carr is said to owe about $1,300 and to have about $150 assets.

For a youth of nineteen years of age, the adventures of the prisoner have been somewhat remarkable, and it is a mystery to the police and everyone concerned what has become of the $800 cash which he has at different times secured from various parties. Carr is also indebted to wholesale grocers and fruit firms for stock supplied to his store, and it was somewhat of a surprise to those interested to find on taking an inventory of the stock that the whole value was not more than $150. The warrant on which Carr was arrested was sworn out by Mr. A. H. Chipman, who charges that the sum of $90 was obtained under false pretences.

Consternation Among Creditors.

Carr left the city on the evening of Monday, August 30, and his departure caused consternation among the many creditors, who at once cropped up. Mr. Frederick Scott, 9 Waterloo street, the landlord, at once had the goods in the store seized for rent overdue, amounting to $70. A cash register, costing $200, had been purchased and a payment of $15 made, and the agent of the company was successful in getting this out before the bailiff took possession. A young man was placed in charge of the store and business is still going on.

Many Victims.

Conferences between various creditors reveal the fact that Carr in some manner got away with a very large sum of money.

Mr. Burpee O. Bates, storeman for the Canadian Fairbanks Co., Ltd., who had been a friend of Carr's for two years was induced to entrust to the young business man the sum of $240, which represented the entire amount of his savings from hard work. Carr was also in arrears in his board bill at Mr. Leavitt A. Belyea's and Mr. Belyea was also victimized to the extent of $25 of a loan.

It was Mr. Chipman who decided to take some steps for Carr's apprehension. The police were consulted and yesterday Chief Clark sent a wire to the Boston police headquarters asking for his detention. He also wrote a letter giving further details concerning the young man wanted (and expected to receive some word in return as soon as the dragnet of the police department got to work.

Chief Clark, however, was to hear from Carr much sooner and at shorter range than any one imagened. The theory that the prisoner is not responsible for his actions is almost borne out by his peculiar move in coming back to St. John and from what has been learned of his efforts to securing a position in Boston.

Creditors as References.

Mr. Chipman and Mr. Belyea received letters from the office of the Boston Street Railway Co., stating that Stanley Carr had applied for a position on the staff, and had named them as references. Neither gentleman felt that he could not conscientiously recommend the applicant for the position and Mr. Chipman at once took steps to have Carr arrested in Boston.

Carr however rendered this trouble and expense unnecessary. In spite of the fact that he wrote a postal card to a friend in the city, received only yesterday, saying that he was going to New York and would not come back here, he came in on the Bostson train yesterday morning and proceeded to make himself at home. He went into Wanamaker's restaurant in Charlotte street, where he usually got his dinner, and ate a hearty meal.

Short of Money.

Presenting himself at the desk after he had finished he said he would call again and pay as he was short of money. As he was known he was allowed to go. Soon after he purchased a glass of soda water in The Red Cross Pharmacy. He was later seen on the street casr and the police became alive to his presence.

It was only a question of a few hours as to the time he would have at liberty but he shortened those considerably by calling up Mr. Bates on the telephone and asking the latter to meet him on King Square at 6 o'clock. Mr. Bates agreed and also notified police headquarters of the appointment, and as he was shaking hands with Carr, Deputy Jenkins and Detective Killen came up and made the arrest. Carr seemed nervous but did not make any statement.

His Career.

Carr has been in business for himself only since May 1st last. He is a native of the city and always lived here with the exception of some months he spent in the West. He formerly worked in Brown's bakery, Waterloo street, and was said to be a steady and reliable employe.

On starting business, he rented the at 11 Waterloo street, owned by Mr. Frederick Scott, and his business increased so that in a few weeks he was employing a girl as clerk and a delivery boy. Very soon he began to borrow small sums from his friends, ostensibly to keep his store running.

Within the last month the amounts he borrowed amounted to at least $400. In a plausible manner he represented to his friend, Mr. Bates, that the business was paying, and only needed a little more capital, and Mr. Bates entrusted to him his hard earned savings.

Mr. Bates Interviewed.

When Mr. Bates heard that Carr had left the city a week ago, he never expected that he would hear from him again. Speaking of the matter last evening, Mr. Bates said that Carr had thrown away a great chance for the development of a successful business. "There was no one," he said, "who captured the trade like he did, and he was never refused credit by the big dealers. It seemed hard for me to turn him over to the police, but I was looking for information as to where the money had gone. I believed that a large amount would be found on his person and I would like to have an interview with him. I do not think that I will lay any further information."

Mr. Chipman said the strange feature of the case was the disappearance of so much money. It looked almost like speculation and if this was proved, whoever has induced Carr to invest the money should be prosecuted. It was a vicious system if a boy like this was allowed to sink $1,000 of other people's money.

Where He Boarded.

That Carr is not responsible is the plea made for him by Mrs. Leavitt A. Belyea, with whom he boarded eighteen months. Mrs. Belyea said last evening that she had known him from his early childhood, and she could not believe him guilty of any dishonesty. He had kept good hours, was never known to be in bad company. He liked to stay in the house in the evening when he was not at work. He attended church regularly and taught a class in the Brussels Street Baptist Sunday School. Since going into business he had talked idly at times of embarking in a big wholesale venture and of going to Cuba to engage in fruit growing. He had fallen behind in the payment of his board, but she had thought nothing of this, knowing he was just starting in business. She would not hold this against him. She would sleep better if she could have seen him at the police station last night. Mrs. Belyea said that Carr's mother was still living and married the second time to a Mr. Sweet at Salisbury.

Mr. Scott is unlikely to take any further action against the prisoner. The rent for two months, which is in arrears, will be fully satisfied by the sale of goods in the store.

FREDERICTON TO PAY $5,775.84 AS SHARE OF COST IN PAVING

Council Divides County On Pavement Question And It Requires Casting Vote Of Mayor To Dispose Matter.

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 7.—On the casting vote of Mayor Chestnut the city council tonight decided on motion of Ald. Winslow to pay $5,775.84 to Contractor R. S. Low in payment of the city's share of Hassam Pavement and concrete curb and gutter placed on Queen and Carleton streets at a cost of upwards of $12,500. The balance of the cost is to be paid for by the Federal Government and under a resolution from this account there will be deducted an amount equal to the cost of rock used by the contractor from the city's supply and the balance of the money held pending a satisfactory arrangement regarding bond.

Special Committee.

Ald. Calder's amendment on which the aldermen divided evenly called for a special committee to investigate the report and the statement of City Engineer Grimmer as to the amount of work done and the total cost of the city's share under the contract, the committee report back to a special meeting of the council. Ald. Calder and others expressed themselves as opposed to the city making any payment until the matter of a bond guaranteeing the permanence of the road was arranged. The council decided not to appoint a city engineer at the present time to succeed A. E. Grimmer who leaves this month for Manitoba, although the committee selected an assistant city engineer, J. D. McBeath of Moncton, from a long list of applicants.

N. A. LaForest, foreman of the sewerage department was appointed to act as inspector of plumbing.

Students Return to College.

About forty students from different parts of the Province arrived in the city yesterday on their way to St. Anne's College, Digby, to resume their studies. The party will leave on the Prince Rupert this morning. Rev. F. Cormier and Rev. F. Legere will accompany the boys.

Just how wide a scope has been secured by the new merger may be gained from the official statement that it will own or control the cement producing plants at the central points of distribution from the St. Lawrence River west to the Rocky Mountains. All the principal financial centres will be represented in the board of directors, which will be one of the most representative in Canada.

A Record Entry.

The amusement attractions are on an unusually large scale this year and those of the second week are entirely different from the first. There will be five days of trotting and pacing; three days in the first week and two in the second, with very large fields of horses. Fredericton always runs a splendid fair and this year looks to be the biggest effort. Intending exhibitors will bear in mind all entries close next Saturday night, September 11th.

The second harvesters' excursion to be run by the C. P. R. today will not be on a large scale. Only one train will leave and the total number going will likely not exceed 500. These will be practically all from outside points.

Fairville Baptist Church Social.

Owing to the cold weather yesterday afternoon and evening the Fairville church garden party was converted into a supper and social and held in the vestry of the church. Supper was served from six to eight o'clock. The Every Day Club fife and drum band furnished music. Among the attractions in the vestry were a bean bag, in charge of Mr. George Brown, and a ring-and-toss in charge of Mr. A. E. Kierstead. Prizes were won by Mr. A. E. Kierstead, Willie Fox, Miss Gertie McMaster and Mrs. Harry Carr. The social which was very successful financially was the first of a series of entertainments which will be held to pay off the debt on the church. The ladies in charge of the supper arrangements were, Mrs. F. E. Bishop, Mrs. Wesley Stevens, Mrs. Frank Allingham, Mrs. Walter Ross, and Mrs. Geo. Fowler, while Misses Helen Camp, Louise Simes, Agnes Macmillan, Miss Alice DeWolfe and others had charge of the candy tables.

Mr. Edwin H. Fritz, of Montreal, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Edwin J. Fritz, west end, returned to Montreal last evening.

Mrs. William Gillespie of Bridgewater, N. S., is visiting her mother, Mrs. A. Collins of Bridge street.
