DO AWAY WITH STEAM ENGINES

Scheme to Attach Centrifugal Pumps to Hydrants.

Why Didn't Ald. Farrar Attend That Meeting?

Chairman Dickson Wants a Reasonable Explanation From Him.

City Engineer Barrow says his attention has been called to a novel method for pumping water at big fires without the assistance of steam engines, which he intends investigating, and if found practicable recommending to the Fire and Water Committee. If the new underground lighting system is installed, Mr. Barrow says the scheme is to have junctions near hydrants where centrifugal pumps can be connected. The method of doing this, the Engineer asserts, is quite simple. The pumps are light, and there would be no delaying in putting them in operation. A pressure of three hundred pounds can be obtained, he says, in remarkably short time. It would be much cheaper, he thinks, than buying expensive steam engines as the city grows, and much more effective. Chief Engineer Southam, of the Hydro-Electric Commission, says this scheme is sucessfully operated in connection with underground systems in Germany.

A meeting of the special committee appointed by the City Council to investigate the proposal to organize the City Engineer's department was this morning called for 2.30 to-day. It promises to be an interesting session. At the meeting held on Thursday night it was stated that Ald. Farrar, who was chiefly instrumental in starting the investigation, was out of the city. In view of that, the committee adjourned. Chairman Dickson heard later that Ald. Farrar was in the city that night, and on the strength of that he called the meeting for to-day. Ald. Farrar to-day wanted to have the meeting postponed, but Chairman Dixon refused unless Ald. Farrar appeared and gave a reasonable explanation of why he did not attend the other night. Ald. Dickson thinks the matter should be settled one way or the other, without delay.

Lake & Bailey have no thought of dropping their application for a switch to the mill on Main street because they are meeting with some opposition. What the firm is asking of the City Council is permission to run a switch from a point just east of John street, on Main, to the front of the mill—about 30 or 35 yards in all. Their intention is to construct an area and chute, so that cars can be unloaded into their mill without obstructing sidewalk traffic. All the switching and unloading would be done at night. The firm contends that they are entitled to the concession. Their business was established on Main street long before there was a railway there, and the city has now allowed a switch right in front of their door. This, they say, will keep farmers away, and seriously interfere with their business. They claim that the only way to overcome this drawback is to get grain in by car, and this can only be done by the short siding they are asking permission to have laid. There are no residences and no other place of business but their own in the block, and their desire is to get the switch in now while the roadway is torn up, so that it can be completed and the road paved before winter comes on.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the special committee of the Board of Education that was appointed to bring before the Provincial Government Hamilton's claims for the establishment of a technical school here, had an informal conference at the City Hall with Hon. J. S. Hendrie. Col. Hendrie will arrange with the Cabinet to receive the deputation at Toronto some day next week, when the strongest case possible will be presented.

The Ontario Railway Board yesterday changed the order regarding Herkimer street as asked for by the city and consented to by the Street Railway Company. It also extended the time for the work on James street, between King and Main streets.

Building permits were issued this morning to Robert Clochey for a brick addition to the store at the corner of Main and John streets for John Reche to cost $1,000, and also for a brick house on Hunter street, between John and Catherine for M. O'Neil to cost 2,500.

The health report for the week shows four cases of mumps, three of chicken-pox, two of scarlet fever and one of diptheria.

City Engineer Barrow has completed the specifications for the new electric pumps for the Beach and it is likely the Fire and Water Committee will have a special session on Monday afternoon to deal with the matter.

The Court of Revision will meet on Thursday afternoon to deal with appeals from ratepayers to be taxed as Separate School supporters. This will avoid a repetition of the trouble which it was necessary to arbitrate this year.

Assistant Engineer Heedle declared today that there was no truth in the report published in a local paper that he was to make a new report on the street railway's tracks which would not be as favorable as the first. "I still think," said Mr. Heddle, "that the company has done all it can possibly do unless it builds a new system.

This morning Inspector Birrell paid over to the city $14,800 as the second instalment of the license fees, $14,500 having been paid in the spring.

CHOIR ENTERTAINED.

The choir of Stoney Creek Methodist Church was very pleasantly entertained last evening by one of their number, Miss May Glover, at the home of her parents, Mountain Brow. The evening was enjoyably spent in games, and after a dainty supper was served and several selections of music rendered, the members of the party returned home, thanking their hostess for a jolly time.

On Monday evening next the St. Vincent de Paul Society, of this city, will resume the night classes for foreigners which were carried on last year in St. Mary's Hall, Park street north.
