CORRESPONDENTS' favors, when unaccompanied by their full name and address, are never published in the ADVANCE. We are obliged to A. P. for his good wishes, but think his reference to a particular speaker at the alleged liberal meeting hardly in order in connection with the present canvass.

PRESENTATION:—A few of the friends of Miss Josephine Allison, the popular organist of S. Peter's, Church, Derby, met together on the 14th inst. to present her with a very handsome lady's workbox, as a small token of their appreciation of her devoted services. The gift was presented on behalf of the friends, by the Rector, Rev. R. W. Hudgell.

BLACK BROOK is to be highly honored, as we are informed that the great ejector has been running around telling his friends that they have telegraphed for another non-resident who lives even further from us than Montreal, and he is coming to turn all the Black Brook voters over to Mr. Mitchell. These managers are "high for non-residents."

POOR THING! The little Gleaner is in a terrible state of excitement. It publishes the exploded story in reference to the alleged understanding between Mr. Adams and our four members of the local legislature respecting Mr. Adams' present candidacy as if it were true, and builds a house of cards upon it. The Gleaner has made a laughing-stock of itself in both Local and Dominion politics for some time, and its rapidly decreasing constituency of readers have learned that any man or policy condemned by that paper are pretty sure to be right and on the road to success.

"THE PIONEER" could not expect us to know that it could not take certain anti-Moffat paragraphs out of its forms before they were locked up for its issue of 14th, and must not, therefore, be surprised over our criticism of its announcing Mr. Moffat's alleged backdown in a leading article, while it berated him as a candidate in other columns. Why it could not omit the paragraphs referred to will not be clearly understood in ordinary newspaper offices and, in order to preserve our confidence in the Pioneer's credibility we are forced to assume that its forms must be made up by a method quite different from that in vogue in other offices. We hope our esteemed contemporary will keep its temper and prepare to receive, with due resignation, the news of Mr. Moffat's election on 5th March.

PERSONAL.—We had a pleasant call this week from Mr. G. T. Fulford, of the firm of Fulford & Co., Brockville, whose Nasal Balm, as a cure for catarrh and cold in the head, has achieved a reputation for excellence from one end of the Dominion to the other, and there is probably not a hamlet from the Atlantic to the Pacific in which some sufferers from these distressing and annoying diseases have not had occasion to feel grateful for the speedy relief it has afforded them. Messrs. Fulford & Co. are firm believers in the merit of printers ink as a medium for letting sufferers know of their excellent remedy, and are amongst the most extensive newspapers advertisers in the Dominion, their contracts covering upwards of 500 newspapers.

At 2.30 p. m. the Sunday school services will begin, at which there will be addresses by the pastor, the superintendent of the school and Mr. J. R. Ford.

The evening service will commence at 7.30 instead of the usual hour. Addresses will be given by the Rev. Jos. McCoy, of St. Andrew's church, Rev. Neil McKay of St. John's church, and the Rev. Thos. Marshall.

Brutality Rampant.

A remarkable scene was witnessed in the upper part of the town of Chatham on Monday. It was an ejectment, attended with all the most rude, even brutal incidents which have caused people abroad to execrate events of the kind in Ireland. Mrs. Helen Dickens, a widow, having two children, a boy of 11 and a girl of 6 years, was in occupancy of a house which was owned in her lifetime by her mother—Mrs. Miller—who died some ten or eleven years ago. The property was never divided and Mrs. Dickens occupied it with the consent of the other heirs, Mr. Thos. Miller and Mrs. Peter Dickens, sister of the victim of the ejectment.

As Mrs. Dickens was about her usual household duties, Mr. Geo. Watt, ship chandler, went to her door and demanded an entrance. She refused to let him in, whereupon, after sundry threatening demands which were unheeded, he battered in the door with an iron bar. Policemen Gillis and Lawson were witnesses of Mr. Watt's doings, but Gillis says he was there without any authority save the verbal invitation of Mr. Watt. Having broken the door open Mr. Watt proceeded to remove the sashes from the windows and this he followed up by carrying off with a team a lot of household effects that Mrs. Dickens says belonged to her and the other heirs of her mother, including a cooking stove, three tables, wash stand, bedstead, feather bed, mattress, clock, etc., besides some coal, etc. which was in the house when another sister—wife of ex-policeman Ross—died. The house being thus rendered uninhabitable the widow and her two little ones—deprived in this high-handed manner of their home surroundings—took shelter with Mrs. Dickens' sister. It seems a fortunate thing that they could do this, for it was bitterly cold. Before the outrage was fully consummated Mrs Dickens' brother appeared upon the scene, but seeing the policeman apparently acting with Mr. Watt, he was restrained from defending his sister's and his own property, as he otherwise might have done. A neighbor, however, was more outspoken and told Mr. Watt his opinion of a man who would thus attack a defenceless woman and rob her and her children of a home.

The only defence Mr. Watt offers for his conduct is, we understand, that ex-policeman Ross, who is out of the country was in debt to him and gave him some kind of a claim on the property in question, either as security or in satisfaction of the debt.

Ross' wife, who died a month ago, was a sister of Mrs. Dickens who was so brutally turned out of the house on Monday, but as she left no children it does not appear that Ross had any rights whatever in the property. Even if he had, and if they had passed to Mr. Watt, his conduct was no less an outrage on our civilization.

The Northwest Miramichi.

Northeak and Southeak will give large majorities for Mr. Adams. Those parishes were largely for Mr. Mitchell in 1887, but will reverse their vote of that occasion, on 5th March. Meetings in both parishes have given unmistakeable signs of the change, some of Mr. Mitchell's most effective supporters of the former election being now outspoken in Mr. Adams' favor. The reasons are principally because of Mr. Mitchell's manifest indifference to the interests of the County during the last four years, his mixed adherence to the Liberal and third parties, and the adoption by the Liberal party of the impossible and impracticable policy of Unrestricted Reciprocity. An elector of Southeak, with whom we had a conversation a few days since, said Mr. Mitchell's canvassers seemed to think the people in his locality were ignorant, and, they, accordingly, talked "bosh" to them. He said that the Dominion Government's proposals for reciprocity in fish, lumber, coal, etc., were just what were wanted, while everybody knew that Unrestricted Reciprocity meant the destruction of our revenue, as well as the industrial interests we had been twelve years in building up, so that we would not be able to pay the country's bills, which would lead to national dishonor and a helpless and inglorious drift into annexation, which no true British subject or Canadian could contemplate without contempt for the promoters of such a scheme.

A sample meeting was held at Redbank on Friday evening. Mr. James Somers, a life-long independent liberal and one of the leading lumbermen of the County, was Chairman. He, like many of his neighbors, realises the great mistake the County would make in longer supporting Mr. Mitchell, and he is an outspoken supporter of Mr. Adams. More than one hundred electors were present, and amongst the speakers were J. P. Burchill and Jas. Robinson, Esqrs., M. P. P.'s, B. Fairey, C. S. Ramsay and Rev. Jas. Murray the well-known Presbyterian minister of Redbank. The last named gentleman made the speech of the evening. His ringing words, as he handled the Liberal party's trade proposals, by which they were practically attempting to beggar a prosperous section of the empire in order that it might be handed over to another flag and nation, stirred the audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Referring to the denominational cry he declared himself ready to fling aside the black coat and, if necessary, don the red one to fight against annexation, which was the evident object of the Liberal party. The "Eska" may be relied upon to do credit to themselves and the County on 5th March.

The New "Liberal" Method and Mr. Mitchell.

The Unrestricted third party men held a meeting in Hon. Mr. Mitchell's interest at the Douglasfield School House on Saturday evening, and a number of Liberals including Messrs. J. P. Burchill and D. G. Smith—as well as some conservatives—attended for the purpose of exposing the absurdity of Mr. Mitchell's position. Those present who were acquainted with the facts were treated to a surprise by Mr. Hennessy, who is still president of the mortal remains of the liberal Association of the County of Northumberland, Mr. Burchill, in the course of an admirable address, challenged the correctness of the assertion that Mr. Mitchell was the candidate of the Liberal Association of the County, and claimed that he had been nominated by a clique composed largely of men who were not Liberals, but had always fought against the Liberals in their hardest contests, and only connected themselves with the Association in 1887 for the purpose of promoting Mr. Mitchell's election on that occasion. Mr. Burchill referred to the fact that by the rules of the Association it was provided that when a Dominion election was brought on a convention of members was to be called from all parts of the County for the purpose of selecting the party's candidate. This, he said, had not been done, but a few of Mr. Mitchell's friends met and decided the whole matter, and having determined to put Mr. Mitchell forward as the candidate of the Association, they so announced him. As a Liberal and member of the County Liberal Association he repudiated Mr. Mitchell as the candidate of that organization.

Mr. Hennessy explained that regular notices had been issued for a convention.

Mr. Burchill:—"Why did I not get one?"

Mr. Hennessy:—"I think one was sent to you."

Mr. Burchill:—"If there was I never received it."

We must charitably assume that Mr. Hennessy thought he was stating the truth, although he was not doing so. A few of Mr. Mitchell's heelers went around, soon after the dissolution was announced, and asked others, whom they thought could, by their childish strategy, be made to commit themselves to their plans, to attend an informal meeting of the "party" in Newcastle. They were told by the old members that if a meeting of the Association was properly called they would attend. No such meeting was called. No notices for such a meeting were ever issued. Before the time when the Association was captured by the wreckers, who have brought it to its present dismantled condition, there was no hole and corner work. Notices of meetings were publicly advertised, in the ADVANCE at least, under the name of the president, and the selection of candidates was always made after every Liberal in the County who chose to attend had opportunity to express his views. The first and only attempt to "send notices" was in connection with the meeting in Masonic Hall, Chatham on 12th inst. The notices were printed bills circulated generally and they invited not only members of the County Liberal Association but also "all those favoring the candidature of Hon. Peter Mitchell." Does Mr. Hennessy think to make intelligent and self-respecting members of the Association believe that they ought to have responded to such a call? It was clear to them that the by-laws had been ignored, and the whole business so managed as to shut out every independent member of the organization who was not prepared to swallow Mr. Mitchell's candidacy without question. The gentlemen who thus managed to deprive the Liberals of the County of their right to have any say in the selection of a Liberal candidate may chuckle over their cleverness, and Mr. Hennessy may assert that he caused proper notices to be issued, but we tell him that he did not do so, and also that it is not a creditable thing for a man of his position to commit himself to a statement so palpably at variance with the facts. The practice of such methods must practically destroy the political status of all who are so weak as to indulge in it, and it will be interesting to know, as we approximately may, after 5th of March, how many old members of the Association who were not concerned in the hole and corner deal by which it was attempted to foist Mr. Mitchell upon the party, will be so lacking in backbone as to allow the present managers to decide everything without the courtesy of consulting them.

Does He own Restigouche?

We observe "A letter from H. F. McLatchy, Esq." in the last number of the Restigouche Pioneer, in which that gentleman manifests undue asperity over a few lines which appeared in last week's ADVANCE in reference to the Pioneer's attitude towards Mr. Moffat. We have not the privilege of a personal acquaintance with "H. F. McLatchey, Esq.," who appears to think so little of "Geo. Moffat" and "Moffat," but believe he is the Police Magistrate of Campbellton, as well as a lawyer. There is, therefore, all the more reason why he should set an example of that courtesy and good breeding which generally characterise gentlemen of the bench and bar, and not write as if he were catering for the plandits of hoodlums, who we do not believe form any appreciable proportion of the population of either Campbellton or any other part of the County of Restigouche. By a pretended quotation from the ADVANCE, H. F. McLatchey, Esquire, squarely misrepresents what we said, and if his deliverances in his magisterial capacity are made up from such distortion of evidence as he thus proves himself capable of making, it is Campbellton's misfortune to have the important machinery of its police court in rather dangerous and unreliable hands. We charitably assume, however, that, in this case, Mr. McLatchey is not following his usual practice, but has been drawn aside therefrom by political excitement, which, sometimes, unhinges even great minds in small communities. We assure Esquire McLatchey that we do not desire to go beyond our right in manifesting an interest in Restigouche affairs, but we have, for sixteen years, had many friends in that county with whom we have endeavored, as far as possible, to keep in touch and we believe we are still in line with them in the course we are pursuing in regard to Mr. Moffat. It is unreasonable, for Mr. McLatchey to claim that the ADVANCE ought not to "meddle with the politics of the county," and although we may know as little of the subject as that gentleman claims we do, we shall continue, either with or without his leave, to express that little, whenever we think there is occasion to do so. There is ample room for us all in this world. The ADVANCE took an interest in Restigouche affairs long before the Campbellton Police Magistrate attempted to take charge of the county, and, however great may be his influence and desire to have the place all to himself, we shall humbly, yet firmly continue to exercise our right in that respect, notwithstanding his overshadowing and objecting presence. We beg to say that we are not at all awed by the frowning mien of 'Squire McLatchey, for there is in his letter, evidence of a pretentious and ostentatious assumption of proprietorship in the County of Restigouche, which appears so ridiculous as to suggest that he is unduly impressed with an idea of his own magnitude, which, after all, is not so great as to prevent modest men and modest papers from even "meddling" with the politics of that fine section of the Province.

Political Notes.

HE COULD N'T STAND IT.

At the meeting held in the interest of N. Clarke Wallace in Dawes' hall last evening Mr. James Bond, a lifelong Reformer, announced that he could no longer follow his party. The only line of safety, he said, for a loyal Canadian was to support Sir John Macdonald. There are hundreds of just such Liberals in Canada, and their votes on election day will tell where they stand. Quebec Chronicle.

DRIVEN OUT.

"Have you turned Conservative, too?" was asked of Mr. J. P. Whelan at Sir Donald Smith's meeting in Montreal West the other day. "No," was the reply. "I am here as a Liberal, but I can't vote for unrestricted reciprocity. I would sooner vote for annexation."

HE WOULD NOT FOLLOW LONGER.

There was no more active Reform worker in Algoma last June than Mayor Fournier of Sudbury. On Saturday night he took the platform in the interest of the Conservative candidate at a Reform meeting, carried the audience with him, passed a resolution endorsing the Conservative policy, and is into the fight to the end in support of the Old Flag for Canada.—Spectator.

THE UNMASKING OF THE PLOT.

The Ottawa Journal, which has been opposed to the Government thus refers to the exposure of the Farrar-Cartwright design of bringing about annexation:—

"The developments in Toronto in connection with Sir John Macdonald's visit there cannot be characterized as anything short of extraordinary. A great deal had been made by the Conservatives of the anti-annexation cry, but many who are not hot partisans imagined that the Conservatives were making a great cry over very little wool. We are bound to say that the present turn of affairs justifies much of the cry. It reflects seriously upon the Liberal party. Evidently there is cause for patriotic Canadians to ask themselves seriously whether this country should trust its destiny to a party which, whether willingly or not, is led by the ideas of such a man as Mr. Edward Farrer, the editor-in-chief of the Toronto Globe. Can the party and the paper which knowingly hired such a mouthpiece be now held free from the responsibility for him? Sir Richard Cartwright, the English-speaking leader of the Liberal party, was the patron who brought him to the Globe, or at least such is the inference given by Mr. E. W. Thomson, who was replaced by Mr. Farrer. Either then Sir Richard secured Mr. Farrar through a community of liking and opinions, in which case Sir Richard may fairly be judged by his company; or, if he was in the dark as to the bent of the man he selected to guide Liberal opinion in the press, he became so ready a tool, judging by Farrer's subsequent visits to Washington and Sir Richard's own course, that Canada may well shrink back with contempt and hatred from the political course to which it is advised through Sir Richard's lips. Once more many non-partisan but patriotic Canadians, in spite of themselves, in spite of their aversion to some features of the Conservative regime, in spite of their desire to enforce some great principles of civil liberty and equal rights which both parties have declared, in spite of all they are being driven into the Conservative ranks by the falsity and imbecility of some of the Liberal leaders and the edged tools with which these leaders play."

FORCED OUT OF THE PARTY.

The cars were crowded with passengers, and the speeches delivered at the Academy of Music were the only and absorbing subject of conversation among them. There were Liberals on board, and some of them with the others, who were Conservatives, were boiling with indignation over the treasonable plot which Sir John Macdonald has exposed in all its glaring and offensive nakedness. Among these Liberals was a prominent Toronto lawyer, who was coming up as far as Oakville. He declared that on the 5th of March he would cast his first vote for the Conservative party and policy.—Empire 19th.

HE OUGHT TO SPEAK OUT.

Does not Hon. Edward Blake think that the time has arrived when he should make public that letter to the electors of West Durham? Does he not think it a duty he owes to his country and to the honest and loyal men of the party he so long led and controlled to state to them, as he did to the delegates at the West Durham convention, the reasons why he cannot support the present policy or follow the present leaders of that party? In the light of the revelations of Tuesday is he justified in longer keeping silent?—Empire.

WHERE ARE THE LEADING LIBERALS?

[Toronto "Empire."]

Hon. Edward Blake retires from public life because he cannot support the present Reform policy or follow the present Reform leaders.

Hon. Alexander Mackenzie refuses to endorse a policy that will discriminate against Great Britain.

Hon. William McDougall has not only repudiated the fad, but has denounced the gang.

Commodore Welsh, of Prince Edward Island, one of the staunchest Liberals of the last Parliament, is supporting Sir John's policy.

Mr. C. N. Skinner, elected in St. John, N. B., at the last election as a Reformer, is now running in the same city as a Conservative candidate.

Mr. Silas Alward, M. P. P., of St. John, N. B., for 12 years a Reformer, openly and publicly repudiates Unrestricted Reciprocity. In this he is supported by his two colleagues, A. A. Stockton, M. P. P., and R. A. McKeown, M. P. P., both Reformers.

Mr. D. G. Smith, leading supporter of Hon. Peter Mitchell, writes an open letter to that gentleman denouncing Unrestricted Reciprocity.

Mr. Edgar Judge, of Montreal, ex-president of the Liberal Club of that city, renounced the party and the fad in open meeting.

In Toronto such distinguished Liberals as these will vote with the Government on the trade question:

Mr. Gordon Brown.
Mr. Stapleton Caldecott.
Mr. A. M. Smith.
Mr. D. Gunn.

Ex-Ald. Stephen, of Halifax, president of the Reform Association of that city up to a short time ago, appeared upon the Conservative platform on Saturday night.

Solicitor-General Pugsley, of New Brunswick, who opposed Hon. Mr. Foster on the platform in 1887, is now stumping in favor of the Minister of Finance in his own county.

THEORY VS FACTS.

"The Tories say that Britain is our natural market for all these articles. That is not the farmer's experience."—Toronto Globe

Possibly, but then it is the experience of the Trade and Navigation returns for 1889. To wit:

	Great Britain.	United States.
Cheese.....	$8,871,205	$ 31,473
Cattle.....	4,992,161	488,266
Butter.....	174 027	7,879
Wheat.....	439 863	26,591
Apples.....	1,277,577	230,108
Peas.....	1,091,078	312,650

There is no questioning these facts, which are worth considerably more to the farmers than the talk of men and journals panting for office.
