Gordon Richardson of Mt. Brydges, had his car badly damaged in an accident on Wednesday evening, Oct. 28th, while returning home from London. At the top of Deleware hill he went to pass a wagon ahead of him, when he was met by another car. In order to avoid the car he turned toward the wagon, with which he collided. His companion was quite badly bruised and cut by broken windshield glass, but Mr. Richardson luckily escaped with a bad shaking up.

Oct. 28th was a night to be remembered by the members of Rebekah Lodge No. 226, when the degree team from Victoria Rebekah Lodge No. 1, under the leadership of G. E. Shaw, came from London and conferred the degree on a class of candidates. Their work was greatly praised by all present and the officers were highly complimented in the manner in which they performed their duties. After the degree had been conferred and the general business of the lodge had been transacted there were several addresses given by some of the sisters and brothers. After the close a dainty lunch was served by the ladies of Irene Lodge.

On Hallowe'en a very jolly and happy evening was enjoyed by members and friends of the Young People's Club in the Anglican hall. The sight of the masqueraders, numbering over ninety, was a fascinating picture. Gypsies, fairies, brownies, flowers, early Victorians, clowns, witches, colored gentlemen, young men disguised as maidens, and maidens as youths, all costumes charming and false faces making it quite a task to judge who they were. The kiddies were well represented, with their masks and costumes and they especially along with the youths and maidens seemed to have a very jolly time. Music was provided by Mr. and Miss Moyle and Mr. Evan Denning and was much appreciated. Delicious candy was passed around during the evening by Mrs. ... and Mrs. Chittick. The happy evening was then brought to a close at midnight by singing "God Save the King."

About fifty young people of Kerwood enjoyed "the auto social" held under the auspices of the League on Tuesday evening. The program was opened by singing that wonderful hymn "A call for royal soldiers," followed by prayer, then the chairman's address in which he remarked of the spooky appearance of the rooms, decorated for Hallowe'en. Miss Irene Eastabrooke and Miss Anna Leacok rendered a piano duet, a solo by Miss Beatrice Foster entitled "The Rosary" was followed by a violin duet by Stanley and Fred Johnston, while James Eastabrooke and Nelson Johnston quite ably sang "Keep Sweet," Mr. Neilson delighted the audience with a piano solo. The audience then sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and every one rallied into groups for the contest. There were all about the auto. The groups scoring the largest number of points were Ford, Overland and Hudson. These received a beautiful box of candy surnamed "sparkplugs." The people were held spell bound when a ghost lured from a dark corner making its way about the room and disappearing in like manner as it came. The luncheon was served in cafeteria style and all retired feeling they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

On his way home from Ailsa Craig where together with his wife, he had spent a short visit recently, F. C. Robinson of Lethbridge, Alta., formerly a resident of Ailsa Craig, and a well-known and popular bank clerk, was found with his wife asphixiated in a closed car south of Great Falls, Montana, Tuesday, Oct. 27th, according to word received by hs parents in Ailsa Craig last week. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson came by train to visit the former's parents, but a few weeks ago, and while here they purchased a car and decided to make the return trip by motor. Letters of their progress have been received quite frequently. Up till a few days ago they reported a good trip and then they told of storms and cold. Returning to Alberta through the United States, the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Robinson rode stalled in the mud near Great Falls, Montana. They were found dead in the auto with the door locked and the engine running. It is presumed, reports say, the engine was left running to keep the car warm. An inquest is being held at Stanford.
