here yesterday evening, after the unveiling by His Majesty of the equestrian monument erected in honor of William the Great, at the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle, made a long speech upon the subject of his grandfather, during the course of which he said:

"My grandfather went forth from Coblentz to mount the throne as the chosen instrument of the Lord, and as such he regarded himself. For all of us, more especially for we princes, he raised once more on high, crowning it with the bright rays of the treasure, which may we ever preserve in its sublimity and holiness—I mean the kingdom by the Grace of God, the kingdom with its heavy duties, its never-ending, ever-enduring toils and labors, with its awful responsibility to the Creator alone, from which no man, no minister, no house of parliament, no people, can release the Prince. For me it will be a sacred duty, following in the way which the Great Ruler has shown us, and in solicitude for my country, to hold my protecting hand over this splendid jewel and in the tradition which has descended to us and which remains stronger than iron—yes, even than the walls of Ehrenbreitstein—to take this province to my heedful heart, the heart of the father of his country, and wish with all my heart that her people may grow under the protection of long lasting peace."

KURDS AND ARMENIANS.

Persian Local Authorities Said to be Assisting the Armenian Incursions.

Constantinople, Sept. 1.—The following official statement regarding the reported disturbances near Van, Armenia, was issued to-day:

"Fifteen Armenian agitators, who were hiding in a village near Van, fired upon the troops sent to arrest them, but 13 of the agitators were captured and taken to Van."

Referring to the report of heavy fighting between the Kurds and Armenians on the frontier, announced in a despatch from Tabreez, North Persia, to The Daily News of London, the following official statement has been made:

"Zekki Pasha reports that the Armenian brigands on the Persian frontier recently raised a band of 500 horsemen, intending to attack the village of Bashkouleh, but the Turkish troops have hitherto prevented them from so doing.

"It is remarked that certain Persian local authorities are assisting the Armenian incursions, in spite of the treaties and good relations between the two countries."

UPSET IN THE RAPIDS.

A Toronto Lady Drowned by the Capsize of a Canoe—Bravery of Miss Hodgins of Toronto.

Beaumaris, Ont., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Ankcorn, accompanied by Richard Moore, a foreman in Beattie Bros.' foundry at Fergus, attempted to shoot the Moon River rapids in a canoe. They upset in the rapids and Mrs. Ankcorn never came up. Moore would have been drowned but for the bravery of Miss Hodgins of Toronto, who waded into the river and held out the branch of a tree to the struggling man. Mrs. Ankcorn's body has not yet been recovered.

Mr. Ankcorn is a moulder, who is employed by the Toronto Radiator Company, and resides at 102 Marion-street. He left yesterday for Beaumaris. Mrs. Ankcorn was born in the County of Bruce and had been married for eighteen years. She leaves four children. Deceased was a member of Parkdale Baptist Church.

The old firm of Heintzman & Co., doing business since 1847, have just placed on the market and are exhibiting at the Industrial a baby grand piano that easily surpasses anything attempted in piano making in the Dominion. It is a high grade piano in the most exact sense of the term, constructed on strictly scientific principles, giving to it a tone quality and exquisiteness of touch that quickly wins the admiration of musicians. Those whose opinions as pianists must always carry influence are kind enough to say that nothing to equal it has yet been constructed in Canada or the United States. The touch and tone evidently merit the verdict that these are perfection.

TO CELEBRATE GLENCAIRN VICTORY

The dinner to be given by the R.C.Y.C. on Monday next at the Island Club in honor of Mr. G. Herrick Duggan and Commodore and officers of Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club bids fair to be an event of more than usual interest—as it certainly ought to be.

The arrangements for dinner have been carefully carried out and the committee having in charge the musical program have spared neither pains nor time in order to provide an entertainment which will assume a most enjoyable evening.

Cards of invitations, which are limited in numbers are being well taken up and being well taken up and members wishing to be present and to assist in doing honors to the victors in the late national contest will do well to secure tickets not later than Friday afternoon when the list must be closed.

The start for the great race will take place at 11 o'clock in the morning off Island shore. The club launch will leave town Club with Regatta officials on board at 10 a.m. sharp.

RAIN AT GUELPH.

Guelph, Sept. 1.—The second day of the Guelph trotting and running meet opened under rather unfavorable circumstances. It was rainy all morning and about 1 o'clock there was a fine mist falling, which finally finished up by raining hard. There were only two heats trotted in the named race. Ethel D. won the first and Nancy J. the second. Time 2.30 and 2.32.

The 2.24 and 2.21 classes had twelve entries, eleven of them starting. It was a great race, the horses being well bunched from wire to wire, pacer Belle winning the heat after a hard drive with Wilkes Collins and Col. S. finishing right on her neck. The second heat was won by the Toronto horse Jimmy Skean, owned by J. H. Hoffman. Time 2.21½ and 2.23. The rest of the races were postponed until to-morrow. The attendance was not so large as yesterday, no doubt on account of the rain. All the factories closed down this afternoon.

DOLLYMOUNT GOLF TOURNAMENT.

London, Sept. 1.—There was a constant fall of rain during the progress of the golf tournament at Dollymount to-day. The second round resulted in Reade, Creery, Orr, Moore, Hilton and Webb defeating respectively McDonald, Livingston, Pickman, Browning, Harley, Duncan and Fry. The feature of the day's play was the defeat of Taylor, the Irish open champion, by Reade, the Irish close champion.

THE PORTLAND'S MAXIM GUN

Will be Mounted as Soon as the Steamer is Ready.

DUE TO SAIL SEPTEMBER 10

Seattle People Awaiting the Arrival of the Steamer Cleveland.

No One Starting at This Time Can Get Through to the Klondike This Season—Hundreds Are Starting for the Dyea and Skaguay All the Same—Some of the Difficulties—A Blockade—Starvation Will Be the Result, According to a Newspaper Man—Two Sides of the Story.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 1.—The rapid-fire Maxim gun, with which it is proposed to fortify the treasure ship Portland against pirates, arrived in Seattle to-day over the Northern Pacific Railroad. Thursday the Portland will be placed in the Government navy dock of the Puget Sound naval station at Bremerton, Wash., and as soon as she is hauled off the ways the gun is to be mounted. The vessel will be given a thorough overhauling, permission to have the work done in a United States dock having been granted to-day by the Secretary of the Navy. While the Portland is not seriously in need of repairs, it was nevertheless decided to have her overhauled before starting on this, her last trip this season. It is estimated that on the next trip she will return with as much treasure and possibly more than she brought in July.

The Portland is due to sail Sept. 10, and if the steamship Cleveland, also of the North American Transportation and Trading Company, arrives on schedule time Sept. 5, she will sail the same day. It is more than probable that the Cleveland will return from St. Michael's with several thousands of Klondike gold dust. She will no doubt bring the treasure of the North American Transportation and Trading Company, now supposed to be on the steamer Weare, which was expected to arrive at St. Michael from Dawson City a day or so after the departure of the Portland Aug. 16.

Notwithstanding the innumerable warnings of those who have undergone the hardships of a trip to the Yukon that no one starting from the States at this season of the year can possibly get across the divide before the river freezes, hundreds are hastening to Dyea and Skaguay even at this late day. The Utopia leaves to-morrow with 75 Klondikers and 60 head of horses, and the Alki, which is also scheduled to sail to-morrow, will have over 100 passengers bound for the Yukon gold fields.

Difficulties are Great.

July 17 B. Suponizka wrote from Dawson City to Mark Norton of Seattle, in part saying:

"The ground on some of the creeks here is surprisingly rich; in fact, I suppose it is the richest in the world, but owing to the difficulties attending the prospecting the ground must be rich to make it pay. Provisions are very high and delicacies rare. Potatoes are $1 per pound and eggs $1 each at the restaurants, and other things in proportion. The town is being overrun with saloons and gambling houses, but more than likely the gold commissioner, who is the supreme authority, will regulate these things."

Concerning the crowd making for Dawson City and climbs along the Skaguay trail, T. R. Lindsay of this city, writing Aug. 23, says:

"The trail is in a very good condition, but it is a long one. There are one or two bad places in it, but we fixed them as soon as we got to them. I am over the worst hill, and will get my goods through. The Seattle boys are here, and they have changed the name of Skaguay to New Seattle. There are about 4000 people here, and more are coming, the arrivals being nearly 300 a day. I have made four miles a day ever since I left salt water. Not very many will get over the divide this fall. Only the determined ones will succeed in crossing."

Many Will Stay at Skaguay.

Leroy Tozier, writing from Skaguay: "As a blockade is on and with those now here and coming, 5000 people will be compelled to remain here until spring or return home. Some have horses and wagons, and such are making from $60 to $100 a day."

H. T. Hannon, who started for the Klondike late last spring, after his arrival at Dawson City, wrote of his experiences en route in part as follows:

"I would not advise any one to take the trip if he is not perfectly familiar with the navigation of swift rivers or else has some one with him who is. It don't make any difference whether he has rowed a boat or not. He must know how to handle a boat in rough and dangerous water. Before I started I supposed that when I crossed the summit our difficulties were about over, while, in fact, they had but begun. The labor crossing the summit, the cold storms, are nothing compared to racing down the river at a rate of nine miles an hour for a distance of thirty or forty miles at a stretch, with rocks and bowlders sticking up out of the water and others but a few inches under water."

PREDICT SUFFERING AND WANT.

Reports Tend to Confirm the Gloomy Stories From the Yukon.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 1.—The situation on the Yukon, as outlined in the despatches yesterday, is fully as bad as painted. To-day there arrived a letter from St. Michael, under date of Aug. 16, from Ben Sanford Goodhue, a newspaper man, who went up on the Excelsior, and has devoted his time to investigating the situation. He says positively that by no means can enough provisions be taken up the Yukon to supply those now on the Klondike and those going in. He sustains his assertions with statements from the deputy collector at St. Michael and the representatives of the two trading companies on the Yukon. He shows that even if both companies had all their river steamers available and they could make the three trips usually made they could not land enough provisions to provide for everybody at Dawson City during the long winter.

But at least two of the river steamers and possibly more are laid up somewhere up the river, presumably stuck on sandbars, and with little chance of getting off unless timely rains raise the stream. They are already so long delayed that they must miss at least one trip, and that probably means the difference between a fair share of food and starvation. To add to the critical situation Goodhue confirms the report that the river is unusually low. The depth is now three and one-half feet, when it should be at least double that. Drought or frost has the same effect on causing low water in the river. If winter sets in before the rains raise the river then Dawson City will see famine in all its worst horrors."

Say Chances are Slender.

There are now 238 persons at St. Michael, waiting a chance to get up the river, and Goodhue says the chance is exceedingly slender. The new steamer C. H. Hamilton has just been launched and she will make an attempt to go up, but as she is the largest river steamer there, she stands a poorer show than any of going through. Goodhue has talked with every miner who has come down the river this season, and all are agreed that Dawson City must starve this winter. All state that every season the companies have promised to get in plenty of provisions, and the supply has always been a trifle short. The largest amount taken up heretofore has been 3500 tons. The river steamers, if every condition were favorable, could take in 6000 tons. Under present circumstances 5000 tons will be an outside estimate.

To show how near to the line things are at Dawson City, Goodhue says that the first load of provisions which went up this season was sold before the steamer had finished unloading. From the statements of the miners coming down the river, and from the report of the people going in over the passes, Goodhue estimates that there will be about 12,000 people on the Klondike this winter. Five thousand tons of provisions means less than 1000 pounds to the person, and the lowest estimate of the amount necessary to carry one through the closed season is 1,500 pounds. The usual estimate is 2000 pounds.

Companies About Helpless.

Goodhue states that the transportation companies are making every effort to move the goods, but are almost entirely helpless. Manager L. B. Shepherd of the North American Transportation Company at St. Michael's told Goodhue that he did not think more than 4000 tons of supplies would get through to Dawson City.

Erwin Anders, Deputy Collector of Customs for the United States, said that the two transportation companies were lacking in facilities equal to the demand, and predicted much suffering.

Values His Claim at $1,000,000.

Ottumwa, Ia., Aug. 31.—Oskar Lampeze, one of the wealthiest of the men who have returned from the gold fields of the Yukon, is visiting relatives in this city. Lampeze returned from the north several months ago with over $150,000, which he mined on his own claim.

A Burglar in Full Dress.

It is not often that one hears of burglars assuming evening dress, either faultless or otherwise, when they go out to carry on housebreaking operations. There is a gentleman living in the Champs Elysees district, however, whose prompt conduct led last week to the arrest of a burglar who was thus clad. The gentleman in question, in ascending to his own flat, noticed that the door of a neighbor who is in the country was open, so he accordingly entered the porch or ante-chamber of the place, and, to his intense astonishment, saw a man dressed in the most careful evening attire, and wearing a splendid floral sprig in a buttonhole of his claw-hammer coat, pulling out the drawers in a bedroom and evidently looking for money or jewelry. The watcher hid for a few moments in order to take in the scene more thoroughly, and he saw that the gentleman burglar was rapidly filling his pocket with the small objects of value and also with jewels.

Having completely satisfied himself, he sent for the police. The men of the law waited for a few moments at the bottom of the stairs, and were rewarded by seeing the fashionable burglar come unconcernedly toward them, humming an air from an opera, and regarding his floral decoration with a satisfied air. Before reaching the street door, however, the housebreaker in evening dress was arrested. It was in vain that he stormed, swore and protested that he was a gentleman. The policemen smiled and ran the rule over his pockets. Then they took him away to the station, where he gave an unpronounceable Slavonic name and his address, which was actually in the fashionable Avenue des Champs Elysees. Thither went some of his captors, and found that he lived in an expensive bachelor's flat, beautifully furnished. It has been ascertained, in fact, that the man is a practiced burglar, and that he adopted fashionable attire in order to defy suspicion. There have been fashionably dressed burglars before, but they never had addresses in the Avenue des Champs Elysees. He was even the next door neighbor of dukes and duchesses, of prominent politicians and of distinguished foreigners.—London Telegraph.

How to Keep Umbrellas.

One of the fruitful causes of holes in the folds of an umbrella is improper care when it is wet. To roll up a wet umbrella is to invite the dyes to rot it, and one of the canes of the umbrella manufacturer is loaded dye on silk. Out of 100 samples of silk submitted to the writer, not even ten were pure dye, and 50 per cent. of the silk thread submitted was overloaded with dye and would not stand our chemical test. This is a fruitful cause of trouble in umbrellas. The concern insists on all the silk and silk threads standing a chemical test in this respect. When overdyed silks are wet and the umbrella rolled and set away, we find the owners complaining that their umbrellas are cracking in the folds. Fine holes appear and they are apt to return the umbrella to theme rchant and claim damages.

Aside from kid gloves, there is no article sold in connection with which merchants are so imposed upon by their "best" customers as umbrellas. This is a tender theme. The tempers of the wives of our best customers are not to be trifled with when it come to returning half-worn gloves or umbrelles. With a dignity not attained on any other hemisphere in the habitable globe, she sails into the store of the merchant, slams down the battered relic that has acted as a playhouse and tent for the children of the neighborhood and demands a new umbrella for the "miserable apology sold her only three months ago." She declares it has been used only three times and only with the greatest care. The merchant has to accept this final, offers her the choice of his stock, and she sailes forth with the air of a conqueror, conscious that she has triumphed. Then he pockets his loss and wonders what the next imposition will be; and people wonder why so many retail merchants fail to commit suicide. If an umbrella is properly made, of good material nad decently used it will wear for years.—Hardware.

BROWN UNIVERSITY DISPUTE.

The Controversy Between the Faculty and President Andrews—What Mr. Olney Says.

Providence, R.I., Sept. 1.—The corporation of Brown University met to-day behind closed doors. Among the matters which came up was the presentation of a letter from ex-Secretary of State Richard Olney addressed to the faculty and bearing upon the controversy between the corporation and President Andrews, in which he says: "As you may know, I do not agree with what I understand to be Dr. Andrew's views respecting the free coinage of silver. I strongly deprecate the action of the corporation, indeed, upon the precise ground that nothing could be better calculated to give currency and weight to those views—just as nothing would give greater impetus to the cause of tariff reform than an attempt by the authorities of Harvard College to discipline President Eliot for his well-known sentiments respecting freer trade

"The true objection, however, to the course pursued towards Dr. Andrews by the corporation of Brown University is its implied inculcation of the doctrine that an institution of learning should above all things get rich, and therefore should square its teachings and limit the utterances of its faculty by the interests and sentiments of those who for the time being are the rich men of the community. The demoralizing and degrading character of this doctrine your letter fully exposes, and thereby entitles you to the gratitude, not only of American citizens generally, but of all well-wishers to Brown University in particular."

ANT HOUSES IN AUSTRALIA.

Mounds in Which Millions of the Insects Live.

One mound in particular, a grained columnar structure, was 18 feet high. This was not far from Port Darwin. The discoverer believes that originally the mound was conical in shape. The sides were smooth. It has evidently been in use for many years, and the columnar erect noticeable, he believes, is due to the fact that the ants, incessantly traveling the pathways up and down the mound, produced the grooves that are seen and resulted in giving the effect of a columnar formation. The entrance to the mound, examination showed, had varied in location, for there was distinct evidence that aperatures of this sort had been walled up in several instances.

The interior of the mound referred to showed as much as anything the remarkable instinct of the ants. It was divided up very much after the fashion of the tall buildings which are now becoming so common, with an immense court within the structure itself—that is, there were hundreds of tiny rooms built up from floors which were terraced one above the other. The galleries were connected by paths of stairways, each of these being constructed with architectural exactness. The cells reminded one, the explorer said, of the cell of a monk. The earth in each instance was as hard and smooth as marble, and bore evidence of long continued usage. A portion of the ground floor, or basement, of the mound had been divided into storerooms, and here it was evident the ants had carefully packed away the provender which they had secured from various points about.

While naturalists and students of the intelligence of insects and animals have long been inclined to believe that the ant exceeded in at least keenness of instinct all other creatures of its kind, it has never been conclusively shown until demonstrated by the just made announcement of Mr. Saville-Kent.—Westminster Budget.

THAT CUBAN GIRL.

A Bit of a Fraud After All—She Is Not What She Represented Herself to be.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—Consul General Lee's investigation into the circumstances attending the arrest of the young Cuban girl, Evangelina Cossio Cisneros, have resulted in sweeping away a great deal of the romance that attached to her. He has received from cabled the State Department to-day from Havana that the girl is not the niece of the Marquis Santa Lucia, as has been publicly proclaimed, but is the daughter of a poor and respectable Cuban named Augustin Cossio. Her mother's name being Cisneros, was added to her own, according to the Spanish custom, instead of her full name Evalina Cossio Cisneros. Moreover, Gen. Lee reports that this girl is not an only daughter, nor has she been raised in wealth and luxury, but is one of five or six children.

Silverites Cease Their Agitation.

London, Sept. 2.—The Post this morning comments editorially upon the fact that the American silverites, seeing the rise in the price of wheat have wisely ceased their agitation, awaiting a better opportunity.

"The European silverites, however, the paper says, show no such prudence, but continue to importune the public as before, laying special stress upon the pecuniary aspects of silver in India, and quite ignoring both the increased supply of gold and the gradual abandonment of a silver standard by all commercial nations.

The Sultan's Waning Power.

London, Sept. 2.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that, after careful inquiries, he is convinced that the Sultan's personal influence among the Mussulmans in Northwest India is non-existent. There is no doubt, the correspondent says, that the suggestion that the Sultan instigated the trouble is flattering to his vanity; but it is quite clear that nothing can restore to the Sultan his preponderance in the Mussulman world.

Cucumbers and melons are "forbidden fruit" to many persons so constituted that the least indulgence is followed by attacks of cholera, dysentery, griping, etc. These persons are not aware that they can indulge to their heart's content if they have on hand a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellog's Dysentery Cordial, a medicine that will give immediate relief, and is a sure cure for all summer complaints. ed
