Who Won The War?

Captain Archibald Roosevelt of the 26th Infantry, American Expeditionary Force, who was wounded in France in August last, is the author of an article in Everybodys Magazine, which should be read by any resident of the United States who feels like joining in the unfounded claim that the soldiers of that country won the war.

In discussing the unpreparedness of his country at the time it ceased to be a money-making onlooker and became an active belligerent, Roosevelt says: 'It is a fact that many of the highest officers of our regular army went to France believing that only mule wagons could be used in the transport system of an army.' He cites case after case in which the military authorities of the United States as well as the government as a whole failed to grasp the most elementary principles of the warning that the fighting in Europe conveyed with the result that the training had to commence after the Americans had landed in France and was carried on largely with equipment and materials borrowed from other belligerents. Gas masks were favorite objects of experiment with the result, he says, that 'when I left France 20 months after we had drifted into the war, American gas masks were in the same place as the Liberty airplanes, the Liberty truck and the Browning machine guns. All were figments of the imagination.'

Capt. Roosevelt is almost ferocious in his criticisms of the rejection of the Lewis machine gun as used by the British and Belgians and which was standing the test of actual battle, while the Americans were telling of the superiority that was to be found in the Browning gun. But up to August last no Browning automatic rifles or machine guns had been employed with any of the fighting divisions on the firing line. At the end of hostilities only a very few of the latest arrived units were equipped with these weapons,' says Roosevelt. As to hand grenades, the Americans used what they could borrow from the French, while 'the Brain Trust' at home experimented to find a 'perfectly safe grenade.' Capt. Roosevelt says: 'They found it. It was safe, both for us and the Germans. Only a trained mechanic in a large quiet field could set one off. So up to the time of my departure from France American troops used only French grenades.'

In concluding his article he tells of some United States troops at last reaching the front line and of what they found, adding: 'But most important of all, the younger officers—I am not so sure about the older—discovered their absolute ignorance of modern warfare.'

Word was received in Halifax Saturday from Col. Ralston D. S. O., Officer commanding the 85th Nova Scotia Battalion, that the Unit, which is now in England, expected to sail on June 7th for Halifax.

How do You Walk?

There is an old saying that a bandy legged boy will never lack warm stockings, meaning that he will never be in want of money, so that folk whose friends are apt to be rude about their manner of walking may find consolation therein.

On the other hand, persons who walk in a fashion which quickly wears down their heels, are likely one day to be in need of cash, while knock kneed folk though they have the ability to get wealth, have not power to attract love, so it is said! A long stride and a swinging walk are good—they imply that there may be ups and downs, but good fortune will never get far away, and will come out on top eventually.

Bad luck follows in the train of those who habitually turn in their toes, however, and an ancient adage has it that the man who always walks on the tips of his toes is likely to end his days in prison.

So watch your step!

The United Mine Workers of America, by a Court of Appeal, in St Paul, have been held liable for $505,000 damages for ordering men out on strike to the great loss of a Coal Company of that State.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds

Presentation to Miss Wagner.

As recorded in Wolfville notes, Miss Ida Wagner, who, since 1907, was chief operator at our Wolfville office, has severed her connection with the Company and has entered upon duties of a different nature in a home of her own. The Company loses by the resignation of Miss Wagner the services of one who for a long period was a faithful, willing and obliging employee, one who knew her work well and could be depended on to do it.

That the many amiable qualities that characterised our late operator at Wolfville were recognized and appreciated by others than her official superiors and fellow-workers is shown by the fact that the business men of that fair town presented her on her retirement from the service with a purse of gold and a letter in the following terms:

MISS IDA WAGNER:—

A number of your many friends having learned that you are about to sever your connection with the telephone service of our town, wish, before you go from us, to assure you that your faithful service, and especially the spirit of that service, has been much appreciated.

We are conscious that your position as head of the operators staff for several years, has called for much patience and forbearance on your part, for, though many of us may have been inclined at times to chafe under delays, no doubt unavoidable, you have not responded in kind; but with even tempered magnanimity have persevered in the even tenor of your way. Your uniform courtesy and willingness to serve the patrons of the 'phone convince us that you realize that the Company, which enjoys a very valuable franchise, the gift of the people, is under obligation to give the people in return the best service possible.

While it is true that a duty well done is a reward in itself, we desire you also to be assured of our high esteem and of our wish that you may have many happy years in the sphere of duty now awaiting you.

Please accept a trifling token of our good will and best wishes.

Wolfville April 29, 1919.

All those of our readers who are associated throughout our system in the work of furnishing telephone service join in wishing their recent fellow-worker a long and happy life as Mrs. Austin J. Lyons.—Monthly Bulletin of the Maritime Tel. & Tel. Co.

Both the Imo and Mont Blanc are held responsible for the explosion in Halifax Harbor, that caused the great disaster and loss of life. This is the decision of the Supreme Court which heard the appeal of the Campagnie Generale trans-Atlantique vs. Imo.

Federal support for technical education aggregating ten million dollars within the next ten years, the money to be paid to the provinces, is provided for in a resolution of which notice has been given by Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration and colonization.

The titles committee report, adopted by the House of Commons last week, advocated the presentation to the King of an address requesting him to refrain hereafter from conferring any title of honor or titular distinction upon persons residents in Canada, except such appellations as are of a professional or vocational character, or pertain to an office. It further asked the extinction of hereditary titles now borne by Canadians at the death of the present bearers.

Operation For Appendicitis.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes:—'My husband was being treated for appendicitis and the doctor ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation or even of a doctor as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure.'

Spring Weather Hard on Baby.

The Canadian spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or curing colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Window Of The Soul.

Nothing is more true than that the slumbering soul is frequently awakened by a silent and unpremeditatedly intimate look into other eyes—windows which let the light in upon motives and aspirations wholly alien to that of the sleeper, for it is never what the lips speak that is the best, even where they are most consecrated and honest; but what the eyes tell and what the tone of the voice unintentionally conveys.

Here and there along the way, as in the prosaic walks of our daily concerns meet this more or less inspiring and disturbing glance.

And however preoccupied we may be with schemes of money making or 'getting even' with those for whom we have antipathy, we at once recognize the thrill that accompanies a consciousness of higher places, the opening of doors into larger chambers than those to which we have been accustomed.

"Is this the genuine Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Yes, madam, we do not offer substitutes, nor do we believe there is anything to take the place of this great nerve restorative."

"WELL, it has been so strongly recommended to me that I do not want to make any mistake in getting the right medicine."

"You are not making any mistake in this, for we think too much of our reputation to try to talk you into taking something else."

"Do you sell much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"It is one of our largest sellers, and gives such universal satisfaction that it is a pleasure to recommend it to our customers."

But do you know of cases in which it has actually cured people of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability and nervousness?"

"Scores of them, madam. Some people never say anything about the medicines they buy, but scarcely a day passes that we do not hear of some case in which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has effected a cure. It is also great for anaemia, and all ailments arising from a thin, watery condition of the blood."

"Well, I am going to try it. How much is it a box?"

"Fifty cents a box, or six boxes for $2.75. Better take the six, for you save a little on the price, and you need that many to give it a fair trial."

"Do you think I will."

"Oh, yes, the process of building up the nervous system is necessarily slow. You will no doubt feel benefited after the first box or two have been used, but too many make the mistake of neglecting the treatment then instead of keeping on until the nerves are fully restored."

"Do me up the six boxes, then, for I hear of so many people being benefited by using the Nerve Food that I am going to give it a thorough test."
