SANITARIUM FOR ALIENS.

Suggestion of Trades Council re Immigrant Labor Problems.

The Trades and Labor Council completed their elections last night in the Labor Temple. The ballot declared the following executive: President, W. J. Thompson; vice-president, J. H. Kennedy; recording and corresponding secretary, John Gardner; financial secretary, Charles Goldsmith; treasurer, Isaac H. Sanderson; sergeant-at-arms, James Higginbotham; tyler, J. T. Richardson; trustees, R. Hungerford, W. R. Steep and P. H. Cox; exhibition representatives, R. Hungerford and W. D. Thompson; auditors, J. D. Corcoran, H R Barker and James Poulton.

The government committee's report commented on the increasing cases of consumption among employes, but considered much of it might be traced to foreign workmen, who had contracted tuberculosis before coming to Ontario. It was suggested that the government build a sanitarium in connection with the immigration office, or otherwise bar out aliens. A letter from Claude Macdonell, M.P., supporting Verville's eight-hour day bill, was received. The matter of W. R. Johnson and The Tribune, the labor paper, was taken up. The secretary of the Allied Printing Trades will be asked to state how Mr. Johnson's standing will harmonize with the policy of the amalgamated labor unions.

The abolition of compulsory vaccination by the department of education was approved.

It was unanimously agreed that Milner Morris' suggestion, in The London Standard, that the imperial government invest next year's surplus in Canadian industries would prove profitable to them and would have the effect of increasing immigration from the United Kingdom, rather than from foreign countries.

USE OF THE CHECK REIN.

Humane Society Taking It Up—Affiliation is Sought.

At yesterday's meeting of the Toronto Humane Society, H. J. P. Good, by invitation, gave an address on the evils of the use of the checkrein, which in most cases he ascribed to thoughtlessness rather than cruelty. Mr. Good urged that the society bring its work more prominently to the attention of the business men of the city. He also suggested that the plan adopted in some United States cities, of providing members with a distinctive badge, was of great assistance in securing the aid of the police when required.

A resolution of regret at the death of the Baroness Burdett Coutts, a warm friend of the London S.P.C.A., was passed, and Mrs. C. E. Leigh was instructed to correspond with other societies thruout the province, with a view to affiliation.

Jim Jeffries has agreed to referee the Attell-Baker fight at Los Angeles on Jan. 18. After considerable dickering, the heavyweight champion was chosen third man.

TO PREVENT BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION

Do not neglect a cold or cough no matter how slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages sooner or later will lead to fatal results.

If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of you would save yourself a great deal of unnecessary suffering.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies.

It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations.

Miss Belle Campbell, Long River, P.E.I., writes: "For some time I was troubled with bronchitis. A friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. So I procured three bottles but it only took two to cure me."

Be careful when purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark and the price 25 cents at all dealers.

LIABILITY OF A SIGNATURE IN CASE AGAINST COCKBURN

Counsel Argue the Meaning of the Bank Act—The Effect of a Comma.

"But why should a bank president accept a salary, occupy the position, invite people to invest their money, and then come into court and say: 'I did not know it was false'?" asked Hon. Mr. Morine of Magistrate Denison when the argument in the Cockburn case was being heard in the police court yesterday. The question as to whether section 99 of the Bank Act means that an officer of a bank is guilty of making a false statement by signing an admittedly false statement prepared by some one else, and which the signer did not know was false, was the point argued by Crown Attorney Corley for the prosecution, and Frank Arnoldi, K.C., for the defence. Magistrate Denison did not give a decision. The case will be resumed on Monday.

Mr. Corley asked for a conviction under the Bank Act, and not under the criminal code. He claimed the statement sent the Dominion government was a wilfully false statement by the man who made it. It is not denied that President Cockburn signed such a statement. He drew attention to the words in the act, "used with intent to deceive or mislead." The second clause says, "and every bank officer, president and other officer, who signs it shall be punished."

"The reason for framing the act in that way is to see that bank officers do their duty; to impose a more stringent liability on bank officers than any other person. There are five crimes a bank officer may commit under this section alone.

"The reason for enacting the statute would be that the bank officer has the means of knowing whether the statement was true or not, and should have found out.

Paid for What?

"The defendant received a very large salary. For what? I don't think it will be contended it was for his ability as a banker."

"If the law is as you say, there is no need for evidence further," said the court.

"The law says whose duty it shall be to furnish these statements, men who accept the conditions and the salary of bank president," resumed Mr. Corley. "If they do not do it I contend they have committed the same crime as those who have made a wilfully false statement.

"There is this clause also, 'or the officer of the bank who uses the same with intent to deceive.' It does not say 'who signs with intent to deceive.' I am trying to make it clear that one who signs is usually a president or chief officer who has the opportunity to find out if what he is signing is correct. This is the only grammatical meaning the statute can have."

In reply, Mr. Arnoldi said: "A wilfully false statement must be uttered under this section to make a crime. Now can we have a wilfully false statement if the man does not know it? To say you are going to imprison a man on the effect of a comma, is news to me. There is only one crime under this section of the Bank Act. In the case of the Yarmouth Bank, altho two counts were made, the conviction was not on either one of the two counts, because no jury can distinguish between them.

Particularizes Offences.

"The section particularizes as to what the offence shall be, in the end of it.

"An officer had to use a wilfully false statement with intent to deceive, to make it a crime. The fact that the comma was omitted after the word 'same' was quite in keeping with the reading of such books."

Mr. Morine contended "that if there be a statement, false in fact and signed by an officer of the bank, that person is guilty of a misdemeanor under this section.

"There is a responsible officer with great duties on him, who signed it, and the statute says he 'shall be held' to have wilfully made this false statement," he said.

"He signs it if he prepares it, approves of it, or concurs in it."

SUBURBAN MAIL DELIVERY.

Arrangements for Its Introduction Are Being Carefully Perfected.

Deputy Postmaster Ross is a busy man, but he accorded a few minutes yesterday to tell The World that the plans for the proposed free suburban mail delivery were well under way, and that no time is being lost in carrying out the will of the government in this respect.

"Of course," said Mr. Ross, "you cannot arrange a thing like this off-hand. I am working the plans out in my own way, and we propose to see our way clear before we go ahead.

"One thing that is causing some delay is the fact that in East Toronto, where we will extend the delivery, they last year inaugurated the street numbering system, and we now have two Gerrard-street numbers to deal with, viz., in East Toronto and in the city. This will require to be corrected.

"While no hard and fast lines have as yet been laid down, one thing is certain. We will not go north of St. Clair-avenue. West Toronto Junction will be included in the district, and it is assumed that the St. Clair-avenue line will be maintained pretty well thruout. Doncaster and Chester come within the limits, but it is not expected that the line will run much north of the Danforth-road."

Mr. Ross would not say as to the extra number of letter carriers who would be required, but they will be employed in the usual way. The qualifications are a knowledge of the three R's."

Mr. Ross could not say as to the date of the opening of the new postal station—No. F—at the corner of Charles and Yonge-streets, but it is expected that a short time only will elapse. Thirty men will be employed there, and north-enders will enjoy all the privileges of downtown citizens in respect to the closing of mails, etc. The new postal station is one of the most complete buildings on the continent. Mr. Ross visited the best that America has, and considers that in all that is modern and up-to-date the local building is unsurpassed

ROOT ACTIVELY ENGAGED IN SETTLEMENT PLANS

Visit to Earl Grey To-Morrow May Be Climax to Months of Negotiations.

London, Jan. 17.—The Associated Press learns that the exchange of certain definite proposals between the United States and Great Britain, for the purpose of clearing up the outstanding differences between the United States and Canada, have reached a rather advanced stage, so that well informed circles not only hope but believe that the approaching meeting between Secretary Root and Earl Grey, governor-general of Canada, at Ottawa, will result in arranging some, if not all, of the long pending controversies.

Altho the visit is officially described as private, no secret is made in governmental quarters that a real, political outcome is expected, as the visit follows exchanges which have been going on between Washington, London and Ottawa, in which Secretary Root first formulated a detailed plan of adjustment, which, upon its receipt here, was forwarded to Ottawa, the latter's reply having only recently been received. A high colonial official said to the Associated Press to-day:

"We know now that both sides desire to clear up the slate, to use Mr. Root's own phrase in one of his communications, and we have reason to believe that this will at least be partially accomplished before the assembling of the colonial conference in April. Mr. Root's plan for settling the questions between the United States and Great Britain was brought to England by Sir Mortimer Durand last May, since when no time has been lost in working towards a final adjustment. After Mr. Root's plan had been referred by the foreign office to the colonial office, the whole question was submitted to Canada, as it was felt that the latter must indicate the lines of acceptance or dissent. The imperial government made certain suggestions, but did not seek to lay down the law to the Laurier government, which was considered to be the best able to judge.

"In due course Canada's reply was received, disclosing a real desire to reach an agreement, as wished for by Secretary Root, but Canada wants not so much monetary compensation for waiving any interests as a national quid pro quo for anything she may have to give up. The questions to be settled include pelagic sealing, the lakes fisheries, the Canadian sea fisheries, the diversion of water power from the St. Lawrence, and the diversion from the boundary rivers. These and other questions are not of first-class importance but they may become so at any moment, and reasonable prudence requires their adjustment.

"The matters to be discussed also include a number of individual claims which the executive branch approves, but which congress left unpaid. Regarding the most important question, the one relative to pelagic sealing, the proposal of the United States tends to an arrangement by which Canada shall have a share in the catch at the Pribyloff Islands, in which at present she has no share, providing pelagic sealing is discontinued."

DISEASE MADE BONES SNAP LIKE GLASS

Frank L. Wellington has died at his home in Trinity-avenue, New York, the victim of a disease which caused his bones to snap like glass. One day while holding a strap in a street car his arm snapped off. A short time later a leg bone snapped. According to his physician this terrible condition was brought about by taking medicine which contained a certain mineral poison.

Again and again has it been demonstrated that mineral medicines are harmful. It is because Bileans, while so effective for all liver and digestive disorders, yet contain no trace of any mineral, but are, on the contrary, purely herbal, that they have won the praise of medical men, trained nurses and scientists all the world over. Bileans differ from pretty nearly every other liver medicine in containing no mercury, and from pretty nearly every other stomach medicine in being free from bismuth. They are also free from alcohol. They are compounded from the finest known medicinal herbs and roots, and are thus the best family medicine that can be obtained. They operate gently on the bowels, curing constipation and piles. They correct acidity of the stomach, stimulate the digestion, tone up the liver, and correct the secretion of bile. Their general action is at the same time corrective and tonic—correcting faulty secretion, toning up weak and debilitated organs. They thus cure anemia, green sickness, female ailments and irregularities, blood impurities, rheumatism, etc. For nausea, headache, gas, pain in the chest and between the shoulders they are also very effective. Their operation is mild, yet effective. In curing constipation they do not cause after-constipation, nor do they ever cause griping. Mothers will find them beneficial in the many little ailments to which children are subject. All druggists sell Bileans at 50c a box, or they may be obtained post free from the Bilean Company, Toronto, on receipt of price. For $2.50 a parcel of six boxes will be mailed. This is the most economical form for family use.

GORGEOUS OPENING SHOW AUTOS DAZZLE SPECTATORS

Madison Square Garden Transformed to White Topped Mountains—Noted Racing Machines.

New York, Jan. 14.—The seventh annual automobile show in Madison Square Garden was formally opened at 9 o'clock Saturday night, when the foreign diplomats from Washington arrived at the Garden, escorted by a squad of police.

A few of the Canadian contingent were on hand for the opening and others arrived to-day including from Toronto, J. J. Walsh, Mrs. Katherine Walsh, Noel Marshall, Frank, Denton P. C. Larken, G. R. Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morrow, L. Schwitzer, J. N. Shenstone, J. R. Marlow, H. A. Phillips, F. G. Pennal, C. M. Ricketts, C. R. Short, T. A. Russell, E. B. Ryckman, J. F. Brown, Mrs. J. F. Brown, H. H. Love, A. M. Thompson, John Moodie, A. E. Carpenter, M. J. Mitchell, M. A. Kennedy, P. A. Manning, Mrs. J. B. Morrison, Joseph Wright, J. A. Harvey, Mrs. J. A. Harvey, G. H. Gooderham, M. H. Irish, W. Hicks, W. Grant.

Here, indeed, in magnificence is established the capitol of Autoland. The spirit of motoring in New York is strong, too strong to feel the chilling effect of damp, nasty weather. The show attracted a greater and more enthusiastic opening night crowd than has ever before attended a motor show in this country.

Prince and proletariat were there and jostled each other. Elbow to elbow the people surged thru the broad aisles of the Garden and surrounded the richly painted and brightly polished motor cars that were the magnet. It was a cinematographic picture. Splashes of color in the gowns of the women lent brilliancy and action to the vehicles themselves. Over all and around all the pictured walls of the garden encompassed the scene to make it a still more wonderful spectacle.

Garden Like Fairyland.

The eyes of the crowd on entering the Garden swept the whole circle of vision, saw friezes in rich color, the Alpine landscapes and the glitering yellow sky that covered the great dome of the Garden. In the foreground was an illuminated figure of Diana, and statues of Mercury and Triumph. Other statues allegorically proclaimed the glory of the show, and the whole atmosphere had the significance of autumn in the warm coloring of the painted decoration and in the Swiss garden effect of the rustic architecture.

Running centrally thru the main floor is a rustic arbor. Here is the only division except those made by aisles. In green and white the signs of one exhibitor after another stretch along the walls above the elevated platform, and from end to end of the central division. Underneath is an equal stretch of carpet, and on this stand the forty-seven groups that represent the best productive efforts of forty-seven of the most prominent American and European automobile makers—the real sinew and bone of the industry.

On the elevated platform, which covers the arena boxes, this great spread of cars continues. Above, on the mezzanine floor and in the gallery, in the basement and in the concert hall, are over two hundred displays of accessories. The electrics—stately stanhopes and swell victorias and coupes—have a home in the concert hall, where there is a change from the decorative effect of the main garden, greens, blues and reds being used.

Even the basement has taken on a new, unprecedented tone of brilliancy. In blue and white its horseshoe area is a much more attractive section of the show than it has been at previous exhibitions. Here, in company with some of the parts exhibits, are the motor trucks and other motor commercial vehicles.

At the left, as one enters, are spread before him the proudest of Europe's motor cars. At the right, equally proud, are America's famous cars. On opposite corners are mighty cars from which the shine is worn, which have torn and ragged tires and scratched and dirty paint. These are the veterans of the last Vanderbilt Cup race. They have a great charm and around them there is always a big crowd.

Exhibit is Representative.

Altogether, there are 265 exhibitors. Forty-seven different makers show complete vehicles. There are 32 different makes of American gasolene cars and 12 imported gasolene cars. Seven different makes of electrics are shown and nine makes of commercial wagons, of which five are electric and four gasolene.

It is a representative exhibition. In it is exemplified every idea of consequence which the motor car industry has developed. It pictures compositely the whole accomplishment of ten years of arduous effort in the revolution of road travel and traffic. It shows the trend of a young industry already sturdy enough and important enough to have its own ways and to influence the ways of people.

It shows the point to which the French and other European manufacturers, who led at the start, have brought their cars. It shows how the American manufacturer has worked tooth and nail to attain precedence. It shows how the public has accepted the motor car as a typical vehicle, and how the motor car has been adapted to conventional vehicle uses.

It shows how the element of sport, which has been inwrought in the automobile industry since its inception, has given an impetus to the manufacture of certain forms of cars that were not even speculated upon seven years ago, when the first show was held in Madison-square Garden. Then makers who are now showing cars which can put express trains to shame were exhibiting marvelous vehicles which could do 20 miles an hour—sometimes.

Show Ready at Opening.

When the front doors swung open to admit the influx of metropolitan motor devotees it was a complete show. A few unfortunates were still missing or unpacked, but the incomplete ness was not apparent as in shows of the past. To the general eye the show was finished. Even the Swiss guards warned the entering visitor that this was a function and not an affair. The attendants in red and white garb that rivalled the painting of some flashy runabouts, felt the importance of the occasion.

From the standpoint of one initiated in the affairs and acquainted with the progress of the industry the show is a gratifying one. It has no freaks to baffle description. It presents cars that set the pace in more ways than one. It gives evidence of great improvement of mechanical detail and refinement of design. Above all, it shows the great hold which the automobile has upon the public.

Everything has grown. Motors have grown. Bodies have grown. The desire and ability to put that incomprehensible thing called "style" into a rig have grown. Even the small runabout—the two-passenger vehicle of moderate price—has taken on somewhat the air of importance that characterizes the most expensive patterns. That most popular of all of the sportive rigs, the high power runabout, has become veritably a Vanderbilt Cup or a Grand Prix Cup racer.
