A Tire Covering That Will Not Cut.

It is not possible to make a pneumatic motor car tire that will ride easily, give long wear and that cannot be cut or punctured, but it is possible to protect a good tire so that it will not be cut or punctured, and will not blow out until it has given at least 10,000 to 15,000 miles of service. The tire protectors known as the Woodworth Tread are practically puncture proof and they protect the tires absolutely from any injuries from outside sources. When they are placed over good tires, kept well inflated and not overloaded, the tires will last at least three to four times as long as if run bare. The user will thus make considerable saving in his tire bill and at the same time be free from delays on the road.
