Stories of the Day

"What an array of beauty!" exclaimed a gentleman not unconnected with the Prince of Wales' staff as he gazed upon the fair audience at Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon. A conservative estimate puts it that of the 2000 people present 1600 were women. Outside of the dignities and dignitaries on the platform mere man was almost a curiosity. "How the women do love to run after the Prince," ejaculated a professional looking man as his old eye twinkled. "Shows their good taste," was the quick rejoinder of a smart woman standing by. The professor agreed.

"I wouldn't let my own mother in," remarked an official to two beseeching ladies at Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon when they pleaded for admittance by a private door in their anxiety to get a good seat and "have a perfect view of the Prince of Wales." "What a mean man," remarked one of the ladies. "Fancy his own mother not having a chance. I guess we'll beat it." And they did. But the university official had the consciousness of duty well done.

"Oh, he smiled at me," said a pretty young woman who ran across a plowed portion of University grounds to get a glimpse of the Prince. She must have beaten the ladies' sprint record over that patch, and her competitors who had fallen out of the race to get a parting glance at the royal smilier were green with envy when she came panting back!

"Why, the Prince has freckles," said a crusty old man in the hearing of a charming young lady yesterday afternoon. "He has not," snapped the girl, and the old boy almost seemed sorry he spoke. "Why," she went on, "I was just close to him and saw he had the sweetest of little moles which many of us call beauty spots. So there, take that. Our Prince has no freckles. If he had we'd like him better than you anyway." Then the old fellow found an excuse to move on!

There may have been some arrangements made by the powers-that-be at Government House or Ottawa for the convenience of the Toronto press men whose duty is to report the Prince's daily doings, but the most powerful magnifying glass in Toronto has failed to discover them. If it had not been for the courtesy of the Toronto and imperial police the reporters' lot during the past two days would have been a hard one.

One alderman said to a certain controller yesterday: "Sam, if we were as popular on Jan. 1 as the Prince of Wales is today, there would be no need to worry."

An unrehearsed episode and an event not in the official program happened to the prince yesterday. Whilst on his way to the General Hospital and when his car was just opposite 64 St. George street about a dozen women stepped into the roadway and compelled the car to pull up. Quick as lightning two of them gracefully presented the prince with two beautiful bouquets, to which were attached some forty visiting cards. When the cars containing the police saw the prince's car held up they began to run to the rescue. The prince, however, waved them away, thanked the donors of the flowers for the gift, saluted and proceeded on his way. On examining the cards they were found to be the names and addresses of United States ladies.

One of the toys sent to the Children's Hospital yesterday was a small automobile. The boy who received the gift complained that it had not got the royal standard in front "like the Prince's."

"It's a damn shame," said the Prince to a returned prisoner from Germany, with whom he conversed in the hospital yesterday. The Prince is democratic in his language as well as his actions.

During the Prince's visit yesterday to Christie street a motor car belonging to the Army Service Corps was stolen from the front of the hospital. The words A.S.C. and No. 248 were plainly painted on the car, and the thief indeed must have been sold, for he took it from right under the nose of the police. Two hours afterwards it was found abandoned on Dupont street, but in perfect running order. It had, according to the meter, been driven some ten miles.

REDUCE ALL RATES BY TWO MILLS

York Township Council Levy 6.8 for County and 7 for Town.

The combined rate for county and township purposes was reduced two mills by York township council at their meeting yesterday. The levy for county purposes was fixed at 6.8 mills and the levy for the township purposes at 7 mills, at total of 13.8 mills, against 15.8 last year. The special rates are still to be struck. The increase in the assessment for the year was reported at approximately $800,000, the total this year being very close to $25,000,000.

Applications for house and street lighting continue to flow in. Under the new procedure council sends these applications on to the Toronto Hydro Electric, who in turn obtain authorization from the Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission before proceeding with the work. The township is billed for the cost of the work when it is completed. Petitions for lighting usually come from one street at a time and in order to reduce the labor all round, Reeve Miller said he was in favor of mapping out a whole district and instructing the Toronto Hydro to go ahead and put poles and wires therein. This procedure would eliminate the delay that usually follows application for the service. Council did not act on the suggestion.

On motion of Deputy Reeve Graham, the clerk will write to the Toronto Hydro System for information as to what is being done to comply with the township's request made in 1914 for 150 street lights.

Plans Disapproved

Council refused to approve plans for the subdivision of a block of land bounded by Hampstead, Chisholm, Wallington and Westlake on the ground that the plan did not provide for a street thru the property. A petition was also sent it against the subdivision on the plea that there is a piggery on the property.

The National Sanitarium Association is proposing to use oil for fuel because of the scarcity of coal and wrote for permission to lay a three-inch pipe from the Grand Trunk along Buttonwood avenue to their heating plant. The township solicitor will look into the matter.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the treasurer to make temporary advances to the housing commission.

Permission was granted to the Toronto Hydro to erect poles and wires on the north side of Eglinton avenue from Weston road to the Kodak Company's property.

Petitions for house lights were received from residents on Lavinia street, Holborne avenue, Eglinton ave., west from Weston road to Jane street, Kenwood avenue and on several streets in the Watford district. The petitions will be sent on to the Toronto Hydro-Electric system.

Notice of the approval of the Ontario Hydro system for electric light extensions on Wellwood, Coleridge and Dennis avenues and on Talbot street was received.

Roseland Complains.

A complaint was received from the Roselands Ratepayers' Association against the delay in repairing roads and in supplying house lighting for the district. The clerk was instructed to tell the association to send in a petition for lights.

Notice was given of a bylaw authorizing the clerk and engineer to take preliminary steps to construct a cast-iron watermain in Sunny Brae crescent, from Weston road to Bartonville, 950 feet, and on Denarda street, from Weston road to Marston street, 400 feet. Similar notice was given with respect to a four-foot sidewalk on Keene street, west side, from Sammon avenue to Mortimer avenue, a distance of 615 feet.

Gooderham Bridge.

A contract was awarded to the Hyland Construction Company to rebuild the Gooderham bridge, near Duncan, for $3186, and Arthur Johnston was given a contract to build two culverts on Horsham and Hownslow avenues for $1160. The tender of the Asphaltic Concrete Company of Toronto, of $4650, to build a 28-foot pavement with gutters on Glenholme avenue from the present pavement to Rogers road, was accepted.

A grant of $100 was made to the Fairbanks G.W.V.A. for their field day in September.

In response to a petition from 26 residents on Gamble avenue, the council decided not to go on with the work of laying a concrete sidewalk on the south side of the street.

Water Main Bylaw.

A bylaw will be prepared calling for the construction of a water main on Bertram street in Swansea, from Windermere to Willard street.

Residents on Eileen avenue, between Scarlett road and the old Belt Line, sent in a petition for a sidewalk.

Superintendent Hughes of the waterworks reports that house connections with the water service are being made at the rate of 100 a month. Fifteen hundred houses now have a water service. The superintendent also recommends that Mr. Thompson, waterworks foreman, be put on regular salary, instead of an hourly wage basis.

EARLSCOURT

EARLSCOURT AWAITS COMING OF PRINCE

The finishing touches have now been made to the decorations for the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales today, and all Earlscourt awaits the coming of the prince. A splendid arch intertwined with evergreens and decorated with a liberal display of red, white and blue has been erected on the north side of Dufferin street at the corner of St. Clair and Dufferin and streamer flags are now flying on both sides of the avenue from Dufferin to Prospect Cemetery. These flags represent Britain, Canada and the allies and they make a fine patriotic picture. The words, "Welcome to the Prince of Wales" can be seen in large capital letters from South Dufferin street. Comrades Jim Stockley, Joe Wines, Street and Speed, with George Wills and others, have been working unceasingly since Monday and the result has met with the approval of the veterans thruout this district.

Returned soldiers of the Earlscourt and district G.W.V.A. branches are requested to meet outside headquarters, Belmont Hall, St. Clair avenue, at 4.30 o'clock, where they will parade and march to the cemetery to the space allotted to them, while the prince performs the ceremony of planting the maple tree on the soldiers' plot in memory of Earlscourt's noble dead.
