Rothschild's Bomb Thrower.

Paris, Sept. 11.—Further enquiry has established the identity of the man who attempted to explode a bomb in the Rothschild's bank, as Victor Boutelhe, a grandson of a magistrate at Nimes. Boutelihe, who is in jail here, has written a letter to the Judge d'Instruction, explaining his motives for attempting the outrage. He dilates upon the hardships he has undergone, and declares that, although a man of education, he was unable to procure means of living. This led him to dreams of social regeneration and misfortune inspired him to hatred of the sight of wealth. He, the letter continues, a man equal to the most powerful, was obliged to spend his life in enriching millionaires. He gives the address of his mother, and asks that the police break the news of his arrest to her kindly.

LARGEST IN ITS HISTORY.

NEVER BEFORE WAS THERE SUCH A CROWD AT THE FAIR.

Farmers' Day of 1895 at the Industrial Proves a Record Breaker—Meetings of Many Live Stock Associations — The Promoters of Good Roads—Speeding in the Ring.

Never since the Industrial Fair was established were there so many thousand people on the Exhibition grounds as yesterday. It was Farmers' Day, and seemingly the hottest day of the year. Although the almanac sets the season as autumn it was as hot as July. People went around with their waistcoats open and perspired at a great rate. The watering cart which supplies pure drinking water was surrounded with a seething mob all day and many times had to be replenished.

What with the crowds and the heat it was like a taste of future punishment to venture into any of the chief buildings. People struggled and sweated in their efforts to see the exhibits until they were exhausted.

Many Farmers' Meetings.

The day was the occasion for many meetings relative to farmers' interests. The Good Roads Association met in the afternoon with Vice-President J. F. Bean of Welland County in the chair, and decided to send out bulletins to all the constituencies in which the plebiscit on good roads is to be taken and to send out speakers in the interest of the reform.

The directors of western and eastern dairy associations held a joint meeting and adopted this resolution:

"That the directors of the Ontario Creamery Association and the Eastern and Western Dairymen's Association, in joint meeting assembled, having read the report in the press that adulterated Canadian cheese has been sold on the British market, take this opportunity of denying emphatically that any adulterated cheese is manufactured in Canada, and of declaring that we know the said report to be wholly without foundation. This meeting expresses its regret that such untruthful reports, which are calculated to work such serious injury to the cheese makers of the coutry, should have been circulated, and hereby request that copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa, and to the High Commissioner at London, and to the Dairy Commissioner for Canada.

The Sheep Stock Breeders' Association met in the tent of the Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes. Mr. John Jackson presided, and there was a good attendance, comprising many of the prominent breeders. The constitution and bylaws were revised in accordance with the Agriculture and Arts Act. Mr. John J. Hobson, Guelph, and Mr. J. C. Snell, Edmonton, were elected the Record Committee.

A meeting of the Swine Breeders' Association was also held. Mr. Daniel De Courcey presided and there was a representative attendance, including all the prominent breeders of the province. The constitution and bylaws were revised so as to conform with the new Agriculture and Arts Act. Mr. Joseph Brethour, Burford, and Mr. Joseph Featherston, M.P., Streetsville, were elected to the Record Committee.

The Board of Directors of the Ontario Poultry Association met, with President Henry White of Port Hope in the chair and Richard Oke of London as acting secretary. It was decided that the annual show should be held in Port Hope Jan. 13-17. Several new varieties were added to the list, and it was arranged to put in new wire coops at the expense of the Department of Agriculture.

Among the guests at the official luncheon was Grand President Mallory of the Patrons, but speeches were dispensed with. The chief officers of many of the secret societies were have tents on the ground were at the show yesterday as well.

The Farmers' Trot.

The farmers' trot was the only event on the card yesterday in the way of racing, and resulted in an easy victory for Young Valentine, who won in straight heats.

Farmers' trotting race; purse, $100; for horses which have never won public money, owned and driven by farmers or farmers' sons residing on their farms, mile heats:

W. M. Thorndike's (Oakwood) ch.h. Young Valentine, by Valentine, 1; N. Sager's (Alberton) Prince, 2; E. Kayler's (Morvan), Max Allen, 3. W. Steen's (Meadowvale), Little Friday, T. Aiken's (Mount Charles) Kate B., R. T. Carlick's (Port Credit (Maud D), W. Whilpton's (Newtonbrook) Col. Brock also started. Time—2.46, 2.44, 2.47 1-2.

The Judging in the Ring.

The judging in the ring took up the entire afternoon, and on the whole the show of horses was good, though some classes showed a great falling off, both in quality and quantity. This was especially noticeable among the thoroughbreds, which, outside of Mr. Robert Davies' entries and the stallion Tyrone, were a very poor lot. Mr. Davies carried off the honors in every section of the thoroughbred class he showed with one exception, A. E. Dyment beating the Laird of Thorncliffe in the 2-year-old fillies with the imported youngster Terra Nova. One colt worth special mention was Mr. Davies' yearling by Dandy Dinmont, out of Thistle, which was by long odds the best thoroughbred youngster seen on the grounds in man yyears, and if looks go for anything, he will some day carry the Davies colors to victory in the Queen's Plate. The Dog Show.

The awards were all completed yesterday at the Dog Show. Secretary Stone considers that under the circumstances this is the most successful show in the history of the Industrial. It was the biggest and best lot of cocker spaniels ever shown in America. In Gordon setters, the quality was unbeatable. The annual meeting of the Canadian Kennel Club was held Tuesday evening, when committees for the year were chosen. Last night the annual smoking concert to the exhibitors was given in St. George's Hall, when everybody enjoyed a great time.

FAIR NOTICES.

A Music Pavilion.

The music pavilion of the Dominion Piano Company attracts many people at the Fair, for the reason that no clashing of a dozen instruments playing different tunes grates on the ear. The pianos and organs of this firm are in the top rank, judged by every standard. They have carled off more prizes and medals than probably any firm in Canada in any line of business. The tone of the instruments is its own recommendation, and, having its own building, can be heard and judged critically. The best musical people endorse it, and Prof. F. W. Deane of London, Eng., chose the "Dominion" over other pianos to give solo recitals at 3.30 and 5 p.m.

The Doherty Organ Co.

The Doherty Organ Company of Clinton, Ont., believe in advertising, but they do not make rash statements about the quality of their goods. The firm, therefore, has a more reliable name. Anyone who will thoroughly inspect the instruments shown by them in the Musical Annex at the Fair will soon be convinced that their instruments are of standard excellence.

Home Comfort Ranges.

Stoves and ranges of the most improved pattern and built of indestructible wrought iron greet the visitor's eye at the exhibit of the Wrought Iron Range Company, whose "Home Comfort" ranges are so well known. Very few people stop to think of the difference between cast and wrought iron, but it is well known that cast iron breaks at a very easy pressure, while wrought iron is much harder to break than steel. Ordinary stoves are made of cast iron; the "Home Comfort" is made of wrought iron. This is one of the exhibits best worth seeing in the Main Building.

Christie, Brown & Co.

Christie, Brown & Co. display this year at the Fair as usual, an exhibit that it would be difficult to surpass and one that provokes great admiration from passers-by. Five hundred varieties of biscuits, each differing from the other, are displayed in glass-front boxes, with a pleasing effect. In fact, so artistic has it been found that nothing else is necessary to the decoration of the exhibit. The name of those who use Christie's biscuits in Canada is legion. It is a staple article as familiar to the ordinary consumer's eye as grass in the fields. So large has the demand proved to be that now 250 hands are constantly employed supplying the demand for these biscuits, and he is a hard man to please that will not find an article to his palate in one of the 500 varieties turned out.

The Excelsior.

The motion in washing clothes when using the "Excelsior" washer is as easy as rocking a cradle. In fact, it is very similar. It is astonishing how clean it leaves them and how little it wears them. Agents should call for territory.

Overflow Tent

The farmers at the Fair yesterday all agreed that if they had to give up the free, untrammelled life of the country for that of the city, they would become reconciled to it only by having one of Moses' Patent Sink Shields. Perfect room and comfort for washing dishes right in the shield. Prevents breakage of china.

Karn Pianos and Organs.

One of the surest signs of a country's advancement towards prominence in science, arts and literature lies in its manufactures. This reasoning is not advanced as capable of logical proof, but rather as the result of observation and experience. It is only when this is properly understood that the importance of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition is fully apparent. People are too apt to say, "Oh, the Exhibition is always the same; I'm not going this year." This is a fallacy which only the most trivial sight-seers can overlook. If the Exhibition of 10, or even five years ago could be placed side by side with that of to-day, a tremendous improvement would be seen in every branch of manufacture. And of no branch would this be truer than in the building of pianos and organs as exemplified in the Musical Annex. Although tastily gotten up and consisting of some 10 hundred somest instruments shown, the beauty of the exhibit of D. W. Karn & Co. of Woodstock, Ont., lies in the interior workmanship of their instruments. It is here that the true music lover looks for the best points of a piano or organ, and it is here that the Karn instruments will not disappoint him. This firm make no vain boast when they say that they have one of the largest and most complete establishments in the world for the manufacture of organs and pianos, and it must have been gratifying to Mr. Karn that in Germany, the home of music, the Karn organ met with an unprecedented sale. The demand on the Continent was so great that branch agencies had to be established in England Germany, Russia, Italy, Switzerland, Spain, Australia, India, Japan, and even South Africa. The firm have met with equal success with their pianos, the tone of which is of marvelous purity, mellowness, power and brilliancy. A few particulars of the care taken in the construction of these pianos by skilled workmen will give some idea of the perfection of detail which goes to make up the perfect tone produced. The actions used are those of Wessell, Nickol and Gross, also used in the highest grade American piano. The hammers are finished with rabbit hair felt imported from Germany, and the delicacy of tone is largely due to this novel feature. The number of organs and pianos shown this year is unusually large. The workmanship on the panels of the upright might well be included in the art exhibit. The inlaid work, which is done in Paris, is such a delicate tracery of sprays of flowers that it causes exclamations of delight from passers-by. The city agents for the Karn piano are Messrs. Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, 188 Yonge-street.

Wilkinson Truss

All who are interested in trusses should stop at the exhibit of the Wilkinson Truss Co., near the Art Gallery entrance in the Main Building, shown by Mr. B. Lindman. This truss is endorsed by the leading physicians, and the principal point of excellence out of many others is that the pressure can be instantly and easily adjusted, and many radical cures are effected through this quality of the truss. It will astonish many to read the glowing testimonials possessed by this firm of cures of the worst hernia and at the most advanced ages. These testimonials can all be verified.

THE DEMERS MURDER TRIAL.

Evidence That the Crime Was Committed in the Early Morning—The Defence Outlined.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—It has been hinted for some time back that the defence in the Demers murder case would spring a bomb-shell upon the Crown when the trial was under way. It is currently believed in court house circles that a good hint as to what this sensation will be was pointed out to the jury at the time of their visit to the Demers' house. This discovery consists of some spots of blood found upon the inside of the blinds in the bedroom of the murdered woman. The defence, it is stated, will produce medical evidence to show that these spots were caused by human blood and are in the shape of an imprint made by a hand in the act of pushing the blind from the inside to open it. This leads to the belief that the defence will claim tat the murderer, whoever he was, left the house after the tragedy by this window, which opens on the platform. Mr. Desmarals' close cross-questioning of Mr. Beaudry, the civil engineer, as to the measurements of the passage way and its immediate locality leads to this belief.

Miss Sauves Evidence

Miss Sauve, the woman who was seen in the vicinity on the day of the murder, was on the stand all day. She did not impress those who heard her very favorably to her own advantage. She denied any intimacy with the accused and said that she had only gone out with him once and that was to a nearby drug store. She had not accompanied him to Sohmer Park, but had gone with his brother. After describing at length how she called at the house on the day of the murder and found the front door locked and had gone round to the back and rapped without receiving any reply, she said that she had called again at 3 o'clock and found it still locked. She met Mrs. Nantel and the latter entered the house by the rear, discovering the dead body. She had not heard the child crying.

To Mr. Desmarais, counsel for the defence, she denied that she had worn a blue dress with white spots on that day and that she had gone to the woodshed. She wore a light blue dress with pink spots. Mrs. Demers was much stouter than witness. The Crown had evidently intended to prove that it was Miss Sauve who had been seen going to the woodshed on the day of the murder at 1 o'clock and not Mrs. Demers. Their contention is that she was dead long before that hour.

Demers' Cut Finger.

Madame Nantel, the washerwoman who found the body, was on the stand all afternoon. The important point in her evidence was that on the first occasion she washed at Demers' house he was at home with a wounded finger, and the defence rely on this to account for blood stains on his clothing.

The Priest Thought Her Long Dead.

Rev. Cure Reme Descarroes of St. Henri, who was called in on the discovery of the body of Mrs. Demers, was examined at length. He was called about 10 minutes to 3 o'clock. He described what occurred in the room and what he saw, his evidence being of great importance to the Crown, as he was of the opinion that the woman had been long dead. Taking hold of the hand, he felt that it was exceedingly cold and the left arm was completely rigid. She seemed to have been long dead. The blood on the wounds was clotted and dry, as well as the blood on the chest. He then asked Mrs. Nantel to place her hand on the forehead of deceased, and she did so, and said that it was cold. In answer to Mr. Archambault, he said from his experience he believed she had been dead several hours when he saw the body.

Evidence of a Struggle.

From the appearance of the bed, it seemed as if some one had been walking over it. He had seen several persons who had suffered violent deaths by bleeding. The footsteps on the bed led him to the belief that there had been a struggle. He came to the conclusion that she had not committed suicide, because there was no blood on her hands. The woman never moved after she had her neck cut; she was either brained or her hands were held by some one; the head or body never moved after the first blow; no instrument was found; the strongest reason of all was the presence of the two wounds; it was impossible for a person to inflict on one's self two such terrible wounds, which cut both carotid arteries.

Lived Under Demers—Heard No Noise

Miss M. Deguise, who, with her aged father, lived under the Demers' tenement, testified to seeing Demers in a shed in the rear of his house at 4.30 that morning, and to wondering what he was doing about so early. The 13th of June, being a holiday, she and her father went to 5 o'clock mass at St. Cunegonde Church, and she did not return until a quarter to 6. Her kitchen was just under Mrs. Demers' room, and she had heard the sewing machine working the evening previous, and the baby crying. On the morning of the murder she did not hear Mrs. Demers walking about. There was an extension being built on the house in the rear and carpenters were at work on it from 7 a.m. till 2 o'clock p.m. that day.

The Crown evidently intend to prove that the murder was committed by Demers between the time the Deguises left for early mass, about 4.45, and 5.45 a.m. If anyone had committed the murder at a later hour they would have been seen entering the place.

A Great Railroad.

Not only does the New York Central Railroad, along the banks of the famed Hudson, claim one of the most picturesque routes, but its ramifications and connections embrace territory which will attract a great number of visitors. Few of such will fail to pay tribute to the mighty Niagara, and to those whose time is limited it is the line. Fast trains, paragons of luxury, speed and safety, furnished with a luxury and conveniences scarcely known in Europe, will daily—indeed, one might almost say hourly—depart from Grand Central Station in New York direct to Niagara, to say nothing of picturesque Canada and the many other attractive spots near its rails. —Outing. ed
