MEMORIAL TABLET UNVEILED IN THE ORANGE LODGE

In Memory of Brandon Brethren Who Fell in Fulfillment of Their Duty

COL. C. P. TEMPLETON

Said He Had Given First Aid To Some Whose Wounds Proved Fatal

Tuesday evening before a large gathering of the members of the Orange, the Ladies' Orange Benevolent, the Loyal Orange Young Britons, friends and relatives of the deceased. Col. C. P. Templeton unveiled the Memorial Tablet in the Orange Hall, in memory of the Brethren who left this city and fell in the fulfilment of their duty.

After the singing of the hymn, "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past," and the opening prayer by Rev. J. George Miller, Rev. Bro. G. E. Lougheed made a few brief remarks from the chair and called upon Colonel Templeton to unveil the tablet.

Colonel C. P. Templeton in a short address dwelt on the great loyalty shown in the greatest of all wars by the Orange association. The flocking to the colors of thousands of members when war was declared and during the years of conflict. During the five years Col. Templeton was overseas he saw many of the members of the Association and knew of their loyalty and brotherly love m France, where the true loyal spirit was so strongly tested and proven. Previous to the war Colonel Templeton stated that he had personally known the boys whose names appear on the tablet. Many of them he had seen go over the "top" and some he had given "First Aid" to on their return with wounds which proved fatal.

White Marble Tablet

Rolling aside the big Union Jack, the Colonel revealed the beautiful white marble tablet shaped in the form of an arch and set on a dark oak slab exquisitely carved, and read the following inscription:

80,000 Orangemen Helped

The Rev. J. George Miller spoke eloquently of the 80,000 Orangemen who assisted the Canadian Army in the great struggle. Every Orange Lodge from coast to coast was called upon to give and they now feel the loss of more than one brother who sleeps with that great ary of 60,000 Canadians in Flander's Fields. The speaker also touched on the fighting spirit of the members and mentioned that "No doubt an organization whose charter had been received through the sacrifice of thousands of brave citizens fighting for the great principle of freedom and liberty would ever be ready and loyal to rally to the support of their King and Country in a time of injustice to those dear and honored principles."

The Rev. J. W. Churchill in replying on behalf of the relatives of those whose names appear on the tablet, to the address on behalf of the Association given by Rev. Mr. Miller, expressed their sincere thanks to the Association. He told something of the duty

ONTARIO FARMER CRITIC TO REPRESENT ONTARIO ON COUNCIL OF AGRICULTURE

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS AT DOOR OF PRODUCERS

Great Britain Affords a Market For Regular Supplies of Food Stuffs

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Henry B. Thomson, formerly chairman of the Canada Food Board, who was in Toronto Monday on his way to Ottawa, after having spent eight months with the Canadian mission in London, in an interview, said the farmers and livestock producers of the Dominion have the chance of their lives to establish themselves in special lines against all-comers in the British markets. "Canadian bacon has unquestionably gained the goodwill of the British people," said Mr. Thomson, "and it commands a better price than the American product."

Mr. Thomson gave figures to show that, while the total imports of bacon into Great Britain had shown a fivefold increase between 1913 and 1918, the proportion from the United States showed a twelvefold increase and from Canada a sixteen-fold increase—the record for any country..

The ex-Food Controller said he found a readiness everywhere to take Canadian beef, if steady in supply. The total importation of beef into the United Kingdom is about five million hundredweights a year, and if Canadian exports of this commodity were increased twenty times, it would only just fill the British requirements, not to speak of the great continental markets that Mr. Thomson thought would be open soon.

The need of eggs in 1920 would be two and a half billion, Mr. Thomson said, and the largest export from the Dominion in one year was only forty-five million.

"Everything points to a meat shortage in Europe next year," said Mr. Thomson, emphatically, "and I don't think the Canadian farmer should take the short view of the livestock situation, but go on breeding his meat animals and grading up for the export trade on a permanent basis. He will be sure of a reward greater than he looked for."

BENEFIT GAME IS ARRANGED WITH FAST VICTORIAS

"Joe Hall' night has been fixed for Monday, January 12th, and the big benefit game for that evening will be between the Victorias of Winnipeg and the Brandon senior team. Brandon is to have the honor of playing the first game in the series that are to be played throughout Canada in the week commencing the 12th of January and ending the 19th. In order to let Brandon hockey fans see one of the Winnipeg City League teams in action while turning out in large numbers to show their appreciation of the late Joe Hall, the Brandon officials have arranged to have the Vics play here.

The benefit games planned over Canada are receiving the hearty support of every hockey fan who ever heard the name of Joe Hall. H A. where the Torontos, Canadiens, Ottawa and Quebec teams will stage games right through to the Pacific Coast League, teams all over Can- fallen into line in the scheme outlined which is to raise a large benefit fund for the children of the late famous hockey star. CHRISTMAS FLOOD OF PRESCRIPTIONS FOR LIQUOR IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Dec. 26. — There was something in the nature of an epidemic in Montreal Wednesday, judging by the increase in the number of doctors' prescriptions issued, which were subsequently filled at the offices of the licensed liquor vendors here. It was, however, a very different Christmas eve known to what was the case last year and many years previous. The hotels were deserted and there were no gay throngs saluting friends and strangers alike and calling for the customary "Tom and Jerry." Hotels were quiet and even dreary.

PROPOSE STRIKE COURT TO INSURE INDUSTRIAL PEACE

Wilson Commission Lays Down Tentative Plans, Asks For Suggestions

TO MEET AGAIN

January 12th and Draft Reports Into Final Form

Washington, Dec. 30.—With their tentative plan of a strike court to insure industrial peace, members of the President's Industrial Commission have invited criticisms and suggestions on their work. The invitation virtually constitutes a request that the entire country resolve itself into an individual commission. When the Wilson Commission reassembles here Jan. 12th to put its reports into final form, it expects to have hundreds of suggestions from capital, labor and the public. It will also have to aid it reports of other investigations now being made.

The tentative report, which has been before President Wilson for some time and was given to the country Monday, divides roughly into three parts.

First, the commission declares the final solution of the nation's industrial problem depends upon the establishment of a thorough understanding and a closer relationship between capital and labor.

Second, the commission, pending the growth of this relationship, proposes machinery to stop industrial conflicts. This machinery will consist of a national tribunal of nine members and twelve regional tribunals with broad powers to adjust and inquire into strikes.

Third, the commission "considers" that in the railroad industry there should be some merging of responsibility for regulations or rates and wages.

The principle of collective bargaining, on which the first industrial conference split, is recognized.

Introducing its report, the Commission says: Not only must the theory that labor is a commodity be abandoned, but the concept of leadership must be substituted for that of mastership.

With the declaration that the public is becoming uneasy at the power of great employers and employes, the commission outlines in detail its tentative plan for strike courts.

At the top would be a national industrial tribunal of nine members, three from labor, three from employers and three from the public, with not more than five to be from the same political party. This tribunal would be a court of appeal.

There would also be twelve industrial regions, one for each of the federal reserve districts. A chairman would be appointed for each of these regions with vice-chairman if necessary. A panel of employes and employers for each region would be prepared by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, published and. twenty days after publication, submitted to the President. Order of names on the panels would be determined by lot.

When a dispute arose the regional board, on its own initiative or at the request of the national tribunal, the Secretary of Labor or the parties concerned, could call upon each side to choose a representative. After choice of representatives two could be chosen from the panel of employers and employes, and these with the regional chairman would constitute a regional board for adjustment of the strike. A decision by this board would have the force of a trade agreement and be binding on both parties. In case of failure to reach a unanimous decision an umpire would be appointed and his findings would have the same force as those of a board.

If one side refused to submit its case to the regional board, the board would become a board of inquiry with two chosen from each panel, the chairman and the representative from the side willing to arbitrate. A board of inquiry could be changed to a board of adjustment on consent of the objecting party to choose a representative.

A board of inquiry would investigate a dispute and publish a report. No cessation of work would be permitted while a board or an umpire was inquiring into a dispute or framing its recommendations.

Where disputes affected more than one region boards would be combined. The President would appoint regional chairmen for three years and members of the national tribunal for six years. Both bodies would have power to subpoena witnesses.

Existing conciliation machinery would not be affected by the commission's proposed plan.

BUSINESS PROFITS TAX ENDS: IS IT TO BE CONTINUED?

During Four Years Nearly Hundred Million Dollars Has Been Raised

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—Tomorrow the Business Profits War Tax Act will expire and the question will arise of its renewal or its discontinuance. During the four years the tax has been in force it has provided the major share of receipts from war taxes. Including present year, returns for which are not yet available, the estimated yield of the tax since its inception is in the neighborhood of a hundred million dollars.

DOCTOR CHARGED WITH MURDER PREFERS TO STAY IN JAIL TO GIVING BAIL

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 30.—Dr. Christopher G. Short, charged with killing Miss Elizabeth Ford Griffith, his office assistant, and central figure in the most mysterious Lousiville murder case in many years, refused to furnish $15,000 bail bond at the conclusion of arguments on motion for bail in police court here Monday, and elected to stay in jail pending his examining trial later in the week.

A feature connected with the case which excited great interest was the police announcement that Dr. Schott, in effect, had advocated a trial marriage of Miss Griffith, his one-time fiancee, and a soldier.

The theory of Dr. Schott, according to this version, was that such a marriage would fit her, eventually, to become his wife.

HUN DELEGATE CALLS ON SECY. PEACE CONGRESS

It Is Said He Did Not Bring German Reply To Latest Allied Note

GERMAN GOVERNMENT

Inclined To Sign Protocol To Peace Treaty on Certain Conditions

Paris, Dec. 30.—Baron Von Lersner, head of the German delegation at Versailles, called on Paul Dutasta, Secretary of the Peace Conference, this afternoon. The greatest reserve is maintained relative to the subjects discussed, and it is only known that Herr Von Lersner did not bring the German reply to the last note to the Berlin Government from the Allies.

It is generally undersood, however, that Germany is inclined to sign the protocol to the Peace Treaty, on the condition that guarantees are given regarding possible reduction as to the quantity of harbor and dock materials to be handed over in compensation for German warships sunk at Scapa Flow.

1919 SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS FINAL MEETING

Complimentary References To Retiring Trustee D. F. Creighton — Served Six Years

The resignation of Miss Fern Hotton as Domestic Science teacher featured the last regular session of the School Board held Monday evening. It is understood that Miss Hotton has been offered a position with the Alberta Government and will leave shortly to take up her new duties. Several applications for the position being vacated by Miss Hotton were considered by the School Board but no appointment will be made until the first meeting of the new School Board on January 7th. The other business discussed by the Board was mostly of a routine nature. A report was received from Mr. Motion, who is supervisor of school buildings in Brandon, on the recent fire in the McLaren school. He stated in his report that the estimated damage will probably be close to $500, and that the fire was caused from waste paper being burned in the ventilation shaft, probably by the children. New sanitary arrangements are being made in the McLaren school, the School Board authorizing the work to be done at once.

It was also stated at Monday night's meeting that several applications had been received in answer to the Board's advertisement for a supervisor of physical training in the public schools. No appointment was made or will be made until Superintendent White returns from Winnipeg. Reports were read from Miss Fern Hotton and Miss Jean K. Garrow on the work of the Domestic Science Departments.

D. F. Creighton, who has been acting as representative of Ward One on the School Board for the past six years is retiring and Monday night's meeting was his last session with the Board. A remarkable record has been created by Mr. Creighton in that time as he did not miss one regular meeting of the Board in his long service as a school trustee for his ward. Mr. William Marlatt will succeed Mr. Creighton as representative of Ward One, and will be the only new member on the Board for 1920.

RIOT AT BURIAL OF LABORER IN HAVANA

Havana, Dec. 30.—Some 25 persons were wounded Monday in encounters between the police, persons attending the funeral of the laborer killed in Sunday's demonstration against the high cost of living, and spectators gathered along the route of the funeral procession. Ten of the wounded are gravely injured.

Seven persons, including two policemen, were wounded by pistol shots a quarter of a mile from the home of the laborer, as his coffin was being carried toward the cemetery on the shoulders of a group of brother laborers. After this outbreak, there was no further disturbance until the body had been buried and the funeral party was returning homeward.

As the mourners reached the centre of the city, a fusilade of shots was exchanged with the police, and about eighteen persons were injured. The police finally succeeded in re-establishing order. The police claim that efforts were made by the crowd to attack them, while the laborers assert that the police provoked them by indiscriminately wielding their clubs against inoffensive men and women spectators of the funeral.

Call for Vengeance

In prominent parts of the city last night printed notices were posted calling for vengeance against the police. These were removed by the authorities. All was quiet and the indications seemed to be that there would be no further trouble.

It is estimated that several thousand laborers were in the funeral procession, while tens of thousands of persons lined the streets through which the cortege passed.

The labor situation at present is very grave, and a general strike is pending, it is said. It is reported that President Menocal has prepared a decree for suspension of guarantees the moment the strike is called.

Then she called in a party of friends. They took the champagne ashore alright and no arrests were made.

ACTING PREMIER TO BE NAMED WITHIN WEEK

Hon. J. A. Calder Said To Be Likely Choice For Post

SIR GEORGE FOSTER

May Act Till Parliament Opens Then Give Way To Younger Man

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 30.—It is authoritatively stated that the choice of the acting Premier is to be made this week before the departure of Sir Robert Borden for the South. As senior member of the Privy Council, the choice would naturally fall upon Sir George Foster, but it is not definitely known that he is desirous of assuming the responsibilities of the post for a long period. Hon. J. A. Calder is mentioned in political circles as the probable choice should Sir George Foster not act. Another suggestion is that Sir George Foster will act until Parliament assembles when the duties will be assumed by a younger minister.

Monday night the Returned Soldiers of Forrest district were entertained at supper in the Forrest Hall by the members of the Women's Section of the Forrest Grain Growers. Three long tables were set for supper in the hall the guests of honor being seated at the table in the centre of the room. Stamp read an address of presentation to the returned soldiers present, after which each man was presented with a gold watch fob, by a member of the Women's Section of the Grain Growers'. MAKE FORWARD MOVEMENT A REAL MEMORIAL

To Soldiers Who Died For You Is Plea of Rev. Dr. Westgate

UNVEIL MEMORIAL

To Late Lieut. John S. Douglas in St. Matthew's Church Sunday

"Will you choose God or the World. Will you make the Forward Movement a memorial to the soldiers who died for you and a thanksgiving for peace, or will you refuse the greatest opportunity to carry on that has ever been given the people of this world?"

These were some of the questions asked by the Rev. Dr. Westgate, for three years an interned prisoner of war in German East Africa, who preached at St. Matthew's Church Sunday morning. He stated that for years the Germans instead of eradicating, planted thorns. Everyone knows what happened as a result and the people must remember this and not follow a bad example. Dr. Westgate spoke of the tremendous sufferings of the people of Africa under German rule and said that had the enemy won the war the lives of the British people would not have been worth living. German East Africa and part of Northern Africa are now in the possession of the British and it is up to the people of Great Britain and Canada to help them in every possible way. There are many people in the Northern parts of Canada who also need help. This is one of the great works that is being undertaken by the Forward Movement and one in which all can assist.

Unveil Memorial Tablet

During the service an impressive ceremony took place when Colonel F. J. Clark unveiled a handsome brass memorial tablet placed on the wall at the right hand side of the North exit, in memory of the late Lieut. John S. Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Douglas, of Winnipeg, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. Lee, 1216 Victoria avenue. The rector, Rev. A. E. Anderson, conducted the short special service, the choir and congregataion singing the hymn, "The Supreme Sacrifice."

Instead of the usual Sunday evenig service, carols were sung by the choir and several selections played by the organist.

Dr. Westgate was the special preacher at St. Mary's Church Sunday evening, in the absence of the rector who conducted the services in the Anglican Church at Rivers on Sunday.

Tonight Dr. Westgate will give a lecture in the crypt of St. Matthew's Church on his experiences in German East Africa. The lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides.

ACCOMMODATION FOR GRAIN GROWERS' DURING CONVENTION

J. D. Kennedy To Have Charge of Bureau To Open Friday Morning

THROW OPEN HOMES

Appeal To Be Made To Citizens To Take In Paying Guests

With the expectation that there will be at least a thousand delegates here to attend the Grain Growers' Convention which commences its sessions here on January 7th, the city has made arrangements to open up an Accommodation Bueau. The Bureau will be under the charge of Mr. J. D. Kennedy who did such good work in securing accommodation for out-of-town visitors during Fair Week, and an office will be opened Friday in the office formerly occupied by J. F. Price on Ninth street just off Rosser.

That Brandon will have to throw its doors wide open to make the necessary accommodation for the large number of delegates is a fact which the City Fathers are fully aware of. Last Summer Brandon College, and several other large institutions were able to house large numbers of people, but this arrangement cannot be made at this season of the year. Mr. Kennedy stated that it will be impossible to accommodate delegates in houses on the outskirts of the city in January, and every effort will be made to secure accommodation for delegates in the centre of the city. In order to assist the city in securing rooms for the expected guests, citizens are expected to throw their homes open and phone Mr. Kennedy at 3815 any time after next Friday morning, stating how many guests they can accommodate during the convention here.

It is said that several pounds of sausage may be made from one dog pound.

INCORRECT FIGURES EXPORT AND SALES CANADIAN WHEAT

Facts Are That Two-thirds of 1919 Surplus Crop Has Been Sold

THE OTHER FIGURES

Compiled Include Returns From Some of 1918 Wheat Crop

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 29.—Inquiry was made by the Canadian Press Limited today in regard to the statement by Mr. James Stewart, head of the Canadian Wheat Board at Winnipeg, that figures relating to export and sales of Canadian wheat sent out from Ottawa and attributed in some dispatches to Sir George Foster, are incorrect both as to quantities and prices received. It was learned that considerable misapprehension exists and the figures quoted in dispatches were not given out or authorized by the Minister of Trade and Commerce. These are figures compiled by the Department of Customs with the purpose of showing what nations are the greatest importers of Canadian wheat and they cover exports for the first eight months of the fiscal year only. Another reason why figures differ from those of the Wheat Board, lies in the fact that computations made by the Department of Customs include a portion of last year's wheat crop which had been exported since April 1st, the beginning of the fiscal year, while the Wheat Board figures relate only to the sales of this year's crop.

The statement that about two-thirds of the exportable surplus of the Canadian wheat crop has already been sold and exported through the medium of the Canadian Wheat Board is believed to be approximately correct although the exact figures are not available here.

PRICE OF BREAD MAY GO UP 3 CENTS A LOAF

Ottawa Bakers Predict An Early Advance In Keeping With Price of Flour

AMERICAN FLOUR

Bakers Say Cannot Be Used As It Is Of Inferior Quality

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—As a result of heavy advances in the price of wheat and flour by the Canadian Wheat Board the price of bread may go up almost immediately two or three cents a loaf, it is pointed out by bakers. Some local bakers have no very extensive stocks of flour on hand and the possibility of unrestricted importation from the States does not relieve the situation here since they state that American flour cannot be used here, not being of the quality wanted, being in fact of inferior quality.

CHANGE IN LEASES FOR SCHOOL LANDS

All Permits To Cut Hay or Graze Stock To Be On Yearly Basis

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—A change in the method of leasing school lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is provided for in an order-in-council now gazetted. The order which formerly governed grazing permits on school lands in those provinces is rescinded and it is provided that all permits should be on a yearly basis, terminating April 1st, and a rental of ten cents per acre per annum, subject to change at the discretion of the Minister of the Interior. The permitee shall not graze any other than his own stock, neither shall he assign or transfer any interest in the permit without the consent of the Minister being first obtained. He must place on the land at least one head of stock for every 30 acres of land included in the permit. The erection of fences and temporary buildings only is permitted and any renewals shall be from year to year at the discretion of the Minister. A permit to cut hay for his own use may be secured by the permitee free, but to cut hay for barter he must secure a permit for which he shall pay an office fee of fifteen cents and fifty cents per ton for all such hay cut for barter.

CORN AND GRAIN PRICES JUMP ON CHICAGO EXCHANGE

On Receipt of News That Canadian Wheat Board Increases Price of Wheat

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Corn and all other commodities dealing on the Chicago Board of Trade advanced sharply today, when it was learned that the Canadian Government had increased the price of wheat in Canada fifty cents a bushel. Traders in grains and provisions here were caught unawares by the action of the Canadian Government, which also included permission to ship flour from the United States into Canada. The principal advance recorded immediately after the opening of the exchange was in the price of corn, the cash quotation of which advanced three and a quarter cents to a total price of $1.38 a bushel.

Consider Application of Drastic Remedies To a Dangerous Disease

London, Dec. 29.—In a dispatch dealing with the Sinn Fein problem in Ireland the Dublin correspondent of and Evening Standard says it is no secret in Dublin that the authorities are determined to handle the situation with a certain amount of ruthlessness and apply drastic remedies to what they consider a dangerous disease. The correspondent states it is said in quarters which have the reputation of having good information that the steps contemplated by the Viceroy, Lord French, and his advisors for restoring normal conditions include arrest of every known active Sinn Feiner throughout the country.

The writer continues: Considering the strength of the Sinn Fein movement, this is a gigantic task, and one which the authorities are advised will be difficult of permanency, but advocates of a clean sweep policy believe it can effectively be done and refuse to be diverted from their plan for any consideration of political or other reasons.

"I am assured," continues the correspondent, "Lord French, despite his own discouraging experiences, is still an unrenewing believer in the good sense and the good will of the majority of his countrymen. He holds that the Irish Bill outlined by the Premier has all the elements of a permanent settlement for Ireland if the country gets the opportunity of working it."

These were the two children from St. Basil, N.B., who spent Christmas with the Quebec chief of police after having got off at Quebec thinking it was Montreal, and who wandered around the city until picked up by the police.

SERB OPERATIONS SUBJECT OF PROTEST BY MONTENEGRINS

Paris, Dec. 30. — Further protests relative to Serbian operations in Montenegro, have been sent to the Peace Conference by the Royal Montenegrin Government, which has headquarters at Neuilly. It is asserted that armed bands have recently been sent into the interior of Montenegro, to co-operate with regular Serbian troops, in pillaging and burning houses owned by Montenegrins who are still faithful to King Nicholas.

It is charged that the Serbian troops have been dressed in Allied army uniforms and have represented themselves as occupation forces sent by the great powers.

POLICE HUNT FOR STILLS IN NORTH SASKATCHEWAN

Regina, Dec. 30. — Out across the wide prairie country, up in the rugged brush areas of the Northern districts and among the bluffs, little bands of red-coated horsemen are searching out illicit stills that in the aggregate are turning out immense quantities of "moonshine," according to information received from the Royal North West Mounted Police.

The Scarlet Riders are working in conjunction with the inland revenue department and during the past few weeks captures have been frequent as the plants have been most active in preparation for the holiday season. Reports are reaching headquarters practically every day of suspected locations and detachments are sent out from the nearest post to investigate. Seizures have been made in the most isolated districts, far from civilization and apparently well hidden in the dense brush country. The old traditions of the force and the adventures of the force are being lived again in the ruthless hunt for "worms" and whisky workers.

While it is conceded that a large percentage of the men engaged in the illegal trade are foreigners, a surprisingly large number speak English as their native tongue. The hunt is on and some day the story of the adventure will be briefly told, shorn of all romance, in legal courts.

Ten leagues are expected to send about forty representatives to the meeting, and they will be the guests of the Senior Hockey Club on that evening at the game between the Falcons and Brandon.

WANT CLEMENCEAU AS NEXT PRESIDENT OF FRENCH REPUBLIC

Paris, Dec. 24.—That George Clemenceau may be the next President of the French republic is the concensus of opinion in the Chamber of Deputies. Despite the Premier's veto upon his candidacy, several members of the chamber are resolved to place his name to the front, and are positive that they can count upon the support of 450 members of the chamber and 150 senators.

M. Rameil said newly elected deputies were intent upon electing M. Clemenceau. We may have Clemenceau as President of the republic and M. Poincare as Premier, he said. President Poincare refused to discuss this possibility last evening, saying "Someone is joking. It is not I."

CONNECTICUT'S BIG PIER WHERE DEUTSCHLAND DOCKED IS OPEN AGAIN

New London, Conn., Dec. 30.—Connecticut's million dollar pier, where the German submarine Deutschland docked during the war and which was later taken over by the government, was re-opened again for commercial purposes last week when the steamship Western Glenn arrived via Panama Canal. Montreal, Dec. 30. — Rev. William Corkey, a Presbyterian clergyman from Belfast, and one of the official delegation of the three leading Protestant churches in Ireland to the United States to fight Sinn Fein propaganda in America, says that Ulster did not like the Lloyd George proposals, yet would accept it as a compromise because they want peace and harmony to come to Ireland.

ITALIAN PREMIER HOPES FOR HELP FROM ENGLAND

Seeks Financial Assistance and Similar Treatment To That Given France

Rome, Dec. 30.—Premier Nitti will go to London from Rome and from that city he will return to Paris to attend the meeting of the Allied Premiers and of Foreign Ministers, which is expected to begin this week, according to a statement bearing semi-official character, printed in Corriere d'Italia. It is stated the Premier believes he will be able to come to an understanding with the British Premier on problems closely affecting Italy.

"Signor Nitti hopes to obtain from England financial treatment similar to that granted France, especially relative to a loan which will have its influence upon the exchange situation," the newspaper says.

"The Premier will do his best to have the Supreme Council agree that the Allied and Associated Governments will recognize Italy's sovereignty over Italian towns, first of all Fiume, and that they will accept the result of negotiations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia. This system, besides guaranteeing our rights and preventing their violation by other peoples, would have the advantage of bringing about the approach of two peoples. Reciprocal concessions would be necessary and the accord which would be reached would be accompanied by close friendship, which Jugo-Slavia must desire even more than Italy."

Comic Opera Ending

It is feared that the drama of Fiume would end as a grotesque opera, the Corriere says in commenting upon the Adriatic situation.

"The most authoritative companions of Captain D'Annunzio in his adventure are abandoning him in his dream of acting the little tyrant of the fourteenth century. He does not realize the situation, however, but dresses himself as a corporal of storm troops and plays the king among the soldiers, indifferent to the opposition of all Fiume and all Italy. Everybody agrees in depicting D'Annunzio as a naughty, dangerous boy, lighting a fire next to a powder magazine. Who has supplied him with nationalist matches, and is there no one to lead that bad boy away by the ear?

"Must Annex Fiume"

"The Adriatic Sea will be the abode of civilization and peace when Fiume becomes Italian, says the newly elected Deputy Sembeneli in an interview printed in Goirnale d'Italia. There is no other solution except a peace dangerous to the world. After Bolshevism, civilization today is threatened by impulsive Slav preponderance. The Mediterranean must have its dyke, which is represented by the Dinaric Alps, forming the frontier of Dalmatia and Bosnia." Fiume must be annexed without restrictions to Italy. Let Premier Nitti beware of continuing the policy of a beggar and a Jeremiah. The only way to earn credit abroad is to be firm in our will."

D'Annunzio's Request

Gabriel D'Annunzio is understood to have asked Premier Nitti to postpone his announced visit to London on the ground that his departure had been preceded by the reaching of a definite settlement of the Fiume question between D'Annunzio and the Italian Government.

Lieutenant-Commander Rizzo, Major Giurati, chief of D'Annunzio's cabinet, and other leaders associated with D'Annunzio are said to have left the Fiume district.

Nowadays when we order a suit we feel like kicking Adam for having eaten that apple.

ECONOMICALLY INDEPENDENT

Plea Put Forward By Lloyd Harris Canadian Trade Commissioner

Brantford, Ont., Dec. 30.—A plea for "unselfish service" was made by Lloyd Harris, Canadian Trade Commissioner in England, in an interview here. He followed this up with a declaration that the next move for Canada was a complete survey of the country's resources to lessen dependence on the United States for many articles, and thus do away wiAth the adverse exchange rate.

During the war, by friendly arrangements between the two countries, the United States had supplied necessaries to Canada, but the time has come, he said, for Canada to become economically as independent as possible.

PRIVATE CONTROL U. S. RAILWAYS TO BE RESUMED SOON

President Wilson's New Order Extends Time Until March 1st

Washington, Dec. 25. — President Wilson Thursday night issued proclamations returning the railroads and express companies to private control March 1st. Failure of Congress to enact remedial legislation was given as the reason for extending by two months the time originally agreed for relinquishing government control of the railroads. In his message to Congress last May, President Wilson said the roads would be turned back at the end of the calendar year.

"No agreement yet having been reached by Congress," Secretary Tumulty said, in announcing the proclamations, "it becomes necessary in the public interest to allow a reasonable time to elapse between the issuing of the proclamation and the date of its actually taking effect. The President is advised that the railroad and express compahies are not organized to make it possible for them to receive and manage their properties if actually turned over to them on December 31st."

It was considered hardly likely that an agreement would be reached quickly enough to put the roads back February 1st or one month earlier than ordered by the president.

DEAL FOR PARK SITE ADVANCED: FINE PROPERTY

For Real Playground With Boating and Bathing Facilities

AN EARLY START

To Be Made To Prepare An Ideal Resort For Brandon

The City's purchase of a piece of property from the Industrial School has been practically completed and it is learned that the papers are now being drawn up which will make the property part of the suburban park planned for the city. When the Rev. Thompson Ferrier returned from the East some time ago he brought the necessary authority with him to complete the deal and the City immediately carried out their part of the arrangements made through the Council two months ago.

By the purchase of this property the City acquires 63 acres of land near Lake Percy for $6,000. This piece of land together with the acreage to be secured from the Dominion Government will give the new park approximately 150 acres of park property. That the City intends to make the suburban park one of the finest in the province is apparent from the enthusiasm shown by the City Fathers. Parties who have been over the proposed park property state that the situation is ideal, and what with the improvements to be made which will give the lake and Assiniboine River boating and bathing attractions, there can be little doubt about the park's popularity once it gets under way.

There has not been many preliminary plans discussed as yet by the aldermen, but it has been stated that one of the first problems to be taken up before the park is a reality, is the question of an entrance to the grounds. It is the intention of the Council to start work on the park as early in the Spring as is possible, so as to make the grounds popular for picnic parties next Summer. It is also expected that debentures will be issued shortly to cover the cost of the piece of property purchased from the Industrial School, and also to cover the first year's expenses in preparing the park.

FRENCH MILLS LOOTED OR RAZED NOW EMPLOY 40,000 OPERATORS

Lille, France, Dec. 26.—Forty thousand persons are at work in the French textile mills which only a few months ago were razed or looted by the Germans of their wonderfully delicate machinery. The correspondent of the Associated Press was given the facts with reference to the industry by French authorities who have arranged a trip to show him the strides made by the nation in reconstruction.

Within a year, government officials and manufacturers agree, production of textiles will reach half of their prewar total, and within two years, these men forecast, the 1914 output will be surpassed.

The wool industry is said to have recovered most rapidly, with cotton in second place. Linen weaving is reported to be slowest in getting back to normal because of the shortage of flax, formerly obtained from Russia.

McKeever, M.C., D.S.O., Listowel, Ont., credited with victories over forty-five German machines in the late war, and one of the best known Canadian airmen, died in Toronto General Hospital early this morning at the age of 25 years, as the result of an operation on one of his legs.

STABLE GOVT. A GREAT NEED OF GERMANY

United States General Urges Allies To Assist Where Possible

SUGGESTS A POOL

Of Supplies and Arrangements For Proper System of Distribution

Washington, Dec. 26.—The fate of Europe is so closely interwoven with that of Germany that the other European nations should lend her every assistance in the organization and maintenance of a stable government, General Tasker H. Bliss, United States representative on the Supreme War Council, said in a talk with newspaper men.

Present unrest in Europe is due almost entirely to unfavorable economic conditions, General Iiss said but this could be rapidly and wholly corrected if all Europe combined resources in the effort.

General Bliss suggested that the pooling of necessities and raw materials under one man, who would be designated "director general of supplies," and who would have associated with him a "director general of distribution" to see that supplies were apportioned where most urgently needed

Declaring that food production in Europe this year would be from 80 to 83 per cent. of normal, General Bliss expressed the conviction that there would be enough of all if properly distributed, and that therefore there was no real reason for famine in any part of Europe

Junker Denomination Gone

General Bliss said the fear of a revival of German militarism had been greatly exaggerated; that no reports which had reached him indicated the return of junker domination, and. Peace Treaty, the Germany army and munition facilities were so reduced as to make her come-back as a combatant hopeless.

Discussing the operations of the War Council, General Bliss expressed the opinion that the successful outcome of the war was directly attributable to the adoption of a unified command. If this had been in 1914, he said, the war would have been materially shortened the Russian revolution probably prevented and millions of lives saved in successful military operations undertaken by each of the Allies acting alone.

Meat Exports Less

Hopes for decrease in living costs were strengthened when it was announced by the Department of Commerce that meat exports for November had fallen off $10,000,000.

Figures for November show this country exported $61,948,690 in meat against $71,442,235 for November, 1918 For the eleven months ending November, however, there was an increase of more than a quarter of billion dollars in exports. A total of $1,097,724,942 worth of meat was exported for the eleven months. Against the decrease in meat export, however, there was an increase of $5,000,000 in the export of breadstuffs.

CUBANS RUSH SUGAR TO MARKET

Detroit, Dec. 26.—The Cubans are rushing their raw sugars to market as fast as they can. Sixty centrals are now in operation, as against 29 a week ago, 27 a year ago and 50 two years ago. With the expectation of competition form various countries and the prospects of high prices the planters are bending every energy to get the sugars in while the shortage in this country exists. Heavy rains are reported now in some sections of Cuba, which may delay grinding somewhat.

The receipts for one recent week were: 12,669 tons against 3,042 the week before and none a year ago. The exports amounted to 3,867 tons, all of which were shipped to United States Atlantic ports. There was no exports last week nor a year ago. The stock now on the island is 15,010 tons, compared with 6,208 last week and none last year.

Pending legislation in regard to sugar control has unsettled the local raw sugar market and buyers just at present are concerned over the future. There now appears to be a general disposition on the part of the refiners and operators to await developments. Prices are consequently more or less nominal.

Edward Barry, Baggagemaster, Only Person Badly Injured

TRAIN BROKE APART

Express Car Thrown Across Tracks In Yards—Second Class Car Ditched

As it entered the yards at Fredericton Junction, an express car was thrown across the tracks, while the baggage car crashed into a string of freight cars standing on the siding and a second class car was thrown into the ditch on the other side of the track, where it rolled over. GERMAN SECRET AGENTS POSED AS RUSSIANS

United States Senate Promises Startling Disclosures In Its Investigation

Washington, Dec. 26.—Disclosures at the Senate's investigation of Russian propaganda in the United States, which will begin soon after the New Year, are expected to show the presence of German secret agents here in the guise of Russians, senators said Wednesday. Information given members of the Foreign Relations Committee indicates that one of these agents, who during the war was active in the German spy system, had free entry to the State Department, where he had been well vouched for by a reputable man.

The investigation will go into the status of Badkmetieff, the "Russian ambasssador" in Washington, Senators said, as well as into the reputed propaganda carried on by Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, who claims to represent the Soviet Government.

The members of the local branch of the Knights of Columbus Hut made their usual Thursday visit to the soldiers ward of the Hospital Christmas afternoon and left special Christmas boxes for each patient. Through the courtesy of Mr. Higgins, the Higgins' Orchestra played for a couple of hours in the Hospital during the afternoon. The patients very much appreciated this musical treat which made the day pass the more quickly for them.

GRAND TRUNK DEAL MAY BE DELAYED

Agreement Has Not Yet Been Completed by Justice Department At Ottawa

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—The ratification of the agreement between the Government and the Grand Trunk regarding the acquisition of the latter's system may be delayed for some time yet. It had been thought that Sir Alfred Smithers, Chairman of the Board of Directors, took with him the agreement when he returned to England. It now appears that it was but a draft and that the Justice Department is still busy working out the details of the contract.

When the agreement has been finally revised it must go before the Grand Trunk shareholders for ratification. It will be well on in January before the contract is agreed to.

RAIN FELL EARLY CHRISTMAS MORN

Mild Weather On Christmas Day Was Most Enjoyable

Rain on Christmas Day is unusual in Brandon but it did rain Christmas morning and housewives were rejoicing over a new supply of soft water in their cisterns. The highest temperature on Thursday was thirty-eight above and it was ideal weather for the holiday although there was a boisterous wind, very like the winds of March. This morning it was seventeen above zero. The mild weather seems to be prevalent all over the Middle West but very little rain is reported.

NEVER AGAIN IS CHRISTMAS CRY OF HUN PACIFIST

Berlin, Dec. 26.—"In the memory of all that has happened, let us raise our hands spiritually in the dark of Christmas night. in every land, toward the stary heavens and swear 'Never again!'"

Prof Walter Shrueeking, Germany's leading pacifist and former member of the German peace delegation, sent this Christmas message to the people of the United States Thursday.

"Christmas impends and the conclusion of peace," Shrueekingsaid, "but Christmas joy is lacking in our hearts. Humanity has suffered too much. Many millions of our brothers have entered that dark land from which none return. When the Holy evening comes there will go through the world a great sob from the forlorn, aged mothers whose sons are dead. Grief stricken women will lay beneath Christmas trees gifts for little one who never have seen their fathers. Lonesome girls will rail against a fate which took away their hope for happiness in marriage.

"There is no home in Germany in which the family circle is untorn by death. Oh, could one this Christmas evening adorn the graves of the dead!

"In the ages of history humanity erected pyramids over the vaults of its dead in honor of their memory. But where are the dead of this war? Unburied their bodies putrify over miles of war-torn wastes. No flower blooms over their graves. There are no linden trees near them where the lark in Spring may sing its song.

Spectre Stalks Europe

"Instead throughout Europe there lurks the spectre of hunger, need and want, grinning at a grieving populace through door and window.

"Will we succeed after all these years of war in again making the world sound? Can we restore these dwarfed chilrea, crippled through years of under-nourishment?

"This is a Christmas after four years of war—and one year of the armistice. Individual men may not have had so much guilt therein as people. They did not overcome the power of hate. But now we must battle against world hatred. We must link up what is common in all the world. Doesn't the French, British, or American mother feel the same towards her children as the German mother? When good is common to all of us, why should we hate?

"Le us unite to forget all we have done wrongfully to one another. Let us educate our children in the thought that right stands higher than might and that right must rule between nations.

Says Wrong in Versailles Treaty

"All wrong done Belgium and France must be rectified and the wrong that has been written into the Versaillles treaty must be made right.

"Let us work together for a great league of nations which will be a refuge of peace in a community of labor. In the memory of all that has happened let us raise our hands spiritually in the dark of this Christmas night, in every land, toward the star ry heavens and swear 'Never again'."

NEAR WHISKEY CAUSES DEATH OF EIGHT MEN

Twelve Barrels of Liquid Sold For $12,000 At Hartford

SIX MEN IN TROUBLE

Four Under Arrest, Two Others Charged With Grave Offences

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 26.—Eight men are dead here from drinking liquor which they thought to be whiskey. Four men are under arrest for the deaths, and a fifth has been charged with murder in connection with the deaths, and a sixth is charged with intent to transport liquor illegally.

Twelve barrels of a mixture presumed to be palatable, but requiring water to lessen its strength, were bought from a new firm for $12,000. Pending analysis of the liquid, the police opinion is that the liquid has a wood alcohol base.

EXPECTS RUSH BACK TO LAND NEXT SPRING

Secretary of Soldier Settlement Board Says Many Ex-service Men Apply For Farms

Otttawa, Dec. 26.—S. Maber, Secretary of the Soldier Settlement Board has returned from a tour of inspection of the board's organization in the West. He stated that the Qualification Committees are dealing with hundreds of applications from returned soldiers every week and that the prospects are that the board will settle as many on the land next year as during the past season when over 33,000 ex-service men were passsed and nearly twenty thousand were granted loans amounting to $52,000,000.

The applicants were for the most part of a good type and likely to make good on the land, said Mr. Maber. He was greatly impressed with the character of the settlers already on the land. Many of them had already shown that they will make good: in fact in one province a considerable number had done so well during the past year that they had been able to pay off the whole of their indebtedness to the board. Of course, there had been a few partial failures, owing to the drought and other conditions over which the men had no control. But even the districts affected by the drought the spirit of the settlers was excellent and they are facing the future with high hopes.

Arrangements were made by Mr. Maber while in the West to take care of the expected increase in the applications and the organization was strengthened wherever necessary.

BRITISH GOVT. GOING INTO SUGAR BUSINESS

London, Dec 26.—The British Government is going into the sugar producing business and has decided to invest 250,000 pounds in a million-pound company to be floated, called the Home Grown Sugar Co., Limited. The government will guarantee a dividend of five per cent. for ten years on the private capital invested and will ask for no interest on its own subscription until a five per cent. cumulative dividend on the public capital has been subscribed.

TWO ARMED BANDITS SECURED $75,000 FROM CLEVELAND MESSENGER

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 29.—Two armed bandits escaped with $10,000 in cash and $65,000 in checks, in a daring holdup in the down town section this morning of James Hoduf, who was carrying money from the Savings and Loan Company to the bank.

IRELAND IS REAL PARADISE SAYS FAMOUS PUBLISHER

People Well Off, Country Prosperous and Lawabiding, According To McClure

New York, Dec. 26. — The Mauretania, which left Cherbourg on December 10th and docked here Thursday, and despite exceptionally rough weather made the run to this port in less than seven days. There were more than 1,500 passengers on board. Christmas eve was celebrated on board.

Samuel S. McClure, publisher, arrived on the Mauretania after a three months' visit to Ireland, where he said he found a "paradise."

"Ireland is the most prosperous, comfortable and law abiding country in the world," said Mr. McClure. "The people are well dressed and well housed. One has to read outside papers to learn of trouble and unsettled conditions there. I found that Irish banks have deposits of more than 100,000,000 pounds, and have been forced to form alliances with English banks in order to find an outlet for their money. There are 5,000,000 head of cattle in Ireland, or half as many as in Canada. Ireland has exported as much food to Englnd since 1913 as either the United States or the Argentine."

Sir Ernest H. Williams, English publisher, also arrived on the Mauretania.

FORD PLANS TO PAY $8 DAY AS A MINIMUM

For the Past Three Years Minimum Wage Has Been $6 Per Day

Detriot, Mich., Dec. 26.—For the past three years, the 52,000 employes of the Ford Motor Company plant here have been paid a minimum wage of $6 a day. Even men who did nothing more than sweep the floors, drew $6 per day for eight hours, while some of the older employes were in receipt of $7 for their day's work.

$8 Minimum

A plan is under consideration whereby the minimum scale is to be made eight dollars, with the maximum twelve dollars for all employes.

The motive underlying the motor king's activities in the matter of obtaining absolute control of all the stock in this company, was in order that he might put into effect these ideas and ideals unhampered by the objections of minority stockholders.

Aims at Record

The turning back of profits into production, wages, and reduced prices for the finished products is the main spring of the Ford idea and he now begins to see his way clear to do so. By next Summer he believes he will have paid off the sum he borrrowed with which to buy out minority stockholders and that he will then be able to go ahead with his altruistic plan of paying his huge army of employes the highest uniform wages of any concern in the world.

FRENCH PRESIDENT TO BE ELECTED JANUARY 17TH

Paris, Dec. 26. — President Poincaire's successor will be elected January 17th, according to the inference generally drawn by the Parisian press from Premier Clemenceau's statement in the chamber, that his cabinet would definitely resign on that date. Also it is deduced from the Paris declaration, that he will be a candidate for the presidency, which means that he will be elected virtually without opposition.

JUSTICE FOR RUSSELL

R. B. Russell having been duly tried and found guilty of seditious conspiracy by a jury of his peers or equals, has been sentenced to serve a two year term in the penitentiary. Thus society by due process of law protects itself against those who would engage in undertakings contrary to the law, and liable to cause death, suffering, and destruction of property.

Russell's share of responsibility was clearly shown for the general strike in Winnipeg which for six weeks last Summer verified the hopes of its promoters sufficiently to convince almost any one that a strike of that character is an assault on the life of the community.

The law has declared that it is a seditious offence to arrange for or induce a general sympathetic strike which involves those who participate in it in no end of illegal acts, ranging all the way from breach of contract to denying the people the necessities of life. And because Russell had been guilty of bringing about a strike of this nature he was found guilty and sentenced.

In its presentation of the case the Crown began with the notorious Soviet convention in Calgary and traced through the design to overthrow Labor Unionism; the rejoicing by leaders that they had "killed" the Labor Party; the centralization of revolutionary forces in Winnipeg; the wide circulation of literature of this nature; the launching of the revolt under the guise of a strike; the threatening by "Soviet" leaders of the government; defiance of State authority; the issuance of permission cards to some milk and bread dealers to operate by authority of the Strike Committee. This was all linked up so that revolution planned and practiced was proved by documentary evidence and the sayings of Russell and his associates.

The imposition of the maximum penalty on Russell, was, under the circumstances, to be expected. It was the only thing to do and it has been done. A notice of appeal has been given and it will undoubtedly be heard.

WAITING ON THE U. S.

There was no doubt a note of disappointment and even impatience in the latest remarks by Lloyd George in the British House of Commons on the dilatory tactics of the United States regarding the Peace Treaty and the impossibility of waiting much longer for American official participation in the problems yet to be worked out. There was, however, nothing offensive in the British Prime Minister's reference to the Wilson administration. There are not many persons that will deny that some degree of impatience is not justified. Lloyd George and Clemenceau have to deal with conditions not theories, and it is a fact that conditions in Europe and in Asia are steadily becoming worse owing to the delay in setting up instruments of reconstruction and genuine pacification.

Turkey presents a series of knotty problems. It was confidently expected that the United States would take a mandate for Armenia, if not for the whole of Turkey. The population of Constantinople are said to prefer to be under American control than any other. And if the Turk is to be driven out of Europe for good the execution of so grave a decision by a League of Nations of which the United States is a member would be less likely to cause disorder and resistance than would its execution by an alliance of European powers.

Another pressing question is that of guarantee for France. Then there is the problem of providing substantial aid for starving and despairing lands in Central Europe including Austria. Even in Germany there is serious apprehension to the application of the treaty of Versailles in the event that the United States is not represented on the commissions provided for in that document.

There is a genuine feeling abroad in the world that United States membership in the League of Nations would be a pledge of moderation. Great Britain and France have virtually offered to accept whatever reservations the majority of the people of the United States may deem essential to their entrance into the League. American material and moral aid is urgently needed, and no country in Europe is disposed to deny this fact.

The present suspense, uncertainty and drifting is fraught with peril. Duty, honor and interest alike enjoin upon the United States Senate the ratification of the treaty with the reservations they deem absolutely essential and the removal of the greatest obstacle to American participation in the pressing task of re-establishing world peace and security.

A MATTER OF CHOICE

The popular plaint about the high cost of living is treated in a somewhat jocular fashion by the Kansas City Star. The Star declares it is all a matter of choice; that people demand and expect the latest word in service and they go where they can get it and have the privilege of paying for it. There is a great deal of truth in the article which follows:

People who go about complaining of high prices while struggling frantically to beat somebody else to the counter to pay them might just as profitably employ their minds upon the problem of why does water run down hill.

We go up and down the street shedding money at every pore, and then howl like a wolf because somebody picks it up.

"How much this?" we ask. "Eighteen dollars," says the salesman; "used to be $6." "Wrap up two of 'em," we say, "you robber."

Prices are high but no higher than we like to pay. When we roar that we had to pay $15 for a hat we are really boasting of it. Those of us who are really ashamed of it keep mighty still. It's the ones who are proud of having had the $15 to throw away that tell about it, and it is those same ones who are responsible for the rest of us having to pay $7 for a hat that ought perhaps to sell for $4.

It is possible in all times to buy high priced things, but it is only in these times that everybody has tried to do it. Nothing but the best for us, by which we mean the most expensive. When only the staggering rich smoked 10-cent cigars—and that wasn't so many years ago—lots of people found a nickel smoke all they needed; but because Prince Fortunatus, who butted into an oil well, now buys only 50-centers the rest of us can find no solace in anything less than two for a quarter.

Oh, but we're the little spenders! We're setting 'em up to the house. Everybody step up and have a dime out of our dollar. Producer, manufacturer, carrier, wholesaler, retailer, delivery man—here, catch! Take it, our good man and spend it as you will. An as for our little purchase, go to as much expense as possible with it. Put it in a fancy box, tie it with a couple yards of ribbon and send it to our address in an $8,000 delivery truck. We cannot carry it ourselves because our hands are helpless in $12 gloves.

Thus we go about with a hole in every pocket leaving a trail of coin which we seem to think will follow us home. We toss out a quarter tip for a penny service, and the recipient runs after us to remind us we've forgotten the war tax.

We go to a store where more conveniences are provided for us than we enjoyed at hotels when we went on our wedding journey, and wonder why dollar bills are no longer legal tender.

Wherever we go some attentive person opens the door for us, another takes our hat, and a whole bodyguard in resplendent attire conducts us to a seat. When we get out we are very sarcastic about water, free in the river, being ten cents a glass on a table. But if we didn't get that service we'd cut that place and go where it was to be had—and to be paid for.

Prices are up, there is no question about that. But they are not nearly so high at home as they are elsewhere. Some old fashioned people (pikers, of course) who have clung to the old custom of eating at home say it is much cheaper that way. Eight dollar shoes are cheaper than $18 dollar shoes, too. And the same with everything. Pay the highest prices if you want to, but shut up. Be a sport if you want to, but pay. If you can't pay be something else. Lots of people are something else by choice and find it not at all bad.

THE MAYORALTY RECOUNT

The recount of ballots in the Mayoralty election, asked for by the defeated candidate, Mr. H. Cater, resulted in the reduction of the Dinsdale majority by a single vote. The majority was 73. It is now 72. The reduction is nothing. It amounts to a vindication of the trust reposed in the election officials by Mayor-elect Dinsdale and rebukes the distrust shown by Mr. Harry Cater.

The attitude of the two individuals, who aside from the election officials themselves were most likely to be effected by a recount, reflects the qualities which led to the election of the one and the defeat of the other. Mr. George Dinsdale declared his implicit confidence in the integrity of the election officials. His confidence was fully justified. By his request for a recount Mr. Cater displayed suspicion and distrust. Nothing was disclosed at the recount which justified the defeated candidate in entertaining these feelings. That he will banish them for ever is the wish of many citizens who recognize the good qualities he possesses.

INCREASED PRICE OF WHEAT

The cost of living has received another boost. The Canada Wheat Board has ordered that the price of Manitoba wheat to millers in Canada be raised from $2.30 per bushel to $2.80 per bushel, in store at public terminal elevators at Fort William or Port Arthur; another regulation increases the maximum wholesale price of Government standard Spring wheat flour from $10.90 per barrel to $12.15 per barrel, basis f.o.b. cars Montreal. Thus the Canada Wheat Board serves notice that it is actually doing what it was appointed to do—get the highest possible price for Canadian wheat.

To the producer this is good news. It means that the Participation Certificates which in many instances he is allowing to clutter up the office of the concern where the wheat was delivered, take on what has been often predicted, a real value. The farmer is assured of an additional payment for his wheat.

For the consumers this order has an altogether different meaning. Flour milled from $2.80 wheat will certainly cost more than flour milled from wheat costing $2.30. Bakers in some cities in Canada have already announced an increase in the price of a loaf of bread.

The effect that this increase is liable to have on other food products is indicated already. On the Chicago Board of Trade, as soon as the action by the Canadian Wheat Board was noted, there was an increase in the price of corn and other staples. This increase will cause another ripple all the way down the line to the consumer.

The effect of the action of the Wheat Board in ordering the issuing of permits for the importation of American flours, cannot yet be estimated. Some bakers in Eastern Canada claim it will not relieve the situation because they state that American flours are of an inferior quality and not what is wanted by the Canadian public. This may or may not be a fact but the order for their admission is nevertheless an acceptable one. If the American flours are cheaper the fact that they are on the market will give the consumers an opportunity of choosing between the lower priced commodity at a smaller price or the best to be obtained at the top figure. Those that prefer the best must pay for it.

In the meantime, until the full pressure of the increase reaches the consumer, bread is the cheapest staple article of food. It will be a blessing for the nation if it always remains so.

CREATES FALSE IMPRESSION

The wave of blindness and death that is sweeping New England states following the indulgence in a beverage one of the ingredients of which is wood alcohol; the arrest from time to time of individuals for having or operating stills for the brewing of liquor; the prevalence of liquor prescriptions; and police court cases for boot-legging, or having liquor in other than a private dwelling, tend to create a false impression regarding the wide-spread indulgence in alcoholic liquors. It is true that the passage of legislation abolishing the bars and restraining the sale of liquor has not magically abolished the demand for liquors. No one who gave any thought to the matter expected it would. That it has diminished the economic waste and withdrawn distressing scenes from streets and homes is sufficient to commend it to most people.

And over and above this is the fact that the rising generation will benefit greatly. They will know no pangs of unsatisfied appetite. The placing of alcohol in the category of poisons in which it belongs, and popular appreciation of the dangers which follow from its use, will prevent repetition of the wholesale poisoning which has roused the people in several states and caused apprehension all over this continent.

ON THE BORDER LINE

The slang of the period has a crisp word to describe people of freakish mentality. Call a man a "nut," and everybody knows what you mean.

The world always has had an interesting collection of these exhibits, but it is doubtful if it ever had quite so many as now. Fortunately, the vast majority of people are well-balanced, not "squirrel food," or heaven only knows what would happen to us. As it is, there are enough of the exceptions to make it easy to laugh at Shaw's serio-comic assertion that the inhabitants of the other planets use the earth for an insane asylum.

There is the sociological type of "nut," for instance. Because conditions, though they grow rapidly better and fairer from generation to generation, are not just right—as right, say, as they will be a few generations hence if we work hard enough to make them better and proceed carefully enough to make sure we are really going ahead, and not back or over unsuspected precipices—there is a certain type of radical who wants to destroy everything and build anew next morning out of the fevered dreams of idealism turned into lunacy by impatience. Surely he is a "nut" if there ever was one.

Recently when an irresponsible professor, writing for an irresponsible circuit of yellow newspapers, based alarming predictions of the world's calamitous end on a conjunction of the planets, that, while not common, has often happened before, thousands who should have known better took the matter seriously, though every qualified scientist laughed at the absurdity of it. There were so many of these gullibles that we have to be a little careful about classifying them, but certainly those who got all ready to be extinguished on December 17th were "nuts."

War, by harrowing the souls of men the world over, stirred up depths of mind, conscious and subconscious, seldom ruffled by the ordinary affairs of life. This so-called "war psychology" excited the "lunatic fringe"—one of Roosevelt's pet phrases—in every field. This is so in politics and sociology. It is especially so in religion. A mighty impetus has been given to the queerer fields of religious thought, where it melts by imperceptible degrees into the Bedlam field of freakishness.

Never, for instance, has there been so much interest in the highly speculative field of communication between the quick and the dead—spiritualism, so-called. Is there such communication? We don't know. Orthodox religion frowns on the idea, but many eminent men and women in England and America have become convinced that the dead can and do talk with the living, despite the vast amount of puerility and absurdity ascribed to the talking dead. Sir Oliver Lodge, one of the world's most eminent scientists, believes in it. Maybe there is something in it; maybe not, says an exchange. The normal average attitude toward it ranges from doubt to hot disbelief.

But certain it is that this field of queer thought has stirred up many minds, that among them are some not strong enough to stand the strain, and that it has given rise to its full share of lunacies. For instance, in Chicago, where the vogue of spiritualism is so suddenly great that a local newspaper investigated it, one man was found who had been in communication with the spirits, he said, and they had bidden him go out and murder a friend.

The "second coming of Christ"—not a wholly unnatural superstition in view of the wondrous and terrible events that have happened—is another reaction that is far more widespread than most people realize. It is said that it even threatens to split church organizations and to give birth to a new sect. And of course this, too, will have its share of unsteady minds unbalanced by too much abnormal speculation.

The world has had such periods before, and such eccentricities and lunacies. It will have them again. Its salvation was then, is now and will be in the future that the vast majority of its people are well-balanced and sane and so, with the help of the saving sense of humor, keep things going ahead in steady and orderly progress.

RUSSELL FOUND GUILTY

There is general agreement with the verdict of guilty brought in by the jury on the seven charges against R. B. Russell, among that section of the public which has been reading closely the reports of the evidence presented to the court. The evidence and the charge by the Judge evidently made a deep impression on the minds of the jurymen and the verdict was returned so promptly as to suggest that all were of one mind at the time the case was given to them. That section of the public which has been closely identified with the projects for which Russell was working, and those who have contributed to the defence fund presumably will be contra minded. For these there is the right of appeal and it is said they will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Regarding the sentence that will be imposed on Russell there can only be speculation. Though there are indications as to the attitude of the Judge whose duty it is to impose sentence, speculation is idle. In any event the time for pronouncement will soon arrive as the verdict is to be recorded at 10.30 a.m. Saturday. The maximum sentence that can be inflicted is two years in jail.

Russell is entitled to justice.

WOMAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

ancouver, Dec. 30.—Word received here from Radium Hot Springs, B.C., states that Mrs. J. E. Steven, wife of Capt. Steven, contractor for the Banff-Windermere road, was accidentally killed by a bullet fired from a rifle. Details of the shooting are lacking. The late Mrs. Steven was formerly a resident of Jasper, Alta.

TORONTO CONFIDENT SMALLPOX IS BEATEN —STILL 500 CASES

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Although there are still in Toronto more than 500 cases of smallpox under treatment, the medical health authorities of the city and province are confident that the epidemic of this disease in this city is now subsidng.

BASE WAGES ON LIVING COSTS IN NEW SOUTH WALES

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 30.—A fixed amount covering the cost of living for a man and wife and the maintenance of their children, is to form the basis from which all rates of wages will be calculated in New South Wales.

A bill embodying this scheme for ending the "vicious circle" of increasing living costs and raised wages has already passed the Legislative Assembly. The scale of living costs is to be formulated by the Board of Trade after an inquiry. The maintenance of children of workers will be met by payments from a fund administered by the government. Employes receiving not more than $1.25 above the declared living wage will be paid the full amount ascertained to be the cost of maintaining each child.

The fund is to be established by monthly payments from employers, each employer paying in proportion to his average daily number of employes. No payments are to be made for the children of employes on strike.

The bill will apply to virtually all employes in the state whose earnings do not exceed $2,000 annually.

NO CANADIAN NEW YEAR'S HONORS

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—There will be no Canadian New Year's honors for 1920, for the first time since Confederation. In the future Canadian public men must be satisfied with that reward which virtue gives, for the King has been requested to refrain in the future from honoring his subjects resident in Canada in the usual fashion.

During the session of 1918, the House of Commons was only prevented from passing anti-title petition to His Majesty through the urgings of Sir Robert Borden, who declared that the Government had already been in communication with the Imperial authorities with a view toward the curtailment of titles. The question, however, was again brought up by W. F. Nickle, M.P. for Kingston, during the first session of the present year, and a committee was appointed to report on the matter. That committee brought in a verdict, the force of which was a recommendation against all titles of the prefix character, and all honors of the affix character, saving those purely military or naval. The report of this committee was adopted by the Commons, and a petition embodying its recommendations was sent to His Majesty through the Governor-General.

New Year's honors of 1919 contained but two or three minor titles of the affix character. Since then General Morrison was knighted, but this was a purely Imperial affair, and was on the reccommendation of the War Office and not of the Prime Minister.

Of Canada's premiers, only one—Hon. Alexander McKenzie—did not receive knighthood. Canada's future premier will have to be content with the title held by Mr. Mackenzie.

MOULDERS' STRIKE IN MIDLANDS IS REAL HANDICAP

London, Dec. 30.—Continuation of the moulders' strike in the Midlands is resulting in the most serious situation faced by British industry. Many great factories have been forced to close down owing to the impossibility of obtaining castings necessary to the production of the article manufactured. The automobile industry is especially hard hit as a continuous and sufficient supply of cylinders is unavailable.

It is understood that many manufacturers are beginning to inquire as to the possibilities of importing from Canada and the United States in order to effect delivery of some proportion of the huge orders for which dealers are urging. It is impossible now to catch up on the promised deliveries and thousands who expected to obtain cars in the Spring are obliged to wait indefinitely.

The situation in connection with the question of preference gives a great opportunity for the importation of Canadian cars if shipping is available.

FORMER GERMAN CROWN PRINCE PROTESTS TAX

The Hague, Dec. 30.—The adjutant of former Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany has lodged a protest with the Wieringen council against its assessment of Frederick William's annual income for income tax levy at 800,000 florins. The officer declares that Frederick William's income is only five per cent. of that amount.

ANOTHER INCREASE IN PRICE OF WHEAT IS PROBABLE

Regina, Dec. 30.—That the increase of fifty cents a bushel for wheat authorized by the Canadian Wheat Board may be still further advanced, is the opinion of J. B. Musselman, Secretary of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association. In an interview Mr. Musselman points out some of the complications which may arise from the advance in price. He believes that farmers who have been hauling their wheat across the boundary into the United States may find some difficulty in purchasing seed wheat for next season.

"The action taken by the Canadian Wheat Board," said Mr. Musselman, "has been anticipated for some time and in the opinion of many it ought to have been taken before this.

"The Order in Council appointing the board gives specific instructions that the price to the Canadian miller for domestic consumption is to be as nearly as possible the price obtained for export. While definite information has not been published by the board it is generally understood that the average of the price for domestic consumption has been under the average of the price secured for export. The opinion in well informed circles is that the new price to the millers is still under the present export value of wheat. If these assumptions are correct it means that the Canadian growers of wheat are being penalized for the benefit of the Canadian consumer. However, I do not wish to express a positive opinion on this point until full information has become available. I am free to state, however, that if when the season's business is over, it is found that the wheat grower has been penalized in order to provide cheap bread for the employes of protected industries and that the industrial centres of Canada have secured cheap bread by securing the farmers' wheat at a price lower than its export value, it will be difficult to persuade the wheat growers of Canada that they have been fairly dealt with. The price of $2.80 a bushel may be advanced again so as to bring it into full harmony with export values as the order in council intended that it should be and as in all fairness to the growers it ought to be.

Complications

"Various complications are sure to arise from this advance in price. It is rumored for instance that a number of farmers who had been marketing their wheat by the wagon load across the international boundary sold all their holdings depending upon buying their seed at a lower price in Canada, but, except as they may purchase the same direct from other farmers and haul it by horse conveyance, they may have difficulty in purchasing seed wheat for the reason that no shipments by rail are permitted without the permit of the Wheat Board. The greater hardship will come to those farmers in the dried-out areas who have not secured their seed wheat at the former prices.

TWO-THIRDS OF EXPORTABLE WHEAT CROP NOW SOLD

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—About two-thirds of the exportable surplus of the Canadian wheat crop has already been sold and exported through the medium of the Canada Wheat Board, the sole purchasing agency of the government. The total is variously calculated from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels, the quantity in the hands of the farmers not being known exactly.

While no definite figures have been received here from the Wheat Board, which is given a free hand, a fair proportion of the supply is moving to the United States since the embargo was lifted. A primary consideration however, is the need of Canadian millers for wheat for milling not only of flour, but also of by-products needed in stock raising.

Removal of the embargo to the United States does not detract from the authority of the Wheat Board, which will continue as the buying and selling agency, though its market is not extended.

GERMAN AVIATION FIRMS PLAN CONTROL OF THE BUSINESS

Geneva, Dec. 30.—German aviation firms, according to a dispatch from Constance, Germany, have formed a trust to prevent interior competition and to fight foreign trade. The plan of the combine, as outlined in the advices, provide for quality production of airplanes and hydro-airplanes at a factory either at Munich or Freidrichshafen and at many branches throughout the country. It is said the project includes the Krupp bank among its backers.

COMMERCE BOARD MAY PROBE SOME RECENT MERGERS

Toronto, Dec. 30. — The Board of Commerce, in a statement, indicates that it may hold inquiries into recent mergers of Canadian packing companies with American firms, such as were recently carried out by the Matthews-Blackwell Company and the William Davies Company of this city.

The Board will, early in January, make a resolution to the effect that unless full disclosure is made to the board before any such mergers are consummated, so that the interests of the public may be protected, the board will deem such mergers or transfers against the public interest.

HOME RULE SCHEME TO BE PUT INTO FORCE, SAYS IAN MACPHERSON

London, Dec. 29.—Right Hon. Ian MacPherson, Parliamentary Secretary for Ireland says:

"The British Government is determined to bring the Home Rule scheme into force.

"The most remarkable thing is that it is produced by a Government composed of Conservatives, life-long opponents of Home Rule.

"The plans of getting a homogenous area for Ulster was derived from the experience gained in dealing with small nationalities during the peace conference in Paris.

BODY OF BRAKEMAN CUT IN TWO IN NORTH BATTLEFORD C.N.R. YARD

Saskatoon, Dec. 29.—J. Enright, a brakesman employed in the Canadian National Railway yards at North Battleford, Sask., was instantly killed when run down by a train. He was engaged in coupling some cars on the Eastbound train when he stepped backwards on the next track, in front of another engine. His body was cut in two.

PREMIER BORDEN MAY GO TO AFRICA WITH JELLICOE

Ottawa Ont., Dec. 29.—Sir Robert Borden leaves for the South within a few days. A suggestion is made that he might accompany Lord Jellicoe to South Africa, but no definite arrangements in this regard, have been made.

SERIOUS BLOW TO PRESTIGE OF IRISH GOVERNMENT

Dublin Independent Plant Smashed — Armed Men Held Up Staff

Dublin, Dec. 24.—Political observers see in the success of Sunday's raid upon the Independent, a Dublin newspaper, by radical elements, a serious blow to the prestige of the Irish Government. Coming immediately after the attack upon Lord French, they pointed out, it apparently showed the Sinn Fein and other radical elements were able to defy the authorities in the heart of the heaviest policed town in Ireland.

In both the French attacks and the newspaper raid, it was asserted practically all the law breakers were able to escape and elude detection. These observers saw in the two incidents a virtual reign of terror, with none able to resist the will of the extremists.

Damage to the plant of the Independent was estimated at more than $100,000. The plant was captured by a group of armed men. Part of them held the editorial staff at the point of revolvers while others smashed the newspaper linotypes and presses.

No Raiders Captured

The raid was supposed to have been engineered by radical labor elements, possibly working in conjunction with Sinn Feiners. None of the raiders were captured, although hundreds of persons, including the police, were in the vicinity of the building. Apparently nobody outside the building knew what was going on until the attacking party had completed its work of destruction and scattered.

Many of the raiders were unmasked, newspapermen in the office said. How the party managed to gather, enter the building and hold it half an hour without attracting attention of outsiders was a mystery. Eighteen linotypes were destroyed and three big Goss presses smashed. No machine in the composing room was left undamaged. The plant will be out of commission for months, it is believed.

The entire raid was carried out with machine-like precision. The four floors and basement of the newspaper building were filled with armed men before employes knew what was happening. A dozen men were working in the editorial room when two masked men, carrying revolvers, ordered them "not to stir." Reporters thought it was a joke and laughed at the intruders. When a third man came in and started to draw the curtains a sub-editor angrily ordered him to stop.

"Shut up" one of the raiders ordered. "We're smashing your plant and are going to suspend your paper."

Hold Editor Prisoner

Two men entered the editor's office and held him prisoner. One of them mumbl d something about dissatisfaction over Friday's article, the story of the attack on Lord French. About forty men entered the editorial rooms, employes said. They guarded the telephones and showed no disposition to injure any of their prisoners.

The editor of the Independent said that he believed the raid was the result of an old grudge by extreme labor elements. He said he did ot attribute it entirely to the Sinn Feiners his newspaper had been consistently fair toward that organization. Police have no clue as to the identity of the raiders.

The Independent was influential in Dublin with a ci ulation of more than 200,000. It recently had defended the authorities for the suppression of the Freeman's Journal and same believed this might have been a partial cause for the raid.

FIERCE FIGHT ON INDIAN FRONTIER

British Used Airplanes in Repulsing Assaults — British Casualties 84

London, Dec 24.—Fierce fighting occurred Wednesday and Thursday along the Indian frontier of Afghanistan, according to delayed dispatches.

Thousands of Waziri Mahsud tribesmen attacked British forces, but were repulsed with heavy losses, the dispatches said. The British used airplanes in repulsing the attack. British casualties were 84.

The Waziri Mahsud tribesmen referred to presumably are inhabitants of Waziristan, a region of Southeastern Afghanistan West of the Suleiman mountains. Their country borders upon the Indian province of Punjab, where an investigation is under way of an alleged massacre of Indians by British soldiers at Amritsar.

CANTEEN PROFITS STORY BELIEVED DESPITE DENIAL

Definite Information May Not Be Available For Several Months

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—Inquiries with regard to the $35,000,000 in "real money," alleged in recent news dispatches to have been brought to Ottawa, as Canada's share in the army canteens operated overseas are coming into the Militia Department, in spite of official denials of the story. Officials of both the Militia Department and the Department of Overseas Military Forces unite in denying the story, but evidently a certain number of people have taken it seriously and are desirous of investigating it further.

The military authorities here state that they do not know what Canada will receive as its share in the profits of the British Expeditionary force canteen system, and it may be several months before definite information is available. The view is expressed, however, that the amount will be but a small fraction of $35,000,000, and one officer placed at in the neighborhood of $3,000,000. This is, however, merely an estimate because the work of cleaning up the canteens which were operated in various parts of the world is a lengthy one, involving great detail and figures of the amounts which will be allotted to the various dominions are not yet available.

U. S. DISTILLERS MAY SHIP WET GOODS TO QUEBEC

Making Frantic Efforts To Unload Stocks By January 16th

Montreal, Dec. 24.—The latest "liquor rumor" here is that American brewers and distillers, if they are driven out of the United States will establish plants in Montreal, and that after the ban is lifted in Canada on January 1st, there will be large shipments from across the line to this country. In the meantime, distillers are making frantic efforts to ship their products out of the United States before January 16th, the date when the prohibition amendment will go into effect in that country. It is believed here that Montreal importers will take all that they will ship and Toronto and the rest of Ontario will find some of this stock in their orders after January 1st.

LIBERTY LEAGUE MAY SECURE NEW COUNT OF BALLOTS

Toronto, Dec. 24. — A deputation of members of the Citizens' Liberty League who waited on Premier Drury, Attorney General Raney and Provincial Treasurer Smith, at the parliament buildings Tuesday afternoon was informed by the Premier that if the league would pick out two districts where it was thought a recount of the ballots cast in the Ontario Temperance Act referendum on October 20th last should be held, the Premier would favoraably consider the question of holding a recount in these districts. Also the Premier said if any serious errors were disclosed in such a recount, the necessity for a general recount would receive his favorable consideration.

Claim Ballot Unfair

The Liberty Leaguers claimed that not only were large numbers of soldiers left off the voters' list, but that the ballot was unfair, as four persons might vote against prohibition on one question or another and only one man vote straight prohibition, yet the result would be four "No's" on each question against one "Yes." Another reason urged for a recount of all the ballots cast throughout the province was that sixty-eight per cent. of the return as published by the clerk of the crown in chancery do not tally."

VOTE AT FIUME

Said To Show Great Majority For Solution Suggested By Italian Govt.

Another Vote Taken

Rome, Dec. 24.—In consequence of doubts regarding the first plebiscite at Fiume, another was taken Sunday, which resulted in seventy-five percent of the votes being cast in favor of the Italian Government's proposals, relative to the future occupation of the city, according to the Girnale D'Italia. Major Guiriati choice of Captain D'Annunzio's Cabinet, is reported to have resigned.

Newspapers state the basis of agreement was as follows: "Italian Government will keep in its possession the whole armistice line, reaffirming the right of Fiume to determine its own fate. Note is taken of the wishes of Fiume, as expressed on Oct. 30th, 1918, and re-affirmed Oct. 30th, 1919, and it is declared that Italy will never accept any other solution. Fiume will receive financial assistance, so that it may be able to re-establish it's life and resume it's activities under a regime as a free port.

RIOT RESULTS FROM FESTIVAL IN NEW YORK

Fourteen Thousand Kiddies In Wild Scramble For Christmas Gifts

New York, Dec. 24.—Thousands of uninvited children for whom no gifts were provided, crowded their way into the 71st Regiment armories last night and threw New York's largest children's Christmas festival into a riot. During the height of the uproar, 14,000 youngsters were in a mad scramble for their share of presents, which were stacked upon tables for distribution to 7,000 needy "kiddies" who had been invited.

Police reserves from six precincts aided by the armory detail of soldiers were unable to check the wild onrush. Several women fainted and scores of children, some of them on crutches, were bowled over as the youngsters rushed about the floor.

No semblance of order was obtained until thousands of youngsters had been rushed into the streets, where, separated from their chaperons and mothers, many of them hungry and without gifts, tearfully clamored to be taken to their homes. Less than fifty per cent. of them managed to get a gift package in the melee.

Police Swept Off Their Feet

The trouble started when clowns made their appearance on the armory floor. Children who had been assigned to places in the building rushed out on the floor in mass formation and crowded about the merrymakers, to take advantage of the disorder to help themselves from the gift table, and in a minute the rush was on. The policemen present were literally swept off their feet. Additional reserves were called, and a bugler sounded the assembly call, bringing to the rescue the uniformed armory detail. Children fought and scratched each other for the possession of dolls and other toys in the packages of presents. One freckled, red faced youth, wearing an abbreviated army coat was seen to carry away eight packages under his arm. Order was not restored until thousands of children had been driven into the street by main force.

The juvenile festival was staged by the People's Liberty Chorus and the Police Department to provide Christmas entertainment and gifts for needy children.

TWO FINE STRINGS IMPORTED HORSES TO BE SOLD HERE

Ben Finlayson Brings Thirteen Clydesdales and Devine Twelve Percherons

That Brandon is the recognized centre for the distribution of live stock all over Western Canada is shown by the two large shipments of horses which have arrived in the city lately. Twenty-five of the best horses that two importers, Ben Finlayson and W. H. Devine could procure have reached the city and are now quartered here waiting distribution through the Western provinces.

Ben Finlayson, who is well known through Canada is an importer of high class stock, has arrived in Brandon with thirteen Clydesdale horses from Scotland. The animals are in great shape and stood the rough passage across the Atlantic in splendid style. He now has his string located in the old Hogate stable on Thirteenth street and Van Horne avenue which will be his headquarters while in the city. Finlayson made a great name for himself several years back when he arrived from Scotland on the day the Winter Fair opened here, bringing with him "Edward Garnet" a horse which swept every honor at the Fair and was champion of his class everywhere he was shown.

Twelve champion Percherons which have all been exhibited at the International Stock Show in Chicago recently, is the recent importation of W. H. Devine. This is Mr. Devine's third importation this year, he having sold $40,000 worth of stock already this Fall and Winter. Mr. Devine has his string of Percherons stationed in the Club Stables on Twelfth street and expects to have his horses placed before very long in the Western provinces.

GIRL BANKER THWARTS ROBBERS

By Stepping On Button That Rang An Electric Burglar Alarm

Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 24.—Six automobile bandits made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the First National Bank at Lockland, a suburb, Tuesday afternoon. The men were frustrated through the presence of mind of a girl employe who pushed a button, thus ringing a warning bell on the outside of the building.

The men drove up to the bank in an automobile. Two of them remained in the machine, and the others went into the bank. The latter, at the point of revolvers, lined up the cashier, the three paying tellers and three girl employes, the only ones in the bank at the time. As one of the robbers was trying to open a gate leading to the money vault, one of the girls stepped on an electrical contrivance connected with a large gong on the outside of the bank. This rang, and when the robbers saw people running towards the bank from all directions they leaped into the car and sped away without obtaining any plunder.

ONE BALLOT LESS FOR DINSDALE THAN THE FIRST COUNT

Judge Cumberland's Recount Reduces Mayor-elect's Majority By One

COMPETENT OFFICIALS

In Charge of Voting—Dinsdale's Confidence Amply Justified

The recount of the Mayoralty ballots cast in the recent election did not make any material change in the returns. Mayor-elect Dinsdale is still the popular choice as chief executive of the city for 1920, but his majority is reduced by one, being 72 instead of 73, as given out when the election returns were made. The recount took up the whole of Tuesday afternoon, His Honor Judge Cumberland making the count, while Mr. Harry Cater, the defeated candidate, N. W. Kerr, representing Mayor-elect Dinsdale and Returning Officer Harry Brown, were also present.

The judge in his finding shows 2062 votes were cast for Mayor of Brandon, of which 1,067 were for Dinsdale while 995 were for Cater. His Honor Judge Cumberland in his report states that four ballot papers wanted the signatures or initials of the Deputy Returning Officer, and these had been counted by the Deputy Returning Officer as good ballots on the original count. The judge also held them to be good and counted them. Four ballot papers were rejected because they had been marked for both candidates. One ballot paper was rejected for having a writing or mark by which the paper could be identified, while thirteen papers were rejected because they were unmarked or void because of uncertainty. His Honor's final count showed Mayor-elect Dinsdale's majority reduced by one vote, and is given as 72 instead of 73.

The recount verified the confidence which Mayor-elect Dinsdale had in the outcome and in the accuracy and efficiency of the election officials.

The costs of the recount will probably be chargeable to the applicant, Mr. Cater, the judge having full jurisdiction as to how the costs of a recount are to be made up. It is to be presumed that as no cause was shown by the recount, that Mr. Cater will forfeit the $25 deposit which he had to put up.

WAVE OF DEATH AND BLINDNESS NOT YET SPENT

Fifty-seven Deaths Reported From Towns Near Chicopee Mass., in Few Days

WOOD ALCOHOL CONCOCTION

Causes Many Deaths — Five Arrests Made In New York City

Chicopee, Mass., Dec. 29.—Search was continued in this vicinity today for persons connected with the traffic in poisonous liquor which has resulted in the last few days in at least fifty-seven deaths and many cases of serious illness here and in nearby places.

Five New Yorkers Arrested

New York., Dec. 29.—Federal agents late Sunday night arrested five men whom they claimed to be the heads of an organized band which has been responsible for the recent widespread sale of wood alcohol concoctions in five states. One of the men arrested was described by the Government agents as "the king pin of the ring." Two of the men in custody were described as New York business men.

For ten days since the first fatalities were reported from wood alcohol poisoning, Col. Daniel Le Porter Supervising Revenue Agent for New York and H. B. Dobbs, special Federal agent have been working on the theory that the poison which has caused scores of deaths throughout New England and New York originated in this city. The arrests made Sunday were affected in widely separated parts of the city.

Eighty-four persons died during forty-eight hours and scores of others are suffering from paralysis and blindness, due to drinking wood alcohol "whiskey," according to reports received from seven cities in the East and Chicago.

The toll of the poisonous liquor is the highest in New England, where 65 deaths are recorded. Two women at Chicopee Falls, Mass., and one at Springfield, Mass., are included in this list.

In connection with the New England deaths and six reported in New York City, police and agents of the Department of Justice are seeking Adolphe Paranell, importer and commission agent of this city, who they assert sold twelve barrels of the poisonous liquor. The police charge that the "whiskey" was concocted in Paranell's store in Bleeke street.

New England Suffers

In Chicopee, Mass, 34 men and 2 women are dead; in Springfield, three men and one woman; Holyoke, nine men; in Hartford, Conn., thirteen persons are dead of the poison and in Thompsonville, Conn., two men are dead. Chicago reported eight deaths; Newark, N.J., three.

In a raid on what is believed to have been an illicit still on Baxter street, eleven bottles marked "whiskey flavor" and "whiskey extract" were found concealed among bags of sawdust. Many more bottles containing ingredients ordinarily used in the cordials, also were discovered, according to the police. There were many bottles labelled "brandy extract." The proprietor of the basement in which the alleged still was located was arrested, charged with being a suspicious person.

126 Dead, 148 Blind

New York, Dec. 29.—At least 126 dead and 148 blind or seriously ill is the toll of wood alcohol poisoning since prohibition went into effect according to statements gathered from various cities.

The total was swelled by 84 deaths in the last two days from poisoned whiskey in four New England cities. the causalties by cities are: New York, 52 dead, 100 blind; Chicopee, Mass, 36 dead, 7 seriously ill; Hartford, Conn., 13 dead, 8 seriously ill; Holyoke, Mass., 9 dead, 7 seriously ill; Chicago, 8 dead, 6 ill; Newark, N.J., 5 dead; Springfield, Mass, 4 dead, 5 seriously ill; Cleveland, 14 dead, 15 ill; Syracuse, N.Y., 2 dead; Emporium, Pa., 2 dead; Richmond, Va., 1 dead.

The deaths in New York, Syracuse and Richmond cover the entire period of prohibition. Those in the other cities ocurred in the last few days.

Legislation May Be Asked For

Wshington, Dec. 29.—Additional federal legislation to cope with the sale of wood alcohol as whiskey may be asked of Congress officials of the internal revenue bureau. A prohibition tax on wood alcohol was one remedy suggested today and amendments to the Pure Food Law making it a crime to sell wood alcohol as a beverage is also under consideration.

In the meantime several government departments are working to stop the sale of wood alcohol as a beverage and to apprehend sellers of the drink that caused deaths throughout the country.

Many Dead in Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 29.—Fourteen persons have died from drinking wood alcohol since November 1st. Sixteen others are ill.

Booze Substitute Stolen

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 29.—The theft of nearly 500 gallons of pure grain alcohol from four wholesale drug firms last week is responsible for Memphis having a clean bill of health in the matter of Christmas holiday poison booze deaths, police said. Before the grain alcohol was stolen, there were eleven deaths in the city in three days from the "booze substitutes."

MANITOBA SHOULD FOLLOW EXAMPLE OF SASKATCHEWAN

In Reinstating Pros. Is Opinion Passed Out By Edmonton

The Saskatchewan branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, like the Alberta branch, took the opportunity offered by the Dominion body by granting reinstatement to professionals. At a meeting of the Saskatchewan branch held at Regina, the following former pros. were granted amateur cards; Joe Oullette, Melville; G. V. Poulin, Saskatoon; Geo. Grady, Saskatoon; Glen. A. Smith, Saskatoon; Stanley Marples, Moose Jaw; Len McDougall, Central Butte; D. S. Moynes, Weyburn; Rusty Crawford.

It will be noted by the above list that many well known professionals were whitewashed. Skinner Poulin played pro. hockey in the N.H.L. also in the Coast League and old Manitoba League. Stanley Marples played pro. hockey in the Coast League for several years. D. S. Moynes also had a try-out in the Coast league. Len McDougal is an old pro lacrosse star having played with Toronto Tocpmsehs and Con. Jones' Vancouver team. McDougall was granted a temporary card in Saskatchewan last Summer, but when he went to Winnipeg to play in the lacrosse tournament objection was raised by Fred Waghorne, who was manager of the St. Sommons' of Toronto. The officials conducting the tournament recognised the Saskatchewan amateur card and McDougall was declared eligible.

It is now up to Manitoba to reinstate former pros who they believe will keep faith and make the West solid for reinstatement.—Edmonton Bulletin.

SELKIRK WINS FROM FALCONS IN OVER-TIME GAME

Great Battle When Selkirk Reverses Verdict of First Match In Exciting Finish

Fighting all the way the Falcons went down to defeat Monday night before the speedy Selkirk team in an overtime battle by five to four. It was a battle full of thrills all the way with one team leading for a minute only to have the other team assume the lead during the next few minutes of play. Five thousand people crowded into the Winnipeg Ampitheatre to see the teams fight it out, and they got their money's worth during every minute of the game. The play was hardly up to the standard dished up by the two teams on their first appearance when the Falcons won out by 7-2, but the condition of the ice was not the very best, the mild weather softening the ice and consequently slowing up the speed merchants.

The first period ended with the Falcons leading two to one and having what looked to be the edge on their opponents. They had reckoned without Joe Simpson however who took a big hand in the proceedings, notching two counters in the second period and being assisted by Ernie Anderson in putting three goals behind Byron during that period which gave the Selkirks the lead 4-2. The third period saw the Falcons come back strong. Frederickson scored two goals, the last coming one minute before the close of the game, to tie up the count. The teams then battled five minutes each way, the first overtime period being scoreless, but just before the call of time, J. Anderson netted the rubber for the goal which evens up the two teams in the Manitoba Senior Championship.

MOOSE JAW HAS HARD BATTLE TO BEAT SASKATOON

Moose Jaw, Sask., Dec. 30. — The Saskatoon Crescents, successors to the Quakers, very nearly upset the dope here Monday night when they held the Moose Jaw Maple Leafs to a three to two score in ten minutes' overtime battle. Marples scored the winning goal and is the hero of the Mill City. Saskatoon showed surprising form after their poor performance against Regina on Saturday, and the Leafs were over-confident. Some pretty rough stuff was handed out during the night, and the officials had their hands full.

TORONTOS AND OTTAWA WIN FROM RIVALS

Quebec Players Wear Crepe On Their Arms Out of Respect For Late Joe Hall

Toronto, Dec. 29.—In their first appearance of the season, St. Patrick's defeated Quebec by seven to four here on Saturday night, before a crowd of nearly 7,000. Frank Hefferman's team, when the players get into better condition, should be a warm contender for the National Hockey League championship. St. Patrick's clearly outplayed the visiting team.

The work of Mickey Roach, the Hamilton Tiger star, "Babe" Dye and Frank Hefferman was watched with great interest. Dye tricked Mummery and Carpenter with his fake shot as he was wont to do in the Ontario Association. Quebec players were badly handicapped owing to lack of capable substitutes. The veteran, Jack Marks, was pressed into service, but was not of much assistance. The Quebec team, out of respect for the late Joe Hall, wore crepe on their arms. Hall was one of the most popular men who ever played on the ancient capital team.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—The Ottawa Senators secured a clear lead in the National Hockey League Saturday night when they defeated the Canadiens of Montreal by a score of two to nothing. It was their second straight shutout, no team of the league having been able to bulge their nets so far this year. Mild weather made the ice slushy, and although at times the game was fast, there were many moments when play was ragged. Sterling work in the nets by Vezina prevented the Ottawa team from runniag up a big count, while Corbeau, on the defence, proved invaluable in breaking up repeated Ottawa attacks.

KAHANAMAKU HAS ALIBI FOR RECENT FAILURES

Rowing may have written finis to the career of Duke Kahanamoku, the great Hawaiian swimmer, who won so many laurels in the 1912 Olympiad. He admits that for the present at least he is "through", but hopes to regain form and come back in the Antwerp games in 1920.

Holding the world's record for the 100-yard swim, with 52 seconds, the Duke is not able at present to cover the distance in less than 65 seconds. Over-development of muscles is the trouble. In the last few months he has been training at rowing, and has put on so much new back and abdominal muscle that it actually interferes with his former perfect stroke.

The Duke was not in shape to contend in the Honolulu Fall swimming meet. Nor will he swim in the Mid-Winter carnival there in February, 1920. He admits that he is through, temporarily, but will make a strenuous attempt to get back in form for the Antwerp races.

NIAGARA PENINSULA CHARGES DISCRIMINATION BY THE GRAND TRUNK

St. Catharines, Ont., Dec. 30.—Local advocates of a hydro-radial railway to parallel the Grand Trunk Railway between Hamilton and the Niagara river, which has been promised by Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission, claim that this district is being discriminated against in that only two of the four Grand Trunk trains which were eliminated as a result of the coal shortage were restored today. They claim that it is because there is at present no competition that the Grand Trunk Railway is not restoring all four trains.

ANOTHER LARGE FORTUNE GIVEN BY ROCKEFELLER

To General Education Board For College Professors and Medical Work

BIG SUM FOR CANADA

$5,000,000 Set Aside For Development of Medical Work In This Country

New York, Dec. 26.—John D. Rockefeller has given to mankind a Christmas present of $100,000,000—half to the General Education Board to raise the salaries of college professors and half to the Rockefeller Foundation to aid in its work of combatting disease through improvement of medical education, public health administration and scientific research. It is estimated that Mr. Rockefeller's public gifts now approximate $450,000,000.

While leaving to the General Education Board the task of selecting the colleges which shall receive awards for their teaching staffs and the amount each is to receive, Mr. Rockefeller urged that the principal as well as the income be used as "promptly and largely as may seem wise."

In commenting on the gift, Dr. Wallace Buttrick, president of the board, said that since the end of the war it had received from colleges and universities applications for aid "which would practically exhaust the working capital of the board." He added that Mr. Rockefeller had recognized the emergency which exists.

Gift to Canadian Schools

Mr. Rockefeller, in donating the money, said:

"My attention has also been called to the needs of some of the medical schools in Canada; but as the activities of the General Education Board are by its charter limited to the United States, I understand that the gift may not be used for Canadian schools.

"The Canadian people are our near neighbors. They are closely bound to us by ties of race and language and international friendship; and they have without stint sacrificed themselves and their youth and their resources to the end that Democracy might be saved and extended. For these reasons, if your Board should see fit to use any part of this new gift in promoting medical education in Canada, such action would meet with my cordial approval."

In asserting that $5,000,000 would be set aside for Canadian schools, Dr. Vincent said:

From this sum appropriations will be made by the foundation to medical schools on condition that they raise additional funds from other sources. It is hoped that the $5,000,000 thus employed by the Foundation at this time will give a distinct impetus to the development of medical education in Canada.

CHARGE ALEXANDER MERCHANTS WITH FAILING TO FIX STAMPS

Two Alexander merchants appeared in the Police Court this morning for infractions of the Inland Revenue Act when they failed to attach the necessary stamp to some drug articles which were sold. B. Sproston, an Inland Revenue Officer in his evidence stated that he visited Alexander on October 16th and purchased a bottle of Eclectric Oil from W. J. Morris and a box of Gin Pills from A. D. Blair. Both articles did not have the stamp attached which is required by the special Revenue War Tax Act. Both men pleaded not guilty to the charge laid against them.

W. J. Morris stated that he had never sold any articles to Sproston, but that it was possible that his assistant might have made the sale, so Mr. Kerr who appeared for Morris asked for a remand of the case until the assistant could appear and give evidence. Council for the accused also suggested that, as perhaps the offence had been committed in error, and was an oversight, that one charge should be withdrawn, and the other accused fined the minimum amount. Both parties would then each pay half the fine, and the Magistrate also thought this would be a good way to settle the matter, but Mr. Sproston said he did not have the authority from his department to make any arrangement of this kind. Accordingly the case stands over until Saturday morning when the assistants will appear and give evidence.

ATTACK ON VICE-REGAL LODGE, DUBLIN, SUNDAY

Lieutenant Boast and One Civilian Killed — Intruders Escaped

Dublin, Dec. 29.—An attack was made on the Vice regal Lodge in Phoenix Park at three o'clock Sunday morning. About eight men are believed to have been in the attacking party. The attackers were resisted by the guard about the lodge, and one officer of the guard and one member of the attacking party were killed. Four arrests have been made.

There apparently was no direct attack on the vice regal lodge itself. The inmates of the lodge at first thought the shooting was connected with some sort of holiday revelry.

As the firing persisted, however, a military guard, consisting of an officer and two men, turned out and searched the vice regal grounds. Finding nothing unusual there they went through the park near the main road. While traversing the centre of the park they engaged in a sharp exchange of firing with the intruders and Lieut. Boast, who was leading his men, fell, shot through the heart.

Civilian Killed

One of the attacking party also was killed. He was a civilian about forty years of age. No weapon was found on or near his body, and up to the present the man's identity has not been ascertained.

After the shooting the intruders decamped in the darkness. The four men arrested were not taken into custody near the scene of the firing, but were apprehended as they were leaving the park about two hours later. They denied having had anything in connection with the affair and it is reported that no incriminating evidence was found on them.

Machine-Gun Used

After the shooting the military brought a machine gun to the scene. This was fired in the direction which it was supposed the men ha dtaken. No one was hit by the bullets.

The bodies of the two dead men were taken to the George V. hospital, where an inquest will be held. Lieut. Boast was only twenty years old. He was mentioned in Saturday's court circular, as having been invited to dine with Field Marshal Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant and Governor-General of Ireland, Saturday evening. On Saturday he had bidden farewell to his parents, who had been paying him a visit.

There was great excitement in the city when the newspapers announced the occurrence. Crowds visited the scene during the afternoon.

In the absence of all official information, the theory late last night was that no raid against the vice regal lodge was intended. It was supposed that an isolated shot was fired which Lieut. Boast and two privates went to investigate. It is not thought that they reached the person who fired the shot, but became involved in a struggle with a passerby, who with the lieutenant was killed.

It is reported that the dead citizen was a laborer who had been treated at a Dublin hospital and was walking home through the park. He wore bandages on his face, the police say.

No official report has been made by the police on the occurrence, which will be explained at the military inquest. The military refer all inquiries to the police.

One Version of Struggle

The name of the civilian killed is said to be Laurence Carey, who resided at Lucan, near Phoenix Park. According to one version of the origin of the struggle, Carey ignored the challenge to halt, and when the soldiers approached, Carey seized Boast, whereupon the soldiers fired their pistols, killing Carey. This version does not state who shot Boast.

Boast began as a drummer in the Lancashire regiment and won his commission for service in the war. His brother is still a drummer in the same regiment. His father, a major, also rose from the ranks.

Policeman Shot At

London, Dec. 29.—Several untoward incidents are reported from Ireland, by the Sunday Evening Telegram. A daring attempt was made to assassinate a constable at Bally Bofey, county Donegal. The assailant fired a pistol from the street at the constable, who was sitting with his family in a bedroom. Nobody was injured, but the bullet struck a bed a few inches from a sleeping infant.

A band of men raided a farmer's house at Victoria Bridge and carried off rifles. At Killarney a constable was shot and wounded on Christmas eve while assisting other constables to quell a rough and tumble fight between soldiers and civilians. It is reported that 20,000 rounds of ammunition have been stolen from the Dangarvan railway station. The consignment, it is believed, was intended for the military authorities.

IS THERE HOPE FOR REPUBLIC THAT SHELTERS TALAAT

When Talaat Pasha, former Turkish Grand Vizier and Minister of Finance, escaped from conquered Turkey he went straight to Berlin, where he has since been living quietly, the guest of a former official of the Turkish embassy—Talaat the bloodiest scoundrel of the war, co-author with Envers of the cold-blooded measures to exterminate all the Christians in Turkey, murderer of one million men, women and children who, during the so-called Armenian massacres, were shot, hung, starved and tortured. Bloody as Germany is one should think the very linden trees of Wilhelm's grand promendae would cry out against this guest of the German Republic.

But no, Talaat has been living "quietly" in Berlin. No crowd of indignant Christian women has tracked his steps as he loitered in the Tiergenten or walked up the ridiculous avenue where Wilhelm Kept the statue-portraits of the House of Hohenzollern; yet under the monstrous instigation of this man thousands of Christian children were bayoneted and thrown into the Euphrates, says the London Free Press. Such a barrage of tender little dead bodies it is said at one point, the great river was obliged for about a hundred yards to change its course.

Talaat on the Leipzigerstrasse, Talaat on the Wilhelmstrassa, Talaat in the restaurants and at the clubs. Yet no man in all Berlin to raise his hand against the monster who had Christian women outraged by his soldiery and then sold as slaves for any one to buy at eighty cents each. Whose tortures of Christian men, tortures for the like of which he dug down into the records of the middle ages, are too horrible for a Canadian newspaper to recapitulate.

Instead, Talaat, the 'Big Boss' of Turkey; Talaat, who rose from the position of a Turkish telegraph operator to be the representative of Abdul Hamid "the great assassin," whose massacre, in 1898, of 200,000 Christians drew decorations and embraces from Wilhelm II., this Talaat is allowed to go unmolested in one of the largest of the so-called "Christian" capitals of the world. The thing is a laugh.

And now Talaat goes one step farther. Finished so far as the unexpected end of the war would permit, with his satanic enterprise of Turkifying the Ottoman Empire by massacring every unit of the non-Moslem element, Talaat at this juncture professes "conversion" to German Socialism Associated Press dispatches carry his confession of faith. According to those dispatches the ex-Grand Vizier and head of the Young Turk party is said to believe that the "salvation of Turkey lies in her political transformation along radical lines."

FORMER GERMAN CROWN PRINCE TO ANSWER CHARGE

London, Dec. 27.—Frederick William former German Crown Prince, will be included in the list of persons, whose surrender for trial is demanded by the French, according to an unofficial report at a recent meeting between the Britisch law officials and Edouard Ignace, French Under Secretary for Military Justice. The ex-Crown Prince, it is said, will be charged with criminal offences, including looting and robbery with violence, committed in France.

There appears to have been no further decision reached at the conference with regard to the case of the former Emperor William. A full list of men whose surrender will be demanded has been completed, it was said, and the steps which are to be taken to insure their surrender have been decided upon. One or two questions still outstanding will be submitted to Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau when they meet in Paris next month.

U. F. O SECRETARY MAKES COMPLAINT

Says System of Appointments In Civil Service By New Government All Wrong

Toronto, Dec. 27.—Secretary J. J. Morrison, of the U.F.O., often thought of by those watching the march of U.F.O. events as the power behind the throne, Friday sharply criticized the system under which the present Drury Government makes appointments to the civil service of the province.

It is, he declared, the mere substitution of an autocratic bureau for the old system of patronage. The government, he contends, should strike at the "unreasonably high salaries," which are the root of the patronage evil. The government's action in promoting a woman to a $3,500 position as registrar of Middlesex county, with offices in London, he characterizes as "decided extravagance."

The U.F.O. Secretary also lodged a pungent protest against making such an appointment before the "voice of the rural district" has been heard.

MACHINISTS SAY THEY WON'T SUBMIT TO CUMMINS BILL

Washington, Dec. 27.—The organized railway machinists, through their president, served notice on Congress today that they would not submit to the enactment of the Cummins Railroad Bill with the drastic anti-strike provision. A call for a conference Monday has been issued by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, but Gompers and other Labor leaders refused to discuss probable action by the brotherhood leaders.

OILED PAPER FOR WINDOW GLASS

Valenciennes, France, Dec. 27. — Millions of yards of oiled paper are being used in France as a substitute for window glass, while the glass works in ten departments, wiped out during the war, are being rebuilt. This observation was made by the correspondent of the Associated Press, who is being made acquainted with reconstruction work through a trip conducted under government auspices. The "transparency" is composed of two sheets of oiled paper stretched between the window casings, and reinforced by a widely spaced network of strings.

Work of reclaiming the thirty-three per cent. of the nation's glass works and ceramic plants, which lay in ruins at the end of the war, is slow, because of the difficulty of replacing the vast mass of copper tubes, and the specially designed furnaces employed in the industry. Nevertheless, the manufacturers are resuming operation, furnace by furnace. Engineering experts estimate that it will be three years before pre-war production can be obtained.

Stripping of the machinery of copper parts by the Germans has greatly hindered the French in putting this industry on its feet, inasmuch as copper comprises about two-fifths of the materials used in the mechanical equipment.

SECOND SOVIET ARK MAY SAIL IN A FEW DAYS

United States Government Has 60,000 Radicals Listed

New York, Dec. 27.—The "Soviet ark" Bulford, which sailed for an unnamed Russian port this week with 249 radical deportees on board, will be followed before she has an opportunity to land by a second "ark" load of Reds, according to the best information obtainable.

It was stated that a second batch of deportees probably would be embarked some time this week as the Government's second drastic step against aliens who have sought to bring about the overthrow of constitutional Government. The Department of Justice haas 60,000 radicals listed. How many of these will follow their "Red" leaders on enforced voyages to their homelands has not been made known.

DEER INVADE KITCHENS IN SEARCH OF FOOD

Protection Afforded Game In U. S. National Parks Makes Animals Tame

Denver, Dec. 27.—Deer which invade kitchens of houses in search of food, and beggar bears which waylay automobile tourists and pedestrians along the roads are examples of the extent to which the protection furnished by the Government to the wild game within the boundaries of the national parks has tamed the animals, according to Horace M. Albright, superintendent of Yellowstone National Park and assistant to Stephen M. Mather, Director of National Parks.

"One night shortly before I left, I went to a dance," said Mr. Albright. "I took home a pitcher of cider and a plate of doughnuts. When I reached the house I placed them on a back step while I unlocked the door. A noise behind me caused me to look around and there was a big male deer with his nose buried in the pitcher of cider. He followed me into the house for one of the doughnuts and when I gave it to him, he trotted off."

It is no unusual sight, declared Albright, to see deer entering and leaving a house in Yellowstone. Small children feed them from their hands, and beggar bears, he declares, have come to be one of the biggest attractions of the park.

The tameness of the animals has its drawbacks as well, because it makes them easy for pot hunters if they happen to stray beyond the park boundaries.

"We had one of the worst storms in the history of the park during October," said the superintendent, "and it drove the animals down from the hills in herds. They strayed out of the park in search of food and were slaughtered by hundreds. The hunting season in Montana runs from October 15th to December 22nd, and unless public opinion forces the state to enact more adequate laws, I fear the elk and antelope, which are making their 'last stand' in Yellowstone Park will be soon exterminated."

EXCHANGE RATE IS ADVANTAGE TO CANADIANS

With the Exception of Those Who Must Pay Bills To American Houses

Regina, December 29.—A nine per cent. premium on American money is the quotation to reach Regina bankers by wire Saturday, an increase of one point over Friday's quotations. Commenting on the situation, the manager of a local bank said:

"The present high rate of exchange on American money is working to the advantage of Canada and Canadians generally. The exception is the man who owes large amounts in the United States, and he is holding off as long as he is able, thus retaining large sums in Canada that otherwise would be sent across the border.

Farmers to Benefit

"Paper and pulp manufacturers, a very large proportion of whose product finds a market in the States, are making a killing. In the face of the present situation and the recent jumps in paper stocks on the exchanges, I cannot account for the increase in price of newsprint. Western mines are shipping coal to West states and are reaping a harvest on the exchange. The farmers are going to benefit. Those who live near the boundary and have been getting wagon permits have been thus fortunate for some time. The American price is far above the Canadian, but on the basis of the fixed Canadian price of $2.15 a bushel the farmer will get an additional sixteen cents on each bushel.

American Money Coming

"Another way in which the rate of exchange is working in Canada's interests follows: Large sums of money are coming into Canada for investment that would otherwise remain at home. A case in point happened right in this bank Friday. A man walked in and deposited a marked cheque for $10,000 on his bank in the United States. His deposit instead of being $10,000, as it would have been under a level exchange rate, was $10,800, or an immediate profit of $800. He can let it stay here until the exchange is normal or he can look around for an investment for $10,000—as he intends to do—using the $800 as expense money."

A number of other men were in a critical condition last night at hospitals in Holyoke and Springfield. Four men under arrest in Hartford, three in Chicopee. Manslaughter is charged against two.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 27.—Two men died in the hospital from effects of liquor sold in saloons in this city. These deaths brought the list of victims of drinking the mixture here to ten. Hospital and police reports told of six more men dangerously ill from drinking a compound believed to be largely wood alcohol. Four men, two of them saloon keepers, are under arrest, charged with murder.

NEW LIGHT TURNS DARKNESS INTO REAL DAYLIGHT

With New Lighting Apparatus Most Delicate Shades of Color Are Clearly Seen

London, Dec. 27.—A light which far surpasses any existing arrangement of artifical light and is the closest approach to actual daylight ever accomplished, is understood by the American Chamber of Commerce in London to have been perfected here.

The apparatus consists of a high power electric light bulb, fitted with a cup shaped opaque reflecter, the silvered inner side of which reflects the light against a parasol-shaped screen placed above the light. The screen is lined with small patches of different colors, arranged according to a formula worked out empirically by Mr. Sheringham, the inventor, and carefully tested and perfected in the Imperial College of Science and Technology.

Colors Correct

The light thrown down from the screen is said to show colors almost as well as in full daylight. Under the new light delicate yellows were quite distinct, indigo blues were blue, cobalts had their full value and violets lost the reddish shade which they display in electric light.

The American Chamber says a great future is expected for this invention in such uses as the lighting of show windows and art galleries, studio work of all kinds, dye works, tea and tobacco blending, and many other industries. Color photographs also will probably benefit.

POSTMASTER PAYS FOR WITHHOLDING LETTER FROM GIRL

Quebec, Dec. 29. — Judge Cannon passed judgment on Wednesday in an interesting case. Miss Sadia Zaida Allaire claimed $190 from Odilon Marr postmaster at Joachim, county of Montmorency, because the latter had intercepted from her a letter from her fiance.

The court found that a seal of a letter is sacred and that the postmaster had no right whatever in keeping the letter from the girl. He said that the laws were very severe on this matter and that as soon as a stamped letter is deposited with the postal authorities, it no longer belonged to anyone, even to the sender, but to the person it is addressed. The claimant was granted full damages. plus costs.

performed by the Association not only in remembrance of their fallen brethren but also to those who had been fortunate to return and to those who had missed their loved ones who will not return.

The Boys in France

Brigadier-General James Kirkcaldy gave an interesting address on "The Boys in France." The General very ably asserted his admiration of the Canadians in France. "Their spirit was endurance and self-sacrifice." He spoke of the great brotherly love of all comrades in the stress of battle and quoted his own Battalion, the Seventy-eighth Grenadiers, as taking an Orange Lodge with them right to the firing line, headed by what he considered the strongest officer in the unit, the Quartermaster. "A man who was ever on duty and who was always responsible for the providing of food under all conditions to his men. He carried out his duty faithfully and achieved as much for the men under his command, as for the members of the lodge with him. There were none better. They were of fighting material and they fought their best. He could only quote those immortal words of Colonel McCrea. "Hold High the Torch" and trust that all would seek to show the real brotherly love here as the boys had found it in France.

Lest We Forget

General Kirkcaldy stated that he noticed the men on the streets with the buttons on the lapels of their coats, and they looked to be better men for their experiences in France. Many of the returned men did not find the real fellowship upon returning home he had become accustomed to in France, owing to business prestige. "Lest we forget" the speaker gave instances of meeting a returned by on the street corner who told him of receiving a pension of $2.50 per month and another boy with a mangled arm who only received seven dollars. This was not true fellowship, for if they were entitled to any pension, such was an insult. "Let us remember," said the General, "those who died and also those who have returned to us but who would have gladly died had it been necessary."

Major Charles Whillier in his address stated that he had come in touch with a very large number of men of Brandon district during his service in France, England and Canada. It would be a surprise to many, said the speaker, when he stated that when the call for "A" class men was made, there were only five out of the city of Brandon. A city which at the outbreak of the war had a possible allotment of 2,000 men of military age. When "B" class was called up of course there were many more, but many of these boys had volunteered previously and some even had received a military discharge. He quoted some incidents in France and the boys whose names were on the tablet were just as good as the best. The men of Ulster were amongst the first to hold back the enemy and they proved their metal in checking the Huns' onward rush.

Brotherly Fellowship

A solo "Our Little Task," by Rev. C. G. Stone was much enjoyed by those present.

The Rev. M. L. Orchard in the closing address spoke strongly for a great Forward Movement of Brotherly Fellowship. "In union and co-operation is strength," said the speaker. If this prevailed there would be no need of anyone getting just a $2.50 pension if he was entitled to one at all. He gave an instance of a young man saying what a great thing it was to go over and fight for his country, but who was answered by his pal, "I is a greater thing to come home and help to keep the land fit and worthy to return to."

The program was concluded by the singing of the National Anthem, after which the members of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent served refreshments.

GOOD WORK BY CARE-TAKER PREVENTS FIRE FROM SPREADING

Wednesday afternoon about three o'clock the Fire Department responded to a call form the McLaren School where a defective pipe had caused the partition to become ignited. The coolness and quick work of the caretaker, Mr. George Darvel, did much to prevent the fire from spreading. He gave the alarm and then returned to the school and started to fight the fire with chemicals. The Fire Department made a record run from the Hall to the corner of Third street and Brandon avenue and soon extinguished the blaze. The damage amounted to about $250 or $300.

ALEXANDER MERCHANTS FINED FOR FAILING TO AFFIX WAR TAX STAMPS

The case against the two Alexander merchants, W. J. Morris and A. D. Blair, was concluded on Saturday morning when both men were found guilty of an infraction of the Inland Revenue Act. They had failed to affix a war stamp to two small articles purchased at their stores last October and on information laid by B. Sproston, appeared in the Police Court last Friday. Practically all the evidence was taken in the matter on Friday, but the case was not finished until Saturday when His Worship Magistrate Fraser found both men guilty and fined them the maximum fine, $50 and costs each.

Harry Perks, John Ober, Walter Heatley, Herbert Trent and John Walker were each bound over in a $100 bond each to keep the peace after they had appeared before the Magistrate charged with using obscene language. Wesley Cook and Ronald McQuaig were both cautioned by the Magistrate for the same offence.

CRESCOGRAPH BARES TO VISION PLANT GROWTH

Remarkable Demonstration Is Given by Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose In London

HUGE MAGNIFYING POWER

Instrument Makes Movement of Snail Faster Than Velocity of 15-inch Shell

London, Dec. 16 (by mail).—Demonstration of an instrument to show plants actually growing was made by Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose in the India Office, at a meeting over which A. J. Balfour presided. The instrument is a kind of super-microscope, and at the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Balfour paid a warm tribute to the work of the lecturer, who, he said, had made discoveries of world-wide interest.

Sir Jagadis holds that the most intense activities of life often are imperceptible: for instance, within the unruffled exterior of the body of an ordinary plant incessant throbbings associated with its growth are in progress. Extreme difficulty in investigating these in the past has been due to the extraordinary slowness of growth, the average rate for plants being about 1,100th part of an inch per second.

The observation of this slow growth is made easy by this new magnetic crescograph, an instrument Sir Jagadis invented especially for this purpose and which in operation is for this purpose equivalent to magnifying the highest powers of the microscope 100,000 times. To illustrate this tremendous magnification he mentioned that the movements of a snail under the crescograph would appear to be so rapid that it would be difficult to find a parallel even in modern gunnery.

A fifteen inch gun on the superdreadnaught Queen Elizabeth threw a shell with a muzzle velocity of about 8 500,000 feet an hour; the crescographic snail would appear to move at 200,000,000 feet an hour, or twenty times faster than a cannon shot. For a closer parallel he turned to cosmic movements. A point on the equator whirls around at a rate of more than 1,000 miles an hour, but the crescographic snail might well look down upon the sluggish earth, for by the time it had made one revolution the snail would have made forty.

The crescograph is an instrument quite simple in appearance. A single magnetic lever rotates a delicately poised needle and a spot light reflected from the mirror which is attached to the needle, travels back and forth upon a screen as the mirror swings, giving a magnification of 1,000,000 times, which can be increased to 100,000,000 times. Material contact, which in the past has put a limit to magnification higher than 10,000 times, has been eliminated.

With the aid of this device the life activity of a plant can be rendered subservient to the will of the experimenter; Depressing chemicals can be applied until its life is brought to a state of arrest; the timely application of stimulants revives the dying plants and increases its life activity to many times the normal.

MODERATE MEN APPROVE LLOYD GEORGE PLAN

London, Dec. 30.—Christmas recess has brought plenty of hard thinking to bear upon the Irish riddle. Surface impressions all confirm Lloyd George's diagnosis that no Irish section would whole-heartedly applaud his new home rule plan. No previous scheme, certainly not Gladstone's, nor Asquith's, had anything like so favorable English and Scottish press comment, but Ulster speaking through Lynn, proprietor of the Northern Whig, Belfast, says: "Ulster wants only to be left alone to complete her unity with Britain," while the Sinn Fein, speaking through Shaw Desmond, says the new plan is a red flag to the Irish bull already seeing red. The Nationalist is, for the moment, mute.

Yet those who claim to know Ireland best say that all this is only what was inevitable. Lloyd George's tactics will justify themselves. Ulster evidently is much gratified by the justification which she finds for her preparations for the rebellion in 1914 and Lloyd George's reasoned proof that Protestant Ulster cannot be coerced even by Sinn Fein but must be treated as a separate unit. This never before has been recognized in the British parliament.

If they unite they must do it of their own accord as did Upper and Lower Canada. Even Lynn admits this is a step forward.

Garvin's comment in the Observer, "When Ulster is absolutely guaranteed once for all against Sinn Fein domination and the separatist spirit then only economic and moral forces will compel the two Irish populations to work together."

Sinn Fein Obstinate

But what of the Sinn Fein, which seems to represent ninety-five per cent. of Roman Catholic Ireland? Sinn Fein leaders, including the minister of the Irish republic, whose latest opinions Shaw Desmond summarized, still scoff at Lloyd George's ideas. "Yesterday, perhaps, Ireland would have considered a separate Ulster as a temporary expedient, but today one Ireland, sole and indivisible, is the only national conception of Ireland, saving Northeast Ulster. What the Sinn Fein says is that his own Irish-made laws shall be administered absolutely fairly and leave us to manege Ulster," and then, as if confirming Ulster's worst fears, added: "We object to any contribution whatever to the cost of running the empire. The Sinn Fein wants to get outside the empire."

That, however, may be very far from the Sinn Fein's last word. Not a few competent Irish authorities assert that a good half of the nominal Sinn Feiners now are vigorously denouncing among themselves the attack on the Viceroy. Even more than half are reflecting upon the large limits to national life which Lloyd George's plan would set up. In a similar sense an authorative writer in the Sunday Times says: "A leading Irishman now here thinks the Sinn Fein movement is in brittle condition. It is no secret that the extremist section has come under control of Bolshevik emissaries from the Clyde who are out for Soviet rule in Ireland. This new development is making the Catholic hierarchy furiously to think. So far Sinn Fein has had the active support of a great majority of the country priests and the undisguised sympathy of the heirarchy but with a Sinn Fein of a Bolshevik objective, how could the church stand firm? In such a case it might well fall back upon Lloyd George's scheme, partition and all. Ond in all, Ireland's last word is always the church."

CRADLE HYMN

Oh! hush thee, my baby, the story I'll tell
How little Lord Jesus on earth came to dwell,
How in a far country, way over the sea,
Was born a wee baby, my dear one, like thee.
The story was told by the angels so bright,
As round them was shining the heavenly light.
The stars shone out brightly, but one led the way,
And stood o'er the place where the dear baby lay.
The shepherds there found him, as the angels had said;
The poor little stranger, no crib for a bed,
Down low in the manger so quiet he lay,
The little Lord Jesus, asleep on the hay.

GREAT AND GROWING DEMAND FOR HEAVY DRAFT HORSES

Manitoba Horse Breeders' In Annual Convention This Morning

FEW DRAFT HORSES

In Canada Suitable For Export—Form a Clydesdale Club

With a large attendance of breeders and horsemen, the Manitoba Horse Breeders Association met Tuesday morning in the Council Chamber. Many well known breeders from different points in the province were present and an interesting morning resulted when addresses and discussions of timely interest were heard. Mr. Freeman Rice, president of the Association was in the chair. The election of officers for the coming term and two splendid addresses by H. S. Arkell, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner and Andrew Graham of Roland featured the morning's session.

Mr. John Crawford of Brandon is the new President of the Horse Breeders' Association, being unanimously elected when Mr. John Scharff of Hartney withdrew his name from the nomination list. Mr. Harry Galbraith also of this city was elected vice-president. The voting for directors of the Association saw nine names proposed but the election resulted in Wm. McKirdy of Napinka, John Orr of Elkhorn, W. I. Elder of Brandon and Wm. Scharff of Hartney being the four directors for the coming season.

Export Market for Horses

"The Export Market for Horses" was the subject of an interesting address from H. S. Arkell, Live Stock Commissioner of Ottawa. He stated that the horse industry had not kept pace with the cattle industry during the past five years due to the general adoption of motor service. In speaking of the relation of the horse industry to the motor business, he really believes that the motor has found its place as regards farm and city use. There is still a great demand for the proper kind of a horse, and the motor transports are really only taking the places of the middle and light horses.

Mr. Arkell said that the actual users of high class horses state that there is no use selling a horse that does not come up the highest standard. The preference had been shown by large users, for the Clydesdale horse. The heavy draft horse is really the only horse that can live against the inroads made by motor transportation. In speaking of the European demand for horses, Mr. Arkell said that French dealers had already made trips to the United States to purchase horses but that the high rate of exchange militated against a large purchase being made. The question of government credits and the adjustment of exchange rates demand attention.

"It is a proper time," said Mr. Arkell, "for all interested in stock breeding to take note of all the horses that will check up to the kinds needed." We must bear in mind always the need for export. The demand in the United States today is for heavy draft, and we must prepare for the export of heavy draft for at the present time there are very few heavy draft horses in Canada suitable for export purposes We must rrelate the whole breeding of the future according to the market demand and if we do this we will assist greatly in making for the success of the horse industry," concluded the speaker.

The Heavy Draft Horses

Mr. Andrew Graham of Roland gave an address on "What can we do to Increase and Improve the Quality of our Draft Sires." He stated that it is necessary to produce a larger proportion of the type that will command a ready market at remunerative prices. The fear that motors will replace horses is not well founded. It is a fact that despite the growth of the motor business there are still many horses needed. The careful selection of sires is necessary to increase the size of the heavy draft horse. Mr. Graham said that a child when asked where the perfect horses come from, would reply "Scotland." The speaker said that he was dealing with Clydesdales as he could speak with more familiarity about that class of a horse. It is a fact today that a stallion with the right reputation and kind cannot be bought.

Mr. Graham made reference to the remarks made by Archie McNeilage, Secretary of the Old Country Clydesdale Association in which McNeilage told of the determination of the home breeders to retain the best horses. Mr. Graham said that Canada was Scotland's best customer in purchasing horses and that some assistance

RAILWAY CRISIS IN ENGLAND IS CAUSE OF ALARM

There Appears To Be Little Likelihood of Government's Offer Being Accepted

LABOR IS HEADSTRONG

Victory In Spen Valley Election Makes Labor Unwilling To Compromise

London, Jan. 6.—Government officials and Labor leaders are apprehensive over the apparent impending railway crisis in England. Union delegates confer tomorrow and it seems certain that the Government's offer in settlement of the wage dispute with the men in the lower grades of the service will be rejected. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of the Railway Union, favors accepting the offer but realizes that Labor is unwilling to compromise at present especially since the Spen Valley election disclosed the unexpected strength of the Laborite ticket.

The Chief Objections

The chief ground of objection to the scheme is that, instead of taking the highest pay in the respective grades, to which to add the war bonus of 38 shillings and thereby arrive at a minimum wage, the government has taken the average pre-war pay of over fifteen of the largest railway companies. This the men characterize as standardization downward instead of upward, and resented because in the previous settlement with the locomotive men and other higher grades the bonus was added to the highest pay. There are other objections. Some are opposed to the sliding scale; others demand that the new scale be retroactive to August. A considerable section of the moderates favors accepting the compromise, but Wednesday's conference, which will decide the matter, is not looked forward to hopefully.

GEORGE H. JOHNSON FORMER MEMBER OF 79TH BATTALION

Returned From Overseas Last Spring—Shot Himself On Monday In Winnipeg

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Now In Winnipeg Hospital With Bullet Hole Through Left Lung

George Herbert Johnson, son of Mrs. Thomas Johnson, Carman, Manitoba, who is in a critical state in the Winnipeg General Hospital as the result of an attempt to kill himself, will be remembered by many returned members of the Seventy-ninth Battalion in this city. Johnson came to Brandon from Carman in 1915 and joined the colors with the Seventy-ninth Battalion under Colonel Clingan. In April, 1916, he went overseas with the unit and saw much service in France. It is understood he returned to Canada last Spring and commenced work in the Royal Bank at Sperling last October. Johnson is twenty-two years of age and is in a semi-conscious condition at the hospital with a bullet hole through his left lung.

According to the story told by Joseph Gabriel, an employe of the Consumers' Association, who was an eye-witness of the shooting, Johnson walked into the recreation room of the Red Triangle Hut at 8.45 Monday, took two or three staggering steps, pulled a revolver from his overcoat pocket and pointed the muzzle toward his left breast.

Several Eye-Witnesses

Mr. Gabriel and several companions were playing pool at the time, and several other men were seated about the room, reading or writing. Gabriel shouted a warning that the man was going to shoot himself. No person in the room was within ten feet of Johnson, and before anyone could reach him he had pulled the trigger and collapsed upon the floor. The police were immediately summoned and took Johnson to the General Hospital.

Gabriel stated that Johnson [illegible] him a conversation [illegible] ing that he had "missed himself, but would have tried again." According to Gabriel, Johnson stated that he came to Winnipeg from Carman Monday morning and that he was employed in a bank. He intimated that he had attempted suicide because of money trouble. The statement given out by the police was to the effect that Johnson was employed as a junior clerk in the Royal Bank at Sperling, Man.

Used Heavy Revolver

The weapon with which Johnson did the shooting is a .38 calibre five-chamber Iver-Johnson revolver. It was taken from him before he could do any further damage and was taken down to the office of the hut, where, on examination, it was found that four of the chambers were still fully loaded. The bullet entered the left breast about three inches above and to the right of the heart. Johnson claimed that the revolver belonged to the bank.

Ernest R. Thorburn, manager of the Royal Bank at Sperling, stated that Johnson was employed by the bank as ledger keeper, and had been in the employ of the bank since last October.

Has Good Record

He has always been a most satisfactory employe, Mr. Thorburn said, and h could think of no reason why Johnson should attempt to take his own life, as his accounts were in good order. Johnson, he said, was a very quiet and unassuming young man and had never, to his knowledge, been subject to fits of melancholy or despondency. No money is missing from the bank, he said, and no revolver was taken away.

LUDENDORFF WAILS OF RUIN

Paris, Jan. 6.—"Disaster threatens Europe as a result of the policy adopted by the Allied Nations," in the opinion of General Ludendorff, former Commander-in-Chief of the German Armies, in an interview published in The Matin. He refused to talk on the international situation in Germany created by the Versailles Treaty.

"After the shameful treatment which Germany endured from the Entente, I must refuse to publish anything in the Entente press. If, in our final ruin, which is coming, Entente nations are dragged along with us, they will have none to blame except themselves. Sooner or later a terrible catastrophe will strike Europe and it will be because of the short-sighted policy of the Entente.

PRACTICAL MEN DISCUSS MANY FARM PROBLEMS

At Initial Meeting of Livestock Associations Monday Night

VALUE OF POULTRY

And Poultry Products As Food Dealth With By Federal Expert, W. A. Brown

Delayed trains prevented two of the three experts from delivering addresses at the joint meeting of the livestock associations in the City Hall Monday night, but did not seem to unduly depress the hundred odd livestock men there assembled. They listened with undivided attention to the addresses of A. Brown, of the Poultry Branch, Ottawa, on the Poultry Industry, the impromptu, but authoritative address by W. C. McKillican, Experimental Farm, Brandon, on Farm Ventillation, and then the stockmen took the floor themselves. Andrew Graham, Roland; J. R. Hulme, Souris; J. I. Moffatt and James Turner, Carberry, gave their views and experiences regarding silos and the value of corn as a fodder. John Crawford, as Chairman, and W. I. Smale, Secretary, contributed to what was certainly a profitable evening. The fact that across the hall a gay dance was in progress never once caused a ripple of diversion.

W. C. McKillican protested that he had no prepared address, that he did not anticipate anything further than participation in the discussion and then talked on barn ventilation in a manner that carried conviction of thorough acquaintance with this vexed problem.

The early stables in this country did not require ventilation systems. The old makeshift shacks were not built well enough to be tight and the foul air had no difficulty in escaping. In buildings of later years the idea of warmth dominated the builders and the result was drakness and retention of foul air. The underlying principles of the circulation of air were forgotten. Any good barn ventilation system should draw off the gasses and provide a supply of fresh pure air. There are now two ventilation systems. The King system, invented by an American, the theory of which is that the foul gasses being heavier than air sink to the floor and should be drawn off from there. The Rutherford System, invented by Dr. Rutherford when Live Stock Commissioner, operated on the principle that the foul gasses and the cattle's breath being warm, rise, and should be drawn off from the top. Both systems work, declared Mr. McKillican, but the Dominion Experimental Farms prefer the Rutherford system and use it, getting good results therefrom. The fules should be air tight and run as direct as possible to the peak of the barn without any sharp angles. Two-ply boards with an air space or paper between making a good shaft. The outlet on the roof is important. There should be no obstacles to prevent a free flow of air. In reply to a question, Mr. McKillican said he did not know of any system which in the continued cold weather, which we sometimes have in this country would keep the frost off the walls. Freeman Rice said the best ventilated stable he ever sawwas one in which the ventilation pipes were smaller near the roof than at the intake. Fresh air could be supplied by apertures placed conveniently where they did not expose any animal to draft. With the Rutherford system it is advisable to have dampers in the pipes so they may be partially closed in extremely cold weather.

The Poultry Industry

There are indications which point to Brandon becoming the Preston of Canada in the poultry industry, declared W. A. Brown, of the Poultry Branch, Ottawa. Preston is in the poultry industry what Clydesdale is for Clydessdales, Herefordshire for Hereford cattle, Lincolnshire for Shorthorns By co-operative effort, community hatching and the scientific handling of poultry, Preston flocks are noted the world over for early maturity, size and quantity of eggs and at a time of the year when they command the highest price.

Progress that has been made in Prince Edward Island in the early development of poultry indicated what could be done in Manitoba with its favorable Spring weather. Despite the cold, rain, fog and dampness, the P. E. I. poultrymen through centralized hatching and room brooding have been able to mature poultry at a time when it is most profitable. What we want to do in Manitoba is to take advantage of our God given opportunities for the early development of poultry which provide a food high in disease resisting qualities. A study of new nutrition places eggs and milk among the best foods for the development of a

TURKISH MINISTERS NOW IN EXILE FLED IN AN AIRPLANE

Stockholm, Jan. 2.—Colonel Dalbeck, a Swedish officer at the head of the Lithuanian air force, who has just returned from Kovno, has related a thrilling story of the narrow escape of Enver Pasha and Talaat Bey, former Turkish ministers, now in exile, from being captured by British officers and Lithuanian troops a few weeks ago.

One day, said Colonel Dalbeck, an unusually large airplane built entirely of aluminum, appeared over Dunaberg, but was obliged to descend in the neighborhood, owing to motor trouble.

Besides the pilot and the engineer the airplane contained two passengers. All of them were arrested, but later were allowed to move freely under a guard in the town. The next day, after the engines had been repaired, a German flight officer named Rother, then in the Lithuanian service, asked permission to fly the machine with a young learner. This he was allowed to do, but the aeroplane soon descended some miles outside the town. Here the learner was sent away and suddenly two men, apparently strolling with an armed guard, appeared.

Rother managed to smuggle loaded revolvers into the hands of the two men and the guards suddenly felt the revolvers being pressed to their heads. The guards were bound and the airplane with the two passengers flew away, landing some hours later at Tilsit, in East Prussia. The two men, who were said to be merchants and wanting to return to Moscow, in order, if possible to save their property from the Bolshevik, were Talaat and Enver, as Rother admitted in a telegram sent asking to have his baggage forwarded to Germany.

NEW LANGUAGE FOR CHINA HAS OFFICIAL SCRIPT

Chu Yin Tzu-Mu, as it is called, is not the first attempt to give China a rational writing. To understand it, one must remember that Chinese is entirely made up of monosyllables. There are only 420 monosyllables in the Pekinese official dialect. The number of words in the Imperial Dictionary of K'ang Hai, two centuries old, but still the standard, is 44,449. Each monosyllable on the average has 105 meanings, says a writer in "Asia." These are distinguished in two ways: first, by the slight differences of pronunciation, and, second, by the association of one word with the word next to it. It must be remembered that each of these 105 variations of the same monosyllable is an entirely distinct word to the Chinese, and each has an ideograph which bears no suggestion of the 104. It is easy to see why Romanization failed. In a little dictonary which the missionaries tried to use were 165 characters Romanized as "chi" and 178 as "i" (pronounced like English "e").

Chu Yin Tzu-Mu uses 39 symbols, 24 initials, 12 finals and three medials or connecting sounds. These do not even remotely suggest Roman characters, but they represent all the sounds of what is to be the new national language. The new national language was founded on the so-called Mandarin. This was already spoken in 15 out of the 18 provinces, for the Southern coast provinces have a quite different speech. But the pronunciation of Mandarin varied so much that natives of different provinces often were unable to understand each other. To overcome this difficulty a standardized pronunciation was adopted. The pronunciation was fixed for about 800 words, and all the rest grouped themselves naturally around these.

Then in the Fall of 1918 a special congress of representatives of all the provinces, called by the National Ministry of Education, officially adopted Chi Yin Tzu-Mu as the written language of China. A Government decree to this effect, Order No. 75, was promulgated November 23rd, 1918.

DR. BLAND AND CHURCH BOARD MEMBERS DIFFER

More Trouble Arises in Broadway Methodist Tabernacle, Toronto

Toronto, Jan. 3.—The trouble between a section of the membership of the Quarterly Official oard of Broadway Methodist Tabernacle and Pastor Dev. Dr. Salem Bland has arisen over the question of singing the National Anthem at the services or the substitution of special prayers by the pastor for King George and the Royal Family in lieu of the National Anthem. Dr. Bland states that he decided to drop the National Anthem from the services at the request of the choir which wishes to return to singing the doxology instead, and declines to have the subjects of his prayers dictated to him. So far, Dr. Bland appears to have a majority of the board members at his back.

DISAPPEARANCE OF A. J. SMALL IS CAUSE OF ANXIETY

Toronto Theatrical Magnate Has Been Missing for Four Weeks

DEPOSITED CHEQUE

For Million Dollars Just Previous to His Mysterious Disappearance

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 3.—A. J. Small, Toronto theatrical magnate and millionaire, has been missing four week and there is grave apprehension regarding his mysterious disappearance. He was last seen December 2nd after closing a deal and receiving a cheque for a million dollars on account of the price of the transfer of his Canadian treatrical interests to the Trans-Canada Theatres Limited.

It is suggested that Small has been kidnapped or held up by auto bandits, who have been particularly active in Toronto and Montreal lately. Before his disappearance he deposited the million dollar cheque in the bank.

NATION WIDE RAIDS AGAINST RADICALS IN U.S.

Washington, Jan. 3.—In a sweeping drive against Radicalism, agents of the Department of Justice were completing today nation-wide raids against Communist organizations in which several thousand Radicals were taken into custody with a view to deportation.

Raids were ordered in thirty-three cities of the U.S. and promptly at the hour nine last night, operatives moved with clock-like precision in a round-up of Communists workers and sympathizers. Early this morning the numerous arrests had arisen to the highest figure of any similar raid in the history of the country.

The Government hopes to fill another Soviet ark and send it across the Atlantic to Bolshevik Russia, where Radicals will be permitted to rejoin their kith and kin. Department of Justice officials estimated that three thousand "undesirables" would be caught in the dragnet spread over the nation, and with their deportation, it is believed the back bone of radicalism in America will have been broken.

New York, Jan. 3.—The greatest roundup of radicals ever known in this country began at nine p.m. last night when an army of agents of the Department of Justice armed with 4,000 warrants, simultaneously raided every known "Red" headquarters in the principal cities of the country. Attorney-General Palmer personally directed the great roundup from Washington which Federal officials state has as its definite aim the ridding of the United States of every alien who plotted against the U. S. Government.

At midnight reports indicated that more than 2,000 members of the Communist and Communist Labor Party, against whom the raids were directed, were in custody, and Department of Justice officials expressed the opinion that daylight would see twice that number behind the bars.

Sailors Carried Messages

New York, Jan. 3.—Department of Justice agents armed with 300 warrants, continued today their search for radicals, begun in a series of raids conducted last night. The transfer to Ellis Island of 201 Radicals, held for deportation proceedings after being questioned all night by Department agents, was begun today. More than 400 persons arrested were released for lack of evidence to connect them with revolutionary doctrines.

The persons arrested last night have been watched closely day and night, since the Communist Party convention in Chicago, June 6th, 1919.

In addition to examining persons arrested, the Department of Justice agents glanced over tons of literature, records and figures seized in the raids. It would appear from some evidence seized at the office of Novymir, that sailors plying between this country and Europe, have been engaged as secret messengers to convey correspondence between "Reds" in the United States and their brothers in Soviet Russia.

Detroit and Chicago Stronghold of Reds

Chicago, Jan. 3. — Approximately one-third more than the four thousand alleged Radicals arrested in the Federal Department of Justice's second draw to rid America of the forces of anarchy and Bolshevism, today were in jails in Central West. Almost one thousand of the number were arrested in Detroit and Chicago, which Department of Justice officials have declared were strongholds of organizations inimical to the Government. Warrants charge the "Reds" aiding and abetting a movement to overthrow the Government of the United States by force and violence.

FIERCE FIGHTING INDIAN FRONTIER

Mandannakatch, India, Dec. 22.—(Via London).—The fiercest fighting ever experienced on the Indian frontier, has been in progress during the last three days, in which time the British casualties have been heavier than those in the entire campaign in the Tirah district in 1897, while the hill tribesmen suffered as never before.

Stubborn Resistance

The Mahaud displayed the utmost determination in opposing the operations of the British expeditionary force resisting in the most stubborn manner the British attempts to advance. The British column consequently was compelled to remain encamped in the Palosina Plain.

Boy's Heroism

An unnamed bugler of the Thirty-fourth Native Pioneers showed notable heroism in the course of the hand-to-hand fighting. Left with only a few comrades he seized a pick axe and fought the tribesmen till they retired when he returned to camp laden with trophies.

This action was evidently a continuation of the fighting reported in London advices of January 1, based on dispatches from Mandannakatch dated December 18th and 20th. These messages describe the driving of the British from a hill position which they had occupied and the final re-capture of the position after heavy fighting in an attack lasting two hours.

CONCESSIONS TO RAILWAY WORKERS IN GREAT BRITAIN

FREIGHT RATES MAY BE GIVEN ANOTHER BOOST

Railays Claim Rates Now in Force Insufficient to Meet Expenditures

THE INCREASED RATES

Granted August 12, 1918, Have Now Been Continued Indefinitely

Montreal, Jan. 3.—An order has been issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners continuing the twenty-five per cent. increase in freight rates on railways indefinitely. The increase in freights was made by an order-in-council, August 12th, 1918, under the War Measures Act, and expired automatically December 31st, 1919.

It was stated today the advance in railway wages caused by the application to Canada of the McAdoo award had amounted to an increased expenditure by the Canadian railways of about eight-two millions yearly. The advance in freight and passenger rates had increased by about forty milions. The problem of meeting the deficit will come before the Railway Board sooner or later, it was stated in time for further adjustment of the rates to meet costs.

BERGER ELECTION TO BE CONTESTED

Claim Is That He Is "Notoriously Unqualified and Ineligible To Such a Seat"

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—Henry H. Bodenstab has announced that he will contest the election of Victor L. Berger, Socialist, to Congress from the fifth district.

Bodenstab was defeated by Berger in the special election here December 19. J. F. Alexander, representing Bodenstab, has gone to Chicago to personally serve the notice of contest on Berger, who was expected to stop in Chicago while on a speaking tour.

The notice of contest informs Berger that Bodenstab will contest Berger's "pretended claim" to a seat in Congress and alleges Berger is "notoriously unqualified and ineligible to such a seat because of articles published and circulated, and because of utterances in public speeches during the campaign."

Bodenstab stated that he will bring the contest in the House of Representatives and added:

"The first basis of the proceedings is that a person who is notoriously disqualified and ineligible cannot be voted for, and that votes cast for such a person are of no effect, and that it results in effect in a negation rather than an election. The second basis is that any person found guilty of felony loses his right to vote, and that in this state any person who has been deprived of his right to vote also loses his right to hold office.

Stop Berger Speaking

Erie, Pa., Jan. 2.—Upon request of a large number of business men who sent a delegation to him, Mayor Kitts has issued an order to the chief of police not to permit Victor L. Berger, Socialist congressman-elect from Wisconsin, to deliver scheduled addresses to Socialists here.

PEOPLE VOTE TO TAKE OVER GUELPH RADIAL RY.

Guelph, Ont., Jan 2.—The by-law providing for the purchase of the Guelph Radial Railway to be taken over officially July 1st, was passed by a large majority.

Woodland Farm,
Wednesday Morning

Dear Jane,

At last I've found a moment to answer your very welcome letter.

That's as far as I got, when I heard a terrible noise in the kitchen, and rushing in, found that Bobby had pulled a pan of boiling water off the stove and scalded himself badly. Just imagine!—and I ten miles from the nearest doctor and no one here to help! Thank goodness Tom has always insisted upon keeping Zam-Buk in the house. The poor little chap was in such awful pain it was all I could do to hold him while I plastered the Zam-Buk on his arm and leg. Then I bound them up with strips torn from an old sheet, and now he's actually asleep! Could you believe it? I always knew Zam-Buk was good stuff, but I'd no idea it was so wonderful for ending pain. Whatever should I have done without it!

This started out to be a letter, but it sounds more like a testimonial for Zam-Buk! I'll send it off anyway, because I want to ask if you'll please send me half a dozen boxes of Zam-Buk as soon as you get this, as I have only enough for one more dressing.

Yours in haste,

Mary

Mothers! Take the hint! Never be without a box of Zam-Buk on the shelf. Not only for scalds, burns and cuts, but for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, blood-poisoning, piles, cold sores, etc. it is without equal. And it costs no more than ordinary ointments. 50c. box, all dealers.

INTERNATIONAL BOND ISSUE TO PAY NEW DEBTS

Suggestion By Sir George Paish, British Financier In U. S.

New York, Jan. 5.—Thirty-five billion dollars is needed for "re-starting and re-stocking" and "reconstructing" the devastated areas" of wartorn Europe, Sir George Paish, British financier, declared in an interview here.

To prevent a complete "breakdown in credit," he urged as a solution of the problem that all the members of the League of Nations pool their credits and promote an international bond issue.

The money from Germany in the form of reparation, which will come in slowly over a long period of years, Sir George said could be used to "help liquidate the new debt created by the international bond issue."

Asked how much of the obligation the United States Government should assume, he said that would necessarily be a matter of negotiation, but that he thought Great Britain would be willing to guarantee $5,000,000,000 of the international bonds, a sum about equal to her indebtedness to the United States Treasury at present. He explained that America would be assured payment through the bond issue.

ASK GOVERNMENT RETAIN CONTROL U. S. RAILWAY

Employes Looking for Wage Increases Urge Extension of Government Control

Washington, D.C., Dec. 31.—Federal control of railroads for an indefinite period beyond March 1st, the date set by President Wilson for their return to private owners, looms as a possibility.

As a result of the stand of railroad labor leaders, representing two million workers, in favor of Federal control for two years, railroad workers are expected within the next few days to renew pressure on the Railroad Administration.

Representatives of the railroad employes, after an all-day conference here, issued a declaration of principles, urging extension of government control and opposing the anti-strike provisions in the railroad bills now pending before conyress.

Demand Wage Increase

Railroad workers demanding increases number about 85 per cent of all railroad employes. Demands expected to be pressed this week include those of railroad shopmen, clerks and maintenance of way employes. Firemen, trainmen and conductors also have requests in for increases, but they will probably await the outcome of the other workers' demands. The engineers are not asking a raise, but any decision in the case of the other brotherhoods is expected to be followed by a further request from them. Wage increases demanded average from 15 to 20 cents an hour and, according to officials connected with the railroad administration, come close to half a billion dollars annually.

To Offer Suggestions

Labor, speaking through Samuel Gompers, within the next few days, is expected to submit to President Wilson's industrial commission a list of proposed changes in the tentative plan for settling capital-labor difficulties.

MONTREAL STAR BUCKS UNION BY NEWS WRITERS

To Pay Senior Men On Editorial Staff As Much As Mechanics

Montreal, Dec. 31. — The Montreal Star has ordered a lockout of all its union reporters and editors, to take effect New Year's Day. The lockout is announced in a letter to each member of the staff, signed by C. F. Crandall, manager-editor.

Mr. Crandall, after recapitulating the qualifications and the "special aptitude" necessary for a journalist, declares that on account of the duty owed to the public by newspapers, it is impossible to allow the news to be written or edited by men who are allied with any particular section of the community, in this case organized labor. Accordingly, he announces, no members of the Newswriters' union will be retained on the staff after the end of the year.

At the same time, he says, the senior men on the Star editorial staff, commencing with the new year, will be "paid at least as much as the mechanical staff."

LIEUT. BOAST SHOT BY ONE OF HIS PATROL PARTY

Verdict of Jury At Inquest Inquiry Into Death of Officer

Dublin, Dec. 31.—Lieutenant Boast, the officer of the guard, who met death in Sunday night's shooting affray near the Vice-Regal Lodge in Phoenix Park, was "accidentally killed by a bullet from his own patrol party," it was found by the jury at the inquest into the lieutenant's death held Monday.

Pte. Riddle testified that Kennedy drew an automatic pistol, with which he shot Lieut. Boast in the breast. The witness added that the corporal of the guard, one soldier and Kennedy fired at the same time. The lieutenant shouted: "They've got me."

Pte. Barnwell swore that Kennedy tried to catch Lieut. Boast by the throat. One of the soldiers, who went to the lieutenant's relief, said he saw a man lying on the ground. When he witness tried to turn his over, the man fired two shots at him, whereupon the witness shot him in the neck.

The stories of various military witnesses differed materially regarding detals of the affair. The testimony established, however, that no pistol was found on Kennedy's body or near the place where it lay.

The coroner, in summing up the evidence, emphasized that the fragments of the bullet which killed Lieut. Boast, produced in court, proved it was a military bullet.

MOORE AGAINST GENERAL STRIKE

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Premier Tom Moore of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress who has steadfastly refused to comment on the merits or demerits of the case of the Winnipeg strike leaders since the time of their imprisonment, when interviewed Tuesdy relaxed to the extent of expressing his strong disapproval of the proposal made by Alex. Ross, of Calgary, that organized labor stage a 48-hour general strike as a protest against R. B. Russell's two-year sentence, following his conviction on the charge of seditious conspiracy.

Mr. Moore, when interviewed flatly refused to comment on the sentence imposed on Russell, but when the Ross statement was drawn to his attention, he declared: "It is regrettable that any individual occupying a responsible position in the organized Labor movement should make such a statement. A general strike at any time is ill-advised and in this case it is particularly so."

AUSTRALIAN NATIONALISTS WIN ELECTION

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 31.—Returns received to date from Australian elections indicate that the Prime Minister, Wm. Hughes, has been returned to power with a large majority.

The party led by Mr. Hughes, which was a coalition formed with the slogan "Win the War" is known as the Nationalist party.

Although the returns are not yet complete, they are sufficient to indicate that the Nationalists secured 38 seats in the House of Representatives, as against 27 won by the Labor party. In addition ten members have been returned by the Farmers party and these are expected to support the Hughes group.

ASK G.N.R. TO RESTORE DAILY TRAIN SERVICE

Restoration of the daily train service on the Great Northern between Brandon and St. John, N.D., is one of the projects that the Board of Trade is working on. At the meeting of the Council of the Board, Tuesday night it was said that the Great Northern have restored other trains and that there should be a daily train service on this line. At present there are but three trains a week into Brandon. The present convenient hours of arrival and departure may be retained it is hoped. A committee is taking the question of the service up with railway officials in St. Paul.

The Board of Trade will help the Educational Association to popularize a series of lectures to be given by Brandon College professors during January, February and March. Lectures are to be on instructive topics.

Income Tax Office

Efforts are to be made to extend the scope of the Brandon office dealing with income tax. At present everything outside of the city of Brandon is centralized in Winnipeg and this plan does not make for efficiency, it is said. Communications are to be sent to Dr. Whidden, M.P., and the Department at Ottawa suggesting a policy of decentralization in the interests of efficiency.

A Permanent Secretary

Messrs. Willmott, Ames, McKenzie and the President were named a committee to make a recommendation regarding a permanent Secretary. Expression was given to the belief that the Board cannot achieve its highest usefulness unless there is an alert, aggressive Secretary devoting his whole time to the work.

In order to justify the employment of such an official there will have to be greater financial support given the Board. The Committee will give some time and thought to the various phases of this question.

Paying the Piper

Payment for the banquet tendered the National Editorial Association is a vexed question. A committee composed of the Mayor, several Aldermen, the President and a committee from the Board of Trade, and representatives from the Summer and Winter Fair Boards had the matter in hand. When the hotel presented the bill to the City Council a cheque was made out for half the amount and presented the hotel management with the suggestion that the Board of Trade should be looked to for the balance of payment. The hotel holds the city responsible and is pressing for payment. Messrs Ames and Secretary Blake were instructed to make the Board's position clear to the City Council.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade will be held on January 20th when reports of the year's work will be presented and the officers and Council for 1920 elected.

Monday evening the department managers at Nation & Shewan's Limited, entertained at dinner in the Prince Edward Hotel in honor of Mr. J. C. Ward, who leaves this week for Oshawa, Ont. Mr. N. E. Johnson, Secretary-Treasurer of the Company, presided and during the evening presented Mr Ward, on behalf of the managers with a gentleman's club bag fittings in ebony and silver, as a slight token of the esteem in which he is held by those present. Mr. Johnson assured the recipient that everyone hoped that he would have a very prosperous future. Mr. W. H. Elsie also gave a short address and voiced the sentiment of the others present by asking them to rise and drink to the health of Mr. and Mrs. Ward and family.

Mr. Ward feelingly responded, regretting that it is necessary for him to leave so many friends in Brandon and thanking the donors on behalf of Mrs Ward, for the cut glass set sent to her during the day. He also thanked them for the club bag set and for the pleasure of meeting them together at the dinner party.

For the past fourteen years Mr Ward has been a member of the staff of Nation & Shewan's Limited. During this time he has been most popular not only with the other members of the staff, but with the general public, who will very much regret his departure from the city. Together with Mr. W. A. Dewland of Portage la Prairie, Mr. Ward has purchased a dry goods store in Oshawa, Ont. He will be succeeded as department manager in Nation & Ehewan's by Mr. Robert Duff.

COUNCIL DISPOSES OF GREAT DEAL OF BUSINESS

In Last Session For This Year — Committee and Council Meeting

OBJECT TO EXEMPTION

From Taxation Which Is Afforded Creameries In This Province

There were very few outstanding features to the last session of the 1919 Council held Tuesday and with the committee and regular meetings combined the City Fathers rushed through the business in quick order.

In answer to the communications sent out some time ago to the various societies, two replies were received regarding the memorial question. A communication from the Trades and Labor Council of this city shows them to be in favor of a free hospital as a memorial to those who fell in the Great War. Their letter to the City Council is as follows: "That the memorial should be paid for by taxation by municipal levy and should take the form of a free hospital. Other municipalities using Brandon as a centre for hospital treatment to be invited to participate." No comment was made by the aldermen on the communication which was filed for the new Council to deal with. The School Board also wrote stating that they had nothing to suggest with regard to a memorial for the city, but that they were quite willing to meet the City Council and other bodies at any time to discuss the question.

Make Creameries Pay Taxes

That the law providing exemption of taxes on certain creamery building property in Manitoba has outlived its usefulness was the expression of opinion by the Council, Tuesday. Mr. Tungeland of the Tungeland Creamery Co. wrote asking for exemption of certain property, but the Council, after receiving a report from Mr. Bates stated that it had no power to grant further exemption on the property. The City Fathers then went on record as being in favor of general legislation to abolish the exemption given to creameries on their property in Manitoba.

Trans-Canada Flight

A letter was received from the Pacific Aerial Services at Vancouver stating that they were arranging a trans-Canada flight and asking this city if they could arrange suitable landing grounds here and put up a cash prize for the contestants. They stated that a moving picture operator would probably be taken along with the aviators and pictures would be taken of the district from the air. The City Council turned the matter over to Alderman McDiarmid to look after, and some arrangements will probably be made to have the aviators stop over in this city.

The Builders Iron Foundry wrote stating that a clerical error had been made in their quotation on a valve deck for the d'Auria pump at the Waterworks plant here. The price quoted by them, first by telegram and then by letter was $435 which they now say should be $535, a difference of $100. As the value deck has already been ordered, the Council decided to pay the extra $100. Alderman McKenzie stated that the Utilities Commission would probably recommend a change in the system and that any expenditure made now would be money wasted.

A letter from Dr. Peirce who has been acting as the city's bacteriologist was read reporting on the condition of the city water. Two samples were taken from the river intake and the city filter. The analysis showed no colon bacilli present although the facterial count is still high. This condition is due to the low water condition of the river at the present time, reported the bacteriologist.

For Big Convention

There was some discussion over the accommodation to be afforded the Grain Growers when they meet here early in next month, and some doubt was expressed at the City Hall being able to take care of all the delegates expected here for the convention. A committee looked into the matter several days ago and as a result it has been suggested that the Gordon McKay building be used and special arrangements made to seat large gatherings. However nothing definite was done to secure the McKay building until the Grain Growers have made a report to the special committee from the City Council which is handling the accommodation question.

Wm. McFadden of Antler, Sask., wrote asking the city to sell him the east half of section 6-5-7 W. which property the city owns near Miami. The price quoted was $5,000 but the City expressed it's unwillingness to sell half the section.

The report of Judge Cumberland on the mayoralty recount was read and filed.

The Council is willing to co-operate with the Board of Trade in arranging a meeting with Mr. Sweating, C.P.R. Industrial Commissioner, with a view to bringing some more industrial concerns here, and the dates of the meeting have been left to the Board of Trade to decide.

J. J. Clegg and M. Varcoe wrote the Council asking for a refund of a portion of the license fee paid by them for the year 1919 for employment offices. As they were forced to close their offices on August first, the City Fathers decided that it was quite proper that the fee for the last five months of 1919 should be returned.

Anxious to clean up the water arrears still outstanding against the Fair Board, a committee composed of Mayor McDiarmid and Aldermen Coleman and Curran were given full power to act in the matter and finally close up the long standing account.

The Council also asked City Engineer Smith to make a report on the installation of sewer and water to the McLaren School.

Two bylaws, one authorizing the borrowing of $175,000 from the Bank and the other for the raising of $10,000 to be used in the new park, were passed by the Council.

When the business of the Council had been finally disposed of Mayor McDiarmid rose and read an address to City Clerk Brown after which he presented the Clerk with a set of Dunhill pipes and an ash tray. Mr. Brown was taken by surprise, but very suitably replied to His Worship, thanking the Council for their gift and stating that he hoped at all times to deserve the confidence of the Council.

The Address

The address presented to Mr. Brown was as follows:

Harry Brown, Esq.,
City Clerk.—

For a period of thirteen years you have occupied the position of City Clerk in Brandon and during that time councils from year to year have profited by the ever increasing store of knowledge of civic affairs and municipal law and government, which your capable mind and retentive memory have imbibed and held until at the present time, Brandon Council is proud of it's City Clerk not only by reason of your knowledge along your particular line, but because of the unfailing courtesy and kindliness which marks your dealings with the public and your more intimate association with the members of this Board.

This last year has been a strenuous one for us all, and there is not a member of the Council who has not on occasion looked to you for guidance and assistance out of the plentitude of your civic knowledge, and we have never looked in vain.

At this closing session of the Council of 1919 we desire to place on record for the public generally and also personally for ourselves an appreciation of your invaluable services so generously rendered.

Will you accept the accompanying memtos of our affectionate regard and we earnestly trust that ensuing Councils may for many years to come continue to have the assistance of your talents in carrying on the city's business.

We wish you and Mrs. Brown all the compliments of the season and a very happy New Year.

Retiring Mayor as Host

His Worship Mayor McDiarmid, who retires as chief executive of the city, was the host to the members of the City Council Tuesday night at a dinner held at his home, corner of Third street and Victoria avenue. All the members of the Council were present with the exception of Aldermen Bourke and Shewan, who are at present out of the city, while Mayor-elect Dinsdale, City Clerk Brown and W. H. Bates were also guests at the dinner. After supper had been served, several addresses were made. Alderman Coleman voiced the sentiments of the Council in a short speech in which he praised the work of the retiring Mayor and telling of the splendid way in which he had looked after the city's affairs. City Clerk Brown spoke for the City Hall staff and stated that the regime of Mayor McDiarmid had left nothing to be desired His Worship suitably replied and told of the pleasant relationship that had always existed between himself and the Council.

The evening resolved itself then into a smoker and the party broke up at a late hour after voting the retiring Mayor an admirable host as well as a capable mayor.

TEACHERS WANT EQUALIZATION OF SALARIES

Winnipeg, Dec. 31.—The movement to link up Manitoba teachers with teachers in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, into a Western Canada Teachers' Federation was started at the opening session of the Manitoba Teachers' Federation held in the Board of Trade Hall.

The aims of the movement are uniformity of qualified teachers, a common minimum of $1,200 a year, mutual support for the adjustment of grievances in any of the Western Provinces and co-ordination in all other respects.

Report on Conference

E. K. Marshall, who was appointed to represent Manitoba in the conference of Western representatives in Winnipeg, October 21st, read a report of the meeting.

Recommendations set forth in the report will be discussed at a later session. No opposition to the Manitoba Federation throwing in its lot with the wider organization, is expected.

A final step in the provincial organization was effected when the convention decided to seek incorporation at the next session of the Legislature.

Revision of the salary schedule by the Winnipeg East Kildonan, Norwood and other school boards was termed a "substantial improvement" on previous conditions, by H. W. Huntley, in the course of the presidential report. He urged a board or arbitration to settle difficulties between school boards and teachers, the appointment of a travelling secretary to strengthen the provincial organization and the raising of the number of teachers on the educational advisory board.

The report showed a membership of 1,500 in the province and a balance of more than $2,000 on hand.

E. K. Marshall declared that the press and public opinion was largely in favor of better salary and working conditions for teachers.

PREMIER WANTS TO SECURE A COMPLETE REST

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—There will be no public farewell to Sir Robert Borden when he leaves the capital in search of health and renewed strength shortly after New Year's Day. His departure will be as free from ostentation as possible owing to the fact that the Premier desires that neither the time of his departure nor his destination be known. So far as it is possible he wants to travel and to holiday incognito.

There is no doubt that a trip to South Africa with Admiral Jellicoe has been in contemplation, but it is stated that the admiral's plans for the immediate future are not yet decided upon and he may not go direct to South Africa. After all, the trip itself might go very far toward improving the Premier's health, and in South Africa he would be free from that class of individual who will pay the expense of a letter or telegram but who would balk at a cable.

FIFTY THREE MILLIONS IN LOANS

On December 6th the Soldier Settlement Board had approved loans amounting to $53,171,521. The number of returned soldiers qualified was 33,136.

TIRED OF WEARY ROUND WORKER ENDS HIS LIFE

For Fifteen Years He Rose At 5 a.m. and Did Weary Round of Chores

Winnipeg, Dec. 31. — Tired of the routine in his life—a dull round of working, eating and sleeping—John Katuska, 55 years old, 1033 Burrows avenue, Monday put a noose around his neck and passed beyond the region of routine. He was found dead by Weston police shortly before noon, his body hanging to the rafters of the stable on the dairy farm on the outskirts of Winnipeg where he was employed.

"A clear case of suicide," was the verdict of Weston police and Coroner B. J. McConnell, after an investigation.

Katuska had grown tired of living, he frequently told his employers and friends. His life's work since he was 15 years old consisted of rising at five o'clock every morning, feeding cattle, and doing other farm chores. He had worked on the Weston dairy farm for several years as a chore hand. His pay was $6 a month and his keep. He had planned for several weeks to end his life, police found, and had been brooding continuously.

Katuska had been hanging in the barn several hours. His body was cold and lifeless, when police and several dairy hands discovered it in the barn.

WHAT WILL BE SAID ABOUT THE DEFENCE OF KUT?

General Sir Charles Townsend Would Like To Live Long Enough To Know

Speaking at Newport, England, at a fete organized by the Comrades of the Great War, General Sir Charles Townsend said that he wished he could live long enough to see what history would have to say about the defence of Kut. He was ordered to go forward with a handful of men. Instead of having 16,000 men at his disposal he should have had 115,000. He had warned the authorities of what might happen if he was asked to go on with only a limited number of effectives, but after having given the warning his duty was done. Any orders he received afterward had to be carried out. With a sufficient number of men he could have guaranteed not only to take Bagdad, but also to hold it. The Turkish army could have been thrown into the river. He very nearly accomplished that as it was, but under the circumstances which hampered him, if Bagdad had been taken it would have had to be evacuated the next day. He had found almost as many enemies when he came home as he had beaten in the field. He decided to halt at that place (Kut) to give the Government time to send out more troops from overseas, but without the necessary number of troops he was forced to surrender. Owing to starvation men were dying at the rate of 26 a day, dying of hunger, but at the same time, he remarked proudly: "I did not surrender even then until I was ordered to do so, and told that no relief could be sent to me."

MATSQUI TRAINING STATION

The Soldier Settlement Board of Canada has purchased the farm of the Hygienic Co. at Matsqui, B.C., and has established a station where prospective soldier-settlers will gain further practical experience before taking up farms of their own.

The Board has purchased a herd of thirty cattle and other livestock, and installed the necessary farm equipment. The Farm comprises 510 acres in the Fraser Valley, about 50 miles from Vancouver. About fifty soldier settlers will have quarters there while training.

NO ROYAL ROAD

The other day a Pennsylvania express train bound for New York stopped not long after it left Philadelphia. Some of the passengers, becoming restive at the delay, climbed out to see what it was about, and they found the engine crew trying to make repairs on the engine and not making much headway because the job puzzled them.

From the crowd of passengers stepped out a prosperous looking citizen.

"Give me a hammer," he said, "and I will fix that for you."

Without bothering to put on overalls, he went to work and in a short time had the engine back in running condition. The passengers returned to their coaches and the engine crew to its cab, and the train went on to New York.

"Who was that fellow?" asked a passenger.

"That was Sam Vauclain," replied another.

The volunteer engine mender was the President of the Baldwin Locomotive works at Philadelphia. He worked in the shops, where he learned his trade, and step by step he came up from the ranks to the command of the greatest locomotive-making plant in the world.

Men who rise as this man rose, are not the ones that try to get by with as little work as they can exchange for wages. They do not necessarily rely on union rules to protect them in their earnings. Though they have an astute eye on their earnings, it is not because they dream of making everybody rich without work, but on they climb from where they are to the top of the ladder. That climb they plan to make by their own efforts. Here and there favoritism fills a soft job; but jobs so gained do not as a rule last long. In every successful industrial organization the big jobs are filled by men who have earned them and who in most cases have worked their way up to them from the bottom.

A GREAT CANADIAN

Sir William Osler, whose death was recorded this week, was one of the great men which Canada has given to the world. He was born in the province of Ontario and grew to be the most distinguished of four distinguished sons of a famous mother.

At the commemoration day exercises of John Hopkins University, Baltimore, in 1905, Dr. Osler delivered an address during the course of which he spoke of "the comparative uselessness of men above forty years of age." The words spoken without thought of the intrepretation and emphasis that might be laid upon them, passed around the world in every conceivable garbled form. He was widely quoted as having said in effect that men past that age were of no value in the process of humanity and that men who reached the age of sixty should be chloroformed.

For a considerable time after the misrepresentations were sent broadcast, Dr. Osler, then professor of medicine at John Hopkins University, remained silent. Then he issued a statement in which he declared:

"I did not say men at sixty should be chloroformed. That was the point in the novel to which I referred and upon which the plot hinged."

The novel in question was: "The Fixed Period," written by Anthony Trollope in 1882.

In reply to criticism by press and public, Dr. Osler said: "The criticisms have not shaken my convictions that the telling work of the world has been done and is done by men under forty years of age. The exceptions which have been given only illustrate the rule.

"It would be to the general good if men at sixty were retired from active work. We should miss the energies of some old-young men, but, on the whole, it would be of greater service to the sexagenria themselves."

Sir William Osler, however, did not follow the rule he advocated. He remained in active work until the close of his life, the allotted three score years and ten.

The late Sir William Osler received his degree in medicine from McGill University in 1872. Within a very few years he became an accepted authority on medical science. His strong point was skill in diagnosis and his profound knowledge of all the parts and functions of the human body.

No small part of Dr. Osler's claim to greatness was due to his directing influence upon the lives of others. His precepts were broad and sound. Thousands of young men from many parts of the world heard his lectures or read his writings. Above all he urged work, so that the temptations of early or later years might be avoided. To the young he said: "There are other altars than that of Venus, on which to light your fires, O' young man—work, incessant, hard, earnest work."

In the year 1905, at the age of fifty-six, Dr. Osler, then serving in John Hopkins University as professor of medicine, was called to Oxford University. There as regius professor of medicine, he occupied the highest post in the bestowal of British institutions of learning. For his great services in medicine he was knighted and created a baronet by King George at his coronation in 1911. During the war he rendered great services to the empire as organizer and counsellor. He died in harness while helping the concerted movement to bring British medical education to the highest degree of thoroughness.

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

The twenty-five per cent. increase in freight and passenger rates sanctioned by the Railway Commission and authorized by Order-in-Council, August 12th, 1918, expired automatically December 31st, 1919. An order has been issued by the Railway Commission continuing it indefinitely.

In news dispatches this announcement was coupled with information that the advance in railway wages caused by the application to Canada of the McAdoo award caused an increased expenditure on the part of Canadian railways of about eighty-two million dollars yearly. It was further stated that the advanced rates the companies were permitted to charge, augmented their revenues by about forty million dollars. The problem of meeting this deficit is to come before the Railway Commission.

Presumably, the problem will be presented the Railway Commission in the form of an application for further increased freight and passenger rates.

Association of information of this sort in a news dispatch indicates that representatives of the railway companies seized the opportunity for presenting their case. No doubt they thought it wise to supply the news gatherer with information concerning the alleged failure of the increased rates to supply sufficient revenues. Otherwise the Canadian people might come to the conclusion that they had been generously dealt with. The news item appears to be a clever piece of propaganda.

Canadians generally will be slow to accept the inference that the railways need another increase in rates. The increase in freight rates was the beginning of a series of increases in the cost of living that has been rightly denounced from one end of Canada to another. Freight and passenger rates affect the cost of living tremendously. A determined effort is being made to lower the costs. How can this be done if there are increases permitted in all lines of staple commodities as would undoubtedly be the case if transportation costs are advanced.

The Canadian people may very well ask the railway companies to give some attention first to other methods of increasing earnings and then to lowering operating and other costs. An increase in transportation rates is not to be seriously thought of at this time.

PHYSICAL TRAINING IN SCHOOLS

In some quarters there is a fear that an attempt is being made to introduce military training for Canadian youths. In other quarters where there is no genuine fear of such measures, opponents of the introduction of physical drill into the schools, are attempting to create such a bogey so as to impede the efforts made by others to introduce the elements of physical training into the schools.

There is one lesson the war has taught us and that is that in spite of our boasted efficiency and stamina, as a nation, we come very far below the standard of physical excellence of which we are easily capable. Boys and girls attain manhood and womanhood stunted in body and brain because of lack of attention to the most trivial things. Tendencies, easily corrected in youth may cause imperfections impossible of eradication in after life.

Child welfare stations, home and school nurses are being engaged for the purpose of pointing out these easily corrected defects and a well thought out program of physical training introduced into the schools is a secondary step to physical well-being that is as necessary as it is logical.

The Brandon School Board is advertising abroad for an instructor. Haphazard inquiries made by some of the members having failed to bring to their attention a sufficient number of candidates in this city from which to make a selection, they have caused advertisements to be inserted in papers in Eastern centres. The really qualified men who may be in this district of whom the Board members of that particular committee have not heard, are thus at a disadvantage. This form of search abroad before the home field has been thoroughly gone over is poor business and a fruitful cause of dissatisfaction.

RESPONSIBILITIES MUST BE FACED

The Farmers' Sun published at Toronto is the official organ of the United Farmers' of Ontario, and claims to be published in the interests of the farmer and his neighbor. A recent issue contains an attack on what it claims is an effort to introduce universal military training. It says: "No matter what form the movement may take— military drill in the schools, the training of the youth of the country in rifle shooting, or an annual period in camp of all the young men of the country, that movement is fraught with evil and only evil. . . . There is no power outside of this continent capable of doing Canada serious harm. . . . What then are we to prepare for? To take part in another European war for which the seeds have already been sown? If the nations of Europe cannot, after the awful experiences that have occurred since 1914, agree to live in peace with each other, then let European nations themselves pay the penalty. In fighting one war to end war Canada has done her share and more than her share in that sort of experiment to ensure world peace."

The introduction of militarism is indeed to be feared, but there are other things even more to be feared. The Farmers' Sun bases its argument against any form of military training on a false assumption. It infers that the guilt for the last war rests on others besides the Germans. It entirely overlooks the fact that if a big bully of a nation attacks another nation that either the one attacked has to yield all the bully demands—or fight the bully. If one nation prepares for war its neighbors must likewise prepare or be ready to accept lying down anything the aggressive one demands.

There is one big lesson taught by the late war that the Farmers' Sun entirely overlooks in its contention that Canada need have no fear of attack because of a war in Europe, and that is, that one swaggering bully waging war in Europe involves the whole world in the struggle. We can like the ostrich bury our heads in the sand, but this will not save us from war if the other fellow is bent on fighting. Where are the red-blooded men of Canada? Numbered among them are very many indeed of the United Farmers. Are they prepared to stand idly by, provided Germanized Russia attempts what Germany failed to do—to enslave the world? Certainly not!

There are loyal Canadians who desire the introduction of the military spirit into Canada. This country, however, should be a unit in demanding that a small but efficient permanent staff be engaged on the study of the science of warfare and that the rising generations of Canadians be not instructed in military tactics, but so live as to grow up in sound bodies, as near physical perfection as a race may be, so that in case of danger being thrust upon us they may be speedily fitted to face a foe. An ostrich-like policy is an invitation to robber nations to do their worst, while this form of preparedness is insurance against attack.

The spirit, loyalty and independence of Canadian farmers is not happily expressed by the Farmers' Sun. It breathes a very different spirit to what the farmers' sons did in France and would do again if necessary.

SHIPPING OUT THE BOLSHEVIKI

United States methods of dealing with undesirable citizens of foreign birth are likely to prove highly successful. Raids are made on Red centres and the whole catch gathered in. Examination and identification later result in the liberation of some and the holding of others in custody. When sufficient have been gathered in on whom they have the goods, another "Soviet Ark," or series of arks, will sail away taking the disturbers of the peace, the plotters to overthrow the United States Government, back to the lands from whence they came.

The methods are likely to be highly successful as far as the foreign-born non-citizens are concerned but what is to be done with the Bergers and other undesirables claiming all the privileges, but refusing the obligations of citizenship? Apparently the American plan is first to deal with the foreigners within the gates and then tackle the other problem.

It is a sensible enough plan too and one that must be causing consternation among the foreign born Reds. They are prone enough to make trouble for the United States, but the last thing in the world they want is to be sent back to the gutters from whence the majority of them sprang. Russia is the Bolshevik paradise, surely a good place to send the Bolsheviks.

EARTHQUAKE IN MEXICO CAUSES DEATHS AND LOSS

Mexico City, Jan. 5.—Five states were shaken by the earthquake, which on Saturday night destroyed at least two villages and caused many deaths in the state of Vera Cruz. The states were Mexico, Puebla, Vera Cruz, Caxaca, Guellele, Morelos, Jalisco, Tlaxcala, Sidalgo and Queeretaro. They stretch from the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in a Northwesterly direction, a distance of nearly 500 miles, and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific. The reports indicate that the centre of the seismic convulsion was in the neighborhood of Mount Orizaba, a volcano situated about seventy miles West of Vera Cruz, on the line between the states of Vera Cruz and Puebla. It was in this neighborhood that the most serious damage was done. Teocelo, a village thirty-five miles North-west of the volcano, has been virtually destroyed and a similar fate befell Couztlan, a small village in that neighborhood. Wires have been torn down by the violence of the tremor, and only fragmentory reports reached this city, but it is said there were many casualties in both towns.

Mexico City, Jan. 5—Scores of persons have been killed in a violent earthquake which occurred in many parts of Mexico Saturday night. The centre of the disturbance is believed to have been near the volcano of Orizaba. Incomplete press reports indicate that the state of Vera Cruz suffered more than any other section, although seismic disturbances were felt throughout the entire republic.

Advices from Cordoba say that 30 dead have already been accounted for in the village of San Juan Coscomatepic, where many houses were destroyed. There are unconfirmed reports of a similar catastrophe in the village of Huatusco.

At Jalapa, farther North, 50 victims of the earthquake have been counted, including numerous dead.

Lack of communication with the other small towns and villages in the theatre of the disturbance makes even approximate estimates of the casualties impossible.

The earthquake caused great alarm in the large cities. Marine disturbances have occurred off Vera Cruz, and there were some casualties there, although the number is not known, with terrible destruction of property.

Felt by Seismograph

Washington, Jan. 5.—The very pronounced earthquake lasting almost an hour and believed to have been centred somewhere in Mexico, was recorded by the Georgetown University Seismological Observatory during Saturday night. The disturbance began at 11.28 o'clock and continued until 12.21 o'clock. It was centered within 1,900 miles of Washington.

Felt at Dalhousie

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 5.—The seismograph in the physics laboratory of Dalhousie University, registered an earthquake on Saturday night lasting from 25 to 30 minutes.

TRADE CREDITS NOW SUBJECT OF NEGOTIATIONS

Ottawa, Jan. 5. — Approximately sixty million dollars in trade credits are now subject to negotiation between the Dominion and France, Belgium, Greece and Roumania. One hundred million dollars in credits were originally provided by the Dominion Government—$25,000,000 to each of the four countries mentioned. They were granted for the year 1919 and in the ordinary course of things the unused portions would expire on December 31st. Of the credit of $25,000,000 provided in each case, Roumania has used the major part; Greece about $4,000,000, France about $6,000,000 and Belgium about $2,000,000. In all, nearly $40,000,000 has been used.

Up to the present, however, the Dominion Government has not been notified that any of the four desire a renewal.

MASSACRES OF CHRISTIANS IN TURKEY

Saloniki, Jan. 5.—Attacks on Christian populations in Turkey, especially in Thrace, continue, while the Turks discuss their possible fate at the Peace Conference in Paris, according to dispatches received here by way of Constantinople.

At Tchatalja the Greeks are reported to have formed a sort of militia for the purpose of repulsing bandits.

The murder of a Christian is said to have occurred at Ermenikeuy. Eight cases of pillage are reported at Palamout, one at Voucrouza and two at Tchiftlockeuy.

Peasants have resisted an attack of a band of Turks at Callio.

SIR SAM HUGHES' FAULT FINDING

Lindsay, Ont., Jan. 5. — Sir Sam Hughes addressed the Great War Veterans here Sunday afternoon. He found fault with the Dominion Government for not having investigated the pension matter more fully. Many a soldier had returned to Canada unwounded but suffering to such an extent that he was unfit to resume his former occupation, Sir Sam said, yet this feature had been neglected by the Government and the Pensions Board. The Pension Board needed a shaking up, he said. The criticism of the Government by Sir Sam was that it had failed to develop the natural resources of the country and open up opportunities for the soldiers. He referred to the great undeveloped resources of the Peace River district and New Ontario and said it was "time we turned faces to the North and our back to the South."

Sir Sam urged the formation of airial squads to survey different parts of the Peace River district. He said they could do this work in one year, whereas it would take many years to do the surveying by any other method. Great development of the North was predicted by Sir Sam, who said hundreds of cities would spring up, greater than Edmonton, Saskatoon or Regina, with great opportunities for the soldiers.

SINN FEINERS RAID BARRACKS CARRINGTON HILL

London, Jan. 5.—Three hundred Sinn-Feiners attacked the police barracks at Carrington Hill at ten o'clock Saturday night, according to a dispatch to the Central News from Cork. The attacking forces fired volleys for three hours and then blew up the end of the building with bombs. Its occupants were made prisoners, while the raiders looted the barracks.

The barracks was occupied by a sergeant and five contables, who returned the raiders' fire. Finding eventually that they were unable to gain an entrance, the raiders threw bombs, entered the breach made in the building and seized and handcuffed the policemen. They searched the buildings, removing the arms, ammunition, accoutrements and money. They then held a council as to the disposal of the police, and decided to leave them bound, but threatened that if an attempt was made to repair the building, they would return and complete its destruction.

The raiders decamped after cutting the telephone communications, but police assistance finally arrived from Cork. It was found that none of the policemen were hurt. The sergeant's wife and family were also in the barracks uninjured.

Dispatch from Cork

An Exchange Telegraph from Cork says:

"A further sensational outrage is reported from the Cork district. The police barracks was blown up, the police sergeant and his family having a miraculous escape, the explosives have been found placed in an adjoining stable.

"Some time prior to the attack on the barracks, large numbers of bicyclists and motorists were seen converging upon the village of Carrington Hill, eight miles from Cork. They had no lights, and when challenged by the police patrols escaped into the neighboring fields. The patrols, apprehensive, returned to their quarters and found that the wire communications with the surrounding towns had been cut. They managed, however, to get news to Midleton that something startling was afoot, and armed police were dispatched to the rescue."

Confirmed by Press

London, Jan. 5.—The Press association confirms the main outlines of the Cork story, but says that one hundred men were engaged. Minor attacks on the police barracks also continued Saturday night at Inchgeelagh and South Kilmury. The wires were cut in both instances, but nobody was injured.

Taxi Held Up

Belfast, Jan. 5.—Twelve masked men held up a taxicab Sunday afternoon at Glenroad, a suburb of Belfast, and compelled the occupants by threats with revolvers to drive them to Hannahstown, three miles away. They were then allowed to return to Belfast.

Sinn Fein Vigilance Work

London, Monday, Jan. 5.—The Sinn Feiners in some districts of Western Ireland have formed vigilance committees to maintain order and suppress violence, according to the Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent, and are policing certain areas with energy and success.

"The committees," says the correspondent, "are particularly intolerant of such crimes as shooting through windows, burning ricks, and maiming cattle, and the night patrols organized by peasant farmers when they seize offenders inflict severe punishment on them."

U. S CONGRESS RESUMES SITTINGS

Washington, Jan. 5.—Congress met promptly at noon today after two weeks recess over the holidays, with the Treaty of Versailles still the foremost of the great array of subjects with which the national law makers were expected to deal before adjournment, probably just before the Presidential election, next November.

London, Dec. 31.—Sir Adam Beck is seriously ill at a nursing home here. He became ill during his recent voyage, pneumonia following and he is now approaching a crisis. Lady Beck, who is with her husband, said he came over on a surprise Christmas visit.

GATHERING EVIDENCE REGARDING TREATMENT

C. F. Inches, K.C., of St. John, N.B., who is Crown Prosecutor for that place, was in the city on Tuesday gathering evidence in a case which is now before a Royal Commission in Ottawa. Last January, thirteen deaths occurred from flu on board the Scandinavian while that ship was crossing from Liverpool to S. John. The wives of two Brandon en, Police Constable H. Rosenberg, and James Drennan, were returning but had the misfortune to fall victim to the disease, and die in the St. John Hospital. An investigation was commenced later as it is alleged that there was some negligence in the medical attention supplied at the time, and Mr. Inches is now going through Canada gathering evidence from the persons on board the ship at the time.

Over four thousand sheets of evidence has now been taken, it is said, and much more evidence was added to it on Tuesday when Mr. Inches interviewed both Mr. Drennan and Mr. Rosenberg. The Crown Prosecutor left Tuesday night for the West.

ANNOUNCE AN INCREASE IN FREIGHT RATES

London, Jan. 2.—Increases in railway freight rates, announced here, intended to produce fifty millions yearly and thereby make the railroads self-supporting, create little surprise, for they have long been anticipated. Early in 1917 the Government increased passenger fares fully fifty per cent., a preliminary as a war measure to reduce unnecessary travelling, but which failed to achieve the main purpose, although it did maintain railway revenue. There were many who then asserted that the case for raising the freight rates was equally strong. Failure to do so involved the country in certain economic difficulties.

Critics Are Heard

Critics assert that the present increase is insufficient. With these criticisms, there are also apprehensions as to the effect the raise will have on the cost of living. Coal will most certainly go up, but as regards many consignments sent in bulk, it is maintained that higher rates will not justify greater retail charges, seeing that they will mean fractional increases only on each article.

One effect has been to quicken activity in the home rail share market, which already shows signs of resuscitation after a long stagnation.

FEW APPLICANTS FALSIFY RETURNS IN ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN SMALL GRANTS

Hamilton, Jan. 2.—That a few applicants had falsified their declaration in order to obtain grants from Canada's $40,000,000 Emergency Fund for unemployed veterans and that the local committee was considering the advisability of instituting police court proceedings against such men was the inference handed out at the Hamilton office of the Canadian Patriotic Fund. It was said that investigation had disclosed cases where men in recept of pensions, gratuity, etc, had denied such allowances when completing the necessary forms.

PREDICTED MINUTE HE WOULD DIE — MADE GOOD FORECAST

Hornell, N.Y., Jan. 3.—Henry A. Pratt, retired business man, called his niece to his bedside early Tuesday morning and dictated a notice of his death for the local newspapers, giving 8.45 o'clock as the hour of death. Promptly to the minute he passed away. He was 88 years old. He had previously selected his own coffin and arranged with the undertaker to bury him.

PROHIBITION AS IT IS IN QUEBEC DOES NOT REDUCE ALCOHOLISM

Montreal, Dec. 31.—Prohibition has made no decrease in the number of cases of alcoholism that are admitted to the hospitals here for treatment, according to the information secured by a canvass. Three of the institutions stated that the expected decrease in cases has certainly not been evident in their wards, and the fourth, the Notre Dame hospital, while showing a slight decrease in the number of drink patients, stated that the decrease was more than made up by the number of "dope" patients which were brought in for treatment, and also a number suffering from the effects of wood alcohol poisoning.

BOARD ORDERS REDUCTION IN PRICE OF MILK

Sold in Winnipeg to Fifteen Cents a Quart—To Take Effect at Once

Winnipeg, Jan. 2.—Immediate reduction in the price of milk in Winnipeg has been ordered by the Board of Commerce of Canada. The order, is now effective, and sets the price of milk at 15 cents a quart and eight cents a pint, a reduction of one cent in each case. The sale of milk above this price, the order states, "will until further notic be deemed to include unfair profits."

The order includes all vendors of milk in the city and is applicable to any person selling or distributing milk. The order is signed by Commissioners W. J. O'Connor and Jas. Murdock.

Violators of the order may be prosecuted by order of the Board, under sections 18 of the Combines and Fair Prices Act, 1919.

The management of the Crescent Creamery Company were in consultation in regard to the order. No statement was issued and J. M. Carruthers, manager, refused to state the probable action of the company. He would, he said, issue a statement as soon as possible.

City Dairy to Comply

Max Steinkopf, manager of the City Dairy Company, stated that his Company would immediately comply with the order of the Board. The order, he said, would mean that the milk companies would be forced to reduce their prices to the farmer. "We cannot lower our prices and continue to pay what we are paying for the milk. The farmers are at the present time discontented with what they are receiving. I am not saying that there will be trouble, but it is quite possible that they may refuse to supply us with milk. In that case the public will suffer," he declared.

Board's Order

The order of the Board is as follows:

1. "That sales of milk (other than 'certified milk,' as now known and recognized), whether pasteurized or other, hereafter made within the City of Winnipeg, at a price greater than fifteen cents per quart or eight cents per pint, will, until the further order of the Board, be deemed by it to include unfair profits.

2. "That the Crescent Creamery Company, Ltd., an incorporated company, having its head office at Winnipeg aforesaid, the City Dairy Company, Ltd., an incorporated company having its head office at Winnipeg, aforesaid, their, and each of their directors, officers, agents and servants, and as well, all other persons selling or distributing, or who may hereafter sell or distribute, milk within the said City of Winnipeg, and the agents and servants of such and of each of such other persons, are and each of them is, until the further order of this Board, restrained and prohibited from selling or distributing milk at prices which this order declares will be deemed to include unfair profits, to wit, at prices exceeding those in the immediate preceding paragraph hereof mentioned."

ROYAL EGYPTIAN HAD JEWELS AND RARE ADORNMENT

New York, Jan 2.—Jewelry worn by an Egyptian princess of the Twelfth Dynasty, 1,900 years before the Christian era, is displayed at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The collection is called the finest of personal adornment ever brought out of Egypt.

When marauders entered the tomb of Princess Sathatoriunut at some odd moment in the last 3,800 years, they took away her mummy and even the elaborate funeral trappings, but overlooked a niche containing the wonderfully wrought ornaments she wore when attending the ancient equivalent for a first night at the opera.

Prof. W. M. Flinders Petrie, at the head of an English archaeological society, dug the collection out in 1914, and today it looks as bright as if it had just come from the makers. It consists of a gold necklace inlaid with a carnelian, lapis lazuli and green feldspar and another pectoral, similarly made, of King Senusert II., father of the princess; a gold colar of double lion heads, a girdle of gold with rhombic jewelled heads, a necklace of amethyst with gold lion claw pendants, armlets and bracelets with gold bars and bands of gold, carnelian and turquoise; and parts of the princess' jewel box made of ebony with [illegible] and carved ivory panels.

DOG RACES BRING OUT RECORD ENTRY NEW YEAR'S DAY

Cold Weather Does Not Cool Enthusiasm of Boys and Girls For Sport

33 CONTESTANTS

Entered in Eight Races Provided Rare Sport For Every-Body

Typical New Year's Day weather with the thermometer hanging around twenty below zero did not stop the younger population of Brandon from turning out to see the dog races on Ninth street. The Weather Man did not furnish weather which was satisfactory for a large number of spectators, and the races were not as largely attended as in previous years. However the boys and girls came out en masse to cheer on their favorites and a great morning's sport featured the coming of the New Year.

Thirty-three entries were lined up in eight dog races, and this easily sets a record for the number of contestants appearing for the annual sport. The races as usual furnished barrels of fun. Many a contestant saw first prize slip out of his hand within a few yards from the finish, when his dog would make a dive for another canine. Sometimes it was the best fighter and not the best runner that won the dog races, but very often it was the lone dog that disdained to fight but took the side lines that slipped over the finish line in first place with a proud driver encouraging him. There was plenty of fun for all and the close finishes of several races made the program very exciting.

Ernest Wilson carried off the lion's share of the prizes with his dog "Chum." "Chum" would rather run than fight and young Wilson was carried over the finish line three times a winner. He won his heat in the Open Race, and then came back to win the Open Championship. He followed this up with a victory in the Novelty Event which required the driver to stand on his sleigh, and by this triple victory took away some valuable prizes. The long distance race saw the dogs driven by John Belascuk and Gordon Barnwell furnish a great finish with the judges deciding in favor of the first named. Roy Mason made the winners hustle all the way in this race, and then turned around and easily won the Consolation event with his dog "Snookie."

George Mansoff had the only "Huskie" dog entered but it wanted to fight rather than race, and consequently he had a hard time managing it. In the event which required a driver to run along side of his dog, the Huskie was handled by a man, and when Mansoff landed home a winner he was disqualified, but given a special prize for showing the speed to the other entries.

The boys and girls foot races furnished all sorts of competition and none of the races lacked entries. The slippery road made the running hard, but some close finishes enlivened the sport considerably. The committee in charge of the morning's fun secured so many prizes that not only did the prize winners secure awards, but every boy or girl who had a dog entered in the races was given something. Besides this three boxes of apples and about 200 bars of candy were distributed to the boys and girls.

Great credit is due the various officials for their work in running off the races according to schedule and making the morning's sport so successful for everyone. The policing of the course by the Mounties was also admirably carried out.

The following is the list of the prize winners:

CANADIANS TURN FROM WAR TO PEACE

A Total of 838,000 Members of Canadian Expeditionary Force Working Hard

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Since the armistice 272,527 officers and men have been repatriated from overseas. Prior to the armistice, 65,600 officers and men had been returned to Canada and demobilized. This is a total of 338,000 members of the Canadian Expeditionary force who have been turned back into civilian occupations. It does not include the large force of men who were enrolled in the army and did not get overseas previous to armistice day.

Of the 338,000 returned officers and men, 44,278 have applied to the Soldier Settlement Board for qualification certificates, to enable them to take up land and secure the benefits of the soldier settlement act. The number of applications approved at the close of the year was 33,496.

The district offices of the board, especially in the Western provinces, have been busy answering inquiries and taking care of the steady stream of ex-service men who are looking for suitable land and making the necessary preparations to apply for loans. A great rush is expected in the early Spring, when several Indian and forest reserves will be opened for entry.

NEARLY MILLION HUN WARRIORS

According To Peace Treaty There Can Only Be 100,000 Fighters

London, Jan. 2.—Germany's armed forces are estimated by the British War Office to total close to a million men. These are divided into the regular army of 400,000; the land forces of the regular navy; the armed constabulary, 40,000 to 50,000; the temporary volunteers or regular army reserves, 150,00 to 200,000; civic guards, 300,000 to 4000,000.

The figures with regard to the last named branches are rough estimates, the exact totals being unknown.

Must Reduce to 100,000

Under the terms of the peace treaty, Germany is compelled to reduce her regular forces to 100,000 by March 31st, and the number of gendarmes must not exceed those functioning as military police in 1913.

The reduction of the regular army, in compliance with the treaty obligations, is proceeding, although at a slower pace than originally contemplated, owing to the delay in ratification of the peace treaty, the unsettled state of Germany, and the desire of the German government not to increase the number of persons unemployed.

The fact that three sealed letters were found in his clothing led the police to believe that the shooting was premeditated. The letters were addressed to his wife, his mother, and an attorney.

"If they have banned Shylock, I see no reason whey they should not ban Macbeth." said Captain McTavish. GREAT PROGRESS IN MANITOBA DURING PAST FIFTY YEARS

Premier Norris Declares No Greater Progress Has Been Made Any Place in Canada and That Year 1920 is to be One of the Most Interesting—Review of Events—Large Attendance—Late Arrival of Train Caused Delay

"There has been no greater progress in Canada during the past fifty years than right in Manitoba," stated Premier T. C. Norris, in the Prince Edward Hotel, Friday evening. The occasion was the celebrating of Manitoba's entry into the Confederation fifty years ago this year, and some two hundred guests sat down to a supper and heard a splendid and able address from the Premier. Unfortunately the train on which Premier Norris was to arrive was very late and consequently the address did not commence until nearly 10.30, the time being filled in before the arrival of the guest of the evening by singing and short reminiscent speeches by S. E. Clement, M.P.P., and Senator Watson, of Portage la Prairie. His Worship Mayor McDiarmid acted as chairman for the evening.

The Premier was in good form when he commenced his address on "Manitoba since its entry into the Confederation fifty years ago." He first stated that he considered it a compliment to be asked to come here and speak at the banquet, as it was the first anniversary held in the Dominion and in this respect as in others Brandon led the whole of Canada. The Premier then said that he liked coming to this city because it was really his home and he had lived in the district for the past 25 or 30 years and he could be almost called an old timer.

Amazed at Developments

"The year 1920 is to be one of the most interesting in the history of the Province of Manitoba," said Premier Norris. When we look back to what the Province was fifty years ago we can see the wonderful progress that has been made during this period of time. There has been no greater progress in any part of Canada during the last fifty years than in Manitoba. There were very few white people West of the Great Lakes in 1870. This country was regarded as a barren waste and yet today there are over 5,300 miles of railway and a population of 600,000 within the boundaries of Manitoba. Fifty years ago there was no such place as Brandon, and Winnipeg was Fort Garry with a population of 500. When we think of the development which has taken place inside the Province in that time we are amazed at what has happened.

Some Evidences of Progress

The Indian encampment of fifty years ago has sprung into the City of Brandon, and the advancement of this city is due entirely to the unselfish actions of the people here. The farmers and citizens have co-operated in making for success. We have centred in Brandon the great Winter and Summer Fairs, which are not to be excelled anywhere, and which stand in the first half dozen of Fairs held on the continent. We have proved our superiority to have the best there is here, when we carried off the most coveted prizes at the Chicago shows. This is a compliment that can only be paid to Brandon. The class of wheat grown in Manitoba stands at the head of the wheat market of the world and when entered in the recent Fair at Kansas carried off more diplomas than any other Province or State on the continent. Surely it is satisfaction to know that we hold a part in this large development.

No Use for Class Legislation

There are many more things that might be called to our attention in the advancement of the last half century. Winnipeg, for instance, has placed Manitoba on a par with any other power development in America. The building of a water system at a cost of $15,000,000 to supply the best water in the world to the citizens of Winnipeg was an immense undertaking. The third largest ditch in the world was built to accomplish this plan. The success of any municipal work is due to the co-operation which is given it. We have no use for class legislation and although we are bound to have our troubles in the larger cities, there is no reason why Manitoba should not go steadily forward today. We are today competing with the world in the production of food stuffs, and our watchword must be co-operation and assistance. "Don't stand back and criticize your City Council, co-operate with them." We have passed through times of distress, but it may have proved a blessing in disguise, as we do not rely solely on certain crops as we did previously, but now go in more for mixed farming.

Enlarging Provincial Boundaries

Today is the 250th anniversary of the founding of the Hudson's Bay Company, the oldest trading company in the world. It was in 1870 that this Company relinguished large claims in this Province and the "Postage Stamp" province as it was then called sprang into existence. We had only 43,000 square miles of territory then, and the people at Ottawa wouldn't trust the people of this Province with the lands or minerals here, and we are still suffering to some extent by the restrictions put upon us at that time. Later in 1881 our province was enlarged to 73,000 square miles and in 1912 to its present area of 252,000 square miles. Another anniversary is to be celebrated this year is the death of that pioneer explorer, Lord Selkirk, who died 100 years ago.

Advance Labor Legislation

Through the early development of the province there has been troubles, but they have all been solved. The more recent disturbances were in Winnipeg last Spring when the strike was on. Winnipeg was chosen as the storm centre by the Red element to overthrow constitutional government. The strike was of a more serious nature than we ever realized. In connection with the strike, the Government leaders thought they could settle the strike by conciliation and passed the Industrial Conditions Act, but there was no co-operation forthcoming from the labor unions. Manitoba is the first place in the world to have a statute of this nature on the laws of the country and it is the most progressive piece of legislation in the world and endorsed by the great National Labor Conference recently held in Washington. But the province still waits on Labor to take advantage of the statute.

We need conciliation if we are to save further trouble. If any class of society gets into a conflict, conciliation must enter into the settlement of the trouble. The request was made by the Labor leaders in Winnipeg one hour after the great strike was settled there for an investigation into the causes of the strike. A report has been made by a committee, but this has not yet been made public as it might possibly prejudice one side or another in the trial of the Labor leaders in Winnipeg. Arbitration is the most sensible law we have and if we can only get labor to accept the Industrial Conditions Act, we will have an end to all labor difficulties in the Province."

Progressive Legislation

The Premier then spoke of the improved conditions of the Province, due to legislation along the right lines. Special mention was made of the increased accommodation given in the schools for foreign children, the improved health conditions, the Mothers' Allowance Act, the enfranchisement of women, the help given settlers by the Rural Credits Act and many other enactments of legislation recently.

Rich Natural Resources

Stating that co-operation is needed if we are to successfully keep up our advancement, Premier Norris said that the rich resources which Manitoba possesses would make it a leader for the Dominion. Rich mineral deposits in the North, large pulp wood areas, untouched fish industries, millions of dollars of furs were feature attractions to be noted in the advancement of Manitoba.

Come Back to Basic Industry

"But we must come back to the basic industry of the Province, farming. The success of the Province depends on the farmers and we must look after their interests," said the speaker. "Co-operation is needed to solve the conditions confronting the farmers today. We must catch up with the demand for foodstuffs if we are to solve the high cost of living. We must get away from class and racial difficulties, we must have co-operation, and if we have that we will be making Manitoba the leader for the Dominion. Work hard, pull hard and work together and it will make for the continued success of the Province," concluded Premier Norris.

In moving the vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening, Mr. A. C. Fraser brought out a few features. He said that the people wanted the Government always in the hands of the Legislature. The court of first and last appeal should always be the Government. The old party politics must be done away with and everyone co-operate and work for the Province's best interests. Mr. J. E. Matthews seconded the motion. Three hearty cheers were then given the Premier for his address.

Thanks by Retiring Mayor

Mayor McDiarmid, who acted as chairman for the evening, took the opportunity then of thanking those present for the support they had given him during his term as Mayor of this city. He said he would try to give them the benefit of his experience, but did not mean it as criticism on any government which might now be in force in Brandon. But to his mind, a business ence, as it would do much to securing if the city's affairs are to be run properly. He hoped that the people would take future Councils into their confidence, as it would do much to securing good government for the city. He then thanked those present for the courteous treatment he had received while Mayor of Brandon.

Previous to the arrival of the Premier, Mr. S. E. Clement, M.P.P., spoke for sometime reviewing the past history of the province. He told of the early days when he first came to this Province, and of the great advancement he had noted. He said that we should have vision, courage and action in looking ahead to the bright future and that the Province's success would be assured. Senator Watson, of Portage, was in a reminiscent mood and told of the early political battles which were fought out in the Province when the leaders of today were commencing their political career.

During the evening Dr. E. S. Bolton and C. J. Appel furnished vocal and violin solos which were much appreciated.

ACCOMMODATION MUST BE PROVIDED GRAIN GROWERS

Bureau Now Open for Registration—Quarters for 120 Secured Friday

The opening of the Accommodation Bureau on Ninth street on Friday was not featured by any great rush to register accommodation with Mr. J. D. Kennedy. With the prospect that nearly 1,000 delegates will attend the Grain Growers convention here, every effort is being made to obtain suitable rooms for the delegates. "The appeal for the citizens to open their homes and take in the convention delegates is an earnest one, and there must be a better response to the appeal if the convention is to be held for Brandon" declared Mr. Kennedy.

Accommodation for about 120 persons was received on Friday, the first day that the bureau was open, and with delegates expected to arrive in the city on Monday to attend the Live Stock Breeders' Association meetings as well as the Grain Growers' convention later on in the week, it is expected that a big demand for accommodation will be made early in the week.

BRANDON PEOPLE GLADLY GREET THE NEW YEAR

In a manner surpassing previous years, the arrival of 1920 was heralded Wednesday night with the ringing of bells, blowing of whistles, tooting of horns, dancing and singing, and if the balance of the year is as joyous and full of good-will as the first few hours in this city then it will be one of the happiest in the history of Brandon. In spite of the fact that it was twenty-eight and a half below zero Wednesday night, a great many people attended the Watch Night Services and the various entertainments in the city. Special services were held in St. Matthew's Church, the First Methodist Church Club Room, the Little White Church, the Salvation Army Citadel and on New Year's morning services were held in St. Matthew's and St. Augustine's Churches.

Many of the young people of the city danced the New Year in at the Prince Edward Hotel where the dining room accommodation was taxed to the utmost for the annual supper and dance.

Those who were present at the Rink enjoyed to the utmost the skating during the early part of the evening and the moccasin dance which completed the program.

With the curling rink open all day and during the early hours of the evening, the skating rink open afternoon and evening, the theatres with splendid programs, it was not difficult for those who sought entertainment to find it on New Year's Day. The dog races in the morning were attended by a large crowd of children although it was one of the coldest mornings for weeks. In the afternoon a reception at the Y.M.C.A. was also well attended. The Firemen's Ball, held Thursday night in the City Hall, was a great success, as was also the Sons of England Christmas Entertainment in the Fraternal Hall, Sixth street.

BONSPIEL WILL PROBABLY HAVE BIG ENTRY LIST

Play Commences January 12th—Big Prize List for Winning Curlers

Bonspiel week in Brandon will commence on January 12th according to the plans drawn up by the local officials and arrangements are now being made to entertain as many rinks as the rink can accommodate. In view of the limited number of sheets of ice, the bonspiel will be by invitation only and invitations have already been forwarded to Douglas, Forrest, Kenton, Bradwardine, Rivers, Carnegie, Alexander, Oak Lake, Virden, Souris, Wawanesa, Minto and other places. Replies have been received from a number of them signifying their intention of sending strong rinks.

Never in the history of previous bonspiels held in Brandon has there been such a valuable list of prizes offered to the curlers. With the exception of the first prize in each of the three competitions, all the prizes have been bought out of the Club's funds and this has ensured every winner being given a real prize. The Gold Standard Company have donated four gold watches with their challenge cup. The Coca-Cola concern gives four wrist watches with their competition while Nation Shewan's give four cut glass berry bowls to the first prize winners of their competition. These are the only prizes donated the rest of the awards being purchased.

WINTER CARE AND FEEDING OF BROOD SOWS

The main essentials in the successful wintering of brood sows are reasonably warm, dry quarters, good wholesome food and plenty of exercise.

An expensive piggery is neither necessary nor desirable in Wintering sows. A building that is heated by the warmth of the animals themselves is very hard to ventilate properly and is usually damp and artificial heating is altogether too expensive. Another drawback to the piggery is that the sows are too closely confined and do not get sufficient exercise. Experience has shown that sows Wintered outside in the A shaped cabin or in a straw pile and fed at some distance from the cabin so as to force them to take exercise will produce stronger, healthier and more thrifty litters than those Wintered in the piggery, says an Experimental Farm note.

The time of breeding will vary according to conditions. The usual period of gestation is 114 days or, roughly speaking, three months three weeks and three days. If warm farrowing pens are available the sows may be bred to farrow about the end of February, but if they are not available the middle of April is soon enough. Sows, when bred, should be in good thrifty condition and should be kept in good shape throughout the Winter, but not fat.

The choice of feeds will depend largely on the feeds available and the price. Fattening feeds such as barley, grade A screenings, corn, etc., should not form more than half the ration at any time during the Winter and towards farrowing time the proportion should be still further decreased. Oats, either whole or crushed, and shorts are the two feeds that should be depended upon to furnish the growthy part of the ration as they are usually available and are very satisfactory. If possible, the ration should include at least five per cent. of digester tankage which may be obtained from any of the large meat packing companies.

Sows may be either fed dry feed or slop. The dry feed has the advantage of making less work and giving equally good results, the most important part of the feeding being that it should be regular both as to time and quantity. Twice a day is often enough for feeding and there should be plenty of trough room so each sow has an equal chance. Water should be given regularly with the chill taken off. A sow will not drink enough water if it is ice cold.

About ten days or two weeks before farrowing the sows should be put in separate pens and handled as much as possible to make them quiet and tractable. A sow that is used to being handled gives much less trouble and is more likely to save all her litter than one that is wild and nervous. Also, if any trouble occurs at farrowing there is a better chance of saving the young pigs if the sow is quiet and tractable.

Why are Peps best for children? Because they contain absolutely no harmful drugs. Because, when dissolved in the mouth, they are breathed down to the air passages and lungs—not swallowed to the child's delicate stomach, which is so easily upset; and because they are so pleasant to take that children never refuse them. Peps provide health-giving pine-forest fumes in pastille form. When these pastilles are dissolved in the mouth they throw off pine vapor, such as is breathed by dwellers in pine forests, and which is so highly recommended by the medical profession as being without equal for all ailments of the throat, breathing passages and lungs. These pine vapors released when Peps are taken, penetrate to all parts of the breathing organs, bringing relief and healing to the sore and inflamed membranes, ending that tight feeling in the chest, making breathing easy and stopping any cough. Keep Peps handy this winter and use them freely. Give them to the children when the first symptom of a cough or a cold appears. Just as suitable for adults. All dealers 50c. box.

MILLERS NOT TO PROFIT AS MANY BELIEVE

Wheat Board Orders Millers To Furnish Statements of Stocks Flour and Grain

MUST PAY INCREASE

Millers Not To Profit At Farmers Expense As Many Persons Believe

There has been some misconception created among farmers about the recent increase in the price of wheat and how it would effect the millers. Many farmers have contemplated that with the price of wheat boosted up fifty cents, they did get one cent more for their wheat now than formerly, whereas the millers raised the price of flour to them. This they claim to be unfair and it would be if that were a fact. Information received from one of the millers in this city this morning is to the effect that the millers are included in the new order the Canadian Wheat Board has made and they will not be allowed to make a profit on the flour, through the increased price in wheat.

By order of the Board, millers are required to furnish the Wheat Board with a complete statement of how much wheat they have on hand and stored in elevators or under their control. Also they are ordered to produce records showing the amount of flour they also have on hand. When these records are turned in, the millers will be charged with the fifty cent increases on every bushel of wheat they have stored while they will also be charged with the difference in flour prices. Furthermore the millers have been given instructions that they are not to enter into any contract to supply flour for a longer period than thirty days.

One ecect of the recent increase in wheat prices has had in Brandon is to have the farmers look after their Participation Certificate more carefully. Local elevator and milling men claim that since the increase has been noted that there has been a greater rush than usual to pick up the certificates at the offices. The farmers have been tardy in claiming the certificates in many cases, but the big advance in the price of wheat has brought many in to the city to secure the certificates which will entitle them to share in the profits of this year's crop.

"WHEN DO WE EAT" SHOUT CRIMINALS AT A HANGING

Quiet of Death Chamber Broken By Clamor of Prisoners Forced To Witness Hanging

PSYCHOLOGIC EXPERIMENT

Two Hundred Criminals Refuse To Allow Hanging To Disturb Them

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 2.—An experiment in psychology was tried this morning at the county jail, in the grizzly dim hour of dawn when two hundred prisoners were forced to witness the hanging of Raffalo Durrage, convicted murderer. Hardened criminals—selected from other murderers and felons, whose expiration is not yet the gallows—were placed in cells, tier on tier of which surrounded the square in which the scaffold was erected. The stage was set in the death chamber. Durrage was brought forth. The quiet in the death chamber became absolute for a moment. Then the noose was slipped over the murderer's head. From one of the higher tiers came a shout: "When do we eat?" Tier by tier cell by cell, the cry was taken up. It became a roar above which the warders' voices could not be heard. The trap was sprung. Durrage dropped into space beneath the scaffold—Dead. "When do we eat?" was his requiem.

APPRECIATION OF A GREAT CANADIAN COW

The Dairy Farmer, Waterloo, Iowa, thus refers to the cow, Homestead Susie Colantha, sold by Haley & Lee, Springfield, Ont. for $7,500.

"At the National Dairy Show, Bell Farm, Coraopolis, Pa., purchased Homestead Susie Colantha from a Canadian exhibitor. This daughter of Dutchland Colantha Sir Abbekerk was shown at a disadvantage because she was far along in milk and wearing only her working clothes. Individually she is one of the greatest Holsteins cows the writer has ever seen—a great framework has she—sharp, wedgy, milky."

Major-General S. C. Mewburn Retires From Post of Minister of Militia

SHIFTING PORTFOLIOS

Means Less Work for Hon. A. L. Sifton—Sir George Foster Acting Premier

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—There was a further change in the Cabinet portfolios today, although a minor one. The Department of Mines, which for the last two years or so, has been under the direction of the Secretary of State, is being transferred back to the Department of Interior. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of Interior, will, therefore also be sworn in as Minister of Mines. The transfer of the department will mean the lessening of the duties of Hon. Arthur Sifton, new Secretary of State. Of late Mr. Sifton's health has not been good.

Premier Borden Leaves Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 2.—Sir Robert Borden leaves Ottawa this afternoon for a prolonged rest. He expects to be absent three or four months. His destination is not announced.

Mewburn Retires

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Official announcement that Major-General S. C. Mewburn, Minister of Militia, had retired from the Unionist Government and that there has been some shifting of portfolios, was made Thursday. With the changes made before the departure of Sir Robert Borden for the South for a long rest, stable political conditions will be restored for some months, at least, and the government will remain as it is until Sir Robert's return to the capital.

The Cabinet shifts announced place Hon. Martin Burrell, who, since his retirement from the post of Minister of Agriculture in favor of the Hon T. A. Crerar, when the Union Government was formed, has been Secretary of State at the head of the Customs Department, which has been without a minister since the Hon. Arthur L. Sifton succeeded Hon. F. B. Carvell as Minister of Public works.

Mr. Sifton makes another change, and assumes the post of Secretary of State, in succession to Mr. Burrell. This shift in portfolios is a natural one, because it puts a minister with legal training at the head of the Department of State. In view of the practical certainty that a new Dominion Elections Act will be introduced at the approaching session of parliament, and the possibility that there may be a general election within a year, it will be better to have a lawyer presiding over the State Department, which has a great deal to do with the administration of election laws and other legal matters.

The Acting Minister of Militia will be Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization while Hon. J. D. Reid, in addition to being Minister of Railways will assume responsibility for the Department of Public Works. The announcement disposes of the report that Mr. Sifton was about to retire from the government.

Uniting Departments

Coming changes will include the uniting of the militia and soldiers' civil re-establishment departments, while immigration and colonization will go back to the Interior Department. Should the Western provinces be given their natural resources for which they have been agitating for many years, the Interior Department would not be so important as it is at the present time and one minister could administer both Interior and Immigration affairs.

Sir Robert Borden on Thursday waited upon His Excellency the Governor General and submitted to his excellency the resignation of Major-General Mewburn and the cabinet changes for approval.

The belief here is that when the amalgamation of the Departments of the Interior and Immigration and colonization takes place, Hon. Mr. Calder will permanently take over the portfolio of Minister of Militia, and the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-establishment will be merged with Militia, Sir James Lougheed remaining government leader in the Senate but perhaps dropping out of the cabinet.

Foster Acting Prime Minister

It is also definitely announced that Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, will be acting Prime Minister during the absence from Canada of the Premier. He will not, however, undertake to lead the house throughout the session of parliament and it is likely that when parliament reassembles a Unionist caucus will be held to choose a house leader. The adoption of this plan will relieve Sir George from attendance in the house on many occasions, more particularly in the evenings, when matters not of great importance are under discussion. The probabilities are that the choice of house leader will fall upon Rt. Hon. C. J. Dougherty who has filled this position acceptably in the past.

In a letter handed out Sir Robert Borden pays a high tribute to the work done in the Militia Department by Major General Mewburn. He speaks of the minister's "splendid and conspicuous service to Canada and to the empire in different capacities."

MORE MARRIAGES FEWER BIRTHS AND DEATHS IN 1919

Than During 1918 According To Records Kept At City Hall

Dan Cupid worked overtime during December, and tied no less than 25 knots which more than doubles the number of marriages he was responsible for in December, 1918, the City Hall records showing but 12 for that month. The cold weather must have kept the stork from making his rounds as often as for the same month in 1918, as the records for this year show 38, as compared to 49 for December one year ago. Deaths fell off considerably this year, and there were only 21 deaths reported as against 40 in the same month last year.

The total number of births for 1919 are 421 as compared with 471 in 1918. The marriages in 1919 exceeded the mark set in 1918 by 61, the figures being 211 last year and 150 in 1918. There was a greater death report for 1918 when 263 were reported, while 230 are shown on the records to have died here last year.

NEW YEAR SHALL BE RICH WITH PROMISE OR LADEN WITH DESPAIR

London, Jan. 2.—Premier Lloyd George, in his New Year's message to the nation, says:

"We bid farewell to the fateful year which witnessed the signing of peace, that is alike a token of victory and a warrant for hope. Whether the New Year shall be rich with promise or laden with despair depends upon ourselves. We have reached the time when a concentrated effort is essential to the re-building of the world.

"If we quarrel amongst ourselves, we impair our strength and retard our progress. But by united action, based on common honesty and inspired by a spirit of general goodwill, the nation will add to the glory achieved by her sons in battle in the accomplishment of the great task of restoring the prosperity and wellbeing of our people."

COLLAPSE OF DEAL FOR THE FLIN FLON MINE

The Pas, Man., Jan. 5.—The intimation that the Flin Flon deal collapsedcame as something of a shock to residents of The Pas who have been building on the completion of this deal to start a new era of prosperity in the Northern mining town. However, the report that the Anaconda Copper Company of Butte, Montana, is considering opening negotiations for the purchase of the property lessened the shock and all are waiting anxiously the new developments.

Messrs. Hayden and Stone, of Boston, had had an option on the Flin Flon for some time, the purchase price being $2,500,000. The deal involved thirty-two claims in all, eleven of which are situated in Flin Flon, adjoining the Mandy mine at Schist Lake, and nineteen at Beaver Lake. Messrs. Hayden and Stone's request for an extension of the option for 12 months was refused.

The Flin Flon is a vast sulphide ore body and drilling has revealed 20,000,000 tons of copper, gold, silver and zinc, valued at about $200,000,000. Messrs. Hayden and Stone's failure to purchase was stated as being due to money and labor troubles.

Next Spring should see considerable activity at Herb Lake, situated near Mile 32, on the Hudson's Bay railway. The recent sale of the Paul Gasse property to Winnipeg mining operators for $200,000, was followed by the sale of the Bingo, Ballard and Ballard Fraction claims, and negotiations are on foot far the sale of the Le Roi and Allied groups. It is intended to have the Northern Manitoba mine operating by April next. Machinery is to be installed early in the New Year. The ore runs $18 a ton and the values in the narrow vein are uniform. In 1917 a shaft was sunk to a depth of 125 feet.

Arrangements have been made by shareholders in The Pas and McKeever Bros., of New York, to finance operations on the Rex mine, which is equipped with machinery, but on which no work has been done since December, 1918. Operations should be recommenced by April.

Prospectors are coming in regularly with reports of new discoveries and judging by some of the samples exhibited it looks as though The Pas will be the centre of a big mining boom. be the centre of a big mining boom.

TO VACCINATE 7,000 CHILDREN IN WINNIPEG

Health Department Officials To Visit Schools Beginning January 12th

Winnipeg, Jan. 5.—City Health Department physicians will begin to vaccinate 7,000 school children against smallpox, Monday, Jan. 12th.

W. J. T. Watt chief of the communicable disease section, announces that the work will be continued on alternate days for two months. It will cost the city $1,000.

A Winnipeg physician will be engaged to assist the department, which also will receive the assistance of the medical inspection department of the Winnipeg School Board, headed by Dr. Mary Crawford.

The first vaccinations will be made in Lord Selkirk school, Elmwood, Jan 12th. Two days later the unvaccinated pupils in King George V. school on Grey street, will be treated. Elmwood school children will be given attention Jan. 16th. Mr. Watt expects the physicians will begin work in North Winnipeg schools, Monday, Jan. 19th.

Dr. Crawford will prepare lists of unvaccinated children in all schools and submit them to the Health Department which will inform parents one week ahead when and where their children can be vaccinated and urge them to allow the slight operations to be performed. Vaccination is not compulsory at present but if a smallpox epidemic breaks out here the Provincial Board of Health has authority to order a general vaccination not only of school choldren but of adults also.

REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT IN U. S. BROKEN UP

About 4,500 Trouble Makers Rounded Up In Thirty-three Cities

New York, Jan. 5.—"We have succeeded, I think, in breaking the backbone of the radical, revolutionary movement in the United States."

This statement, made Saturday by W. J. Flynn, chief of the Federal Secret Service, summaries the results of raids made simultaneously Friday night in 33 cities in a nation-wide roundup of anarchists, communists and other revolutionaries.

"These raids mark the beginning of the decline of organied, rabid revolutionarism through the country," he continued. "We planned this move carefully and the results exceeded our expectations."

One of the more important arrests made, was that of Harry Winitsky, Secretary of the Communist party in the United States, and a United States citizen. Winitsky has been at lebrty under $5,000 bail following his indictment last Summer for criminal anarchy. He is a lawyer. Two of the men arrested with Winitsky said they had served in the United States army and were wearing army overcoats.

A Sweeping Drive

Washington, Jan. 5.—In a sweeping drive against radicalism, agents of the Department of Justice Saturday completed nation-wide raids against communist organiations, in which several thousand radicals were taken into custody with a view to deportation.

Arrests had exceeded 4,500 at noon Saturday, it was estimated at the Department of Justice. More than half of this number probably will be held for deportation, officials said.

Assistant Attorney-General Garvan, in charge of the raids, said that more than 2,000 persons were held "on perfect cases" and that the raid promised to be not only the greatest in scope, but also the greatest in results of any in history.

In every city where the raiding machinery was set in motion, he said, success attended the efforts. Four thousand warrants were issued, but the arrests exceeded that number.

Besides the 2,000 "perfect cases," Mr. Garvin said, Federal agents obtained sufficient evidence to justify the arrests of the others.

Scores of parlor Bolshevists were among those arrested in the raids, officials said. These, it was admitted, may have to be dealt with under state laws.

Raids in 33 United States Cities

Raids were ordered in 33 cities over the United States, and promptly at the hour of nine Friday night, the operatives moved with clock-like precision in the round-up of communist workers and sympathizers.

It is said that the sailing date for the second "Soviet" ark probably will be Jan. 10th. The army transports America and President Grant also may be used to transport radicals back to Soviet Russia.

DOES VACCINATION CAUSE SICKNESS?

Toronto Medical Health Officer Gathering Facts Before Expressing An Opinion

Toronto, Jan. 5.—"The situation is deserving of the closest investigation and I shall not be satisfied until I have secured all possible information and when I have had an opportunity of weighing all the evidence shall issue a full and frank report."

This was the statement by Dr Hastings, Medical Officer of Health when asked for an opinion regarding the possibility of vaccination being the cause of the large number suffering from diptheria and other communicable diseases.

STRIKE AT PETERBOROUGH

Peterborough, Ont., Jan. 5.— The Canadian General Electric Company was confronted with a serious strike Friday when forty armature winders walked out. Should the men remain on strike, the whole plant employing 1,800 men will be affected. The men are demanding a twenty per cent. wage increase. The men are now considering an offer of ten per cent. increase made by the company.

TO SEND HOME WAR PRISONERS NOW IN SIBERIA

Rome, Jan. 5.—Two hundred thousand Austrian, Hungarian and Czech prisoners of war at present in Siberia may be taken back to their home countries by way of Japan and the United States. The Japanese Government may be asked to transport the prisoners from Vladivostok to Japan, where they will remain at the expense of Japan, until the United States could send ships to transport them to America. From America the prisoners would be taken to Europe on ships of various nations.

Problems involved in taking the men out of Siberia are the most difficult of solution, according to reports, and negotiations for their transportation there are being conducted through a committee of the International Red Cross.

Vienna, Jan. 5.—From Budapest comes word that the Monarchial party has begun active propaganda, in favor of an English Prince for the Hungarian throne. The Duke of Connaught has been especially named for his post. The Government is said to be indirectly aiding in the campaign. A majorty of Ministers and politicians are arguing that only the aid of England will save Hungary from economic ruin.

OBJECTIONS SET FORTH ON WHICH APPEAL IS MADE

Winnipeg, Jan. 5.—Robert Cassidy, K.C., stated today that the numerous objections upon which the appeal in the Russell case will be made, had been completed with the exception of the objection to the charge to the jury as delivered by Mr. Justice Metcalfe. It is expected that this also will be completed today.

This would indicate that Mr. Cassidy will be prepared to go before the Court of Appeal Thursday. When all objections have been completed in written form, it will remain only for Mr. Justice Metcalfe to sign the document and the appeal will proceed.

$10,000 BLAZE DESTROYS OLD STORE BUILDINGS

Early Sunday Morning, the Alarm Being Rung In At 1.52

OLD LANDMARKS

At the Corner of Rosser Ave. and Sixth Street Now Mass of Ruins

A fire which completely destroyed the two story frame building known as the New York Shoe Store, 609 Rosser avenue, the upper portions of buildings, numbers 607, 605, and 603, to the corner store, and damaged the roof of the one story building occupied by D. Hurley, dry goods, boots and shoes, 611-613 Rosser, occurred Sunday at 1.52 a.m. These buildings were among the oldest landmarks in Brandon being erected in the early days of the city about 1882. They belonged to the Hadley estate and some of them had been vacant for some time. It is difficult to place a value on such old frame buildings but it is estimated that the probable loss would be in the neighborhood of $10,000. It is not known whether there is insurance on the buildings or not, but the New York Shoe Store carried insurance amounting to $500 on the contents. The cause of the fire has not yet been definitely decided. Mr. Albert Zakoski, proprietor of the store where the fire originated stated to Fire Chief Malhuish that he left the store about ten o'clock Saturday night and when he left there was no fire in the stove in the store, as it had died down and he did not bother relighting it. Some customers had been in the store prior to his departure and were smoking cigarettes and of course, using matches.

The alarm was wrung in from box eight, corner of Sixth street and Rosser Avenue, by Policeman J. Dunnett. Upon the arrival of the Brandon Fire Department flames were found raging in the New York Shoe Store and the blaze travelled rapidly - Eastward through the upper portions of the intervening buildings, which were all vacant, to the corner store. It also spread West of the shoe store to the one storey frame building occupied by D. Hurley and slightly damaged the roof of it. For fear of the fire spreading all the goods from this store were removed across the street to the Hughes Auction Mart.

In spite of the efforts of the firemen with three effective streams of water the roof of all two story buildings effected collapsed. The buildings are practically a total loss and had the night been windy probably the whole half block would have been burnt to the ground. A large number of spectators were out to watch the fight and the usual amount of good advice to the firemen was freely distributed.

ALLIES REDUCE DEMANDS FOR DOCK MATERIAL

Supreme Council Finally Decides On Wording of Note To Be Sent Huns

SIGNING OF PROTOCOL

And Exchange of Ratifications of Peace Treaty Can't Take Place Tuesday

Paris, Jan. 5.—The Supreme Council this morning finally decided on the wording of the note to the German delegation, confirming the verbal statement regarding the indemnity for the Scapa Flow sinkings made to Baron Von Lerener by Secretary Dusta of the Peace Conference. It is understood that this note virtually reduces the demand for reparation from 200,000 to 250,000 tons dock and harbor material. This note will be delivered at the same time that the protocol is signed.

The signing of the protocol and the exchange of ratifications of the Peace Treaty now depend upon the answer the Berlin Government gives to the German delegates here on questions concerning arrangements for plebiscites provided for by the treaty. It appears certain that these important formalities cannot take place tomorrow, as had been originally intended.

GROWING STRENGTH OF LABOR PARTY IN GREAT BRITAIN

Causes Consternation — Churchill Says Labor Insufficiently Schooled

London, Jan. 5.—A significant development in British politics is the visibly growing strength of the Labor Party, which, if it be continued, is pointed to in political circles as ensuring the control of the next government by that party. In the last three important by-elections the Labor candidates polled a total of more votes than either of the old parties. The majority of the Labor party recruits, the figures indicate, come from the Liberal ranks. Many Liberals admit despair for the future of their party, since it has split into Lloyd George and Asquith factions, and see no chance for the success of the Liberal policies except through the Labor party. Neither of the three elections was in a district where working men were in the majority, and it appeared that the "black coated" classes of clerks and young professional men, along with numerous writers and others classed as intellectuals, had gone over to the workingmen's party.

The features of the Labor platform which appear to attract the middle-class voters were opposition to big armaments and demand for a live-and-let-live policy with regard to the nation's recent enemies.

Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary of State for War, speaking at Sunderland last night, declared a return to party government in Britain at this time would simply mean turning the country over to the Labor party. This party, he charged, was insufficiently schooled in the methods of conducting the government and would bring the country to grief.

ANOTHER ROUND-UP OF DETROIT REDS

Detroit, Jan. 5.—About eight hundred prisoners were in the custody of Federal officers here today, following a second raid yesterday on "Houses of masses" known to the police as the gathering places of radicals. Sunday's round-up added nearly 300 to those taken Friday night. Approximately half the prisoners had been examined early today and those released numbered less than fifty.

should be given this country to get out the better class of horses. He even suggested that the Dominion Government regulations permitting importations of pure bred stallions for breeding purposes free of duty should be so amended as to require that importers of stallions, four years and over, should furnish a statutory declaration that all stallions they wished to import had proved themselves at least fifty per cent. foal getters. If the horses could not be secured in any other way, Mr. Graham thought it would be a good plan for the Government to buy say six of the best two-year-old animals in Scotland and place them at six different points in Canada. In closing the speaker said that the Federal assistance given is good if properly administered, but stated that the forty per cent. assistance should be restored and less restriction put on clubs in order for them to procure the best of horse class.

Form Clydesdale Club

During the morning there was considerable discussion around the many questions which were brought up from time to time. It was moved that the executive take active steps to secure some results as suggested in Mr. Graham's address, while a Clydesdale Club was formed this afternoon to boost the Clyde breed. A committee of three men, Messrs. John Graham, William McKirdy and W. J. Lovey were appointed to interview the Live Stock Commissioner with regard to syndicates owning stallions. Mr. Arkell who was present said that his department was at all times willing to co-operate with the horsemen and they would welcome any suggestions the breeders had to make.

The question of having the enrollment of a stallion stand in three Provinces instead of in one only as at the present time, found considerable opposition from Dr. S. A. Coxe, who stated that the authorities in Saskatchewan had in particular shown themselves to be very lax in their method of issuing certificates. Dr. Coxe said that it would be well for us to look after our own horses.

Representatives to the Winter Fair were named as Wm. McKirdy, John Scharff and W. I. Elder. The representative to the Provincial Exhibition will again be William McKirdy while John Graham of Carberry is the representative to the Western Canada Live Stock Union.

LORD CECIL CRITICIZES SUGGESTED RESERVATIONS IN PEACE TREATY BY U. S.

Leeds, Jan. 5.—Lord Robert Cecil, former Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in addressing the students of Leeds University, criticized the suggested reservations by the United States in the Peace Treaty Wednesday, declaring that he could not say that the reservations were so vital that it would be impossible to accept co-operation on the terms of the reservations.

The urgency of the European situation, Lord Robert said, was so great that it would be assuming a tremendous responsibility to refuse United States co-operation in trying to bring order out of chaos.

RATHWELL HONORS RETURNED SOLDIERS

Tie Pins Presented Veterans As a Token of Appreciation

Rathwell, Man., Jan. 6.—Rathwell's returned boys, their guests and parents on Friday received honor in the form of a banquet and ball tendered by the citizens of the town and surrounding district. At six p.m. the ladies had the prettily decorated hall in order and four long tables draped in red, white and blue were loaded with delicacies. After all had done justice to the inner man, Dr. Mott, in the capacity of toastmaster, proposed the toast to "The King," which was enthusiastically honored. Capt. Miles proposed the toast to "The British Empire" in a neat and fitting speech. Reeve Spinks responded laying great stress on the fact that a nation's wealth is not the sum total of her resources, but the sterling worth of her womanhood and manhood. He complimented Rathwell on her great contribution of both men and women towards winning the war.

The toast, "Our Returned Boys," was proposed by Councillor Cameron, who recalled many touching scenes which occurred as the boys marched away. Elmer Scarrow, a war-scarred veteran, fittingly replied, telling the ladies how much the home-packed boxes meant to him and his comrades "over there."

"The Ladies" was proposed by Rev. Mr. Carefoot, who emphasized the fact that men's appreciation of woman's worth grows, and he referred to Kipling as proof of his statement. This toast was responded to by Rev. Mr. Jackson, who eulogized the ladies of Rathwell for their efforts in the past. He expressed the hope of having a lasting monument erected in Rathwell to the honor of those who served in the great war.

Rev. Mr. Anderson, in a few well chosen words, expresed his appreciation of the invitation to do honor to the returned boys, and his joy at seeing so many of the old faces home from war-torn Europe.

The toast "To Our Fallen Heroes" was proposed by Paul Kane, Sr., and honored in silence.

At the close of the toast list, Dr. Mott called upon Miss Mary Kane to come forward and she was accompanied to the platform by Miss I. Kane and Miss Jean Forbes. Dr. Mott refered to these young ladies as representing the Girls' Khaki club, but refused to praise the club, saying it would be like trying to paint a lily.

In the name of the club Miss Mary Kane read a short address of welcome to the boys, voicing their appreciation of sufferings cheerfully borne and honor brought to the town, and called upon some fifty of the boys in the company to come forward and receive a token of respect and appreciation in the form of an onyx tie pin to those who served in France. Pins were also given to those who only got to England.

This part of the program being at an end, the hall was cleared and the boys and friends, joined by a crowd of those not present earlier in the evening, joined in dancing until the early hours of the morning.

PRACTICAL MEN

strong and rugged race. Every person should eat an egg a day.

Essentials in poultry breeding are a practical application of the science of breeding to promote increased production. By well known physical tests good layers can be separated from poor layers and in flocks where sixty per cent of the hens have been removed because they were deemed not to be good layers by this physical test egg production has been increased. Proper selection results in early growth and maturity of birds. The best time to hatch is before May 24th. Hens do not need very warm houses. These should have plenty of windows, cotton to take up the moisture and good ventilation. Straw piled around poultry houses makes them "hell for the poultry." Late feeding is desirable. It keeps the digestive organs busy and keeps the fowl warm. There is no best feed, there are many good foods. Eggs can be produced any week or month. It is possible to set back the peak of production from April and May to December. Standarizing of eggs is desirable also community hatching and co-operative selling. Properly handled, eggs may be kept strictly fresh for six months. Today the poultry men of Canada represent a successful industry that deserves encouragement.

Silage and Silo

Andrew Graham, Roland, said he had nothing prepared and could only tell of his experiences in a rambling fashion. He has had a silo for seven or eight years and would not be without one. He has always grown corn and practically never had a failure. In feeding silage a wash tub full, containing about and and a half bushels was fed daily to two animals. He did not think it safe to feed more. His silo of wooden construction has no roof but is open to rain or snow. He would not have a roof on it. Frost penetrates somewhat but by first taking the corn from the sides of the silo he has no trouble and has never lost any animals from feeding frozen ensilage. He seldom feeds corn to horses a little of it is good for sheep.

J. R. Hulme, Souris, would not be without a silo. Corn off twelve acres fills his 16x30 silo, which has a roof.

J. I. Moffatt, Carroll, some times puts green oats or barley into silo. He has two cement silos and they are both roofed over. Silage is the closest food to grazing that can be secured.

James Turner has a lot of steers he is preparing for market. They have gained two pounds a day during the past month on silage. He said he would not have a silo without a roof. He has one 18x40, cement silo, and is going to put up another. That he grows more wheat off land that has been under corn than if it were summerfallowed was Mr. Turner's statement.

W. I. Smale read a telegram from Hon. Dr. Tolmie Minister of Agriculture who is ill with diptheria, regretting his inability to be present and wishing the breeders success through out the comng year.

CHATER LADIES ENTERTAIN THE RETURNED SOLDIERS

The fowl supper and entertainment given on New Year's Eve by the ladies of Chater for the returned soldiers of that district was a huge success. A long table in the centre of the Presbyterian Church at Chater was especially decorated, and it was at this table that the soldiers and their dependents were seated. After every one had done justice to the repast the guests and their friends adjourned to the Methodist Church where the Rev. J. Allan gave a splendid address to the soldiers, which was suitably responded to by Mr. H. Peirson, on behalf of the men. A program of readings given by Miss Gertrude Trotter, of Winnipeg, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The Increased Price of Wheat

The Canadian Wheat Board has announced an increase of 50c a bushel in the price of wheat to the millers. This action has been taken because Mr. Julius Barnes, of the United States Grain Corporation has succeeded in his attempt to have removed those war-time restrictions which prevented the free entry of Canadian wheat into the United States. The farmers of Western Canada must appreciate what has been done for them by Mr. Barnes.

There was a time when there was loud discussion in Canada as to what effect free wheat between Canada and the United States would have upon the price of wheat. It was argued on the one side that the price of wheat at Minneapolis would be reduced to the Canadian level, and it was as emphatically asserted on the other side that the price of Canadian wheat would approach to the higher level usually obtaining in Minneapolis. Upon whichever side of the controversy the merits of the case lay, those who argued a gainst free wheat won in the reciprocity election of 1911.

Many things have happened since the year 1911, so many that we are living now in a new order of things altogether. Amongst the many changes that have taken place are those affecting trade in wheat as between Canada and the United States. Both countries have removed the duty on wheat. So far as governments and parliaments are concerned, free trade in wheat between Canada and the United States is now the law. During the war, and for many months after the Armistice was signed, both countries maintained restriction which made free wheat impossible. Now, however, the United States Government has removed all those restrictions while the Canadian authorities have not. We have now a one-sided free wheat between the two countries and the immediate result of this is an increase to the Canadian farmer of 50c a bushel in the price of his wheat.

Have the farmers of Western Canada changed their attitude in regard to free wheat? The question sounds comical now that they have at last a concrete demonstration of the value of the American market. But the question is not as comical as it sounds, and for this reason there is not a chance in a hundred that the United States will keep its market open if Canada continues its present method of selling wheat. The farmers of the United States, especially of the spring wheat growing areas, cannot be expected to look with favor upon the free entry of Canadian wheat into their markets, and they will find allies in the United States in any attempt they may make to re-impose the duty or the restrictions. And in making such an attempt their spokesmen can make use of the kind of argument which has never failed to find a response in the United States.

They can argue that while Canada has removed the duty from American wheat it still maintains its restrictions, because American wheat and flour cannot come into Canada except through a permit or a license from the Wheat Board. Not only so, but it can be argued with perhaps still greater effect, that American millers cannot purchase Canadian wheat on commercial terms and by commercial methods; that if they attempt to purchase Canadian wheat they can deal only with a Wheat Board which has a statutory monopoly of all Canadian wheat, and that, therefore, the Canadian market is not only closed as against United States wheat and flour by its licensing system, but also that this form of protection is reinforced and strengthened by the Canadian Government method of selling.

It is impossible to show that this argument is false. This being the case, it is unthinkable that the United States will long keep her market opened to Canadian wheat if Canada continues this method of selling. True enough the United States authorities have not objected so far as the present crop year is concerned, and they have not objected for the simple reason that they have no logical foundation upon which to base such an objection so far as this year is concerned. If Canada has a Wheat Board, they have a United States Grain Corporation. If Canada has restrictions still, they had restrictions until the other day. The operations of their Grain Corporation were so limited since the beginning of the present crop year that it was no inconvenience to them to remove their restrictions against Canadian wheat in the middle of the crop year.

The operations of the Canadian Wheat Board are so complicated that it cannot be expected that they should cease their operations before the end of the present crop year. So far, therefore, as the handling of this year's crop is concerned, there is no reason why the United States should object to Canada's method of selling her wheat, but should Canada maintain her present method of selling beyond this crop year, there is not a chance in a hundred that the United States will keep her markets open free to Canadian wheat.

It would be a curious development if, while the farmers in 1911 fought and voted for free wheat, they should for 1920 adopt a method of marketing Canadian wheat which would as inevitably defeat free wheat between Canada and the United States as thoroughly as it was defeated in 1911.

CANADIANS ASKED TO HELP STARVING MILLIONS IN EUROPE

Cargo of Flour For Immediate Relief and Scheme of Credits For More Permanent Assistance—Thousands of People Have Died and Millions Will Die Unless Relief is Provided

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 13.—(Canada Press).—Canada is invited to join in giving relief to the starving millions of Central Europe and Austria in particular, according to advices received by the Dominion Government. The situation is extremely grave. Women and children are dying of starvation. Already some hundreds and thousands of people have died, and unless relief is prompt, so stated advices, the toll of dead will run into millions.

In view of the situation, the British Government has invited Canada to join in relief work along two lines:

First: With a view to immediate relief, that Canada should send a cargo of wheat flour.

Second: With a view to placing assistance on a more permanent basis, that Canada, with the United States, should co-operate in a scheme of credits.

Both of these requests are now under consideration by the Cabinet.

PAPER MAKER DEFIES ORDERS PAPER CONTROLLER

Switch Torn Up So That Cars of Paper Can't Be Moved From Mill

Ottawa, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Probability that a number of daily newspapers in Western Canada would have to suspend publication for lack of newsprint developed into a practical certainty today, when the Fort Frances paper mill finally and absolutely defied the order of the Paper Controller, R. A. Pringle, according to the committee of publishers now in Ottawa.

Early in the day the paper controller' representative at the mill, J. L. McNicol, in compliance with instructions from Ottawa, served notice on the Fort Frances Pulp and Paper Company to resume shipments. Failing fulfilment of this order, he declared his intention of commandeering enough paper to enable the Western papers to continue publication.

The mill refused to obey the order, whereupon the sheriff, who had been summoned to the scene with the Paper Controller's representative proceeded to effect a seizure, says a statement from the committee of publishers. E. W. Backus, president of the company, had instructed his employes to refuse admission to Mr. McNichol, by force, if necessary, but reports received late last night indicated that the seizure had been effected.

The seizure will not be effective in providing newsprint for the publishers, as the company had, in anticipation of this action by the Paper Controller, shipped every ton of paper to its customers in the United States, it is declared. To further complicate matters, to the detriment of the publishers, and to set at naught the action of the Paper Controller, the company tore up the switch by which cars are moved from the mill to the tracks of the Canadian National Railway.

CONVENTION HALL BADLY NEEDED IN THIS CITY

City Council To Consider This Question At One of Its Sessions

A convention hall for Brandon is to be one of the important questions taken up by the City Council at its first meeting. That this city is in great need of a convention hall was very apparent at the recent gathering of the United Farmers of Manitoba, and the Mayor and members of the Council are busy considering the ways and means for erecting an up-to-date hall for Brandon. Speaking on the subject this morning, Mayor Dinsdale said that if this city wants to hold the conventions here, it will have to move. It is his idea that the memorial to be erected to the heroes who fell in the Great War should take the form of a Memorial Hall, and this could be made to accommodate any number of visitors who came to this city for convention purposes.

It is also known that there will be strong representations made to have the old City Hall building torn down and a memorial building erected on the site which would also take care of the civic offices. One of the aldermen was looking over the proposition this morning and he stated that it would be an admirable proposition. He thought the cost of building a large convention hall on the City Hall site would probably be $2[illegible],000, but he was of the opinion that the building could be made to serve many needs of the community.

At any rate, the matter of a convention hall for Brandon is to receive the close attention of the City Fathers when they meet next week and it is possible that a committee will be appointed to look into the feasibility of several plans which have been discussed already.

The points that remain to be argued in the reserve case are only of minor importance. All signs point to the conclusion of the argument by the defence tomorrow. The three premiers — Clemenceau, of France; Lloyd George, of Great Britain, and Nitti, of Italy—met again Monday in continuance of their conference on both the Adriatic and Turkish questions, and the latter is supposed to have been uppermost in their deliberations. Their meeting, however, was surrounded by an almost impenetrable veil of secrecy.

Greece, while preferring to see the Turks entirely ousted from Europe, appear to be concentrating their efforts to secure Eastern Thrace as far as the Enos-Midia line.

RED CROSS TO LAUNCH MEMBERSHIP DRIVE EARLY IN THE SPRING

The meeting of the Red Cross Society held Monday afternoon in the Council Chamber of the City Hall was very well attended. From the reports given it was evident that the newly appointed District Nurse, Miss McLeod, was badly needed in this city and is accomplishing a splendid work. Since her appointment she has visited sixty-seven families and is kept so busy that it is impossible for her to visit all the places where she is needed. The Red Cross have been hoping to have a second nurse commence work in Brandon in conjunction with the Provincial Public Health Department, but as the need is proving great it may be necessary to obtain a third nurse to carry on the work, so that all cases may be cared for.

Letters were read expressing the appreciation of the soldiers at Ninette Sanatarium for the Christmas treat and socks sent by the Society. A report was also made by Mrs. A. B. Fleming concerning the treat sent to the soldiers at the Brandon General Hospital. Plans were discussed at this meeting to have small entertainments at the Hospital for the soldiers, and it was understood these would be arranged for in the near future.

It was decided at this meeting to launch a membership campaign early in the Spring, the exact date of which will be announced later.

WINNIPEG MAY HAVE ONE PAPER

Then Three—Supplies of Newsprint Pooled—Expect Shipments Soon

Although the Winnipeg newspapers have pooled their supplies in order that they may continue publication as long as possible, they may be forced to suspend publication Wednesday or Thursday of this week, owing to the newsprint shortage. The shortage is acute and there was just enough paper on Monday to print two more issues of the Winnipeg newspapers. This supply may be by the most rigid economy, stretched to permit the issue of a limited number of pages for three days. At the end of that time if there is no relief the Winnipeg papers will be forced to suspend issue.

Action has been taken by R. A. Pringle, Paper Controller at Ottawa, who wired the Fort Frances mill instructions to supply the Western Canadian daily newspaper customers at the rate of 1,306 tons a month, beginning December 24th. Mr. Pringle ordered that shipments commence at once on this basis, otherwise he would instruct the Commissioner of Customs to place an embargo on paper and stated that he would also commandeer supplies.

All the daily newspapers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan get their supplies of paper from the paper mill at Fort Francis, Ont., owned by the Fort Frances Pulp & Paper Company Limited. No other source of supply is open to them. Their total consumption exceeds in considerable degree the quota of 15 per cent. of its rated capacity which the Fort Frances mill, in common with all other Canadian mills, is obliged to set apart for Canadian consumption; and this has involved adjustments with mills in Eastern Canada which supply less than their quota. Controversies and disputes (with which the Western publishers have nothing directly to do) have led to such serious restrictions in shipments by the Fort Frances mill as to put all their Western Canadian customers in peril.

POLITICAL ACTION THE QUESTION BEFORE THE GRAIN GROWERS ASSEMBLED IN CONVENTION

All Agree That There Must Be Political Action But Whether This Shall Be In Federal or Provincial Arenas or Both, Is Undecided—Mayor Dinsdale Extends Welcome on Behalf of Cty — Sessions Being Held in Gordon McKay Building—Large Attendance.

Whether or not the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association shall enter the realm of Federal or Provincial politics or both, is the paramount question to be decided at the annual convention of the Association which opened in the Gordon McKay building on Wednesday.

Discussion among old time members of the association shows that the convention will bring to head the feeling among many of the farmers that the time is ripe for independent political action.

During the past twelve months many local conventions have endorsed the idea of placing an out-and-out farmer candidate in every Federal constituency at the next election. Neither has the Government's announcement that its term of office will not expire for the next four years deterred the farmers from their stand.

"The time is right here and the question must be decided without any partisan camouflage," is how one prominent member of the association expressed himself.

The subject also occupies chief place of interest in the report of the secretary, W. R. Wood, presented to the convention.

May Change Name

There is also a strong feeling that the Grain Growers should change their name and become the United Farmers of Manitoba, which would put them in line with the United Farmers of Alberta and Ontario. There is a feeling that the present name leads outsiders to believe that the association is for grain growers only, whereas it embraces every kind of farmer. Several district conventions have endorsed the proposal.

The convention opened at 10.10 a.m. with a record attendance of delegates who filled the hall and proved the wisdom of the change from the City Hall.

The President, J. L. Brown, was in the chair. Following the singing of the national anthem Rev. J. W. Churchill conducted the opening exercises instead of Rev. M. L. Orchard, who was stated to be out of the city.

Members of the board were asked to take places on the platform.

Mayor Dinsdale's Welcome

Mayor G. Dinsdale delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the city. He said he was at one time a farmer and speaking from experience could say that Brandon depended for her prosperity on the farmer.

It is with a great deal of pleasure and a feeling of privilege that I welcome you to the City of Brandon on the occasion of this your Annual Convention.

I need not say that the citizens of Brandon feel the honor you have done them in making this your convention City for so many years past, and trust that you will be able to still consider Brandon your convention home in the future.

While there is a certain limit to our means of accommodation, yet you may rest assured that anything humanly possible will be done by us, in order to make your stay in the city a pleasant one, and any failure in this respect, if reported to me, will be dealt with promptly.

That through the medium of these conventions, the farmers are coming into their own, has I think been evidenced by the recent Ontario Elections, and I have no doubt personally that this will be still further emphasized at a later date in our own Province.

On behalf of our Citizens, I extend to you a sincere welcome to our City, and wish you all a happy and prosperous New Year.

Glad of Recognition

W. I. Ford, Swan River, replying to the Mayor, stated that the Association had always been well treated by Brandon, and he was glad that the citizens were now willing to recognize the farmers as their equals in the rights of citizenship. "We have," he said, "always been insufficiently represented in parliament and in the governing bodies of the country. The time has come for action, and I am sure the farmers are welcoming the opportunity for united action. I thank the Mayor and citizens of this city for their splendid welcome."

President's Address

Ladies and Gentlemen, fellow members of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association—again we meet in Annual Convention.

Circumstances, the general nature of which are familiar to you all and into the details of which I shall not at this time enter have laid upon me the duty of delivering to you the President's address.

Your officers and board of directors have during the year been called upon to make some important decisions. They have had a keen sense of their responsibility; and whether their judgment has been wise or unwise rest assured they have not acted hastily and have sought, not personal interests but only the welfare of the great Farmers' Movement. Perhaps I should not say Farmers' Movement but rather People's Movement in which we by virtue of our numbers and the strength of our organization are enabled to play a leading part.

Perhaps even a year ago, we were still so close to the war that there was a measure of justification for those who felt that the time was "not yet" to push our radical economic reforms. It is now, however, nearly fourteen months since the last gun was fired on the Western front. The Armies are demobilized. The war is a matter of history, but the aftermath remains. What do we find? Bankruptcy, starvation and threatened anarchy in continental Europe. In Britain, a disastrous coal strike and a narrowly averted railway strike have seriously impaired the national efficiency. In the United States, strikes among the coal miners and the steel workers have threatened the industrial life of the nation. While from end to end of Canada we have had industrial turmoil and unrest, culminating in the Winnipeg strike of the early Summer. When we think of these conditions together with the fact that we have a national debt of two billion dollars, we may well stand appalled at the immensity of the problems that confront us. It would therefore seem to be the part of statesmanship to at once stop temporizing, to discard all methods of expediency in which we may have felt compelled to acquiesce while the war was still with us and to at once adopt a national policy based upon sound and righteous principles.

And let me say here, that the principles to which I wish to call your attention are not new principles. They are as old as the human race. They have been expounded by the world's greatest teachers. They are fundamental to any era of peace and good will among men.

The great evil of taxation through a customs tariff lies in the fact that it absolutely fails to distribute the burden equitably. Indeed it can easily be shown that it rests with undue heaviness upon those least able to bear it. But, when the customs tariff becomes not merely a means of collecting necessary revenue, a device which while theoretically indefensible may have some merits as a practical expedient, but becomes a means whereby privileged interests may extort blood money from those less privileged, it becomes an iniquity—that we cannot tolerate.

In regard to the proposition that comes from many quarters that there should be a levy on capital we can only say that while the object sought is eminently desirable, the difficulties in the way of devising any practicable scheme would seem to be almost insuperable.

There is a second principle that must be emphasized, it is stated thus: "We are all members of one body and if one member suffer we all suffer together." Warnings are coming to us from certain quarters against class legislation and class domination. So persistent are these warnings that one would almost think that class legislation and class domination had never been known in human history. Not only are these not new things, but government by a class, for a class has always been one of the most prolific causes of unrest.

The lesson that we have been most emphatically taught by that strike, if we have the wisdom to learn it is that no section of the community can suffer without all suffering together.

It does seem to me that we have been making the mistake of concerning ourselves almost wholly with the way in which social and industrial unrest have made themselves manifest, and have given insufficient attention to the causes which have led to them. The seeds of Bolshevism, whatever that may be, or any other dangerous "ism" are like wild oats—they will only grow when all the conditions are favorable; and even if we grant that Europe has furnished the seed we have for forty years at least been preparing the soil.

The work of our organization has in the past been largely a matter of having grievances redressed and of resisting the encroachments of predatory interests. We have felt and I think rightly, that agriculture has had to bear an undue share of the nation's burdens. There has been no such thing as our passing the burden on to any one else. But faced as we are with the possibility in the not distant future of having a controlling position in the councils of the nation, we may well inquire as to our purposes and ideals.

Let me indicate another principle. The long ago statement was in this form. "How much is a man better than a sheep?" And yet human life has been one of the cheapest things that the world has known and has been recklessly sacrificed on many altars. And law that ought to be synonymous with justice has spread its protecting wings over property rather than men.

To Bring Harmony

The work of the Grain Growers' Association as I conceive it to be is to help to bring commerce and industry into harmony with the higher laws of life. To this end we employ two different means. We come to this convention and we listen to addresses that ought to have for us both instruction and inspiration. We seek to carry the same gospel to all places where our evangelists go. Much of our work is of the same class as that of the teacher, the preacher, the journalist [illegible] professions. But we also believe in bringing our influence to bear upon legislation. We do not believe that everything in the way of reform can be accomplished through the operation of law; but we do believe that through the operation of law, conditions may be so changed that in a larger measure the common burden may be equitably distributed, and that all may have greater opportunities to enjoy all the blessings of our twentieth century civilization.

Political Situation

And now let me make a brief reference to the political situation. I have already referred to the importance that attaches to this convention. A great deal may depend upon the wisdom or lack of wisdom that characterizes our deliberations and conclusions here and our actions during the next few months. Canada is in a peculiar situation politically. We have at Ottawa a government, entrusted with power two years ago which seemed to have the confidence of the people to a degree that governments have seldom had; and yet today appearances indicate that that confidence has been almost completely withdrawn. An election held any time in the near future would probably return to parliament more different groups of members than have ever been seen in the Canadian House of Commons: and however these might agree or disagree on general policies they would probably by a large majority oppose the present government. There would be representatives of both the old parties and of the Unionists; although there are signs in the sky that indicate "fair weather" as far as one of the old parties and the Unionists are concerned. We will probably have a group of labor men and a large number, if not a majority pledged to the support of the Farmers' Platform. This might lead to a situation that would require even more delicate handling than the one in Ontario following the last election. A question for us to consider is this "Are we justified in taking the responsibility of bringing about such a situation?" I think we are, no matter in which direction parliamentary government may develop. It may very well be that development lies along the line of the group system. If so, some very radical changes in the operation of the present system would seem to be involved. In which case it is eminently desirable that the men constituting these groups should be men of the largest calibre. If, however, the old bi-party system is to be maintained—and there are many, who look with disfavor upon the group system, who hold that this is inevitable—we have at least done this, we have helped to array men on the side of principle and also helped to secure a realignment according to principle rather than according to inherited prejudices. And even if we have distinctive party names such as Progressive and Conservative or any other names, they will for a time at least and in greater measure than in the past be correct designations of the men who bear them.

With these considerations in view the importance of the next Federal election ought to be clearly seen. We need in parliament perhaps as we never needed them before, men of vision, men of high ideals, of broad outlook, wide sympathies and the saving grace of common sense. To get these is the main concern of the nation during the time that intervenes between now and the next election.

President Women's Section

Mrs. J. S. Wood, President of the Women's Section, in her address stated that the last year has seen a great advance in the organization. "Our Association," she said, "with men and women as members, has become more attractive because political action has been put on our program. A long enduring electorate has been patiently waiting for something that will give them power to remedy their ills and in political action they see that power."

She said that they must use their influence wisely so that there would be a "veritable regeneration" of all political evils.

The Women's Section, she said, had worked along four special lines. The first the new Canadians schools, the second, young people's work in rural districts, the third, better medical facilities and rural clubs.

"Not only are the farm women united for work in our provinces but they are working inter-provincially to attain greater results," she stated.

The 1920 Policy

Mrs. Wood outlined the 1920 policy as follows:

"There is the subject of our great national war debt, and what part are we to take in lessening it. We will still continue the work of trying to make Canadian citizens of the non-English. These are the two great problems facing Canada today and together with these there are some of the objects of our associations we must study, such as promoting more interest in the education of our children, better legislation for our women and children, developing a taste for the finer things of life and the strengthening of our association, for if we are to carry out our aims we want to have every member an active member. We must get ready for the place that waits us.

"Our Canadianism is the only kind of nation building which is worth while. It goes hand in hand with social reform, it aims in carrying on an active crusade for the health of the babies of the nation and citizens of tomorow. It aims at taking the drudgery out of farm life and giving happiness to every citizen."

Before the morning session rose a resolution of sympathy was passed to R. J. Avison, of Gilbert Plains, on his recent critical illness.

It was announced that already 131 resolutions had been handed in.

P. A. Kennedy, President of the Board of Trade referred to this convention as the greatest of its kind ever held in Canada. He spoke of the benefits which the Board of Trade had secured for the farmers, and assured them of future co-operation.

MONTREAL FIRE CAUSES 3 DEATHS

Montreal, Jan. 8.—The death list in the Imperial Oil Company fire, which destroyed the plant of the Company in the East end of the city last night is now three. Another of the victims, Adolphe Rachette, succumbed this morning to injuries which he sustained.

Oil Pipe Exploded

Montreal, Jan. 8.—One man was killed outright and one died last night in the General hospital here, while twelve others are suffering from severe burns following the explosion of an oil pipe, and a fire which broke out afterwards at the plant of the Imperial Oil Company, Montreal East, Wednesday afternoon.

The dead last night were: Charles Bryant, 55 years old; Ludger Hebert, 36 years old.

UNITED FARMERS OF CANADA IS THE NEXT STEP

Toronto, Jan. 10.—A Dominion-wide farmers party is predicted by J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, and one of the organizers of that body. Morrison who has just returned from the farmers convention in Winnipeg, says, the "United Farmers of Canada," is no figment of imagination, but will be a hard fact in the near future.

GRAIN GROWERS' DIRECTORS' REPORT

Local Men as Organizers

During the fall months, organization has been very successfully carried on by the employment of local men from various districts who have been employed temporarily when and where opportunity offered. It would seem that the solution of the problem of local organization for the future may be along this line. It has the advantage of affording opportunity for practice and training for many workers to fit themselves for the democracy which we seek to promote.

Legislation Secured

Resolutions referring to provincial legislation were taken up with representatives of the Provincial Government and due consideration of the various items placed before them was promised and we now have, as a result of this consideration "an Act respecting the Sale of Farm Implements" in which the interests of the purchaser are safeguarded equally with the of the vendor. This legislation which we have been seeking for some time, was placed on the statutes and became

The Directors' report as presented at the Grain Growers' convention was, in part, as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your directors, in presening this their sixteenth annual report, are pleased to be able to say that, judging by reports from various parts of the province, the prestige of our association and the estimation in which it is held, not only among the farmers but among the people of our province as a whole, is higher than it ever was before.

The work of the association was very much hindered during the first part of the year owing to the epidemic of influenza which continued in many districts well into the Spring.

There have been held during the year four meetings of the full Board of Directors and in addition, four meetings of the executive. At the first meeting of the year, Messrs. Avison and Wright were elected to act with the officers as members of the executive. At this meeting also, the various resolutions passed at the convention were considered and dealt with as instructed.

law on the second day of June of 1919. There has also been placed on the statutes "an Act for the Regulation of Licensing of Produce Dealers" along the lines suggested by resolution of the convention a year ago. This act has not yet become law but has been held over so that the farmers of the province may have opportunity to consider it. It will be submitted for the consideration of this convention and its provisions explained by Mr. August.

Care and Treatment of Mentally Diseased

At the same time Mrs. J. S. Wood and Miss Finch, representing the Women's section made representations to the Government on matters dealt with by the ladies, and we have resulting from their efforts in conjunction with the efforts of other similar organizations, "an Act respecting the care and treatment of mentally diseased persons" also placed on the statutes during the past year, and child welfare is yearly receiving more attention as is evidenced by the increased employment of public health nurses.

Transportation of Hay

Re transportation of hay into drought stricken areas under special tariff, we found that reduced rates were scheduled for carrying stock from these areas to areas where feed was obtainable and also to carry feed to stock still in these districts where extreme scarcity prevailed, and we understand that the same provisions are in force for the present year where similar conditions obtain. We are pleased to state also that the privilege granted to farmers in the reduction on seed grain has been renewed with respect to seed required for the 1920 crop under the same regulations as during the past few years.

At the meeting of the directors held on January 21st of last year, a request from the Dominion Government was presented asking that they nominate some one to act as a member of "The Qualification Committee" of the "Soldiers' Settlement Board." Your directors nominated Peter Wright, who has acted in that capacity since that time.

Advancing Farmers' Platform

A good deal of attention has been given by your directors throughout the year to the propogation of the principles expressed in the Farmers' Platform. At a meeting of the executive held on March 14th, the following resolution was passed, and our secretary instructed that it should be given for publication in daily papers and copies forwarded to our representatives at Ottawa.

"Whereas the historic policy of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association has been that of a general lowering of the customs tariff, looking to ultimate free trade with Britain and reduction in duties on goods imported from other countries with special emphasis on free importation of all implements used in agriculture anc other industries believing as we do that such policy would be to the best interest not of any particular class, but of all the people.

"And whereas, during the time that Canada has been at war not only has there been no progress in the direction of giving effect to this policy but on the other hand an actual increase in duties on the whole circle of imports including many articles absolutely essential both in the industries and in the common life of our people,

"And whereas the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association has loyally and consistently supported the Government of Canada in all efforts looking to a successful prosecution of the war, recognizing that for the time the winning of the war was the supreme effort,

"And whereas, the war having been won, the supreme issue is now the making of adequate provision to meet its cost to the nation,

"And whereas, since agriculture is the basic industry of the Dominion, our financial standing at home and abroad can be best maintained by encouraging the greatest possible increase in the production of the fields.

"And whereas, it is not to be expected that the high level of prices for agricultural products that has prevailed during the last four years can longer be maintained, making it necessary to reduce the cost of production by every possible means and especially through the lessening of the cost of the implements of production.

"And whereas, it must be futile to attempt to place returned soldiers on the land unless economic conditions are secured which will free agriculture from the unjust burdens it has borne.

"And whereas, the exorbitant cost of living to the common people must be reduced if actual want is to be avoided.

Demand Definite Action

"Therefore, we submit that any further delay in dealing effectively with the evils resulting from the established tariff system must not be thought of by the Government. The time for relief is long overdue and Western Canada having formulated its views in the National Platform of the Canadian Council of Agriculture requires that the Government at the present session take definite action in the direction indicated therein.

We urge that since its principles are not only corrective but constructive there is no reason why substantial progress should not be made at once in putting them into effect.

And especially we urge that a substantial all round reduction in duties and the freeing of farm implements and household machinery are in the very forefront of the measures needed in the reconstruction of our economic life and urgently demanded by the great body of our people.

We look to Western members of the House of Commons for an inflexible stand on the Farmers' Platform."

Support Farmers' Platform

At a meeting of the board held on April 4th, a motion was passed that the attention of district associations be directed to the resolution passed at last convention re political action and urging them to give effect to that resolution in their various districts as far as coppatible with conditions, without obtaining therein. And the committee appointed at a sub-meeting of last convention was endorsed as a Provincial Committee with a view to promoting action in support of the Farmers' Platform.

Disapprove Mr. Henders' Action

At a meeting of directors held in Brandon on July 23rd, this matter was again under consideration and the Political Committee working in co-operation with the board was by resolution instructed that when 25 per cent of the districts in the province ask that a provincial convention be called they proceed to call such a convention. At this meeting resolutions received from district and local associations disapproving of Mr. Henders' attitude on the tariff as expressed in the budget debate and vote led to a discussion which showed the general opinion of the board to be in accord with the resolutions, after which Mr. Henders' tendered his resignation as president of the Association, and after consideration the board passed the following resolution:

"We the Board of Directors of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association while deeply regretting the circumstances which have necessitated the resignation of our President, R. C. Henders, and while we fully appreciate the long years of faithful service he has rendered our organization—yet after careful consideration we cannot in any degree accept his attitude on the tariff, in the recent budget debate and vote. We, therefore, repudiate his stand, accept his resignation and reaffirm our adherence to the principles of the Farmers' Platform.

Adjustment of Claims

Among other work taken up by our central office is the adjustment and enforcement of claims between individual farmers and corporations or firms in cases where otherwise the farmer would not be able to secure justice. A great deal of this work has been done in the past not only to the advantage of the individual farmer concerned but of the farmers generally. As the fact that the association is known to be behind the individual is likely to deter any corporation or firm that might be so inclined from any infraction of injustice. To make more effective the services rendered in this connection there has been opened a legal department where advice and guidance can be secured in such cases.

Relative Values of Grades of Wheat

During the year your board has made an effort to secure information in regard to the milling and baking values in wheat and while we believe that the relative values of the different grades vary from year to year. From figures we have received we are convinced that, on the whole, the spread in prices between the grades is not warranted by the difference in the actual food value. We would recommend that a committee be appointed to prosecute this inquiry still further and that their findings be placed before the public for the education of all concerned.

More Direct Political Action

Since last convention we believe that considerable progress has been among our people towards more direct political action; in every district in the province there are evidences that such is the case. For years we have been trying to improve conditions and secure for farmers and other workers in this country, a larger measure of economic justice. By resolutions, by deletations and by every means available, we have sought to influence Governments from the outside, but with little apparent success and it has been growing on every one that to be effective, this influence must be applied from within our legislative walls, and this is true all over the Dominion as evidenced by the conference held in Winnipeg yesterday and the sentiments expressed there.

A committee has been appointed consisting of Messrs. French, Edie, and our secretary, to investigate more fully the situation with regard to milk production.

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

MEN'S GET TOGETHER MEETING IN ST. MATTHEWS

On Tuesday night a large number of the men of St. Matthew's Church and members of other Brandon parishes met in the crypt of the church for a Forward Movement evening. The ladies of the church served dinner at 6.45. The tables were arranged in the form of the letter "F," signifying "Forward," and were tastefully decorated. The dinner served indicated thought for service in every respect and was thoroughly enjoyed. After dinner Rev. Walter M. Loucks, Director of the Anglican Forward Movement in the Diocese of Rupert's Land, most ably and clearly outlined the need for and the objects of the movement, touching upon its various phases. The thoughts of his audience were aroused and carried to the ultimate objective of those phases, prayer, service, the responsibility and rights of Stewardship. His appeal for service in behalf of the church, the need for workers and the preparation of the best young men for holy orders was telling and urgent. Personal experiences emphasized the points of his advice. Mr. Loucks shows a clear conception of his subject and his optimism and enthusiasm over the ultimate results of the Forward Movement of the church was imparted to his audience. He gave the parish a most encouraging send off on its intensive month and other meetings in this connection have been arranged. Canon Davidson of Regina will be the speaker at the meeting January 16th.

U. S. MARKET HAD TWO MILLION BUSHELS WHEAT FROM CANADA LAST MONTH

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 9.—Figures made public by the Customs Department show that during November, before the American market was open for Canadian wheat, 258,263 bushels, valued at about $641,242, entered the United States from Canada, as compared with 1,190,508 bushels, valued at $2,590,509 in December.

COLLEGE TRAINING

For Farm Work Fits a Man To Take Advantage of Opportunities

A large number of people interested attended the meeting of the Live Stock Breeders' Association Tuesday night in the City Hall. W. C. McKillican, Superintendent of the Brandon Experimental Farm, made an able chairman and the principle addresses of the evening were given by President J. B. Reynolds of the Manitoba Agricultural College; Prof. W. A. Brown, Chief of the Poultry Division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and President Hutton of Calgary, President of the Western Canada Live Stock Union.

"Agriculture is an art and a science" stated Prof. Reynolds, speaking on "Agricultural Education." "The seeming antagonism between theory and practice is not real, for all theory must be based on experience. Practice preceded theory, farms preceded agricultural colleges. Although detached from books, good farmers today base their farming on science."

"Agricultural training is practice in doing farm work with enough science to make work intelligence. Education is of the mind, training of the body."

In my opinion, continued the speaker, the best places to learn practice is on a good farm, and not a College farm. At a College farm the work is done alright, but conditions are not real, such as farmers meet on a farm. The real practical things, such as, proper feeding of animals, milking of cows, etc., cannot be done at the College because of the season's lack of equipment. We do, however, have mourses in engineering, buttermaking, and the judging of grains and livestock.

The Manitoba Agricultural College hase set itself to give the country boys and girls training and education suited to conditions of farm life; to train leaders to investigate problems of farm and country life; and to foster country life by training leaders for country life. The function of the College is for farmers and others and to teach results of investigation with a view to immediate effect, because they go back on the farm. In every province, agricultural college graduates are judges, journalists, experts, etc. There is an increasing demand for professional agriculturalists and the College cannot overlook the fact.

Sociology, and Home Economics are two other important features of the College Curriculum. In fact, the students are taught, as far as possible, notto be richer than their brothers but to covet a keener sense of public duty and to become good citizens.

Eggs and Poultry

Speaking on "The Egg and Poultry Situation," Prof. Brown stated that there had been more eggs exported during 1919 than in any time since 1902. The number of exporters have increased from fifteen to 100. Eggs shipped to England are inspected, graded, etc. Canadian eggs are obtaining the highest grade and price in England markets. The West is doing its share with this movement. The first car went East in 1915, there are now 400 cars from the prairie provinces. One car is valued at $10,000. Twenty-six cars were shipped from Winnipeg to England and to no middleman either. The world is on fire for poultry. Last year Ontario did the poultry trade for Canada. The West is a great country for poultry. Cold is no obstacle, a well lighted, dry house is all that is needed. The prairie is the natural home for poultry. They'll grow twenty-five per cent faster here than anywhere else, because of climate and the wealth of the vegetable insect life.

Improvement of Live Stock

Prof. Hutton chose the particularly interesting subject, "Factors to be considered in the Further Improvement of Life Stock in Western Canada."

Improvement is necessary now, he said. We have made rapid strides along this line, but I feel there is still much to be done. We worship "pedigree too much."

He specially emphasized the importance of the proper feed for cattle and stated that our climate was well adapted to almost perfect feeding. "Many say we cannot fill silos or grow silage crops, but a silage from peas and oats, or oats alone, can be grown everywhere. Corn is one of the most satisfactory crops. We're just as well off regarding food for cattle in Western Canada as Illinois or Iowa, in quantity and quality.

The presence of mange in Southwest Saskatchewan and Alberta has affected the value of cattle considerably. Compulsory measures are being adopted to combat the disease. Herds are being tested for tuberculosis and a certificate of health is being issued. The Government is keenly interested in this work. In recent tests thirty-six per cent of the cattle were found tuberculer. In the near future no animals will be sold in Alberta at sales unless they are certificated. The presence of mange in the West has caused the loss of a cent a pound off the price of the animals.

Many pure bred animals should go to the block rather than be used for breeding. This is something the Stock Breeders' Association should take action in.

The farmer is entitled to good markets for good stock. The Government intends to get more cold storage space on the railroads and steamers.

"We must realize our responsibilities as improvers of livestock and we will get an enthusiasm which will prompt is to go forward with great success."

GRAIN GROWERS' SECRETARY'S REPORT

The report by Secretary W. R. Wood, presented at the Grain Growers' convention, was in part as follows:

The outstanding fact in the mind of the Secretary in beginning to formulate a report for the year 1919 is that in spite of years of effort, and in spite of the fact that local secretaries have a clear month after the close of the local year before the Provincial convention it has so far proved impossible to get from them material for a complete report of the Association. I am going to place before you as the first fact of this report that there are fifty local associations which were on our list and active in 1918 from which we have no response or evidence of existence in 1919. I do not report this as a loss of fifty locals because there is good reason to believe that a majority of these will respond and remit their 1919 dues during the next few weeks. I report it because it means that in far too many associations the organization is being cheated of its highest success because the officials have been chosen for some other reason than efficiency. I can imagine no greater folly from the point of view of our movement and the aims it has set before it than for the members at the annual meeting to continue to elect as officers—however estimable the individuals may be—men who will not do the work. Fifty associations that have remitted no dues for the whole twelve months of 1919 the kind of thing that should not be allowed to occur again if we are to be loyal to the Movement in Manitoba.

The next fact to be reported is a little more encouraging,—but not too encouraging. It is that 132 local associations have reported fully on the year's work up to November 30th, 1919; last year there were only 102. But when you remember that last year we began with 232 locals which we had reason to believe were fully organized and active, you are compelled to recognize that a hundered local secretaries have not taken the trouble to fill out and return the blank report form sent out and that a hundred local boards have neglected to see that their association was given its place with the others in the records of the movement. Full efficiency demands something better than this.

The organization of new locals has proceeded especially during the latter months of the year. The number of new or reorganized locals added to last year's list is sixty. These with the 232 which we listed at the close of 1918 give a total of 292 local associations which should today be actively serving our cause.

Actual Numerical Strength

We now come to the question of our actual numerical strength in the province. The paid up membership for 1919 at the end of December was 9,096. Since that date additional memberships to the number of 88 have been received, so that the actual membership we report today is 9,184.

In justice to the situation it should however be said that the 40 odd associations which have not yet remitted for the year estimates at the lowest figure of ten to each may be counted on to add 400 and the 27 associations which were organized late in 1919 and the membership of which is not included in the figure mentioned, taken also at the lowest figure give an additional 270. Thus it may fairly be stated that the membership with which we start the New Year is 9,654.

Independent Political Action

The paramount feature of the year's work has undoubtedly been the development of opinion favorable to independent political action in support of the farmers' platform. This came not as a result of special propaganda but as the result of circumstances which compelled a belief that our objectives as a movement are attainable only by that method. Through the earlier months of the year the feeling grew among our people that the present government if the Dominion is committed to the policy of serving the special "interests" as Canadian Governments have been since 1879 and since the Budget was presented the opinion has been practically universal that if the common people are to be free from the present economic bondage they must free themselves. The opportunity given to individuals in October to pledge themselves to the support of the candidates backing the farmers platform was enthusiastically accepted and from all over the province came evidence that as individuals our people are ready for action. Since that time district after district in their conventions have given concrete expression to their attitude, and in a number of cases have proceeded with definite and effective political organizations. In Brandon, Neepawa, Springfield, Dauphin, Marquette and Portage districts special conventions have been held and the work of preparing to finance and organize the election of a candidate definitely begun. In Brandon, Neepawa and Springfield where the work has advanced probably a little farther than in the other districts the response has been most encouraging, and the general indications are such as to fully warrant the statement that Manitoba will be found to be practically a unit when the next federal election is called and that every district will do its bit to send to Ottawa the province's full quota of men who will back the new National Policy. In the meantime it is of first importance that we continue to extend the knowledge and acceptance of our principles, and that we allow no lesser issue, nor partizan camouflage, to disintegrate our unity on the supreme question of National Policy.

Women's Section

No report of the year's work would be complete without recognition of the important place the women of the association have held in the progress made. At the beginning of the year the office of the Women's Section was associated with that of the association and in the planning of the work and arranging for series of meetings the Secretary of the Section has rendered valuable service. In their choice of workers the Women's Section has been remarkably happy.

NEAR BEER CAN NOT BE MADE IN UNITED STATES

Supreme Court Decision Means a Real Bone Dry Nation

Washington, D.C., Jan. 7.—Upholding the constitutionality of the most vital section of the Volstead enforcement law, the supreme court has declared that 2.75 beer and other near beers cannot be sold under war-time prohibition.

The action of the government in prohibiting the sale of 2.75 beer both before and after the Volstead law which passed on October 28th, 1919, was upheld. The decision of the court was five to four.

Supporting in every way the contentions of the Government and Congress just as the opinion of the court did when war-time prohibition was declared constitutional by unanimous vote, the decree of the supreme tribunal means a real bone-dry nation.

Likewise it dispels the hope of the liquor interests for any tilting of the lid either at present or under constitutional prohibition, it is believed here.

The financial interests involved in the decision are estimated at $1,000,000,000 by the liquor attorneys, including the amount of near beer on hand and the property for its manufacture which will be rendered virtually useless. One hope of the liquor interests was to convert many old-time breweries into plants for the making of the 2.75 product.

CATTLE BREEDERS' RESTRICT SPRING SALE TO BULLS

No Limit On the Number of Good Animals That May Be Offered

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Dominion Department of Agriculture To Purchase Bulls at Spring Sale

Cattle Breeders' in session Wednesday in the City Hall were given plenty of opportunity to discuss important problems, and as a result the meeting was the longest yet held by any of the livestock associations. The largest attendance of members that has yet attended the meetings packed into the Council Chamber this morning and it was well after the dinner hour before the meeting was brought to a close. Featuring the discussion was the annual sale to be held in the Spring. It was a bone of contention among the Breeders for almost two hours. It was finally decided to restrict the sale in March to bulls only, but the number of bulls to be entered is unlimited. The election of officers for the coming year was also a feature of the morning's business.

Discussion on Bull Sale

There was a very lengthy discussion on the coming cattle sale in the Spring and practically every breeder of importance in the Province who was present at the meeting had something to say about it. The Hon. Walter Clifford of Austin said that the small breeder should be protected at the bull sales. He explained that the small breeder did not advertise as extensively as the large breeder and therefore his stock, while probably as good, did not command the some attention or price as did that belonging to the large breeder. One member of the Association thought this could be remedied by letting the auctioneer in the ring have full control of the selling end of the sale.

Mr. John Graham, of Carberry, brought in the suggestion that a limit should be placed on the number of bulls entered in the sale and that the number should not exceed 150. He also recommended that the large breeders should only be allowed to enter one bull for every ten pure bred bulls they owned. He said that this was the rule formerly but that it had been wiped off the regulations, but should now be put back into force to protect the small breeder. Mr. John Barron, of Carberry, then entered the discussion by stating that it was unfair to accuse the large breeders of something they were not guilty of. In the past few years, Mr. Barron said, that it was the small breeder who was offering his bulls for sale and that the large breeders did not try in any way to crowd the sales with their animals. Kenneth McGregor took exception to Mr. Graham's remarks and said that it was not the intention of the large breeders to arrange the sales to suit themselves. He saw no reason why the number of bulls to be entered in the sale should not be 225, the number arranged for by the executive. The idea was simply to make the sale a standard one.

No Favorites

Secretary Smale of the Manitoba Live Stock Associations said that as secretary of these associations he would not be a party to catering to any one breed over any other at any of the sales held under the auspices of the Associations. He said that there are hundreds of bulls for sale in Manitoba and that it is in the best interests of the breeders to have them put up for sale at the annual sale in March. H. S. Arkell, Live Stock Commissioner from Ottawa here made the announcement that his department would buy a number of bulls at the coming sale. Finally two motions were placed before the meeting and carried which makes the coming sale in March purely a bull sale, no females being allowed to be entered, while the number of bulls to be offered for sale has no limit.

Favor Accredited Herds Act

Harry Leader of Portage spoke on the importance of stamping out tuberculosis among the cattle and favored compulsory examination. He brought forward a resolution favoring the Accredited Herds Act as follows: "Resolved that we the members of the Cattle Breeders' Association assembled in Brandon deem the action of the Department of Agriculture in instituting the Accredited herd plan in Canada to be in the best interests of the live stock industry, and that we co-operate with the inspectors in charge for the successful application of the Act." This resolution was passed by the meeting.

Another resolution was passed by the Association as follows: "That the executive of the Cattle Breeders' Association take action to establish the operation of an association car from Manitoba West along the same lines as the car operated by the Ontario Live Stock Association."

Officers Elected

The election of officers for the Association saw F. J. Collyer of Welwyn, elected as President and J. G. Barron of Carberry, Vice-President, without any opposition. The voting for the four directors was very close, eight names having been proposed. The following are the officers of the Association for 1920—President, F. J. Collyer, Welwyn; Vice-president, J. G. Barron, Carberry; Directors, James I. Mocat, Carroll; John Strachan, Pope; J. G. Washington, Ninga; J. R. Hulme, Souris.

Explains Workings of Act

The workings of the Live Stock and Live Stock Products Act was explained by Mr. Dan Johnston, of the United Stock Yards in Winnipeg, and he gave a very short address on the handling of cattle in the stock yards. The two main points he dealt with were the construction and equipment of stockyards and it's maintenance and operation. Feed, supplies, fire insurance and the exchange rules between the different provinces were dealt with by Mr. Johnston in his address. Dr. Still, Dominion veterinarian, gave a very interesting address on "Hemoeragic, and how to treat it."

Censure Auctioneer's Methods

During the meeting, members of the Association took occasion to censure the methods of the American auctioneers in rushing the sales through, and several members stated that they were very much against the shouting methods used by the men from across the line. W. W. Fraser spoke for some time on the fifty per cent assistance which the Government is giving to cattle buyers attending sales who are unable to pay down the full purchase price. The money is advanced by the Government and then paid back by the borrower at a much later date, at a low rate of interest. This measure is to encourage the farmer and breeder to purchase pure bred stock. In answer to several queries, Mr. Fraser said that the Government was taking every precaution in seeing that American companies did not commence operations here and work for the large packing houses.

OVATION GIVEN BURNABY, PRES. U. F. OF ONTARIO

R. W. E. Burnaby, President of the United Farmers of Ontario, outlined the formation and success of the United Farmers' Party of Ontario, in regard to political action. The farmers of Ontario, he said, were forced into political action by the government. The movement, he declared, was from the people, organized, and developed by the people. Speaking of the recent elections he stated that the results were more than they expected and that they were forced into a position of great difficulties in regard to the government. By co-operating with Labor they were able he said to secure a majority in the legislature. He was, he said, afraid they would make mistakes. "We are in the boat and we do not want to rock it very much at present," he stated after declaring that farmers throughout Canada were watching the result of the rise to power of the Ontario Farmers' Party.

During the last two weeks, he stated, they have elected two members to the Federal house. They expected an Ontario membership for the party of 75,000 by the end of this year.

He continued by outlining the organization of the party with its co-operative stores and own paper.

The speaker stated that they expected to elect 25 members to the Federal House at next Dominion elections. This, he said, was a sane estimate. The old parties, he said, were doing everything in their power to whip the old parties into line, but were meeting with no success.

As he concluded his address a storm of cheering broke out and the audience gave three hearty cheers for the speaker.

A resolution was introduced and passed congratulating the United Farmers' Party of Ontario on their recent great victory at the polls.

ALL PURE BRED SHEEP SHOULD BE REGISTERED

Manitoba Sheep Breeders' Send Resolution To This Effect to Dominion Association

SALE NEXT SPRING

Clydesdale Club and Hereford Breeders' Association Formed, Tuesday Afternoon

The Sheep Breeders held an interesting session Tuesday afternoon at which general discussion and the elecon of officers for the coming year were the items which kept the fair attendance of breeders busy most of the afternoon. Showing their appreciation for the work he has accomplished as head of the Sheep Breeders' Association during 1919, the Breeders re-elected George Gordon of Oak Lake as their President for 1920. Some interesting reports were made both by Mr. Gordon and Mr. N. Stanfield at the meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Limited.

Sheep Breeders' Officers

The election of officers for 1920 resulted as follows: President, George Gordon, Oak Lake; Vice-President, George Allison, Burnbank; Directors, John Strachan, Pope; J. R. Hulme, Souris; Hugh Gilmore, Griswold; J. H. McConnell, Hamiota. The representatives to the Winter Fair are W. C. McKillican, A. D. Gamley and H. H. Simpson, while the last named was also appointed representative to the Summer Fair. The four delegates appointed by the shareholders of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Company to attend the Toronto Exhibtion are as follows: Miss E. Cora Hind, Winnipeg; George Gordon of Oak Lake; J. R. Hulme of Souris, and W. I. Smale of Brandon. Four other delegates were named to succeed any of the above who found it impossible to get away for the Toronto Fair and are as follows: W. C. McKillican, John Strachan, J. H. Evans and Andrew Graham.

Registration of Pure Breds

The question of having all pure bred sheep registered at Ottawa was first broached by Mr. John Strachan of Pope, who stated that something must be done to make the large breeders conform to some system which will do away with the present hindrances to the raising of pure bred sheep. Mr. Strachan said that the Ontario and Eastern breeders were the greatest offenders in not having their sheep registered, and he suggested that a resolution should be forwarded to the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association in an effort to secure legislation along the right lines. Much discussion followed Mr. Strachan's proposals, and finally a committee of three was appointed to draft a resolution, and the following was submitted to the meeting:

"Resolved that this meeting of the Manitoba Sheep Breeders' Association petition the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association to use their best efforts to obtain legislation which shall provide that all pure bred sheep sold as pure breds in Canada must be registered in the Canadian Live Stock Records and a certificate of registration be furnished at the time of sale." This motion was unanimously passed.

To Hold Sale in Spring

There was a divided opinion on the advisability of holding another sale of sheep here in the Spring. Several of the large breeders present thought that there were not enouvh ewes to put up for sale, and Mr. Hugh Gilmore stated that he for one would not have any ewes to put up at the sale in the Spring. The chairman, Mr. Gordon, replied that they would ask every breeder to give as many sheep as he could spare for the sale and in this way make it a success. It was a general opinion, however, that any sheep brought in for sale should be the very best that could be procured. There was also some discussion around the fact that several breeders brought in sheep for sale last Spring and then took them home with them, but nothing was arrived at by the meeting.

Mr. H. S. Arkell reviewed the sheep situation and asked for the co-operation of the breeders' association to develop domestic business here.

With regards to appraisers being appointed in each municipality to appraise the damage done to sheep particularly, Mr. Strachan thought that the matter should be brought up before the next session of the Union of Municipalities and that every municipality should be compelled to appoint appraisers.

Co-operative Wool Growers

A very thorough report on the work of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Limited, was given by Mr. N. Stanfield of the head office. He stated among other facts that the company had handled over 4,000,000 pounds of wool in 1919 and all but 200,000 pounds of this has been disposed of. Manitoba shipped over 288,000 pounds as it's share alone, and there remained 67,000 pounds still to be sold in this Province. Mr. Stanfield said that an acute condition was arising in the wool market because the people were being educated up to the high prices and there is no demand for the low grade wools. Mr. J. H. Evans, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was to have been present and to have given a report for Manitoba, but he missed his train connection in the morning and was not in attendance.

Clydesdale Club Formed

While the Sheep Breeders were having their meeting in the Council Chamber two new organizations were meeting in the City Hall. The Manitoba Clydesdale Club was formed for the purpose of boosting the Clydesdale class in Manitoba, officers being appointed, and provisional directors being elected to bring in a report for a permanent board of directors for the next meeting of the club, which will be held in March. The following are the officers of the Club: President, William McKirdy, Napinka; Vice-President, H. Crawford, Brandon; the provisional directors are as follows: W. C. McKillican, Freeman Rice, Binscarth; J. B. Davidson, Myrtle; W J. Lovey, Holland; John Wishart, Portage; and John Scharff, Hartney.

Hereford Breeders' Association

To encourage a wider acquaintance by the general public with the true type and characteristics of the Hereford cattle which makes them so adaptable to Manitoba and the West, a Hereford Breeders' Association was formed Tuesday afternoon. The following are the officers elected: President, J. A. Chapman, Hayfield; Vice-President, J. L. Moffatt, Carroll; directors, A. E. Coombs, Dauphin; Neil Wright, Benito; H. E. Robinson, Carman; Oscar Jones, Whitewater; R. Brigham, Deleau, and D. A. Harper of Hayfield. Mr. Frank Booth has been appointed secretary pro tem of the organization. About fourteen members joined the Association Tuesday afternoon, and the club membership is expected to be close to 75.

MEXICAN QUAKE COST HUNDREDS OF HUMAN LIVES

Total Death Roll May Never Be Known Owing To Wildness of Country

RELIABLE REPORTS

State That Thousand Persons Lost Their Lives At Couztland

Mexico City, Jan. 7.—Hundreds, possibly thousands of lives were lost as a result of the earthquake which shook the State of Vera Cruz, Saturday night. So widespread was the damage done by the shock, and so wild are some of the sections that suffered from it, that it is probable the number of casualties will never be known. Private dispatches received here from Vera Cruz and Jalapa state that 1,000 persons lost their lives at Couztland. These reports which are said at both cities to be reliable, confirm information given out last night by Presidential Military Headquarters. Thirty lives were lost at Teocelo, where three churches and forty houses were destroyed.

THE IRISH TANGLE

Ireland is so divided, the factions are so bitter and irreconcilable and the moderates are so impotent that the situation is all but hopeless. Lloyd George's plan for Home Rule appears perfectly splendid to those removed from the heat and passion which blind Irish eyes to what all the world can see. If the Irish could either forget or forgive the past, the present and the future would take care of themselves. The one point of relief is the solemn resolve throughout Britain that come what will, Ireland must remain within the British system. Almost anything short of this will be granted but on this point there is "No Surrender."

RATIFICATION OF TREATY

The exchange of ratifications of the Peace Treaty with Germany in Paris, was a solemn ceremony. Fourteen powers were represented, including the defeated enemy.

There is little rejoicing over the ceremony because of a general realization that though the military and naval enterprises of the enemy were met and defeated, as a people they have failed to grasp the significance of their defeat. They have not come to admit their wrong and they are in a mood to build for revenge rather than to seize hold of the truth and profit thereby.

On the other hand, there is no need for long faces. Canadians, counting the cost, may rejoice that the sacrifices so cheerfully made, are not in vain. Might was repelled and a great measure of right prevails. The Paris ceremony, fraught with so much hope for world order, springs out of the war cemeteries in France as a tribute to humanity's sacrifices in the interest of a better order of life. From such inspiration good must come.

THE GREAT MOTHER

In addition to labor troubles, financial difficulties, social unrest and the problems presented by Ireland, Egypt and India, Great Britain is bearing the chief diplomatic and financial burden of the reorganization of Europe. The United States will not be asked in vain for further financial credits for the relief of the hungry populations of Middle Europe and Southwestern Asia, but it will be a long time before even that rich country will have lent so much on doubtful security to the needy as they have received from Great Britain.

It was once believed that the diplomats of the two English-speaking nations could co-operate in the healing of the nations and in the establishment of free organizations in the new states of Europe. That hope has not yet been finally abandoned but the difficulties that stand in the way of realization are much more apparent now than they were even a short time ago.

REFUSE CANADIAN MONEY

Orders by the United States Railroad Administration to agents, cashiers, conductors, stewards and dining car managers connected with the U.S. railways not to accept Canadian coins, bills, or cheques, will rouse a great deal of antagonism. It makes little difference that the order is issued because of exchange difficulties. Canadians will resent it.

Exchange presents difficult problems but it will also be a difficult task to convince a traveller with a pocket full of Canadian money, that it should not be accepted in exchange for transportation on United States railroads, or for anything a traveller may wish to purchase. The very fact that United States money is freely accepted in Canada suggests to the average man that there should be a reciprocity. United States money is worth one hundred cents on the dollar and it will be impossible to convince Canadians that Canadian currency is not of equal value. Canadian bank bills are a promise to pay, a promise which is backed by unquestioned security, security that is equally as good as that which guarantees American money. At least this is the way Canadians view it.

The exaction of a discount on Canadian currency was regarded as a slight put upon a friend, but the order by United States officials to refuse Canadian money, is a direct insult.

R. C HENDERS ISSUES STATEMENT CLAIMS UNFAIRNESS

Former President Not Given Opportunity To Outline His Position

SENSE OF DUTY

Dictated His Course In Parliament—Directors Ignore His Moderate Requests

R. C. Henders, M.P., for Macdonald, ex-President of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, has issued a public statement with relation to his differences with the association. Mr. Henders' statement in part is in these terms:

"In making a statement of my position, it is necessary to go back to the meeting of the directors of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association held early in July last. It was at that time that action was taken which demanded my resignation as President of the Association. I do not wish to dwell upon the treatment which was given me at that time, or to discuss the action taken in the light of a personal grievance. I think, however, that it should be stated that it was not until within a few hours of the meeting that I was given any knowledge that there was dissatisfaction with my action. I knew nothing of the charges that had been made, or any demands which had been voiced for my resignation, although these had been in the hands of the secretary and the executive for a considerable period; or would I have had any knowledge of these facts at all, until they were sprung on me at the directors' meeting, had it not been that I asked the Secretary for a copy of the minutes of the meetings held in my absence together with a copy of the agenda of the above meeting. The securing of these documents brought to light the resolutions asking for action on the part of the Board of Directors. The meeting was, therefore, called, the whole case presented as far as they were concerned and prejudged without ever there having been placed in my hands a copy of the charges or a notice of any investigation. Indeed, I am now led to believe members of the executive were primarily responsible for having the demands made.

"At the above-referred to meeting, where action was taken I made two requests: (1) That I be furnished with a statement of the charges that the directors, or any of them, had made against me; (2) That I be given a place on the program of the coming annual convention in order that I might be able, not only to answer these charges, but also to set before the members of the convention certain facts relative to my action as a member of the House of Commons.

Members Should Have Information

"I consider it only fair that I should be made acquainted with any charges or criticism preferred against me (and I also deemed it vital that the members of the Association should have in their possession the facts and views which led me to adopt the course that I had taken. It is, in my judgment, impossible for the members of the Association to arrive at an impartial conclusion as to the righteousness or otherwise of my conduct without having this information.

"Inasmuch as I have not received any answer whatever to either of the above requests, I find myself forced to take the only other course open to me and set forth my views and reasons in the public press. In this way, I trust that I may receive the impartial consideration of at least some members of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association. I am prepared to leave to the men and women of rural Manitoba the right to pass judgment upon my conduct in dealing with very important matters which were under consideration affecting the fiscal policy of this country. I may say here, it was the decision which I took in the House of Commons upon these matters which led to the drastic action on the part of the directors of the Association. I can only conclude further that the reasons for ignoring my requests for a frank airing and discussion do not arise from a desire that the general membership of the association shall be possessed of the facts. My first reason is found in the fact that a call was issued for a meeting of the Carman district, which call was accompanied by a circular letter emanating from the central office, the said circular letter setting forth the fact that meeting was to discuss political action and particularly my action. As soon as I saw this letter, I put myself in touch with the secretary of the Association making demand on him for the liberty to appear before that meeting in order that I might state my case, which demand was ignored. The further reason for reaching the above conclusion is found in the fact that my request for a place on the program of the Brandon convention has also been ignored.

Represented the Farmers

Referring to his action at Ottawa, Mr. Henders says he did not sit still when the Government decided not to touch the tariff during 1919, he did all in his power to dissuade that conclusion with all the ministers and his fellow-members from the West, and, at the caucus opposed strongly the Government's decision to delay the tariff issue. When the Western members' caucus sent a deputation to the Government on the point, he was there to present the case of the farmers again and, he asserts that the Government reconsidered their decision and offered concessions favorable to the views of the Western members. He adds "The one thing I cannot understand is the reasoning by which the then Minister of Agriculture agreed to the Government's action, which was to give nothing and then refused to support the Government after they had made concessions to the farmers which amount to a reduction of the tariff to the extent of about $17,000,000 It must further be stated that, when these changes were announced by Sir Thomas White, he gave, on behalf of the Government, definite assurance that a committee of the Government would be appointed which would hold meetings in the several Provinces. It was promised that the findings of this committee would influence the Government in further shaping it's fiscal policy."

It was on this phase that Mr. Henders thinks the whole of the Western members should have co-operated with the Government and to have given open support. He said the time to have pronounced on the Government policy would have been on the conclusions reached by the Commission promised.

"I acted on that conviction and I believe in so doing I not only acted in accord with my own conscience, but in accord with the best interests of the farmers of Western Canada."

TURF CLUB TO HOLD RACES ON 24TH OF MAY

Provincial Treasurer States There Is Every Prospect of Tax Being Removed

Definite assurance from the Provincial Government that the special war tax on all race meets would be taken off was given to the Brandon Turf Club today, and as a result it is expected that one of the largest race meets in the club's history will be staged here on the 24th of May. Speaking over the phone today at noon with Secretary W. I. Elder, the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. Edward Brown, stated that the Government had taken up the question of the removal of the tax, and that every assurance is now given that the special tax will be taken off when the Legislature next meets. With the fifty per cent. tax removed, Mr. Elder stated today that there is no doubt but what the Turf Club will go right ahead with their plans and get out a big program of races for the 24th of May.

When the Brandon Turf Club held its annual meeting on Saturday night the business was practically devoted to minor business as no reply had been received from the Government with regard to the war tax. The officers of the Club were re-elected as follows: President, P. Payne; Vice-President, Dr. S. A. Coxe; Secretary-Treasurer, W. I. Elder; Directors, J. S. Gibson, E. L. Christie, Charles Pilling, D. W. Beaubier, William Ferguson and W. Dowling. Mr. Charles Pilling was appointed representative from the Turf Club to the Summer Fair Board. Very little business was taken up, but all the shareholders and directors present were of the unanimous opinion that should the Government deal favorably with their request for the discontinuance of the war tax on race meets, that Brandon would have a real program of races for the 24th of May.

PROCLAMATION OF PEACE TO BE PUBLISHED SOON

Certain Provisions of War Measures Act May Be Continued For a Time

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—The proclamation of peace is likely to be published within a few days which will bring the question of orders in council still in existence under the War Measures Act up for decision. The War Measures Act terminates when peace is formally proclaimed, but it is probable that steps will be taken to continue the provisions mentioned in force until Parliament assembles.

Women's Section of the Grain Growers' Convention Last Week

WOMEN DISCUSS DOWER LAW, WANT SOME CHANGES

In spite of the fact that it was five o'clock Thursday afternoon before the members of the Women's Section of the United Farmers of Manitoba could leave the main convention to go to the City Hall, a great many were present to hear the discussion of the Dower Law, a paper on which was read by Mrs. John Dick, of Winnipeg, who also led the discussion and answered many questions in connection with it. The delegates were detained at the main convention owing to the time it took to ballot for the election of president and vice-president. About fifteen women, who did not attend the main convention, went to the City Hall at two o'clock and remained for some time hoping that the meeting would take place, shortly after the time announced at the morning session. Most of the delegates however were present at the main Convention Thursday forenoon and heard the announcement made there that the meeting would not be held until after the balloting had taken place.

From the keen discussion that took place after the Dower Law was read, it was evident that the distribution of copies of the same among some of the delegates at the Thursday morning session had been an excellent idea and that the copies had been well read before time for discussion arrived. They were anxious to learn all they could about the law in this connection and Mrs. Dick very capably explained many of the clauses and told what might be done in specific cases mentioned by the delegates. Mr. S. E. Clement, M.P.P., who introduced the act to the Government, was present and on being asked to speak, gave an explanation of some of the more knotty problems arising from a discussion of the clauses.

Mrs. Dick stated that there were three things she would like to see changed in the Dower Act as it is today. She thought a wife should receive one-third of all the property of the husband and should have the right to will that one-third, that belonged to her, to her children. That the act should protect not only the mother but also the children, was another point emphasized by the speaker. In the case of notices being served, the wife should receive a notice as well as the husband. The Dower Act at present does not protect the majority of women and it should be perfected so that it will be a protection to all.

After much discussion it was moved by Mrs. Elliott, seconded by Mrs. Gray that a substantial committee be appointed by the President, Mrs Wood, to investigate the matter of the Dower Law and submit a report at the next Directors' meeting. This was carried.

Mrs. Wood, just prior to the adjournment of the meeting appointed Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Gee, and Mrs. McVicar to act on this committee and to confer with Mrs. Dick if necessary. This appointment received the approval of the meeting.

Thursday Session

Over 150 women assembled in the Opera House, City Hall, Thursday morning on the occasion of the opening session in separate conference of the Women's Section of the United Farmers of Manitoba. The attendance in itself was evidence of the increased interest taken by the women in the work of their association and augurs well for the future development of the various locals.

Mrs. J. S. Wood, President of the Women's Section, who presided at the meeting, in a very brief address welcomed the delegates to the convention. Several items of general business were then considered and Miss Henderson was appointed Secretary for the Women's sessions. Mrs. Elliott of Totonka then read the report of the Directors, and gave statistics of the number of locals formed, the women attending, etc., during the past year. Some of the locals are forging ahead in a splendid way, Cypres River being specially worthy of mention.

Women are Indifferent

The discussion of the report was led by Mrs. Elliott who specially emphasized the evidence of lack of women members and also lack of interest among the women where there were various locals. A representative from the United States of "The Country Gentleman" after an investigation of conditions in Canada stated that there was no organization in America or in the United States to equal the United Farmers and he could not explain the indifference of the women of Canada to their own association. Another thing that Mrs. Elliott thought must be remedied is the poor reception given speakers when they go to various districts to give addresses. Often there is no one to meet them or direct them to a place to stay, and very often no arrangements have been made for the meeting. The women must be interested if successful locals are to be formed. Many useful suggestions were made by various delegates present which could be used advantageously.

Report of Inter-Provincial Council

In the absence of Mrs. McNaughton, Miss Mary P. McCallum read the report of the Inter-Provincial Council of Farm Women, which was organized last year and held its first meeting in Brandon. Since then the women have succeeded in having the constitution of the Canadian Council of Agriculture amended to admit one woman delegate to the meetings of the Council and also to allow the women of the I.C.F.W. to meet in separate session when the Council is meeting and after discussion of affairs they can then send heir delegates to report to the Council. At the meeting in April the following directors were appointed Convenors of the different committees named. Mrs. John McNaughton, Harris, Sask. "Immigration"; Mrs. Walter Palby, Alix, Alta., "Public Health"; Mrs. J. S. Wood, Oakville, Man. "Social Service"; Mrs. George Brodie, Newmarket, Ont. "High Cost of Living"; Miss Finch, Winnipeg "Young People's Work"; Miss Mary P. McCallum "Property, Etc." The women succeeded in placing a new plank for the Farmer's Platform, before the men, when they asked for the future "Naturalization" by personal application and not by the operation of the law as has been the case for so many years.

Owing to the shortage of time and the necessity of the women being present at the election of officers in the main convention, the criticism of the Dower Law, which was read at this morning's session by Mrs. John Dick of Winnipeg, was put off until this afternoon when a special session of the Women's Section was held for this purpose.

GREATEST FAULT CANADIAN WOMEN 'S CRITICISM

Declares Mrs. Gee and This Is Why Women Won't Take Office

At the final session of the United Farm Women of Manitoba in separate conference held in the City Hall Friday morning the election of President and Vice-President took place. Mrs. J. Woods, Oakville, is President and Mrs. Parker, Gilbert Plains, Vice-President. During the election Miss Mary P. McCallum occupied the chair and Miss A. Craig and Miss I. Todd were appointed scrutineers of the ballots. Interesting addresses were given by Mrs. S. E. Clement, President of the Local Council of Women; Mrs. A. Shewan, President of the Women's Canadian Club, who conveyed the greetings of the Club to the delegates, and Mrs. C. C. Hearn, Greetings from Saskatchewan were also conveyed by Mrs. Burbank, Secretary of the Saskatchewan Women's Section, who was the only fraternal delegate present. At this meeting a discussion of the problems of the Local Women's Section was led by Mrs. Gee of Virden. Mrs. Hearn's address will be found in another column.

Mrs. Gee stated that the greatest fault of the Canadian women is criticism. Women won't take office because of it. If you can't help, don't hinder, but we can all help if we will.

Public Health

In speaking on the subject of "Public Health," Mrs. Clement stated that every child has the right to be well-born, in every sense of the word, both morally and physically, an undeniable right to a father and mother and a healthy happy existence. Many things have militated against this, chiefly perhaps, economic systems, high cost of living, intemperance, filth and disease. The public is slowly but surely becoming aroused to the fact that anything that is a menace to public health, must go.

"We have learned that diseases such as measles, scarlet fever, etc., need not be tolerated, that they can be prevented, that indeed in time we may entirely be rid of suffering. We have a long way to go, but it is to the child we look for fertile soil in which to plant seeds of Health Education which shall bring to the future generation such absolute cleanliness of personal habits as sanitary environments that any other kind of living will be intolerable."

"Recently the Federal Government has given us a Department of Public Health, the purpose of which shall be to maintain as far as possible a normal condition of health in mind and body for every man, woman, and child in Canada. Recently an advisory Council has been formed in this department and in the forming of this we regret to say the women have been entirely excluded. But women doctors and graduate nurses have given valuable service in this connection.

WANT HEALTH CERTIFICATES FOR FOOD HANDLERS

United Farm Women of Manitoba Pass Important Resolutions

At the meeting of the United Farm Women of Manitoba held Thursday morning in City Hall the following resolutions were passed and will be submitted to the main convention for approval.

"That the Women's Section of the Grain Growers be now known as the United Farm Women of Manitoba to coincide with the change of the name of the Men's Association."

"That all persons handling foodstuffs be compelled to have a clear health certificate before being permitted to do this work."

"That the women members are equally interested with the men in the sessions of the general convention and do not approve of meetings of the Women's Section being held while matters of importance are being discussed."

"Resolved that better arrangements be made for the registration of delegates at the annual convention and suggest that a line be formed to prevent so much jostling and crowding and to avoid delay."

"Resolved that the meeting thank the representatives of the sister Provinces who have so kindly assisted us on the program by their instructive addresses on questions that concern us so vitally. We know that as our aims are one, also our difficulties are identical and together we hope to work out our salvation."

Alberta Resolutions Endorsed

The two following resolutions were read from the United Farm Women of Alberta and received the endorsation of the United Farm Women of Manitoba.

"Whereas a husband may obtain a divorce from his wife if she has committed adultery, but a wife is not entitled to a divorce if the husband has committed adultery—unless his adultery is coupled with cruelty or with desertion without lawful excuse for at least two years—be it resolved that the last two sentences of the clause be withdrawn, and so allow the wife to obtain divorce on the proving of adultery alone."

"Whereas if a man dies intestate in Alberta leaving a widow who deserted him prior to his death and lived in adultery after leaving him, the widow is not entitled to any of his personal property, but if a woman dies intestate leaving a husband who deserted her prior to her death and lived in adultery after leaving her, the husband is entitled to all her personal property, no matter how valuable it may be, and notwithstanding that she may have acquired it wholly by her own efforts; resolved that the law be amended so that what applied to the women in the first instance be applied to the men."

Just prior to the adjournment of the meeting it was unanimously decided by the delegates to meet a day earlier in 1921 to enable them to have an extra day to transact business.

EXTRADITION OF BELA KUN TO BE AGAIN DEMANDED

Budapest, Jan. 7.—The high court which has been trying Bela Kun, former communist dictator of Hungary on numerous charges in connection with acts performed during his dictatorship, has concluded its hearings. On its findings, it will renew its demand upon Austria for the extradition of Bela Kun, whose trial was held in his absence, to fix legal grounds for the extradition demand. Testimony was offered to show Bela Kun guilty of 236 murders, 19 robberies and the use of 197,000,000 crowns for communist propaganda in Vienna alone.

It develops that the communist, Koches Cohen, who was executed last week, left a letter to the Attorney-General, confessing forty-four murders by his own hand.

WILSON PROPOSES REFERENDUM ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

W. J. Bryan Declares Democratic Party Should Accept Some Compromise

Washington, Jan. 9.—President Wilson's decision that the League of Nations issue should be placed before the voters as a solemn refer ndum, and W. J. Bryan's contention that the Democratic party cannot go before the country on the question but should accept such compromises as may be possible," are twin surprises of the conclave of party chieftains, which found a climax in the annual Jackson Day dinner. The President's message made no mention of a third term for himself and no announcement of his impending retirement to private life. Bryan's speech was accompanied by a statement that he was not speaking as a candidate fro Presidential nomination.

U.S. GENERAL SAYS TROOPS SACRIFICED ON ARMISTICE DAY

Because American High Command Did Not Revoke Specific Instructions

Washington, Jan. 9.—The lives of American troops were needlessly sacrificed on Armistice morning, because the American high command at Chaumont did not specifically revoke the previously issued orders to attack, Brig. General John Sherburne, former commanded of the Artillery Brigade 92nd (Negro) division, yesterday told the sub-committee.

The general staff system, General Sherburne declared, dominated the entire army and kept commanding officers from corps commanders down, in perpetual fear of being sent to the rear in disgrace.

When They Seek Seats In Legislature—Decision By Party Caucus

NO ACCLAMATIONS

Liberals To Oppose Each Minister When He Seeks Re-election

Toronto, Jan. 7.—It is to be war to the knife with the three seatless ministers of the Ontario Government when they seek election to the Legislature, a caucus of Liberals yesterday decided. The plight of Premier Drury, Attorney General Raney, and M. Doherty, Minister of Agriculture not having seats, was thoroughly discussed and no sympathy shown to the government for such a state of affairs. Each of the three ministers will meet Liberal opposition wherever he seeks re-election it was decided.

FORMER KAISER WON'T SURRENDER WITHOUT FIGHT

United States Decides Not to Join In Demand for Trial of Ex-Kaiser

PLANS ARE SECRET

Count Hohenzolleren Relies On Protection of Holland To Avoid Trial

Amerongen, Jan. 7.—Allied demands for the extradition of former Emperor William of Germany, in which it is known the United States will not participate is expected at the Hague about Jan. 15th. Recent press dispatches stated that Count Hohenzollern might surrender rather than embarrass the Netherlands Government, but it is now authoritatively reported he will rely on the protection of Holland and her refusal to honor the Allied demand.

Only the erstwhile Kaiser and his closest advisers know definitely his plans, but unless he changes his mind, it is learned, he is determined to settle down to life at Doorn, where his house is being rushed to completion.

SWINE BREEDERS ASK GOVT. FOR DEFINITE POLICY

Which Will Assure Them Fair Market Price For Their Hogs

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Outlook For Profit Is So Poor That Stock Is Being Sacrificed

Active steps to remedy the hog market and restore the confidence of Canadian swine breeders are to be taken by the Swine Breeders' Association of Manitoba. This was the decision reached at the annual meeting of the Association held in the City Hall, Wednesday afternoon, which was attended by quite a large number of members from out-of-town points. The abnormally poor condition of the Canadian production of hogs for market use was pointed out in an address by H. S. Arkell, Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa, who stated that the hog situation in this country is at the worst level in the country's history. Two resolutions were passed by the members in session and the Association will do everything in its power to bring back normal conditions in Canada.

Officers for 1920

The election of officers for the Association resulted as follows: President, W. C. McKillican, Brandon; Vice-President, J. R. Hulme, Souris; Directors, D. W. Agnew, Douglas; Peter McDonald, Virden; F. H. Wienecke, Stonewall; A. C. McPhail, Brandon. The representatives to the Winter Fair Board are Peter McDonald, D. W. Agnew and W. C. McKillican, while D. W. Agnew will represent the Association on the Provincial Fair Board and John Strachan of Pope will be the representative on the Western Canada Live Stock Union.

Showing that he possessed a very intimate knowledge of the bacon situation not only in Canada but also in Great Britain, France and the United States, Mr. H. S. Arkell gave a very interesting address on the "Swine Situation and what can be done to Remedy it." Mr. Arkell said that while overseas last Summer he talked with merchants in Paris and they stated that they would sooner have one pound of Canadian bacon than ten of American, while the demand was ten times more than they could supply. Canadian bacon, the Paris merchants said, would fetch a much more fancier price than American bacon every time. In London, Mr. Arkell said, the bacon market had slumped. This he thought was due to the fact that the British ministry refused to recognize quality where Canadian and American bacon was concerned and Canadians could not get the price they demanded for their superior bacon.

Out of this situation and on representations made to the British Government, representatives were sent over to Canada to look after the Canadian hog industry and to see that Canadian prices were protected. Later, at a conference held in New York the British delegates purchased all the Canadian bacon at agreed prices while the Americans will have to wait on the good will of the British Government before they will be able to dispose of the large stocks they have on hand at the present time. The relation generally speaking between the Canadian and British ministers to purchase food is on a satisfactory basis, said Mr. Arkell. The prices which have been paid since September represents a fair, reasonable price which Canadian packers were able to secure from the British Ministry of Food. He stated that the Department of Agriculture was making every possible effort to maintain the production of swine among the breeders of Canada.

Recognize Quality

The speaker declared that he knows of no industry in Canada that holds a better opportunity for profit than bacon, that is if the breeders are allowed to meet the situation in the open market, and if the standard of quality is recognized. There is still a great shortage of high quality bacon, and no immediate likelihood of an increased output in other countries, due to the high cost of feed. Mr. Arkell stated that there is an abnormal demand today for Canadian bacon, but that the United States is making great efforts to improve the quality of the bacon and are now successfully competing with the Canadian bacon.

Ask Definite Policy

"I have studied the situation in every province of the Dominion and the Canadian hog situation at present is at the worst level of any time during the country's history," said Mr. Arkell. "Alberta is not raising any hogs, Saskatchewan is in about the same box, while Manitoba is perhaps the best situated of the three Western Provinces. The situation in Ontario is also bad, and unless something is done to increase our production, our competitors will step in and corral the market for years to come," said the Live Stock Commissioner. He therefore asked that the hog breeders of Canada take an early opportunity to ask for a definite policy to be laid down by the Dominion Government with regard to the hog situation if the confidence of the breeders is to be restored. He also suggested that the Manitoba breeders communicate with other associations and then approach the Dominion Government, and this would give the Department of Agriculture a chance to state its views on the subject. He said in closing that the breeders should ask for definite information on the setting of prices, the process of marketting, the representation overseas and the circulation of market reports.

July Best Month to Market Hogs

Mr. Dan Johnston of the Union Stock Yards was to have spoken on "How to Establish the confidence of the producers in the hog industry," but he said that Mr. Arkell had covered his subject almost completely. He took the opportunity of giving some information on the prices obtained by Canadian bacon producers in Canadian stockyards. He said that the lowest prices were usually paid in September and the highest in July, while the great year for the number of hogs shipped into the market was in 1915. In this year over half a million hogs were sent through the Winnipeg stockyards alone while last year only about 250,000 were shipped from Winnipeg. Mr. Johnston stated that it is foolish for farmers or breeders to engage in the hog raising business unless there is a profit in it for them.

Following Mr. Arkell's suggestion that action be taken to bring the attention of the Dominion Government to the situation now existing, the following resolution was drafted and unanimously passed by the Association:

"Whereas a very serious lack of confidence, exists amongst Swine Breeders throughout the country in their view of policy between the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Board of Commerce, which has resulted in sows being marketed, in little pigs being killed, and in a very small percentage of sows being bred.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we the Swine Breeders' Association of Manitoba urgently request the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association at its annual meeting to lay the whole case before the Dominion Government and request a definite declaration of policy as to its future attitude toward the Swine industry, and that Messrs. McKillican and Gordon be delegated to present this matter before the annual meeting of the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association.

A resolution which was before the executive committee of the Western Canada Live Stock Union was also submitted to the Association in session here Wednesday afternoon with the result that the Brandon meeting adopted the resolution as passed in Calgary. It is as follows:

"To the Members of the Executive Committee, Western Canada Live Stock Union.

"Dear Sirs—

"With reference to our resolution objection to the Board of Commerce setting the price for hogs, would you be in favor of sending a letter as follows to the Minister of Trade and Commerce?

"The Western Canada Live Stock Union looks with alarm on the very serious reduction in number of hogs kept for breeding purposes, due, we believe to the high cost of grain coupled with the price fixing of hog products by the Board of Commerce. At the recent annual meeting of the Alberta Swine Breeders' Association, breeders reported a reduction of breeding herds in several districts as high as eighty per cent. in the last few months. If what we believe to be a vicious practice of price fixing is persisted in by the Board of Commerce, we submit that such fixing of prices should bear a reasonable relation to the cost of production and the price of feed, otherwise fewer sows will be bred and pork production seriously reduced. Extensive experiments conducted by the Dominion Government Experimental Farms show that it requires about four and a half pounds of grain to make a pound of pork, plus thirty-five per cent. for other feed and overhead. In Western Canada, this feed might be taken as being equal parts of oats and barley; and the price of live hogs at central markets such as Edmonton, Calgary and Winnipeg markets should not be less than the average cost for six months of four and a half pounds of equal parts of No. 2 C. W. Oats and No. 3 C. W. Barley, plus thirty-three per cent. If this or some action having the same effect is not adopted, it would appear as if the action of the Board of Commerce would result in undoing the work of many years of co-operative effort on the part of the Government and Breeders, looking to the establishment and encouragement of hog production in Canada. This industry is in the most serious condition it has ever been."

Yours very truly,
(Signed) E. L. RICHARDSON,
Secretary.

SITUATION IN RUSSIA BAD FOR ANTI-BOLSHEVIKS

British War Office Says Few Signs of Any Likely Improvement

MENACING DEVELOPMENTS

General Denikine's Army Cut In Two, Flanks Thrust Back

London, Jan. 8.—The situation in Russia is about as bad as could be from an Anti-Bolshevik point of view, according to the British War office reports, and there are few signs indicating any likely improvement. There are two especially menacing developments. General Denikines army has been cut in two through the Bolshevik pushing to the Sea of Azov at Taganrog, and its flanks have been thrust back, leaving a large gap. In addition, comes the claim from the Bolshevik of the capture further East of the town of Krasnovodsk, on the Caspian Sea.

BRITISH IMPORTS AND EXPORTS INCREASE 1919

According To Figures Presented By the British Board of Trade

London, Jan. 8.—Board of Trade figures for the year 1919 show that imports have increased 315,000,000 pounds and exports increased 297,000,000 pounds. The principal increases in imports were food, 142,000,000 pounds of raw materials including cotton 40,000,000 pounds and wool 65,000,000.

Chief increases in exports were coal 40,000,000 pounds and manufactured articles 225,000,000 pounds, including cotton textiles 60,000,000 pounds, and woolen textiles 48,000,000 pounds.

MACPHERSON TO URGE CHANGE IN MILITARY PLANS

Member For Portage Seeks Reduction of Army and Advocates Physical Training

A standing army of not more than 2,000 men instead of 10,000 as proposed by the Federal House and a broad system of physical training in the schools are two of the main points to be urged by Lieut.-Colonel C. D. MacPherson M.L.A. for Portage La Prairie before the United Farmers of Manitoba in session here. Cutting out much of what he calls the "deadwood" by reducing the military staffs and districts is also urged by Col. MacPherson.

"Moreover the present parliament has no mandate from the people to establish an army or compulsory training," said the Colonel. "It would not stop militarism and is economically unsound," he added. "The R. N. W. M. P. handled the Winnipeg strike and are the home defence together with the 200,000 returned men we have now. Let the country rest for three to five years and then formulate, from young and actual war service officers and men a minimum organization," he said.

THREATEN BOYCOTT IF TURKEY TERMS NOT SATISFACTORY

Delhi, Jan. 8.—British goods will be boycotted if the peace settlement with Turkey is not satisfactory to the Moslems, according o a resolution adopted by India Moslems, who gathered here recently in the all India khalifatk conference. By another resolution, it was proposed to begin gradual cessation of co-operation with the Government in event of unsuccessful peace with Turkey. India Moslems have been insisting upon the principle of nationality and self-determination as a basis for dealing with Turkey.

BRITISH RAILWAY MEN TO MEET TO DECIDE POLICY

Will They Strike, Or Will a Ballot Be Taken By Unions?

London, Jan. 8.—Interest in the resumption of the railwaymen's conference today centres around whether the men will declare another strike, or proceed with a ballot by 500,000 members of the various unions affected by the Government's offer in settlement of the wage demand.

NO LOANS TO DISABLED MEN

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—The report from Winnipeg that Hon. J. A. Calder had advised the District Vocational officer there that loans of $1,500 would be granted to disabled war veterans to enable them to set themselves up in business, received a flat denial here. Hon. Mr. Calder said he had not sent any such message and did not know of any such provision being made.

Captain N. F. Parkinson, Acting Deputy Minister of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Reestablishment, said that no such statement had been authorized by the Department and that no such provision had been made.

A telegram from the Manitoba Patriotic Fund to Hon. J. A. Calder recently stated that great numbers of returned men were seeking loans to establish themselves in business and urged that some provision for loans be made. This telegram was referred to the D.S.C.R., and in answer, it was stated that regulations governing the loans to disabled trained men were being prepared as recommended by parliament. No sum was mentioned in the Department's telegram, however, and officials here are at a loss to account for the figure of $1,500 being mentioned.

The regulations in question, it is expected, will be ready for issue to district vocational officers within the course of a few days, when they have been completed and approved.

CERTIFICATES OF VACCINATION MAY BE DEMANDED

Winnipeg, Jan. 8.—It is probable that an order will be issued in the near future requiring persons entering Manitoba from Ontario to show certificates of vaccination in order to guard against the danger of the disease gaining foothold here, said Dr. M. Stuart Fraser, of the Provincial Board of Health.

"The matter is being contemplated by the Board," Dr. Fraser asserted, "and it seems very likely that it will decide to demand proof of the vaccination of incoming travellers. With the exception of a few isolated cases in the province, there have been no reports that signs of the spread of the disease here have been noted."

Railways May Assist

In order to make sure that travellers show proof of vaccination, an arrangement in this regard may be entered into with the railway companies, it is believed.

No cases of smallpox have been reported in Winnipeg since early in November, W. J. T. Watt, of the city Health Department said. The careful vaccination of school pupils and many adults in Winnipeg will prevent the spread of the disease, Mr. Watt thinks. What he would advise, he said, is that all families, who have any cases of dangerous looking rashes or bad sore throats should advise the health department, if they do not feel like calling a physician, and the department will send a doctor to examine and prescribe for them, Mr. Watt said.

Vaccination in St. Boniface

Vaccination of 1,000 pupils attending schools in St. Boniface, to avoid a spread in Manitoba of the smallpox epidemic in Ontario, was started today, Dr. M. Stuart Fraser, of the provincial board of health, said. The board sent two nurses to assist in the operation, he added.

The board is doing everything possible to induce unvaccinated persons to submit to the operation, Dr. Fraser said. Any physician can perform the work, he said, and if a person cannot afford to pay, he will be vaccinated free of charge at the city hall, or if living in a rural district, at a station maintained by the province.

ITALIAN PAPER NOTES CHANGE IN SITUATION

Rome, Jan. 8.—Corriere D'Italia, says a memorandum "not in the form of an ultimatum, but a very grave document coming from the Allied nations to a nation bound to them by a solemn pact" has been delivered to Foreign Minister Scialoia by Allied representatives. The memorandum, the newspaper asserts, has for its object the closing of the period of negotiations and the opening of a new one, and recalls to a new station negotiations "that the Pact of London does not exist any more." Having been destroyed by former Italian negotiators.

JAP MILITARY ACTIVITIES IN SIBERIA

Japanese Government Says It Has No Plans To Annex Territory

Tokio, Jan. 7.—Japanese military activity in Siberia is no part of a plan by the Japanese Government to annex Siberian territory. General Narimoto Oi, commanding the forces in Siberia, declared in a speech here.

"Japan wishes only to guarantee peace. She has neither a desire for territorial annexation nor the acquisition of any other privileges in Siberia," said General Oi.

Japan is reported to have nearly a hundered thousand men moving against the Bolshevik advance in Siberia. Since the collapse of the Kolchak Government and the defeat of General Denikine by the red forces, Japan has been rapidly increasing her expeditionary forces.

Washington, Jan. 7. — Japanese forces in Siberia, it was learned authoritatively here are moving to a position East of Lake Baikai, in Japan's first attempt to crush completely the Eastward sweep of the Bolsheviki armies. In addition, two battalions, approximating 2,000 men have been sent to Irkutsk to quell local revolutionist uprisings. The Bolsheviks are reported between fifty and 100 miles West of Irkutsk.

Japanese forces in Siberia now number nearly 100,000, although this exceeds the number permitted under the agreement by which Japan and other allies intervened in Siberia, it was learned. Japan's troops, according to the agreement, were not to exceed the total of the other allies. Great Britain and France have removed all their troops and the United States has only 9,000 men in Siberia, it was said. It was understood Japan virtually has determined to send material reinforcements.

Important negotiations are being conducted by Japanese Ambassador Reidehara with the state department, and a decision is expected momentarily. A definite step to check the Red menace is expected to result.

FEDERAL POLITICAL ACTION FAVORED BY MANY DISTRICTS

Reports Presented From Many Districts Supports Proposal For Direct Political Action—Milk Producers' Committee Formed—Deportation of Hutterites and Others Entering Canada Illegally Favored— United Farmers of Manitoba Is New Name For Association

Enthusiastic support by the various districts of the movement to put the United Farmers of Manitoba into Federal politics was evidenced by the reports of the District Directors presented today which showed practically all Districts already organized for this purpose.

"The women will stand with the men on the matter of political action. We are distinctly a part of the organization. We are decidedly in favor of entering Federal politics," declared Mrs. J. S. Wood, Vice-President of the United Farmers of Manitoba, following the opening of the women's convention.

Greetings from the convention were sent to Honorary President, J. W. Scallion, Virden.

Support Farmers' Platform

W. I. Ford, Director Nelson District, in reporting, stated that his district was solidly behind the principles of the Farmers platform.

I. W. McQuay, reporting from Dauphin District, stated great advances had been made along association lines in the District during the past year, especially among the foreign element.

J. B. Griffiths, presented the Directors' report for Marquette. A new spirit, he said, has been awakened among the farmers, and in Marquette has resulted in advances which had prepared it for direct political action.

A. J. M. Poole, Neepawa, stated his district had set the pace for organization of locals and had a progressive District board. Conditions in the District from a farmers' point of view are excellent, he said.

Criticize Sitting Member

D. G. McKenzie, Brandon, said the main item during the past year had been the favoring of political action.

"We visited our sitting member to see what his attitude on the tariff was," said Mr. McKenzie. "His answer was not entirely satisfactory and so we sent out a call to all locals." The result was that at a subsequent convention at Oak Lake direct action was strongly advocated.

"We may have to wait two years for an election and we must hold interest by educating our members," said Mr. McKenzie.

O. A. Jones, Souris, director, said all sorts of people were clamoring to get into the organization.

"What for?" asked a delegate.

"The plums that will soon be going when we get started under political action," promptly replied Mr. Jones. Souris District has already organized for direct political action, he declared. "The thing for you to do is to pick a man who, when he goes to Ottawa will not be whipped into line by the politicians as some of the older men have been," he concluded.

MacDonald and Myrtle also favored political action according to reports of Directors Andrew Graham and Peter Wright. C. J. Stoney, Director, Morris district, reported his section also in line for political action.

Bruce Edie, Springfield, stated that District was active in assimilating the foreign element, and was prepared for political action and felt assured of success.

P. D. McArthur, Portage District, reported Summer a campaign unsuccessful on account of the strike, but that the association was active and had doubled its membership during the last year, and organized politically.

Selkirk on the Job

W. H. French, Selkirk Districts, showed that they were on the job "till they could catch their jackfish in the ditches without the aid of Sir Clifford."

Milk Producers' Committee

The first resolution was introduced by Mr. G. W. Tubble and asked for the formation of a convention committee, to investigate the conditions in the production of milk with a view to making possible the profitable production of milk. The resolution was endorsed and the President and Secretary with Directors French and Edie were appointed a committee to investigate. They have the power to select six actual producers of milk to sit with them in the committee. It will be called "The milk producers committee."

Deport Those Who Enter Canada Illegally

Wm. J. Servage, Elf, introduced a resolution asking that Hutterites, Doukabors and Mennonites, who have entered Canada illegally be deported, and that all who enter through regular channels be made to sign a declaration that they will conform to all the laws of Canada, and when eligible, will become naturalized. The resolution asks that all who shall be guilty of avoiding registration be deported.

The resolution emanated from the Great War Veterans Association at Elf, but was changed to read, as from the Resolution Committee of the convention and was enthusiastically carried.

Another resolution was brought forward asking that the returned soldiers be given 320 acres instead of 240 as proposed in the Erickson District. The resolution was tabled.

Improve Mail Service

Resolutions asking, that the sorting of rural mail be done by the post office staff, that postmasters be given increased pay, that mail carriers be given an increased salary, were referred back to the Resolution Committee.

The resolution asking the Federal Government to reduce the military staff to a pre-war basis was brought up but left over till after the elections. Lieut.-Colonel C. D. MacPherson is the sponsor for this resolution.

Nominating ballot for Eresident for 1920 was taken just previous to adjournment at noon.

Wednesday afternoon Session

O. Freer, representing the livestock department of United Grain Growers' gave statistics of the work carried on in 1919. He declared that while many animals came to the stockyards which should not have been sent yet there are many of the finest cattle hanging around the yards waiting for purchasers. He outlined the plan of survey of breeding stock put in by his association, the idea being to replace all poor stock. The department had also made provision for financing with little or no money.

Hard to Interest Women

Mrs. Sloane, Myrtle, presented the General Directors report for the Women's Section, which showed a general increase in memberships and locals. The great problem for 1920, the report stated, was to overcome the uninterested attitude of many of the women. One of the features of 1919 the report declared, was the co-operation shown by immigrants.

Greetings from Saskatchewan

A. G. Hawkes, vice-president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, brought greetings from the association to the convention. He praised the work of the United Farmers of Ontario, who, he said, had ceased to be blamed for the reverses suffered at Ottawa by Western Farmers delegations.

He stated that a brighter day was coming when the farmers would, through united action be enabled to secure their demands.

The speaker asked for careful and thoughtful action on the part of the conference, whose action would be watched carefully by the farmers of Canada.

In Saskatchewan, he stated, they were attempting to line everyone up with the National Policy.

Mrs. F. W. Crawford, Farmers' Advocate, Winnipeg, in discussing the reports of the secretaries, deprecated the fact that difficulties were experienced in formulating the reports owing to the non co-operation of the locals, and advocated more system. Considerable discussion resulted.

The reports were adopted.

Auditors' Report

The auditors' report was read and adopted. It showed a payment of membership dues of $10,203.25, a total receipt of $21,813.13, and a balance of $3,273.73.

Have Plenty of Money

Delegate James Ross, Bethany, rose during the discussion of the auditors' report and stated that the association had no need of the $1,000 grant from the Provincial Legislature. He made a resolution to the effect that the money be returned to the Government in view of the financial prosperity of the association.

Peter Wright, Myrtle, stated that the grant was first sought three years ago for publicity purposes.

C. H. Burnell asked that the grant be respectfully refused in future. This was added to the resolution in the form of an amendment.

The amendment carried. The effect will be that the money in hand will be retained but the grant refused in future.

The Financial report of the Women's Section was adopted.

United Farmers of Manitoba

Important amendments to the constitution were passed. The first, election by ballot, of the officers, the second that the name be changed from the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association to the United Farmers of Manitoba. Considerable discussion arose and delegate Leonard Taylor, Desford, asked what harm the association had done that it was forced to change its name. W. R. Wood, secretary, explained that the amendment was to clean up the misunderstanding as to the position of farmers other than grain growers, who often considered they were excluded form the association. He explained that this would also bring the association in line with that of Ontario and Alberta. Charles Longman, Deloraine, asked if this name would include those who "farmed the farmer." T. Carlyle, Treesbank, stated that his local had given the matter careful consideration and were enthusiastic over it. The amendment carried enthusiastically. There were three dissenting votes. The change becomes effective immediately.

The third amendment was that the association year begin December 1st and December 30. This has been the usage but the clause was omitted from the constitution. The amendment was adopted.

ENGLISH WANTS ACTION IN PROVINCIAL AND DOMINION POLITICS

Mr. Harry English, of Harding, one of the candidates proposed by the convention for the Presidency of the United Farmers of Manitoba, said that he would stand on the principle that the Farmers enter both the Federal and Provincial political field and that if elected he would urge and direct action along these lines. His announcement was received with great applause from the large number of delegates assembled.

Of the delegates present that the intermediates should affiliate with the Manitoba Hockey Association and all the leagues will now link up with the present organization. The size of the rink for play-offs was also taken up but nothing definite arranged, but it is probable that before the annual meeting next Winter the intermediates will be a strong organization with possibly more representation on the executive of the Manitoba Hockey Association than the seniors.

UNITED FARMERS HAVE MATERIAL TO FILL ALL CABINETS

Premier Norris Declares In Address Delivered At Open Meeting—No Mistake in Putting Politicians out of Business—Startling Attack on Tariff —Development of Canada Dealt With by H. S. Arkell

That he has no fear because farmer governments were becoming popular and that right now the United Farmers of Manitoba could supply enough material for all the cabinets in Canada; together with a scathing attack on the tariff formed the features of a stirring address by Premier T. C. Norris at the Wednesday evening session of the convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba.

The spacious first floor of the Gordon McKay building was packed to the doors.

Launching right into his address, Premier Norris commented on the marvellous growth of the association, which he termed, "the greatest organization of business men in Canada, with a very complete and effective organization."

"You say you are even going to put the politicians out of business," he said, "I don't know that you will make much of a mistake in a lot of cases either, as long as you pick out the farmers among them and leave them there."

There are people afraid of sinking under a farmers government, and he declared that he was sure that in the audience there were men capable of filling every cabinet position in the government. He proceeded to outline the history of the province during the last fifty years and continued by outlining the remarkable natural resources of the province and the successes of Manitoba products in world wide competition. Manitoba, is ideally situated for mixed farming, and when all natural resources are developed, he stated, he believed Manitoba would take first rank among the provinces.

People Demand Better Things

The people of the province are demanding better things of men elected to represent them, and referring to remarks of a former speaker Mrs. Bychinsky, stated that the foreign problem was one of the greatest facing the government and must be faced in an upright, straightforward way.

Five or six years ago, there were 000 children in outlying Northern districts without school facilities. Assistance was secured, the speaker said, and since then 150 schools have been built and now English speaking teachers are doing missionary work in the communities. The Department of Education was complimented by the Premier on the remarkable work they have done in securing educational and medical instruction for outlying districts. The result has been that the teachers home has become the centre of these communities, and the medical instruction has reduced the morality in these districts to one-third of what it was six years ago. At present the government is assisting over 00 widows to support and educate their families. $200,000 was the amount disbursed by the Mothers Allowance fund last year.

Cheap money, easy terms have been hard for the farmer to secure and as a result Premier Norris stated the government developed the scheme of Rural Credits and by next year will be loaning money to farmers through an association they themselves control. Manitoba, he said, leads the world in this line. He mentioned the Mortgage Loans Act, which, he pointed out, as beneficial to the province.

Increase Production

In regard to the high tariff, he stated that the Dominion Government held control and that while the producers had for years been fighting to have it lowered they have never succeeded. Farmers, he said, have been simply "making their way" during the last few years and the high cost of living would not be reduced until production increases. Western Canada has the ability to produce. When the prices of wheat and beef go down the high cost of living will not materially decrease at once and unless the farmer has a supply of money laid by he will be in a tight place. Something must be done, he declared.

Co-Operation Needed

"The greatest impediment to the success of the producer in this country," the Premier declared, "is the high tariff. The question is how is this going to be reduced. You can reduce it. We have got to pull together to secure the reduction in the tariff, the freight rates and an open market. Things which we must have."

The people of the province, he declared, were on the pinnacle of good times. The character of the people make it possible for the province to get the fullest good out of its natural resources. He concluded by reiterating his appeal for co-operation.

Vocal solos were sung by Miss T. A. Wilkins, lady principal of Clare Hall, and Miss Hamilton, Miss Edith Gerrand acted as accompanist. A reading by Miss G. Newbury, teacher of physical culture and expression at Brandon College was much enjoyed.

Officials of the convention stated Wednesday that the city was living up to the standard set in former years, for hospitality and good cheer, and that the delegates were fully satisfied at the succes attending the efforts of the citizens to provide accommodation. The official registration of delegates was well over the 800 mark early in the evening.

Canada's Greatest Resources

H. S. Arkell, Livestock Commissioner, Ottawa, delivered an address following the opening of the evening session. His subject was "The Development of Canada," and he commenced by outlining the new thought the force of which, he stated, was creating a new world. He doubted if Canadians could appreciate the situation in Europe today. He had, he said, just returned from England, where the chief thought was on re-construction in all parts of the British Empire.

Without industrial development and power, Canada cannot hold her place with other nations. The time has come when Canada will have to compete with these nations or else lose the place she has gained during the war.

The speaker outlined the resources of Canada, the greatest of which was her natural resources and the spirit of her people. The greatest problem before the country was the situation of the farmer, on whom the prosperity of the country depends.

Canadian Export Trade

Things that Canada can export, which are in demand by the nations of Europe must be raised. Each community should furnish its quota in order that the production of Canada would enable the Dominion to dominate the foreign market. To do this, we must organize abroad a great marketing system. If this is accomplished the commerce of this country will be recognized as a powerful factor in empire politics and commerce.

In conclusion he asked the audience why they should do this. In answer he stated that every citizen believed the interests of the country were above personal interests, and a great patriotism existed in the hearts of the citizens.

"Canada," he said, "has given something to each one of us, education, the right to live, freedom, honest government and none of us should belittle our debt to the nation. Until we fulfill our duty we are unworthy of the great sacrifice that has been made for us during the last five years."

He asked the audience for faith in Canada and the British Empire.

"Canadians," he said, "must believe in Canada."

The Foreigner in Canada

Mrs. Anna Bychinsky, addressed the association on "The Foreigner in Canada," with special reference to the Ukrainians, whose problem, she said, involved the happiness of a nation, which had been and is being persecuted and abused. Many of them have come to Canada to obtain the freedom denied them at home. Here they were faced by many privations at first, and were exploited for labor and treated like cattle. Many of them settled on homesteads and now own modern farms, after years of patient work by every member of the homesteader's family. The foreigner has not been appreciated or rightly estimated as citizens, but are looked down on and avoided. The average citizen only knows the foreigner through the newspapers, the criminal records and political talk. Politicians, the speaker said, used the foreigner as a good gamble at election time.

"There should be," she said, "no difference between the foreigner and the Anglo-Saxon."

Mrs. Bychinsky stated that a great wall of racial prejudice exists between the nationalities in Canada and asked her audience to work for a harmonious Canada, as a step towards which she advocated assimilation on a slow scale.

President Brown's Comment

President J. L. Brown, commenting on the address, stated that future generations will wish to blot out the pages of history which tell of the exploitation of the foreigner by unscrupulous politicians who have passed "for instance the war times election act."

DIRECTORS REPLY TO STATEMENT BY R. C. HENDERS

No Member of Board Remembers Being Asked For Place On Program

WOULD GIVE HEARING

As a Member of Association He Had a Right To Attend Meeting of Local

The following statement has been handed out by the Board of Directors of the United Farmers of Manitoba:

The undersigned members of the Board of Directors of the United Farmers of Manitoba, have read the statement issued through the press by Mr. R. C. Henders, former President of the organization, and desire to make the following statements in reference thereto:

1. The time when the various resolutions from locals and districts, condemning the attitude taken by Mr. Henders at Ottawa, came to the central office, was the time when Mr. Henders was on his way from Ottawa to the West, and as soon as possible after he arrived in Winnipeg, copies of all such resolutions were placed in his hands.

2. These resolutions had not been considered nor any judgment passed on them by the executive at this time.

3. There were no "charges" made against Mr. Henders, either by the resolutions or the board and no "investigation" in regard to him either suggested or held.

4. There is no recollection in the minds of any member of the board of any request made by Mr. Henders for a place on the program of the annual convention, and we are convinced that Mr. Henders is mistaken in his statement that he made such a request.

5. Had the members of the board been aware of a request on Mr. Henders' part for a hearing at Brandon, there has never, at any time been on the part of any one of them, any disposition to deny such a hearing.

6. No request, either verbal or written, from Mr. Henders for a hearing at Brandon has ever been received at the central office or by the secretary of the association.

7. Mr. Henders, as a member of the association, has the right of attending the meetings of any local, any district, or the provincial association, and had he availed himself of this unquestioned right, he would have had the fullest liberty of expressing himself in the same way as other members.

8. The board of the association have never wished to cast any reflection on Mr. Henders. They have no quarrel with him. They have always endeavored to treat him as a gentleman and fellow-worker in a great movement. On principle they differed from his view as to the last Dominion budget and his action thereon. They expressed these views at the July meeting with clearness and firmness, but they think, with due consideration for the position he held and his long record of service in the movement. Having heard those views, Mr. Henders tendered his resignation and the board, after full consideration, expressed their position in the following resolution:

"We, the board of directors of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, while deeply regretting the circumstances which have necessitated the resignation of our president, R. C. Henders, and while we fully appreciate the long years of faithful service he has rendered our organization—yet, after careful consideration, we cannot in any degree, accept his attitude on the tariff in the recent budget debate and vote. We, therefore, repudiate his stand, accept his resignation and re-affirm our adherence to the principles of the Farmers' platform."

MANITOBA UNITED FARMERS NOT TO ENTER PROVINCIAL POLITICS, CONVENTION DECIDES

This Will Not Prevent Many Districts Putting Forward Independent Candidates—Question of Provincial Action Referred To Locals For Expression of Opinion—Brandon To Have 1921 Convention—Important Resolutions

Friday evening's session brought to a close an epochal convention which placed the United Farmers of Manitoba in Federal politics, lining them up with the Ontario Association in this regard, and practically forming the nucleus of what Association officials expect will be a coast to coast movement.

No Association candidates will run in the next Provincial elections. Following a discussion lasting seven hours, the matter of Provincial action was referred to the locals for expression of opinion. This will not prevent many of the Districts putting forward an independent candidate, it was stated.

Convention Here in 1921

Brandon will be the convention city for 1921, it was decided after the delegates heard a delegation headed by Mayor Dinsdale. An attarctive invitation from Winnipeg was refused.

Mayor George Dinsdale asked the delegates to meet again in Brandon next year. He announced that the delegates would be guests of the city at a dance in the convention hall, before leaving.

Ald. Geo. R. Coleman said Brandon felt wedded to the United Farmers of Manitoba. Next year Brandon might have a memorial hall to accomodate the delegates. He compared the advantages of Brandon as a farmers' centre compared with Winnipeg. He told how the livestock men had stayed loyal to Brandon, how also the Manitoba Winter and Summer fairs were housed in the city.

P. Kennedy, President of the Board of Trade, also extended a cordial invitation. He pointed to the exceptionally good railway facilities possessed by Brandon.

Josiah Dennett said when the Association was in its infancy Winnipeg didn't want them; now he would not go there at any price. His remarks, punctuated by humorous sallies, caused much enthusiasm, the cheers being equally as loud as on any other motion before this year's convention. The motion to met her in 1921 was carried unanimously.

Mayor Dinsdale briefly tendered thanks from the city.

Resolutions setting forth the Association's stand on all important questions were passed.

The women had a share in all discussions and were complimented throughout on their co-operation during the past year.

The executive will deal with a plea from the Ruthenian delegates that the convention be not held on January 7th at any future date. January 7th is their Christmas Day.

The convention then went on to resume discussion on resolutions.

Many Resolutions

The resolution asking for greater emphasis on the study of political economy and agriculture was carried and sent on to the Manitoba School Trustees.

A resolution to the effect that the Board of Directors be instructed to definitely present the cause of the farmers to all who have not yet been brought into contact with it, was carried without discussion.

The Central Board will fix the date of a Grain Growers' Sunday.

Better telephone facilities in the rural districts was asked in another resolution sent to the executive.

The next resolution asked a supervision of creameries. It also went to the executive.

Resolution on Prohibition

Harris MacKee, Little Souris, introduced a resolution asking for provincial and Dominion action on the liquor question. The resolution carried amid enthusiastic applause. It read:

"Therefore be it resolved that we the United Farmers of Manitoba, in convention assembled in the city of Brandon, urge the Provincial Government

(1) To give under no conditions whatever any recommendation to the Dominion Government for the granting of any license to any liquor warehouse in the province.

(2) To immediately enact legislation, making it illegal for any individuals to purchase liquor for beverage purposes, and for the having of such liquors on their premises.

(3) To immediately request the Dominion Parliament to submit a referendum covering the situation.

Abolition of Board of Commerce

Immediate abolition of the Board of Commerce, or reconstruction of this body was the gist of a long resolution. G. Lovell, Springfield, in support, declared that the milk producers could not deliver milk to Winnipeg at the prices fixed by the Board. He moved the resolution be adopted. W. H. French, Selkirk, was the seconder.

The Canadian Council of Agriculture was asked to take the matter up in a rider added to the resolution, which carried.

A proposal to hold the convention in July was turned down.

Thanksgiving Day

A resolution asking the Dominion Government to fix a day for Thanksgiving toward the end of November, to accommodate the farmer and rancher. An amendment added asked that it be the second Monday of the month, a second amendment moved by George McKitrick, asked that it be the 11th of November, which day, he said, should be a National day of thanksgiving.

The motion was referred to the board to be drafted.

A resolution asking for legislation allowing of the distribution of electrical power to rural municipalities, carried.

A resolution asking that members of the executive, being elected to parliament, resign their seats, was tabled.

There was no mover for the resolution asking that at least as much money be spent for the improvement of Canadian schools, as is spent on military and naval preparations, and it was dropped.

A resolution asking that the Central Association bring the matter of carelessness on the railways before the proper authorities, was carried.

A resolution reading, "Whereas, the Union Government holds the reins of power, and has lost the confidence of the people, therefore, be it resolved, that we ask them to resign," caused a deal of amusement and after being characterized as ridiculous, was tabled.

Income Tax Proposals

That the system and form of the income tax be simplified and the Act amended to include expenditure for female help, was the gist of a resolution that carried.

That the present system of handling rural mail be changed, and the sorting be done by the post office staff instead of the carriers, was asked in the next resolution. It was tabled.

H. W. Coxsmith, High Bluff,, Vice-President of the Canadian Postmaster's Association, made a plea for higher salaries for postmasters. Many of them, he said, did not get the pay of a common laborer. The executive was asked to fully probe this matter.

Better pay for rural mail carries is also to be taken up by the executive with the Ottawa Government.

Greater gratuities for veterans as asked by the Manitoba G.W.V.A. was favored, in a resolution adopted.

Delegates argued that attention should be paid to the disabled men first, especially along the lines of inadequate pensions.

Major McLaren outlined the G.W.V.A. gratuity plan, which, he stated, was fair.

Mrs. Jane Elliott and Mrs. F. E. Gee moved and seconded a motion which was adopted and changed the name of the women's association to the United Farm Women of Manitoba.

District Directors

District Directors were elected as follows: Provencher, C. L. Stoney; Lisgar, Peter Wright; Souris, R. F. Chapman; Brandon, D. G. McKenzie; Portage la Prarie, P. D. McArthur; Neepawa, A. J. M. Poole; Marquette, I. B. Griffiths; Dauphin, R. J. Avison; Swan River, W. I. Ford; Selkirk, W. H. French; Springfield, Bruce Edie; Macdonald, A. Graham.

A vote of thanks was extended to the city and people of Brandon, the press, and the executive officers.

Reply to Mr. Henders

J. L. Brown, President, stated that a full statement from the Board would be made in good time and published in the press in reply to the statement published from the late president, R. C. Henders. He asked for united effort on the part of all to see that the platform of the farmers' movement be successful.

The convention was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. Following the adjournment a dance was held under the auspices of the city for the delegates and friends.

Resolution Passed on Political Action Action

The resolution on political action read as follows:

Whereas the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association has taken certain definite action to put into effect the great principle embodied in the Farmers' Platform by organizing to elect in every Federal constituency a candidate pledged to support those principles and,

Whereas we recognize that the great issues of the immediate future are of a Federal nature and,

Whereas we believe that our whole energies at this time must be concentrated in giving effect to these fundamental principles,

Resolution Passed

Be it resolved that the question of taking Provincial action be left entirely to the local constituencies; and further, if the majority of constituencies in the province, after consulting the electors of their respective constituencies declare in favor of taking concerted action at the next Provincial election, the Provincial Executive be asked to call a convention of accredited delegates from the constituencies for the purpose of formulating a Provincial platform."

The delegates had their pictures taken at this point in the proceedings.

The Farmers' Movement

Norman Lambert, Secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, told of the proposed changes in the New National Policy. The Farmers' Movement had attracted the interest of all farming people East of the Rocky Mountains. Government barriers were breaking down, there was no room for separate political schools and the Canadian Council of Agriculture was trying to weld the farmers' organizations into the one great movement. The farmers' platform contained nothing new; it was the policy based on the past fifteen years' work by all associations interested.

The convention readily adopted the four amendments, one to secure unrestricted reciprocal exchange of natural products with the U.S.A.; second, to place all foodstuffs on the free list; third, that naturalization shall be based on personal naturalization only;; and fourth, that in the new Dominion Election Act the Federal list shall be based on the Provincial franchise.

Endorse National Marketing of Wheat

A resolution asking that the Convention endorse for the present the national marketing of wheat read:

"Whereas the abnormal conditions of the war have rendered it necessary for the governments of importing and exporting countries to exercise measures of control over shipments of foodstuffs particularly wheat:

"And whereas possibilities of governmental control over the grain markets of the principal importing countries of Europe, including Great Britain, still exist;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the Canadian council of agriculture, while not at this date declaring upon the principal of the government control as a permanent policy, believe it is desirable to continue national marketing of Canada's wheat product, at least so long as the principle countries importing Canadian wheat retain government control of their imports and distribution.

Considerable discussion arose and an amendment was proposed to make the resolution one of dissaproval of the continuance of the national marketing of wheat. The amendment was not seconded and was dropped.

Josiah Bennett, Pine Creek, speaking to the amendment, asked the convention if the farmers were going to let "the gamblers at the Grain Exchange" control the prices of wheat, and opposed the resolution.

Delegate Dearborn, Arnott, scored the Wheat Board when the resolution from the Canadian Council of Agriculture on the price of wheat was discussed.

Josiah Bennett declared the present system benefitted the "gamblers" on the Winnipeg exchange.

James Bowsfield, MacGregor, pleaded earnestly for publicity in all wheat selling transactions.

Norman Lambert, called upon, said that the resolution did not ask a continuation of past conditions. It made national market conditional on the buyers, also controlling their markets. Europe today had less food than at any time during the war. The Wheat Board had permitted domestic flour to go to the millers too long and the increase to farmers was somewhat belated.

A Deloraine delegate declared that grain had been carried across the line for over a month.

Replying to many delegates, Mr. Lambert said the farmers' delegates on the Wheat Board were H. W. Wood of Alberta, F. W. Riddell, Saskatchewan, and Colonel J. Z. Frazer, Ontario.

Plea for Fair Trial

A. G. Hawkes, Saskatchewan, said it was unfair to criticize the Wheat Board when the board was helping to keep down the manipulators in Winnipeg. He was sure the resolution would pass at the Saskatchewan convention. "The squel comes because the price has gone up in the U. S.: if it had gone down there would be no kick. "Give the Wheat Board a fair trial," he pleaded.

J. R. Murray said he has been repeatedly asked if the millers got the benefit of the recent raise. They had not. The strongest phase of the resolution was that it did not fix a permanent policy. Personally, he would not commit himself now to next year's policy. Reverting to the Wheat Board, he favored it being composed of farmers. (Hear, hear.) The resolution was then made unanimous.

The redrafted resolution regarding censorship reads: "Be it resolved that the government of Canada be urged to repeal immediately the orders-in-council curtailing the liberty of the press, as a violation of the British principles of justice as a contradiction of the very traditions of democratic freedom which English speaking peoples have taken over three centuries to establish and as a most formidable obstacle to the development of a strong and united Canadian people. It was carried.

It was announced that the Mayor and a committee had asked to meet a committee of the convention in regard to accommodation and entertainment.

Friday's Session

A Federal election next Summer and a plea to get ready before next seeding time were the main points urged by C. H. Burnell, Oakville, who moved a resolution from the political campaign committee. He urged every delegate to be ready for an election which will come sooner than most expect.

The resolution carried amid enthusiasm, speakers, including W. R. Wood, Winnipeg, stating that an election would probably come before next Summer.

Provision of Machinery

Josiah Burnett, Pine Creek, seconded the motion for the adoption of the resolution, which reads:

"Whereas, we re-affirm the decision National policy.

"Resolved, that for the prosecution of that action the Board of Directors of the United Farmers of Manitoba constitute itself the motive and organizing machinery through which the voting strength of Manitoba must be mobilized behind the principles as enunciated in the Farmers' platform and since immediate action is imperative, the Board of Directors continue under their supervision, the special committee for the effective prosecution of this work."

For Federal Action Only

The next resolution dealt with the entry into Provincial politics. Bruce Edie, Springfield, who moved that it be left entirely for the initiative of local associations, said that the Government had an awe for the farmers at the present time. He argued that the main object at present should be Federal action.

The resolution reads:

"Whereas the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association has taken certain definite action to put into effect the great principle embodied in the Farmers' Platform by organizing to elect in every Federal constituency a candidate pledged to support those principles, and,

"Whereas we recognize that the great issues of the immediate future are of a Federal nature, and,

"Whereas we believe that our whole energies at this time must be concentrated in giving effect to these fundamental principles, and,

"Whereas, our Association has drafted no provincial platform and believing further that any concerted action in the Provincial field would greatly accentuate the assertion that we are laboring for class legislation and class interests.

"Therefore, be it resolved that the question of taking Provincial action be left entirely to the initiative of each local constituency."

Strong for Provincial Action

A. D. Craig, Clearwater, was strong for Provincial action. He characterized F. J. Dixon as the only opposition in the present Provincial House.

R. F. Chapman, Ninga, argued that Provincial politics should be entered, if only to hold the farmers solid for Federal action when the time came. He declared that the political parties in Manitoba were hoping the farmers would stay out of Provincial politics.

Suggests New Resolution

H. O. English, Harding, rose and stated that the amendment moved by Mr. Craig had been withdrawn and presented the following amendment in its place:

"Be it resolved that a special committee of the United Farmers of Manitoba be immediately appointed to draft a Provincial platform, and, further, that this convention go on record as endorsing united action in the Provincial field."

R. D. Craig seconded the amendment. Mr. English took some time running down the Norris administration, whose record, he said did not warrant their re-election.

J. L. Brown, President of the Association, hose and declared, at the conclusion of Mr. English's argument, that the United Farmers had not invited Premier Norris to attend. He had been invited, he said, by the Livestock Association. He was not, he said, either approving or disapproving of the matter.

Criticizes Premier Norris

Andrew Graham, Pomeroy, advocated entrance into Provincial politics. "We can't play party on and party off. We cannot take up politics in one place and not in another, he declared. He asked that the amendment be adopted. He characterized Premier Norris' address as "very indiscreet."

Delegate Brown from Souris, wanted to see a Provincial platform adopted.

T. Beveridge, Melita, wanted action at once in Provincial politics. "It will," he said, "hold the Association solidly prepared for Federal action. We cannot fight against each other in Provincial politics and fight together in the Federal field," he declared.

R. A. Hoey stated that he was closely in touch with public opinion and that it was behind the Farmers' movement, and characterized the Farmers' movement as part of a great awakening and uprising against tyranny and oppression.

W. D. Harvey, Springfield, moved an amendment to the amendment that the action only be taken after ratification by the majority of the locals.

I. T. Lennox, Melita, said that he had attended twelve conventions and that this matter was the most important ever before the Association, and asked the younger men to see that no one pulled the wool over their eyes, and advocated Provincial action.

J. R. Murray, Winnipeg, declared the Association needed young men, but warned them against hasty and thoughtless action. He stated he was in favor of the original resolution and urged its adoption on the ground that it was in the fullest interests of democracy. He was, he said, opposed to the amendment because it suggests that a platform be formed by a committee and handed out to the people. "Is that not machine politics" he asked.

Platform From The People

Delegates opposed Mr. Murray's statement regarding "machine made politics," and in a heated reply he declared he wished to see a platform from the people.

J. Rathwell, Brandon, advocated following the example of the United Farmers of Ontario. The question had, he said, been brought down to whether or not they were afraid to enter the Provincial field. "Let us," he said, "live up to our name The United Farmers of Manitoba."

G. F. Chipman was granted permission to speak and said he believed the United Farmers of Manitoba have not assumed the responsibility they should, in years past, in regard to Provincial affairs. Farmers, strong party men, have in past assisted to pass crooked legislation. "The farmers," he declared, "must get away from the partizan aspect of politics."

The farmers should have a platform before going into Provincial politics, and this platform should be put up to the Government and then if they fail to adopt it, united Provincial political action should be taken.

D. G. McKenzie, Vice-President for 1920, said the resolution failed to recognize the principle of establishment of a platform, and asked that before Provincial action is taken the public have something to show them what the Association stands for. It should be left to the people themselves, and that in spite of any action of the convention, many districts will put forward independent candidates at the next Provincial election. He warned against antagonizing the urban and rural electors in the Federal elections.

Resolution to be Re-Drafted

The resolution was referred to a committee to be re-drafted and put before the convention at this afternoon's session in a form more apt to meet with unanimous approval. A resolution to this effect carried enthusiastically and the convention adjourned for lunch.

Nominations for President

Twenty-two men and women were nominated for the position of President. They were R. J. Avison, J. L. Brown, C. H. Burnell, R. Chapman, T. A. Crerar, H. English, W. I. Ford, Mrs. Gee, A. Graham, R. A. Hoey, O. A. Jones, D. McKenzie, P. D. McArthur, J. W. McQuay, Mrs. Parker, F. W. Ransome, Wm. Robson, J. W. Scallion, Mrs. J. S. Wood, J. S. Wood, W. R. Wood, Peter Wright.

Following adjournment all but six withdrew. The six remaining were R. J. Avison, J. L. Brown, H. English, D. McKenzie, J. W. Scallion, Peter Wright. Later, at the request of friends of Mr. Scallion who stated he was incapacitated, his name was withdrawn. The President of the local of which he is a member officially asked his name withdrawn.

No Discussion on Political Action

Delegates asked that the candidates be requested to give their views on political action. W. R. Wood rose and stated that the convention had never discussed political action. A hearty discussion arose and candidate after candidate rose and argued the pros and cons. A resolution to the effect that the resolution asking the candidates to air their views on political action was tabled.

This discussion, according to old timers, indicated that supporters of political action in the provincial field would find difficulty in securing it's adoption when it comes before the convention at 2.45 p.m. today.

Brandon Man Outlines Stand

In accepting nomination H. English, Brandon district, stated that he favored both Provincial and Federal political action by the Association and asked the convention to place a man at the head of the organization who would support this view. J. L. Brown while stating that he did not feel that he was the best man for the position, left his name before the convention. D. McKenzie outlined his views and stated he would be honored to stand for office. Peter Wright merely stated that his views were well known by the convention and he would leave himself at the service of the Association.

The Balloting

J. L. Brown was elected President of the Association for 1920 by a majority of 76 over the total votes of the other three candidates. The result of the vote was: J. L. Brown 345, H. English 54, D. McKenzie 159 and Peter Wright 56.

Nominating ballot for Vice-President resulted in 17 nominations. Many dropped out and the six who were balloted for were, C. H. Burnell, H. O. English, A. Graham, O. A. Jones, P. Wright and D. G. McKenzie. The first ballot resulted in no election, and a second ballot returned D. G. McKenzie as Vice-President for 1920 by a majority of 132 votes over the total of the other candidates. On a motion of C. H. Burnell, the election was made unanimous.

Mr. McKenzie thanked the convention for the honor done him and promised to work for action along all lines endorsed by the convention. He asked for the co-operation of every man and woman in the Association.

The President announced for the information of the delegates that Mr. McKenzie was a son of Roderick McKenzie, a former secretary of the Association, and one of the founders of the movement.

Wan' Ban Lifted

A resolution asking that no ban be left on the entrance of certain literature into Canada and censoring the Government Board of Censors for classifying "The History of Canadian Wealth" with German propaganda, was returned to the Resolution Committee to be re-drafted.

To Recompense Parents

Mrs. John Dick, Winnipeg, urged for greater appreciation of those bereft of their sons through the war. She asked the convention to ask Ottawa to recompense the parents financially. She believed if the Government asked for a "Joy Loan" for such a purpose it would be gladly given.

Mrs. Eli Tooth moved, seconded by Russell Velwood, that the request be made. It was carried unanimously.

Ask Jury Trial for All

Considerable enthusiasm was shown when the resolution for trial by jury before deportation under the Immigration Act was carried. The resolution reads:

"Whereas, under a recent amendment of the Immigration Act, Canadian citizens may be deported without trial by jury, and whereas, the right which is supposed to belong to all British citizens to the Habeas Corpus writ, may be denied them, and whereas we believe that such amendment is a menace to the liberty of all Canadians, and an incitement to anarchy; be it therefore resolved, that we ask that all persons held under such amendment be granted trial by jury, and that the amendment be repealed at the earliest opportunity.

Sympathy With Labor

A general resolution expressing the sympathy of the Association with the legitimate aspirations of labor in Canada, and with the returned soldiers in seeking favorable conditions of re-establishment, was unanimously carried.

Military Training

A resolution asking that the military forces in Canada be reduced to a minimum, staffs cut down, that there be no compulsory training, and that the militia expenditure should not exceed the pre-war figure; was introduced by Lieut.-Col. C. D. McPherson. Debate was adjourned till the ladies could be in attendance.

Saskatchewan in Line

J. B. Musselman, Secretary of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, brought greetings to the Manitoba convention from the Saskatchewan Central Board. He declared that the Saskatchewan Association would be with the Manitoba organization in its attempts politically. He assured the delegates that Saskatchewan would not be behind in attempting to put into legislation the new National policy adopted by the United Farmers' Association. R. M. Johnson, Saskatchewan, complimented the convention on the work being done, and told the audience that Saskatchewan was efficiently organized for political action. Wm. Orchard also spoke as an official of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers'

The Movement Spreads

Rice Shepperd, Edmonton, spoke briefly, and complimented the association on the change of name and prophesied the time when the Associations would be united as the United Farmers of Canada.

J. A. Caron, Prescott County, Ontario, stated that they expected to have a farmers' convention in Quebec next month. He told of a marvellous development along farmers organizations in Quebec, where they are following the lead of the West. He told the delegates than Hon. T. A. Crerar was becoming increasingly popular in Quebec. Mr. Caron is a director of the U. F. O. and a French Canadian.

Studies Recommended

A resolution asking that greater emphasis be put on the study of political economy and practical agriculture in the schools was introduced and the debate adjourned till the women delegates could be present.

To Investigate Spread

A resolution asking that the Provincial Board institute an inquiry into the enormous spread between raw wool prices as received by the farmer and the price the consumer has to pay for the finished product, was carried.

Endorse Veterans' Stand

The action of the Great War Veterans' Association in regard to the gratuity question, was endorsed in a resolution referred to the committee. R. Chapman, Souris, stated in support, that the G.W.V.A. was about to enter politics and contemplates lining up with the Farmers' Party, and stated that the boys should be supported in their requests for sufficient to enable them to return properly equipped to civil life.

Criticizes Settlement Policy

T. Beveridge, Souris, who seconded the motion, characterized the Government loan to soldiers settling on the land as "a millstone hung about their neck for years to come," and advocated a free grant to all returned soldiers wishing to establish themselves on the land. He wanted, however, he said, to see the grants controlled so they would not be squandered. He declared that if the Government could get money to loan they could just as well get it to give to the men.

The debate on the resolution to have the military forces reduced was resumed at the evening session with the women in attendance. It had been adjourned from the afternoon session. The resolution was explained by Lieut.-Col. C. D. McPherson of Portage la Prairie. It reads:

"Whereas, the Government of Canada has declared in favor of a standing army of 10,000 men and large staffs of generals and other officers of high rank are being retained on the strength at public expense;

"And whereas this policy is unnecessary, and particularly in view of the Dominion's serious situation financially is economically extravagant and has a tendency to create a militaristic spirit entirely at variance with democratic Canadian sentiment:

"Therefore, be it resolved, That in the opinion of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, the military forces of Canada should be reduced to a minimum or skeleton organization, staffs should be cut down, there should be no compulsory training and the militia department expenditure should not exceed that of the pre-war period.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

KEEP AWAY FROM PROVINCIAL POLITICS IS CRERAR'S ADVICE

To United Farmers of Manitoba—Former Minister of Agriculture Declares Attempts Will Be Made To Camouflage Issues—Asks For Principled Action

A warning against hasty action in the Provincial political field, and against attempts to camouflage the issues before the farmers, was delivered to the Convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba Thursday evening by the Hon. T. A. Crerar, who asked them for principled action in the Federal field, where, he declared, their opportunity lay.

The questions which Mr. Crerar declared the farmers must take up at once, he went in to briefly. They are: (1) The tariff policy; (2) Military and naval establishments; (3) Imperial relations; (4) How the revenue is to be raised; (5) Government administration of the Railways; (6) Supremacy of the parliament over the cabinet.

The Gordon McKay building was crammed to the doors to hear the speakers and many were unable to get in. It had been announced that political action would be discussed and men prominent in Provincial and Dominion politics were in attendance.

During the evening musical numbers were given by Miss Hamilton, the Great War Veterans Juvenile Orchestra and a Male Quartette, composed of Messrs. E. Charlwood, J. Kinney, G. Brockie and W. S. Maguire and a reading by Miss Virginia Bertrand, which were much enjoyed. Miss Edith Gerrand and little Miss Edith Lewis acted as accompanist.

A Great Convention

Hon. T. A. Crerar, in opening his remarks stated that this was the largest and most enthusiastic convention ever held by the Farmers of Manitoba. Last year, he said, being a member of the Union Government, he had not attended the convention, but having so to s ak absolved himself he thought it quite safe to attend this year. The growth of the Farmers movement in Canada in the last 15 years has not been duplicated in the world.

Mr. Crerar stated that he was going to touch briefly on certain matters of present day interest. The organized farmers today affiliated in the Council of Agriculture number 125,000. They are facing tremendous responsibilities. They have not heretofore exercised the voice that has rightly been theirs in Federal politics. Less than ten per cent are represented he declared. It is apparent that the representation is much lower than the farmers are entitled to. He complimented the farmers on their national policy through which they can render a valuable contribution to the nation. It is the duty of the farmer to do this, not only in Federal affairs but in provincial, municipal and school affairs.

A Word of Warning

Because of the spirit of awakening which has seized the farmers the duty is theirs to see that the apathetic condition regarding political and school affairs is changed. He issued a word of warning and asked the farmers not to be swayed by prejudices and passions. Experience had led him to the conclusion that very often wrong conclusions and maladministration is covered over by attempts to throw wool in the eyes of the voters by appealing to their prejudices, as an example he mentioned, Reciprocity..

When the next election comes on, he expected to see the old tactics revived by the parties and asked the farmers to judge on principle.

War Changes Outlook

The war has changed the outlook of men and women. It was fought that the world might be made safe for democracy. "Are we," he asked, "going to stop and sink back into the old sordid level of things before the war. Canada must be kept safe for democracy." You can have a distortion of democracy when the laws are twisted by those who stand for special privilege. These sources of special privilege must be swept away.

Praise for New National Policy

The Council of Agriculture has elaborated the new national policy; the finest and best declaration of national principles before the people of Canada today. It should be a matter of pride to the farmers that they have placed such a platform before the people. Dealing with the charge, that the platform was formed by the farmers for their own selfish interests, he challenged anyone to put their fingers on a clause which showed it to be a selfish platform.

Mentioning the tariff plank, he said that it was as much in the interests of one class as another. The price they have to pay for necessit es is exhorbitant and when the farmers ask for the duty on these to be lowered they are asking it in the interests of all the people. The charge is made to distort the issues and is an attempt by the old parties to snatch a verdict.

After elaborating this platform, it was the most natural thing for the farmers to make sure the principles would be carried into affect, he said, and the three great conventions last year showed that it was necessary for the farmers to enter Federal politics to make sure they had the men at Ottawa to see that the platform was carried out.

Old Parties Worried

This stand worried the old political parties who said the movement would not last but would go out in a short tim

They got, he said, a rude jolt when the Ontario elections were held and when later the Federal by-elections were held and he referred to the defeat of Mr. Motherwell in Assiniboia, who predicted the dreadful things which would happen if the farmer candidates were elected. The results were a fair evidence that the farmers were doing some clear thinking.

"If you are going into political action and undertaking to elect representatives to parliament, you have got a considerable job on your hands," he said. The feeling is that the work is comparatively easy, but if you are going to attain the greatest success certain things must be changed.

Necessary Changes

These things the speaker outlined as (1) The tariff policy, which he characterized as unsound and wrong morally, and he outlined in support of this argument what he considered the fallacy of the protectionists attitude, which made no allowance for surplus production.

(2) The question of military and naval establishments in the country, to which he was unalterably opposed. He mentioned "the authority taken by the government to itself to raise the standing army from the pre-war basis of 5,000 to 10,000." He declared himself opposed to any enormous naval expenditure. "It is," he said, "a mistake on the part of the people to embark on any such enterprise." Mr. Crerar stated it should be first considered by the people from coast to coast.

Imperial Relations

(3) The Imperial relations. This is one of the greatest questions before the Canadian people. "This country should not be committed to any Imperial cabinet or council policy without an expression of approval from the people," he said.

(4) The question of raising the revenue. The present debt the speaker said, was close to two billions and the country must raise $325,000,000 this year. He could conceive of no matter of more interest to the farmers than the raising of this revenue, and hinted at certain quarters which benefited from the method of taxation now in use. He believed in direct taxation. The people of Canada were directly contributing to the pockets of the manufacturers. The farmers should contribute their share (hear, hear), and he advocated the New Zealand system of income tax. The Canadian scale was not high enough. The value of direct taxation, the speaker said, was that the people took more interest in the government.

(5) The government administration of railways. The result of the taking over of the Railways was that the people have 22,000 miles of railroad which for years will be a burden on the country. He stated that he favored government ownership, and believed the railways could be administered for the good of the people. The job of every citizen, said, was to see that we ave honesty in the administration of public affairs.

(6) The supremacy of parliament over the cabinet. He had read with considerable shock that Universities had been raided for literature banned during the war. The country must get back the liberty of pre-war days and the government, if wise, will see that it does.

Farmers in Parliament

In conclusion, he stated that he could conceive of no better influence in parliament than a strong delegation of farmers, and declared himself sure that this would be accomplished by the farmers if they acted wisely. Mr. Crerar expressed the hope that Labor would also be well represented in the next parliament. In opposition to the Farmers in the next Federal election, will be the strongest combination ever opposed to any party, and he warned the farmers against the underestimation of their opponents. The manufacturers will be opposed to any change in their protective tariff.

About Wheat Prices

At this point Mr. Crerar was heckled as to wheat prices and asked what the government was doing.

"I don't know, ask them," he replied.

He finished his address by asking for unity and co-operation between the provinces on the great issues before them, to secure a real democracy where every citizen will have a chance to work out his own destiny.

Farmers in Provincial Politics

Wm. Griffith, Melita, asked Mr. Crerar if he was in sympathy with the entrance of the United Farmers Party of Manitoba into Provincial politics. Mr. Crerar replied that he had taken no active part in the Ontario election and expressed it as his opinion that Federal and Provincial politics should be separate and that if the farmers allow their interest in national affairs to be divided, they will make a great mistake. If the farmers give the impression in Canada, that they want to run everything they will not get support. They have established a national policy and he advised them to stick to it, and not take up Provincial politics for a time at least.

"The wise course appears to be to concentrate on the great issues and you cannot make a mistake," he said. "The important thing for the farmers to do is to get the support of every class which approves of the new national policy and elect all the members possible to the Federal house."

Mrs. Parker's Address

Mrs. J. D. Parker, President of the Gilbert Pdains Women's Section, delivered an address in the place of Mrs. Brodie, who was unable to be present. Her topic was "The Need for Independent Political Action." She opened her remarks by stating that at the present time there was a great need for an independent political party. Independents, she declared, were often despised. People were absolutely in the grip of party politics, she continued, and party people overlooked all their candidates sins. "We believe," she said, "that the farmers political activity will cure this." Many she said, doubt the ability of the farmer to govern, if he did get in. "We must go into politics determined to do our best without any fear that we will not be successful," said Mrs. Parker, and continued by outlining the success which attended the advent of labor into British politics and eulogized the Ontario United Farmers Association for its work on behalf of the farmers.

DRURY CABINET GRANTS $10,000 TOWARDS COSTS OF IMPERIAL PRESS CONGRESS

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Premier E. C. Drury and other members of the Ontario Government have considered the request for a grant to assist in defraying the expenses of the Imperial Press Conference, after which the Premier announced that a grant of $10,000 would be given. The Drury Government is to have the final decision as to the itinerary of the Ontario part of the Dominion tour that will be made by the delegates from various parts of the British dominions.

STABBING AFFRAY AT LEONARD

Russell, Man., Jan. 13—Details have reached town of a stabbing affray in the foreign colony of Lennard, North of here, in which Wasyl Kobluk was stabbed in the region of the heart by a neighbor named Alex. Prokopetz, who has been arrested and is now out on $8,000 bail, furnished by himself.

The injured man is a notorious character in the district and has figured in more than one fracas. He was one of the principals in a safe-breaking case at Assessippi some years ago, for which he served a term in Stony Mountain penitentiary. The man Prokopetz is one of the most well-to-do men in the vicinity, but for some time there has been enmity between them.

A few years ago, they met in a similar case when one had his ear slashed and the other was badly cut up. In this case it appears that Prokopetz was driving through the yard and somehow got in an altercation with Kobluk, who got on the sleigh and reached for the lines of the team, apparently intending to stop them, when Prokopetz drew his knife and made a lunge at Kobluk, stabbing him, and at once drove off. Kobluk is in a critical condition.

The preliminary hearing will be held this week before Magistrate Callin.

She wore a becoming gown of ivory satin, draped with georgette crepe and embroidered with seed pearls, a regulation veil and carried a sheaf of pink and white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Spence street, and later the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes, on a trip to Western points. On their return they will take up residence at Justice, Man. The bride travelled in a suit of brown silvertone, the coat opening over a maize georgette crepe blouse and wore a becoming hat to match.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch and to the pianist he gave a necklace of pearls.

LYON-BROWNRIDGE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brownridge, 224 Twelfth street was the scene of a pretty wedding today at two o'clock, when their daughter, Margaret May, was united in marriage to Joseph Harrison Lyon, of North Brandon, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Lyon, Ninth street. Rev. Harold Salton, of North Brandon, officiated.

Leaning on the arm of her father, the bride entered the drawing room to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," played by Mrs. Austin Brownridge, sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white pussy willow taffeta and georgette crepe prettily embroidered in crystal beads and a silver girdle. She wore a Juliet cap with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served after which the happy couple left for Winnipeg where they will spend their honeymoon. Later Mr. and Mrs. Lyon will take up residence on their farm, North Brandon.

BERLIN FACES FOOD SHORTAGE

Which Threatens To Be Most Serious According To Estimates

Berlin, Jan. 8.—The Berlin papers discuss at great length and with much concern the food situation of the immediate future, so far as Berlin is concerned. Mayor Wermuth and his associates in the Allied municipalities are not satisfied with the assurance given them in the course of ment. They assert that the Government. They assert that the oGvernment is unduly optimistic in view of the actual conditions.

The National Grain Bureau is disposing of only sufficient wheat supplies to ensure flour deliveries for 14 days.

Unless rural stocks are quickly moved, it is admitted that the capital is facing a genuine catastrophe at the begining of February. The municipal authorities charge that the present makeshifts are mere patchwork, and that they merely suffice to tide over the prevailing shortage. The city of Berlin this week is allowing a 2-lb. turnip ration as a partial offset to the potato shortage.

LIQUOR WAVE HAS NOT YET REACHED TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 7.—The much-talked-of liquor wave from Montreal has not yet reached this city. Only about 5,000 gallons have come in since January 1st, and that from Ontario distillers. Very little imported liquor has come in.

The late Mr. Burland and Mrs. Burland came to this city to visit, during the Christmas vacation, with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Trotter, 322 Fourth street. The late Mr. Detwiller came to Brandon about thirty-two years ago from London County, Ontario, and settled in the Brandon district, where he resided for a number of years. He later moved to the Hayfield district, but returned to Brandon Hills in the year 1913. A man of sterling character, the deceased was popular among all those who knew him and had a host of friends in both the city and district who will regret his death. Besides his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Aster Strome, Inglefold, Sask.; Mrs. R. A. Brandon, Hilton, Man.; Miss Myrtle Detwiller, at home, and four sons, Messrs. CANADIAN FARMERS MAY GET A LONG PRICE FOR WHEAT

Alberta Farmers Learn That Canadian Wheat Is Fetching High Price

Calgary, Jan. 20.—While the price of wheat in the United States has been running as high as $3.00 a bushel, and while the Canadian farmers have been complaining that their product has been disposed of at too low a figure, actual statistics submitted to the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta here today, tend to show that when the final distribution is made on the participation certificates, the average price of Canadian wheat wil be above that of the United States wheat, according to a statement by H. W. Wood, President.

Mr. Wood defended the action of James Stewart, Chairman of the Wheat Board, saying, "Stewart is a business man who is conscientiously trying to sell Canadian wheat at its full value and trying to keep the market from breaking." Mr. Wood stated emphatically that the Government did not sell one bushel of the 1919 crop except through the Board and also ridiculed the report that millers who had large stocks of wheat on hand at the low price were now selling at the recently raised figure. As to participation certificates, he said: "Their value as is yet an unknown quantity, but if present high prices hold it will be considerable."

TENTH STREET PROPERTY SELLS FOR FAIR FIGURE

Messrs. Sutherland & Robertson Plan To Build on Property North of Present Location

Some big deals in property have been reported lately which show Brandon real estate to be on the move during a season when sales are generally noticeable by their absence. Tenth street has been the scene of the recent transfer of property and some good prices were obtained for the land acquired. The property directly North of the West End Milliners and having a 62 foot frontage was sold to Messrs. Sutherland & Robertson for $7,000. They immediately sold 30 feet of this property to A. W. Stone, and refused an offer of $7,500 for the remaining 32 feet of their newly acquired land. It is the intention of both Sutherland & Robertson and A. W. Stone to erect stores on their new sites, the work to commence probably next Spring.

It is also known that a bid of $10,500 was made for the old Dillon property on Tenth street now owned by Mr. James McLean. The deal is pending and may be completed within a few days. Several other real estate deals in the city for probable business sites are reported and real estate dealers in Brandon are very optimistic over the realty movement.

ANNUAL MEETINGS ST. MATTHEW'S AND ST. GEORGE'S

Show Satisfactory Progress Made During the Year—Officers Elected

Very successful annual meetings were held Monday night in St. Matthew's and St. George's Churches. Reports for the past year show that these churches are going forward in a most creditable manner and plans made at the meetings show that the new year is also to be one of progress. The past twelve months was the most successful in St. Matthew's parish and the reports given at St. George's show that the Sunday School has outgrown the church and an addition to the building is being considered.

St. Matthew's Church

The annual meeting of St. Matthew's Church was held in the crypt, Rev. E. A. Anderson presiding. The financial report, submitted by Mr. David C. White, showed the past year to have been the most successful in the history of the parish. The total receipts for the year were $13,379, the greatest amount ever raised by the people of St. Matthew's. The report also showed a balance in hand of $361, after paying all carrying charges and a reduction of the debt by $2,792.80. An outstanding feature of the year's work was the remarkable success of the Parish Guild and the Women's Auxiliary in its various branches. A substantial reduction of the debt, as well as a considerable share of the general parish support, is due to the energy and devotion of the women. Votes of thanks were given for the excellent work of the various organizations connected with the church.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Rector's Warden, G. B. Coleman; People's Warden and Treasurer, D. C. White; Assistant Treasurer, Percy Clark; Vestry Clerk, Geo. Godden; Auditor, R. C. Macdonnell, C.A.; Vestrymen, Messrs. Hoghen, Hearn, Warr, Longley, Glyn, Hooper, G. White, Coldwell, Singleton, T. M. Percival, Davison and Jeffery.

Considerable other important business was transacted, chief among which was the appointment of a strong committee to prosecute the work of the Forward Movement to a successful issue, the financial objective of which was set at $6,000.00.

St. George's Church

A good representation of parishioners were present at the annual meeting of St. George's Church, held in the basement, at which Rev. S. R. Hammond, Rector, presided. The People's Warden, Mr. John Popkin, presented the financial report which showed all current liabilities met and a small balance on hand. The Rector's report was well received and showed that good progress had been made in all departments of the church. He predicted further progress during the coming year and upon his recommendation the question of enlarging the church was submitted to the new vestry for consideration. At a later date the vestry will submit their proposals at a meeting of the congregation called for this purpose. A committee was appointed, with W. G. Oakey, convenor, to proceed with the matter of a permanent memorial in the church for those of the congregation who gave their lives in the Great War. The various organizations of the church submitted reports which were very satisfactory and were adopted by the meeting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Rector's Warden, Mr. F. Shrives. People's Warden, Mr. J. Johnson. Vestry, Messrs. John Popkin, Ernest Popkin, J. E. Williams, H. C. L. Broadhurst, H. L. Patmore, W. H. Maher, H. Erickson, R. Crocker, A. J. Brewer, T. Boden, T. Fisher and Thos. Bagg.

CLEMENCEAU'S GREAT EFFORTS TO DEFEAT GERMANY

Paris, Jan. 19. — Georges Eugene Clemenceau, "the Grand Old Man" of France, has served his beloved France for more than two generations. He is credited with contributing as much, perhaps more, than any other statesman to bring about the downfall of Germany by filling France —discouraged and war-torn—with the invincible spirit of the conqueror.

After a life-time of vicissitudes, he recently declared: "I am younger now than I was ten years ago." He said this even while carrying in his body the bullet of an assassin and while suffering from a broken rib recently sustained while crossing the English Channel.

Explaining his remark, Clemenceau declared: "Idleness and old age are twin sisters. I avoid them. The way to keep young and vigorous is never to let your mind grow inactive and to work, work, work. Preserve strength of mind and you vanquish age, that is the secret of perpetual youth.

Weak Minded to Grow Old

"I believe it is weak minded to grow old," he told certain members of his suite after his famous anti-Bolsheviki speech in Strassbourg last November. The Premier's day had been a hard one, with many receptions, journeys and discussions of serious diplomatic questions but he appeared at dinner that night fresher than many of his young colleagues.

Clemenceau's rigorous life was continued even after he accepted President Poincare's invitation to form a War Ministry in 1917 when for the second time he became Premier of France. In civil life he arose with the birds and retired often at sunset.

During the war, the pressure of affairs of state often forced him to alter his sleeping habit and there were occasions when, for two and three days at a time, the aged Premier and Minister of War never removed his clothing but caught mere snatches of rest of a few minutes' duration on a lounge in his office.

He entered the French National Assembly in 1871, became president of the municipal council of Paris in 1875 and was elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1876. In 1887 he declined [illegible] France to form a Ministry. In the general wreck of French politicians caused by the Panama scandal of 1892 he failed of re-election to the Chamber but in 1902 was sent to the Senate. From 1906 to 1909 he was Premier.

Ruthlessly Exposed Abuses

In 1914, at the beginning of the war, he established in Paris, L'Homme Libre, a paper so bitterly anti-administration that it was suppressed. Soon after it reappeared in Bordeaux under the name of L'Homme Enchaine. Clemenceau refused to be silenced in exposing government abuses growing out of the war. When Bolo Pasha and the Caillaux revelations awakened France to her peril, revelations largely brought about by Clemenceau, the "Tiger's" popularity became nationwide. President Poincare called upon the veteran statesman in November, 1917, when all France was depressed by the defeatists propaganda and her troops were suffering sorely in the field, to head a new War Ministry.

Upon the completion of the draft of the Peace Treaty by the Supreme Inter-Allied Conference, Clemenceau who had presided at the historical gathering bade his colleagues adieu with the observation: "I have done my best. I think it is a good peace."

ACTUAL SHORTAGE MEDIUM SIZED MODERN HOMES

Increasing Demand Even For Non-modern Homes and Small Dwellings

SPLENDID REPORTS

On Situation Regarding Housing Conditions In This City

That there is an acute shortage of medium sized modern homes in this city was the opinion of Mr. O. L. Harwood, expressed in a report on the housing conditions in Brandon, and read at the City Council meeting Monday night. The report states that there is not a shortage of non-modern homes and small dwellings in this city, but that there is an increasing demand for even these kinds of houses. Rentals have not increased to any great extent and in this regard tenants in Brandon are in a more favorable position than in any Western city of equal size. Sanitary Inspector A. G. Warr in a report also submitted to the Council, recommended the Municipal Housing Scheme on certain lines.

In his report, Mr. Harwood said a surplus of apartments and houses existed in this city until last June when there was a very big demand, returned men and farmers being the noticeable applicants for the houses. The usual normal growth coupled with the almost entire absence of new building for the past years has made the situation a very acute one. There are some larger modern properties available, but there is a distinct tendency for tenants and purchasers to avoid the lease or purchase of the larger premises, and this is no doubt due to the high cost of maintenance and fuel.

The vacant houses in the city consist of a very few large modern properties, some semi-modern and small buildings, and the balance of the buildings are not in habitable condition. Some activity in the building line is anticipated by Mr. Harwood in his report as he states that some owners of vacant lots will probably build in order to overcome the loss on taxes, even if the return is not very large. The high cost of building material is interfering seriously, though, with the building trade.

With regard to the Government scheme of providing money at five per cent, and the encouragement given to building, Mr. Harwood states that the scheme should receive careful consideration.

"The average man has a feeling that if he builds now at high prices, he will suffer a depreciation in capital investment in future years due to lower costs of building materials. A perusal of reports of large Canadian corporations will show in many cases a large allowance for this contingency and if this view is prevalent in larger financial circles it is only reasonable to expect that the individual citizen should also make this provision. If however he could effect a saving of two or three per cent in interest charges as compared to ordinary loan rates, and this apply for quite a number of years, it should largely balance the possible depreciation referred to above.

Make Houses Modern

The conversion of non-modern properties, is in many cases rather difficult and very often not satisfactory. The owner is placing new material at high cost in an old building and it requires careful consideration again. Considerable of this work could be done in this city to advantage, but not as much, in my opinion as is generally supposed."

Recommendations by Mr. Warr

Mr. Warr recommended to Council the erection of a limited number of suitable houses, warmly constructed, with sanitary conveniences and of medium size. In houses of medium size, a great saving in the cost of fuel and general up-keep makes them very desirable. The Sanitary Inspector stated that houses should not be erected on lots less than 33 feet wide and set back at the minimum distance of 25 feet from the lot line, and that the plans of all houses should be submitted to and approved of by the Health Department before construction is commenced. He recommended that Municipal Housing Scheme on the lines laid down as being worthy of the Council's most earnest consideration and adoption in as far as may be consistent with the needs of this city.

EMPIRE NEEDS AN ORGANIZED AND CONSISTENT POLICY

Present Empire Organization So Imperfect As Not To Be Free of Danger

SAYS LORD ROBT. CECIL

Can't Continue With Direction Foreign Policy Exclusively in Hands of Mother Country

London, Jan. 20.—Lord Robert Cecil, one of the foremost advocates of the League of Nations plan, made effective use in his speech at Newcastle of the Empires need of an organized and consistent foreign policy. It would be foolish, he declared, to shut our eyes to the fact that the present empire organization is so imperfect as not to be free from danger. We could not continue indefinitely the system by which the direction of our foreign policy was exclusively in the hands of the Mother country, though any blunder it might make would affect the prosperity and possibly the national existence of all parts of the empire. Conversely, it was indefinable that some Chauvinistic outburst or administrative folly committed by the Government of a distant dominion without any consultation with the Imperial authorities, might plunge the empire into foreign complications.

These were difficulties and dangers that had been foreseen by Lord Grey for which he urged closer union as the only possible remedy. It was but an extension of his own ideas to the international sphere that had produced the League of Nations.

JUDGES EXAMINE PROPAGANDA

Winnipeg, Jan. 15.—After perusal of numerous publications in the propaganda introduced as evidence against R. B. Russell at his trial, Chief Justice Perdue said, Wednesday, "It seems to me that men who write that sort of stuff in Canada are subject to a mental derangement."

A. J. Andrews, K.C., continued the argument in support of the admission of the documentary evidence by Mr. Justice Metcalfe, at the forenoon session of the Court of Appeal.

Andrews Speaks

A. J. Andrews, K.C., continued the argument on the question of admissibility of the documentary evidence against R. B. Russell at his trial. There were roughly, two main divisions of Socialists, he said, known as the right and left wing. Under the right wing were grouped the various shades of Socialism that believe in attaining their aims by evolutionary means. Under the left wing came the various organizations representing degrees of Socialism which believed in attaining their aims by revolutionary methods or by overthrowing the existing state of control.

The Socialist party of Canada, to which Russell belonged, and of which he was an officer, belonged to the left, or revolutionary wing, said Mr. Andrews.

The publication, "The Clarion," had formerly been the official organ of the Socialist party. This publication, however, having been banned the "Red Flag" w s produced to replace it. Mr. Andrews produced a copy of the "Red Flag" of January 19th, 1919, in which was an article headed "Evolution or Revolution." The article was not read, but Mr. Andrews said that it counselled revolution as against evolution.

After perusing one of the documents, Chief Justice Perdue remarked that it was treasonable.

HUGE FRAUDS DISCOVERED BY SPECIAL AGENTS

Many Millions Involved In Latest U. S. Shipbuilding Graft

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 16.—Fraude involving many millions of dollars in connection with the building of ships for the Government in Oregon, Washington and California, have been unearthed by Government investigators, it became known Thursday when Wm. H. Tidwell, special agent of the Treasury Department, was appointed chief assistant to special Assistant United States Attorney-General Bert Schlesinger here.

It is understood that Attorney-General Palmer, on the strength of the scope of the alleged discoveries of graft in Pacific Coast shipyards, has ordered the United States Shipping Board to hold up claims approximating $37,000,000 to await the outcome of the investigation.

U. S. WHEAT PRICES MAY SOAR WHEN GUARANTEE ENDS

And Then Again They May Drop —Guarantee Ends Next May

Washington, Jan. 16. — (United Press)—Wheat, now selling in some places at 80 cents to $1 above the government's guaranteed price of $2.26, may soar still higher in May, when the guarantee is to be removed, in the view of some government experts here. But others say the price will go down. Higher priced wheat may bring 15-cent bread.

The 1920 crop is going to be much smaller than the 1919 crop, if the acreage of the Winter crop is an accurate indication. Farmers planting Winter wheat last Fall put in 37,770,000 acres official reports show. This wheat will be harvested in June, becoming part of what is known as the 1920 crop. The previous Winter wheat acreage planted in the Fall of 1918 and harvested last year, was 50,000,000 acres.

It is this reduction in acreage that leads some experts to believe the present high prices will be left behind. The other experts, however, [illegible] acreage of 37,000,000 is [illegible] known as a normal crop. The rejoiner is that the normal crop now will be insufficient in the face of the world demand.

Farmers are not encouraged to put in a big crop again this year, it is explained, because that means they must use land available for other crops for which prices are also high.

BEAUDRY CHARGED WITH ACCEPTING BRIBE, WELL KNOWN HERE

Joseph A. Beaudry, a Provincial License Department official, who was formerly stationed in Brandon, has been charged with accepting a bribe and corrupt practice. He is said to have accepted $100 from William McDowell for protection against prosecution under the Temperance Act, and is also alleged to have agreed to "protect" McDowell from the law for $200 a month. Beaudry was arraigned before Magistrate Macdonald in the Winnipeg Police Court on Thursday and pleaded not guilty to the charges preferred against him.

According to the police, Beaudry has admitted taking the money, but added that he took the money with the intention of having McDowell arrested later for bribery. When the two men met on Wednesday noon a marked bill was passed to Beaudry, and he was immediately arrested and taken to the police station.

CAILLAUX TRIAL SET FOR FEBRUARY 17TH

Paris, Jan. 16.—The opening of the trial of Joseph Caillaux, former premier of France, charged with intriguing to bring about a premature and dishonorable peace with Germany, has been fixed for Feb. 17th. M. Caillaux appeared before the Senate sitting as a high court. He looked pale and drawn.

Prosecutor Lescouve asked that the trial be postponed to Feb 3rd in order to give the newly-elected Senators time to study the voluminous documents in the case. Vincent Demoro-Giaffert, counsel for M. Caillaux, surprised all present by asking for a further delay to the end of February, instead of demanding an immediate trial as it had been reported he would, and also his failure to request the provisional liberty of M. Caillaux.

TROUBLE AHEAD IF SINN FEIN CANDIDATES WIN

Irish Elections Held Thursday Create Much Interest Over Probable Results

London, Jan. 16.—The local Government elections took place Thursday throughout Ireland. The results, which will be declared Saturday night, are looked forward to with much curiosity on account of the new circumstances of the contests. The chief points of uncertainty are as to the effect of proportional representation, which is being tried for the first time, and how it will influence the Sinn Fein. This problem can only be solved by the event, but if the Sinn Fein succeeds in proportion to its supposed strength it will control the municipal machinery over three-fourths of the country. In that case there is trouble ahead, for the Sinn Fein aims at making government impossible and may be relied upon to use to the fullest extent to that end the powerful instrument it would require. Anyway, those who recognize the urgent need for municipal reform in Ireland are not sanguine that much improvement will follow the present election, though possibly the working of proportional representation may prevent their worst fears from being realized. The vacant seats are roughly 1,500. The Sinn Fein has 707 candidates, Labor 595, Unionists 436 and Constitutional Nationalists and Independents 588.

IGNORE BOARD'S ORDERS AND MILK COMPANY IS FINED

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—The Crescent Creamery Co. was fined $100 Thursday morning in the city police court on the charge of not obeying the orders of the Canadian Board of Commerce. James M. Carruthers, general manager of the company, was fined $1 on a similar charge. The charges against the company and Mr. Carruthers, of hoarding milk on December 5th to enable them to increase the price, was dismissed by Sir Hugh John Macdonald. It was announced that it will be argued in the Manitoba Court of Appeal as a stated case.

J. B. Hugg, K.C., counsel for the creamery company, is already at work preparing to appeal against the fine imposed, and to fight the stated case on the dismissed charge, which will be brought up by H. J. Whitla, K.C., on behalf of the board.

The charges laid against the company and Mr. Carruthers are for the purpose of testing the jurisdiction of the Canadian Board of Commerce in dictating the price of "necessaries of life."

The action of the company on January 13th was taken with the direct intention of violating the orders of the board to test their jurisdiction, it was stated. On January 13th, according to the charges, the company purchased a quantity of milk from a farmer at the rate of $4.05 per hundred quarts. This was an increase of twenty cents over the price ordered by the board. This same milk was resold after being pasteurized at 16 cents a quart, one cent over the permitted price. In defence Mr. Carruthers stated that in pasteurizing he had been compelled to pay his employes one-half cent a quart more for work done.

The charges based on the alleged actions of the company on December 8th are those of having withheld the supply of milk for the purpose of selling at an increased price.

DANCE AND MAKE MERRY IS RIVIERA WINTER SLOGAN

Nice, Jan. 16.—Feasting and dancing are absorbing the attention of Riviera guests this season. The necessities of life are not abundant and there is an actual shortage of sugar, milk and coal, but pate de foi gras, truffles, grain fed fowls and lobster abound. Everything that is luxurious and superfluous is plentiful.

In the absence of fuel, visitors are keeping themselves warm by tangoing, fox-trotting and appropriating every other variety of terpsichorean exercise, the Riviera having been transformed into a vast dance, which absorbs all energies excepting those reserved for feasting.

Even the most conservative family hotels that until now have resisted the encroachment of the revellers, finally have succumbed, and the most ear-splitting jazz music now may be heard in the corridors of these places by day and by night.

Meanwhile the cost of living, influenced by the exorbitant prices paid for choice provisions by hotels and restaurants where the dancers dine and sup, continues to soar.

Many a girl who marries to suit herself doesn't.

A bitter dispute preceded the shooting. Watkins is under arrest. Owing to the illness of his wife, Watkins went to the homes of his daughters and told them their mother wished to see them. ADMITTANCE IS REFUSED SHERIFF BY PAPER MAKERS

Seizure Warrant Not Served and Paper Famine Is Most Serious

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—The seizure of newsprint at the Fort Frances mill on Monday afternoon was not effected, as forecasted in Tuesday morning's dispatches, the sheriff having been refused admittance when he attempted to serve his seizure warrant. The officials of the company threatened to use force to prevent seizure, and the sheriff withdrew. Even the serving of the warrant would not have resulted in providing newsprint for Western Canadian newspapers, as the company, knowing the seizure was to be attempted, had shipped practically all its pre-stocks of paper to the United States earlier in the day.

The mill was in operation again on Tuesday, but although it maintained its attitude of refusal to obey the paper controller's order of Saturday last, no further attempt on his part to enforce that order by the seizure of paper was apparently made.

The government Tuesday morning directed that information should be laid under the provisions of the Criminal Code against those officials of the Fort Frances company who obstructed the sheriff in the discharge of his duty on Monday, and the Crown Attorney at Fort Frances was instructed by wire to commence proceedings.

The Board of Railway Commissioners, it is said, has called upon the company to show cause for the removal on Monday of the switch by which cars are removed from the mill to the tracks of the Canadian National Railway. Meanwhile, no paper has been shipped to the company's Canadian customers.

Urgent representations are reaching Ottawa from other newspapers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan that their supplies are almost exhausted and that they also will have to suspend in a few days.

400 LIVES MAY HAVE BEEN LOST IN SHIP WRECK

When Steamer Afrique Sank On Roche Bonne Shoal, Bay of Biscay

ONLY 57 SURVIVORS

Rescued Sailors Said Passengers Refused To Enter Lifeboats

Larochelle, France, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press)—More than four hundred persons are believed to have lost their lives in the wreck of the steamer Afrique, on the Roche Bonne shoal, Bay of Biscay. Only 57 survivors are known to have been landed. Hope for the rest of the passengers and crew faded during the night. As hour after hour passed without any tidings, and seventy-two hours after the vessel foundered, many feared one of the greatest marine tragedies of modern times was enacted off the coast before dawn Sunday morning. Sailors and French Colonial soldiers are the only persons from the ship known to have reached land safely. "It was impossible to approach the Afrique," said Captain Jouan, of the steamer Ceylan, which was summoned to the scene of the wreck by wireless on Saturday, and which attempted to resoue those on board the doomed ship. "I remained in wireless communication with the ship, however, and received the following message: 'I am drifting and I fear the ship will go ashore.' Later another message came, saying, "I am steering for a light," then came the final message: "We are sinking." That is all I know about the loss of the Afrique."

Some of the rescued sailors declared that when with great difficulty the boats were swung out, passengers were afraid to jump for them, seeing they were already half full of water.

BELGIAN DUCHESS CLAIMS FORMER KAISER TOLD HER SON OF PLANS FOR INVASION

Geneva, Jan. 14.—Dichess D'Arenberg, of Belgian origin, who died recently at Montreux, leaving an estate in Belgium, which the Germans had sequestrated, also left an interesting memorandum, saying that the former Kaiser informed her son three months before the war that Germany shortly would start hostilities and invade Belgium. He advised her son, who was a major in the German army, to withdraw his fortune from Belgium, and the son transferred his belongings and bank account from Belgium to Berlin. The duchess says she refused to take her son's advice and do likewise.

The Swiss newspapers suggest that the claims made in the memorandum be investigated, if former Emperor William is to be brought to trial.

OBJECTION TO ELECTION OF CITIZEN TO BOARD DIRECTORS OF U F. M.

Though Meeting Was Advertised As a Public One, There Were Strenuous Objections When A. E. Smith Was Proposed as a Member of the Board of Directors, and His Name Was Withdrawn

Mistaken ideas regarding the purpose of the meeting caused considerable dissension in the ranks of the United Farmers who held a meeting in the City Hall Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a branch in this city. After running along smoothly for the greater part of the afternoon, a squall arose when the election of directors for the Association was before the meeting. A. E. Smith's name was proposed for the directorate, and Wm. Pitfield who had been proposed as a director asked that his name be taken off the list if Mr. Smith's name was allowed to stand Several well-known farmers in the district gave it as their opinion that the meeting was one for farmers and that farmers should be solely on the executive.

Mr. Harry Cater and several others took exception to this. Mr. Cater stating that the meeting was called a public one and he had thought that everyone would be welcome. Mr. Wesley Rathwell said it looked to him as if the gathering was developing into a political one and that if the meeting was to be of the Grain Growers it should be for the Grain Growers. There was considerable argument heard from many sides till finally Mr. Smith stated that there was little use of him acting on the board and asked that his nominators withdraw his name. This was done and the meeting proceeded smoothly for the remainder of the session.

About Fifty Persons Present

There were about fifty representative farmers and citizens present at the meeting which was held in the Council Chamber. The meeting had been advertised as a public one to which everyone was invited, the intention being to form a local branch of the United Farmers of Manitoba. Mr. Thomas Patterson acted as chairman for the meeting. Mr. N. P. Lambert was expected to be present and address the meeting but he was unable to attend. Mr. T. Kennedy, Vice-President of the United Grain Growers Ltd. addressed the meeting at some length. Following his address, the election of officers for the local branch of the Association was proceeded with.

The first hitch came when Mr. T. Patterson was appointed President of the new local. He was asked by one member present if he could successfully be President of both the Little Souris and Brandon locals. Mr. Patterson admitted that he was head of the Little Souris organization but that he had decided to give that position up as he could not get out of the city as much as his duties called on him to do. He stated that they had good material in the Little Souris district and that he felt that they could do without him in that organization. Mr. Hugh Thornton who is Vice-President of the Little Souris branch said that if Mr. Patterson felt there is a greater work to do here that their local would spare Mr. Patterson to head the Brandon United Farmers.

After Mr. R. Drysdale had been elected Vice-President by an unanimous vote, the nominations for six directors of the Brandon local were asked for. W. U. Pitfield, Thomas Chambers and Goodlands had been elected when Miss Thornton proposed A. E. Smith's name. This motion was seconded by H. Cater. Mr. Pitfield immediately jumped to his feet and declared that if Mr. Smith's name stood, that he would withdraw from the Board of Directors. Mr. Wesley Rathwell took a hand in the proceeding and told the meeting that the way it was being run was for the sole purpose of politics, and that he as a grain grower did not wish to have the meeting develop into that kind of a gathering. He was strong for grain growers and grain growers only being appointed to the Board of Directors.

If Movement is Representative

If the movement is to one of farmers and citizens, declared Mr. Harry Cater, there could be no objection to the board being a representative one. He stated that if there is to be a national party then all the good thought and ability of the community should be on that board. He said he could see plenty of work ahead for both Mr. Smith and Mr. Pitfield, and that he would like to see Mr. Pitfield withdraw his objection to Mr. Smith' name going before the meeting. Mr. Smith replied that it would be a serious thing if this sort of spirit prevailed in the organization and if it continued he would withdraw. Miss Thornton said she would not consent to Mr. Smith's name being withdrawn.

Many Diverse Views

That the meeting should forget the political movement and think more of the United Farmers was the advice of Mr. Drysdale. Dr. New said he was with the farmers but would frankly say that the farmers could not win the next Federal elections without the citizens. He stated that he would like to see the citizens affiliate with the farmers. Hugh Thornton and R. Drysdale then spoke very strongly for the meeting electing only farmers to the Board of Directors. J. F. Fisher then addressed the meeting and told of the party system. "We are plundered and oppressed by the party system in Canada," declared Fisher who pledged his support to the farmers movement. He said that he would withdraw from the field, but the parties who nominated him did not withdraw his name.

"If it is just a question of whether residents of the city are to be on the Board of Directors, it puts an entirely new phase to the matter," said Mr. Smith. "But I do not intend to have my name bandied about nor to have a stigma on my name. The nominations have apparently been made according to the contitution of the United Farmers." Mr. Rathwell again stated that it was a farmers meeting, and after he had spoken Mr. Smith said. "There is no good of me standing on the board as I am not hankering for the position and I would therefore ask you to withdraw my name from the nomination list." Miss Thornton, who proposed Mr. Smith's name said that the procedure was unconstitutional as anyone could become a member of the United Farmers movement, but that if Mr. Smith desired it she would withdraw her nomination. Accordingly his name was withdrawn from the list of nominees.

Advertised as Public Meeting

There was then quite a lengthy discussion on why the meeting was called and who was eligible to attend. Mr. Goodlands was of the opinion that too much politics had entered the meeting for the organization's good. Mr. Smith said that he had seen the advertisement in the paper which stated that the meeting would be a public one, and that he was sorry if he was there by mistake. H. Cater also said that he was of the opinion that it was a general meeting. R. Drysdale then stated that the meeting was not called to discuss political matters, and that the views expressed by persons during the meeting along these lines were contrary to the purposes of the organization. This practically settled the argument on all sides and the election of the directors was proceeded with. They are as follows: William Pitfield, Dr. J. S. Fisher, Thomas Chambers, George Medd, Goodlands and Aberdeen.

DENIES STATEMENT CREDITED TO HIM

Dr. Gordon Bell Says No Reason To Believe Epidemic of Hiccoughs Coming

Toronto, Jan. 14.—"That is all rot," was the way Dr. Gordon Bell, chairman of the Manitoba Board of Health, characterized the report from Winnipeg that he had said that an epidemic of hiccoughs soon would sweep the country. "What I said in my address before the Sanitary Inspectors' Association at Winnipeg was that we had an epidemic of hiccoughs in Manitoba co-incident with the sleeping sickness epidemic," he said. "I further said that I believed the hiccough was a mild form of the sleeping sickness. In Winnipeg we had about 80 cases of persistent hiccoughs, lasting from 48 hours to five days, but the epidemic is dying out just now, just as the more serious one is."

"And you don't think there is likely to be a country-wide epidemic of hiccoughs?"

"I have no reason whatever to believe there will be one. Apparently one of those sanitary inspectors misrepresented me when he got outside, because nothing that I said warranted the statement attributed to me."

MARTIAL LAW NOW PROCLAIMED IN ALL PARTS OF GERMANY

Minister of Defence Appointed Commander-in-Chief of Berlin District, Prohibits Street Parades or Demonstrations—Erects Barbed Wire Barricades In Down Town Streets

Berlin, Jan. 14—(Canadian Press)—The Government tonight proclaimed martial law in all sections of Germany, following mob demonstration this afternoon, in which at least ten persons were killed and many others wounded by machine gun fire from guards in front of the Reichstag building.

Gustave Noske, Minister of Defence, has been appointed commander in chief for the Berlin district and Brandenburg province. Street parades, meetings and demonstrations of all kinds have been prohibited.

An increased casualty list is probable. The Government admits the loss of one guardsman. Only the prompt resistance of the guards prevented the mob invading the chamber. The members had a narrow escape when a heavy calibre bullet passed through two doors in the lobby. Noske's troops now have barbed wire and a rifle cordon throughout downtown streets.

Twenty Raiders Killed

Paris, Jan. 14—(Canadian Press)—Martial law been declared throughout Germany, with the exception of Bavaria, Saxony Wurtemburg and Baden, according to Berlin advices. Dispatches from Berne say that during the demonstration before the Reischtag building in Berlin yesterday, two policemen were killed and two are missing. Ten others wounded. Twenty members of the crowd which attempted to rush into the building were willed and forty wounded.

Basle, Jan. 14.—Many persons were killed or wounded in Berlin Tuesday when the troops fired upon or bayonetted demonstrators who tried to rush the Reichstag building entrances in protest against the exploitation law, says a dispatch from Berlin.

The dispatches add that since noon crowds have paraded the streets of Berlin, following an appeal from Die Freiheit, the Radical Socialist organ, for workmen to demonstrate in protest against the law.

Mob Rushes Troops

London, Jan. 14.—The mob made a rush against the troops guarding the Reichstag building and tried to disarm them. The troops fired and several persons were killed or wounded. Order was then restored.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph, from Berlin, dated Monday, says: "The Government is taking precautions against disorders, including the barricading of the front of the parliament buildings.

The new railway strikes and the stoppage of telephone and telegraph communications are causing much nervousness."

The precautions were taken because the Independents and Communists had ordered the workers to cease work at noon and carry out a demonstration before the Reichstag building, in which the national assembly was opening its session.

Business Disorganized

Berlin, Jan. 14.—Up to 2.30 Tuesday afternoon public order had not been disturbed in connection with the demonstrations before the Reichstag building. Big processions passed along the streets converging into the Koenigsplatz from all quarters. Numerous factories were forced to close.

The demonstrators bore flags inscribed "We demand an unrestricted workers' council's bill.

Numerous speeches were delivered from the steps of the Reichstag sharply protesting against the bill in its present form. The street car service was partly suspended, the men being on strike.

The public security police restricted themselves to guarding the Reichstag with strong forces.

Ten dead had been brought into the court of the Reichstag building when the national assembly adjourned at five o'clock this afternoon, according to an announcement made by President Fehrenbach.

Mob Storms Town Hall

Plundering on a large scale occurred today in the occupied town of Oberhausen. Men stormed the town hall, seized arms, threw the archives into the street and stripped the shops.

The disturbance spread to the villages of Marseboh and Bruckhausen, where the plunderers used firearms against the police. Order has not yet been restored.

Oberhausen is a town of about 100,000 at the junction of the Cologne-Hamburg and Wesel-Emmerich lines. It is situated just to the North of Mulheim. Both Marseboh and Bruckhausen are just East of the Rhine in the same region.

Government Offers More Pay, But Will Not Sacrifice Principle

I. H. Thomas, Railwaymens' leader, will lay the Government's modified proposition before a body of delegates at a meeting this evening.

U. S. BOULEVARD SHOCK TROOPERS AWARDED MEDALS

Declares U. S. Congressman In Urging a Complete Investigation

Washington, Jan. 14.—Charges that many army medals for distinguished service were awarded unfairly were made in the house by Representative Gallivan, Massachusetts, in urging a complete investigation by the House Military Committee.

Many army officers who never heard a shot were given medals, while scores of heroes in the American Expeditionary force have not been rewarded, Gallivan claimed, adding that the Distinguished Service Medal as a result is now known as the "desk service medal."

The representative was bitter in his denunciation of Chief of Staff March, claiming that "he has not enough space between his belt and his collar to display the medals received and yet did not hear a hostile shot throughout the entire war."

General Pershing was attacked as having given a medal to "every commissioned messenger boy."

"Scarcely a single member of the boulevard shock troops of Chaumont and Paris failed to receive a personal glorification through the placing of a medal on his manly chest," said Gallivan.

"It is believed that practically every member of the general staff here in Washington has been awarded one of these medals, regardless of the character of service. The reading of the sum total of these citations to swivel chair officers who never left Washington would certainly impress one with the fact that the war was fought with red ink at mahogany desks near the Washington monument rather than in the Argonne and at St. Mihiel. If a single one of these was passed over he must feel like a gray horse in a barnyard of mules.

"Surely the lounge lizards of the second army of the Potomac have no quarrel with their comrades, the lobby lancers of the capital."

Retention of Judge H. A. Robson, as chairman, was suggested. The delegation asked that price fixing by the Board should cease. Sir George Foster, Acting Premier, replied that the board's appointment was an effort to settle the prevailing unrest from the cost of living. No organization was perfect and the Board was doing its best. He promised further consideration of requests.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION

Vancouver citizens have authorized the proportional representation system for civic elections. The endorsement of the plan by the Board of Trade, Great War Veterans and the Labor organizations, no doubt, was a great factor in influencing the electorate in declaring for this system. In the far West, the Great War Veterans are consistently using the system in electing officers. It does not appear that the other organizations have adopted the system themselves but before advocating it there is every reason to suppose they studied it somewhat closely.

No doubt the proportional representation experiment in Vancouver will have a fair trial. It is an experiment in the sense that it will not be retained if the citizens do not like it. All such systems are built on theory. If in practice they are found to serve the purpose for which they are designed, they should be retained. If found cumbersome and inconvenient, they can be discarded. It is through such experiments that people, communities and sometimes even nations, find what is best for them.

Proportional representation is no new fad. It has been adopted in many lands. Canada has not in this respect, been one of the leaders. The Vancouver experiment will be watched with considerable interest. There the system will be tried out under conditions which are well known throughout Canada. If successful this form of choosing representatives will no doubt be adopted in Canadian cities and municipalities where the present system is not giving entire satisfaction.

REASONS FOR HIGH COSTS

Another increase in the cost of living is reported. So steady has been the increase that many people have come to regard it as a matter of course. Others more inclined to be critical in their investigations might ask:

Do you know a young fellow who works for $25 a week and who is wearing a new suit that cost $85?

Do you know a housewife who is ashamed of being seen carrying home a brown paper bundle from the store?

Do you know a man who lets himself be jollied into buying a $15 hat for fear of seeming "cheap," when he can get a satisfactory one for seven?

Do you know a wage earner who loafs because he says he fears working himself out of a job?

Do you know a shopper who says, "Wrap it up" instead of "How much"?

Do you know the person who lets a momentary desire for possession of an unnecessary something destroy the result of days and weeks of thrift and saving?

Do you know a married couple who have not yet began to buy War Savings Stamps for their children and to teach them to save?

Do you know a person who thinks it is not necessary to save?

If you know any or all of these people, then you know something about the causes of the high cost of living.

LET'S GET ALL THE FACTS

Admiral Sims' statement to the United States Senate Committee investigating naval awards that he was instructed by the Navy Department in 1917, before the United States entered the war, "not to let the British pull the wool over your eyes," and "that we would just as soon fight the British as the Central Powers," and Secretary Daniels denial that he said this to Admiral Sims, go well together.

Before we permit ourselves to believe that any such statements were made in the way that news dispatches indicate, let us get all possible facts. Secretary Daniel's denial sets forth that he did not make such statements, is good as far as it goes. News dispatches do not state that he did. They credit Admiral Sims with the statement that he received instructions to this effect from the Navy Department.

It is well to remember that an election is impending in the United States and that right here in Canada, politicians, one man particularly, who stands prominently before the public eye, said in effect, while under the influence of politics, that the Canadians were sent into the slaughter at Passchendaele to win victory for the Union Government. General Sir Arthur Currie has been blamed for needlessly sacrificing his men when facts prove that he simply obeyed orders issued by his superior.

Let us before accepting as a fact, any such statement, satisfy ourselves that we have all the facts, and that the charges are not made under the spell of that malignant malady commonly called politics.

ADMIRAL SIMS SAYS U. S. READY TO FIGHT BRITAIN

Declares Instructions From Navy Department Before Entering War

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

★ SECRETARY DANIELS' DENIAL ★

★ Washington, Jan. 19—(Canadian Press)—In a letter to the Senate Committee, Secretary Daniels denied that he told Admiral Sims "not to let the British pull the wool over his eyes and that the U. S. would as soon fight the British as the Germans," that all reflections on the Naval Board are without justification. ★

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Washington, Jan. 19.—Rear-Admiral Sims told the Senate Committee investigating naval awards Saturday that when he was ordered to England in March, 1917, just before the United States entered the war, he was instructed by the Navy Department, "not to let the British pull the wool over your eyes," and that "we would just as soon fight the British as the Centra Powers."

Ten Months of War Wasted

The Admiral also charged that U.S. Naval headquarters in London did not receive co-operation from the Navy Department and that the Department did not arrive at any decided plan of action until ten months after he arrived in London. He added that it was ten months before we really came to the aid of the Allies or acted on their recommendations.

Fleets Morale "Shot to Pieces"

Montreal, Jan. 19.—A special dispatch to the Montreal Gazette from Washiugton says Admiral William S. Sims, head of the naval war college and formerly in command of American forces in Europe, asserted before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee that the morale of the American Navy "had been shot to pieces," because of "flagrant injustices."

Acts for Welfare of Navy

While Admiral Sims severely criticised the attitude of Secretary of the Navy Daniels and the Navy Board in conferring decorations, he disclaimed any intention of attacking the secretary personally or by showing insubordination. He was only performing a part of what he considered his duty in offering constructive criticism. He was acting solely for the welfare of the navy, he said.

U.S. Trailing other Nations

In a formal statement the Admiral set forth that departmental censorship prevented constructive criticism, and that as a result of this the United States navy was trailing those of other nations.

The Admiral especially resented the action of Secretary Daniels and the board in revising recommendations submitted by himself. Recommendations inserted by Mr. Daniels, including one from his brother-in-law, Commander David Worth Egley, who lost the destroyer he commanded in a fight with a submarine, had been greeted with ridicule throughout the navy, the Admiral asserted.

Some Lessons of Great War

Admiral Sims' testimony was in the form of a letter to Secretary Daniels entitled: "Some naval lessons of the Great War," which Mr. Daniels received several days ago. The letter criticised the department for attempting to administer the details of action by the American naval forces overseas and alleged the department demanded that it be permitted to pass fully on all plans, even those regarding action against the enemy.

Characterising the alleged attitude of the department as a "terrible thing."

PUSSYFOOT JOHNSON SAYS U. S. FLAG WAVES NO MORE OVER ANY BREWERY

London, Jan. 20. — William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, the American anti-saloon league organizer, in the course of a speech Saturday referred to the going into effect in the United States of the prohibition amendment.

"This is a solemn moment for me," Mr. Johnson declared, "because from this day the flag of my country will no longer float over any brewery or distillery. My flag is clear and from beginning to end our statute books will direct war against this traffic in human misery and debauchery."

Mr. Johnson said he was looking forward to the success of the prohibition campaign in England.

DIRECTORS' REPORT BRANDON HOSPITAL FOR YEAR 1919

Hope To Start Work on New Building Soon As Weather Conditions Permit

DIRECTORS REGRET LOSS

Of Mr. Chas. Whitehead, For Fifteen Years President of the Board

On Monday the annual meeting of the Life Governors of the Brandon General Hospital was being held in the City Hall, when the thirtieth annual report of the Directors was submitted for approval and the election of officers for the ensuing year took place.

The annual report is most gratifying to all interested in the welfare of the Hospital and shows that splendid progress is being made in this institution. During the year patients to the number of 1,870 were treated, which is an increase of fifty over the number admitted during 1918 and is up to the capacity of the hospital. Returned soldiers to the number of 117 have been treated in the hospital under the Soldiers' Re-establishment Commission. Those soldiers who are able, are instructed in the art of weaving wickerwork under the supervision of two instructors from the Vocational Training Department.

Directors' Report

The Directors' report follows:

The need for greater and better accommodation having become more and more urgent, your Board instructed Messrs. Stevens and Lee, Architects, Toronto (who are specialists in hospital and institutional work) to prepare plans for a new building to accommodate 75 more patients, these plans your Board have now received and a strong Committee consisting of prominent citizens, irrespective of the fact as to whether they are members of the Hospital Board or not, have been appointed to make financial arrangements. Your Board hope that work will be started on the new building as soon as weather conditions permit.

In view of the high cost of everything used in connection with hospital work it was found necessary to increase the rates for all wards, these increased rates have been in force since the first of July and are working satisfactorily.

Your Directors regret to report the loss by death of one of their number, Mr. Charles Whitehead, who was for fifteen years President of the Board, during which time he rendered invaluable service to the Institution.

In July last Miss E. Birtles resigned her position as Lady Superintendent after occupying the position for over twenty years and your Directors presented her with an illuminated address and appropriate gift as a mark of appreciation of her long and faithful service.

Miss S. Persis Johnson R.N. (Royal Red Cross), was offered and accepted the position thus vacated and your Directors feel they have made a wise choice in this matter.

Your Directors desire to express their appreciation of the services rendered by the Lady Superintendent and her staff and also to the Medical staff for their valuable services.

The Women's Hospital Aid and Girls' Auxiliary have again rendered yeoman service during the year and to them we extend our hearty thanks.

The Melita Enterprise, Brandon Daily Sun, Northern Messenger and Montreal Witness send copies of their papers which are much appreciated by the patients and staff, and your Board desires to thank them for this kindness.

We also extend our hearty thanks to the churches, benevolent societies, and all others who have helped the work of the hospital during the year.

WAR VETERANS ANNUAL MEETING MONTREAL MAR. 22

Question of Political Action To Be Taken Up At Convention

Ottawa, Jan. 19—(Canadian Press)—The annual convention of the Great War Veterans' Association is to be held in Montreal on March 22nd, according to an announcement from the Dominion Executive of the Great War Veterans' Association. The Dominion Command has been diligently organizing in an effort to secure further consideration of their claims from the Government.

The date set for the annual convention is much earlier in the year than has been customary, and this is attributed to the fact that Parliament will be in session at the time. A series of Provincial conventions will precede the Montreal gathering, in order to secure a democratic expression of opinion from returned men on the question of more adequate re-establishment and the much mooted topic of political action.

Special significance is attached to this event by veterans, it is said, because of the present political situation and the dissatisfaction existing in respect of recent parliamentary action. The delegates at the Montreal convention will decide whether or not the Great War Veterans' Association will enter the political field. As the branches of the organization throughout Canada now number 761, the assembly which has been termed the "returned man's parliament," will be of considerable proportions.

TO TEST VALIDITY OF BOARD'S ORDER REGARDING MILK

Crescent Creamery, Winnipeg, Deliberately Disobeys Two Orders

ISSUES STATEMENT

Paid More For Milk Than Board Permits, Also Sells at Higher Price

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—Sale and purchase of milk for prices other than warranted under the order of the Board of Commerce was made by the Crescent Creamery Company Tuesday under arrangement with Harry Whitla, K.C., counsel for the board, to furnish evidence on which to base a test case to try out the validity of the board's order, it was announced by the Crescent Creamery through J. B. Hugg, its counsel. Milk was sold at the plant for 16 cents per quart to one customer and purchased in the can at $4.05 per 100 pounds from a farmer.

Mrs. Whitla will lay information probably this morning, he declared. The case will be heard by Sir Hugh John Macdonald.

Statement Issued

The following statement was issued Tuesday by the Crescent Creamery Company through its counsel:

"The Crescent Company claim that the Board of Commerce has absolutely no jurisdiction whatever to prevent them from paying more than $3.85 per 100 pounds to farmers if such additional price is necessary in order to procure sufficient milk to supply their customers, and they further claim that the Board of Commerce has no jurisdiction to prevent them from complying with reasonable demands by employes for increased wages, and they further claim that the increased cost of milk due to the above causes can be added to the price and demanded from consumers, and if the Board of Commerce contends that it is illegal for the company to pursue the course above outlined and institute a prosecution, the Crescent Company will carry the case to the Court of Appeal for Manitoba, and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court of Canada."

How Sale Made

"This morning the Crescent Company learned that a representative of the Board of Commerce was at their plant to make an investigation, and in order to enable the board to take action, if it desires, the company purchased a can of milk from a farmer. The farmer was offered $3.85 per 100 pounds as authorized by the Board of Commerce, but he refused to accept this price and demanded $4.05 per 100 pounds, which is equivalent to one-half cent a quart more than the Board of Commerce says is a fair price to farmers. The company, at this season of the year, requires all the milk it can get and has to pay whatever price is demanded if it is to supply customers. While the milk in question was being pasteurized, the employe engaged in this work, who felt that the orders of the board restrict the Crescent company's power to pay higher wages, demanded an increase in wages, which, if granted, would have the effect of increasing the cost of handling the milk so far as the Crescent company is concerned by one-half cent a quart and the officers of the company granted the demand for the time being. One of the customers of the company, who for some reason had failed to get his morning supply of milk, at this juncture, appeared at the company's plant and demanded a quart of milk, duly bottled. The company felt justified, in view of the fact that the milk had cost them a cent a quart more, in demanding the price of 16 cents, and accordingly a quart of milk was sold at this price."

WINTER CHOLERA EPIDEMIC IN OKLAHOMA CITIES

Said To Be Caused By Heavy Snows That Have Fallen Lately

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 14.—State Health Board officials have diagnosed the disease which is epidemic in Shawnee, Muskogee, Skiatook and other Oklahoma cities as "Winter cholera." They said it was caused by heavy snows which have fallen throughout the state recently. A similar epidemic swept the state in 1915, they said. It was followed by an epidemic of typhoid fever.

Disease is Spreading

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 14.—The mysterious malady which attacked five hundred persons at Skiatook, Okla., has spread to two other cities. Muskogee and Shawnee reported several cases with symptoms similar to those at Skiatook.

Physicians at Skiatook disagree with the diagnosis of the State Health board that the disease probably was typhoid fever. Some doctors advanced the theory that it was a "hang-over" from the influenza epidemic of last year.

Muskogee physicians also differed in their diagnosis of the city. Some said it was dysentery, while others called it gastric influenza. Additional tests were made of waters taken from the mains at Skiatook. Guinea pigs given injections of the water died.

HOW LLOYD GEORGE'S FRIENDS AND FOES VIEW PROSPECTS KAISER'S TRIAL

In reference to the extradition of the former Kaiser a London dispatch says: "Lloyd George's political friends say that the British Premier does not mean to be deflected from the fulfillment of his election pledges although President Wilson of the U.S. has been growing loath to face the ordeal of putting into action extradition proceedings while even M. Clemenceau has of late been slackening in pur it of his purpose of bringing the discredited Kaiser to trial, "lest such an event might produce a reaction in Germany in his favor."

Lloyd George's political opponents on the other hand, see in the proposal that the Kaiser's trial take place "in contumacia" a hint of the "farce which had its prologue in Lloyd George's hosty pledges."

WINNIPEG PLANS MEMORIAL HALL TO COST $500,000

City To Furnish Half the Cost and Raise Balance By Subscriptions

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—Plans for the construction of a large memorial hall in Winnipeg came to a head Monday evening. The civic legislation committee decided to recommend to the council that it obtain necessary legislation to cover the cost.

The building would cost $500,000, the city contributing one-half, and the balance being raised by public subscription. Corporation Counsel T. A. Hunt will report on the advisability of including an art gallery and museum as well as an auditorium in the structure. If his recommendation is favorable, plans will be made accordingly.

If an adverse report is submitted, a separate building for the gallery and museum will be provided. Alderman George Fisher announced that there are several large art collections in private homes and that already offers has been offered the city if a proper place for housing it is provided.

AUSTRIA A PERPETUAL POORHOUSE DECLARES HERBERT HOOVER

Washington, Jan. 14. — The peace treaty makes Austria a perpetual poorhouse and this condition must be changed in a few years, Herbert Hoover told the House Ways and Means Committee.

Hoover urged the extension of loans of $150,000,000 to Austria, Poland and Armenia to prevent starvation, but declared that in giving credits to Austria, the United States should declare to Europe that the European powers are responsible for the situation in Austria. The treaty, he said, shears Austria of all the agricultural lands from which it previously obtained its existence.

MIRACLE PICTURE OF DEAD WOMAN

Remained on Ceiling For 90 Hours —Seen By Hundreds of Persons

Princeton, Missouri, Jan. 14.—That a "miracle picture" of a dead woman and her child suddenly appeared on the ceiling of the woman's home and remained there ninety hours, during which time it was seen and recognized by hundreds of her former friends and neighbors, is attested to by the latter, and has greatly stirred the people of North Missouri.

"Friday night, December 19th, between nine and ten o'clock," said J. M. Donelsen, husband of the dead woman, and a respected citizen of this community, "while in my home, sitting reading the Bible, it seems as though a voice said, 'Morg, look up,' and in gazing up I saw the picture of my wife and little infant in her arms, the same as they were when they were buried, October 8th last. My father noticed my gaze and asked me what I saw. I asked him and my mother if they saw the picture on the ceiling, and my mother said, 'Yes.' I asked her what it was, and she said, 'What do you think it is?' and I said, 'It is the picture of Anna and the little one. She said, 'It sure is.' We then asked God to leave the picture on the ceiling. It stayed there, as it appeared, until about two or three o'clock the afternoon of Tuesday, the 23rd, when it disappeared."

TERRIBLE TALES OF CRUELTY TOLD IN DIVORCE CASE

Woman Forced To Bear Five Children Without Medical Attendance

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—Details of such extraordinary cruelty were revealed Monday in divorce hearing where Mrs. Charles Albert is the petitioner, that Judge Macdonald exclaimed:

"Why has not that man been imprisoned before!"

Mrs. Albert told of having to work immediately prior and after giving birth to children. Seven were born but her husband obtained medical assistance in only two cases.

Frequent beatings of the children were minor acts of brutality compared with some things he did, Mrs. Albert testified. She said he had hung his seven-year-old son from the beams of the stable once with a chain under his chin and once with a cord.

Custody of the children was awarded the petitioner with a decree nisi. Application for $100 a month alimony was sustained.

Albert formerly worked a farm near Transcona.

U. S. DRAFT EVADERS IN MEXICO SAID TO MAKE TROUBLE

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 14.—Information regarded by Government agents as evidence that Carranza Government officers are countenancing a plan to establish a Bolshevik regime in Mexico and that the radical program is supported largely by American army draft evaders, will be given to the senate sub-committee investigating Mexican affairs at hearings here this week.

Assertions that Americans who fled to Mexico to escape the draft are implicated in the plan to bring Mexico under control of the radicals are based on statements published in the official paper of the communists. Reports of special agents lend support to the statements. According to the Mexican published boast 30,000 Americans escaped service in the army by flight to Mexico. Most of them returned to the United States.

REGISTRATION OF MOTOR DRIVERS NEW SOURCE OF TROUBLE IN IRELAND

Dublin, Jan. 14.—The new police regulations requiring motor drivers to register themselves and take out licenses, is threatening to become a new source of trouble in Ireland. The ordinance, which was designed to trace Sinn Feiners, who used automobiles in night raids, has precipitated a strike of motor drivers in protest against registration and other trades are backing up the strikers to the extent of promising a sympathetic strike.

One serious result of the lack of motor drivers is the difficulty of getting doctors to their patients.

Train Load of Literature, Equipment and Lecturers To Be Dispatched

Washington, Jan. 14. — Elaborate preparations made by the Russian Bolsheviki to spread their propaganda in Turkestan, are disclosed in an intercepted wireless message made public by the State Department. The message was addressed to the National Bureau at Tashkent and said it was the purpose to send a train, to be known as the "Red East," into Turkestan next month.

The train, according to the message, was to be supplied with literature in Mussellman and Russian languages, "for cultural and educational work," and also with a printing press with Mussellman and Russian ype, a wireless apparatus, a bureau for complaints, a cinematograph and lecturers. Some of the lecturers were chosen from among those well acquainted with the "local dialects and the style of living of the population of Turkestan."

REFUGEES TAKEN OFF BELLE ISLE IN SAFETY BY THE STEAMER SEAL

Montreal, Jan. 14.— The steamer Seal has accomplished her mission, says a dispatch to the Montreal Gazette from Quebec. She arrived at St. John's, Nfld., Sunday with the refugees from Belle Isle.

The Seal reached Belle Isle on New Year's Eve, after a fierce battle with the elements, and managed to get a boat ashore and embarked all hands. The return trip was made under great difficulties, owing to the heavy storms and ice along the East coast of Newfoundland, but no one suffered any harm.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR OR DRURY CABINET MUST STEP OUT

Since They Hold Different Views On Vital Questions, Says Toronto Star

Toronto, Jan. 14.—The Toronto Star editorially says: "The Lieutenant-Governor in his address at the Rotary Club dinner, ventured upon a public discussion of the functions of his office and in the process of doing so quite exceeded the definitely prescribed functions of that office.

"In the speech which he delivered, the Lieutenant-Governor warmly intervened in the politics of the day, discussed an active issue of partisan dispute, and, to cap all, declared himself hostile to the policy of the Government—his advisors under the constitution — and intimated that he would resign rather than concur in the policy of his advisors.

"This is, perhaps, the most extraordinary adventure into the field of politics that any Governor of Ontario has made since the Family Compact, and the effect of it is likely to be far-reaching. The course of events is now laid down by the constitutional authorities. They say that where a Lieutenant-Governor differs from his advisors upon a question which he thinks to be vital, he must either accommodate his views to theirs and accept them, or he must dismiss them and get other advisors who will accept responsibility for these views. It remains, therefore, for the Hon. Lionel Clarke and the government to confer together at once. One of the parties must recede or they must separate."

ONTARIO PROGRAM FOR GOOD ROADS TO BE EXTENSIVE

According To Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Highways—To Build 1,600 Miles

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Ontario will build good roads on a much larger scale than has been attempted in the past. This was forecasted by Hon. F. C. Biggs provincial Minister of Highways when addressing a meeting held here in connection with the Prescott-Ottawa highway, which the Minister promised would be built. Instead of 422 miles of good roads now established, he proposes to build 1,600 miles of roads, extending to every county in the province and touching every city, town and rural district. Moreover, the municipalities will not have to pay as large a proportion of the cost as had hitherto been expected. He thought the Dominion Government should pay 40 per cent. of the cost, the province forty-two per cent. and the municipalities eighteen per cent.

MONS CITIZENS TO CARE FOR GRAVES OF CANADIANS

Family of Each Member of Association Agrees To Maintain One Grave

London, Jan. 14.—The people of Mons, according to information received from Gustave Casy, have formed an association to care for the graves of Canadian soldiers buried in that vicinity under the supervision of the Imperial War Graves Commission. The family of each member of the association agrees to maintain one grave thus showing the appreciation of the French people for the work of the Canadian corps. Relatives of soldiers visiting the graves will be the guests of the family responsible for the upkeep of the particular place of burial.

WOMAN GRAPPLES WITH BANDITS

At Whose Orders Men Had Lined Up Like Sheep Along a Wall

New York, Jan. 14.—The pluck of Mrs. Ernest Berggren in grappling with the leader of a gang of four armed men in her husband's saloon in Brooklyn prevented them from robbing the cash register and taking the money and jewelry of the ten persons whom they lined against the wall.

When Mrs. Berggren threw herself upon the leader of the band and the man could not free himself, he called to his followers to shoot. A dozen shots rang out and the bandits then became panic stricken and took to their heels. The only victim of the bullets was a man in an adjoining room, who was wounded in the back.

SOVIET RUSSIA MAY NOT ADMIT ARK PASSENGERS

Helsingfors, Jan. 14—The United States transport Buford with the party of undesirable aliens from the United States on board, is expected to arrive at Hango, on the Southern coast today. From this point it is 12 hours by rail to Terijoki, where the passengers of the Buford are expected to cross the line into Soviet Russia.

The Finnish Government has made it known that it readily acceded to the United States request to assist in the transportation of the party across Finland. Immigration officers and other officers will conduct the party.

There have been no negotiations here with the Soviet Government regarding the admission of the deported radicals, and it is pointed out an interesting situation probably would arise if they were refused admittance, which is considered possible, as it is known that a considerable portion of the Bolsheviki in Russia is furnished by the anarchist element.

EARTHQUAKES DIG GREAT CHASMS IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Jan. 14.—In transmitting advices from Chalchicomula, former Governor Cabzrera of the state of Puebla, said there were 74 deaths at Lafragua, 900 at Chilchotla and 23 at Quimixtlan. He said he had no knowledge of the number of casualties in other villages reported destroyed or damaged in that region.

A supplementary dispatch from Senor Cabrera stated Chilchotla had been covered to a depth of 60 feet with rocks and debris from nearby hills. Relief parties have been unable to reach Chilchiquila and Patlanalan because of great chasms in the earth. Huazcleca is also reported to have been destroyed.

ALBERTA MADE BIG MONEY SELLING LIQUOR

Calgary, Jan. 14. — The Alberta Government made a profit of approximately $300,000 during the year 1919 in the handling of liquor imported and sold through the Government vendors to drug stores and to citizens on prescription. Attorney-General J. R. Boyle made the foregoing statement to a representative of the Canadian Press in discussing prices at which liquor is sold by the government vendors as compared with the liquor price lists of Winnipeg wholesale exporting firms.

Mr. Boyle said that the figures were not even yet available on the total value of liquor sold by the Government vendors in Alberta, but that these would be ready for presentation when the legislature meets February 17th next. The Attorney-General, however, declared that the profit made by the Government in the sale of liquor was less than the profit which the druggists are allowed. As the druggists are allowed a profit of 20 per cent. on the purchase price from the vendors, it appears, therefore, that the profit of the Government for 1920 was something less than 20 per cent. on total sales, which would fix them at under $1,500,000 for the year.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN THIS CITY

As a convention city Brandon is well known. Not only is it a favorite for agricultural conferences but for many other meetings as well, including religious conventions. Brandon was the city chosen for the convention of the Religious Educational Council which will be held probably next June, although the date has not yet been definitely decided. This will mean that from four to five hundred delegates will visit the city at that time. This decision was made at a recent meeting of the Council held in Winnipeg. Representatives form Branron at this meeting included Mrs. A. White, Rev James Savage and Rev. J. George Miller. Rev. H. Dickson of Alexander was also present.

BANDITS BATTLE WITH BANK CLERKS, FAIL TO SECURE MONEY

New York, Jan. 17.—Bandits battled with bank clerks in an ineffectual attempt to rob the Manhattan Savings institution here at 11 o'clock Friday morning. One of the desperadoes was captured when he retreated, but the other two escaped. Their demand for money was ignored and they fled empty-handed.

ANNUAL MEETING BOARD OF TRADE SET FOR JAN. 29

Reports To Be Presented and Plans Formulated at Conclusion of Supper

A DEEP WATERWAY

Is Favored From Atlantic Ocean To Head of Great Lakes

The Board of Trade held its first regular meeting since the New Year Wednesday evening and considerable business was disposed of. Mr. H. A. Stuart, the new Secretary, took over his duties and will be permanently connected with the Board in this capacity. Many communications were received and replied to and some plans were discussed for carrying on the active work of the Board. It is announced that the annual meeting of the Board of Trade will be held on January 29th when officers will be elected for the coming year.

Deep Waterways Project

Mr. Paul Ames was appointed a delegate to Winnipeg to attend a meeting of the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association which meets in that city on the 27th of this month. This Association has been recently formed at Windsor, Ontario, for the purpose of urging the Government to undertake jointly with the United States the improvement of the St. Lawrence river, canals, locks and other portions of our great inland waterways in order to provide a minimum depth of at least 25 feet of water from the Atlantic Ocean to the head of Lake Superior. A similar organization known as the Great Lakes, St. Lawrence Tidewater Association is organizing in the States. The Associations are working for the attainment of their object realizing that not only will wheat be carried to the European markets at a much cheaper rate, but imported goods for the West will also have the advantage of a through water rate to the head of the lake. Delegates from all over Canada will meet in Winnipeg this month.

Pay for Editor's Dinner

The Board of Trade finally passed the account of the city rendered in connection with the banquet tendered the visiting American editors here last August. The account has been the subject of much correspondence between th Council and the Board of Trade, and the matter was disposed of Wednesday evening.

The Convention City

Brandon may lose the name of the Wheat City and become known as the convention city. The Department of Overseas Trade in London, England, wrote asking for the dates and information of all conventions, congress, fairs and exhibitions to be held here during the coming year, and from the list which the secretary will have to prepare for the reply, Brandon will have its share of Western gatherings in this city during 1920.

Coast to Coast Flight

The Regina Board of Trade wrote asking what Brandon was going to do with regard to the proposed Coast to Coast flight of George Taylor, but as nothing has been heard here of the flight, the Secretary was instructed to write for fuller particulars on the subject. This flight has probably something to do with the trans-Canada flight being arranged for the early Spring, and which matter was before the City Council at its last regular meeting.

A Highway to the Rockies

The Dominion Trail Association wrote asking for co-operation in their scheme for the building of a Western Highway from Winnipeg to the Rockies. This Association plans a tour for the early part of next Summer which will start from Winnipeg and finish up at Lake Louise, and every Western autoist is being asked to make the tour being arranged, successful.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade will be preceded by a supper on January 29th, after which plans for the year will be discussed and officers elected for 1920.

NO ADVANCE IN CLOTHING PRICES BECAUSE OF COST

Of Wool, Declares President U. S. National Wool Growers Association

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 15 — (Canadian Press)—"Absurd," is how Dr. W. S. McClure, President of the National Wool Growers' Association, characterizes the statement by H. R. King, of Seattle, President of the National Retail Clothiers Association, that clothing prices will advance 25 to 40 per cent. partly because of the higher wages and partly because of the higher wool prices.

"The average wool in a man's suit costs $5.25 on present prices and no advance is in sight," says McClure.

HIGH COST OF LIVING WILL NOT DROP FOR A TIME

Declares Prof. Warren at Manitoba Rural Credits Convention In Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Jan. 15. — People who look for an immediate drop in the cost of living are doomed to disappointment, according to Prof. G. F. Warren, of Cornell University, one of the speakers at Wednesday's convention of the Manitoba Rural Credits societies.

Interest in the convention was maintained, and there was again a good attendance of delegates. The address delivered by Prof. Warren which was on "Prices of Farm Products and Probable Future Prices," was the second he has delivered at the convention, and it simply fascinated the audience, the professor contriving to relieve the hard facts he was stating with a generous amount of wit and humor.

Prof. Warren's Address

Speaking of high prices, Prof. Warren said: "One of the numerous beliefs as to why prices were high was the fixed price for wheat. The price of wheat was reduced by the fixed price so that in the beginning the fixed price was certainly not the cause of high prices."

Profiteering he spoke of as a result rather than a cause of high prices. Discussing the question, "How long will prices be high?" Prof. Warrn said the popular idea as expressed by most newspapers was that prices should fall at once when fighting stopped. Much surprise and impatience was expressed because prices did not drop. Now the tendency seemed to be to believe that prices will never fall, and that everyone should proceed as if present prices were going to continue for ever. Some able economists hold this view.

"I believe, however," declared the professor, "that the majority of the students of prices will agree with my conclusion expressed as follows: Since inflation is the primary cause of high prices, and shortage of goods the major secondary cause, prices may be expected to fall as the inflation decreases and the shortage of goods is supplied."

The list was completed at a meeting Tuesday attended by Baron Birkenhead, Lord Chancellor of England, Edouard Ignace, French Under Secretary for Military Justice, and representatives of the Allied nations.

Premier Lloyd George, of Great Britain, who came here last week to discuss with Premier Clemenceau and others the Adriatic question and other issues, was accompanied from London by a large staff of experts in financial and commercial matters. These experts, it is understood, are engaged in working out new commercial relations with the Allied nations and other countries arising from the ratification of the treaty and made necessary because of the denunciation by most of the countries during the war of existing commercial treaties.

The Allied peace conditions probably will be submitted to the Hungarian delegates this afternoon at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 15 — (Canadian Press) — The resignation of Hon. Byron M. Britton as Judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario has been accepted.

Head and shoulders above the crowd stands Thomas A. Edison!

"Head and shoulders" above the crowd of ordinary phonographs and "talking machines" stands Edison's great contribution to the world's enjoyment—

THE NEW DIAMOND AMBEROLA

No product can be bigger than the brain that evolves it. No other brain in the world today has the inventive ability of Edison's. That fact alone is sufficient proof of the absolute superiority of the Amberola.

But the Amberola can quickly and easily prove its own superiority. Its tone—oh, what a revelation, compared to metallic "talking machines" and shrill-sounding phonographs! None but Edison could work that miracle of tone.

Then the Amberol Records, made for the Amberola alone! They are practically unbreakable and everlasting—what a contrast to the costly fragileness of other phonograph records.

And for range of music—the widest in the world—all the best, all the greatest, all the latest. An endless feast of fascinating melody.

Yet the biggest surprise of all is the price! This wonder phonograph costs less than inferior competitors! There is not a single draw-back to your owning an Amberola right now!

Don't listen to the claims of other manufacturers—listen to their machines. Then come in and compare the matchless tone of the Amberola. Edison's wizardry will win you every time.

We'll expect you in today—now don't forget.

FREE Trial Offer

We will place an Amberola in your home for 3 Days' Trial, which will not put you under the slightest obligation or expense. Come here, select an Amberola and a number of records and we'll send them to your home. At the end of 3 days, if you do not want the Amberola, we'll call and take it away. If you do want it, we'll arrange terms of payment to suit you.

MEDDLING BY U. S. ONE OF CAUSES OF HOSTILE ACTION

By Mexicans, According to Testimony Given Before Sub-Committee of Senate

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 17. — "Meddling" of the United States Government in connection with the unseating of Huerta was advanced today as the cause of bitter feeling and hostile action against Americans in Mexico today in testimony before the Fall sub-committee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee here investigating the Mexican situation.

P. W. Warner, 71, a veteran of the Indian wars, and O. G. Poorbaugh, another colonist in Mexico, both advanced this theory.

"It was a band of men—Carranzistas Villistas, I don't know what — armed by the United States to fight Huerta, that shot my son in the back," Warner asserted, adding that until "the crime of Vera Cruz," when President Wilson ordered the city taken Americans had been diligently protected by Huerta; that even during the Vera Cruz affair Huerta soldiers fought against odds to safeguard American rights.

Warner headed a colony of more than 300 American families. Poorbaugh was one of several large investors in Southern Vera Cruz.

The hearing was expected to bring out further testimony that widespread banditry and lawlessness prevails among Mexican federal troops, as well as among the outlaws.

CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN BRANDON

Religious Education 40th Annual Convention To Be Held Here

The first meeting of the Board of Management of the newly formed Religious Education Council of Manitoba was held in Winnipeg last week. Owing to the complex nature of the many problems incidental to the transition from one organization to another the business occupied five strenuous sessions. About fifty members were present from various parts of the province. Much business had to be laid over for the consideration of the Central Executive which will meet monthly in Winnipeg. The Chairman of the Executive is Dr. W. A. McIntyre, Vice-Chairman, Rev. Dr. W. A. MacLean, Corresponding Secretary, Rev. Thos. Neville, Mr. T. Gordon Russell, a well known Sunday School worker, is Treasurer of the new organization. Rev. R. O. Armstrong was reappointed Provincial Secretary.

An aggressive policy was outlined by the Board. They will aim to hold at least fifteen county conventions during the year. Besides that they will endeavor to place an Institute within reach of every Sunday School. A vigorous work will be carried on among the older girls and boys. The budget for the new year will be upwards of $8,000. This will make possible the enlargement of the staff, and a better equipment of the central office.

The annual convention, which will be the fortieth, has been scheduled for Brandon. The Board accepted the cordial invitation of the Wheat City with old time enthusiasm. The last Provincial Sunday School convention in Brandon was in 1915.

The $10,000 objective aimed at last year was not fully realized. The counties gave it the best support. The cities made the poorest showing. Souris Presbyterian Church contributed the largest amount of any Church outside of Winnipeg, $126.00. Cardale Methodist a small rural school contributed $66.00.

During 1919 Is That It Sets High Water Mark In Legislation

NATIONAL PROBLEMS

Dealt With From Standpoint of Public Need, Regardless of Popularity

This was the proposition put forward and backed up by an exhaustive review of the record of the Union Government for 1919 by Hon. N. W. WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Hon. Dr. R. S. Thornton, Minister of Education was the special speaker at a meeting of the Women's Institute which took place Saturday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. He chose for his subject "The Foreigner Within Our Gates," which proved most interesting. "The New Canadian," he called them, for such they are, the children by right of birth and many of the parents by right of naturalization. As Canadians they are entitled to the same privileges as all other Canadians. He urged upon us the responsibility to place within their reach every opportunity that will help to build them up into ideal Canadian citizens. The honorable gentleman was very emphatic in declaring the fact that these people, upon coming to our shores, seek and accept all the rights and privileges that a Canadian citizenship offers. They should also assume a full share of the responsibilities of such and if they refuse, "they should be turned right about face."

Dr. Thornton pointed out the great agency at work to break down the brriers of languages and nationalities and in building up a common nation, is the school. He spoke at considerable length about the noble work of the teachers who are carrying on in these non-English speaking settlements and referred to them as "light bearers in the darkness," in many cases displaying the heroism of missionaries in foreign lands. These schools are laying the foundation and building up the national life of Canada.

The speaker concluded his address hw telling how the various organizations are assisting in this work. Wonderful work had been done by the I.O.D.E. by contributing many small libraries and he suggested that the Women's Institute might help in providing dishes and other utensils to serve hot luncheons in these schools.

SURPRISES FOR ALL PARTIES IN IRISH ELECTIONS

Belfast, Jan. 20.—Up to January 15 the Belfast corporation consisted of 52 Unionists and eight Nationalists, but as a result of the elections which ended Saturday, in which the Laborite Devlinites, and Sinn Feiners skillfully bunched votes, it has 37 Unionists, five Nationalites, five Sinn Feiners and 13 Laborites.

The politics of the last-named party ranges from extreme Socialist to Labor Unionist and Orange. The results of the elections generally were of a freak order.

In the Shankill district, a stronghold of Orangeism, a Socialist topped the poll, and of the remaining seven members, one is a Socialist and another a Sinn Feiner. In Victoria, which is safe Unionist parliamentary seat, a Nationalist headed the poll and a Sinn Feiner and a Laborite also were elected.

The change was not restricted to the Unionists, as in Joseph Devlin's constituency in the Falls division of Belfast, the Constitutional Nationalists polled two seats and a Nationalist has been returned, together with two Sinn Feiners and a Sinn Fein-Laborite.

Sing The Red Flag in Belfast

For the first time in history, the Belfast City Hall was the scene of a speech in Irish, in which the Sinn Feiner, Mr. Carolan of Shankill returned thanks for his election. For the first time also, the City Hall heard th estrains of "The Red Flag," which was chorused by exultant Socialists outside.

The alteration in the voting power of the city was brought about largely by the Southern Irish invasion of the shipyards to replace men who joined the colors early in the war, before the Government placed an embargo on recruiting from such establishments.

Interest Centres in Derry

Interest now centres on Derry, where the final result in the election will be made known today The Unionists previously have had a majority of five there, but the utmost they have hoped for in this election is equality in membership, and to insure this, they limited the number of candidates in order to concentrate the votes. The totals in two wards are still to be announced. Both sides voted every available man and woman, but the Nationalists are professing the greater confidence. The object of the struggle is by one side to insure Derry's inclusion in Premier Lloyd George's Ulster scheme, and by the other to be left out of it.

PROHIBITION BILL IN SASKATCHEWAN TO BE CHANGED

Regina, Jan. 20.—While a complete draft of the bill to regulate the sale of liquor which is to be introduced in the Saskatchewan Assembly on Thursday has not yet been made, it is known that the measure will largely embody the proposals made to the Government by the Social Service Council. The essential features of the bill will be the provision requiring druggists to purchase liquor supplies from one wholesale firm to be designated by the Government or a commission, the latter being most likely. The commission will consist of three and have the administration of the act.

DESCHANEL'S ELECTION IS A POPULAR ONE

New President of France Won By a Tremendous Majority

Versailles, Jan. 20.—Paul Deschanel was elected President of the Republic Saturday by 734 votes of the 889 members of the National Assembly voting. His majority was the largest since the election of Louis Adolphe Thiers, the first President after the fall of the Empire, who was chosen unanimously.

The result was certain since the caucus of yesterday at which M. Deschanel was chosen the candidate of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, comprising all the various parties.

The election took on, besides a holiday character, the atmosphere of a patriotic manifestation.

The feeling among the Senators and Deputies was that after the retirement of Premier Clemenceau from the contest, to whom the Parliament was disposed to give evidence of the nation's gratitude, it was fitting that the new President should come into power with a vote that would give him the necessary authority to speak impressively for France. The general sentiment is that while M. Deschanel has not won the presidency by such outstanding services as those rendered by Premier Clemenceau, he is a man admirably adopted for the position which requires careful tact, and is above all a safe man.

The proceedings as provided by the constitution were formal, giving little occasion for enthusiasm. When the vote was announced, however, the members of parliament on the floor and he visitors in the galleries joined in a great outburst of acclamation, while former Premier Briand, who is generally credited with a large share in the election of M. Deschanel, declared to a group of friends, "France and the Republic continue."

Madame Deschanel and her children witnessed the demonstration from the galery and returned to Paris with the President-elect in a motor car. On the journey M. Deschanel was followed by a long cortege of parliamentarians. The procession was watched by thousands along the route through the park of St. Cloud and the Bois du Boulogne, who cheered each car, crying "Long live Deschanel," and "Long ive the Republic."

U. S. TO BE BONE DRY UNDER NEW PROHIBITION LAW

Holders of Commercial Stocks of Liquor Must Report To Internal Revenue Bureau

Washington, Jan. 17. — Constitutional prohibition — the dream of reformers for more than a century — became a reality at a minute after midnight Friday night in every nook and corner of the United States and its possessions.

A force of 1,400 special prohibition agents, backed by other Government officials, starts tonight to enforce the letter of the constitutional law. War time prohibition had many leaks, but the nation will be bone dry under the amendment, Daniel Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, predicted, the Volstead law, as applied to constitutional prohibition, giving the Government much greater powers.

The first week of enforcing the law will be to take a complete inventory of all liquor stocks in the country. All holders of liquors except that in private homes for personal use must report it immediately to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. There are heavy penalties for failure to do so.

Preliminary reports to the bureau indicate that huge stocks are still in the country, the owners having failed to export any large quantities. The bureau estimated the amount of whiskey at 60,000,000 gallons, or only a few million less than at the time the Supreme Court dispelled hopes for its sale in this country by upholding war time prohibition on December 15th. Kentucky, having more liquor in bond than any other state, exported only 1,000,000 gallons during December.

What will become of this liquor is up to congress, it was stated at the Bureau, and the general opinion at the capital is that its destruction will be ordered.

MARQUIS WHEAT YIELDS 4 BUS. PER ACRE OVER RED FIFE

Figures Obtained From Long Series of Experiments at Experimental Farm

DISCOVERY, DISTRIBUTION

Of Marquis Wheat Has Increased Value of Yield by $20,000,000 Annually

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—J. H. Grisdale, deputy minister of agriculture, announces that from figures obtained in a long series of experiments carried on at the Dominion experimental farm it has been shown that Marquis wheat will out-yield Red Fife, the best of the older varieties, by four bushels to the acre.

The discovery and distribution of Marquis wheat has, therefore, resulted in increasing the value of the wheat crop in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, by reason of the increased yield, by over twenty million dollars annually for the past five years.

HENDERSON SEES DANGER OF GRAVE CLASH IN IRELAND

London, Jan. 27.—Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, who is on the Labor delegation investigating conditions in Ireland, in an address to Irish business men in Dublin, appealed to the Irish commercial classes to help the rebuilding of trade and industry.

"Unless the Irish question is speedily solved on constitutional lines some of us have gravest apprehension," he said; "deepened and intensified by our experience here, that there is grave danger of its setting itself on unconstitutional lines."

William Adamson, chairman of the Parliamentary Labor party, contrasted the cordial reception of visitors as individuals with the bitter hostility of political views they encountered. He suggested that if rather more of the former spirit were infused into Irish political discussion there would be a better chance of a satisfactory settlement.

Rumors were heard during the evening that the Monarchists had planned an uprising today, which is the birthday of the former Emperor, and that Gustave Noske, Minister of Defence had massed troops as a precautionary measure. Government officials have denied any knowledge of an intended insurrection and say the attack on Erzberger yesterday prompted the mobilization of the forces.

FRENCH DEPUTIES WANT MORE PAY

Claim 15,000 Francs They Receive as Salary Is Insufficient

Paris, Jan. 27.—Many of the deputies, finding it difficult to meet their expenses with the 15,000 francs they receive as annual salary, are preparing a bill to put before the chamber which would raise their pay to 25,000 or 30,000 francs.

They point out that since the beginning of the war salaries of all government employes have been virtually doubled, the deputies and senators alone still receiving remuneration on a pre-war basis.

Cabinet ministers at present receive 60,000 francs yearly, the premier 70,000 francs and the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber 72,000 francs.

GOMPHERS DEFEATED IN ELECTION FOR DELEGATES TO UNION CONVENTION

New York, Jan. 27.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was defeated Monday in the election for delegates to the Cigar Makers' International Union's convention, held by Local 144, the organization to which he has belonged for more than forty years. Mr. Gompers was a cigar maker until 1882, when he became President of the American Federation of Labor, and is first vice-president of the Cigar Makers' International Union. The coming convention, which is expected to be held in Chicago in April, will be the first one to which he has not been a delegate in many years.

Morris Brown, secretary of Local 144, and one of the elected delegates, said Monday night that he believed the defeat of Mr. Gompers was due to the influence of the younger men in the union.

Mr. Gompers is seventy years old today. A number of telegrams congratulating him on his birthday were sent to Washington Monday night by local unions.

DEATH COUNT IN RAILWAY WRECK REMAINS SAME

Escape of Engineer and Fireman One of Wonders of Corbeil Wreck

NEITHER SAW DANGER

Brakeman Declares He Put Torpedoes on Track Twenty Poles From Train

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 27—(Canadian Press)—Individual railroad men here last night assert that there may be more bodies still buried under the wreckage of the Winnipeg train, No. one, the second section of which telescoped the first section at a curve about one and a half miles East of Corbell, and eight miles from North Bay. The total of eight dead, officially announced Monday afternoon, included two bodies recovered from the wreckage.

On the left side of the track coming toward North Bay the huge freight engine, which was drawing the second section, lies on her side on top of a mass of wreckage. Railway men say when she is lifted there will probably be bodies found underneath. Officially, it is not expected the death list will be added to. The hospital authorities report all thirteen injured victims doing as well as could be expected, but there are many passengers suffering from minor injuries who were not named in any official list issued. Wonder is expressed now that the casualty list was not greater. The second section, travelling at a rate of between 35 and 40 miles an hour, crashed into the first section and the huge engine ploughed her way through three cars, practically, before the emergency brakes brought her to a standstill. Then she toppled over on her left side on top of what was left of a standard sleeping car. The observation car was crumpled almost to matchwood, and the sleeper near her was thrown to the right side of the track.

How the firemen and engineer of the engine on the second section escaped is one of the miracles of the tragedy. The fireman got out as fires as their engine rounded the curve. The noise of his shovel probably had much to do with failure to hear the torpedoes which Brakeman Curley vowed he had placed on the track some twenty poles behind the first section. As his engine rounded the curve toward the stalled train, the huge boiler shut off the engineer's view of the track until he was within a car length of the first train

Neither the engineer nor the fireman had time to jump. Engineer Modin, of North Bay, shut off steam and jammed on his emergency brakes. The next thing he knew his engine had turned over and he was lying beside a telegraph pole with only a few minor scratches about the face. His fireman, Gleason, also escaped serious hurt, but he is in bed suffering from the effects of shock.

Brakeman Kent, of Ottawa, was on the rear platform of the observation car and beside him stood the colored porter, Simmons, of Montreal. Kent jumped off when he saw that a smash

LENINE ABANDONS FIRST IDEA OF WORLD REVOLT

Because Russia Has Demonstrated It Can Exist Against Rest of World

Washington, Jan. 27. — Lenine has abandoned his idea of world revolution, Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Soviet representative in the United States, told the Foreign Relations sub-committee Monday.

"There was a time when the Russian Socialists believed that revolution in all other countries was necessary," Martens said. "The idea is disappearing now, because Russia has demonstrated that it can exist against the rest of the world. Russia is now strong enough to defy the other governments. That is the reason Lenine wrote the Italian Socialists, advising against revolution. He believes this is a period of reconstruction."

WIRELESS HEARS QUEER SOUNDS

Which Frequently Resemble Morse Signal Letters—No Proof of Origin

London, Jan. 27.—Interruptions of the Marconi wireless instruments by mysterious undecipherable signals, which were noted before the war and have been publicly referred to since, were specially featured in the Daily Mail Monday morning and discussed by Marconi in an interview published by the paper.

"We occasionally get very queer sounds and indications which might come from somewhere outside the earth," said Signor Marconi. We have had them both in England and America. The Morse signal letters occur with much greater frequency than others, but we have never picked up anything that could be translated into a definite message.

"The fact that the signals have occurred simultaneously at New York and London with identical intensity seems to indicate that they must have originated at a very great distance. We have not yet the slightest proof of their origin. They might conceivably be due to some unnatural disturbance at a great distance—for instance, an eruption of the sun, causing electrical disturbances."

Asked whether possibly attempts were being made by another planet to communicate, Signor Marconi said:

"I would not rule out the possibility of this, but there is no proof. We must investigate the matter more thoroughly before we venture upon a definite explanation." He added that the mysterious sounds are not confined to any particular diurnal period; they are frequent equally by day and night.

MURDERER NOT TO DIE, TO SERVE LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Ottawa, Jan. 27. — Fred Skrycki, sentenced to death at Winnipeg, had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment Monday afternoon. Skrycki was to have been executed Thursday. He was found guilty of strychnine poisoning.

Skrycki's case was one of the most sordid that has come before the Manitoba courts. He is a Galician, and was convicted of having poisoned John Kohut, a farmer in the strathburn, Man., region.

Skrycki, it was alleged, had become intimate with Kohut's wife while Kohut was away, and he resided at the house as a hired man, maintaining the intimacy with the woman without the husband suspecting what was going on.

Kohut died suddenly after his return and was buried, but owing to suspicions among the neighbors the authorities had the body exhumed, and an analysis of the contents of the stomach was made. The results of the analysis led to the prosecution of Skrycki. He was committed for trial by R. M. Noble, Provincial Magistrate, and was found guilty of murder by a jury and sentenced to be hanged on January 29th.

CHANGE OF VENUE REFUSED IN TRIAL OF STRIKE LEADERS

Justice Metcalfe Declares No Fairer Trial Could Be Had Than In Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—A change of venue for the trial of the strike leaders was refused by Mr. Justice Metcalfe at Monday evening's session of the assize court.

The motion had been introduced by John Queen, one of the accused, on the grounds that the minds of the people of the Eastern judicial district of Manitoba have been and are inflamed and prejudiced against the accused men, and that the Crown Counsel had prosecuted inquiries among the respective jurors to the prejudice, it was claimed, of a fair trial. It was asked that the trial might be sent to the Dauphin court.

In refusing the motion, his lordship said he did not feel justified in changing the venue, as he was of the belief that the accused would not get a fairer trial than in the Winnipeg district.

At Monday night's sitting, A. A. Heaps, one of the accused, and R. A. Bonnar, K.C., both spoke in support of the application. Mr. Bonnar maintained that "the accused feel that a fair trial in Winnipeg at the present time is an impossibility. It would be converting the court room into a farce. Your lordship could not help it."

Sheriff and Deputy Exonerated

A verdict finding that there was no misconduct on the part of the Sheriff of Deputy Sheriff in the preparation or giving out of the jury panel was found in the afternoon session of the trial Monday. The two triers, Judge Geo. Paterson and H. B. Webster, returned a verdict after deliberating less than ten minutes.

Both the Sheriff and the Deputy Sheriff willingly took the witness stand, although it was pointed out that it was very questionable whether they need have done so or not.

Following the retirement of the jury, R. A. Bonnar announced a new jury panel on grounds of partiality. The accused, Ald. John Queen, then continued with his motion commenced at the morning session, for a change of venue or location for the trial. He read at length from numerous publications to show that the strike leaders were very prejudiced in public opinion.

ONE BOARD MAY CONTROL SUMMER AND WINTER FAIR

Members of Both Boards Meet Aldermen and Discuss Plans

A CIVIC GRANT

Of $15,000 Annually May Be Necessary—Negotiations Under Way

A proposition for the amalgamation of the Winter and Summer Fair Boards is now being considered. There is every reason to believe that the plan will be successfully completed. Tuesday night the City Council met representatives from both Boards and heard some of the propositions being put forward on which the amalgamation could be carried out. It is understood that the Council is quite in favor of the tentative plans submitted and unanimously expressed their approval of the scheme.

It has been known for some time that an effort to bring both fairs under the management of the Summer Fair Board was being made, but certain difficulties cropped up which blocked rapid progress on the plan. During ex-Mayor McDiarmid's term of office several attempts were made to get the Winter Fair and Summer Fair Boards together and talk over the proposition, but the meetings held were not representative and it was not until just lately that tentative plans were drawn up by which the Summer Fair Board are agreeable to take over the management of the Winter Fair.

Tuesday evening the City Council met the representatives of the two Fair Boards and went fully into the question. Alderman Coleman was strongly in favor of the plan being carried through on certain lines, stating that the city would lose fifty per cent of it's value if it lost the fairs. He thought that the Summer Fair could successfully carry the Winter Fair along, and urged the Council to accept the tentative plans submitted.

It is understood that one of the terms on which the Summer Fair will take over the Winter Fair is for the city to make an annual grant to the Summer Fair of $15,000. At present the city has been in the habit of contributing $5,000 only to the Summer Fair and Brandon has been getting off very lightly in this respect. In Western cities such as Regina, Saskatoon and Calgary the city finances the Fair entirely and the expenditure runs into thousands of dollars, it was explained by Mr. P. Payne, who represented the Summer Fair Board.

But just how the annual grant of this money could be made is a fine point which will have to be decided by the Council. Many methods were discussed Tuesday night, but none of them were feasible except the placing of a by-law before the people which would provide for the annual payment of $15,000 to the Fair Board.

After a very thorough explanation on the plans submitted for the amalgamation of the two fairs, the City Council unanimously approved as far as they effected the city, and a further meeting of the two fair boards will be held next Tuesday afternoon to take up the matter more fully.

ALBERTA FARMERS CENSURE GOVT. FOR SELLING LAND

Rather Than Giving 160 Acres To Bona Fide Soldier Farmers

POLITICAL ACTION

Not To Be Discussed Until After Hon. T. A. Crerar Has Spoken

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 21.— A strong condemnation of the Soldiers' Settlement Board featured the opening of the second day at the United Farmers of Alberta Convention today. A standing vote condemned the Federal Government for selling rather than giving 160 acres to bona fide soldier farmers.

The re-election of H. W. Wood as President appears probable. There are three in the running for leadership in the Women's Section, Mrs. George Root, Wetaskiwin; Mrs. A. S. Welch, Gleichen; and Mrs. Paul Carr, New Dayton.

Political action, due for discussion today, may be held up until Thursday when the Hon. T. A. Crerar will have spoken.

TWO MOTIONS TO POSTPONE TRIAL OF STRIKE LEADERS

Justice Metcalfe Dismisses First, Asks Proper Documents In Second

Winnipeg, Jan. 21—(Canadian Press)—Two motions were made when the second session of the Criminal Assizes opened today in order that the trial of the seven remaining strike leaders could be postponed. These were made by Ward Holland and E. J. McMurray, two of the counsels for the defence and were motions to (1) postpone the trial indefinitely because of the fact that the general public were prejudiced to the accused and it would be impossible to get a fair trial; and (2) to challenge the entire jury panel on grounds that the sherrif had wilfully misconducted himself in making known the jury list before the opening of the assizes; that the sheriff did not take the names from the jurors list in the way provided for in the Jury Act, and other minor reasons.

The first motion was dismissed by Mr. Justice Metcalfe and the counsel for the defence were informed that before the second one could be taken up the court would have to have before it proper documents setting out the charges. It was announced before the adjournment that the accused, Ivens, Pritchard, Queen and Heaps were representing themselves. R. A. Bonnar, K.C., appeared for R. A. Bray; E. J. McMurray for George Armstrong, and Ward Hollands for R. J. Johns. The court was adjourned without the selection of a jury being commenced.

BERNSTORFF'S CORRESPONDENCE NOW PUBLISHED

Von Jagow Replied They Feared Man As Naive as President Wilson

London, Jan. 22.—The telegrams of Count Von Bernstorff, the former German ambassador at Washington, to his Government, from April, 1916, to Feb., 1917, are published in Berlin, according to the Daily Mail's correspondent who sends a summary. It begins with Von Bernstorff's description of the situation caused in America by the torpedoing of the Sussex, the ambassador saying that the White House regarded the situation as hopeless, and adding:

"A repetition of such a blunder would force America into the war against us, which President Wilson would greatly regret because in a few months he would like to bring about peace."

Von Bernstorff asks for "instructions on which I can calm the United States Government, which now doubts our bona fides."

On June 7th, 1916, Von Jagow, then Foreign Minister, telegrapned to the Ambassador regarding American peace efforts, saying "we are skeptical of the mediation of a statesman whose whole conception so inclines to the British standpoint and who is so naive as Wilson."

Von Bernstorff was therefore intructed to watch President Wilson's intention regarding mediation, adding that if it coincided with the British inclination to enter thereupon, "it will task your Excellency to prevent President Wilson from approaching us with a positive suggestion of mediation."

ITALIANS AND JUGO-SLAVS FAIL TO GET TOGETHER

Jugo-Slavs "Supreme Effort" At Concessions Not Satisfactory To Italians

PREMIER NITTI

Says Italy Will Demand Treaty Of London Be Lived Up To

Paris, Jan. 22—(Associated Press)—With the disbanding of the Supreme Council without a settlement of the Adriatic question, Signor Nitti, the Italian Premier, declared that he stood by his ultimatum that if the Jugo-Slavs did not accept Italy's terms at once he would withdraw his compromise offer and that "Italy will demand that France and Great Britain execute purely and simply the Treaty of London of April, 1915."

Prior to the breaking up of the Council, the Jugo Slav reply to Italy's demands had been presented. Signor Nitti declared that the terms were unacceptable. The note said that it constituted "The supreme effort" of Jugo-Slavia to bring about an agreement with Italy. This fact, taken in connection with Premier Nitti's statement, apparently leaves the situation a tense one.

The Council held a further discussion of Great Britain's announcement of her inability to send her quota of troops in to the plebiscite areas.

The discussion resulted in the British offering to send naval detachments to Memmel and Danzig.

No definite arrangements were made by the Council before disbanding for turning over the Turkish, Adriatic and other problems to other hands, but it was indicated that the proposed conference of ambassadors would be empowered shortly to continue this work.

Jugo Slavs' Supreme Effort in Concessions

Paris, Jan. 22—The Jugo Slavs have submitted to the Supreme Council their "supreme effort" in the way of concessions to effect an agreement with Italy.

The Jugo Slavs accept internationalization under the League of Nations for Fiume and Sara, concede to Italy the islands of Lussin and Pelogoza and agree to the demilitarization of the Adriatic islands with the condition that the island of Lissa remain Jugo-Slav.

The right of the Italians in Dalmatia to choose Italian nationality without leaving Jugo Slavia is recognized by the Jugo Slavs, who also agree that Italian national rights in Dalmatian industries shall be guaranteed by an international convention. They refuse to make any alteration of the line drawn by President Wilson.

The note says the desire of the Albanians for independence will not be respected, but if necessary the Jugo Slavs will accept all the proposals.

Ask Definite Reply

Paris, Jan. 22.—The official communication of the Supreme Council says:

"The Council took cognizance of the Jugo-Slav answer to the Italian plan for settlement of the Adriatic question. The Jugo-Slav Government having made reservations, it has been asked to give a definite reply on the subject between now and the end of the week. M. Pachitch and M. Trumbitvh (the Jugo-Slav representatives) were heard.

BAGOT COMMUNITY CLUB ENTERTAINS RETURNED MEN AND NEXT OF KIN

At a recent meeting of the Bagot Community Club held in the school house, the returned soldiers of the district and the next-of-kin were the guests of honor. An excellent program of songs, toasts, etc., was given after all had done justice to a sumptuous supper provided by the women of the district. A reading by Miss Laura Churchill of Brandon, who is teaching school in Portage la Prairie, was very much enjoyed and heartily encored. During the evening an address was read to the men eulogizing their work in the war, and an illuminated copy of the address and a group photograph of the forty-three soldiers who went from Bagot district was presented to each man.

WHEAT GROWERS IN CANADA GET HIGHEST PRICE

PARTICIPAT'N CERTIFICATE

When Cashed Will Boost This—Alberta Farmers Going Strong

Calgary, Jan. 22.—Canadian farmers, Mr. Wood, a member of the Wheat Board, told the United Farmers of Alberta in convention in Calgary, will get more for their wheat than the United States farmers, despite a general belief to the contrary. He quoted figures to show the average United States price to be $2.14½ per bushel at the elevator, while the Canadian farmer already had $2.15 at Fort William, and was practically certain to get more when the board disclosed the actual sale price.

A suggestion by D. W. Warner, of Edmonton, that the officers of the association had been used by the Government to deny the best wheat price to the farmers was refuted by Mr. Wood, who also eulogized the services of James Stewart, of Winnipeg, as Chairman of the Wheat Board. "I do not believe any other man on the North American continent could have sold your wheat as high and with as little expense as Jim Stewart is doing," said the President. This statement was entirely satisfactory.

Lambert Explains Amendments

Norman Lambert, Secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, explained the amendments to the New National policy, as adopted by the United Farmers of Manitoba. The amendments were approved, except the one on naturalization of women which took up some time, the delegates favoring one personal registration the same as in the case of men. The idea of a naturalization fee was also condemned.

The abnormal growth of the farmers' movement was shown in the secretary's report. There are 29,000 members, an increase of 10,000 over last year. In 1910 there were fewer than 5,000 members. The finances were also reported in excellent shape. One delegate contended $3,000 was too low an annual salary for the secretary.

The delegates went on record as opposed to railway companies escaping liability for death or injury to an attendant travelling with livestock on reduced fare, inasmuch as the railway companies insist on attendants travelling with all cars of stock going 100 miles or over.

Resolution on Censorship

An enthusiastic resolution was the one on censorship, which was carried unanimously and read:

"Whereas that we urge the Dominion Government to amend the law immediately so that the personal freedom and liberty of the citizens of Canada as existent prior to the war, be restored in full measure."

Another enthusiastically carried motion was to abolish the Board of Commerce, "as a menace to the welfare of the Canadian people."

There was much discussion on a motion asking the Dominion Government to fix the price on machinery and other manufactured goods.

The President said the government had not fixed the price on wheat and it was not practical to fix the price on manufactured goods. The motion was tabled.

Grant, Minister of Education in the Drury Government.

The nominations in the two by-elections are to be held on Feb. 9th and the elections a week later. Writs for these by-elections will be issued immediately. In Halton County, John F. Clark, U.F.O. member.

CRERAR TO BE NEXT PREMIER OF DOMINION

Declares President Greensfield of Alberta Farmers' Convention In Calgary

Calgary, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press)—More Canadians have gone to the United States during the last eleven years than Americans have come to Canada, due to the indirect result of the protective system, declared Hon. T. A. Crerar to 1,500 United Farmers of Alberta here Wednesday night. In a vigorous attack on the tariff system, he asked, "If the Canadian manufacturer could produce in 1914 in competition with the rest of the world, why cannot he do it now and why does he need protection at home?"

The most prolific source for Federal election campaign funds in the last forty years came through protection or patronage, he declared.

On Provincial political action he urged that all attention be placed on Federal issues and the attainment of the now famous new National Policy as adopted by the Canadian Council of Agriculture.

H. Greenfield, President of the convention, carried a scene of enthusiasm when he said Mr. Crerar was destined to be the next Premier of Canada. Mr. Greenfield believed that in going into Provincial action it would be grasping at the shadow for the substance. This statement was also warmly received.

BRITAIN NOT BORROWING TO HELP OUT OTHERS

Declares Austen Chamberlain Chancellor of Exchequer—Soon Turn the Corner

Birmingham, Jan. 22.—It is not Great Britain's policy to borrow vast sums in America for the purpose of lending them to other nations of Europe, Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared here today.

"As long as I am responsible," he said, "that will not be the policy which the Government will think of adopting." Chamberlain expressed his belief that Great Britain had reached the maximum of national debt and said he believed the nation would "turn the corner" during the coming fiscal year. Then it would be the Government's business to consider the founding of the large existing floating debt, thus removing from commercial and financial centres the cloud of anxiety hanging over them.

The Chancellor declared that no expedient, however ingenious, could relieve the nation of the necessity for many years of careful economy in national and personal expenditure, or from continued effort to create wealth.

BOARD OWNS STOCK TILL PAID FOR BY EX-SOLDIERS

Soldier-Settlers Making Sales Without Board's Consent To Be Prosecuted

THE PURCHASERS

Of Such Property Also To Be Subject To Prosecution

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—In the first division court of the county of Carleton, Judge O'Brian has given judgment in favor of the Soldier Settlement Board of Canada, in a suit to recover livestock sold to H. B. Boyd by John F. Conway, a soldier settler.

His Honor ruled that the stock was the property of the Board until paid for, and that the settler had no right to dispose of it until he had discharged his obligations.

The decision of Judge O'Brian is an important one, as it clears away any doubt that may have existed concerning the right of soldier settlers to sell their livestock or implements without the consent of the Board.

It is the intention to proceed against any settler who disposes of livestock or chattels, the ownership of which is vested in the Soldier Settlement Board and persons buying such property from settlers will likewise be prosecuted.

New cases of influenza, 2,008; new cases of pneumonia, 181; deaths from influenza, 61; deaths from pneumonia, 21.

Tuesday and Wednesday established a record for deaths from influenza this year, but Dr. Robertson continued to advise calm, declaring that the farther the epidemic goes, the more definitely the mild character of the disease is proved.

COMMISSIONER OF DUBLIN POLICE SHOT ON STREET

Dublin, Jan. 22.—(Associated Press)—Assistant Commissioner of Police Redmond was shot and instantly killed at 6.30 oclock Wednesday evening in Harcourt street, one of Dublin's main thoroughfares.

When Mr. Redmond was assailed he endeavored to draw his own pistol, but was unable to do so before he was shot down. He was found gripping his pistol, which was in his pocket.

Mr. Redmond recently was brought to Dublin from Belfast, where he had been a successful constabulary officer, to assist in co-ordinating the Dublin police and to secure increased efficiency in the detective service, in view of the murder of several police, for which no arrests have been made.

Thurles, Ireland Jan. 22.—(Associated Press)—Another constable was shot and badly wounded Wednesday night while returning to his home here. Armed squads later searched the district and entered several houses looking for the assailants of the constable and also held up and questioned pedestrians. No arrests were made.

Several crashes of glass during the evening were followed by volleys from the rifles of the police.

SWITZERLAND MAY BE ASKED TO GIVE UP SOME HUNS DOMICILED THERE

Geneva, Jan. 21.—The demand of the Allies upon Holland for the extradition of former Emperor William is being given great attention in official and political circles here, as it is believed the result of the demand will determine the status of political refugees in Switzerland, of whom there are many. Former Emperor Charles of Austria and former King Ludwig of Bavaria born are in Switzerland.

It is reported that there are also residing in the country at present a number of persons who are expected to be demanded by the Allies from Germany.

DESTRUCTION OF RATS ON FARMS MOST NECESSARY

Or Large Supplies of Food Products Will Be Destroyed By Them

The annual losses on Canadian farm homesteads due to the depredation of rats have never been estimated, but they must amount to tens of thousands of dollars. There are few farmers in Eastern Canada who do not suffer from the ravages of this destructive rodent and unfortunately having invaded the prairie provinces this pest is now rapidly spreading Westward.

There is nothing eatable, animal or vegetable, that the rat will not attack and it will "destroy by pollution ten times as much as it actually eats." On the farm, grain of all kinds, vegetables and fruits, eggs and poultry, constitute the chief objects of its foraging. It is omniverous, voraceous, destructive and withall very prolific when there is an ample food supply. No one means of destruction is usually successful and recourse must be had to as many of the various agencies of destruction as may be deemed necessary or practicable. We cannot emphasize too strongly the value of persistent effort if the premises are to be rid of rats.

Prevention: This is of the first importance. It is inside the building rather than outside that rats do the most damage; the great object therefore, must be to prevent their entrance. This is best attained by having all foundations and floors of concrete. From every standpoint concrete so used, for barns, stables, piggery, poultry houses, etc., represents a good investment. Old and dilapidated stone foundations may be made rat proof by an inside coating of concrete or, at times, simply by stopping the holes with a mixture of cement and broken glass.

All basement and cellar windows should be screened with stout metal netting; open windows are one of the readiest means by which rats effect an entrance.

Limit their food supply as far as may be practicable by keeping grain, meals, garbage, etc., in rat-proof bins or other receptacles, with tight-fitting covers. It is impossible to make much headway in keeping under this pest as long as there is an abundance of unprotected food about the buildings.

The usefulness of the larger owls and hawks in the destruction of rats has not fully been recognized; on the whole these birds if kept in check are beneficial.

A well trained dog may be depended on to keep the buildings and yards fairly free from rats. Probably for this purpose there is nothing superior to a thoroughly trained fox terrier.

Trapping is one of the most effective means of destroying rats. It fails if food is abundant, especially with old rats, which are very cunning. If the rats are numerous a number of traps should be used at once and used persistently.

There are several modern forms of the guillotine trap which are excellent. Cage traps are especially useful in catching young rats, particularly if baited and left open for a night or two and partially concealed as by hay or straw. Large catches may frequently be made by "barrel" and "pit" traps—the baited covers being hinged so as to turn with the weight of a rat. Among excellent baits may be mentioned toasted cheese, bacon liver, raw meat, grains of various kinds, oatmeal and in Winter fresh vegetables.

As there is always more or less danger to live stock in the use of poisons, they are the last means to employ. Barium carbonate (precipitated) is the least dangerous; it is comparatively harmless to domestic stocks in the small doses used for killing rats. It is used as a stiff dough, composed of flour or oatmeal and a little sugar with 15 to 20 per cent of the carbonate. The addition of a few drops of oil of aniseed or of caraway makes the bait more attractive. Arsenic is very popular as a rat poison but experience has shown that it is variable in its effect and apparently not always fatal. The bait can be made as already described under carbonate of barium, or the arsenic may be spread or rubbed on buttered bread. Stryshnine is also employed and is very rapid in its action. The best plan is to insert a small crystal in raw meat, the pieces of meat being placed in the runs or burrows.

In buildings or yards in which there are poultry or other live stock, a precautionary measure in the use of poisons is the employment of two wooden boxes, "the one considerably larger than the other and each having two or more holes in the sides large enough to admit rats." The poisoned bait is placed on the bottom and near the middle of the smaller box. By this means danger to live stock is avoided while the rats have free access to the poison.

CRITICISM OF BRITISH LABOR PARTY'S FITNESS

Churchill Says Labor Must Be Saved From Pernicious and Blighting Dogmas

London, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Several interesting contributions to the question of the Labor party's present fitness for parliamentary government have been forthcoming during the week-end. J. R. Thomas, leader of the railwaymen, speaking amid considerable interruption at Liverpool, said a strike would have ben disastrous to the railwaymen and ruinous to the country. He also emphasized the importance of observing agreements, remarking that they could not demand a higher standard of honor from employers than from the men.

Philip Snowden told a Glasgow audience that the main weakness of the Labor party was in adopting Soviet methods in selecting parliamentary candidates. Purely industrial matters, he said, may be only one part of the general work of parliament, and if the expression which had got abroad, that a seat in parliament was the crowning glory of a successful trades union leader, was going to continue, then the Labor party was doomed.

Winston Churchill in a long article in a Sunday paper asks if the Labor party is to be fed by flattery alone while permitting themselves the freest indulgence in personal abuse. Why should measures for the effective countering of the Labor party's unwarrantable pretensions be spoken of as if they imply hostility to the wage earning interests?

"Those who believe in the British Empire's enduring greatness," says Churchill in conclusion, "must save British labor from the fallacious, pernicious and blighting dogmas which the Labor Party in their shallow assurance seek to thrust on us all."

BUFFALO MEAT AND VENISON AT MOUNTIES BANQUET

Edmonton Journal: When the pioneers and veterans of any body or organization gather around the festive board in the name of that body which they once so proudly represented, look out for tall tales of bygone days. Especially is it so when that association is hoary with age and redolent of glorious traditions and a past which is indelibly interwoven with a country in its birth, growth and expansion.

It was even so at the first annual banquet of the Royal North West Mounted Police Veterans' association held at the Corona hotel on Monday evening and over heaped-up plates of buffalo meat and venison, these grizzled veteran "riders of the plains," who had seen a country in the making, sat and swapped yarns, called each other by their first names, reminisced to their hearts' content and were with difficulty recalled to the fact that there was a toast list to follow the excellent spread which had set the ball rolling.

The Edmonton Veterans' association now boasts some 115 members and they were there almost to a man. From the veterans "Jim" McKernan, "Pete" Coutts, Captain C. E. Denny and Barney Cooper right down to the present members of the R.N.W.M.P., in their immaculate shiny red coats, everybody was on deck and when the "fall-in" indicating a descent on the banquet table was sounded, there was scarcely an ex-mountie in the district missing.

Oh, That Buffalo Meat

The members of the association gathered around a long table running the entire length of the dining room and were treated to a menu calculated to gladden the heart and recall the glorious days when that monarch of the prairie, the buffalo, held almost undisputed sway in this Western country. The piece de resistance of the menu was labelled "hump of buffalo" and this was no joke on the veterans, who in time past were wont to carve for themseives succulent steaks or large and juicy roasts from the carcasses of the lordly animals of the Western plains.

By special dispensation from the Dominion government, permission was received to obtain a supply of buffalo meat from the Dominion park at Wainwright, for the occasion.

The banquet was followed by a toast list of five toasts and two addresses. Each individual speaker took ocasion to laud the great and glorious work accomplished by the Royal North West Mounted Police in Western Canada and to wish good luck and a flourishing future to the Veterans' association, the offspring of the parent body, in its efforts to perpetuate the splendid record of the past and to bind veterans in a common bond toward this end. Dr. E. A. Braithwaite presided and introduced the speakers and the various toasts in his usual happy fashion.

Undying Record of Force

The toast of "The King" was proposed by "Barney" Cooper, one of the best-known veterans of the association, and responded to by Lieut. Governor Brett, who spoke in glowing and eulogistic terms of the undying record of the Mounted Police in the early days of this Western Canada. He asserted that Canada had occasion to congratulate herself, inasmuch as she had never had a wild and wooly West. We had never experienced the crimes and depredations committed on the other side of the border, and this could be attributed to only one thing—the fact that we had in our midst a splendid body of men the R.N.W.M.P., fighting for the preservation of law and order. It was not because of any particular force employed, but because of the loyalty and self-sacrifice shown by the men. Evil deeds could not be don and the perpetrators not brought to book and the criminals knew this and governed themselves accordingly.

At the conclusion of his address amid tumultuous applause, on the motion of the proposer of the toast, Lieut. Gov. Brett was declared an honorary member of the association and presented with a Veterans' button by the chairman.

Never Lost a Man

Premier Stewart responded briefly to the toast to the Province, which was proposed by Supt. W. A. Bryan of the A.P.P., in a few well chosen words. The premier declared that the reputation of the Mounted Police force had been built up on the fact that they had never let a criminal escape. No matter how distasteful the job or what superhuman difficulties had to be overcome, they had gone forth and eventually apprehended their man. The premier also referred briefly to present-day conditions and emphasized the necessity of settling down again to normal citizenship. He was of the opinion that this problem should be approached in the same spirit as the R.N.W.M.P. evinced in the early days when patrolling the vast areas in the preservation of law and order.

BOMB OUTRAGES PREVENTED BY POLICE RAIDS

Wholesale Assassinations Said To Be Part of Plan of Extremists

New York, Jan. 21. — A plot for wholesale assassinations by the distribution of bombs next May Day or Fourth of July is believed by the police to have been frustrated by the arrest in two raids of eighteen extremists, said to be members of the Union of Russian Workers. Public officials, prominent citizens, agents of the Department of Justice and police were to be included in the "Honor list" of proposed victims, it is asserted. The police think the bombs were to have been sent by express or hurled by fanatics.

Material for use in the manufacture of bombs, including those of the pipe variety, was found.

The Union of Russian Workers still exists, despite the deportation of Peter Bianki, its head here for years, and continues its conferences, it was stated, but since Federal and police raids began, each meeting has been held at a different apartment or private home.

WARM TRIBUTE TO CLEMENCEAU

Entered on Minutes of Supreme Council—Moved By Lloyd George

Paris, Jan. 21.—(Associated Press)—Before the Supreme Council was finally adjourned. David Lloyd George asked that the following statement be entered upon the minutes of the Council:

"Conscious of the inestimable services which Monsieur Georges Clemenceau, President, during more than a year of the Peace Conference, has rendered the cause of peace, and grateful to him as we are, for the dignity, impartiality and wisdom with which he has conducted our deliverations, we, his colleagues, desire to express to him our unalterable esteem, as well as our hope that in the calm of his retirement he may live long enough to see his incomparable work bear fruit for the glory of France and the renewal of the prosperity of the world."

M. Clemenceau in thanking the council for its expressions of esteem, said:

"If Great Britain, the United States, Italy and Japan remain united, there is a guarantee of peace which exceeds all these guarantees which can be put on paper. If one day these nations are separated I dare not think of the misfortunes which may result."

R.S.A. DISBANDS AFTER FIVE YEARS OF SPLENDID WORK

The final meeting of the Brandon Returned Soldiers Association was held Tuesday night and the organization is now disbanded. After five years of splendid work in which the Association has done everything possible to aid the returned soldier, it was decided Tuesday night to close out its books and disband. The President's annual report was read and it showed the work of the Association to have been particularly heavy during the past year. The signing of the armistice and the return of the soldiers more than trebled the work of the Association during the past year.

The report shows that 1572 returned men were welcomed by the Reception Committee during 1919 and that 89 troop trains were met during the same time. A financial report was presented and it showed a balance of $23.74 still on the books and the Association decided to hand this over to the Great War Veterans. Since November 19th, 1915, a total of $12,526.95 has been received by the Association. Of this amount $8,051.12 was secured through grants and donations. The expenditures show that the Association in turn disbursed $3,482.72 in grants, this being the largest item among the expenditures. The troop train work since January 1st, 1919, took $1,262.53 for fruit, $1,147.80 for board and meals, $492.50 for car hires and $50.38 for 'phone calls and advertising. The books have now been closed but they will be kept by Secretary Inglis as long as he is identified with the Patriotic Fund, and after that time they will be kept by the city.

The thanks of the Association was extended to all those who co-operated in making the work of the organization a success, and particularly did the secretary of the Association, Mr. John Inglis come in for special mention for the valuable and untiring efforts he has put forward for the returned soldiers of this city.

The following are the reports as presented:

President's Annual Report

The work of our Association for the year 1919 has been the heaviest in its history. Shortly after the signing of the Armistice on November 11th, 1918, the men began to come home in large numbers, and the work of the Association rapidly increased and larger rooms were required; more money became necessary, and the work of the Reception Committee was more than trebled, in fact, for several months of the year every passenger train coming into the city from the East, night or day, was met by some representative of the Reception Committee.

The Work

The work of the Association is well known to the public. We have endeavored to extend a hearty welcome to the men returning from active service in the Great War, and to render temporary assistance to them and their families when necessary.

Finance Committee

Commencing the year with a balance of $1220.85 and contributions from all sources brings our total receipts for the year up to $5579.78, which has enabled us to meet all our obligations and leave a balance of $23.74 in the Treasury. The Committee wish to thank the City Council, the Provincial Government, Returned Soldiers' Commission, D. W. Agnew (half proceeds sale of Patriotic Pig), Knights of Colmbus, and all other Societies who have contributed to our funds during the year. Without their splendid assistance, we could not have carried on.

Reception Committee

The work of this Committee has been very heavy indeed; meeting trains at all hours of the night and day; still the Committee, under the leadership of its Chairman, Mr. Geo. Stordy, were always on hand. Fifteen hundred and seventy-two men have been given a welcome during the year, this Committee, with the assistance of the various Societies, undertook to serve fruit to those passing through the city on troop trains and to tender them a hearty welcome during their stay at the depot. Eighty-nine troop trains being met during the year. This work was well carried out and much appreciated by those on the trains, and in this connection, we wish to express our thanks to the Salvation Army Band for the splendid services rendered.

This work was practically taken out of our hands early in the year, when the Government opened an employment agency in the City; amply taking care of this part of our work up to the time when the Government Office was opened, this Committee was successful in finding employment for several of our returned men.

Visiting Committee

This Committee, under the Convenership of Mrs. Shoup, have visited many of the homes of the returned men, and rendering assistance whenever in their power to do so. The returned men under treatment in the Hospital have not been forgotten—members of the Committee have made several visits to that institution, carrying with them, cakes, fruit, magazines, etc.

House Committee

This Committee has charge of the Association rooms. It is their duty to look after the cleaning and care of the rooms and report monthly to the Executive. Early in the year, when the men began to return in large numbers, this committee reported that the rooms, loaned to us by the Dominion Government, were not large enough, and advised the Executive to secure larger quarters; this was done, rooms being rented in the Kelly Block on Eighth Street, and in October, the furniture and property of the Association was formally handed over to the Great War Veterans' Association.

In Conclusion

I wish to thank all those who have so cheerfully assisted me in this work, without the co-operation of the members and the Committees, the work could not have been done. No doubt, mistakes have been made, but I am sure we have all had the same purpose at heart, which has been to render service to our soldiers returning home. To those citizens who have given the use of their autos, I wish to tender the thanks of the Association. To the Secretary Treasurer, Mr. John Inglis, I am greatly indebted for the valuable assistance and hearty co-operation he has given me in this work. I have found him at all times ready to give his best to the returned soldiers and their families.

Respectfully submitted,
H. CATER, President.

LIQUOR HABIT WILL DIE: EXTREME LAWS CONDEMNED

No Good Object Attained By Extreme Measures Says Dr. Grant

IN DRY ONTARIO

Grown-ups Accustomed To Liquor Can Still Get Their Nightcaps

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 21.—"Ontario is not bone dry. You can get beer of this strength and wine of that strength in this Province legally. No good object is attained by jumping from one extreme to another, as they did in the United States. Many grown-ups accustomed to liquor, can still get their nightcaps in the province. It's a good thing they can. It's a safety valve for them." Dr. Andrew S. Grant, Secretary of the Ontario Referendum Committee is quoted as saying "The main thing in liquor is to remove the menace from the public and off the streets. Go at the problem gradually. Let a new generation grow up that does not know anything about strong drink and the habit will die of itself."

WINTER FAIR AND FAT STOCK PRIZE LIST ISSUED

For Boys' Fat Calf and Steer Feeding Competition, $1,350 In Prizes Offered

The prize list of the Manitoba Winter Fair and Fat-Stock Show and the Provincial Poultry Show, which will be held in Brandon, March 1-5, is just off the press and in many ways is an improvement over the list issued last year. A picture of "Lavender 47th" adorns the cover and on page five in the general rules, additional subheads have been used, which should make it much easier for an exhibitor to find the rule wanted without loss of time. In connection with the prize list this year a Breeders' Directory has been included.

Excellent prizes are being offered in all classes, and boys who contemplate sending exhibits to the Winter Fair will be specially interested in the Boys' Calf and Steer Feeding Competition for which prizes amounting to $1,350 are being offered. Entries in the Boys' Continuation Class, are limited to lads who had entries in the Boys' Fat Calf Competition in 1915-16-17-18, and to boys who have entries in the Calf Competition of 1920. Premiums amounting to $255 are offered in this class which is for steers calved in 1918. Heifers are barred. All animals that may be for sale will be offered by public auction in the Arena.

Among the many announcements, in the premium list, is the Inter-College Judging Competition, between two teams representing Agricultural Colleges. President J. D. McGregor has donated a handsome trophy for annual competition, and in addition individual prizes will be awarded in this competition. An aucton sale of pure bred sows will be held Wednesday, March 3rd, and on Thursday, March 4th there will be an auction sale of pure bred ewes. These sales will be held on the second floor of the live stock building.

BAD SEASON FOR STATESMEN

No one can blame Lloyd George for pessimism concerning the outlook for statesmen who took a prominent part in the framing of the Treaty of Versailles. Former Premier Clemenceau of France, whose election to the Presidency of France was considered assured, was passed over in favor of Paul Deschanel. President Wilson, representing the United States at that historic assembly, finds himself baulked at every turn. The United States Senate in a measure defeated the project the President is generally accredited with fathering. His tour of the republic had to be abandoned because of the hostile reception accorded him. It will not be long before he will be retired to private life, or as near retirement as a former President of the United States can achieve.

General Jan. Smuts, who made a historic contribution to the British Empire during the war, and to world policies in peace, is dead.

Premier Orlando of Italy, did not last out the deliberations. His successor, Premier Nitti, is occupying a precarious position.

Our own Premier Borden, was only home from the conference a short time when the condition of his health forced him to seek a climatic change.

It would appear as if Premier Lloyd George has just reason for a pessimistic view of the future. He won to office during the war and he has bravely faced the after war problems which confront civilization, but the clouds are lowering and it would occasion no surprise if he should fall a victim before the clamor for change which sweeps the world.

THE COMPENSATION ACT

Announcement that although the Manitoba Workmen's Compensation Act is ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature and that the Compensation Board created by it is shorn of its power, workmen are to be protected shows commendable promptness. The Hon. T. H. Johnson, Attorney-General, intimates the Government will take whatever steps are necessary to ensure compulsory insurance for employes.

Mr. Justice Mathers' decision was based on the contention that the Compensation Board established by the Manitoba act was in fact a superior court, and that as a superior court in essence, whatever its name might be, the appointment of its members, their tenure of office, and the payment of their salaries, are by Sections 96, 99 and 100 of the British North America Act reserved to the Dominion, and all acts performed by a board whose members were appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council would be without jurisdiction.

Two courses are open to the Government which once having set its hand to the plow, can hardly withdraw. One is to appeal the decision with the certainty of adding expense and the possibility of ultimate defeat. The other is to amend the act to make it conform with the British North America Act. An early decision as to the line of action to be taken, followed by vigorous action, is expected.

CATCH THE ARCH-CRIMINAL

Those who predicted that after certain elections nothing more would be heard about the extradition and trial of the former Emperor of Germany, proved false prophets. The expectation in Holland that the Allied demand for the delivery of the person of the ex-Kaiser is conceived to satisfy some political clamor, is liable to be rudely dispelled. The Allies set about preparation of lists of Germans charged with unpardonable outrages, with characteristic thoroughness. They propose that the highest authority in Germany shall be treated in these criminal proceedings with the same consideration as the lowest.

The people of the Netherlands are not particularly happy that the ex-Kaiser sought sanctuary there. It would be a great relief to them if the royal fugitive would voluntarily surrender. Such an act on the part of the ex-Kaiser would relieve the Dutch of a serious embarrassment. That he will do so is not generally expected. In view of the refusal of Holland to hand him over the premiers of three Allied lands are to confer and decide on the next step. The ex-Kaiser is no more entitled to immunity for criminal actions than the most menial of his subjects. The same methods must be used in conducting proceedings against him as against others on the list. However the Allies have first of all to catch him. This is the business on which they are now engaged.

IS PROTECTION SUFFICIENT?

The railway wreck near Corbeil, Ontario, in which many lives were lost brings up the question as to whether precautions for the safety of travellers and protection of railway company property which are sufficient in ordinary weather, are adequate when applied to severe Winter conditions in many portions of Canada.

At the time of writing it has not yet been established whether the flagman who had been sent out to protect the rear of the train had complied with the instructions or not. It is known that he left the train in weather so severe that sufficient steam could not be kept up by the engine crew to heat and haul the train. The first duty of the crew of a stalled train is to provide protection. At dire risk of suffering severe frost bite, it was the duty of the flagman to protect the lives of those on the train and the company's property. This he set out to do. The reason for his failure will prove illuminating.

It may easily be that this disaster will show inadequacy of the present protection under the severe strain of exceptionally cold weather—protection which in the past has been deemed amply sufficient both by the Railway Commission and the companies.

ANOTHER OUTBURST FROM FLYNN

J. Harry Flynn, President of the United Veterans' League told a gathering of returned men at Hamilton that he would organize 50,000 soldiers to march on Ottawa and make demands for the gratuity. They would proceed he said, not as a disorderly mob, but as a solid body of men who would present their demands with quiet determination.

Alas for the quiet determination of men under the leadership of one who referred to the Government on which this army of men would march as "a rotten bunch of profiteering crooks in a den of thieves."

J. Harry Flynn attracted some attention some time ago by a noisy outburst. He made statements which he totally failed to substantiate when given an opportunity before a Committee of the House of Commons. Since that time he has retired somewhat into obscurity. From this obscurity no startling statements he can utter will again bounce him forth into the spot-light he so ardently desires. No group of sane men will long tolerate such leadership as J. Harry Flynn aspires to provide.

ANOTHER STEP IN RECONSTRUCTION FEDERAL CABINET

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Sworn In As Minister of Militia, Succeeding Mewburn

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—Another step in cabinet reconstruction was accomplished on Saturday when Hon. Hugh Guthrie, who has been Solicitor-General in the Union Government since its formation, was sworn in as Minister of Militia, to succeed Hon. S. C. Mewburn, who relinquished that post some ten days ago. It is stated that Mr. Guthrie will at the same time retain the portfolio of Solicitor-General.

With the departure of Hon. J. D. Reid for Florida on Friday night, Hon. J. A. Calder, who has been acting Minister of Militia, becomes acting Minister of Railways. The name of Hon. A. K. McLean has been mentioned as a likely appointee to the permanent post of Minister of Militia and Mr. Guthrie's transfer to that department came as somewhat of a surprise. It is said that with the return to Ottawa of Mr. McLean, who is now out of the city, he is likely to accept one of the portfolios as he is now being mentioned as a possible Minister of Public Works

Public Works Open

Hon. N. W. Rowell is at present acting Minister of Public Works, a department which except for the brief tenure of office of Hon. A. L. Sifton, has been without a minister since the resignation of Hon. F. B. Carvell. That some action may be taken shortly toward filling this post would seem to be indicated by the fact that one or two contracts which have been hanging fire for some time, are not likely to be awarded, it is now stated, until a permanent minister is appointed.

Sir George Foster, acting Premier, was non-committal when asked if there was to be a permanent appointment to this portfolio.

"Mr. Rowell is at present acting Minister of Public Works," was his reply to the question. As to Mr. MacLean's acceptance of a portfolio which is rumored, Sir George replied that Mr. MacLean was at present out of the capital.

The filling of the Militia and Public Works portfolio, it is expected, will about complete the cabinet shuffles until the return of Sir Robert Borden to the capital.

76TH FIELD BATTERY TO BE LOCATED IN THIS CITY

Camp Hughes To Be One of Four Artillery Training Camps Next Summer

The 76th Field Battery will be located in Brandon according to the reorganization of the field and heavy artillery of Canada made recently by the Militia Department. The 76th was formerly a depot battery in Winnipeg and many Brandon men enlisted in it for service overseas. Under the new orders issued the batteries that fought through the war under their old numbers will retain them, while the depot batteries will be located in outside cities and towns. Interviewed today none of the local military authorities could give any information as to when the battery would be located here, or where it would be quartered for training purposes.

By the new scheme under which the Militia Department plan to re-organize the artillery units of Canada, fifty field and fifteen heavy or siege batteries will be located in this country. In order that the batteries may not have to travel long distances to their annual training, it is proposed to have four training camps in June, one of which will be Camp Hughes. The guns for the batteries are already commencing to arrive from England and will be issued in sufficient time to enable the batteries that have been designated for training in 1920 to be equipped with guns.

All the brigades and batteries will be commanded by officers who have served overseas and it is expected that a very large percentage of the men will be gunners with overseas experience. So keen has been the enthusiasm of the gunners to rejoin their old units that they fought with in the war, that offers have been received to form about 90 batteries.

The following is a list of District No. 10 batteries: 5th Brigade, C.F.A., headquarters Winnipeg; 13th, 38th, 9th batteries, Winnipeg; 17th, St. Boniface. Field batteries to be brigaded hereafter are, 59th battery, Portage; 70th battery, Fort William; 71st battery, Kenora, and 76th, Brandon.

BRANDON SUMMER FAIR DATES SAME AS YEAR AGO JULY 19-24

Johnny J. Jones Shows With a New Line-up of Features To Provide Midway Attractions—R. M. Matheson, President Western Canada Fairs Association

R. M. Matheson K.C. of Brandon has been elected President of the Western Canada Fairs Association, succeeding E. L. Richardson of Calgary who was president of the Association last year. The four Brandon members of the Fair Board, Messrs. W. Dowling, W. I. Smale, W. I. Elder and R. M. Matheson who were present at the meetings held in Edmonton last week returned to the city Sunday. They report that the meetings held by the Association were very successful and that they were largely attended by members of the Western Fair boards.

The dates for Brandon's Provincial Fair for 1920 will be July 19th to 24th, the same as in 1919. The Association made the same arrangement with regard to the holding of the Western Fairs, commencing the fairs at Calgary and finishing at Regina. Midway attractions were booked for the coming Summer, and it will be glad news to the public to learn that the Johnny Jones shows have again secured the contract for the Western Fairs. With an entirely new organization of side shows and features, the Johnny Jones management promise even a better line of attractions than they had here last Summer. Besides securing the contract for the Western fairs the Jones shows have been booked for Toronto again.

The platform attractions will be the best that the Association has ever been able to secure, according to Mr. Smale. Many contracts were offered to the Association, but only the very cream of the vaudeville talent was chosen for the platform attractions. Mr. Smale also announced this morning that the 48th Highlanders Band of Toronto has been secured to play at all the Western fairs and this in itself will be a wonderful attraction.

The Brandon men who made the trip West to Edmonton report having had a royal entertainment while in that city. A banquet was tendered the visiting representatives by the city at which Premier Stewart and Mayor Clarke of Edmonton were present.

TORPEDOES FAIL TO WARN TRAIN CREW: EIGHT OR MORE KILLED C.P.R. WRECK NEAR CORBEIL ONT.

First Section of Stalled Transcontinental Struck By Fast Running Second, the Crew of Which Did Not Hear Explosion of Torpedoes Set Out As Warning—Great Suffering For Survivors Due To Terrible Cold—Uncertainty As To Number Killed

Montreal, Que., Jan. 26.—Failure of torpedoes to explode loudly enough to be heard above the roar of the train was the cause of a rear-end collision Sunday at Corbeil, on the Canadian Pacific railway, in which eight or more people lost their lives, according to reports reaching th company's offices here this morning. When the first section of the Transcontinental train was stalled owing to difficulty in raising steam through extreme cold its crew went back along the track and fixed torpedoes to act as a warning to the second section. Members of the crew of the second train report that they did not hear the torpedoes, and their train ran on into collision with a Pullman car, which was telescoped.

Death Lists Vary

Montreal, Que., Jan. 26.—The dead in the wreck on the Canadian Pacific at Corbeil, Ont., Sunday morning, remained at eight, according to advices to the head office of the company today.

North Bay, Jan. 26.—Fifteen are believed to be dead and a large number injured as a result of the second section of No. 1 C.P.R. train running into the first section which had become stalled at Corbeil, eleven miles East of here, at 1030 Sunday morning.

An Early Report

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 26.—Fifteen are believed to be dead and a large number injured as the result of the worst train wreck in the history of this division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which occurred at Corbeil, eleven miles East of here, at 10.30 Sunday morning. No. 1 Canadian Pacific express for Vancouver, due here at 10 a.m., was running in two sections. No. One section be ame stalled owing to failure of the engine to make steam under the condition of severe frost obtaining, and No. Two section came round a curve on it, the locomotive of No. Two section telescoping the rear sleeper of No. One section. It is said that torpedoes had been placed and other precautions taken by the crew of the stalled train; but it is too early, and there is as yet too much confusion existing to be certain on this point. The two sections, it is said, were running very close together.

Eight passengers on the stalled train were killed outright, and seven others died after their removal on the way to the hospital here. At the hospital it is reported that none of the injured there are fatally hurt. So far as is known, all the casualties are immigrants for Western Canada or residents of the West on the way home from Europe.

The death of Mrs. Susan Peden and her two sons in the train wreck at Corbeil leaves one survivor in what was a few years ago a happy and growing family. Her husband had taken up land in Alberta and is in Calgary awaiting the arrival of wife and sons. Two older boys were killed in France.

Nearly all the passengers on the train were Western people, or settlers for the West, and all the casualties were in the last pullman of the first section, which was telescoped. It is assumed from the latter fact that the rear section of the train could not have been running at full speed when it came in collision with the leading portion.

Injured Will Recover

Of the score of injured now in the hospital here it is said that all have a good chance of recovery. The train bringing them from the scene of the wreck reached here at half past four Sunday afternoon and was met by ambulances, automobiles and sleds. On receipt of the news of the collision, nurses and doctors had been rushed to Corbeil on Superintendent Scully's private car.

Assistant Superintendent Boucher is still at Corbeil superintending the removal of the bodies and the restoration of traffic. Just before midnight Fred Martin, a local undertaker, returned to North Bay with five bodies of the victims, but could not give their names. There are several children among the unidentified dead.

Fear List Incomplete

Montreal, Jan. 26.—It is feared that the list of casualties in the Corbeil wreck received by the C.P.R. head offices here, is not complete, as the engine of the second train ploughed clear through the observation car of the train ahead and then smashed the sleeping car ahead of that one, by which time the engine left the rails and fell down the embankment.

According to reports received by the Canadian Pacific authorities the impact must have been terrible when the second train ran into the train ahead of it. It was probably travelling at thirty miles an hour when the hundred-ton engine with its heavy load of coaches ploughed through the cars of the train ahead.

Thirty Below Zero

At the time of the collision, the temperature was around 30 below ero and the place of the disaster is a remote one, nearly two miles from the nearest way-station and ten miles from North Bay.

A tragic feature of the wreck was the instantaneous killing of Mrs. Peden and her young sons, who were travelling in the sleeping car next to the observation car and which received almost the full shock of the impact.

No fire followed the collision, the cars being all steam-heated. It is believed the engineer and fireman of the engine that ran into the preceding train jumped before it struck, as no word has yet been received of their fate.

Eight Persons Killed

North Bay, Jan. 26.—Eight persons including a mother and two children going to Vancouver and one employe of the Canadian Pacific Railway were killed in Sunday morning's crash at Corbeil. The injured, all of whom were bound for Eastern points, number thirteen.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. issued the following casualty list at noon:—

DESTRUCTION OF RATS ON FARMS MOST NECESSARY

Or Large Supplies of Food Products Will Be Destroyed By Them

The annual losses on Canadian farm homesteads due to the depredation of rats have never been estimated, but they must amount to tens of thousands of dollars. There are few farmers in Eastern Canada who do not suffer from the ravages of this destructive rodent and unfortunately having invaded the prairie provinces this pest is now rapidly spreading Westward.

There is nothing eatable, animal or vegetable, that the rat will not attack and it will "destroy by pollution ten times as much as it actually eats." On the farm, grain of all kinds, vegetables and fruits, eggs and poultry, constitute the chief objects of its foraging. It is omnivorous, voracious, destructive and withall very prolific when there is an ample food supply. No one means of destruction is usually successful and recourse must be had to as many of the various agencies of destruction as may be deemed necessary or practicable. We cannot emphasize too strongly the value of persistent effort if the premises are to be rid of rats.

Prevention: This is of the first importance. It is inside the building rather than outside that rats do the most damage; the great object therefore, must be to prevent

[illegible]

As there is always more or less danger to live stock in the use of poisons, they are the last means to employ. Barium carbonate (precipitated) is the least dangerous; it is comparatively harmless to domestic stocks in the small doses used for killing rats. It is used as a stiff dough, composed of flour or oatmeal and a little sugar with 15 to 20 per cent of the carbonate. The addition of a few drops of oil of aniseed or of caraway makes the bait more attractive. Arsenic is very popular as a rat poison but experience has shown that it is variable in its effect and apparently not always fatal. The bait can be made as already described under carbonate of barium, or the arsenic may be spread or rubbed on buttered bread. Stryshnine is also employed and is very rapid in its action. The best plan is to insert a small crystal in raw meat, the pieces of meat being placed in the runs or burrows.

In buildings or yards in which there are poultry or other live stock, a precautionary measure in the use of poisons is the employment of two wooden boxes "the one considerably larger than the other and each having two or more holes in the sides large enough to admit rats." The poisoned bait is placed on the bottom and near the middle of the smaller box. By this means danger to live stock is avoided while the rats have free access to the poison.

BUFFALO MEAT AND VENISON AT MOUNTIES BANQUET

Edmonton Journal: When the pioneers and veterans of any body or organization gather around the festive board in the name of that body which they once so proudly represented, look out for tall tales of bygone days. Especially is it so when that association is heavy with age and redolent of glorious traditions and a past which is indelibly interwoven with a country in its birth, growth and expansion.

It was even so at the first annual banquet of the Royal North West Mounted Police Veterans' association held at the Corona hotel on Monday evening and over heaped-up plates of buffalo meat and venison, these grizzled veterans "riders of the plains" who had run a country in the making, sat and swapped yarns, called each other by their first names, reminisced to their hearts' content and were with difficulty recalled to the fact that there was a toast list to follow the excellent spread which had set the ball rolling.

The Edmonton Veterans' association now boasts some 115 members and they were there almost to a man. From the veterans "Jim" McKernan, "Pete" Coutts, Captain C. E. Denny and Barney Cooper right down to the present members of the R.N.W.M.P., in their immaculate shiny red coats, everybody was on deck and when the "fall-in" indicating a descent on the banquet table was sounded, there was

Wholesale Assassinations Said To Be Part of Plan of Extremists

New York, Jan. 21. — A plot for wholesale assassinations by the distribution of bombs next May Day or Fourth of July is believed by the police to have been frustrated by the arrest in two raids of eighteen extremists, said to be members of the Union of Russian Workers. Public officials, prominent citizens, agents of the Department of Justice and police were to be included in the "Honor list" of proposed victims, it is asserted. The police think the bombs were to have been sent by express or buried by fanatics.

Material for use in the manufacture of bombs, including those of the pipe variety, was found.

The Union of Russian Workers still exists, despite the deportation of Peter Bianki. Its head here for years, and continues its conferences, it was stated, but since Federal and police raids began, each meeting has been held at a different apartment or private home.

At the same time the Saskatchewan Government will be relieved of a contingent liability of $13,211,000 incurred under the guarantees.

The announcement was based on the following telegram received by Mr. Turgeon on Saturday from the Hon. J. A. Calder: "Matter we discussed in Toronto agreed to. You may expect word in near future from Drayton. Settlement will cover past as well as future."

R. S. A. DISBANDS AFTER FIVE YEARS OF SPLENDID WORK

The final meeting of the Brandon Returned Soldiers Association was held Tuesday night and the organization is now disbanded. After five years of splendid work in which the Association has done everything possible to aid the returned soldier, it was decided Tuesday night to close out its books and disband. The President's annual report was read and it showed the work of the Association to have been particularly heavy during the past year. The signing of the armistice and the return of the soldiers more than trebled the work of the Association during the past year.

The report shows that 1072 returned men were welcomed by the Reception Committee during 1919 and that 49 troop trains were met during the same time. A financial report was presented and it showed a balance of $23.74 still on the books and the Association decided to hand this over to the Great War Veterans. Since November 19th, 1915, a total of $12,526.95 has been received by the Association. Of this amount $8,061.12 was secured through grants and donations. The expenditures show that the Association in turn disbursed $3,482.72 in grants, this being the largest item among the expenditures. The troop train work since January 1st, 1919, took $1,262.53 for fruit, $1,147.30 for board and meals, $492.50 for car hires and $50.38 for 'phone calls and advertising. The books have now been closed but they

This work was well carried out and much appreciated by those on the trains, and in this connection, we wish to express our thanks to the Salvation Army Band for the splendid services rendered.

This work was practically taken out of our hands early in the year, when the Government opened an employment agency in the City; amply taking care of this part of our work up to the time when the Government Office was opened, this Committee was successful in finding employment for several of our returned men.

Visiting Committee

This Committee, under the Convenership of Mrs. Sharp, have visited many of the homes of the returned men, and rendering assistance wherever in their power to do so. The returned men under treatment in the Hospital have not been forgotten—members of the Committee have made several visits to that Institution, carrying with them, cakes, fruit, magazines, etc.

House Committee

This Committee has charge of the Association rooms. It is their duty to look after the cleaning and care of the rooms and report monthly to the Executive. Early in the year, when the men began to return in large numbers, this committee reported that the rooms, loaned to us by the Dominion Government, were not large enough, and advised the Executive to secure larger quarters;

LIQUOR HABIT WILL DIE: EXTREME LAWS CONDEMNED

No Good Object Attained By Extreme Measures Says Dr. Grant

IN DRY ONTARIO

Grown-ups Accustomed To Liquor Can Still Get Their Nightcaps

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 21.—"Ontario is not bone dry. You can get beer of this strength and wine of that strength in this Province legally. No good object is attained by jumping from one extreme to another, as they did in the United States. Many grown-ups accustomed to liquor, can still get their nightcaps in the province. It's a good thing they can. It's a safety valve for them." Dr. Andrew S. Grant, Secretary of the Ontario Reformation Committee is quoted as saying "The main thing in liquor is to remove the menace from the public and off the streets. Go at the problem gradually. Let a new generation grow up that does not know anything about strong drink and the habit will die of itself."

TORONTO FEARS ANOTHER WAVE OF INFLUENZA

About 1,200 Cases In Chicago and 400 In New York City

Toronto, Jan. 21.—A renewal of the epidemic of influenza in Toronto is predicted by the Medical Health authorities, if reports that Chicago is now nursing 1,200 cases are correct. Dr. C. J. Hastings, Medical Health Officer, said that since it is not a reportable disease, an increase in the number of cases would not be known until deaths had occurred.

He repeats his advice given last year "Not to attempt to fight the disease with drugs or otherwise, but at the first symptoms to take a hot bath, laxatives and go to bed."

New York Outbreak

New. Yprk, Jan. 21.—Seven deaths from influenza were reported Monday to the City Health Department, making a total of ten since Friday. The number of cases now prevalent was estimated at four hundred, of which 90 were reported Monday and 59 on Saturday. Thirty-six deaths from pneumonia were also reported Monday, making a total of sixty-eight since Friday. The number of new cases reported was 116, compared with 104 on Saturday.

CHANGE ALONE WILL NOT MEND MATTERS FOSTER DECLARES

Prices Will Only Come Down When There Are More Commodities

Montreal, Jan. 21.—Sir George Foster, acting premier stirred the members of the Canadian Club of Montreal at the Windsor Hotel today by repeating swearwords.

"Damn the government," or "damn the capitalists," were the ejaculations of many people, he said, in regard to the prevailing unrest and the high cost of living.

But to throw the Government out and put in another, or to abolish the capitalists and try another economic system would not mend matters. The laws evolved down through the ages for the ordering of society and of national economics must prevail.

Neither strikes, acts of parliaments or the overthrow of the present economic system, could effect reconstruction, Sir George contended. The only remedy was to work harder and produce more, for the world was short of every kind of necessity, and prices could only come down when there were more commodities to go round.

SECOND TRIAL OF QUIEN SLAYER OF EDITH CAVELL

First Conviction Set Aside Because Judges Were Not In Agreement

Paris, Jan. 21.—Georges Gaston Quien, convicted and condemned to death in September last on charges of having had treasonable dealings with the Germans and having betrayed to them Edith Cavell, the English nurse, appeared before a court-martial for trial for the second time today.

The Court of Appeals set aside Quien's conviction last October and a new trial was ordered. The ground taken by the counsel for Quien in appealing against the verdict was that the vote of the court-martial was four to three, whereas it should have been five to two.

CARVELL SAYS RAILWAY BOARD NOT RUBBER STAMP

Objects To Orders Being Regarded As Mere Interim Orders

Ottawa, Jan. 21—(Canadian Press)—The Board of Railway Commissioners reserved decision in the application of Canadian railways for a postponement of the board's order in connection with joint freight tariffs. Last August the board issued an order instructing railways to adopt joint tariffs where freight must be shipped over more than one line and compelling publication of these tariffs. The Chief Traffic Officer of the board, Mr. James Hardwell, made a report containing recommendations with regard to the new tariffs which was considered a basis for the order.

The railways asked for a rehearing of the whole matter on the grounds that the coming amalgamation of the Grand Trunk with the Canadian National system altered the situation.

The hearing was featured by a few rather forcible remarks from Chief Commissioner Carvell with regard to the orders of the board. He was impressed, he said, by the fact that none of the judgments of the board appeared to be considered as final, and that persons who were not pleased by them thought that all they had to do was to come back and ask for another hearing. "People," he said, "seem to be treating this board as a rubber stamp to OK their own ideas. I object to being treated as a rubber stamp and the orders of this board being regarded as mere interim orders."

At the close of the sitting of the Board of Railway Commissioners Hon. Frank Carvell, chief commissioner, announced that he had written a somewhat lengthy interpretation of the rights of railways to grant free telegraph, transport and express privileges. It would be available shortly. He would, he said, like it to be regarded as an interim judgment, although any interested parties might object to it if they desired. Although not published, its contents, he remarked, was in the nature of a curtailment of these privileges.

SAVAGERY OF SEMENOFF'S FORCES TURNED EVERYONE

Against Kolchak Government—Even a Bolshevik Regime Preferred

London, Jan. 21. — The British, French and Japanese diplomatic staffs have arrived at Harbin, Manchuria, from Chita, Siberia, according to the Daily Mail's Harbin correspondent.

They are unanimous, says the correspondent that it will be impossible to reconstitute a government of the same character as that of Admiral Kolchak anywhere West of Manchuria.

"The savagery of General Semenoff's forces," the correspondent adds, "roused the whole of Trans-Baikalia against him, and all classes are ready to welcome a Socialist, or even a Bolshevik regime. The Japanese, who long supported Semenoff, share the odium attaching to him and cannot hold the railroad without enormous reinforcements."

The correspondent says there is an unconfirmed report that the Bolshevik have destroyed a Polish division near Krasnoyarsk.

HEAVY RAINS BREAK AUSTRALIAN DRY SPELL

Melbourne, Australia Jan. 21.—(Australian Telegraph Agency)—Heavy rains have fallen throughout Victoria and New South Wales, definitely breaking the long period of drought. It is expected that the season will be a fair one for both stock raisers and wheat growers.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN HEAR ROWELL'S ADDRESS

War Work Earned Them Recognition No Longer Possible To Deny

Ottawa, Jan. 21—(Canadian Press)—Addressing the members of the National Council of Women at their meeting here, Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, dealt with the Washington conference and its relation to women's work. He said as a result of the manner in which women had stepped out to fill the places of men called out to battle, it would not be possible to go back again to pre-war conditions.

The movement for the extension of the franchise also had made such progress that all democratic countries must extend to women the right to vote and occupy seats in parliaments on the same basis as men. Mr. Rowell called attention to the fact that in Canada legislation of 1918 and 1919 gave women these equal rights with men.

Outlining briefly the conventions adopted at Washington in relation to the work of women and children, Mr. Rowell dealt with the employment of women before and after child birth; employment of women during the night; employment of women and children in unhealthy processes; establishment of minimum age for employment of children and the employment of young persons at night. All of these conventions if adopted in Canada, he said, would make working conditions better for both women and children.

WOOD DID NOT SAY THAT U.S. NAVY WAS A 'FLOATING DEATH TRAP'

Portland, Maine, Jan. 21.—"I did not say that our navy was a 'floating death trap' in my speech at Boston last night," Major-Gen. Leonard Wood said when informed that he would be asked to appear before the House Naval Committee to explain his statement quoted to that effect. "What I did say, was that ships that were filled with untrained men in battle were 'floating death traps'," continued Major General Wood.

QUESTION SANITY OF KITCHENER MURDERER

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 21.—Ivan Petcoff, who is under sentence to be hanged here on Jan. 26th, for the murder of John Sorokaty at Galt, on May 24th last, may not have to suffer the extreme penalty, according to his counsel, George Bray, who says that the sentence may be commuted. Petcoff has not spoken a word since the first night of his trial, Mr. Bray says, and expert alienists have been sent to examine the prisoner as to his sanity.

Mr. Fosdick was appointed an Under Secretary of the League of Nations by Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General last May.

ROWELL PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE MEMBER OF PRIVY COUNCIL STAFF

Ottawa, Jan. 21—(Canadian Press)—Hon. H. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, paid a tribute to the late Francis K. Bennetts, I.S.O., assistant clerk of the Privy Council, who expired very suddenly Monday. Mr. Bennetts was in his sixty-fifth year, and with a record of forty-five years of efficient service, he was the oldest employe of the Privy Council Department. Hon. Mr. Rowell said the news of Mr. Bennetts' death had come as a distinct shock. "He was one of the most faithful and efficient members of the staff of the Privy Council," Mr. Rowell said. "He will be greatly missed by everyone on the staff of the Privy Council branch of the public service."

RUSSIANS SAID TO HAVE HUGE STORES OF FOOD

Which If Permitted To Enter Britain Would Cause Living Costs To Drop

WHERE FOOD IS STORED

Does Not Appear To Be Known — Three Million Tons of Wheat

London, aJn. 21. — One of the instances which prompted Premier Lloyd George to put forward a plan to raise the Russian blockade, it is learned, was a private letter from the Food Controller, Geo. H. Roberts, who pointed out that if arrangements could be made to get food stuffs from Russia, the prices in England, which primarily depended so largely on Russia for food would rapidly decrease.

Another influence was a long telegram from James O'Grady, representing the British Government in the negotiations in Copenhagen, stating that his negotiations with Litvinoff, the Russian Soviet representative which were subject to several hitches, would be made much easier if the blockade were lifted. That message was delivered to the Premier on Friday last.

If Mr. O'Grady has rightly interpreted Litvinoff's desires, it shows that both the Bolshevik and the anti-Bolshevik sections want the blockade off.

Just what foodstuffs are in Russia, where they are, and who controls them, is somewhat vague, the Food Ministry announces, but the best information in the hands of the ministry shows that there must be an enormous amount.

Controller Roberts' statement that there are 3,000,000 tons of wheat in Russia was declared today to be based on reports which the Ministry had received from time to time.

VOTING POWER IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS CAUSES DISPUTE

In U. S. Senate Committee Working On Compromise Reservations

Washington, Jan. 21.—Senate leaders working on compromise reservations to the peace treaty have reported reaching their first major dispute—the question of voting power in the League of Nations of the British colonies and dominions.

In this reservation, the fourteenth of the Lodge program, the Democratic and Republican members of the bipartisan committee were said to be far apart, with no immediate prospect of adjustment. On minor details of other less important reservations the meeting, it was said, resulted in some progress toward agreement.

Most of the session of the bi-partisan committee was spent in discussing the colonial voting reservation.

Leaders of both groups agreed that the conferences probably would continue for some time, but with the final outcome still in doubt.

Chairman Lodge called a meeting of the Foreign Relations committee for today, to consider the resolution of Senator King, Utah, proposing a declaration by the Senate favoring award of Thrace, except Constantinople to Greece.

East Chicago, Indiana, Jan., 21.—Three men were killed and eleven others were injured by an explosion of boilers, in the plant of the Interstate Iron and Steel Company here. MEDICINE HAT U. F. A. MEN REFUSE TO ENTER PROVINCIAL POLITICS

Calgary, Jan. 21. — Medicine Hat District Political Association of the U. F. A. has declared against entering the Provincial political field at the present time. FAVOR PLAN OF EXCHANGING GOODS WITH RUSSIANS

One Danger Is That Bolsheviki Might Seize Raw Materials Intended For Shipment

London, Jan. 21.—In diplomatic and commercial circles here, the scheme for an exchange of goods with the Russian co-operative societies was much more favorably received after consideration, than when the announcement was first made. It is candidly admitted that the first news of the decision came as a great surprise, attended by misgivings, but anxiety over the plan is diminishing as the situation is further canvassed.

One pertinent question being asked, however, is whether the Bolshevik might not seize raw materials which it was intended to ship out, in which case, the exporters would be forced to deal with the Reds, who might be unwilling to allow certain goods, which the Austrian people are representing as needing sadly, to enter.

One diplomat, familiar with Russia said that if Russia had machinery, particularly agricultural machinery, which would give the people willing to work a chance to do so, it would be worth much in morale, now crushed by fear of the Bolshevik. Those viewing the plan of exchange from a purely commercial angle see far-reaching policies in it. It is said on good authority that even in the event of difficulties arising out of attempts to stabilize exchange, merchants could without great inconvenience barter directly with the co-operative societies on the basis of the pound sterling, although no money or credit was employed.

AUSTRALIA'S NEEDS AS SEEN BY AN AVIATOR EXPERT

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 21.—Australia needs for war purposes a minimum air force of 16 squadrons of 25 airplanes each and two flying boat squadrons, according to Major-General J. G. Legge, chief of the General Staff. To maintain such an equipment, equal on a population basis to Great Britain, the Commonwealth should have, in the opinion of Major-General Legge, a permanent force of 600 officers and 8,000 men in the air force and more than 2,000 planes of all sorts.

SIMILARITY OF FARMERS' AND GRIT PROGRAMS

Ensures Ultimate Harmony and Inclusion in Liberal Fold, Declares King

POSTPONES WESTERN TOUR

Wandering Willie Apparently Believes He Can Bring Harmony

Montreal, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press)—Hon. William L. MacKenzie King paid his first visit to Montreal as Liberal leader when he addressed members of the Montreal Reform Club at a special luncheon. Mr. King devoted much of his address to an account of his recent tour of the Maritime Provinces and to a consideration of the farmers' movement throughout the Dominion which he regarded as a species of Liberalism.

He declared there was no danger of a Farmers' political movement in the Maritime Provinces giving as his view that the Farmers were quite content with the political program of the Liberal party. As to Ontario and the West, it was his opinion, that the movement there would in the end harmonize with the Liberal doctrines of lower tariff and reciprocity with the United States. He stated that owing to pressure of work and the approach of another parliamentary session he had been compelled to postpone his original intention of making a tour of the West until after the conclusion of the next session.

HUNGARIANS ARE HUNGRY

Sir Wm. Goode, British Director of Relief Fears Starvation

Paris, Jan. 21.—Sir William Goode, British Director of Relief, has received dispatches from the British mission at Budapest saying that on Jan. 11th there was only one day's grain reserve, and that the heavy snowfall would doubtless result in starvation.

The immediate cause of this small reserve, it is declared, was Serbia's refusal to permit the passage of foodstuffs purchased by the Hungarian Government. The British representative termed the situation "playing with death."

The British representative said that the rich had small supplies, but if requisitioned they would add only a couple of days' reserve. The Hungarian Government is conducting armed requisitions of food in four countries; the producers are loath to sell asserting that the regulated prices are inadequate.

The Roumanians had awakened during the occupation and 169 carloads of grain had been received from the territory they were evacuating, in partial fulfillment of a contract for the delivery of 1,000 carloads by Jan. 1st.

REDS FROM U. S. IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Terijoki, Jan. 21 — (Associated Press)—The band of Bolsheviks and anarchists deported from the United States are safely across the Russian frontier, but whether all the members of the party will remain safe in Soviet Russia is to be determined by the Bolshevik authorities. Hardly had the last of them passed over the border, than a belated telegram reached the Finnish military officials in charge of the transfer, announcing that the Soviet Government had decided to permit only three of the deportees to enter. Their names have not been made public, but those thus favored are believed to be Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman and Peter Blansky (Blanky?). The telegram is incomprehensible in view of the fact that a delegation including the wife of Maxim Gorki, came out to receive the exiles, and elaborate preparations had been made by the frontier Bolsheviks to welcome them.

NO COMPENSATION FOR LOSSES FROM PROHIBITION

Vancouver, Jan. 21.—Application on behalf of persons formerly in the liquor and hotel business in British Columbia for compensation for alleged losses arising out of prohibition was refused today by Mr. Justice Morrison in his capacity as commissioner to inquire into the question of compensation. The commissioner said he resisted the "alluring invitation" extended so seductively by Sir Charles Tupper and A. Dunbar Taylor to accompany them into the realm of moral law, and since it was conceded by counsel for the claimants that there was no "legal right to compensation," he declined to proceed further with the inquiry.

"Paradoxical as it may seem," commented the Commission, it was "solely upon the doctrines of Morality" that the chairman sought compensation for their losses through prohibition.

FOLK SONGS TAKE ON NEW MEANINGS FOR MANY PERSONS

Whose Privilege It Was To Hear Mrs. Olive A. C. Wilkins Sing and Describe Them

FIRST OF SERIES

Of Lectures To Be Given By College Professors on Interesting Topics

If the first lecture of the series presented by the Brandon College Faculty in the Collegiate auditorium Friday night is a forerunner of future programs, then the success of these educational lectures is assured. In a charming manner, Mrs. Olive A. C. Wilkins, B.A., who is Professor of English Literature at the College and Principal of Clark Hall, read a most interesting history of the "Folk Song" and later illustrated her remarks by singing many of the typical old folk songs which made many people present think of childhood days when they too heard these songs sung in the home. Miss Helen Venn acted as accompanist and Mrs. Wilkins was assisted in the singing of the "Dialogue" folk song by Mr. C G. Stone. His Worship Mayor Dinsdale made an acceptable chairman for the evening and prior to the commencement of the lecture Mr. Alfred White announced that there would be five lectures in the series and that the next address would be given in about two weeks by Carl H. Lager, M.A., B.D., Professor of Swedish and Hebrew at Brandon

TO MAKE CLEAR RELATIONS OF LABOR, VETERANS

Resolution Submitted To Veterans Executive Should Be Sufficiently Definite

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—A resolution by the Great War Veterans' Association which will do much to make clear the relationship between returned soldiers and labor has been submitted to the executive. It says that so long as organized labor pursues its aims and objects by constitutional methods, the Great War Veterans' Association may aid and assist and support their legitimate undertakings for the improvement and advancement of labor as a class.

In the event of organized labor pursuing illegal and unconstitutional methods, the Veterans will consider it their right and duty, as Canadian citizens, to oppose and assist to repress such illegal and unconstitutional methods.

TOTAL VALUE OF SEAFISH TAKEN DURING DECEMBER

Amounts To $1,282,203 Figured At the Point of Landing

Ottawa, Jan. 24—(Canadian Press)—The total value of seafish, at the point of landing on both the coasts of Canada during the past month was $1,282,203, as compared with $1,176,288 in December, 1918. This is shown by the monthly statement issued by the Naval Department, which states that fishing conditions during December on the Atlantic coast were difficult, owing to severe storms.

On the Pacific coast, the herring catch for the past month was considerably greater than in December, 1918, amounting to 248,337 cwts., as against 248,337 cwts. in the previous year. UNITED FARMERS OF ALBERTA HAVE NOT TROUBLES TO SEEK

Nearly 150 Resolutions To Be Disposed of When Convention Opened This Morning For Last Day of Scheduled Meetings

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 23. — Further troubles are ahead of the United Farmers of Alberta. Now that the political executive has practically been put out of business the question of liquidating its liabilities must be considered. Talk of resigning in a body is rife today.

With nearly 150 resolutions yet to be handled the main convention on this, it's last day, expects the busiest session on record.

The Women's Section is asking the personal registration of those entitled to use or sell liquor, also greater prosecution of offending medical men. A bitter attack on the Provincial Educational system was made by Delegate McKenzie, Ravine. The Convention unanimously urged a change in school taxation on rural lands.

Political Action

Calgary, Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press)—A resolution of loyalty to the Russian throne going through a soviet parliament would have nothing on the half dozen or more motions dealing with political action now being discussed by 1,400 United Farmers of Alberta in annual convention here. Straightened out after several very heated, often accrimonious discussions, it now figures on a closed door policy on the part of the farmers so far as actual political effort is concerned, but a very wide open door when the question of co-operation with the Labor movement of the Great War Veterans' Association along educational or industrial lines is concerned.

This afternoon the delegates tabled a resolution to allow non-agricultural folk to join the political fold of the organization, and in the next minute, vigorously carried a motion which urges full interchange of literature and speakers between the farmers, labor men, and veterans.

On top of this it was announced that the political section would meet tonight "to discuss doing away with the political executive."

The convention is by no means unanimous on any political subject. Delegate Keough, President of the Le Duc Constituency Farmers Political Organization, was howled down when he accused the convention President, H. W. Wood, of untruthfulness. Mr. Keough declared that Mr. Wood had said group organization was selfish, but selfish people got on best." Similar passages were freely exchanged, the chairman at one time saying "I can rule a convention, but not a mob."

Political action was, outside a keen fight for the re-election of President Wood, the outstanding feature of the convention.

Soon to Follow Ontario Lead

President Copeland, of the British Columbia Farmers' Association, prophesied that every other province would soon follow the lead of Ontario farmers. Several important educational reforms were advocated when the report of the women's section was adopted. A lively tilt occurred on the teaching of the principles of Christianity in the public schools. Many delegates saw in it a move to stir up religious strife, but their fears were quickly dispelled.

By a vote of over five to one, H. W. Wood, Carstairs, was re-elected President. His opponent, Archie Muir, was elected a Vice-President, with H. Greenfield. There were seven candidates for the two seats.

R. M. Johnson, Regina, brought greetings from the Saskatchewan organization. He created a furore by stating he had come "to get educated on political organization and he was certainly getting it." All factions were looking, though they would not admit it, to the farmers to save Canada in the coming crisis.

Rod McKenzie, First Vice-President of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, declared that the farmers with others were to form one group to overthrow the present group interests in control of Canada.

SALES OF FARM LANDS

Not only is Brandon property being purchased by people who believe in the rapid increase in value of realty in the city during the next few years, but farms in the district are being sold for excellent prices. Roerds of the Municipality of Westbourne for fifty dollars an acre. Mr. Roberds has been farming in the Gladstone district for the past twelve years but recently sold out and moved to the Carroll district.

A 400 acre farm near Wawanesa was also sold by Mr. Harwood to a Winnipeg purchaser this month.

DEWART DUBIOUS OF SUCCESS OF NEW GOVERNMENT

Declares They Have Undertaken to Govern Without Mandate From People

PAPERS ASK FOR CHANCE

For Drury Government—Dewart Declares They Are Not Taking Their Chance

Toronto, Jan. 23.—H. Hartley Dewart, Liberal leader in Ontario, addressing the Southwest Toronto Liberal Association last night, remarked that the newspapers were asking that the new Government be given a chance.

"We have no objection to them having a chance," he said, "but why do not they take their chance." It was rather unfortunate, he said, that the party which professed not to want the reins of power should have undertaken to govern the people without a mandate from the people. Dewart said the Liberals would support all measures in the legislature which were in the interests of all the people, "but if the Government does not introduce the measures you want introduced," he added, "we will see that they are introduced."

Dewart spoke of "the decadence of the press, but there were some honest newspapers in the province," he said.

FINAL ESTIMATE OF FIELD CROPS FOR 1919 SEASON

TEN BUSHELS PER ACRE

Which Was an Average Yield of Only One Bushel Less Than in 1918

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued today a final estimate of the yield of the principal field crops of Canada for the season of 1919 as compared with 1918. The total yield of wheat for all Canada in 1919, was returned as 193,260,400 bushels from 19,125,968 sown acres, an average yield of better than 10 bushels per acre.

In 1918 the corresponding figures were 189,075,350 bushels from 17,353,902 acres, a yield per acre of 11 bushels. Yield of oats in 1919 was 394,387,000 bushels from 14,952,114 acres, an average of 26.25 bushels as compared with 426,312,500 bushels from 14,790,336 acres, an average of 28.75 bushels per acre. Barley gave a return in 1919 of 56,389,400 bushels from 2,645,509 acres, an average per acre of 21.14 bushels as compared with 77,287,240 bushels from 3,153,711 acres in 1918, an average of 24½ bushels per acre.

KEMNAY ENJOYS AGRICULTURAL CHAUTAUQUA

Meetings Were Largely Attended and Programs Thoroughly Enjoyed

Probably the most successful Agricultural Chautauqua in the district was held in Kemnay on Thursday and Friday. The afternoon meetings took place in the school and the evening sessions were held in the church. The meetings were splendidly attended by the people of the district who were very much interested in the various educational addresses given.

Thursday afternoon the women and men met in separate sessions. Miss Campbell, of the Extension Service of the Manitoba Agricultural College, demonstrated to the women the art of making their own "Easter Bonnets" and in an interesting address gave them many hints on this subject for future use. Mr. W. G. Gibson was the special speaker at the men's meeting and his address was on a topic of great interest to the farmers, namely, "Hogs." Another speaker at this meeting was F. F. Parkinson, B.S.A., whose subject was "Gas Engines and Motor Troubles."

For the first hour of the evening session motion pictures were shown, the films depicting some of the best scenes in Canada and also the life of the people of England and Europe. There was also a humorous film and some educational pictures shown.

W. G. Gibson, one of Manitoba's Cattle experts, gave an excellent address on "Dairy Cattle" and later in the evening a talk on "The Ways in Which Cement and Concrete Can be Used for Agricultural Purposes" was given by I. D. Mayer, B.S.A., B.S.C.E. The following local artists contributed to a musical program which was very much enjoyed: Miss I. Allan, Eliza Kirkpatrick, Rosslyn and Palmer Scott, and a chorus by the school children.

Friday afternoon J. H. Kitely, B.S.A., was one of the principal speakers, the subject of his address being "Wheat Rust." Other speakers at the afternoon session were Miss G. Dutton, "A Year's Activities in Women's Institutes," and J. E. Bergey, B.S.A., who spoke on "Poultry."

Motion pictures were again the order of the program for the first hour of the Friday evening session, after which J. E. Bergey gave an interesting talk on "What Can be Done With a Hundred Hens." Mr. Watson also spoke on "Horticulture." Several musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. W. Shelton, Miss V. Shelton, Messrs. T. Tannerhill and T. Smith and the school children.

Rev. H. Dickson, President of the Kemnay Community Club, under whose auspices the Agricultural Chautauqua was given, acted as chairman of the sessions with the exception of Friday afternoon, when Mr. W. A. Evans was chairman.

The general attitude of the newspapers seems to be to refrain from editorially commenting on the report until further information has been received.

BRITISH TROOPS NOT GOING TO PLEBISCITE AREAS

London, Jan. 2.2—Newspapers give reat prominence to the cancellation of the original orders for sending British troops into plebiscite areas in Silesia, East Prussia and Schleswig. Eleven battalions were scheduled for this duty, but without a given reason, this was cancelled yesterday, and only one battalion will now be sent to each district. It was agreed, says the dispatch, that the matter of mutual indebtedness shall be dealt with by a special commission. Both states emphasize their independence on equal terms.

PRINCE DECLARES HE IS CITIZEN OF BRITISH EMPIRE

At a Dinner Given by Pilgrims—Right Hand Still Red and Swollen

London, Jan. 23—(Associated Press)—H. R. H. the Prince of Wales was the guest at a large and enthusiastic dinner of the pilgrims. More than three hundred persons were present. The Prince made a speech, partly serious, partly humorous. With some modesty he delivered person touches here and there, and had a clamorous reception.

The Prince reaffirmed his intention to revisit America, particularly the Middle West and far West, saying that hte best proof that one had enjoyed a visit was his earnest desire to repeat it. He remarked:

"I am still receiving a large amount of mail from the United States—and not all of it from the fair sex"—which provoked great merriment.

Another spontaneous touch was greatly cheered. Referring to the chairman's remark that the Prince, after his tour, was again domiciled as a citizen of England, his Royal Highness said:

"I hope I am domiciled as a citizen of the British Empire."

Wearing the broad ribbon of the Garter and his war medals, the Prince shook hands with all the guests as they arrived

"My right hand is in pretty bad condition from handshaking. I hope the Pilgrims won't mind if I use my left," he remarked to the chairman, Lord Desborough, exhibiting his right hand, which was red and swollen. It was noted, however, that to the older men he gave his right hand, while to the rank and file he gave his left.

The Prince spoke lengthily with assurance and ease. Besides Lord Desborough, the speakers were the Earl of Reading, United States Ambassador Davis, and the Lord High Chancellor. Rear Admiral Harry S. Knapp, commander of the American naval forces in European waters, sat at the right of the Prince.

Others at the head of the table were Viscount Finlay, Gen. Sir Henry Rawlinson; Sir George Perley, High Commissioner for Canada; Viscount Wimborne, Baron Burnham; Viscount Devonport; Sir Harry Brittain; Sir Donald MacLean; J. Butler Wright, Counsellor of the American embassy; Robert P. Skinner, the American consul-general, and Justice Sanford of Tennessee.

Telegrams were read from the Duke of Connaught, President of the Pilgrims, who is now at Cannes, and the President of the American branch, Chauncey M. Depew.

TREASON TODAY, LAW TOMORROW IF TRAITORS MAKE LAW

Severe Arraignment of Socialist Party by Council for Judiciary Committee

CO-CONSPIRATOR

With Forces Planning Forcible Destruction Constitutional Government

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 23.—The charge that Lenine and Trotsky are attempting to establish the soviet system of government in the United States was made at the trial of the five Socialist suspended New York Assemblymen, before the Assembly Judiciary Committee by Martin W. Littleton, associate counsel for the committee. He said:

"Before the waves of public opinion stirred by the case have subsided, this country will understand that this so-called political party is the agent and co-conspirator with the dark forces of the invisible empire whose object is forcible destruction of constitutional government in the United States."

Littleton asserted that an investigation of the loyalty of the five accused would involve the question whether Socialists "can hypocritically masquerade as a political party, strike hands with every agency of force and revolution and still make simple American people understand that they are not sworn enemies of their country and ready to overthrow it."

There was a burst of applause on the floor, and in the galleries when he paraphrased a speech by Morris Hillquit, counsel for the defense, stating what is "treason today will be the law of the land tomorrow if you let traitors make law." Argument on a series of motions presented by the defence occupied the entire day.

DUTCH REPLY TO ALLIES REQUEST FOR EX-KAISER

The Hague, Jan. 23 — (Associated Press)—The reply of the Dutch Government to the demand of the Allied powers that the former German Emperor be given up to them for trial, is being drafted and will be forwarded some time this week to the Dutch minister at Paris, for communication to the Allies.

Although Holland is determined to stick closely to diplomatic precedent and not publish nor intimate the text of the reply until it is delivered, there is apparently no cause at the present time to make any change in the predictions of the Dutch newspapers, that the Dutch Government will decline to accede to the demand.

The Associated Press was informed by a high official that the former German Emperor had been in no way consulted about the reply, nor had he even been officially informed of the demand for his extradition.

The Nieuw Corount in an editorial considers the possibility of condemning former Emperor William by default.

"It is a great pity that the Allies lack the moral courage to own up that they have made a mistake," says the newspaper. "Giving a promise to try the Kaiser by default when Holland shall have refused to permit his extradition is nothing but sensational humbug. The Kaiser himself is not dangerous, but he may be the tool of others.

"If the Allies could make the Dutch Government see the danger of the Kaiser staying near the German frontier, another residence might be assigned to him, the Dutch Government offering as an alternative his return to Germany. This might be asked without a preceding trial."

FREIGHT EMBARGO MAY BE SERIOUS

Affects Shipments East From Canada to U.S. by Way of Niagara Frontier

Montreal, Jan. 23.—Serious results for Canadian shippers, both exporters and importers, are foreshadowed by the announcement of an embargo on all freight moving East from Canada to the United States, by way of the Niagara frontier. The embargo has been placed by the United States Railroad Administration. Bad weather conditions in the United States are given as the reason for the embargo.

Attention of Canadian shippers is being called to this important embargo by the railway association of Canada (Railway War Board). It will affect not only Canadian goods moving into the Eastern United States either for shipment to Europe, or for United States consumption, but it will close off the Eastern movement of United States goods which usually cross Canada from Detroit to the Niagara frontier.

Certain exceptions are allowed in this embargo; livestock, perishable freight, newsprint paper, wood pulp, pulp wood, government freight, bituminous coal, railroad supplies, coke, petroleum products and freight for movement through Atlantic seaboard points, covered by special permits.

EX-PREMIER ASQUITH SEEKS TO RETURN TO PARLIAMENT

London, Jan. 23.—Ex-Premier Asquith seeks to return to parliament through the by-elections in the Paisley constituency, arising out of the death of Sir J. McCallum. The local Liberals adopted Mr. Asquith as their candidate. Already a Labor candidate, J. M. MBiggar, is in the field, and as the Coalitionists had previously decided not to contest the seat if Mr. Asquith were selected, there is likely to be a straight fight between the Liberal and Labor candidates, unless, as is considered improbable, the Unionists run a man.

In view of the result in the recent Spen Valley (West riding of Yorkshire by-election), when the Laborite, Tom Myers, won over the Liberal candidate, Sir John Simon, former Home Secretary, and further because at a general election Mr. Biggar was very few votes behind McCallum, the struggle should prove an exciting one.

JUDGMENT IN M'KAY CASE TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

Accused On the Stand Contradicted Every Statement Made Against Him

PURCHASE OF LIQUOR

Told of By Witness Denied By McKay—Severe Cross Examination of Witnesses

After some lengthy evidence had been submitted Friday afternoon, Magistrate Jeffrey reserved his decision in the charges preferred against S. H. McKay, alleging infractions of the Manitoba Temperance Act. It took three hours to submit the evidence in the case and all of the witnesses underwent a gruelling cross-examination from Mr. McKay. The accused took the stand on his own behalf and contradicted every statement made against him. At the conclusion of the case His Worship said he would give his decision next Friday afternoon at wo o'clock.

After objecting to Magistrate Fraser sitting on the case in the morning the prosecution continued it's case in the afternoon with Magistrate Jeffrey presiding. Two charges, one of having a quantity of liquor in a place other than his private dwelling house, and the other of "giving a quantity of liquor to a person without having a druggist's wholesale license or a druggist's retail license," were laid against Mr. McKay. It was decided that the evidence in both charges would be taken at once and in this way save considerable time.

Swore He Bought Liquor from McKay

W. B. Horton of Lauder was the first witness called. He said that he first saw McKay on Tuesday the 13th between seven and eight o'clock in the evening in his office. He told the Court that while there he got two bottles of liquor from Mr. McKay and in answer to Mr. Baird's query as to whether they were delivered by McKay himself, witness said "yes." Horton said he asked the accused for the liquor. Witness said he naturally supposed that liquor was easy to get in Brandon and that had prompted him to ask for it. He stated that he paid McKay $15 for the two bottles receiving $1 back in change. He opened one bottle in the office and then left for Muldoon's house, where the liquor was taken from him.

Severe Cross-Examination

Horton then went under a very severe cross-examination at the hands of Mr. McKay, witness being on the stand for one hour and twenty minutes. Horton acknowledged that in giving his evidence in Court the first time that he had made a mistake in the day, that it was Tuesday instead of Monday as first given earlier in the week. He further acknowledged that he was not very clear in the head when he was giving the evidence. In answer to Mr. McKay's query as to what condition he was in when he came up to his office, witness replied that he was sober. Horton remembered giving McKay six chocolate bars and an order for a tone arm for a phonograph. Pressed quickly for other admissions witness said,

"You're trying to twist me."

Witness could not remember what he wrote word for word in the letter for the tone arm. He admitted that another man named Gunn was waiting for him with a bottle that same Tuesday night.

"Somebody told you that you got the whiskey from a certain person, and you said it," said McKay, after Horton had told the Court that he had no idea when he told where he had got the liquor. Witness replied to McKay by saying that unfortunately he got the whiskey from him and that he would have to tell the truth about the matter "Well, you didn't get it from me, it's my word against yours," said McKay.

With regard to the witness first saying that he paid $15 for the two bottles and then later saying that he only gave $14, McKay said "Did you lie or did you not?" Acting Crown Prosecutor Baird objected to the method of putting the question and the Magistrate upheld his objection.

"That stuff you keep up there, Sam, was too strong for me," said Horton. "Oh you'll learn more from me than you know now," said McKay.

Horton said that he would solemnly swear that McKay had gone out of the room to procure the whiskey, and after a rather severe examination the witness stated that he had another witness who overheard part of the conversation in McKay's office after the charges had been prererred against McKay. The son of the witness, W. J. Horton, was then asked to leave the Court room. This concluded Horton's stay in the witness box.

Mr. John Muldoon was called and he told of Horton having come to his house to spend the night there. The liquor had been taken away from him and Horton left next morning without it. The two bottles were produced in court as exhibits and identified by Muldoon.

Parts of Conversation Heard

Stating that he overheard part of a conversation in McKay's office beween his father and Mr. McKay after the prosecution of this case had been commenced, W. J. Horton provided some startling evidence. He said that he overheard these words: "I'm sorry to do this," and then the typewriter made it impossible to hear for a minute and then, "I'll not perjure myself for ——" and again the typewriter broke in before the last part of the sentence could be heard. Horton was given a gruelling fifteen minutes of it in cross-examination, during the course of which both Mr. Baird and His Worship objected to the method of procedure used against the witness by McKay.

Chief Hardy on Stand

Chief Hardy told of the raid which took place on Mr. McKay's office. He said that about eleven o'clock on the 15th of January in company with several constables they visited McKay's offices and found part of a bottle of liquor in a bedroom. He said that when they went into the office, McKay rushed by them and made for the bedroom. The Chief shouted to Barlow to stop him, and when McKay tried to lock the door, they forced an entrance, the door cutting McKay's mouth. Chief Hardy then said that McKay had remarked to him, "I'll get you," and then later had said, "I'll get you fellows." He said that he had carried out the search under a proper search warrant. Cross-examined by McKay the Chief refused to divulge where he got the information which led to the search, and in this was upheld by the Magistrate. Detective Barlow and Constables Skelton and Roseburgh practically repeated the evidence given by the Chief.

McKay on Stand

McKay then took the stand in his own behalf. In connection with the first charge of giving liquor he said that Horton had come into his office intoxicated and had half a bottle with him. Horton told accused that he had been drinking for two weeks. McKay said that he had never sold or given any liquor at any time, and had never sold a bottle of liquor in his life. So far as the liquor in the place was concerned Mr. McKay stated that he had procured two prescriptions in Winnipeg, one for 10 ounces and the other for 24, and he asked the court to investigate this fact. He denied most strenuously the accusation that he had said to the Chief that "he would get him."

W. de Manbey was called by McKay to refute the statements made by the Chief and told the Court that he had never heard the statements referred to, although he was in a good position to do so. He did not even know of officers having to force an entrance, and never saw the bottle produced in court around McKay's premises.

Crown Asks for Conviction

After the conclusion of the evidence Mr. Baird asked for a conviction. Mr. McKay replied that on the first charge of giving liquor that "if a man comes into your office drunk and then says he got the liquor there, where are we going to stop with these things." He said that the onus is on the person who makes the charge to prove it. He didnt blame Horton for the statements he made, but Horton was certainly mistaken. As to the other charge he stated that what he had in the room was procured legitimately by two prescriptions. He said that he had never given or sold liquor at any time, and he asked the Court to verify his statements with regard to procuring the prescriptions.

At the conclusion of the case, Magistrate Jeffrey said he would give his decision next Friday.

Turgeon's motion pledging the assembly to a request to the Federal Government to provide for a referendum on the prohibition of liquor, appeared on the order paper in the legislature but when this item was reached, it was postponed until Wednesday of next week at the request of the Attorney-General. ONE AND ONE-HALF CENTS QUOTATION ON GERMAN MARK

Which Before War Was Quoted at 23½c on New York Exchange

New York, Jan. 23.—Utter collapse and demoralization overtook the foreign exchange market Wednesday, resulting in new low records for British, French, Italian and various other European remittances.

The rate for British demand bills fell to$ 3.60¾, or 3½c under its previous minimum, and Paris checks, lires and Belgian france broke in corresponding or greater degree.

Dealers in exchange were again inclined to attribute the collapse to such well-known and long existing conditions as the unfavorable trade balances against almost all the foreign centres and the failure of the United States Senate to ratify the Peace Treaty.

In other quarters where the situation has given rise to increased misgivings, the slump was more directly associated with the process of "deflation" due to the stringent credit conditions and demanded by the Federal Reserve Board.

No important form of exchange, not even roubles, which are only nominally quoted at 4½ to 1½c against the pre-war quotation of 51½c, has suffered as much as the German mark. Quoted before the war at 23½ cents, the mark has dwindled to slightly under 1½c.

was inevitable. Simmons turned and walked into the car. A mail clerk found his body in the snow several car lengths away a few minutes later. As members of the train crew stood at the side of the stalled sleeper they could see the few passengers inside looking toward the approaching train, but confident that it would stop before reaching them.

Flagman Curley, also an Ottawa man, declared he placed the warning signals and when his engineer, James R. Davidson, of North Bay, sounded the whistle to recall the flagman, he left the torpedoes on the track and walked back toward his train. He had almost reached the observation car when he realized that the oncoming section had over-run his signals, and he ran back towards her waving a warning. Those signals were also unseen by the second engine crew.

Despite all efforts at relief, it was more than two hours before some of the injured were rescued. Fortunately, there was no outbreak of fire in the ruins. Rescuers tell of the sleeping car conductor, a Montreal man, lying trapped for nearly two hours before he could be freed.

Found Under a Door

Most of the passengers were immigrants, and men and women ran up and down the length of the train, eagerly seeking news of this or that one who was missing. Rescuers seeking bodies walked back and forth over what seemed like a door lying almost flat in the snow. Then someone noticed a piece of cloth protruding beyond one edge, and a hurried search revealed an unconscious woman, who is now in the hospital. In another instance a girl was pinned down by part of the fender of the overturned engine. All attempts to lift the great weight were unavailing, until finally one man who had served as a stretcher-bearer in France thought of the plan of getting away the frozen earth beneath her. This was done, and she is now also in the hospital and expected to recover.

One girl, formerly a nurse in a British hospital, who was on her way to join relatives in the West, was washing out a few handkerchiefs in the second last sleeper. The first impact threw her against the wall of the small compartment she was in. After the second she found herself being forced out throught the window into the snow. She was not seriously injured.

Mail Clerk Joseph D. Larose, of Ottawa, was on the second section. He believes he owes his life to the fact that two cars of British mail for the West were between his car and the engine, and these absorbed most of the shock. As it was he was thrown to the other end of his car, amid a bundle of tumbled letters. He opened his door and found the body of Porter Simmons hurled in the snow bank with the exception of his feet.

C. S. Beall with his wife and their son, the latter aged 20 had left England to take up a ranch which he had recently bought just outside Vancouver. They had had a very rough and slow passage on the steamship Empress of France, and after reaching shore breathed freely, thinking their troubles were ended. Young Beall was killed by the impact, and his father cut about the head and otherwise injured.

Liquor Car Smashed

Plenty of stimulants were available for the injured by reason of the fact that a car of liquor consigned to North Bay was smashed and its contents scattered along the track for some distance. Monday afternoon station loafers gasped in astonishment when they saw two or three truck loads which had been gleaned being wheeled along the platform. A corps of C.P.R. police stood guard against any inroads being gained by uninjured and unauthorized persons while the wreckage was being cleared.

The inquest will be concluded this evening, it is said. One of the first doctors to reach the scene of the wreck on Sunday estimated the number of those suffering minor injuries between 35 and 40. Hospital reports showed all patients doing well late last night.

Uninjured Proceed

Most of the uninjured passengers got away on the Winnipeg train, but some were kept here by the C.P.R. until Monday morning, and then sent on. All except a few relatives of those persons killed or injured have now left here to continue their journeys. There were many immigrants on the first section of the train, nearly all of them Scottish, and bound for Western points, but they escaped chiefly with minor bruises.

George Rasmussen and his wife, who were on their wedding trip from Denmark to Seattle to take up residence in the United States city, were both injured.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Klemme and Mrs. Katherine Klemme Sr., all of Calgary, who occupied a drawing room in one of the smashed standard sleepers, all suffered injury. All three are in the hospital here. Officials stated that it was expected all the patients would recover.

All the casualties were among persons riding in the last coaches of the stalled train. The crew of the second engine escaped injury, the only C.P.R. employe in the list being a porter named Simmons, of Montreal, who was killed outright.

PROSPECTORS MAY FLY TO RICE LAKE NEXT SUMMER

Winnipeg, Jan. 26.—The road to the Rice Lake gold fields will be made easy to prospectors, investors and the interested public as soon as the season opens, by a hydroplane express operating from Winnipeg Beach or Gimli.

One of the main activities of the Western Canada Aeroplane Company will be to carry passengers and luggage to the Rice Lake district, it was announced by C. V. McArthur, director and the legal representative of the company. It takes at least two days to reach Rice Lake mining fields from Winnipeg in Summer. The hydroplane will cover the 80 or 90 miles from Winnipeg Beach in something less than two hours, according to Mr. McArthur.

"Prices for the trip have not been worked out, but we shall be able to take a man from the Beach to the furthest mine in the district at considerably less than it costs him now to make the trip by land," he declared.

The company is the first of its kind to be incorporated for Western Canada, according to its directors. It received letters patent from the Manitoba Government last March. Plans have been formulated for the buying of a site close to Winnipeg, for the building of hangars and for the active operation of several airplanes by April 1st. Winnipeg men who saw service with the air force in England, France, Belgium and Germany have been signed on as pilots it is announced. The company is capitalized at $100,000.

Branches will be established throughout Canada and a cross-Dominion service with passengers and mail will be formed as soon as business warrants.

It is reported that the company will establish a training school for pilots, and will do a general business in airial photography and in advertising.

WILL ONTARIO LIBERALS FIGHT PREMIER DRURY?

Halton Liberal Association May Decide This Point at Convention on Saturday

Toronto, Jan. 23.—It is understood the by-election in which Attorney-General W. E. Raney will seek a seat in the legislature, will take place a week later than the two election dates already announced.

Whether Premier E. C. Drury will be opposed in Halton is not yet known. It is said the Halton Liberals will hold a meeting on Saturday to decide this question. H. H. Dewart, K.C., M.P.P., Liberal leader in Ontario, declined to make a statement as to whether the Liberals would put up an opponent to the Premier or not. It is understood the Conservatives will not place a candidate in the field. So far, there is no talk of any opposition to Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, in the by-election in East Kent.

The protest is evidently intended to register the council's disapproval of the possible admission of the Vatican to representation in the League, which has been unofficially discussed.

TWO CANADIAN WOMEN MURDERED IN ENGLAND DURING LAST WEEK

London, Jan. 26.—Two Canadian women were the victims of murderers this week.

The body of Mrs. Frank Charles Buxton was found in the cellar of the Cross Keys public house, Chelsea, which she operated, early this week. Sawdust had been heaped about the bady and an attempt made to destroy evidence of the crime by burning it.

Mrs. Buxton, formerly Miss Frances Poole, of Toronto, was married in 1898 and removed to England with her husband. They separated 12 years ago. He operates a public house at Bexhill.

Miss Shore, who was with Canadian nurses at Etaples when the hospital was bombed by German planes, was murdered in a railway coach near Lewes. Her slayer has not been captured.

SERVICE RATHER THAN FEE PAYMENT SHOULD BE BASIS OF MEMBERSHIP

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Emphasis was placed on service in the reports and addresses at the National Convention of the Y.M.C.A., and the Commission of Re-construction took the ground that service, rather than the payment of a fee, should be the basis of membership in the Y.M.C.A. Co-operation also was strongly advocated in the various reports, co-operation and service featuring the suggestions made in the Commission's report which was presented by Lieut.Col. Gerald Birks of Montreal.

NO CHANGE OF VENUE NOW IN I.W.W. TRIALS

Montesano, Wash., Jan. 27.—An attempt by George F. Vanderveer, counsel for eleven alleged I. W. W. accused of murdering American Legion members on Armistice Day at Centralia, Washington, to introduce newspaper articles and editorials as a basis for a change of venue, met defeat here when the trial began before Superior Judge M. Wilson, of Olympia.

Judge Wilson ruled that only new matter arising since his previous ruling denying a change of venue could be considered at this time.

The accused men were freshly shaven when brought into court. For the most part their faces were expressionless as they each in turn signed an affidavit previously prepared by Attorney Vanderveer.

Attorney Vanderveer said he would prove the I.W.W. attacked the legionnaires in defence only. "This won't be disputed when the trial is over," he said. "We'll prove it by the prosecution's own witnesses."

SIR JAMES WHITNEY CHAPTER

The annual report of the Sir James Whitney Chapter, I.O.D.E., of North Brandon, has just been received and shows that a most creditable year's work has been completed. During the year $883.16 has been raised by home cooking sales, garden parties, special collections, etc. Donations were given to various causes such as French relief, Y.M.C.A. District Rest Room, I.O.D.E. War Memorial, library for foreign school, the church and many others. Considerable sewing for the Red Cross was done in the first few months of the year. A new feature of the work was the formation of a Sick Committee, whose work it is to visit the sick of the community or send flowers or fruit to them. A committee to look after the improving of the cemetery was also formed. At Christmas twenty-five pairs of socks and treats were sent to the soldiers in the hospital here and two boxes of oranges to Ninette Sanitarium. This Chapter is supporting two French orphans one of whom is sick.

Horman, formerly in charge of Riviere du Loup, was arrested in Malden, Mass., last week, on the charge of embezzling a sum of about $6,000, was taken to Riviere du Loup on Friday, but as a result of a hostile demonstration about the station on his arrival it was decided (with permission of the Attorney-General) to bring the prisoner to Quebec as fears were entertained for his safety at Riviere du Loup. Horman is charged with collecting fines from military defaulters and failing to turn them over to the court.

DUBLIN CITY AND COUNTY MAY YET BE UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Dublin, Jan. 27.—Dublin city and county escaped declaration of martial law by only a few hours. Lord French, it was said, had prepared a proclamation ordering establishment of martial law, effective Monday, but for some unknown reason late Sunday night countermanded the order. The counter-order did not come through until posters had been printed in the government office. The order arrived only a few minutes before the posters were to leave the building to be distributed throughout the country.

The proclamation will be made effective at the first sign of renewed radical outbreaks, it was said. Meanwhile, Sinn Fein leaders expected a big roundup of Irish Nationalists. None of them would appear in public.

A 15 YEARS' FIRE

Just think! That is the time through which Mr. H. C. Buckley endured all the fiery torture of itching, burning eczema. His life was a perfect misery until Zam-Buk—the great herbal skin cure—brought complete relief.

Mr. Buckley, who lives at 461 East Broadway, Portland, Oregon, writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with eczema, and although I tried many so-called 'eczema cures,' nothing seemed capable of dealing with a case like mine. It was not until I had Zam-Buk recommended to me that I began to have hope. This wonderful skin healer soon brought about a change for the better. As I persevered with Zam-Buk the burning sensation got less. I found Zam-Buk wonderfully soothing. Gradually the patches of soreness and the inflammation were reduced, and complete and permanent cure finally resulted. I would strongly advise all afflicted with eczema to give Zam-Buk a trial. It will give them satisfaction. They will not be disappointed."

No skin disease can resist the potent healing forces stored up in Zam-Buk, which is unequalled for old wounds, ulcers, abscesses, bad legs, scalp sores, blood-poisoning, piles, scalds, burns, cuts and all skin injuries. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box.

TARIFF AMENDMENT MIGHT UPSET THE UNION GOVERNMENT

Three Weeks From Thursday Dominion Parliament Opens For Momentous Session

CRERAR'S STRENGTH

Financial Situation Is Also Difficult Owing To Growth of National Debt

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 3.—Three weeks from Thursday the Dominion parliament opens for what may be the last session of the present government, but it is considered likely the government may weather the storm and continue in power at least until after the redistribution which will follow the census next year. Apparently the outcome of the session depends largely on the strength of Hon. T. A. Crerar, former minister of agriculture which may result from the spread of the farmers movement to all parts of the country.

It is considered possible that a tariff amendment by Crerar, might find support enough to defeat the government.

The financial situation is difficult for the government to face. At the end of the last fiscal year prior to the war the national debt stood at $336,000,000. At the end of December last it was $1,838,000,000. The annual interest charges were under $13,000,000 in 1914 and for the present fiscal year are estimated at $115,000,000.

COMMUNICATION BETWEEN EARTH AND PLANETS

French Academy of Science Offers Prize For Best Means of Making a Sign

Paris, Feb. 3. — The Academy of Science evidently considers communication between the earth and the planets as among the possibilities, for it has undertaken to act as judge for a prize of 100,000 francs to be given for the best means of making a sign to a heavenly body and the receipt of a reply.

It has been the custom of the academy always to refuse to handle prizes for any feat which it considers a mere waste of time. In presenting the present prize for competition, the academy makes the proviso that the planet Mars is included as being sufficiently known.

"Until a solution is obtained" says the academy's announcement, "the interest on the prize money will form a prize for scientists making the greatest progress in knowledge of the planets and their relation to the earth."

Believes Planets Inhabited

London, Feb. 3.—Professor Albert Einstein, the German astronomer, whose theory that gravitation deflects the rays of light recently has been the subject of considerable discussion, in an interview with the Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent, asserted that he believed that the mysterious signals referred to by Signor Marconi as having been heard on various wireless sets are due either to atmospheric disturbances or to experiments with other systems of wireless.

Prof. Einstein, who believes that Mars and other planets are inhabited, added that if intelligent creatures on other planets tried to communicate with the earth, he would expect them to use rays of light which could be much more easily controlled.

BRANDON HAS TWENTY-EIGHT FIRES IN 1919

Total Loss $13,103—Winnipeg Has 795 Conflagrations During Same Period

A recent report of the Provincial Fire Commissioner shows that Brandon had just twenty-eight fires during the year 1919 with a total loss of $13,103. Winnipeg had 795 fires in the same period, St. Boniface forty-two and St. James 36. Portage la Prairie had only eighteen conflagrations.

From the report it would seem that the greatest number of fires occurred in frame dwellings. There were seventy dwellings destroyed during the year and 115 frame buildings or homes were destroyed or damaged by fire in 1919. Farm buildings, which very often have no fire extinguisher in them or water available to fight a blaze successfully, are next in ratio, and stores stand third on the list. There were seventeen farm buildings and fifteen stores destroyed.

Many of the fires are preventable. Stoves and furnaces caused thirty-three blazes during 1919, smoking resulted in eighteen fires, and fifteen blazes were caused by the use of open lights.

TURKISH SULTAN SHOULD RETAIN PORTION OF POWER

Indian Privy Councillor Says Religious Troubles Would Be Avoided This Way

London, Feb. 3.—Temporal authority is essential to the Sultan of Turkey, who should be allowed to remain in Constantinople as Caliph of the Faithful, according to a statement made by the Right Hon. Emir Ali, Indian Privy Councillor, who has for the last 45 years filled many important offices in Bengal.

"The proposal to drive the Turks out of Constantinople is a concession to religious fanaticism, and if the Turkish administration is removed from the city, the bitterest resentment will manifest itself in India and all Mussulman countries," he urges.

Emir Ali points out that there are about 70,000,000 Sunni Moslems and 12,000,000 Shiah Moslems in India, who, he says, are in complete agreement on the Sultans continued rule at Constantinople.

ONTARIO MAY LOSE TWO MEMBERS IN FEDERAL HOUSE

Big Gain In Quebec Population Means Reduction of Representatives From Ontario

Ottawa, Feb. 3—(Canadian Press)—If Quebec Province continues to gain on Ontario in the matter of population as it is shown to be doing in the Bureau of Statistics estimate of the population of the sister province to March 31, 1919, there will be a reduction in the number of members of the Federal House from Ontario after another census.

Quebec, with 65 seats in the House of Commons, had on that date an estimated total population of 2,326,528. Ontario has but half a million people more, or 2,820,909. Quebec's gain would change the unit of representation and bring Ontario's membership in the Commons down from 82, as at present, to 80, in the opinion of one Ottawa authority on election matters.

During the session of 1914 a Re-distribution Bill was passed, increasing the number of members in the House of Commons from 221 to 234, and giving Ontario 82 members against Quebec's 65.

CAPT. J. W. WILTON A CRITIC OF THE NORRIS GOVERNMENT

Former Supporter Declares He Cannot Longer Follow the Norris Lead

THE REASONS WHY

Set Forth In Plain Terms—One Is For Neutrality During Conspiracy

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—After being a supporter of the Norris Government since it came into office, Capt. J. W. Wilton, member for Assiniboia, caused something like a mild sensation in the legislature of Manitoba at its sitting last evening by coming out with a declaration of independence of party affiliation during his speech in the debate on the address. He gave as his reasons for his change of attitude his objection to the caucus system and the failure of the government to put into effect legislation enacted at the last session establishing a bureau of scientific research, but, in regard to the caucus, he admitted "that this evil has been less apparent during the past five years (the term of the Norris administration) than ever before in the history of the province."

After declaring that he would in future adopt the role of an independent member, and informing the house he had communicated his intention to the Premier, Capt. Wilton proceeded to criticize some of the actions of the government since the last session. He blamed them for not having organized the joint council of industry created by the bill respecting industrial conditions passed last year, and declared that other active measures should have been taken to deal with the strike in Winnipeg, which he said had been found by the courts to be a revolution. He held if the act had been made operative the sane body of labor would have deserted the red radical leaders, and have awaited an investigation of conditions before participating in the sympathetic strike.

Another criticism was directed to the Education Department. He claimed there was no necessity for the appointment of a commission to find out what salaries were paid the school teachers in Manitoba, and he asserted that it was the duty of the Government to fix a minimum living salary for all the public school teachers in the province.

Declares Mandate Ignored

In regard to the Bureau of Scientific Research which had had the unanimous approval of the house, Capt. Wilton said it had been passed over without any explanation why nothing was done to give effect to the legislation, and he contended the Government had no right to ignore such a mandate of the house, especially in regard to a measure that would have helped in the solution of some of the problems of the present time, and was in line with legislation in operation in other countries.

Proceeding the member was asserting that the Government, by what was stated in the speech from the throne, seemed to be oblivious to the unrest and of the condition of the returned men, when there was an interruption from the gallery. The interrupter, however, apparently realized his breach of the rules of the house as he immediately checked himself and got no further than "Sir —" and the member continued after a momentary pause. Characterizing what had been done by the Dominion Government as a charitable dole, he asked what had the Provincial administration done to help men who with their families were suffering in silence. Another point was in regard to the housing situation, which he declared was tending to the moral and physical degradation of the people and he maintained it was a paramount duty of the Government to see that its citizens were properly housed.

Coming to the Winnipeg strike, Capt. Wilton asked how a Government could remain neutral when there was a conspiracy to destroy it. A jury had found that the aim of the leaders was revolutionary, but whatever aims they might have, said he, the rank and file were not inspired by revolution. No one could tell him that the men who had rushed to the colors in 1914 were that. With this preface the member called attention to the Industrial Conditions Act, and claimed that the failure of the Government to give effect to the legislation had contributed to make the strike possible.

Capt. Wilton, dealing with the comment of Mr. Justice Metcalfe during the Russell trial, as to his interference in the strike, called the attention of the house to what he had done to prevent it, and informed it that he had had the G.W.V.A. to select certain of their members to act on the joint council of industry on May 20th, to get the council organized so it could intervene to prevent the strike culminating.

On the motion of R. N. Lowry, Winnipeg, North, the debate was adjourned.

Three bills passed through committee of the whole and were read a third time. They affect amendments of a technical nature in existing legislation.

CHARGES OF ROBBERY AGAINST MEN HELD AS ALLEGED MURDERERS

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—William H. Elnick and George Clements, alleged murderers of W. J. de Forge, appeared in the police court Monday on several charges of robbery, shopbreaking and theft to which they had pleaded guilty when first arrested. Both were calm, well dressed and neat appearing. Their stay in jail showed no ill effects. The charges were adjourned until March 2, and will not be disposed of until the verdict on the murder charge is made known. A charge of carrying a revolver against Harold Burdie, the third man charged with murder, was withdrawn today.

MOTHER AND BABY ADMITTED TO U. S. FOR THREE MONTHS

Spiker, of Baltimore, while he was at an aviation training camp in England, was admitted to the United States with her baby Monday after being detained at Ellis Island while the authorities were considering the plea of Spiker's wife for permission to adopt the baby and the offer of Guy Spiker, brother of the aviator, to marry the girl.

A telegram received at the Island from the Department of Labor ordered that mother and child be admitted to the country for three months and placed in the care of William and Kate Battersby, of Fall River, Mass. A bond of $1,000 required for them has been furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Spiker.

POPLAR POINT MAN ROLLED UNDER TRAIN

Portage la Prairie, Man., Feb 3.—Alexander Hallett, of Poplar Point, had a narrow escape from death, and is now in the General hospital here, suffering from bruises and cuts about the head and body, but none of a serious nature. Hallett was late for his train at Poplar Point station, reaching there just as it was pulling out, and in attempting to board it while moving, slipped and fell beneath the cars, in such a position that he lay between the rails.

Owing to the snow, he could not clear the rods, beneath the coaches and he was caught by one of these and dragged a considerable distance before the train was stopped. He was placed in the baggage car and brought here and rushed to the hospital where it was found that his injuries were not serious.

PEACE TREATY TO COME UP AGAIN FOR DISCUSSION

Leaders In U. S. Senate Decide To Re-open Treaty Debate Next Week

VISCOUNT GREY'S LETTER

Read In Senate To Show That France and England Want States In League

Washington, Feb. 3. — Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate joined issues Monday to bring the Peace Treaty back into the open Senate early next week. The Democratic plan was to re-open the treaty debate a week from today, but Senator Lodge headed that off by giving notice that he would bring it up a week from yesterday. The Democrats accepted the earlier date.

Agreement between the two parties to re-discuss the treaty is not, however, to be taken as hinting at any deeper argument. It is predicted that the Senate may reach an early agreement on minor points at issue, already threshed out by the joint committee, but article ten and the Monroe Doctrine are looked upon as danger points still.

Next to arranging the date for the renewed debate came the problem of keeping it within bounds, and revival of the closure rule was proposed. This is believed by many senators to be too drastic, however, and other means of stemming the tide of oratory are being sought. The rules committee is now considering two schemes for a modified closure.

While these preliminaries were going on, Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, anticipated the formal debate by a two and a half hour speech in the senate on Viscount Grey's letter regarding United States treaty reservations. He declared that the letter proved that British thinkers were willing to give more consideration to American rights than were some members of the American Senate.

Quoting Viscount Grey's statement that there could be no objection in principle to equal American and British representation in the League of Nations, Senator Reed continued:

"What senator now will vote against the Johnson amendment? If any more vote against it, I think we [illegible] make a vacancy here in the Senate and install Lord Grey, who would represent America better than some American senators have been representing her. It is a pitiable thing that the American senate has to learn the lesson of American rights from the mouth of a British diplomat."

The Grey letter, Senator Reed characterized "as another evidence that Great Britain and France want us in the League of Nations on our own terms."

The assassin battered the girl's head with some blunt weapon. Any one of the many blows struck would have been sufficient to cause death.

ONTARIO TORIES TO CONTINUE TO FIGHT FOR PLACE

According To Statement By Hon. G. Howard Ferguson—No Permanent Unionist Party

FOR ONTARIO

That Is At Least If the Convention Can Prevent It—Surveying Province

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Hon G. Howard Ferguson, former Minister of Lands, and acting Conservative leader in the Ontario legislature, in an address last night declared that the Union Government had completed the task for which it was elected. He said that there could be no permanent Unionist party in Canada, and served notice in so far as Ontario Tories are concerned, that they did not intend that the party should abrogate its traditional place in the country's affairs. Mr. Ferguson said a survey of every riding in the province was under way, and when the necessary information had been secured the party would be re-organized and placed under the direction of able men. A convention is to be held this Summer when a leader will be chosen and a platform adopted.

A dinner was given Mr. Roddie Chambers in Aagaard's Monday night prior to Mr. Chambers departure this morning for Kamsack, Sask. There was quite a number of the C.N.R. employes at the dinner and general regret was voiced at the departure from Brandon of their fellow-employe. Mr. Chambers has been cashier in the C. N. R. Express office for the past two years, and previous to that time was connected with the Dominion Express Company. He has been appointed express agent at Kamsack and left on this morning's train to take over his new duties.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH TO BE ENLARGED THIS SUMMER

Joint Canvass For Forward Movement and Funds For Extension of Building

At a meeting of the congregation of St. George's Church it was definitely decided to enlarge the church during the present year. The proposed enlargement is that another transcept be added and that the chancel be moved so that the present chancel will be, under the new plan, the body of the church. It was also decided at this meeting to conduct a joint canvass for the Forward Movement and the extension of the church so that the people may contribute what they wish to either cause. If reasonable support is given the canvass for extension funds a committee will be formed and tenders called for.

Next Sunday night at the conclusion of the evening service another congregational meeting will be held when canvassers will be appointed for the forthcoming campaign.

PROFITEERS IN LEMONS WARNED TO LAY OFF

New York, Feb. 3—Warning against profiteering in lemons because of the increased demand for them during the influenza epidemic, was issued by Food Administrator Williams here.

"Many persons are taking hot drinks made with lemons now instead of whiskey," Williams said. "I warn all dealers that evidence of unfair profits in lemons because of this epidemic demand will mean prosecution by the Federal Government." Some reports said certain dealers have jumped their prices fifty per cent.

WITNESSES SAY WILSON HAD BLOODY HANDS

Begin Trial of Ex-Mounted Policeman Charged With Slaying His Wife

GOT MARRIAGE LICENSE

Letter From Scotland Caused Investigation Leading Up To Trial

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 3.—Unkempt and wild-eyed, John Wilson, former Mounted Policeman, shuffled into the dock in King's Bench court Monday and exhibited no interest when charged with murder of his wife on September 28th, 1918. Throughout Monday's proceedings he paid little attention to evidence of witnesses who testified to seeing him on the scene of the murder at Waldheim, frantically trying to bury his charred car and the body of his wife, whose head, it is alleged, had been blown in with a close-up discharge of a shot-gun.

Isaac Peters, a farmer of Waldheim district, testified "Wilson had blood on his hands."

Other witnesses told of seeing the burning car and finding the dead body of Mrs. Polly Wilson beneath it.

Evidence was introduced by Crown Prosecutor MacKenzie to show Wilson had obtained a marriage license the day prior to the crime, and that he had expressed intention to wed Jessie Patterson.

It was shown that a letter from Scotland inquiring for Mrs. Wilson led to an investigation that resulted in finding she had been shot to death a year before.

That fate had played a strange trick against Wilson was shown when photographs were placed among the exhibitions, showing the burning car. Henry Funk identified them as showing Wilson's car and the scene of the tragedy.

Five talismen were challenged for "cause," the defence claiming undue publicity had influenced the minds of jurymen.

About fifty other witnesses have to be heard, leading Chief Justice Haultain to remark that jurors should be prepared for a four-day session.

WILL NOT CONTEST DOHERTY'S ELECTION

Ontario Liberals Decide Not to Place Candidate Against Minister of Agriculture

Thamesville, Ont., Feb. 3.—A Liberal convention was held here Monday afternoon to decide the question whether a Liberal candidate should be nominated to contest East Kent against Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, or not; also, to hear an address from H. Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.P.P., Liberal leader in Ontario. Delegates from Oxford, Howard and Camden townships were in favor of putting up a candidate, but the convention decided by a close vote not to oppose Mr. Doherty.

Mr. Dewart's speech was a slashing criticism of the Minister of Agriculture. The Liberal leader characterized the minister as a dredging contractor rather than a farmer, and he cited public records to show that Hon. Mr. Doherty had been at the head of the Maritime Dredging Company, which had big government contracts at West St. John, N.B., during a considerable time of the war, and had made more than $4,000,000 out of dredging at St. John. Mr. Dewart declared that when the exigencies of the war put a stop to the dredging contracts, Mr. Doherty returned to Ontario and became allied with the U.F.O.

CONCLUDE ARGUMENT FOR INCREASE IN TELEGRAPH TOLLS

Symington Contends Statute Binds Companies To 25c Ten Word Message

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—(Canadian Press)—Shortly before six o'clock last evening, counsel in the application of Canadian telegraph companies for increased rates concluded their arguments before the Board of Railway Commissioners. The case is now in the hands of the Board for decision, which will probably be delayed for some time owing to the quantity of evidence taken and the importance of the matters at issue.

H. J. Symington, counsel for the Winnipeg Board of Trade, emphasized the point that the telegraph companies were bound by statute to a fixed rate of 25 cents for a ten-word message within an area of Eastern Canada formerly served by the Montreal Telegraph Company's lines. He also insisted that the Railway Board, had, in a previous decision, upheld this rate, and that it could not now alter its decision.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., for the telegraph companies, continued his argument about an hour after the sitting started. He argued that the application of the companies was well grounded in view of advanced costs of labor, material, etc. Advanced rates could not be regarded in any way as a "bonus" to the companies.

Mayor Harold Fisher, of Ottawa, appeared before the board for a few minutes on behalf of the Union of Canadian municipalities.

Higher Cost of Upkeep

W. N. Tilley then continued his arguments in support of the increase, which, he said, was to affect higher costs of labor and material. He insisted that it was unfair to base an argument against the increases on past expenditures for depreciation and replacements by the companies. Costs of material and labor had advanced. The telegraph companies were basing their application on calculations which dealt with present-day conditions.

R. H. Temple, solicitor for the Canadian National Railways argued that it was unfair to say that because the Great Northwestern had made large profits in its early days it should not receive reasonable rates now.

M. Symington, in the opening of the case for the opposition, said that the people he represented were in the position of "gentlemen from Missouri". They wanted to know. They wanted all information [illegible] to obtain. He said that in 1915 the board had made an order providing for a rate of 25 cents for ten words. The board must obey its own decisions of the public were to abide by them.

Mr. Symington argued that the 25-cent rate was a statutory rate and that the telegraph companies had admitted it in previous sittings before the board. His idea was that legislation passed in 1882, whereby the Montreal Telegraph Company accepted an amendment in its charter if it amalgamated with another company, binding it to a 25-cent rate, was still operative. The Montreal company had amalgamated with the Great Northwestern, and therefore the 26-cent rate still held. The only way the telegraph companies could obtain relief was through the legislature.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon sitting was largely taken up by the completion of H. J. Symington's argument, who opposed the application, and in W. N. Tilley's rebuttal on behalf of the railways. Mr. Tilley combatted the contention of Mr. Symington that the Railway Commission was bound to abide by its decision of 1916, confirming the 25-cent rate, declared that it had power to rescind its order and make a new one if it so desired. He also took the ground that the board had jurisdiction with regard to telegraph rates and, notwithstanding the provisions of the special act fixing the 25-cent rate, could increase tolls as it saw fit.

Mr. Symington, resuming his argument, expressed little confidence in the contentions of the companies that their systems might become obsolete because of inventions in the wireless field. He thought that there was no indication of any invention which would make wireless messages secret, and until such an invention was made, the wire companies were not in danger. He objected to the telegraph companies' "theoretical figures of depreciation costs." These figures should be based on actual amounts spent on replacements in the past.

Chairman Carvell interjected the remark that the Canadian Pacific Railway claimed that it would take approximately a million dollars to put its telegraph system into proper shape.

IS POPE TO BE RECOGNIZED BY THE FRENCH?

Paris, Jan. 29.—Resumption of diplomatic relations between France and the Vatican, is opposed by Anatole France, who asserts in an article that the dissolution of bonds some years ago, came "as a logical crowning of the long struggle waged against Papacy."

"Italy despoiled the Vatican of its temporal powers and sending of an ambassador to the Holy Sea would be to recognize officially the Pope's spiritual power. In this case there is no reason why France should not recognize other great spiritual powers of earth."

Clemenceau's opposition to resuming relations with the Vatican is said to have cost him many votes for the Presidency of the Republic.

EIGHT BILLS ARE GIVEN SECOND READING IN HOUSE

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—Early progress with the business of the session was made at the sitting of the legislature of Manitoba, Wednesday afternoon when eight bills, Government and private, were given a second reading and thus prepared for consideration by the committees of the house. The Government measures are amendments to existing legislation and do not entail any important changes.

There were only two speakers in the resumed debate on the address. A. E. August, member for Dufferin, speaking from the Government side of the house claimed that the administration had carried out its pre-election pledges, while P. A. Talbot, member for LaVerandrye, criticized the Government for what he claimed was excessive expenditure on the construction of the new parliament buildings, and he contended the administration of the Temperance Act was a farce.

A statement given out by a government official challenges the charge made by the leader of the opposition, Albert Prefontaine, in the debate on Tuesday, that since 1917 there had been an increase of two million dollars in the civil service expenditure. He states the whole civil service salary list only totals $1,900,000 and that the increase since 1917 amounts to $236,000 which includes the additional expenditures entailed by the opening of new institutions and the creation of new positions necessary for carrying on the work of the Province.

The eight bills read a second time are as follows: A bill to amend the Jury act, an amendment to the Bills of Sale and Chattel Mortgage Act, an amendment to the Charity Aid act, a bill to validate certain expenditures, an amendment to the Lunacy act, a bill validating bylaw No. 74 of the village of Shoal Lake, and a bill validating bylaw No. 251 of the rural municipality of Minitonas.

The following bills have been read a first time: An amendment to the act respecting the provincial police, and a further amendment to the Workmen's Compensation act — Hon. Thomas Johnson; an amendment to the Manitoba Insurance act, an amendment to the Fires Protection act—Hon. Edward Brown; an amendment to the Manitoba Public Schools act; an amendment to the School Attendance act—Hon. Dr. R. S. Thornton; an act enabling municipalities to borrow limited amounts of money for seed grain purposes—Hon. Valentine Winkler; acts validating bylaws No. 170 and 171 of the town of Swan River, W. H. Sims, member for Swan River.

TEXT OF NOTE FROM HOLLAND RE EX-KAISER

Paris, Jan. 30.—Following is the reply of the Netherlands Government to the Entente:

"By verbal note, dated January 15, 1920, given to the envoy of the Queen at Paris, the Powers, referring to article 227 of the Treaty of Versailles, demand that the Government of Holland give into their hands William of Hohenzollern, former Emperor of Germany, so that he may be tried.

"Supporting this demand, they observe that if the former Emperor had remained in Germany the German Government would, under the terms of article 228 of the Treaty of Paris, have been obliged to deliver him.

"In citing as premeditated violations of international treaties, as well as a systematic disregard of the most sacred rules of the rights of man, a number of acts committed during the war by German authority, the Powers place the responsibility, at least morally, upon the former Emperor.

"They express the opinion that Holland would not fulfil her international duty if she refused to associate herself with them, within the limit of her ability, to pursue, or at least not to impede, the punishment of crimes committed.

"They emphasize the special character of their demands, which contemplate not a judicial accusation but an act of high international policy; and they make an appeal to Holland's respect of law and love of justice, not to cover with her moral authority violation by Germany of the essential principles of the solidarity of nations.

Not a Party to the Treaty

"The Queen has the honor to observe first, that obligations which for Germany could have resulted from article 228 of the Treaty of Paris cannot serve to determine the duty of Holland, which is not a party to the treaty.

"The Government of the Queen, moved by imprescriptible reasons, cannot view the question raised by the demand of the Powers except from the point of view of its own duty. It was absolutely unconnected with the origin of the war, and has maintained, not without difficulty, its neutrality to the end. It finds itself then face to face with the facts of the war in a position different from that of the powers.

"It rejects with energy all suspicion of wishing to cover with its sovereign right and its moral authority violations of the essential principles of the solidarity of nations; but it cannot recognize an international duty to assert itself with this end in view in the international policy of the Powers.

"If in the future there should be instituted by the Society of Nations an international jurisdiction competent to judge in case of war deeds qualified as crimes and submitted to its jurisdiction by statute ante-dating the acts committed, it would be fitting for Holland to associate herself with the new regime.

"The Government of the Queen cannot admit in the present case any other duty than that imposed upon it by the laws of the Kingdom and national tradition.

"Now, neither the constituent laws of the Kingdom, which are based upon the principles of law universally recognized, nor a respectible secular tradition which has made this country always a ground of refuge for the vanquished in international conflicts, permit the Government of Holland to defer to the desire of the Powers by withdrawing from the former Emperor the benefit of its laws and this tradition.

"Justice and national honor, of which respect is a sacred duty, oppose this. The Netherlands people, moved by the sentiments to which in history the world has done justice, could not betray the faith of those who have confided themselves to their free institutions.

"The Government of the Queen is pleased to believe that the Powers will recognize the good grounds of these considerations, which rise above any consideration of personalities, and which seem to it so peremptory that they could not reasonably give rise to wrong interpretations."

LONDON TIMES SEVERE CRITIC OF NOTICE FROM REGINA

London, Jan. 30.—(Canadian Press)—The Times handles rather severely a notice by the city of Regina that coupons of bonds issued in 1908 and 1910, which have hitherto been paid in Canada at par of exchange, will in future be paid only at the current rate of exchange, although, says the Times, unfortunately in drawing up the bonds no rate of exchange was mentioned, a practice hitherto on an offer to pay, if so desired, in Montreal was warranted that par exchange was meant, and "for the sake of Canadian municipal credit, it is greatly to be hoped that the Regina authorities will not take advantage of the absence of a provision that was almost unquestionably implied."

SOME LUMBER DEALERS SUGGEST AN EMBARGO

On Export of Lumber Until Canadian Buyers Wants Are Filled

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—A committee of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association has been appointed to consider the advisability of requesting a limited embargo on lumber, in view of the present shortage, this committee to report today. Opinion of delegates on the question is divided. Several representative lumbermen interviewed were strongly in favor of the embargo, and will support a resolution which it is expected may be brought in.

They pointed out that when lumber is going to American buyers in large quantities, the retailer finds it almost impossible to get stocks at any price. His business is hurt because the consumer cannot afford to buy, and the consumer is forced to do without the buildings he requires. The mill-men are making enormous profits, dealers said, and were not considering the home market at all. Dealers interviewed, thought that the government should intervene as in the case of other necessities, and prohibit any export until a certain amount has been supplied to Canadian buyers. It was preposterous that Canadians should suffer while their product was exported, they said.

Others thought that such an action would make matters worse. W. B. Tomlinson, of the Winnipeg Wholesale Lumbermens' Association, said that the mill-men had a perfect right to reimburse themselves for the years they had been losing money. If an embargo were placed, he thought that many mills would shut down, and the retailer would be unable to get stocks, or prices would drop suddenly and retailers would be left with high-priced stocks on their hands, and go broke.

The real solution, said Mr. Tomlinson, is increased production. That men working in the lumber camps are loafing was intimated by Mr. Tomlinson. He said they did not earn their large wages.

PRINCE RUPERT MINERS GET AID FROM WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—Two hundred dollars to aid striking One Big Union miners at Prince Rupert was voted at the One Big Union Convention Thursday. Work in connection with the re-adjustment of the organizations' constitution was proceeded with. The holding of annual, instead of semi-annual conventions, in order to economize, was decided upon and Port Arthur was selected as the scene of the next convention. It is planned to establish a labor temple here soon.

FIGHT IN UNITED STATES CONGRESS TO SAVE AIR MAIL

Washington, Jan. 30—A fight to save the air man service started Thursday in Congress. The air mail must be abandoned at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, unless the Senate restores to the Postoffice Department an $850,000 appropriation for maintenance of this service, which was cut out by the house in line with its economy program.

Otto Praeger, assistant postmaster-general, declared that if the Senate does not restore the appropriation an extensive program of air mail development which would bring many new cities within its scope, must be given up. "The plan was during the next fiscal year," said Praeger, "to extend old air mail routes and create new ones so that the service would include daily mail deliveries over several routes.

Thirty planes now constitute the air mail fleet. They carried more than 22,000,000 pieces of mail from the beginning of the service, Jan. 6.

The air mail as now operated can carry the mail it handles more cheaply than it can be carried by railroad, Praeger said. It now costs about $385,000 a year to operate. If abandoned it will cost $600,000 annually, Praeger figures to carry the same quantity and class of mail by trains.

Toronto, Jan. 30—Representatives of various hospitals in Ontario will wait upon the Provincial Government and ask for an increase of fifty cents per day for patients in the provincial assistance to hospitals, which is now $1.56 for each patient in public wards.

BERLIN WATCHES AND WAITS FOR STUDENTS OF MUSIC

Believes That Americans Will Be First To Seek Instruction There

Berlin, Jan. 30.—Musical Berlin is anxiously watching for an influx of paying foreign students of music to save the impoverished Teuton teachers from economic disaster, and is also worried by reports of the organization of a big new Conservatory in Paris to challenge Berlin's supremacy in musical pedagogy.

Berlin music teachers report an increase in the number or foreign students, notably of Russians and Scandinavians, but what they all hope for is a rich harvest in dollar fees. They believe that of the enemy countries the United States will be first to return, and they do not look for much patronage from French and English music students.

The principal teachers all report that they have had already numerous enquiries by mail from prospective students in the United States. The famous pianist, Prof. Xaver Scharwenka, says: "I do not doubt that Berlin will maintain its leading musical position, particularly as the State opera has been placed on a healthy artistic basis at last, while the quality of the concerts has not retrograded. Equally firmly, I believe that students of music will come to Berlin to the same extent as formerly as soon as political and economic conditions are consolidated and the housing and coal questions belong to the past. I have had seven inquiries from residents of the United States so far"

Amusement Supertax

The Musical World sees a serious menace to Berlin's music life inn the ruthless new amusement supertaxes, which hit the highbrow concerts just as hard as the cabarets. This is one tax which cannot be passed on to the ultimate consumer because the patronage of theatres and concerts is already receding sharply, although high prices generally have necessitated lower admission prices.

Dr. Rudolf Cahn Speyer, head of the German Union of Concert Artists, says, pessimistically "It is an open secret that most of Berlin's concerts not only yield no profit, but that they cost the artists money to boot. Another thing, the new taxes will make it impossible to give orchestra concerts in Berlin, because the orchestras will not be able longer to cover their barest expenses. Orchestras will be forced to disband and Berlin will cease to exist as a musical centre.

"Paris is trying to get foreign students away from Germany. Only one generation needs shy off from us, and musical development will go another way. The great masters, who can no longer hold concerts in Berlin and attract foreign students, will emigrate, our music publishers will lose their gigantic export business, and ideally and materially we shall be heavy losers."

STOCKYARDS CO. SUING GEORGE A. MAYBEE FOR $500

Action Taken to Secure $500 Stock Pledge Cancelled Because of Differences

Moose Jaw, Jan. 30.—Proceedings have been opened by the Moose Jaw Stockyards Company against George A. PROFITS OR LOSS TO BE SHARED BY EMPLOYES

Owners and Workmen In Harvard Knitting Mills Reach Agreement

Wakefield, Mass, Jan. 30.—A plan contemplating an equal division of net profits or net losses annually between the company and its 1,200 employes, and containing provisions by which the workers may take over control of the business has been announced by Winship, Boit and Company, owners of the Harvard Knitting Mills, engaged in underwear manufacture. The employes, who, in recent years, have received an annual bonus of 15 per cent., agreed to accept the plan.

In a profitable year the company will credit 50 per cent. of the net profits to employes. In a year of unprofitable operations the deficit will be shared equally between proprietors and employes.

PROTESTS AGAINST AN INCREASE IN TELEGRAPH RATES

Many Messages Received From the West By Railway Commissioners

THE ORIGINAL CAPITAL

Of the G. N. W. Only $50,000 and It Has Never Been Added To

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 28.—At the opening this morning of the session of the board of railway commissioners hearing the telegraph case, Mayor Fisher of Ottawa appeared on behalf of the union of Canadian municipalities. Telegrams of protest against increased telegraph rates chiefly from the West, have been received and though the union is not putting in a case he hoped board would consider the rights of municipalities. W. N. Tilley, continued his argument insisting that it was unfair to base an argument against the increase on past expenditures for depreciation and replacements by companies. R. H. Temple solicitor for the Canadian National Railways, argued it was unfair to say that because the G.N.W. had made large profits in the early days it should not receive reasonable rates now. He thought the public was willing to leave the matter with the board for fair and reasonable adjustment. H. J. Symington, solicitor for the Winnipeg board of trade, said the people he represented were in the position of the "gentlemen from Missouri," they wanted to know. It was said that in 1916 the board made an order providing for a rate of 35 cents for ten words. The board must obey its own decision if the public was to abide by them.

Hearing Near an End

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The final stage in the telegraph rates hearing was reached when W. N. Tilley, K.C., counsel for the telegraph companies, opened his argument. Mr. Tilley commenced his argument following the examination of C. E. Friend, comptroller of the Canadian National Railways. His line of reasoning was calculated to show that the Board of Railway Commissioners had authority to regulate telegraph rates in Eastern Canada notwithstanding the provisions of any special statute, and that the board was in a position to increase the 25 cent rate at present obtaining in Ontario and Quebec.

Before Mr. Tilley started speaking J. E. Walsh, solicitor for the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, made a brief statement to the effect that the organization which he represented was prepared to leave the case in the hands of the board. The association assumed that the telegraph companies were in the same position with regard to increased costs of operation as were all other organizations.

The hearing was opened before the Railway Commission Tuesday morning. G. D. Perry, General Manager of the Great North-Western Telegraph Company, took the ground that if the company which he manages was to bring its lines up to proper condition and maintain them there, they must have more money. Over four hundred thousand dollars per annum was required for this purpose.

H. J. Symington, solicitor for the Winnipeg Board of Trade, who was the chief examining counsel, took the ground that the replacements new were necessitated by the fact that the company had not made good depreciations as they occurred. The original capital of the company had been only $50,000, and this never had been added to. The company, instead of creating a depreciation fund, had paid all these costs out of earnings. It had allowed the system to run down, and now expected the public to pay for it.

NO RECURRENCE FLU EPIDEMIC DECLARES DOCTOR

Present Epidemic Said To Be What Is Popularly Known As "Grippe"

MANY GENERATIONS

May Elapse Before Flu Comes Again In Deadly Form As In 1918

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—"There will be no recurrence in this generation of the flu epidemic." Such is the hopeful conviction of one of Ottawa's foremost physicians, Dr. H. S. Church. "Chicago and New York haven't got the flu at all," he declared. "The cases reported so faithfully from day to day in such numbers are nothing more or less than what is popularly known as 'grippe.' Symptoms are no different and the death rate is no higher than from old and more familiar affliction. This scourge undoubtedly has swept the world in past ages, its origin is mysterious and its sweep is widespread and disastrous, but one generation, or perhaps many generations, will elapse before it comes again in the deadly form that it did in 1918."

SECTION OWNED BY BRANDON SOLD FOR $10,000

Cheque Received This Morning For Initial Payment of $2,500

TO DEVELOP PARK

Money May Be Set Aside To Develop Property Recently Secured

The sale of the section of land which the City owned near Miami has been completed and the deal closed by which the civic coffers will be enriched by $10,000. This is the amount for which the City Council has sold the section of land, the purchaser of the property being a Mr. R. W. Madill, of Altamont. Several offers have been received during the past few months for portions of the land, but the Council decided to sell the section en block or not at all. This morning a cheque was received for $2,500 as the initial payment on the property, and the deal concluded with Mr. Madill.

This property was secured in the early '80's when the Experimental Farm wanted a piece of property which the city owned on the banks of the Assiniboine. A trade was arranged whereby the city should exchange the parcel of land owned by them to the Experimental Farm for the section of land near Miami. The city has been in possession of the property since that time and although many offers were received from time to time, they were not thought sufficiently high to accept. Last Fall the first real offer was made when $10,000 was the price named. The deal fell through only to have Mr. Madill make another offer a short time ago and the land becomes his property at the price asked by the Council, namely, $10,000.

It is a remarkable coincidence that the city intend using the money obtained from the sale of the farm for building a park on or near the same parcel of land for which the farm was traded nearly forty years ago. The proposal was made in the Council some time ago that the $10,000 received from the sale of the farm should be expended on the suburban park and it is felt that the City Council will take this proposal up seriously now and devote the proceeds towards the building of a real park.

JURY EXONERATES TRAINMEN AND MAKES SUGGESTION

Inquest Into Death of Wreck Victims Gives Many Details of Accident

The jury empanelled to inquire into the death of A. R. Tilley one of the victims of the wreck near Corbeil last Sunday brought in a finding that all trainmen concerned had carried out their orders and instructions according to railroad regulations. The verdict was that the death was caused by the second section of No. one train colliding with the first section, which was stalled at the time. The jury recommended however that the C. P. R. adopt the block system which would provide assurance to any train following close behind another that the first train had passed the station next further on.

Poor Coal Caused Delay

During the hearing Monday, poor coal was ascribed as the primary cause for the first section being stalled, and Conductor J. S. Alexander, of that section, stated that failure to keep up the steam pressure was not uncommon when the coal was inferior.

The conductor said that he and the front brakeman, Kent, went along to the engine when the train became stalled, while the rear end man, Curley, went out to flag the second section. He was confident that Curley had done this. He heard his engineer signal the brakeman back to the train and Curley had not yet returned when the second section hove in sight.

Questioned as to torpedoes, witness said there were times when they might not be heard in severe weather. A flagman sent back would go for half a mile to a mile and when called in would leave one or two flags out as a warning to the train following.

Jean Page, the fireman on the train, the last witness, corroborated Davidson's evidence.

T. J. Curley, the brakeman whose duty it was to have protected the first section, said he heard no signal to place flags but he knew when the train stopped flags should be placed and he went back twenty poles. He said: "I thought I was far enough." He could see back another fifteen poles.

Placed Torpedoes on Track

The witness then placed two torpedoes at from three and one-half to three rail lengths apart and waited there until he received the signal to rejoin his train.

Isidore Godin, engineer of the second section of No. 1 train, judged his train was making 35 or 40 miles an hour at the time. He had heard no torpedoes and seen no flagman before coming upon the train. The witness did not think it would be possible for the torpedoes to explode without his hearing them.

There was nothing to prevent his hearing the torpedoes. His ears were not covered and the window of his cab was broken. When he saw the train ahead his engine was within a car length. He shut off steam and applied the emergency brakes. Almost at once he crashed into the observation car of section one. The witness said his fireman had not seen the train ahead of them. Godin was confident that if the torpedoes were on the track he would have heard them explode.

ANOTHER DROP IN CANADIAN EXCHANGE IN U.S.

New Low Level of 10¾ Is Lowest Since Break During December

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

Studying the Whole Satuation—Not Likely To Ship Gold

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—A further break in Canadian exchange on New York has aroused much concern. Quotations to hand here show that Canadian funds fell in New York to a new low level of 10¾. This is the lowest since the heavy break to discount of nearly 12 percent registered in December last. The situation is being keenly felt by importers from the United States. There have been requests for further shipments of gold from Ottawa to New York as was done during the last break. Fluctuations in the rate and the whole position generally, are under close study by the department of finance with view to action, if considered necessary. But there is no immediate intention, it is authoritatively learned, of making any further shipments of gold to the United States. "The situation is an international one," it was stated today. "What Canada could do, would be only a drop in the bucket and shipping gold, unless absolutely essential, would only deplete Canadian gold reserve to that extent."

MAN BITTEN BY MAD DOG FOUND BY PARIS POLICE

After Frenzied Search of Several Days—He has been Taken To Pasteur Institute

Paris, Jan. 29.—Police officials who have for some days been conducting a frenzied search all over the city for a man who had been bitten by a mad dog were successful Tuesday in locating him.

A workman was sitting in a saloon last week when a dog owned by the landlord bit the guest on one leg. Later on examination of the dog showed it had rabies, but the unjured man had left the saloon in the meantime.

Fearing that he might not know of his danger from hydrophobia, the police began looking for him. He was nowhere to be found, and at last placards were posted all over Paris advising him to go to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. When found at his home the man said he had felt no ill-effects of his wound. He is now under treatment.

LUMBER PRICES MORE LIKELY TO GO UP THAN DOWN

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—Lumber prices are not likely to go down for some time, but are likely to go up, according to statements made by Walter Thorn, of Moose Jaw, President of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, when he opened their 29th annual convention of the association in the Royal Alexandra hotel.

The price paid for lumber in Canada will be the American market price plus exchange, he said, and if freight rates are increased, Canadian buyers may have to pay a higher price for Canadian lumber than Americans, he intimated. Such a situation would not be fair, he said, and urged the convention to look into ways of preventing it. About 300 delegates from all parts of the West are in attendance.

Canadian Needs

Wars are usually followed by depression, said Mr. Thorn, and it had been thought that the price of lumber would go down. But the enormous demand from American markets taxed the capacity of the mills; there were difficulties experienced in getting cars and labor, and other conditions which are not likely to change, made it go up instead, he pointed out. Production of lumber in the United States has decreased from 38 billion feet in 1914 to 26 billion in 1918, he said, and yet the Bureau of Statistics predicts that 1,300,000 homes, and thousands of apartments, schools, churches, etc., will be required in the immediate future. Similarly, Canada will need 100,000 homes, 30,000 factories, 5,000 schools, 1,400 churches and many other buildings, said Mr. Thorn. The production of British Columbia mills will not begin to supply the American demand, and the burden of supplying the home market will fall more on the Eastern mills, Mr. Thorn thought.

The retail lumber business in the prairie provinces had suffered, said Mr. Thorn, because of poor crops and high prices. Building was discouraged, but he pointed out that lumber is only about one-third of the cost of a structure.

Demurrage Question

He urged the convention to find a solution for the demurrage question, and to go on record as being in favor of the present form of constitutional government.

A Premier T. C. Norris welcomed the delegates on behalf of the province. He touched on the causes of high prices, which he declared to be beyond control by the lumberman, but expressed the hope that they might come down without hurting the business.

The association is in a sound financial condition and has accomplished much for its members during the year, according to the report presented by the Secretary, F. H. Lamar. R. B. Graham, Crown Prosecutor, addressed the delegates at luncheon, and at the afternoon session, an address on conditions in the Mountain mills was given by Hales H. Ross, of Waldo, B.C., of the Mountain Lumbermen's Association.

Deny Charges of Profiteering

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 29. — Lumber manufacturers of the mountain region of British Columbia entered a strong defence against charges of profiteering, at the annual meeting of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' Association, held in the Palliser hotel. Besides electing officers for the year, the lumbermen discussed the price situation, labor conditions, which are extremely difficult at present, and mounting costs of production.

Officers elected include: E. L. Staples, Wycliffe, B.C., President; A. K. Leitch, Jaffrey, B.C., Vice-President; Executive Committee, President,, Vice-President and the following: J. S. Deschamps, Rossland; H. C. Meeker, Merritt, B.C.; B. H. Ross, Waldo, B.C., and H. B. Cornell, Golden, B.C.

GERMAN NAVY IS POWER NO LONGER

London, Jan. 29.—The Reuter correspondent with the International Naval Commission at Kiel, says that the commission inspected the dockyards there Saturday and left Monday for Berlin. There was virtually no activity around the harbor during the stay of the commissioners. All types of German warships were anchored in the harbor. Only two cruisers and four destroyers were in commission. A 32,000 ton battleship, half completed, and untouched during the last fourteen months, and other giant vessels, their armor plates removed and engines and funnels rust-eaten, were also to be seen.

The whole scene in the dockyards and harbor, says the writer, gave a most vivid idea of the complete submission and defeat of the German navy. The spirit of the German seamen, however, was not in the slightest broken. They sang patriotic songs on the arrival and departure of the commission.

WAR VETERAN SHOT BY LAD

Quebec, Jan. 29.—Lucien Morrisette, a great war veteran, who was three years overseas with the 22nd French-Canadian battalion, was shot to death Tuesday night in a dark street in Levis just across the river from Quebec.

Morrisette was forty years of age and single, and was employed in the yards of the Canadian National Railway at Levis. He left work at ten and shortly before midnight his dead body, with two high velocity rifle cartridge holes in it, was discovered.

Morrisette had gone with two telegraph operators to visit another operator named Baker, who lived next door to the Remillard family on Wolfe street. Baker had invited them to call on him after their day's work and the three young men accepted the invitation, but in the dark entered the Remillard house. The elderly Remillard, who witnesses claim was under the influence of liquor, shouted to Romeo one of his sons, to shoot "that bunch out," which the lad started to do with a high velocity rifle. The first shot went wild and by that time the three men had reached the piazza.

Morrisette, hearing the shots, turned around to see whether his companions had been hit and received one shot in the abdomen and the other in the groin. He fell to the ground, bleeding and died a few minutes after Dr. A. L. Roy had reached his side.

Romeo Remillard was immediately placed under arrest and lodged in the city hall police station at Levis.

Crops produced 64.1 per cent. of the total and animals and animal products the remaining 35.9 per cent. Crops alone are valued at $16,025,000,000, while animals and animal products are estimated at $8,957,000,000.

REPUBLICANS WANT STRICT ENFORCEMENT PROHIBITION IN STATE OF NEW YORK

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 29.—All the hopes of wets that New York state might become the oasis of a bone-dry nation were dashed by the introduction in the New York legislative assembly of the Republican majority's program providing strict enforcement by the Excise Department of the Federal constitutional prohibition amendment.

GERMAN ADMIRAL WHO ORDERED SHIPS SUNK SET FREE

Claimed He Did So Because He Believed That War Had Broken Out Again

London, Jan. 29.—Admiral von Reuter, the chief officer of the German fleet at Scapa Flow, who gave the order for the scuttling of the German warships there last June has been set free by the British authorities. The Admiral has returned to Germany, it was announced.

It was reported shortly after the scuttling of the Scapa Flow fleet that Admiral von Reuter would be tried in England by court martial for having broken the armistice conditions, but such action was never taken. In November last quotations were made public from a letter written Premier Lloyd George by the Admiral protesting against his detention. In his letter, the Admiral said he believed when he heard that the German counter proposals to the peace treaty had been rejected last June, that war had broken out again and therefore gave the order that the ships be sunk. He held that he and his subordinates could not be treated except in accordance with the usual custom of war.

LARGE QUANTITY WHEAT SHIPPED DAILY INTO U. S

100,000 Bushels Per Week Leaves Calgary For Points In the United States

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 29.—From inquiries made here it is ascertained that between ten and twenty cars of wheat are daily leaving Calgary elevators for the United States. This was confirmed when the question was put to Canadian Pacific Railway officials.

The shipment would be greatly in excess of this if the company supplied their own cars, but this they refuse to do owing to the difficulty in getting them back again. Therefore, only American cars are being loaded. These differ considerably in capacity, but taking the average of cars that have left within the last two days, their capacity generally runs to about 1,225 bushels. Working this out at an average from 18,000 to 20,000 bushels a day, there is at present about 100,000 bushels going over the line from Calgary each week, representing $325,000.

At the present time the Canadian Pacific Railway Company have 250 cars on order and it is said that one Montana concern alone has purchased 120,000 bushels of wheat from Calgary elevators. This, of course, has been done through the Canadian Wheat Board.

The price that has been paid for this wheat is probably only known to James Stewart and the purchasers, but Mr. Reid, representing the Rocky Mountain Elevator Company of Great Falls, Mont., when he was here, stated that he was prepared to buy any quantity of No. One Northern at $3.35 a bushel.

TO SEARCH NEW YORK FOR WHISKEY AND STILLS

New York, Jan. 29. — Search for illicit liquor stills in New York City began in earnest Wednesday. Squads of trained recruit agents, headed by a dozen veterans, left the custom house early to spread out over the various zones into which the city has been divided.

Squads, in fast automobiles, were held in readiness to pounce upon any place suspected of housing secret stores of liquor. Prohibition Commissioner Kramer mapped out the campaign with Federal and city authorities Tuesday.

EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY

What's the use of trying to contend that we have no "classes" in this country? Is the ditch-digger in the same class as the wealthy industrial magnate?

Yet more idiotic than the contention that we have no classes in this country is the attempt to demonstrate that classes here are like the classes in Europe on the existence of which the whole philosophy of radicalism is based.

Our classes are fluid. Their classes are fixed.

Our ditch-digger's son may become a wealthy industrial magnate, and our magnate's grandson may become a ditch-digger.

In the society where radicalism was born, the ditch-digger's son was doomed to be a ditch-digger, and his son's son a ditch-digger too.

Equality there never has been and, one hopes, there never will be. A society in a state of perfect equality would be the dullest, stalest life imaginable. It would be a kind of hell.

But equality of opportunity—there is what Canada has that societies petrified in strata have lacked. Broadening of educational opportunity and limitation of inheritances, for instance, will go a long way.

But when radicalism affects to believe that classes in a fluid state, with any class within reach of anybody with energy and ambition, are like the fixed classes of other lands which gave radicalism its only possible excuse, it is either venal or stupid.

And because the upheaval of war has tended to shatter the fixed classes of Europe, why should we be excited about it here? If Europe, having abolished fixed classes, brings about as large a measure not of impossible and undesirable equality but of equality of opportunity as we have in Canada, it will be doing as much as it can hope to do for a long time to come.

Equality of opportunity such as Canada has already, not to speak of the greater measure toward which it is working steadily, leaves radicalism without point or application.

WHAT DETERMINES LUMBER PRICES?

At a time when it is estimated that 100,000 new homes, 30,000 new factories, 5000 new schools, 1400 new churches are needed in Canada, the President of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, who happens to be a Moose Jaw man, makes some statements which demand attention. The President of such an association may be quoted as an authority. According to him, the price that Canadians will be called upon to pay for Canadian lumber, will be the American market price plus exchange, and mark you, if freight rates are increased, Canadian buyers may have to pay a higher price for Canadian lumber.

Newspaper reports do not say whether the 300 odd delegates to the convention agree with the President or not. Possibly some of them may offer criticism of his blunt and forceful statement but it is timely to ask if they can deny its truth.

Canadians owe Mr. Thorn, of Moose Jaw, a debt of gratitude for his utterances. It is brought forcibly home to us that in the lumber business at least, it is not the demands for materials from which to build shelters for the people in war devastated Europe, which causes the increased prices of lumber in Canada. It is the ability to pay by a neighbor drunk on war profits, which presages a new high level in lumber prices. Canadian forests are to be stripped to build up, not Canada, but the United States.

There is no hint in the statement credited to the President of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association that to increased costs is due the increased price. Canadians are to be asked to pay the American market price plus exchange. For instance, if the market price in the United States for a certain grade of lumber advances to one hundred dollars per thousand feet, and the exchange rate amounts to ten per cent, Canadian buyers are to be asked to pay one hundred and ten dollars per thousand feet for the same quality of lumber. Aside from the profit which would accrue to the dealer in the present routine of business through asking for and insisting on receiving the best market price, who gets the extra ten dollars due to the high cost of exchange? There is no doubt about whose pocket it comes out of.

Recently the newsprint situation, and now the lumber business, appears to indicate that Canada needs a new National policy—a National policy which will secure for the Canadian people some of the benefits which should be the portion of a nation rich in raw materials. A policy which will assure for the people of Canada a plentiful supply of the necessities of life, after provision of which any surplus may be sold to the highest bidder, wherever or who ever that may be.

WRONG METHODS

Presumably the New York Legislature when it intelligently suspended the five Socialist members of its assembly intended to save the country from the evil of Socialism.

That is a worthy aim, and ninety per cent. of the people hold it. But fortunately very few are so stupid as to think of doing it that way.

The way to save the Dominion from Socialism—assuming that it is in any particular danger of succumbing to Socialism—is to appeal to intelligence and common sense. If these won't save it, nothing will. Certainly suppression won't save it; certainly nothing is to be gained by kicking a political party, even though its aim is Socialism, out of legislative bodies and disfranchising its members, thus encouraging them to join those who have abandoned political action as too tame and too slow, and take up "revolution" by "direct action."

Socialism will be tested by the giving of the people for sanitarium sense. Socialism will not survive intelligent discussion.

THE "KAISER'S" FATE

There are nearly as many points of view as to what should be done with the former German Emperor, as there are people in the world. Some would have the Allies, if necessary, declare war on Holland, and having spent lives and treasure in a successful quest, draw that mean hound forth and have him drawn and quartered in the most public square in the world. Others would secure his surrender by diplomatic means or economic pressure, and having secured, tried and convicted him, permit the law to take its course as with any other criminal. Another view, and one that is very strongly held in the United States is thus voiced in an American exchange:

Holland won't give up Herr Hohenzollern for trial by the Allies. Are those who make the demand quite as mad as they appear to be because they did not get what they asked? Probably they are not mad enough about it to invade Holland to get him.

Suppose they had got him. There should be no trouble about convicting him. A world that has already tried and convicted him isn't far wrong. What would they have done with him after he was convicted? To punish him adequately for the world woe his criminal folly caused is impossible. Almost any imaginable punishment would be an anti-climax. And if, after he had been taken and tried and convicted, no terrible punishment were meted out, the proceeding would be a farce. Moreover, there is always the probability that punishing him might make a martyred German saint out of him.

Perhaps it is just as well as it is. He is punished some when he is no longer Kaiser; when his leap for world empire left him stranded in the ditch of ignominy, a fugitive from justice in a foreign land. Not punished enough, of course; but who has devised the form of punishment that anybody would admit was enough?

Holland is on strong and appealing ground when she points out that her history for centuries as a sanctuary for those whom punishment, just or unjust, awaited elsewhere. Our pilgrims sought that sanctuary before they sailed in the Mayflower.

And perhaps the worst punishment likely to overtake the ex-Kaiser is that fate will let him live a little while in ignominious obscurity to think it all over.

CO-OPERATION IS NECESSARY

Officers and members of the Council of the Board of Trade were elected at the annual meeting held in the Prince Edward Hotel, Thursday evening. Whether those chosen to fill the various positions are the best men for the posts is a matter of opinion. The Sun has no hesitation about saying that it does not believe that in every case the best man was chosen. As said before this is a point on which opinions may differ. There is one point, however, on which all can and should agree, and this is that now that the elections are over it is the duty of everyone to co-operate with those selected to fill these important positions in all the projects they undertake which have the betterment of Brandon as their sole objective.

BUILD UP THE BODY

The spread of influenza to Brandon would appear to be only a matter of time. It came later to Brandon in 1918 than it did elsewhere, and on the whole Brandon fared very well compared with other places, both in the number of cases and the number of fatalities.

Wherever influenza has appeared on this continent, this year, it has been in a milder form than in 1918-19. There have been fewer complications from pneumonia and other ailments and a much lower death rate. In Chicago, where the situation has been pretty bad, the death rate is only one-fifth as high as during the previous epidemic. Possibly many people are immunized by having the disease previously, though it sometimes repeats.

Nevertheless, influenza, Spanish or otherwise is no ailment to treat lightly or foolishly. If the facts were known about all the deaths that have resulted from the epidemic thus far, we believe it would be shown that in an overwhelming proportion, either the victim was run down beforehand, or failed to take proper precautions when first taken ill. Authorities agree that the dividing line between influenza and a bad cold is hard to distinguish. The part of wisdom is for the patient to take no unnecessary chances and during an epidemic—if it reaches this city—as it would seem it must—to treat acute respiratory troubles as potentially serious.

This certainly means putting the patient to bed and calling a doctor. If that had been the practice during the 1918-19 epidemic, many lives might have been saved.

Although there are no cases reported in this city, yet it would be well for everyone to observe the following precautions: Keep warm. Keep dry. Keep clean—especially the hands. Eat moderately. Avoid all over work and worry. Exercise in the fresh air. Sleep in well aired rooms. These wise precautions will keep bodily resistance up, lessen liability to disease and make it easier to withstand if it comes. Nobody should let another person cough or sneeze the germs of disease into his face, and nobody with any sense will do this to others. Colds, grip and influenza are easily spread that way.

Certainly there is no occasion for panic. There is however every reason for being careful.

POWERS OF BOARD OF COMMERCE TO BE ASCERTAINED

Ottawa, Feb. 3—(Canadian Press)—At today's sitting of the Supreme Court an application to have the case which will result in determination of the exact jurisdiction and powers of the Board of Commerce, tried during the February term of the court, will be made. E. F. Burritt, of Messrs. Code and Burritt, agents for the Board in the matter, will make the application, which it is believed will be granted. The case is therefore likely to the heard soon.

Quite an array of counsel probably will be present when the argument takes place. The Crescent Creamery company, of Winnipeg, which precipitated action by refusing to obey certain orders of the board, will be represented by J. B. Hugg, of Winnipeg. The Board of Commerce will have as its counsel W. F. O'Connor, Commissioner, and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association will be represented by W. N. Tilley. T. A. Beament will appear for the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. Other organizations which probably will have representatives present are the Toronto City Dairy company, Ltd., Toronto Milk and Cream Producers' association, the Canadian Credit Men's association, and the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN IN ANNUAL MEETING

Review of Activities Shows Much Good Work That Has Been Accomplished

NATIONALIZATION

Of Foreign-born One of the Big Problems To Be Tackled

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Brandon Local Council of Women was held Friday afternoon in the Council Chamber of the City Hall. The President, Mrs. S. E. Clement, presided. After several matters of routine business had been disposed of, Mrs Clement gave a very inspiring address. She thought that the work of the Council during the past year had not been as efficient as it might have been, due possibly to the year being shortened considerably on account of the last annual meeting being held so late in the year owing to the "Flu" epidemic. Mrs. Clement was anxious that the Council should be undivided and should stand b the women and children, and the homes of the community. In summing up the year's work, the President said considerable work had been undertaken for the children. The Child Welfare Station has been of untold value to the community. Several resolutions have been endorsed by the Council. Mrs. Clement thought the need for a juvenile court and a woman's court was apparent, as also was a children's detention home, and she felt sure that the Council would work whole-heartedly for any of these. She also hoped that women would soon be on the School Board to improve the school centres. Women who would co-operate and help were needed. In conclusion, Mrs. Clement thanked the executive for the support they had given her during the past year and said she hoped the Council would take hold of any work they undertook whole-heartedly for "in unity is strength."

The annual reports were then read and adopted. The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. A. McKellar, showed that although the Local Council of Women was not a money making society, the finances were in a healthy condition. The total receipts for the year amounted to $296.65, while the total expenditures were $264.17, leaving a balance on hand of $32.48. The majority of this money was received from affiliation fees and donations, although $65 was raised by a silver tea in the Y.M.C.A. A large sum was donated to the Red Triangle Club at the Y.M.C.A.

The Corresponding Secretary's report, read by Mrs. W. J. Miller, showed that forty letters had been received and ninety letters had been written.

Mrs. W. H. King then read the Recording Secretary's report. The affiliated societies number twenty four and the personnel of the Council forty. In April the Council was privileged in having Miss Gibbs, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, address the young girls of the city with a view to stimulate them to attain the highest in the nursing profession. In October the Local Council held a Hallowe'en table tea in the Y.M.C.A., with most gratifying results. Together with the other associations the Local Council carried on the work of distributing treats and comforts at the depot to returned soldiers and their dependents. Several important resolutions were passed unanimously by the Council during the past year. In May the Council was visited by the National President, Mrs. Sandford, in whose honor a public reception was held in the drawing room of the Prince Edward Hotel. Capt. Hugheson of Winnipeg also addressed this gathering. On January 7th, with financial assistance from the City Council, the Executive of the Local Council, with the wives of the Mayor and Aldermen, entertained at luncheon the Directorate and fraternal delegates of the Women's Section of the Manitoba Grain Growers, then in convention here.

Mrs. R. A. Clement then gave a report of the special committee re Big Sister Association. The report showed that the committee had thoroughly investigated the matter. The Local Council endorsed the recommendation of the executive to interest some organization to secure for this city a probation officer, a club for young women and a News Boys' Club.

To End Voting by Proxy

During the afternoon the Brandon Local Council endorsed he resolution of the National Executive to the end that the proxy vote be done away with, adding the following rider:

"Be it therefore resolved that the National Council of Women strongly recommend that all federated societies and Local Councils adopt a policy of raising a special fund to cover expenses of delegation to the annual convention."

Mrs. D. McEwan, Honorary President, then read the names of the following officers and convenors, who had been elected by acclamation for the ensuing year: Honorary President, Mrs. D. McEwan; President, Mrs. S. E. Clement; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Miller; Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. H. King; Convenor of Citizenship Committee, Mrs. R. A. Clement; Education, Mrs. A. White; Household Economics, Mrs. H. Laidlaw; Immigration, Mrs. G. H. Hogarth; Laws for Better Protection of Women and Children, Mrs. H. Cater; Professions and Employment for Women, Mrs. J. R. Little; Public Health, Mrs. J. S. Clark; Playground, Mrs. D. Creighton; Suppression of Objectionable Printed Matter, Mrs. Clendenning; Agriculture, Mrs. H. Thornton; Conservation of Natural Resources, Mrs. A. Shewan; Fine and Applied Arts, Mrs. K. Campbell; Peace and Arbitration, Mrs. H. P. Whidden; Equal Moral Standards, Mrs. Daniels.

Mrs. J. S. Clark and Mrs. A. J. Hatcher were appointed scrutineers and the remaining officers were elected by ballot: Vice-Presidents, Mrs. T. R. Wilkins, Mrs. T. Lee, Mrs. R. B. Cumming and Mrs. A. R. McDiarmid; Treasurer, Mrs. J. A. McKellar; Convenor of Finance Committee, Mrs. A. P. Jeffrey. Mrs. A. Burns was re-appointed auditor for the coming year.

It was moved by Mrs. J. S. Clark that letters of thanks be sent to the City Council, Y.M.C.A., Mr. J. B. Whitehead and the Misses I. Todd and A. Burchill.

Mrs. Dayton, of Virden, Provincial Vice-President then addressed the Council on the National Council meeting held in Hamilton last Fall. On rising Mrs. Dayton said "if I only said two words they would be 'carry on'." She thought the Brandon Local Council had done a splendid work and she eulogized in highest terms the President, Mrs. Clement. "The National Council," said Mrs. Dayton, "think a great deal of the Brandon Council."

The spirit of our Savior seemed to be at the meeting of the National Council, said the speaker. She mentioned how much the National has done for women. "The National Council" she said "has unified the favorable situation in which women find themselves today." It is doubtful if women would have the suffrage today if it had not been for the Local Councils. The Government can not afford to ignore the voice of the women. Mothers' Pensions, women on the School Board, minimum wage are only some of the many matters with which the Councils are dealing.

The National Council is a very democratic body of women and it stands for all that is worth while, said the speaker. Propaganda has been spread throughout the West that it is an aristocratic body, which is entirely wrong.

The Nationalization of the foreign born must be taken hold of at once, for if we don't take hold of it, it will take hold of us. We must put forth strenuous efforts to do this or we will be overwhelmed by it.

Mrs. Dayton urged that one and all help to make the National Council the strongest body of women possible. The boys good comradeship carried them over the top. We must carry on the torch putting aside friction and have the right spirit."

PITCHED BATTLE BETWEEN SHERIFFS AND CATTLE RAISERS

Followed Alleged Attempt By Cattlemen To Cut Wire Fences

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 31.—In a pitched battle between cattle raisers and deputy sheriffs in Polk county, last night, three well known cattlemen were killed and a fourth captured. Officers claimed they thought the cattlemen were in the act of cutting the wire fences surrounding a vast tract of phosphate land of the American Agricultural Chemical Co. For a number of years there has been ill feeling among the cattle raiser over the encroachment of the fences on the cattle ranges of Southern Florida and large land owners had complained of their fences being mysteriously cut at frequent intervals.

PEPS for Children's COUGHS & COLDS.

Why are Peps best for children? Because they contain absolutely no harmful drugs. Because, when dissolved in the mouth, they are breathed down to the air passages and lungs—not swallowed to the child's delicate stomach, which is so easily upset; and because they are so pleasant to take that children never refuse them. Peps provide health-giving pine-forest fumes in pastille form. When these pastilles are dissolved in the mouth they throw off pine vapor, such as is breathed by dwellers in pine forests, and which is so highly recommended by the medical profession as being without equal for all ailments of the throat, breathing passages and lungs. These pine vapors released when Peps are taken, penetrate to all parts of the breathing organs, bringing relief and healing to the sore and inflamed membranes, ending that tight feeling in the chest, making breathing easy and stopping any cough. Keep Peps handy this winter and use them freely. Give them to the children when the first symptom of a cough or a cold appears. Just as suitable for adults. All dealers 50c. box.

DOUBLE MURDER AT CLEVELAND

Bodies Found In Lonely Road—Believed To Have Been Dropped There

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 31.—With two men dead and another believed mortally wounded, police are working on a double murder mystery, revealed Friday, with the finding of two bodies in Pearl road. The police theory is that the murders were committed in the city and the bodies carried in an automobile to the lonely spot where they were found.

The third man, believed dead by the slayers, probably recovered and crawled away between the time the bodies were found by passers-by, who saw three bodies huddled together, and the time the police arrived on the scene.

The murder victims have not been identified positively, but from letters found in their pockets, it is believed they were Sylvester T. Russo, a designer, and Michael Velanzo, both of Buffalo, N.Y. Communication with Buffalo by police serves to corroborate the identification.

It was said the men started for Cleveland Wednesday, Russo to open a studio.

HUMBLEST MINE LABORER RECEIVES 114 P.C. INCREASE

Halifax, Jan. 28.—The Halifax Herald publishes the following special dispatch from its Sydney correspondent: "Declaring that during the war certain classes of Cape Breton mine labor had received wage increases of one hundred and fourteen per cent. as compared with wage increases of eighty-four per cent. to the miners in the United States J. B. MacLachlin, District Secretary, comes back strong at his detractors in a statement issued at Glace Bay just before his departure for Picton.

"Mr. MacLachlin points out that from 1909 to 1916 the price of coal increased twenty per cent, and the cost of living fifty per cent., but that the Cape Bretoners received no wage increases through their local unions.

Cost of Coal Higher

"From 1916 to 1919, or since the Baxter-Barret-MacLachlin combine took control, the cost of coal has increased from $2.90 a ton to $4.65, the wages of labor have increased from $1.52 per day to $3.25. This is for the lowest classification of mine labor, and means an increase of about 114 per cent. Other classes of labor have received increases approximating 100 per cent.

"MacLachlin was refused a hearing at a gathering held at Glace Bay on Sunday for the purpose of passing on the agreement reached at the instance of the conciliation board, headed by Principal Clarence Mackinnon, of Pine Hill College, following several weeks of negotiations.

"One of the articles of the agreement stipulated that it must be endorsed by each of the various unions, United Mine Workers locals. Phelan and Caledonia have already rejected it."

EXCEPTION TAKEN EIGHT HOUR LAW IN SMALL SHOPS

Paris, Jan. 28—Exception was taken by representatives of the employers of Sweden and Switzerland to the strict application of the eight-hour law to small trades and businesses, at a session of the International Labor organization.

The organization adopted the six conventions and six recommendations voted by the Washington conference. They were referred to the Secretary of the League of Nations, who will transmit them to the various governments for ratification.

Albert Thomas, the French labor leader, was unanimously elected director-general of the International organization at this session. This action ratifies the provisional nomination of M. Thomas for the office made at the Labor Conference at Washington in November.

INFLUENZA CONTINUES TO SPREAD IN THE U. S.: 14.805 CASES IN ILLINOIS

Washington, Jan. 28. — Influenza continues to spread over the country. Reports to the public health service said the total cases reported in Illinois had reached 14,805, and that this probably including only about one-fifth of the actual number.

More than 2,000 new case again were reported in Michigan, while Milwaukee reported 1,061 cases and Wyoming 350. Public schools and public gathering places in Tennessee have been closed, the service was advised.

Actual removal of the bodies, it was announced, will be delayed temporarily because of lack of steel caskets. The work will be started first in the Brest district.

AVIATION AS AN EMPIRE WELDER, OF FIRST IMPORTANCE

London, Jan. 28.—The Times, in an article dealing with aviation as an empire welder says that for communication with the outlying parts of the empire, with India, Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand, it would be difficult to over-estimate the importance of the possibilities that will be opened up by air routes already surveyed within the empire. Nothing else, not even the personal magnetism of the Prince of Wales, will prove more valuable as an instrument, not only for annihilating time and space, but for drawing ever closer ties of sympathy and mutual understanding which bind together the Mother country and the Dominions.

CO-OPERATION THE ONLY SOLUTION OF LABOR TROUBLES

Declares Premier Norris In the Debate On the Address In Legislature

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Declaring that sympathetic co-operation between capital and labor was the only solution of labor troubles, such as had occurred in Winnipeg last year, and expressing confidence that this would be achieved by the conferences now taking place between representatives of the employers and the employes, in conjunction with members of the Legislature, with a view to arriving at an understanding upon labor laws for the consideration of the house, Premier T. C. Norris took part in the debate on the address at the session of the Legislative Assembly of Manitoba Tuesday afternoon. Reminding the members that on July 15th next Manitoba would be half a century in existence as a province, the first minister recalled some of the incidents in its history, especially in relation to the legislature, and then reviewed the legislation enacted since his government came into office.

Premier Norris asserted that the party had redeemed all its pledges with one exception. He alluded to the liquor laws, what had been done for the agricultural community and for the benefit of the workers in industrial pursuits; but he admitted the administration had not been able to reduce the cost of the civil government of the province. The civil service had grown, he pointed out, owing to the increased requirements of the province, and remuneration had to be advanced so as to provide for the employes a living wage in view of the high cost of living. Observing he had been criticized for not putting the Industrial Conditions Act into operation—the first legislation of the description, he claimed, in Canada—he stated that the order-in-council lay in his office ready to be signed as soon as the co-operation of the representatives of labor was secured. The Premier declared himself strongly against anything in the way of coercion, and said that iron-bound statutes would not avail in such circumstances.

Opposition Leader Speaks

The Premier was preceded by Albert Prefontaine, the member for Carillon, leader of the opposition, who crititcized the expenditures of the government on the new Parliament building, stating that the public accounts showed they had cost two millions more than the original estimate. He claimed that the increases in the civil service were due to increases to employes who did not deserve them. He also criticized the administration of the Temperance Act, and asserted that the restrictions on the sale of liquor were not enforced. Dealing with this point, Premier Norris claimed that such legislation could only be made effective by the co-operation of the people, and he said he would be glad of the help of the opposition in this direction.

Mr. Prefontaine, in resuming the debate, had observed, he said, that the credit for Manitoba's prosperity had been laid to the present administration by the speakers Monday evening. This "prosperity" no doubt had included the present high prices for necessaries, and they overlooked the fact that farmers nowadays were only able to produce one-third of their former production total.

MAY BE RUSH TO NEW GOLD FIELDS

Ketchikan, Alaska, Jan. 28.—Valuable gold deposits near Hyder, South of Ketchikan, which are reported to be miles in extent, have been lost to the United States by the decision of American surveyors defining the boundary line between Alaska and Canada. It was decided to follow the lines of Canadian surveys rather than the monuments of early Russian lines.

Recent developments of the properties near Hyder, reports of which spread to the outside world, have elicted hundreds of inquiries from the United States and even Great Britain, which, it is believed, may presage a "rush" to Hydler next Spring rivaling the famous Klondike stampede.

BANK ROBBER WHO SHOT TELLER WILL PAY DEATH PENALTY THURSDAY NIGHT

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 28—All is in readiness for the electrocution of Gordon Fawcett Hamby, who a year ago last December shot and killed the teller of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank. Hamby will pay the death penalty on Thursday night at eleven o'clock.

Hamby, in his confession of the murder, also confessed to other robberies, and said that if the teller had obeyed the order to hold up his hands, he would not have been killed.

ELEVATOR FIXED UP AS BARROOM

For More Than Thirty Years Patronized By Federal Court Officials

New Yrk, Jan. 28.—Prohibition agents in a raid on a Park Row cafe opposite the Federal building, Sunday night, unearthed an ingenious elevator barroom in which imitation whiskey is alleged to have been sold to "high class clientele." The saloon, for more than 30 years, has been the gathering place of Federal court officials, lawyers and attaches, as well as officials and politicians from the city hall.

The raid netted seven gallons of the liquor, which is said to be made of alcohol diluted with water.

Customers were served in the elevator, according to the prohibition agent. The liquor and glases were in a small box nailed up near the elevator door; in case of a surprise raid the elevator could be started and the customers and the small serving table, which was in the car, could be hoisted to any of the three floors above, from which they could escape.

THREE WINNIPEGGERS LOST LIVES IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR CORBEIL

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Two Winnipeggers, possibly three, lost their lives in the Canadian Pacific Railway train wreck near Corbeil, Ont., early Sunday morning.

She was travelling with her husband and their infant son, James, and nothing has been heard from her since the accident. The baby also is missing, and is believed to have perished.

SECOND MEETING LEAGUE OF NATIONS

To Consider Constitution Permanent Court of International Justice

Washington, Jan. 28.—The second meeting of the Council of the League of Nations, which in reality will be the first actual business meeting, will be held in London, probably February 10th, accordi to advices received here. At this meeting the Council plans to enter upon consideration of one of the most important subjects with which it has been charged under the treaty of peace, namely, the constitution of the permanent court of international justice. The first meeting of the Council, held in Paris, January 16th, confined itself to matters of organization necessary to meet contingencies that had arisen under the treaty, such as the appointment of the Sarre Valley Boundary Commission, which had to be named within fifteen days after the ratification of the treaty.

The organizing committee is expected to have a most difficult and complex task. The plan for an international court has been one of the most discussed of all the League of Nations provisions, and suggestions for its constitution have poured in from all sides. Both the Germans and the Austrians submitted a most detailed program in their counter-proposals to the Allies and associated powers at the Peace Conference; the three Scandinavian countries—Norway, Sweden and Denmark—in long meetings, last Summer agreed on a joint pla to be pressed before the league; and Switzerland also has worked out elaborate mechanism, which was presented at the conference between representatives of the neutral states and of the League of Nations Commission in Paris last Spring.

All these plans laid principal stress upon the method of the appointment of judges, which proved to be the rock on which the Hague conference broke.

The small nations stand united for the principle of the equality of states and consequently of the equal voting power of states in the selection of judge. The big powers, however, have refused to entrust their interests to a court where they are not assured proportionate representation. All the plans at present submitted avoid this dificulty by ingenious variation of the panel system, assuring, first, the choice of the world's most famous international jurists, regardless of nationality; second, the presence of not over one or at the most two members of the same nation on the roster; third, the disqualification of any judge in any case in which his own nation is involved; and fourth, the right of challenge by any nation involved of a certain number of the judges elected for a particular case, with their consequent replacement by lot from other judges on the panel.

IS BY-ELECTION NECESSARY FOR HON. A. K. MACLEAN

If He Becomes Head of Department—1918 Statute Considered by Minister

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—A statute passed in 1918 is now receiving some close study. It became law in the first session of the Union Parliament and provided salaries for the ministers of new departments, for Senator Robertson, as chairman of the sub-committee on labor, and for Hon. A. G. Maclean, as vice-chairman of the reconstruction and development committee. It is in its reference to Mr. Maclean that the act is receiving attention. Under its provisions, the ministers voted a salary were under no necessity of being re-elected; it remains in force during the war and for twelve months afterward.

The question being considered is whether in the event of Mr. Maclean being appointed head of a government department, it would be necessary to have a by-election. No appointment has yet been made of a successor to Mr. Sifton as minister of public works; and Mr. Maclean's name has frequently been suggested in this connection.

CHALLENGES LODGE HE CAN DECEIVE HIM WITH FAKED MANIFESTATIONS

New York, Jan. 28.—A challenge to Sir Oliver Lodge, in the form of an offer to bet $5,000 that he can deceive him with faked spirit manifestations, was issued Monday night by Joe Rinn at a dinner of the Sunrise club, which he enlivened with a series of spiritualistic "tests."

Rinn, a fruit broker, has attained much notoriety as a harrier of mediums. Several years ago he exposed Eusapio Palladino, May Pepper and other well-known mediums.

The Rinn manifestations were taken seriously by many of those who witnessed them Monday night until he sprang his challenge.

WASHINGTON PRODUCERS HOLD TONS POTATOES: WAIT FOR HIGH PRICES

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 28.—Investigation conducted by the United States Department of Justice has disclosed that thousands of tons of potatoes are held at Yakima, Wash., and at points near Seattle by growers who are waiting for higher prices, Ben L. Moore, United States District Attorney, announced here. No steps can be taken against the growers, Mr. Moore said, as the Lever Food Control Act expressly exempts them from its provisions.

Potatoes are listed to dealers at $100 a ton here.

A. PREFONTAINE ATTACKS NORRIS ADMINISTRATION

Declares Riot Extravagance Conducted by Provincial Government During 1919

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Declaring that during the last year "another riot of extravagance" had been conducted by the Provincial Government, that the Temperance Act had been maladministered, and that the civil service threatened to overcrowd the new parliament buildings, commodious though these buildings are, Albert Prefontaine, leader of the Conservative opposition in the legislature, Tuesday afternoon made an attack upon the Norris administration.

Charges Maladministration

Mr. Prefontaine, in the course of his address declared that the Temperance Act was being so inefficiently administered that the prohibition act could no longer prohibit.

"I am informed," he declared, "that Christmas eve, one doctor alone issued 1,600 prescriptions for liquor.

The opposition leader also declared that men were known to be making a business in Winnipeg of peddling prescriptions to rural visitors. Certain doctors signed these prescriptions, he maintained. It was up to the Government to put a stop to the practice by dint of more intelligent supervision, he declared.

Hon. T. C. Norris continued the debate in reply to Mr. Prefontaine.

SOME WINNIPEG LAKE FISHERMEN ARE VERY LUCKY

While On Others Dame Fortune Refused To Smile—Fur Catch Promising

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Dame Fortune divided her favors somewhat unequally among the fishermen on Lake Winnipeg this year, E. S. Jonasson, of Gimli, who operated a camp at Kinowa Bay, says. While a few men had exceptionally good luck, cleaning up what amounted to small fortunes, the majority barely met expenses, and some are out of pocket the extent of the entire equipment.

Among the fortunate ones were ranked Captain John Stevens and his sons, of Gimli, and S. Kdistjanson, all of whom fished off Tamarac island; Magnus Eyolfson and sons, from Hnausa, and B. G. Johnson, of Gimli, who fished at Rabbit Point; and a few men who were located at the Swamp and Commission islands. All these encountered heavy runs of tulibee.

Pickerel was unusually scattered this year and every camp shared in the catch.

The whitefish catch is unknown, being now in transit from the extreme Northern parts of the lake, men, equipment and haul all being brought in by caravan at the same time. The hauling has been heavy this year, Mr. Jonasson stated, owing to the snow falling during a thaw and forming a hard crust.

Several of the men returning will double back for trapping, the fur catch up in the Northern wilds holding promising returns.

NOVEL PROPOSAL TO RESTORE VALUE CANADIAN MONEY

In the United States, Is For Widening of Imperial Preference

REASON FOR WEAKNESS

Is Uncertainty of Liquidation of Immense Sum Britain Owes Canada

London, Jan. 28.—A proposal which finds much favor among business men, principally Canadians, with whom it was discussed, which is aimed at the restoration of exchange between Canada and Great Britain to a figure approaching par is outlined by Fred C. Salter, European manager of the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian Express. He said he had talked the scheme over with several men prominent in the financial world and also heard various criticisms, none of whom were uncertain as to the soundness of the proposal.

It is generally conceded that the reason for the fall of the Canadian dollar in the United States is the fact that Great Britain is a debtor to Canada to the amount of $300,000,000. Uncertainty of liquidation of this immense sum is the only weakness in the Canadian financial situation. The only way in which this debt may be liquidated is by commodities. None suggest for a moment that cash should or could be turned over. If Canada would, then, for a period at least, broaden her policy of imperial preference to enable the products of Great Britain to enter the country freely, and remove all restrictions between herself and the mother country, imports of that country would soon flow in in an uninterrupted stream from across the Atlantic instead of from the United States. Increased purchases by Great Britain would then begin to wipe out the debt and remove the cause of the dollar's weakness.

Restricted buying in the United States constitutes another source of strength. Dollars would rise in New York and with the wiping out of Britain's debt the pound sterling would also recover somewhat.

It is believed here also that such a move would to a great extent meet the demands of those now agitating for a revision of the tariff. While no direct protection for the manufacturers, the high freight rates at present charged for trans-Atlantic transportation provide an indirect protection by effectual restriction. A continuous stream of freight from the Atlantic seaboard Westward will be a rich source of revenue for national railways. Moreover, the new Canadian mercantile marine will also benefit. Increased traffic Westward will mean increased traffic Eastward. Where today many ships are drawing foodstuffs and other products from the Argentine many will be transferred to Canadian trade probably resulting in a reduction of freights. Lastly, such a step would be imperialism of the kind the Empire needs today.

DISHONORABLE DISCHARGE FOR SIMS IS URGED

By Representative Byrnes, Democrat, in U. S. House of Representatives

VIOLATES CONFIDENCE

Declares U. S. Rear-Admiral Slandered American Army and Navy

Washington, Jan. 28.—Dishonorable discharge for Rear-Admiral William S. Sims, because of his recent testimony before the Senate Naval Committee, was recommended by Representative Byrnes, South Carolina, Democrat, in a speech in the house.

Byrnes said that a superior officer did admonish Sims before leaving for England before the United States entered the war "not to let the British pull the wool over your eyes," but that the Admiral by repeating this to the Senate is violating "confidential instructions and deserves the condemnation of every American, and a dishonorable discharge from the navy."

Charges that Sims while serving abroad, slandered the army and navy and belittled the American forces to the glorification of the British, were made by Byrnes.

He declared that Sims' effort to flatter the British by slandering the army and navy of the United States will meet with the contempt of every true Englishman, as it does of every true American. Several statements regarding American participation accredited to Sims were declared by Byrnes to be false, as shown by the records in Sims' office.

Cheer Declaration

The declaration of Byrnes that Sims deserved a dishonorable discharge was greeted by applause and cheers from the Democratic side. Several Republicans joined in.

"Sims was so busy fighting the war over the dining tables of London," Byrnes said, "that he did not take time to look up the actual facts in his office.

"While in Paris on October 30th, 1918, twelve days before the armistice was signed, Sims told Senator Glass, Virginia, now Secretary of the Treasury; Representative Whaley, South Carolina, and me, that the armis e asked for by the enemy would have to be granted because of the failure of Pershing to break through the German lines, due to the disastrous breakdown of transportation behind the American lines. With pathos in his voice, Sims pictured this failure of the army at the critical moment. We fell for this story and rushed to General Pershing only to find a few days previous Pershing had writ n the service of supplies congratulating it upon the wonderful work of supplying the forces in the field. Sims' statement was false and for his inexcusable slander he should be made to answer to the American doughboy.

"Sims not only libelled the army, but he deprecated the navy."

Anglophobia Alleged

Byrnes also declared Sims had discouraged all American attempts to build up a merchant marine.

"So convinced was I that his Anglophobia made it impossible for him to entertain a purely American viewpoint that when I returned to this country I advised one in authority that for an American view the Navy Department might as well appeal to the British Admiralty as to Sims'," Byrnes said. "But nothing this hyphenated politician can say will add to or detract from the glory of the British people."

ONTARIO LABOR MEMBERS DISCUSS RELATIONS WITH PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

The meeting was convened by Mayor Macbride, of Brantford. It was also attended by Hon. Walter Rollo and Hon. Mr. Mills.

Mayor Macbride denied that there was any secession movement on the part of labor from the Provincial Government.

USE AIRPLANES TO FIND SHIP SWEPT INTO LAKE

Mystery Surrounds Disappearance of Seven Men, May Be On Ship

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Owners of the small steamer Sidney C. Neff are planning to use airplanes in searching for the craft which was swept out in to the lake with breaking ice packs, after having been held prisoner more than a week. An all-night search by coastguards and light house keepers, with powerful searchlights, failed to locate the vessel.

To the mystery surrounding the whereabouts of six men, five of whom were members of the Neff's crew, who tried to reach the boat by walking the four miles over breaking ice, was added that of a seventh man. Nothing had been heard from Edward Williams, a photographer, since he started for the Neff

Whether all seven reached the Neff or fell into open water between the ice floes probably will not be known, coastguards said, until the Neff was spoken

GERMAN PRISONERS SENT HOME FROM FRANCE IN GOOD PHYSICAL CONDITION

Paris, Jan. 28.—Repatriation of German prisoners of war, which began last week, is now proceeding rapidly. Trains have left Valenciennes, Cambrai, Toul, Verdun and other concentration points. Other trains are to leave Sissons and Laon.

Two German ships, now at Havre, will take home 1,500 German prisoners in a few days, and two other ships are ready to take back 50 German officers and 700 men.

Comment in Berlin papers upon the condition of the repatriated prisoners is favorable. The Tageblatt and Varwaerts admit that the first German prisoners who have returned from France appear to have been well fed and cared for and that generally they make a good impression.

SECOND READING SASKATCHEWAN TEMPERANCE ACT

Dunning Declares Government Proposes To Enforce New Legislation

MAKE CONDITIONS WORSE

Turner Says Law Will Make Conditions Worse Than Would Sale of Liquor

Regina, Sask., Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The Saskatchewan Temperance Act, 1920, received its second reading by a vote of forty to six in the legislature on Saturday afternoon.

Donald McLean, leader of the opposition, criticized the bill as not calculated to bring about the bone-dry condition it purported to do, and criticized the Government for not recognizing the fact that an elemcnt of the population wished to secure liquor legally. The province had prohibition on paper which had filled the jails and brought the law into contempt. Why, therefore, pass a bil which more or less continued such conditions. The only diffe.ence effect on the present law and the proposed act would be the price of liquor which would advance. Eight out of ten persons, so far as he could see, said Mr. McLean, wanted a means provided to secure liquor legally. Prohibition sentiment had changed, he said, and disappeared on Armistice Day. Mr. McLean also wanted stronger beer. He said he did not introduce an amendment, but offered these suggestions.

Hon. C. A. Dunning made it clear to the House that the Government proposed to enforce the new act to the uttermost lim't of the law, if the referendum showed the people wanted prohibition. .f there were loopholes in the act they would be closed up

Harris Turner, soldier member for Saskatoon, believed that a compulsory law was calculated to bring about conditions worse than if legal sale of liquor was allowed. He had recently been at a soldiers' re-union where the health of the King was drunk in whiskey in defiance of the law, yet these law-breakers had all fought in France and made the continuance of making laws within the British Empire possible. The proposed law would send these men to jail for a second offence, and he could not "stand for any such a proposition."

C. P. R. PRESIDENT TALKS OF RATE INCREASE AT ONCE

In Order To Meet Operating Costs Which Have Advanced

EVENTUALLY, NOT NOW

Heavy Expenditures For Operation Will Disappear and Rates Come Down

Winnipeg, Feb. 2.—Addressing the Canadian club today on the "Railway Situation," E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, gave a plain intimation of a coming increase in rates. He declared that the Canadian railways were now operating under vastly increased expenses owing to existing conditions and that in order to meet this heavy operation cost, more money would have to be obtained for service. He intimated also that by a well organized system of national endeavor involving thrift and hard work on the part of all, the conditions causing heavy expenditures for operation would eventually disappear, and that rates would again come down.

He expressed the hope that the National Railways would be conducted from a purely business standpoint and deprecated any tendency to bring in the influence of politics. He expressed unbounded optimism in regard to the future and stated his belief that the country would effectually solve its industrial problems.

GREY EXPLAINS U. S. ATTITUDE ON NATIONS LEAGUE

To Englishmen, In An Effort To Foster Friendliness in Two Democracies

London, Feb. 2—(Canadian Press Cable)—Viscount Grey occupied two columns of the Times Saturday with a letter on the attitude of the United States on the League of Nations. He carefully explains that he is not acting as an ambassador but as a private individual making an earnest attempt to foster the friendliness of the two democracies by explaining to Englishmen certain aspects of the American hesitation to accept the league is not due to absolute to the principle, but to constitutional questions and possible effects which compel caution.

One particular reservation Viscount Grey thinks must give rise to difficulty, namely, that respecting six British votes in the assembly of the league, but neither the Dominions nor Great Britain, he says, can admit qualification here. It must not be supposed that in the United States, he continues, there is any tendency to grudge the fact that Canada and the other Dominions have votes, but it is easy to realize that feeling had been caused by the statement that the British Empire has six votes and the United States one.

SLEEPING CAR PLUNGES INTO 30 FEET OF WATER

Wreck on Rutland Railroad Train North of Burlington, Vermont

TEN SUFFER COLDS

Many Severely Frost Bitten From Icy Bath — 38 Degrees Below Zero

Burlington, Vermont, Jan. 31.—More than a score of passengers were injured when three sleepers of the Rutland Railroad train from Boston and New York, were derailed at Grand Isle, North Hero, Bridge, between North Hero and Alburg, 40 miles North of here today. One sleeping car went through the drawbridge into 30 feet of water, the other two staying on the road bed.

Passengers in the submerged sleeper were all immersed suddenly in icy water, most of them clad only in their night clothes, with the mercury at 38 below zero. Many were severely frost-bitten before they were dragged out. Ten persons were brought here suffering from cold but it was said that therwise no one was seriously injured.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Grand Trunk officials here state that the sleepers mentioned are probably for Ottawa and Montreal, as the New York and Boston traffic by that line is routed over Rutland as far as Rouse's Point.

AIR RACE NOME TO NEW YORK

New York., Feb. 2.—Tentative plans for a trans-continental air race this year between New York and Nome, Alaska, a distance of 4,870 miles, were announced here last night by the American Flying Club.

From Mineola to Minot, N.D., a distance of 1,673 miles, the route will lie over United States territory. At North Gate, N.D., the course crosses the international border into Saskatchewan.

In Canada the course lies along the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, running from Edmonton, Alta., to Prince Rupert, B.C. At Hazelton, B.C., the proposed route branches North between the coast range and the Rocky Mountains, following the valleys which are the most populated. This route is covered by the only telegraph line, and is the most favorable from the supply point of view. In Alaska, the route runs from Fort Yukon to Fairbanks, by way of Fort Gibbon, thence to Nulato and Nome.

SASKATCHEWAN LEGISLATORS WANT PLEBISCITE TAKEN

There May Later Be Considerable Discussion of New Temperance Act

Regina, Jan. 31. — The resolution asking the assembly to petition the Dominion government to hold a plebiscite on the prohibition question carried without a dissentient vote in the legislature today. Practically all favored the resolution but some made reservations regarding the new temperance act which, although connected in a way with the resolution has not yet received its second reading. It seems probable that there will be considerable discussion in regard to details later.

Gregson went to the hospital for repairs to his head, with a charge of drunkeness against him, and the taxi driver will appear to claim his fare.

Woodland Farm,
Wednesday Morning

Dear Jane,

At last I've found a moment to answer your very welcome letter.

That's as far as I got, when I heard a terrible noise in the kitchen, and rushing in, found that Bobby had pulled a pan of boiling water off the stove and scalded himself badly. Just imagine!—and I ten miles from the nearest doctor and no one here to help! Thank goodness Tom has always insisted upon keeping Zam-Buk in the house. The poor little chap was in such awful pain it was all I could do to hold him while I plastered the Zam-Buk on his arm and leg. Then I bound them up with strips torn from an old sheet, and now he's actually asleep! Could you believe it? I always knew Zam-Buk was good stuff, but I'd no idea it was so wonderful for ending pain. Whatever should I have done without it!

This started out to be a letter, but it sounds more like a testimonial for Zam-Buk! I'll send it off anyway, because I want to ask if you'll please send me half a dozen boxes of Zam-Buk as soon as you get this, as I have only enough for one more dressing.

Yours in haste,

Mary

Mothers! Take the hint! Never be without a box of Zam-Buk on the shelf. Not only for scalds, burns and cuts, but for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, blood-poisoning, piles, cold sores, etc. it is without equal. And it costs no more than ordinary ointments. 50c. box, all dealers.

PRINCIPLES NOT PERSONALITIES

Basis On Which Membership In United Farmers Is To Be Granted

Who is and who is not eligible for membership was the main discussion at the regular meeting of the local branch of the United Farmers held in the City Hall on Saturday afternoon. Unfortunately the speaker from Winnipeg who was to have spoken on the "aims and objects of the United Farmers" did not arrive so the afternoon was devoted to discussion on several matters. Mr. T. Patterson, president of the local branch was in the chair.

Co-operative buying on a large scale was discussed at length by the members.

There was a lengthy discussion as to the eligibility for membership with the United Farmers. Although not so heated as the argument which arose at the first meeting, the discussion brought out many clashes. It has been decided to meet every situation upon the basis of the principles involved, without favor or prejudice to anyone.

The constitution clearly states that all those who are in sympathy with the aims and purposes of the Association and who agree to co-operate therewith to attain its aims and purposes may become members by the payment of an annual fee of not less than $2.

The Association has decided to meet the last Saturday of every month the Council Chambers having been secured for this purpose.

U. S. RAILWAYMEN TO PRESS CLAIMS FOR HIGHER PAY

Tired of Waiting On the Administration Cost of Living Campaign

Washington, Jan. 29.—The railway unions representing more than 2,000,000 workers, are to make a drive upon the Railroad Administration for higher wages and a final adjustment of working conditions before March 1st, when the railroads are returned to private control.

W. G. Lee, President of the Railway trainmen, has asked Director-General Hines for a conference to take up the wage demands, which long have been pending. It was made known at the same time that other brotherhoods were tired of waiting on the administration cost of living campaign. Last August they agreed to let their demands rest pending a showing as to whether living costs could be brought down to stop the upward trend of wages.

The unions, it is claimed, are prepared to demand a final answer, and are prepared to enforce their demands if possible. The shopmen took a strike vote several months ago, in which the membership authorized the executives to call a strike if the wage demands were not granted.

A delegation representing the railroad employes, farmers' organization and the American Federation of Labor, called at the White House to urge retention of the railroads by the government for not fewer than two years.

The first draw saw Carnegie and Alexander fight it out with Alexander winning 22-18. The winners fell before Brandon, however, in the next round, 24-13. The Forsythe-Anderson pair from Forrest qualified for the finals with Brandon by putting the strong Asylum pair out, 39-24. The final aw the city rinks win from Forrest 24-20.

The Brandon rinks were matched against each other in the first draw of the Robinson event and this time the Asylum rink, skipped by McBain, won 19-12. The winners got the verdict in the next round when they defeated the Alexander four 13-11. Forrest again worked into the finals by defeating Carnegie 13-8. The final game saw the McBain rink go down before Forrest, 13-9.

The results of the games were as follows:

UNEASINESS IN GERMANY OVER ALLIES DEMANDS

That Men Charged With Offences Be Turned Over To Them For Trial

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Indications of the Government's growing concern over the extradition of Germans accused of war offences was given in a note sent to the Allies today, asking revision of clauses of the Versailles Treaty. The attempt at assassination of Erzberger on Monday, is viewed in official circles as a precursor of what is likely to happen on a larger scale if the Government yields to the Allies' appeals to force the arresting of men on the list submitted by the Entente Powers.

ONE BIG UNION IS AN UNLAWFUL CONSPIRACY

Contention of Crown Prosecutor Andrews at Trial of Strike Leaders

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—That the One Big Union was in itself an unlawful conspiracy, was a statement made by A. J. Andrews, K.C., leading counsel for the Crown in the trial of the seven remaining strike leaders charged with seditious conspiracy, in making his address to the jury at the opening session of the trial today. Mr. Andrews declared the reason why the One Big Union was unlawful, was because its avowed purpose was to obtain its ends by the compelling force of massed action. One of the planks in its platform," said he, "was the sympathetic strike," which, the Crown counsel, on behalf of the people of Canada, contended was unlawful. Mr. Andrews completed his address to the jury before the adjournment, and F. E. Langdale, Sergeant of the Intelligence Department, Military District Number 10, was the first witness called upon on the resumption of proceedings.

A. J. Andrews, K.C., Crown counsel said that the Crown will urge that this case was brought down to test the legality of the O. B. U. and the general strike, and that it was used to demonstrate the solidarity of labor, and that it had the public by the throat.

NEXT WAR TO BREAK OUT AMONG NATIONS ON PACIFIC LUST AFTER AUSTRALIA

London, Jan. 29.—W. A. Hughes, Australian premier, speaking at Melbourne, said the next war would probably break out in the Pacific, according to a Central News despatch from Sydney.

"We must be ready with a sufficiently numerous army to say: 'Thus far and no further,'" he is quoted as saying. "We are hedged about with nations which lust after this country."

CLEMENCEAU IS OUT OF POLITICS

Paris, Jan. 29.—Former Premier Clemenceau has reserved a state room on the steamer Lotus, leaving Marseilles on Feb. 3rd, bound for Alexandria, Egypt. He is reported to be absolutely sincere in his decision to remain in retirement and under no consideration to be drawn again into the turmoil of politics. To the editor of L'Homme Ligre he remarked the other day, anent his defeat in the test vote of parliament on the presidency week before last:

"Some persons need a hint, others a knck. I am through. My enemies may think I received a kick; parliamentary friends a hint. At anyrate, I am through. I am off to Egypt, first, then—well, we shall see!—perhaps India."

PRIME MINISTER'S SON VISITS U. S.

Major Lloyd George Makes Flying Trip and Cannot Come To Canada

New York, Jan. 29.—(By Canadian Press)—That Great Britain is undergoing great economic and political changes during the period of reconstruction following the war, is the opinion of Major Richard Lloyd George, son of the British Prime Minister, who is in the United States on a business trip. To the Canadian Press he voiced his regret that his hurried trip to this country on business affairs made it impossible for him to visit Canada. He will sail for home Feb. 14th on the Adriatic.

"One of the most important changes in England," he said, "is the breaking up of our system of large landowners, who are selling their holdings because they are unable to pay the heavy taxes that have been imposed on them. In the sale of these properties they are reserving the first opportunities of buying to the tenants whose ancestors have been on the land for many generations. By the establishment of many small farmers as property owners, we are creating the thrifty peasant class in Britain which has been such an aid to France and Belgium in rebuilding those war-demoralized countries."

SHERIFF REFUSES TO LAY DOWN: WANTS PROTECTION

Asks That His Action Be Vindicated By Court—Remand Granted

Fort Frances, Ont., Jan. 29.—The criminal charges against Paul Haas, superintendent of the Fort Frances Pulp and Paper Company, for obstructing the sheriff in the discharge of his duty again came up before Magistrate Hollands in the local police court on Tuesday afternoon. C. R. Fitch, on behalf of the Paper Controller, stated that the difficulties between the Company and the Controller had been adjusted, and that he was asked by the Paper Controller to request that the charges be withdrawn.

Mr. Croome, as Crown Prosecutor, stated that he had been so requested by the Solicitor for the Controller, Mr. Tibbets, on behalf of Sheriff Baker, who was the complainant in this matter, took the ground that there was no reason why this case should be treated differently from that of any other criminal proceeding; that the Sheriff felt that he was entitled to the protection of the court, despite any agreement between the parties, whether these parties happened to be mere laboring men or wealthy corporations. The Magistrate agreed with this view, and Mr. Croome, Crown Attorney, asked for a remand for eight days to enable him to obtain instructions from the Attorney-General of the Province of Ontario. This was granted by the Magistrate.

In an interview with Sheriff Baker, he said that he wanted it understood that he was not pressing for a conviction of Haas, but that the Paper Controller having directed a charge to be laid by him, that his action in the matter should be properly vindicated by the court.

FINLANDERS QUIT WORK IN ONTARIO CAMPS

Demand Nine Hour Day, Morning Lunch and Afternoon Tea

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 29.—O. B. U. Finlanders are terrorizing the neighborhood by strikes in lumber camps. At one camp, near Ignace, they struck after drawing up a manifesto signed by the "Camp Committee," asking, among other things, for afternoon tea and a morning lunch, demanding further a nine-hour day, and knocking off work at five. The Finns, armed with revolvers, compelled practically all to leave camp, and came to Port Arthur, demanding their pay, which was refused, and the matter will be threshed out in the courts. Another camp near Shabaqua closed down in practically the same way. All the insurgents are Finlanders. Both camps affected are controlled by J. A. Stewart of Port Arthur. Other camps, where trouble is said to have been brewing, are one at Horne Payne, operated by the Thunder Bay Lumber Company of Port Arthur, and one of Austin and Nicholson's camps near White River.

STEAMER HELD IN HALIFAX PORT

Await Decision Authorities As To Whether There Is Influenza on Board

Halifax, Jan. 29.—Because of a dispute between the military and civil port authorities at Halifax as to whether there is influenza on board the steamer Minnekhada, which arrived here Tuesday, 3,000 coolies from France are awaiting aboard ship until the matter is settled.

Dr. N. E. MacKay, chief port health officer, insists that there is no influenza on board, merely a few colds in the head. This view is corroborated by the ship's doctor, but military authorities think otherwise.

INCREASED COST FLOUR AND SUGAR IS BEING FELT

FREIGHT RATE ADVANCE

Predicted By Wholesale Firm In Advice To Retail Trade

In a letter received recently from a Winnipeg wholesale firm by a Brandon retail merchant, a stiff increase in freight rates, probably twenty-five per cent, is predicted. The reason given for the advance is the inability of the C.N.R. and Grand Trunk to meet operating expenses and the advance in rates must be made to cover their needs. A similar advance will undoubtedly go into effect on the C. P. R. also. This will mean a considerable increase in the cost of merchandise.

An advance in the price of foodstuffs made with flour or sugar is evident at the present time. Biscuits of all kinds have gone up and fancy biscuits are from two to four cents more per package. The fact that arrowroot and graham biscuits are largely used for children's food and are also given to invalids, would make an increase in the cost of these biscuits seem serious. Macaroni has increased in price two cents a pound and an advance in other foods is expected.

Chocolates will advance in the near future about four cents a pound according to a local confectioner. At present nut bars are selling for two for fifteen cents, four for twenty-five, instead of five cents each as formerly. Compared with the increased cost of more essential commodities the rise in candy prices is not so serious, but to the kiddies with a penny and the young women who have the chocolate habit, it is a serious problem.

FUTURE CAUSES ANXIETY TO ALL FINANCIERS

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Sir Edmund Osler, President of the Dominion Bank of Canada, at the annual meeting of the bank here, referred to the numerous warnings given that economy must be practiced in this country, "but so far, these warnings have not had the slightest effect," Sir Edmund said. Extravagance is the order of the day, and, in my opinion, will continue to be the order of the day until conditions change and hard times come on us"

Sir Edmund stated that while the past year had been a prosperous one for the banks, the future must cause anxiety to all financial businesses. The exchange conditions were serious, he said.

Sir Edmund concluded by saying: "No money can be expected from Great Britain for investment in this country until the exchange conditions change."

BRANDON WILL MISS R. J. CAMPBELL: LEAVING FOR COAST

Identified With Community Since Very Early Days—Disposes of Business Interests

Brandon is losing one of its best known, most alert and popular business men. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Campbell are leaving the city at an early date for the Pacific Coast, where they will reside. Mr. Campbell has for many years been one of the most energetic and active Brandon men, alert to the best interests of the city in business, sport, and citizenship. The sale of his business interests in the firm of Campbell and Campbell and contemplated removal, is greeted on all sides with profound regret. The success which has attended Mr. Campbell may well be an inspiration to Brandon youths. Through unflagging industry, close attention to business and honesty and integrity essential to success.

R. J. CAMPBELL

he and his partner have built up a splendid business, the disposal of his interest in which enables him to indulge his fancy for travel or engage in business as fancy dictates.

R. J. Campbell was a small boy when in 1882 he came to Brandon with his parents from Cannington, Ontario. He attended the public schools and Collegiate here, and his first experience in business was gained in his home town. After leaving the Collegiate he entered the employ of Anderon, Cameron & Cumming, who conducted a general store. Following this he was two years with Fraser Bros., in their general store, and was then apprenticed to Wilson & Smyth in the upholstering department. R. J. continued with them and their successors, Wilson & Rankin, for six years, when the firm of Campbell & Campbell, of which he was a member was formed. The new firm opened for business in furniture and undertaking on September 10th, 1895, and through steady growth and rigid adherence to business principles, has steadily grown until now it is one of the largest business ventures of this nature in the Province. Business has been continued at the old stand, additions and improvements having been made as warranted. Mr. R. J. Campbell disposed of his interests to his partner, Mr. A. E. Campbell on Saturday, January 23rd.

One of the institutions in this community which will miss R. J. Campbell sorely is the Y.M.C.A. For the last eighteen years he has been a member of the Board of Directors. He has served as President and Chairman of Finance and in other capacities. Ever since the "Y." first opened its doors in this community he has been a staunch supporter. Both Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will be missed in St. Paul's Church circles. Mr. Campbell has for ten years been on the managing board and Mrs. Campbell was for several years a member of the choir and directly associated with the social activities of the congregation. In Red Cross circles during the war particularly, Mrs. Campbell was very active. In Patriotic Fund work, the Sailors' Relief, and all patriotic work, R. J. Campbell gave willing aid. In the Returned Soldiers' Association he was always willing to loan his car or do what he could for the returned men.

No review of the history of sport in Brandon, no matter how brief, would be complete without mention of Mr. Campbell. In bowling, curling, tennis, golf, etc., he is always a stiff opponent, taking part in many historic contests. The New Years' Day dog races owe their continuity to Mr. Campbell's unfailing interest and activities.

It was in 1899, one the eighth of August, that R. J. Campbell and Miss Elmina L. Lynch of Oakland, Cal., were married in California, coming to Brandon after a honeymoon tour. For several years they have occupied their beautiful home at 356 Eleventh street, which they are now planning to leave for an extended tour of Pacific Coast cities, in one of which they will eventually locate.

M'KENNA SAYS LOWER PRICES TO BE SLOW IN COMING

Increased Production Will Bring Prices Down — Spending Power Increased

REDUCE EXPENDITURE

To a Figure Less Than Tax Revenues—To Make London Gold Centre

London, Jan. 30.—Lower prices will be slow in coming, said Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer. Any attempt suddenly to bring about a decrease in the cost of living would mean disaster, he said. The spending power of the public has been increased. With increased currency, prices of commodities have soared but increased production will bring prices down. "I would urge a reduction of the country's expenditures to a figure less than the tax revenues, by which means alone the issuance of currency can be restricted and London re-established in her old position as financial centre and free gold market of the world."

QUEBEC WOMEN CANNOT VOTE

Because In Provincial Voters' Lists They Have No Place

Montreal, Feb. 2.—A bill for enfranchisement of the women of Quebec with regard to the Provincial vote will come before the Legislative Assembly early this week.

The bill which has been introduced into the lower house at Quebec by the member for Lachine has exposed a curious state of affairs. By Federal law the women of Quebec, with proper qualifications, are entitled to a vote in Dominion elections. But the Federal voting lists are based on the Provincial lists, and for Quebec women there is no such thing.

Therefore if a Federal election comes into effect this year the women of Quebec, although entitled to a vote, will be debarred because of the non-existence of a proper list.

The citizenship committee of the Montreal Women's Club, under the convenership of Mrs. John Scott and Mrs. W. G. MacNaugton, is the active unit which has brought the matter into the limelight of publicity.

Mrs. John Scott stated that married women in the city of Quebec, who were separate as to property had the municipal vote in that city since 1884.

SALARY PAID TO TEACHER SELDOM IS A LIVING WAGE

County Superintendents In Missouri Gather Data On Salary Question

Kansas City Star: A questionnaire sent to county superintendents in Missouri by George Melcher, President of the State Teachers' Association, has brought replies which show that rural school teachers receive a "living wage" in only three counties. In other counties salaries run below the average shop girl's income.

Mr. Melcher sought information on salaries and expenses of rural teachers, and some data on wages paid men and women employed on farms. The latter, in many cases, receive higher pay and are given their board, room and washing in addition.

Wage Figures $4.62 a Week

Rural teachers in fifteen counties, according to Mr. Melcher, receive $8 a week for the school term, and when that is extended to cover the twelve months the teacher, in the final analysis, receives about $4.62 a week.

The three highest paid rural teachers in the state are in Pemiscot, Buchanan and St. Louis counties. Their salaries are $1,125, $1,000 and $1,100. They are the only counties in the state which pay rural teachers more than $900 a year, Mr. Melcher said.

His report shows:

In four counties, the highest paid rural teacher receives $900; in two counties, $850; in fifteen counties, $800; in three counties, $750; in eleven counties, $700; in eleven counties, $650; in twenty-four counties, $600; in five counties, $500; in four counties, $450, and in one county, Bollinger, the highest salary paid a rural teacher is $375. The highest paid teachers in more than half of the rural schools of Missouri receive $680 or less a year.

Pay $25 a Month in One County

Teachers in St. Charles County receive as low as $25 a month; two counties, Hickory and Iron, report salaries as low as $30 a month; fifteen counties report salaries as low as $35 a month, among them are Benton, Bollinger, Boone, Dent, Douglas, Howell, Linn, Montgomery, Newton, Oregon, Ralls, St. Clair, St. Louis, Texas and Wayne. One county, Ozark, reports salaries as low as $39.50 per month.

In the majority of the counties many of the teachers receive $40 a month or less. Many of these terms are only six and seven months. Forty dollars a month for six months is $240 a year or $4.62 a week. Missouri has a very large number of teachers for the pitiable sum of $4.62 a week, or less than $5 a week for the entire year.

Former Ambassador At Washington—Wilson Planned For Commercial Power

Rome. Feb. 2.—Publication of the activities of the late Count V. Macchi di Cellere, former Italian ambassador at Washington, has been begun by the Giornale d'Italia, which in Saturday's issue takes up relations between the late ambassador and President Wilson. Count Cellere is quoted as making the following statement:

"President Wilson from the beginning of the conflict felt it would give him opportunity to transform the United States from an industrial to a commercial power and to shape European markets with a view to securing control of them. He thought to attain this conquest by imposing peace on the belligerents, but Germany, with her obstinate provocations, dragged him into the war with a hope that she might become arbiter when peace finally came."

HENDERSON SAYS IRISH DEMAND INDEPENDENCE

This Spirit Not Confined to Dublin But Is Almost Universal

London, Jan. 30.—(Canadian Press)—Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, speaking on return from Ireland, where he and his colleagues made a en day tour of inspection and inquiry, says the people there frankly declare for an independent republic. This spirit, he says, is not confined to the Dublin resentment of the Prime Ministers scheme, it is almost universal, those proposals being regarded with little short of contempt.

Close of Tour

London, Jan 30.—The close of the parliamentary Labor party's tour of Ireland was signalized at Belfast Wednesday by William Adamson, leader of the delegates, repudiating any connection with the Nationalists. Adamson, on behalf of the delegates, subsequently issued a statement that whatever solution of the Irish problem might be proposed by the delegates, would receive the assent of the party as a whole not merely that of it's parliamentary members.

PERUVIAN PAINTER ARRESTED FOR THE MURDER OF WIFE

Watchman Overhears Conversation and Alleged Murderer Is Arrested

Rome, Feb. 2. — Louis Ignatius Mesones, Peruvian painter, is under arrest here, charged with having murdered his wife.

Mesones eloped in 1917 with a daughter of Attilio Simonetti, owner of one of Rome's best known art galleries, and commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy. In January, 1918, Mesones' wife disappeared. He said she had gone to Peru, and declared the vessel had been lost at sea. The story was accepted.

Recently a watchman overheard two men say Mesones' wife had been murdered, and her body "palmed off as that of a certain Maria Rotellini," who was found dead on the Tiber embankment, having apparently committed suicide with a revolver. The watchman went to the morgue and obtained a photograph of the suicide. It proved to be Mesones' wife.

When arrested Mesones said he did not remember the name of the ship on which his wife sailed, but insisted upon his innocence. Authorities have found that no passport was issued to her so she could not have sailed.

CANADA'S PLACE IN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Topic of Address By Dr. Howard P. Whidden, M.P., In Collegiate Auditorium

CANADA AN INTERPRETER

Of British Empire To United States—Common Language and Aims

A very interesting address on "Canada's Place in the League of Nations" was given Monday night in the Collegiate auditorium by Dr. Howard P. Whidden, M.P., President of Brandon College. This was the second of a series of lectures given by the Brandon College Faculty under the joint auspices of the Education Society and the Board of Trade. There were about sixty people present.

The third lecture in the series will be given Monday March 1st when Chester W. New, B.D., Ph.D., Professor of History at Brandon College, will give an address on "Canada's Place in the Empire and World Politics."

A digest of Dr. Whidden's address follows:

Dr. Whidden's Address

The relation of the English-speaking peoples is of vital importance today. It is a question which has often been seriously discussed during the last twenty-five years.

There is no more vital question for us in Canada, and in the British Empire at the present time. No league of nations will stand the strain that is sure to be put upon it unless we have a right relationship among those who speak the Anglo-Saxon tongue.

Bismarch, several years before his death, on being asked to name the greatest political fact of modern times replied: "The inherited and permanent fact that North America speaks English."

In spite of unfortunate delays due to political animosities and ambitions, we do well to give full recognition to the actual, although undefined relation of the United States to the other English-speaking nations. The Hon. Newton D. Baker in Ottawa, less than two years ago, following his return from overseas, went so far as to refer good-naturedly to Canadians and Americans as "We Colonials."

In 1895 Woodrow Wilson said: "The Common British stock did first make the country and has always set the pace."

Influencial Factors

Community of race, language, literature, laws, institutions and traditions growing out of much common history cannot fail to produce unity of English-speaking peoples.

These and many other important factors are at work here, but the one language feature is greater than all others. An outstanding student of the scientific aspects of this question has recently said: "An individual is a mental slave to the tongue he speaks."

Senator Lodge, more than twenty years ago, found that of 14,243 leading Americans, 12,519 had British names.

The names of the present members of the Cabinet, Supreme Court and the Senate are prevailingly British.

In 1915 of the 387 higher officials in the State Governments, 326 have British names. Of the 32 Generals at that time, 29 had British names. Of

COMMITTEE OF WOMEN TO PLAN FIGHT AGAINST FLU

Organization Effected At a Meeting In the City Hall, Monday Night

The meeting called by the City Health Officer, Dr. E. S. Bolton, to devise ways and means for combatting the flu epidemic if it should come to this city, was largely attended in the City Hall Monday night. Members of many local organizations were of many local organizations were appointed chairman of the meeting. He stated that it was advisable that the city should be prepared in case of necessity against the spread of the flu, and suggested that committees be formed to aid in any way that should be found desirable. He urged the securing of V.A.D. nurses and the training of others, and that a survey of the city should be made with regard to hospital accommodation.

Dr. Bolton stated that he had received communications from both the Dominion and Provincial Health Boards, who had advised him to call the public together for the purpose of organization, so that we may be prepared in view of the situation in the East and in many cities in the U.S. where the influenza seems to be sweeping through those centres in much the same way as it did last year. He pointed out that there was no need for undue alarm or to become panicky, but that there was a need to meet and discuss the situation so that a policy to be pursued may be outlined, and be prepared in case Brandon is visited by the epidemic. In this way the situation could be handled effectively and in a business-like manner. The most urgent matters are to provide and train V.A.D. nurses and any others who may be willing to receive instruction, and to provide hospital accommodation. He, therefore, advised that committees be formed, forthwith, so that these matters could be arranged effectively and any other situation, which developed, dealt with.

A number of ladies present stated that they were attending the meeting in a private capacity and not as representatives of their organizations. It was the general feeling of the meeting that the various organizations of the city should be properly represented. Eventually a committee was elected as follows: Mrs. S. E. Clement, representing the Local Council of Women; Miss Beaubier, representing the Red Cross; Mrs. Cumberland, representing the Brandon Chapter I.O.D.E.; Nurse Pike, of the Provincial Staff and a teacher from the Teachers' Association (to be elected), with Mrs. S. E. Clement as Convenor.

A meeting of the various organizations of the city will shortly be called together by the Convenor, Mrs. S. E. Clement.

Dr. Bolton will form a committee to make preliminary survey as to hospital accommodation.

NEW LIVESTOCK CONTRACT SUBJECT OF REAL ARGUMENT

Contending Parties Appear Before Railway Commission To Present Views

ACCEPT SOME CLAUSES

Railways and Representatives of Shippers Agree on Some Points

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Discussion on the proposed new livestock contract, and expressions of opinion on certain classes of it by counsel representing the packing interests, Western shippers and livestock exchanges, by a representative of the Dominion Council of Agriculture and others, consumed a large portion of the time of the railway commission's special hearing this morning. On several of the clauses of the proposed new agreement, it appeared there was no great divergence between the views of the railways and the livestock men. On others their attitude was different.

George F. Henderson, K.C., of Ottawa, who is representing the Packers Section of Manufacturers' Association, the Western Canada Livestock Shippers' Association and the Winnipeg Livestock Exchange, opened the discussion by going through the proposed new contract pointing out sections which were acceptable to his clients and the railways. The clauses dealing with the loading of cattle, care of cattle in transit, provision for indemnity to men in charge of cattle, etc., were causes, by agreement, which may have ultimately to be left to the board.

Mr. R. B. Bennett, appearing for the Calgary Livestock Exchange, and the Calgary Protective Association, wanted a clause compelling the railways to exercise "reasonable dispatch" in shipping cattle inserted in the contract.

The case for the Canadian Council of Agriculture was briefly stated by F. J. Collyer, their representative. He suggested certain modifications of the proposed contract and emphasized the need for better accommodation of men travelling in charge of livestock and for a provision of return transportation for these men.

STATE OPENING OF PARLIAMENT OF GREAT BRITAIN

For First Time Since 1914 Traditional Pageantry Gladdens Hearts of Londoners

THE KING'S SPEECH

Counsels Patience in Passage of Far-reaching Reforms—Betterments Forecasted

London, Feb. 10.— London today witnessed for the first time since 1914 the ancient ceremony of a state opening of parliament with all the traditional pageantry.

King George, Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales, who accompanied the royal couple for the first time at such functions, proceeded to Westminster in state carriages. The royal party was received by members of both houses in the lords, where the king read a speech.

Serious consideration is given economic conditions in the speech, but the king counselled patience in the passage of far-reaching reforms, necessary to meet abnormal conditions. Better educational facilities, settlement of the Irish question, adjustment of coal mining disputes and regulation of the liquor traffic are asked for by the king. He said that bills will be introduced dealing with insurance against unemployment, regulation of working hours, minimum wages and anti-dumping.

BONUSES FOR TEACHERS IN BRANDON SCHOOLS

All the Members of the Teaching Staffs of Brandon Public Schools and Collegiate To Benefit—Bonuses of $200 and $250—City Pays Outstanding Bills

Bonuses of $250 and $200 were made to all teachers in Brandon by the School Board, Monday night when they met in regular session. This means that there will be no increases granted to the teachers this term, the bonus being designed to cover the increase cost of living until the new schedule of salaries as being drawn up by the Manitoba Commission, is completed. A resolution was put through that the schedule for Brandon is to be prepared for next year as soon as the finding of the commission is reported. The teachers of Brandon are said to have asked for increases totalling $18,000, and the sum now being given out by the School Board via the bonus system totals approximately $15,000.

There was no comment by the members of the Board when a resolution moved by R. Magee and seconded by G A. Fitton, that "A bonus be paid to all teachers who have been on the teaching staff since September 1st, as follows:

1. To those teachers receiving the initial salary of $750, a bonus of $250.
2. That those teachers joining the staff since September 1st, receive a bonus in due proportion.
3. To all other teachers a bonus of $200

One-half of the bonus to be paid at Easter, the balance at the end of the school term."

The action of the School Board is intended to cover the salaries of all teachers for this term and the new schedule, when prepared, will not be retroactive but will go in force from the commencement of the next term. The bonus system was arrived at after the Board had given the matter careful consideration in committee, and is an answer to the teachers' demand for a higher schedule of salaries.

To Prepare New Schedule

Another resolution dealing with the teachers' salaries was moved by J. S. Maxwell and seconded by G. A. Fitton, that "a new schedule be prepared for next year as soon as the finding of the commission appointed to deal with the teachers' salaries is completed." This was passed by the School Board

City Pays Accounts

One of the features of the meeting was the announcement that the city had made a clean sweep of all outstanding accounts with the School Board and when the Board had transferred their account from the Dominion Bank to the Imperial Bank had given the School Board a cheque for $74,379.56. This included payment of a note which the city had given for uncollected school taxes of 1918 and interest on same amounting to $24,282.49 and payment in full of the $10,400 deducted from the School Board's estimate in 1917 and for which there has been a dispute between the two bodies since that time. Not only did the city clean up these accounts, but they also paid the balance of the 1919 levy amounting to $39,697.07.

1920 Building Program

The Board's building program for 1920 will be rushed along as soon as it is possible to do so, it was decided Monday night. The plans as submitted by Mr. Mellor for the rebuilding of the old Langham Hotel into a Manual Training and Domestic Science school were approved of and adopted, and the work is to be proceeded with at once. The plans for the extension to the King George School are now in the hands of the Board and they will meet next Tuesday night at a special meeting to consider the plans for the work which will be commenced shortly. From the discussion which took place during the later part of the meeting, it is evident that the School Board is intending building a new school in the Northern part of the city on the Flats, it being understood that an option has already been secured on a large piece of property.

Enrolment at Schools

The enrolment for the Public Schools has taken another jump according to the report of Superintendent White, which was presented Monday night The figures now show 2,464 pupils enrolled, or 65 more than last month and 252 more than last January. Of these 65 new pupils, 43 were beginners. The attendance at the schools was very good, the average being about 90 per cent. Mr. A. Black, the new Physical Instructor for the schools, has commenced his duties and drew up a schedule which was put into operation on Monday. A grant of $750 for library supplies asked for by Mr. White [illegible] School Board.

McMASTER LOOKS FOR LIBERALISM TO COME TO AID OF CANADA

Hamilton, Feb. 10.—A. R. McMaster, member for Brome, addressing the Women's Liberal Club last night said he looked for Liberalism to come to Canada's aid in the near future. He claimed that one of the drawbacks to Canada's advancement was racial and religious prejudice. He favored proportional representation, which, he said was satisfactory in Ireland, therefore must be good. In referring to the tariff, he said that Canada last year raised one hundred and fifty millions against the United States, one hundred and eighty millions.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. LONGWORTH

Not in Good Health For Some Time, Taken Seriously Ill Monday Night

It was with deep regret that many Brandon people learned of the death which occurred Tuesday, of Mrs. Annie Longworth, beloved wife of Mr. J. H. Longworth, 222 Thirteenth St., and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Beer, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. Although the late Mrs. Longworth had not been in good health for some time she was not confined to her home and seemed in her usual good spirits on Monday. Late Monday night she became ill and in spite of all that human skill could accomplish passed away at the family residence shortly after one o'clock Tuesday morning.

During twenty-eight years residence in Brandon the late Mrs. Longworth in an unselfish, unassuming way did much to help others. She was an earnest worker in St. Matthew's Church, Vice-President of the Women's Auxiliary and a member of the Parish

GIVES ESTIMATED EXPENDITURES FOR COLLEGE

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—Estimated expenditures for maintenance of the Manitoba Agricultural College during the present fiscal year are $304,595, in addition to a capital account outlay of $20,800, while revenues will total $168,600. Hon. Valentine Winkler, Minister of Agriculture, has announced.

Discussing the institution, Mr. Winkler said the last five years had seen the college subjected to the severe test of maintaining its staff and justifying its existence in the face of a depleted number of students owing to enlistments. In 1915-1916 he said, there were 360 students in the regular Winter course, in 1917-1918, only 200, and in 1919-1920, 200. This year there are 400 students taking the regular course, and including the soldier classes, the total student body is 600 in [illegible] registered for short courses.

A factor in the administration, Mr. Winkler said, had been the increased cost of labor, supplies and service of all kinds. The cost of supplies, he said, had increased fully 50 per cent. and labor from 40 to 50 per cent. It had been found necessary also to increase salaries and to offer higher salaries to professors.

"Few people in the city are aware," the minister said, "that the college is much more than a school for training agriculturallyinclin ed young men. As a matter of fact the institution is a bureau of information for the entire farming community of the province. Farmers and prospective farmers write in or attend personally to ask questions on every phase of agricultural endeavor.

"As a result of all these demands," he continued, "we have had to establish an experimental station; four expert experimentalists were appointed in 1915 and the success of their endeavors has fully justified the venture.

"The cost of the college is charged by many critics as per capita of the students in the general course. Such a computation cannot fail to be erroneous, in view of the activities of the college. On studying the subject I find that the cost of administration is in the following proportions: three for extension, four for research and five for tuition, which would mean that a student at the college is subsidized by the government to the extent of $200 a year, an amount which is surely justifiable in view of the importance of scientific agriculture."

MASSACRE OF 17 EAST OF COLON

Panama, Feb. 10. — San Blas Indians, in a sudden attack on Panama police and the residents of a rubber-gathering settlement at Porvenir, about 80 miles to the East of Colon, killed 17 persons and wounded many others. No whites were involved in the fight. The Panama Government is fitting out an expedition to sail from Colon to restore order.

Reports from Porvenir say the raid was in retaliation for the arrest of the San Blas chief, Quilo, last November on the charge of burying his grandson alive. Other advices declare hostility of the Indians to the establishement of a station at Povenir under Panaman rule, resentment against attempts to force the Indians to cease wearing nose-rings, and the closing of a school conducted by an African woman missionary figured in causing the attack.

BRANDON MUST BESTIR ITSELF TO GET HIGHWAY

Advice of "Ace" Emmett Given At Kiwanis Luncheon, on Monday

LOCATION OF LINE

North and South Not Yet Decided On—Brandon Can Secure It

That Brandon motorists should devote all their efforts to getting the Government to run one of the trunk roads North and South through this city, was the warning sounded by A. C. Emmett, President of the Manitoba Motor League when speaking at the Kiwanis Club luncheon on Monday. Mr. Emmett said he could not urge too greatly the importance of taking up the fight now for the motor highway to run through Brandon, and that while the Government had already decided the location of three out of the four trunk lines running North and South in Manitoba they had not decided that the fourth should run through this city.

The Government is quite willing to run the road through Brandon if local motorists show that they want this road which will form a direct trail from Minnedosa to Boissevain Mr. Emmett pointed out that action was necessary and that the time to take the matter up with the Government was now. He said that the four main trunk lines running East and West had already been mapped out, and that the Red Route would run through this city. It might be necessary later on to change this name to the Yellow Route, but that the road would run from the Eastern part of Manitoba through to the Saskatchewan boundary. The Government has promised to look after the grading in the sand hills and make this one of the best stretches of road in the Province.

Fought New Form of Taxation

The President of the Manitoba Motor League also told how the League had fought the Government on the proposed taxation for motor cars. The Manitoba Government planned a taxation which would be according to the horse power of the machine, this form of taxation now being in use in all the eastern provinces. The honorary members of the League belonging to the legal profession offered their services free to the Motor League with the result that the League won it's battle and the new taxation did not go into force. Manitoba is the only Province in the Dominion that has a straight tax of $10 per machine.

That the Sunshine Highway will come to Brandon and thus link up a direct trail through Devil's Lake, North Dakota, was an announcement also made by Mr. Emmett. The officers of the Sunshine Highway wrote to the City Council some time ago stating that they wished to connect up with Brandon if the project was given the proper support and this has apparently been forthcoming.

New Guide Book

A new guide giving all the necessary information to motorists for touring Manitoba has now been prepared by the Manitoba Motor League and is one of the best motorists guides on the continent. It has twenty-six full sized maps giving every possible route in this province.

The Manitoba Motor League is commencing a campaign for members and in a few hours at Belmont last week, Mr. Emmett stated that he had secured sixty. A drive is to be put on here and the Vice-President of the League, G. Nearing, is out after subscriptions from prospective members with a view to building up a strong membership of the League here in this city. Mr. Emmett pointed out that only a very strong membership could hope to gain the many improvements that motorists are seeking in Manitoba today, especially on good roads.

Twenty-seven of the crew were taken off by a fishing boat Monday, when a shifting of the sand underneath the vessel "broke its back." Seventeen members of the engine room force refused to go ashore with the rest, announcing their intention to stand by the ship to the last.

FINANCIAL CONFERENCE IN LONDON

Fact That Labor Leaders Were Called in Excites Comment

London, Feb. 5.—Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, discussed with leading bankers, political leaders and others the situation that has arisen from the adverse rate of exchange. The greatest secrecy was maintained in connection with the proceedings, a report of which is being prepared for presentation to the Cabinet.

Great crowds witnessed the arrival of the conferees, who include Lord Robert Cecil, Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer; Robert Kindersley, Chairman of the War Savings Commission; J. H. Thomas, the Labor leader; Walter Leaf, Chairman of the London County and Westminster and Parr's Bank; Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction; G. H. Stewart Bunning, Secretary of the Postmen's Federation; Sir Richard Vassar-Smith, President and Chairman of the Council of the Institute of Bankers; and Sir Donald Macklean, M.P.

European Revenue Problem

An official report shows that Mr. Chamberlain convened the conference for the purpose of discussing the recent memorial of bankers and others to the premier in favor of calling an international financial conference.

The memoralists explained that the memorial had not been prepared with special reference to the exchange situation, but was the outcome of a series of conferences he'd at Amsterdam a month ago with a view to finding remedies for the economic collapse in many parts of Europe. In further explanation of their views, they urged the imperative need of European countries bringing their expenditure within the compass of their revenue as the first condition of obtaining assistance through public or private channels, and pointed out that once this was accomplished private credits would immediately become available

A general exchange of views followed, and it was unanimously recognized that there was no panacea for the existing financial and economic disorder, and recovery was certain to be slow and would only be achieved by hard work, increased production, and private and public retrenchment.

The fact that this is the first occasion the Labor leaders have been called into consultation with the government on questions of high finance has attracted considerable comment. It is supposed that the ministers are seeking their aid in the project of stimulating the workers to increased production, the belief being that the United States is clamoring for British goods, especially textiles, which, if they can be produced in sufficient quantity, would provide a surplus after satisfying home demands, and this surplus could be exported to offset the adverse trade balance.

WILSON TO HANG FOR WIFE MURDER

Former Member R. N. W. M. P. To Die on Gallows On April 23rd

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 5.—John Wilson was found guilty of murdering his wife, Mary Wilson by a jury in King's Court bench here late Wednesday. Chief Justice Haultain immediately sentenced him to die upon the gallows at Prince Albert jail on April 23rd.

The jury deliberated one hour and thirty minutes. On receiving the verdict, Justice Haultain askel Wilson if he had anything to say. To this Wilson replied: "Yes, Sir, I wish to protest against the low-down, dirty methods of the police in taking advantage of my condition of mind and body to obtain certain information from me."

Wilson's counsel offered no defence

In view of Wilson offering no defence testimony, Crown Prosecutor MacKenzie addressed the jury first.

In summing up, His Lordship said Wilson's dealings with Jessie Patterson mark him a "scoundrel," but "you are not trying him for being a scoundrel. The question for you to decide is whether his wife dies as a result of an accident, or was she murdered, and if Wilson committed the crime."

He said Wilson's own statements to the police, and his actions relative to obtaining a marriage certificate and of marrying Jessie Patterson must be considered for what they were worth.

QUARTER SECTION EAST OF CITY SELLS FOR $9,600 CASH

Considerable Speculation As To Who Is Behind Present Purchaser

A quarter section of land lying two miles East of the city was sold this week to H. B. Yewdell of Winnipeg for $9,600 cash, the price per acre being $60. The former owner of the property was Mr. Robert Cassan who bought the farm from Dr. J. F. Fisher about seven years ago. There is a good deal of speculation as to who really is behind the purchaser of the property.

About two years ago the C. P. R. spent over $400 in testing the property for gravel, sinking pits in different parts of the quarter section. That the C. N. R. may be acquiring some new land to make room for some intended improvements is also another conjecture, as A. E. Warren, General Superintendent of this railroad stated on a recent visit to this city that there would probably be some extension work carried out here. In view of the fact that both the Grand Trunk spur and the C. N. R. could be connected up by passage over the property just purchased, it is possible that a branch line may link up the two roads.

CIVIC EMPLOYES PRESENT SCHEDULE, WORKING CONDITIONS

Big Increases in Salaries Proposed —Larger Even Than A.B.C. Proposals

The Civic Employes have presented another schedule of wages to the City Council for adoption. The report of the employes was first laid before the meeting of the Council in committees last Monday and it is expected that a special meeting of the Council will be called at an early date to go into the schedule. Big increases in almost every department feature the new schedule, while working conditions are also suggested which will change the present conditions considerably.

The Fire Department perhaps meets with the most liberal consideration in the schedule proposed by the Employes. The increases far exceed even the famous schedule brought in by the Council of Seven which sat last Spring. Under the new schedule presented on Monday night, firemen will receive a maximum salary of $138 per month while under the schedule brought in last Spring they were to receive $125. A lieutenant is now recommended to receive a maximum of $155.25. He is now getting $135. The captain's increased salary, if adopted, will be $172 per month, an increase of $22.00 over his present salary and the same amount higher than the Council of Seven recommendation.

The Street Railway Department is dealt with in a strange way by the Civic Employes union. A car cleaner, helper and track cleaner gets less than a transient laborer on the streets under the new schedule up for consideration. The employes ask for 45 cents per hour for a car cleaner and in another part of the report ask 47½ cents per hour for a transient laborer. Motormen will receive an increase of four cents per hour.

Increases are also proposed in the Pumping Station, Health Department and Board of Works, but no provision is made for the Police Department.

Propose New Working Conditions

The working conditions under which the men will work show a change in many departments. Board of Works and water and sewer men will work 50 hours a week, which will be made up of nine hours per day for five days per week and five hours on Saturday. Nine hours per day is also proposed for the maximum amount of labor for the Pumping Station employes, with all extra time counted as overtime. It is also asked that all special holidays proclaimed by the Mayor be paid for, in fact all civic holidays and Citizen's Day at the Fair are included in this class.

Accompanying the schedule was a letter from the Civic Employes to the effect that the report had been made after a lengthy and fair consideration. They also suggest that if the report does not meet with the approval of the Council in every way that the City Fathers appoint a committee to meet with a committee from the Union to go into the schedule at an early date. The Union Committee presenting the report was as follows: Street Railway, J. Watkins; Fire Department, J. Selby; Water and Sewer, A. Reed Board of Works;, P. Baker; Health Department, W. Gould.

DECISION GOES TO FARMER AFTER LONG LAW FIGHT

Five Year Suit Over Water Rights On Alberta Ranch Concluded

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 6.—That the water rights to all springs on all lands deeded by the Crown previous to the year 1908 belong to the owners of the land and are carried in the title, is the apparent result of a recently concluded five-year fight over the rights to springs on a farm in the Cowley district, in which the farmer was successful and was permitted to later sell his water rights for $5,000 to the village of Cowley.

The farmer fought his case against the syndicate which was attempting to secure the rights to his springs for a water system, and against the Irrigation Branch of the Dominion Government, which contended that the Irrigation Act provided the right to water granted by application. The Act, however, previous to the year 1908 omitted specific mention of "springs," and in the year 1908 Parliament amended the act by inserting that word.

This decision would affect all lands sold to the Canadian Pacific Railway, homestead lands and such like.

TO OPPOSE ANY CHANGE IN HOURS OF FARM LABOR

Ayrshire Breeders Association Also Against Adoption of Daylight Savings By Farmers

Toronto, Feb. 6—The Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' association yesterday struck a scale of fee for registration of pedigrees considerably higher than the scale last year. The association passed a resolution opposing any attempt of legislatures or labor unions to interfere with the hours of farm labor, or impose on the farmers daylight saving.

SELF-CONFESSED BIGAMIST TO SERVE JAIL TERM

John Hall, Returned Soldier, Married In England After Wife Ran Off

WIFE NUMBER TWO

Returned To Brandon With Him —Hall's Conscience Compelled Confession

John Hall was sentenced to six months hard labor in the Provincial jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy in the Police Court this morning. That he got off with such a light sentence is entirely due to the circumstances surrounding the case. His Worship Magistrate Fraser made this clear in passing sentence.

Hall is a Brandon man and married Louisa A. Williams several years ago, but while Hall was overseas his wife ran away with another Brandon man and has never returned to him. Hall enlisted with the 181st Battalion and served overseas and while in Ashford, Kent, in March, 1918, he married Edith Jessie Stace, although he knew his first wife to be still living. He brought his English bride home with him, but the matter troubled him somewhat and he went to the police and confessed. He was arrested and on pleading guilty to the charge of bigamy, His Worship said that possibly the accused did not realize the full nature of the offence he was committing and in view of the circumstances sentenced Hall to spend the next six months in the common jail.

More Domestic Trouble

More domestic trouble was aired in the Police Court this morning when Annie Martanug had her husband Nick up for assault. Annie is seventeen years of age and married Nick just a little while ago, although Nick is a widower aged 36, and with four children. Annie found the housekeeping duties pretty hard with four children to look after and things went from bad to worse, until finally the matter came up in the police court this morning. Magistrate Fraser advised them to get together and arrange for a separation if they could not live together. It is understood that Annie was quite willing to go her own way and have Nick keep the children and this may possibly be arranged. At any rate the couple are to come to some agreement this afternoon.

FORMAL OPENING OF PARLIAMENT IN NEW BUILDINGS

Arrangements For Ceremonies On February 26th Have Been Completed

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press)—The ceremony of the formal opening of parliament in the new buildings will take place on Feb. 26 in the Commons Chamber. This has been decided upon by the cabinet and arrangement of the details has been carried out. The Commons chamber will be ready for occupation by that time, it is stated, but the Senate chamber will not be ready this year. Therefore, the Senate will first meet in the Commons chamber, while the Commons will meet in the Railway Committee room, which is later to be used by the Senate while the upper chamber is waiting for the completion of its permanent quarters.

On receiving the summons from the gentleman usher of the black rod, the members of the House of Commons will go from the Railway Committee room to the Commons chamber, where the Senators will be in waiting, and there are forman opening ceremony will take place, and the speech from the throne will be delivered. Afterwards, the Senators will vacate the chamber and the members of the lower house take their places. Following the formal opening, their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Duchess of Devonshire will hold a reception between the hours of 4.30 and 5 o'clock.

Although only certain parts of the building will be completed in time for the formal opening, it was thought by the cabinet that there should be some formality attached to the opening of the first session in the new buildings, and it was therefore arranged as outlined.

Most of the members' and senators' rooms are already completed and some of the officials of the house are already having their effects moved into the new quarters.

Sir George Foster, Acting-Premier, stated last night, that there was no doubt that the building would be sufficiently completed to allow of the opening taking place as planned without further delay. In the meantime, all efforts are being turned to completing the essential portions of the building, and while parliament will meet almost amid the din of saws and hammers, the business of parliament will be carried on while the rest of the building is being finished up.

CONSTABLE TELLS OF WILD TALK BY R. E. BRAY

Bray Accused Premier Norris of Poor Judgment in Wearing Union Jack

GOVERNMENT AFRAID

To Put Anybody In Pen Because of Row That Would Be Raised

Winnipeg, Feb. 6—That the accused Aldermen Queen and Heaps were active in support of the strike, and that R. E. Bray, another of the alleged conspirators, represented himself to be a member of the Strike Committee, was the evidence given by Constable W. McLaughlin of the R.N.W.M.P. today. his witness described the occasion of one of the returned soldiers' parades to the Government Building.

Premier Norris wore the Union Jack on this occasion, said the witness, and Bray accused him of temerity and poor judgment in coming out in front of the crowd with "that flag on his coat." At a meeting in Victoria Park, Ald. Queen stated that the time had arrived for the Socialists to take over all industries, mines and industrial works at large. Force, the witness continued, both economic and political would have to be used to the limit and if properly applied would soon bring the country to the feet of the Socialists.

On another occasion, the witness in conversation with the accused and Geo. Armstrong, said he was addressed by him in part as follows: "What in hell do I care about the stipulation of the Government as to what I can or cannot do. The Government has not got guts enough to put anybody in the pen and if they do there will be so much trouble that the country will be unable to handle it."

APPROPRIATION FOR HOUSING ALL USED THIS YEAR

Nine Provinces Are Deriving Benefit From the Dominion Legislation

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Housing Acts adopted from the Federal project have either been passed or are being acted upon by nine provinces. According to reports, British Columbia has made the best progress, fifty houses have been completed with ninety under way.

It is expected that the entire twenty five million appropriation will be used this year throughout the country.

QUEBEC LIBERAL LEADER IS STRONG FOR HIS PARTY

Quebec, Feb. 6.—"I have served the Liberal party for 16 years, and when the time comes, in the opinion of the party, that it is in the general interest that I should make room for somebody else, I am willing to do so. I am at the service of the party and desire to do everything I can for it," declared Sir Lomer Gouin at the Liberal caucus yesterday. The caucus considered the franchise for women, but no measure is expected at this session.

PREMIER DRURY TO HAVE OPPONENT IN WAR VETERAN

Edward J. Stevenson, To Run as Independent Soldier—Member of U. F. O.

Milton, Ont., Feb. 6.— Edward J. Stevenson, ex-Secretary of the Scarborough branch of the Great War Veterans, announces his candidature against Premier Drury. He will run as an Independent soldier. He is a member of the United Farmers but is opposed to the leadership of Drury and Raney.

EXCHANGE KILLS GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Winnipeg, Feb. 6.— On the grain market the serious discount in the rate of exchange has had the effect of practically killing all export business to Europe, and until some improvement is shown in this exchange rate there is little prospect that any export business will be consummated.

For the past month or six weeks there has been no export of coarse grains to Great Britain from either Canada of the United States, except a little that was needed to fill ocean tonnage which already had been arranged for, and this business has proved very unprofitable to the seller who is forced to take all the chances.

Up to two weeks ago a fair export business was being done from Canada to Belgium and France in both oats and barley, but from that time this has been stopped. Both Belgian and French buyers, up to two weeks ago, have been able to make satisfactory financial arrangements through New York, but now these buyers cable that they are unable to continue these arrangements under the present rate of exchange, and this export business has therefore ceased.

In Europe there is a splendid demand for Western Canada oats and barley, and it is expected that business will be resumed when the exchange rate is adjusted somewhat.

GERMANS MAY BE TRIED BY DEFAULT

London, Feb. 6.—Lord Birkenhead Lord High Chancellor, and Sir Gordon Hewart, the Attorney-General, left London for Paris Thursday afternoon. Their departure followed a cabinet council at which the German attitude on the extradition issue was discussed, and into which the Lord High Chancellor and the Attorney-General were called for consultation.

Paris, Feb. 6.—What amounted to virtually a new note was sent to Berlin by the Allies to be presented to the German Government with the list of persons accused of war crimes, besides the original covering letter drawn up to accompany the list.

The suggestion has been made in official circles here that if the Germans resist surrender of the accused, the latter may be tried by default. It is pointed out that while most of them would never undergo the penalties imposed by the court, it would be impossible for them to leave Germany except for neutral countries.

SASKATCHEWAN ASSEMBLY WANT PREBISCITE TAKEN ON PROVINCE-WIDE SCOTT ACT

Ottawa, Feb. 6. — The legislative assembly of the province of Saskatchewan is requesting the Federal Government that a vote for that province on the Provincial-wide Scott act be taken. Other Western provinces may follow Saskatchewan's example, though the Dominion Alliance at Toronto appears to consider the act unworkable. Should the vote be taken before a new Dominion franchise act is passed, it will be under the War Time Election act.

If the vote is postponed until a new act is passed, and a new list prepared there may not be any Scott act plebiscites this year, unless it might so happen that a new franchise act be passed and that the Scott act in several provinces should be voted on the same day as the Dominion general elections. This, in the West in particular, would make prohibition, as well as the tariff, an issue, and would becloud economic questions.

BOARD OF COMMERCE DISCUSSES NEWSPRINT SITUATION IN PRIVATE

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The Board of Commerce will meet privately this afternoon to discuss the newsprint situation. It is believed that an adjustment will be made.

KERR TRACES HISTORY DARK CORNISH FOWL FROM TIME IMPORTATION FROM INDIA

A splendid meeting of the Brandon Poultry Association was held Tuesday night in the Council Chamber of the City Hall and was very well attended. Mr. C. S. Palmer was chairman and an interesting address on Dark Cornish birds was given by Mr. N. W. Kerr who traced the history of the birds from the time they were brought from India until the present.

Important resolutions were passed at this meeting asking the support of the Dominion Government for the Provincial Poultry Association and also that the Egg Laying Contest at the Experimental Farm be improved and more space provided for further work along these lines.

Arrangements for the coming poultry show, March 1st-5th, were discussed and it was announced that entries are being received daily and prospects are that the show will be better than ever before.

The membership campaign is well under way and it is expected will be finished the end of this week.

NEXT CENSUS WILL SHOW INCREASE

Canadian Population Will Probably Be Over Nine Million

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Confidence is expressed in official circles here that the next census will show a population for Canada of considerably over nine million people.

Figures recently published and passed on departmental estimates, gave the population of the Dominion as 8,835,102. While these estimates in the past have proven approximately correct, it is pointed out that they covered a period which ended March 31, 1919, nearly a year ago. Since that time there has been a great influx of people to Canada.

The major portion of Canada's overseas forces, around the four hundred thousand mark, have returned to Canada since that date, and immigration which languished during the war years, has revived to a considerable extent from Great Britain. There has also been a considerable movement from the United States. With the return of such a large portion of the male population from overseas the natural increase should be much in excess of the period from 1914 to 1919.

With all these factors considered, it would not be surprising if even the estimate of nine millions should be greatly exceeded.

"QUAINT IDEAS"

Some one says it would be a pity if the movement against the Reds should result in shutting them up altogether. The reason given for this statement is that the Reds have some "quaint ideas that it would be a pity to lose, they are so entertaining."

One of these ideas is their advocacy of an inverted autocracy. They seem to think that tyranny by a large class is preferable to tyranny by a small class. They ignore wholly the decided preference of the great majority for not being tyrannized over by anybody or any class.

When the Reds hold forth on the virtues of rule by the "proletariat"—"dictatorship of the proletariat" is their quaint phrase—it is interesting to imagine the operation of a railroad on this plan. And the immediate reaction of a normal human being to that picture is a firm determination that if ever a railroad is so operated, to stay at home until the catastrophies which would certainly occur, brought people to their senses.

Travelling on a train operated according to the sweet will and good pleasure of the railway men, might be a picturesque way to commit suicide; and turning over a country to Red rule—to the dictatorship of a proletariat—would as certainly be a picturesque way of committing national suicide with plenty of red fire, stupendous shock and magnificent collapse.

DISCONTENT AMONG FARMERS

Discontent is very real among farmers, and is reflected in Canada by fairly well matured plans for political action, not only in the Federal arena but in the provinces as well. In the United States there is similar discontent though there is not yet a well organized farmers' party. This is partly due to the fact that owing to participation in the war for only a short period there has not developed as pronounced a discontent with old political parties, as there is in Canada. Experience in Canada gained during and since the Union Government campaign, proved to partizans that the fellows in the other camp, were not, as originally suspected, a lot of rascals. The crumbling of party walls which speedily followed furnished an opportunity of which the farmers were quick to lay hold. The situation in the United States, as seen by the Chicago Daily News is very similar to the situation in Canada one year ago. The News outlines it as follows:

In the questionnaire of the Post-office Department and the 40,000 replies thereto was illustrated again the discontent of the American farmer. No legislator or citizen of intelligence can be unaware of the substantial grounds for that feeling. Conditions, not social theories, face the farmer. His grievances are serious and real and the wage workers of the cities, the middleman and even the profiteers cannot afford to disregard them.

It is foolish to talk of an organized strike of the farmers, or of wholesale desertion of the farms. But a reduction of the acreage under cultivation is almost certain, unless means are found to guarantee agriculture, the basic industry, a fair return.

The farmer pays high prices for labor and for every commodity he is compelled to buy. Often he is unable to hire labor at any wage, owing to the lure of the city, and the keen competition of manufacturers for any kind of "help." On the other hand, the prices of farm products are declining and are certain to continue to decline as Europe resumes work and harvests normal crops.

All these developments tend to curtail production on the farm and to increase the impatience of the farmer with extravagant demands by wage workers, with wasteful strikes, with high taxation, with inefficient transportation, and with bureaucratic inertia and incapacity. In Kansas the farmers' impatience has resulted in the adoption of a rigid law for the compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes. Other interesting developments may well be expected.

The case of the farmer should receive the earnest attention of statesmen and men of organizing ability. A settlement of the railroad question will help the farmer. Indirectly a proper revision of the revenue law will help him. Good roads will benefit him. So would elimination of superfluous middlemen by co-operative markets and stores, but progress in that direction is slow. Certainly the parcel post should be used more extensively to establish more direct contact between producer and consumer. Immigration should be wisely directed to increase the supply of efficient farm labor.

There are no easy sovereign remedies to offer the farmer, and he knows it. But he has a right to complain if he feels that his interests are not receiving the consideration they deserve, or that he is sacrificed to noisier and more belligerent groups.

LIBELOUS CLASSICS

Some Scotsmen in New York have demanded that "Macbeth" be put out of school cirriculums on the ground that it is a libel on the Scotch.

That raises a pretty large issue, and not for the first time. It is true that Macbeth's murders are not creditable; but who, reading "Macbeth" or seeing it played, would draw from the crimes of this Scottish monarch conclusions adverse to the Scottish people?

The Jews have complained of "The Merchant of Venice" because of the character of Shylock, and with far more justice; though surely nobody whose opinion is of any value whatever thinks of Shylock as a typical Jew.

But if we start this sort of thing, where will we end?

The Danes might ban "Hamlet," for surely there are terrible goings-on in the Danish court in that play.

The Dutch, if they were numerous enough and powerful enough, might deprive us of Irving's Knickerbocker History of New York, for the exquisite humor of that fanciful history draws no pretty picture of the Dutch.

On the same theory the English surely would have to banish the whole historical section of Shakespeare's plays, which parade the misdoings of royal reprobates like Richard III.

The stage Irishman is a caricature, and the Irish hotly resent his portrayal, which seems happily to have gone out of fashion. But he is no more a caricature than the old-fashioned stage Briton and stage Yankee, and the newer stage Jew.

Nor is this process, once started, likely to stop with nationalities and racial sentiments. The whole profession of nurses surely has a case against "Martin Chuzzlewhit" because of its picture of Sairey Gamp, the tippling and prevaricating nurse.

And if anybody has a case against any character on the stage or in fiction, surely the reporter has one against the stage reporter, who is usually an impossible dub cutting impossible capers and, above all, using a notebook, which no self-respecting reporter does.

If we ever start abolishing the classics because they offend national racial or professional sensibilities, there would be no end to the process, but there would be an end to the classics.

BRING EXPERTS HERE

Announcment that the seventh annual Canadian Good Roads Convention will be held in Winnipeg, June first to third next, is good news for Manitobans. Winnipeg is the next best place to Brandon for the holding of such a convention. Good Roads projects in Western Canada should receive a decided impetus from the holding of such a convention in the West, and goodness knows, the West needs good roads.

During the convention, experts will gather from all corners of the continent. Seeing that they will be so close to Brandon, there is no reason why some of the best of them should not be induced to come to this city and tell our people at first hand of the undoubted benefits which accrue to a country enterprising and aggressive enough to build every road a good road. Under the auspices of the Automobile Club, the Canadian Club, or the Board of Trade, a gathering of representative men from the Brandon district should be assembled here to obtain suggestions and advice. A visit to Brandon would also assure for some of these experts a fine view of some sections of this glorious country. They would thus be amply repaid for the expenditure of time necessary for such a visit.

If a visit of this nature is to be arranged for, it should be taken up without delay. No use to wait till after the convention program has been arranged and the whole time of the experts mapped out.

A MODERN DIAMOND DISK

The record for the importation of diamonds and other precious stones, was broken by the United States last year. Importations of these luxuries totalled in value more than a hundred million dollars. That was one way in which the people of the United States invested war time savings and showed their relief and reaction from the stress and strain of war. The record for importations was previously reached in 1916 when the records amounted to fifty millions, only half as much as last year.

It can be safely stated that every one of the buyers of this vast store of precious stones, useless save for personal adornment, has steadily held forth with eloquent vehemence on the high cost of living.

IS THERE NEED FOR PREPARATION?

Brandon has no special claims on Providence which would justify the assumption that the wave of influenza which is sweeping this continent will not make itself felt here. From East, West, and South come reports of the ravages of the disease which one year ago exacted such a severe toll from humanity and left indelible marks of human suffering and anguish. Reports from centres where influenza reaches or approaches the nature of an epidemic, agree that the disease is apparently of a much milder form than last year, a claim which is apparently substantiated by the number of deaths, though the low death rate is partially due to a better understanding of the risks incurred by failure to take precautions.

If the influenza comes to Brandon, then what? In what position is this city to cope with an epidemic? Have plans been prepared which can be put into execution if an emergency arises? If this has not been done, is now the time to do it? The epidemic during 1918-19 cost this city and district many lives. It also cost several thousands of dollars. Valuable lessons were learned, it was claimed. If this be the case, we should prepare in the light of experience, to avoid past mistakes.

During the past year a course in nursing was taken up by twenty Brandon ladies who signified their willingness to step into the breach should the necessity arise. The course was arranged from through the Red Cross Society and the Brandon District Graduate Nurses' Association, and the wisdom of their action now becomes apparent.

Another opportunity for training in home nursing now presents itself. The St. John Ambulance Association is willing to give courses of instruction in home nursing provided classes are arranged. The Association is willing to do even more than that. Provided there is an expression of a desire for classes the Association will, if invited, send some one in to assist.

It is understood that the Brandon District Graduate Nurses' Association at a recent meeting dicussed the situation and that the nurses are prepared to help, always provided there arises a necessity.

Thus it becomes apparent that the situation is being watched and it is altogether likely that steps will soon be taken to secure co-ordinate effort. Whether this should be done at once or put off indefinitely is a point worthy of careful consideration.

BONUSES FOR TEACHERS

Brandon teachers in the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute are to receive substantial bonuses for their services this year. At the meeting of the School Board held Monday night, it was decided to grant bonuses which in the case of teachers in receipt of salaries amounting to only $750 for the year's work, will amount to $250, while for those in receipt of larger amounts the bonus will be $200. The procedure at the meeting at which the bonuses were granted was purely formal. A motion was introduced, the details concerning which are printed elsewhere, the substance of which was that the bonuses be granted. This was approved, after a minor alteration was made providing for proportionate payments for teachers employed for less than one year.

Undoubtedly the members of the particular committees dealing with the matter, and probably all the members of the School Board are acquainted with the situation which led up to the granting of the bonuses, but the ratepayers, the general public, they know nothing. The great majority of the people do not know whether the School Board was taken by the throat and forced to disgorge, or whether the bonuses are made simply out of the goodness of heart of the members of the Board who have come to a realization that the salaries are inadequate. Possibly, neither of these describe the process which resulted in the granting of bonuses which it is said will cost the ratepayers $15,000 rather than the $18,000 which it is rumored the teachers asked for.

Though there will be general agreement with the granting of bonuses, because the teachers' salaries are undoubtedly too low, the School Board will be criticized by heavily burdened taxpayers, by men who if they had the facts, might be in hearty agreement. The Board has made a tactical blunder in adhering to its usual practice of transacting public business in private, or at least in such a manner as to have all the effect of secrecy.

No one who is personally acquainted with the members of the School Board will attribute to them motives other than the very best. They are, personally and jointly, desirous of rendering the best possible service to this city, and because of this it is regrettable that they should employ methods which are perfectly proper when applied to private business but should long ago have been discarded by all public bodies.

A statement, even at this late date, of the steps leading up to the decision, would be welcome. But it would undoubtedly resemble a locking of the stable after the horse has disappeared.

SOCIALISTS PLAN INTERNMENT FOR FORMER KAISER

Dutch Member Suggests Home in Holland Far Removed From Hun Border

The Hague, Feb 9.—Socialist members of the Dutch parliament are agitating a movement to intern the former kaiser and restrict his liberty. This step is urged, although the party generally approves the Government's refusal to surrender Count Hohenzollern.

Speaking in the First Chamber Saturday, Deputy Van Kol suggested the former Emperor be given a dwelling in Holland distant from the German frontier, where he would not be dangerous to this country.

He declared Count Hohenzollern was a great criminal and said he was responsible even for massacres of Armenians.

COMMERCE BOARD ISSUES ORDERS TO PRICE BROTHERS

Price Limit $80 a Ton For News-Print—Must Also Supply Canadian Firms

Ottawa, Feb. 9—(Canadian Press)—Under order number two of the Board of Commerce of Canada it becomes illegal under the Combines and Fair Price act for the firm of Price Brothers and Company to sell newsprint paper from its mills in Quebec for shipment to any destination at a higher price than $80 per ton, the price fixed for the sale of newsprint in Canada. At the same time Price Brothers must ship, commencing not later than February 10th, 1920, newsprint at the rate of one carload per week to each of the following consumers: The Montreal Star Publishing Company, The Herald Publishing Company, and Poirrer, Bassett and company, all of Montreal.

Complaint has been made by Canadian consumers of newsprint that Price Brothers, has been disposing of practically its entire output of newsprint in the United States where higher prices can be obtained than those prevailing in Canada.

PIONEERS STAND FOR CANADIANISM

Lodge Vigorous Protest Against New Form of Birth Registration

Toronto, Feb 9.—A protest against the new regulation which does not permit the person registering births to use the word "Canadian" in the nationality column, was made by the York Pioneers at their annual meeting, and after this new order was branded as an "insult to the Canadian race," a resolution was passed, to be forwarded to the Dominion Government, calling the attention of the officials to the pioneer's protest. The matter was brought up by Mrs. L. A. Kantel, President of the Daughters of Canada, who felt it was not much encouragement to the Canadian spirit of citizenship to prevent children born in Canada being registered as Canadians, after their parents had been naturalized and had shown every inclination to become Canadian citizens. Controller Ramsden had been speaking on Canadian topics, and at the close of his address, Mrs. Kantel asked him how he could reconcile himself to the new regulation. His reply was that he could not accept it, "that it was an absurdity and an insult to Canadians for the officials to refuse to recognize Canadian nationality." Mr. E. S. Caswell took the same stand, and followed it up by introducing a resolution which was seconded by Mrs. Kandel, and was passed by the gathering, to be forwarded to Ottawa. The resolution protested against the new procedure, and requested that the registration papers should be so changed as to provide for a statement of Canadian nationality for the native born.

LONDON TO HOLD HOUSING INQUIRY

London, Ont., Feb. 9. — London's venture in building houses, with which to remedy the dwelling shortage has encountered difficulties which have prompted the Housing Commission to order an investigation into its own affairs. The Commission has deputed two of its own members, Messrs. Cunliffe and Hessell, to make the inquiry and to report.

The cost of even the smallest cottages now approaches the $3,000 mark and it has been found impossible to keep near the estimated prices. One citizen who arranged to make his 20-year payments on a house to cost $3,000, moved into the place as soon as it was completed, but before all of the accounts had been secured. It was then found that the house had cost $3,500. The client was unable to pay more than the instalments he had arranged for and asks as a compromise that he be allowed more than 20 years to pay for the building.

Bonus of $200 for Teachers

The Board of Education adopted the recommendations of the Finance and Technical School Committees, granting high cost of living bonuses of $200 each to all teachers, in addition to the regular annual advances of $100 for men and $50 for women. The teachers had raised strong objection to the proposal to give such increases as bonuses, and it is possible that they will still ask for "increases" of an equal amount.

INCREASE PRICE OF BREAD

Stratford, Feb. 9.—Bread went up to 13 cents here last week. About two weeks ago it jumped from 11 cents to 12 cents and now it threatens to go higher again. The local bakers point out that the increase in the price of Winter wheat, granted by the Canadian Wheat Board only affects cakes; but if the Spring wheat flour jumps in price bread will have to go higher again.

SPREAD OF DRUG HABIT BLAMED ON WAR PROHIBITION

Official Figures Show Increase—Members of Legislature Mention This In Addresses

Winnipeg, Feb. 9.—Is wartime prohibition in Canada responsible for a spread of the drug habit?

Many former ardent dry-law enthusiasts in the Manitoba Legislature believe that it has, or at least, that it has been an important contributory cause. Official figures, distributed by the Manitoba Narcotics Act administrator, Dr. B. J. McConnell, indicate that since 1915 imports of cocaine, morphine and crude opium have increased several hundred per cent.

During the debate on the throne speech several members of the legislature have referred to this serious condition and it is expected that as a result amendments will be made to the Manitoba Narcotics Act to more closely regulate the sale of such drugs in the province, even though the question of importation lies without provincial jurisdiction.

Here is a table showing growth of the drug import trade since 1915, the figures being officially supplied by the Narcotics act administration:

	Imported	Value
Cocaine—
1915	50 oz.	$ 144
1916	5,381 oz.	18,307
1917	7,051 oz.	29,129
1918	4,705 oz.	37,481
1919	12,333 oz.	142,123
Morphine—
1915	259 oz.	708
1916	15,495 oz.	72,199
1917	52,215 oz.	190,722
1918	27,520 oz.	198,188
1919	30,087 oz.	179,105
Crude Opium—
1915	7,248 lbs.	32,134
1916	1,741 lbs.	11,800
1917	15,423 lbs.	128,811
1918	12,471 lbs.	138,346
1919	30,087 lbs.	534,535

Treatment of hospital cases, greatly increased by war sufferers, may account for a small part of the greater imports, but not all, it is stated.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—For the purpose of training boys in practical seamanship, the Dominion Government has presented the steamer "Restless" to the Navy League of Canada. She has for many years been employed in fishery protection work in British Columbia. Recently she was used as a tender to the Royal Navy College of Canada. POLICE OFFICER TELLS HOW HE RECOVERED BODY

Crown Finishes Case Against Alleged Wife Murderer At Saskatoon

Saskatoon, Sask. Feb. 4.—Crown Counsel McKenzie closed the case of the prosecuton Tuesday night in the trial of John Wilson, former Mounted Policeman, charged with murder of his wife at Waldheim, seventeen months ago.

Assistant Superintendent Tracy, of the Provincial Police, said he arrested Wilson last November on a charge of attempted suicide. Later he got a call from Wilson to visit him in jail. "He said he had important news to tell me," added the officer. "On seeing Wilson," said the witness, "the prisoner told me he wanted to explain the disappearance of his wife."

According to Tracy, Wilson gave full details as to the location of Mary Wilson's body, and directed him to the culvert at Waldheim where he said he had placed it.

As a result of information he received, said Tracy, the Saskatoon division of his force recovered the body. He declared the head was badly smashed.

To objections raised by defense counsel against obtaining statements from men under arrest by means of "sweating," Chief Justice Haultain said he was strongly against such methods, although he thought the suggestion was not warranted in this instance.

Dr. C. J. A. Charlton, Provincial Analyst, said he had performed the autopsy on Mary Wilson, and found death due to gun wounds, giving his opinion that the gun was fired at close range. He produced a phial of lead pellets, which he had taken from the woman's head.

Crown counsel placed in exhibit letters purported to have been written by Wilson to Mary Wilson's family in Scotland, in which occurred the words: "Both of us have been under the weather. Send 100 pounds. The doctor's bill is awful," and then followed the signature "Mary."

This letter, the Crown sought to show by its date, was written after the burning of Wilson's car at Waldheim, when Mrs. Wilson was seen for the last time, so far as is known.

PARENTS DESERT YOUNG CHILDREN IN FARMHOUSE

Terrible Condition of Affairs Brought To Light By Relief Officer

St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 4. — A family of eight children, whose ages range from seventeen months to four years, deserted by the father and mother, were found in a farmhouse in Gainsborough township Tuesday, according to R. E. Boyle, agent for the Children's Aid Society. The children were scantily clothed. There was some food in the house. A thirteen-year-old girl was mothering the helpless family. The agent for the Children's Aid Society turned the youngsters over to neighbors to take care of them until their parents could be located.

It is said that the parents have been working in Toronto, and that the mother has made three trips home and the father one trip since they left the family.

According to Agent Boyle, a revolting state of things was found in the barn on the farm in question, which is twenty-five miles from this city. Young pigs were feeding on the flesh of cows and horses and pigs which had died of neglect.

FLU EPIDEMIC RAGES IN MANY CITIES IN THE U. S.

Declares City Electrician Boden: Home From St. Louis Convention

Mr. T. Boden, City Electrician and Superintendent of the Street Railway, returned Tuesday night from St. Louis where he attended the annual convention of the Western Electrical Inspectors Association. Mr. Boden reports having had a splendid trip and that the convention was most instructive. The leading electricians from all over the U. S. were present and gave interesting addresses, but only one other representative from Canada was present besides Mr. Boden, this being A. E. Strickland of the Hydro-Commission of Toronto. It is understood that the City Electrician will bring in a report of his trip at the next meeting of the City Council.

The flu situation in the States is very bad, Mr. Baden stated, all the schools in St. Louis being closed last Monday on account of the spread of this disease. Over 2,000 cases had been reported since January 19th, and last Saturday 58 deaths resulted. In every large city, he said, the conditions are very bad, and the reports do not give any idea of how widespread the epidemic is. Practically the same precautions are being adopted this year to combat the disease as was used in 1918 and 1919.

GOVERNMENT SPEAKERS REPLY TO CAPT. WILTON

Declare No Man Ever Asked To "Cringe Behind His Conscience"

PREMIER NORRIS

States Only a Small Percentage of First Class Land Remains Unsold

Winnipeg, Feb. 4.—Great increase in the sale of government lands during 1919 is announced in the report of Premier Norris as Provincial Lands Commissioner, laid on the table of the Legislature at its sitting Tuesday afternoon which states that only a small percentage of really first-class farming land remains to be sold. A large influx of settlers is reported, many of them from the Western provinces, and it is pointed out that owing to the institution of effective drainage systems wild land in parts of the province has practically doubled in value. In 1919, 16,151 acres were sold at $143,139. Only 50,592 acres of farm lands remain to be sold, and the prices are given at from $4 to $17 an acre.

The debate on the address was continued by R. N. Lowery, member for North Winnipeg, and J. H. McConnell, member for Hamiota, and they directed their attention to the criticisms made upon the government at the previous sitting by Captain J. W. Wilton, member for Assiniboia. He gave as one of his reasons for taking an independent stand his objection to the caucus system. The caucus as conducted during the Norris administration was defended by the members and it was declared that no member was ever asked to "cringe behind his conscience" as one of them put it and that members were not compelled to sacrifice the interests of their constituents and the province for the interests of the party.

Housing Act Unworkable

Mr. Lowery, answering Captain Wilton's statement that caucuses tended to restrict free voting, declared it had never precluded him from taking whatever stand he thought advisable on questions under discussion. He agreed with the member for Assiniboia that the Housing Act was unworkable. It had been the means of slightly relieving the situation in some of the municipalities surrounding Winnipeg, including that of Assiniboia, but within the last few weeks it had been decided it would not be practicable in Winnipeg.

The member for North Winnipeg maintained the Norris Government had set a new precedent in carrying into effect every reform mentioned in its platform during the election campaign. He recited a few of the more important reforms enacted, and then proceeded to instance enactments which had been of benefit to the province, but of which no mention had been made during the election campaign or in the platform. Among these laws he included that of Farm Loans, the Dower Law, the law relating to mental diseases, municipal hospitals, by virtue of which act hospitals would be established in districts hitherto far away from these institutions; the Bureau of Labor, which greatly improved the limited labor laws existing at the time the Norris Government took over the administration of the province; Elevator Protection Act, and the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Speech of Oppositionists

Mr. McConnell characterized the speech of Captain Wilton as not that of an independent member but of a member in opposition to the present government, said that as long as he had been in the house the caucus had never asked any man to cringe behind his conscience. A member, he declared, could exercise his independence as much on the government side as on the opposition side, and it was a mistake to say that the caucus compelled a man to use his influence for the party and not in behalf of the country and the people who had sent him to the house to represent them. Dealing with criticisms by the member for La Verendrye on the administration of the Temperance act, Mr. McConnell asserted it was the duty of every citizen as well as the government to see the law enforced; and it was the business of the member if he saw wrong doing to say so and not wait to create an explosion in the house and try and make the government look small.

GIVES COALITION'S RECOMMENDATION TO ASQUITH'S RIVAL

Bonar Law Endorses Unionist Candidature In Paisley Contest

London, Feb. 4—(Canadian Press)—Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader of the House of Commons, has written to the Unionist candidate in Paisley, where ex-Premier Asquith is running on the Liberal ticket, commending him "to every elector who believes it in the national interest that the present government should continue." Several newspapers describe this letter as a half coupon from the coalitionists.

Mr. Asquith devoted himself to the Irish question. He declared that the only effectual means of getting at the root of the Irish trouble was a generous system of Irish government. He was, he said, prepared to give the new Irish parliament control over customs and excise in order that the Irish might be in this respect on the same footing as the self-governing dominions. He would not refuse to consider dispassionately any scheme of settlement for Ireland which the government might bring forward, but it must be a permanent settlement. It was not to be supposed that an Irish parliament would make anything in the nature of a predatory system of fiscal injustice against Ulster.

To credit them with that was to credit them with the intelligence of savages. The principle of self-determination should be applied also to Scotland. It was common sense to free the Imperial Parliament from burdens which cannot adequately be discharged.

Auld, Saskatchewan; Percy E. Reed, Provincial Dairy Commissioner; F. C. Nunnick, agriculturist with the Commission of Conservation, Ottawa; J. G. Robertson, Provincial Live Stock Commissioner; C. P. Toronto, Feb. 4. — The Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association is meeting at the Prince George hotel here with a large attendance. The Association inaugurated a new system of grants to fair boards of the Dominion. It provides that grants made from the Dominion Association must be applied to Shorthorn classes and be used to increase prize lists.

Prof. J. E. Day, Secretary-Treasurer, said there was no reflection on local fair boards when it was said that association grants were not applied as intended. A grant of $200 was voted to the Guelph Agricultural College for a new building.

"BRITTANIA MUST RULE AIR AS SHE RULES THE WAVES

States Major-General Sir Frederick Hugh Sykes Addressing Royal Geographical Society

London, Feb. 4.—"Britannia must rule the air, as she rules the waves."

That was the slogan sounded by Major-Gen. Sir Frederick Hugh Sykes, Controller-General of Civil Aviation, before the meeting of the Royal Geographical Society here. High officials of the Government, including the Prince of Wales and Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary of State of War, attended the meeting.

Outlining the British air policy, Sykes predicted that the next war will open with a battle for supremacy of the air. Attack and defence will be governed by air strength, Sykes declared. Commercial airplanes, the Controller-General pointed out, may more easily be converted into bombers than merchant watercraft may be made into war vessels. Thus, he argued, commercial air supremacy is necessary to insure war supremacy.

Sykes emphasized the necessity for "all British" air routes, revealing that the British now have a secret, systematic plan for maping the world's air lines, especially routes from England to Egypt and Cape Town. Several planes will be started over this new route in the near future, he said.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, Gen. J. E. B. Seely, Assistant Minister for Air, and Air Marshal Sir Hugh Trenchard, heard the address.

FIRST LINGUISTIC TOOL EVERY CHILD NEEDS IS THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Toronto, Feb. 4.—"Canadian public schools were established to educate the child to be a self-supporting member of the community and the first linguistic tool that every child should be given a mastery of, is the English language," stated Ira Stratton, special school organizer for Manitoba. "The child's welfare calls for a familiarity with the English language. From the commercial and national standpoint this is the case. It is only through the English language that foreigners can pick up the British customs and ideals."

Mr. Stratton, who visited Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education, stated that bilingualism in Manitoba had been a failure, and has to be discarded. This was primarily owing to the fact that as there were several nationalities attending the same school in foreign settlements, under the old law they were in a position to demand teachers of several European languages. This created an extremely detrimental situation.

HUNGARIAN JUDGES SLOW, TWENTY-SEVEN EXECUTIONS SO FAR

Though Activities of Communists Caused Death of Thousands

Budapest, Feb. 4.—The trial of a large number of terrorists has begun. Count Apponyll, head of the Hungarian peace delegation when asked if there was any persecution of communists, replied: "I hav implicit confidence in the judges who are moving slowly that there have been only 27 executions for murder so far which is a small number, when it is remembered that the communists killed several thousand persons. Nobody is being arrested for opinions but for acts.

"Hungary is in a state of self-defence against the Red terror, just as is the United States which is deporting Bolshevists. With semi-Bolsheviki Government at Vienna and Prague also agents coming in from Russia, all preparing to subvent the peace of Europe, we are bound to be careful."

SOCIALISTS WANT CONTROL AMERICAN FEDERATION LABOR

Trying To Use That Body To Overthrow Governmental Institutions

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 4.—The Socialists are "boring from within" in the American Federation of Labor in an effort to seize control of that body and to employ it as a lever to overthrow by force and violence existing social, economic and governmental institutions in the United States, according to evidence introduced in the hearing of the five suspended Socialist assemblymen, by Peter W. Collins, of Boston, whom the judiciary committee accepted as an expert on labor and Socialist problems.

Among the statements made by the witness was that Socialism, Communism and Bolshevism are synonymous. He characterized trade unionism as "constructive" and Socialism as "destructive."

He further emphasized the difference between the two movements by asserting that organized labor has a legitimate function, whereas Socialists are pledged to abolition of all capitalism.

KAISER PLANNED TO FLEE TO U. S ABOARD A YACHT

And Become a Captain of Industry, But Secret Agents Report Cancelled Plans

Paris, Feb. 4.—How the ex-Kaiser planned the sensational gallery play of casting himself upon the mercy of the U.S. Government and people, whereafter he intended to take out U.S. citizen papers and backed by the German Crown Treasury, become a captain of industry, was the story received Thursday from a prominent Dutch source. William Hohenzollern, the informant said, worked out an intricate scheme whereby he expected to gain his liberty under the protection of the U.S. flag.

Immediately following the signature of the Versailles Treaty, he planned to flee from Holland secretly aboard a yacht, the purchase of which he had already negotiated through a friend in Norway. This coup was to have been staged early last July but William's secret emissaries in the United States, who felt out the scheme there early in 1919, reported unfavorably, and the scheme fell through.

The fact that his wife uses a little powder is no excuse for a man's coming home slot.

LONG HEARING DIXON SEDITIONS LIBEL SATURDAY

Winnipeg, Feb. 9.—Crown counsel, in the Dixon seditious libel case, called six witnesses to the stand during the morning and afternoon sessions Saturday, one witness being Corp. Zaneth, who figured prominently last week in the trial of the six strike leaders. It was thought that there would be no session in the afternoon, but in consideration of the great amount of evidence which the Crown has to introduce, Mr. Justice Galt ruled that the court should resume at two o'clock.

The evidence of Corpl. Zaneth, concerning labor conventions in the West and relative matters was then continued. Upon request of Hugh Phillipps, counsel for the Crown, Zaneth read from his notes a resolution offered at the B.C. Federation of Labor convention at Calgary, which was previously submitted by the witness at the other trial, and his subsequent report of the supporting speech which Pritchard is alleged to have made upon that occasion.

Copies of the Socialistic pamphlets, already admitted as evidence, were taken up by Mr. Phillips and extracts read therefrom to the jury, after having been testified to by Corp. Zaneth as part of the literature which he had sold and, later, distributed without charge under orders from his officer commanding, while vice-president of the Federated Labor Workers in Calgary.

Dixon objected to the reading of this literature which was proven to have been propogated at times when he was not present. Mr. Justice Galt replied that it was admissible on the same grounds that all matters pertinent to the alleged conspiracy towards the strike of 1919 were relevant, as the Crown was endeavoring to show that Dixon was a party to the general conspiracy.

Mr. Dixon—"But, my lord, I am not charged with conspiracy, but seditious libel, and I wish to make objection."

Mr. Justice Galt—"Quite so, Mr. Dixon, you are quite right."

Wage Workers All Considered Slaves

A small magazine said to be issued by the Socialist party, called "The Farm Slave," caused some little local interest among the jury, when Mr. Justice Galt asked the witness what was meant by the "farm slaves."

The witness replied that all those who worked for wages were considered slaves by the Socialist party

Mr. Dixon took over the witness at three o'clock, and questioned him regarding the magazine which had just been submitted by the Crown. Corp. Zaneth said that he did not know anything about it, as he had never thoroughly read it.

Arthur Riley, manager of the Canadian Bread Company, was then called to the stand by the Crown, and examined by A. Campbell in regard to the bread situation during the strike.

Testifying in a cross-examination by Mr. Dixon, Riley said that a mob had visited the factory of the Canada Bread Company, and, in compelling the men to leave work one or two had been struck in an effort of the mob to force them to obey. The greater part of his evidence had already been given on the other trial.

W. M. Gordon, superintendent of the Western division of the Dominion Express Company, was next called to the stand by the Crown, when Dixon again objected that the evidence was irrelevant. The objection was not sustained.

Gordon told of the crippling effect which the strike had upon the transporting facilities in connection with the express company in Winnipeg and the West.

Dixon then examined the witness concerning the manner in which the men were paid off on the first day of the strike. Mr. Gordon said that some of the men had come back several days later for their pay.

Upon concluding with Mr. Gordon, Crown counsel called Davis, General Manager of the Great North Western Telegraph Company, who testified to the activities of the Telegraphers' union, and the obstacles encountered in sending messages during the strike.

Delivery of Ice

Charles Osborne, managing director of the Arctic Ice Company, was introduced, and testified that two strikes had taken place among the men in the plant. During the first one, he said, the company was compelled to deliver ice under the card system established by the Strike Committee.

COMMERCE BOARD STATES ATTITUDE TO MANUFACTURERS

Canadian Textile Firms Want Extension of Time To Answer Questionaire

Ottawa, Feb. 9 — (The Canadian Press)—The attitude of the Board of Commerce in relation to its questionnaire which was ignored by a large number of Canadian textile manufacturers, was laid down in no uncertain terms Saturday at a public hearing when the companies, through their counsel, made application for a further six weeks in which to furnish the information requested. Commissioner James Murdock declared that all questions asked, with the possible exception of three or four, could have been answered in a single afternoon, and that their claim that the questions were involved and ambiguous, "might fool the public, but it didn't fool the board." The board reserved judgment in the application for extension of time in which to answer the questionnaire.

PARTICIPATION CERTIFICATES NOT CALLED FOR

Neglect Is On Part of Those Who Marketed Small Amount of Wheat

Inquiry at the elevator and milling companies in the city reveal the fact that there is still a large number of Participation Certificates in their hands awaiting the call of the owners. The certificates are practically all for small amounts though, the farmers possibly waiting until they have brought in all their grain before picking up the official certificates which they must have before sharing in the Government's plan. No orders have come through from the Wheat Board as to what will be done with the certificates when the marketing season is over, but in the meantime the companies here are keeping the papers piled up in their vaults hoping that there will be a rush one of these days which will take the certificates out of their hands.

Bad roads is responsible for very little marketing of grain these days, but the mills in the city are still running to capacity.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION A BIG ADVANCE

Proportional representation, as explained by R. J. Hooper, "will give you an express image of a nation." The advantages of the proposed system over the one now employed was made apparent to the small audience which assembled in the City Hall, Friday night. Owing to the non-arrival of the train on schedule time, the meeting was late in starting and it was nine o'clock before Mr. Hooper ascended the platform. Hasty arrangements for the illustrations proved ineffective so they were not shown.

Hon. Herbert Henry Asquith, some time ago foresaw that the present system with two great parties ranged on either side with growing groups in the middle, would prove inadequate. The present plan in England as in Canada of a single member constituency does not lend itself to ascertaining the will of the people. It is impossible that one man can represent the varying views of many people. He who is elected holds possibly a bare majority of votes and those opposed to him are thus deprived of representation in parliament. The minorities are as unrepresented as if their names had been struck off the voters' lists.

Because of the one member constituency and the gerrymandering this makes possible, it often happens that the party in power, the party that has a majority of seats, actually polls a minority of votes cast by the electors. Several instances of this were given. In the election in the city of Toronto in 1911, five members were elected, all Conservatives, and yet, of the fifty thousand ballots cast only thirty thousand of them were cast for Conservative candidates, twenty thousand going to Liberals. The result was that twenty thousand voters were not represented. Had the members been chosen according to the numerical strength of the ballot, Toronto would have been represented by three Conservatives and two Liberals.

The present single member constituency plan was condemned because it encourages gerrymandering, denies representation to minorities, and because of the selection of members by party caucus denies to the great majority of the people the right to vote for candidates of their own choosing.

Proportional representation introduces the use of the single transferable vote, substituting for the single member constituency a multi-member constituency. This is said to induce a better class of men to offer themselves for election as they do not have first to go through the hampering process of securing their selection by a party caucus. A voter marks his ballot for first, second and third choices and it is so counted. The count being somewhat complicated and possibly delaying announcement of the result for longer than the present method. The benefits which are derived under proportional representation are representation of all shades of opinion, securing of a better class of men as candidates, cleaner elections and the elimination of corruption.

FORMER KING WANTS OLD JOB

King Nicholas, of Montenegro, Plans Coup To Restore Kingship

Paris, Feb. 7.—King Nicholas, who has remained at the head of the royal Montenegrin Government, despite the fact that he was ousted by the National Assembly of that country, is understood to be in Albania, preparing for a coup, which may restore him to his throne.

The former king has not been able to reconcile himself to absorption of Montenegro by the new Jugo-Slav kingdom and reports from Scutari say the Albanian Montenegrins are sympathetic to his cause. Albanian territory is now occupied by Italian troops, who are said to favor King Nicholas, because he is father of Queen Helena.

CANADIAN TIMBER MIGHT BE USED TO PAY ALL TAXATION

Ottawa, Feb. 7. — That Canada could go far in paying all taxation by the output of her gigantic forests and the propor conservation of same was demonstrated by a discussion by the Dominion Land Surveyors at a session of the annual meeting, following a paper read by H. Claughton-Wallin, F.E., of the forestry branch. It was stated that in the Jura mountains, in France, where the commune owns the large pine forests, that the residents there live free of taxation by the output of timber and the sale of firewood. The same also applies to parts of Sweden, and it was pointed out that Canada's resources in this respect were equal, if not better than these countries.

After an interesting reference to the work of the reconnaissance officers, Mr. Claughton-Wallin stated that in Manitoba there has been examined already 46,272 square miles. Of the timber, approximately 25,000,000 cords, about 30 per cent. is poplar, 29 per cent. jackpine and 16 per cent. tamarac and birch.

In Saskatchewan, the total area examined is 27,504 square miles, of which 41 per cent. is timbered, 18 per cent. burn, 33 per cent. muskeg and 8 per cent. grass land, water, etc.

In Alberta, 63,000 square miles had been examined, of which 48 per cent. is timbered, 32 per cent. burn, 5 per cent. muskeg and 15 per cent. prairie. The timber amounts to 160,000,000 cords, of which 40 per cent. is poplar, 30 per cent. spruce and 5 per cent. tamarac, balsam, fir and birch.

NEW ZEALAND LOOKS TO BRITAIN FOR IMPORTATIONS

United States Money Markets Demand 40 Per Cent on New Zealand Money

BELGIANS BUSY

Indemnity Paid By Germans Big Help — No Labor Unrest

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 7.—Exchange conditions are causing New Zealand to support British manufacturers in preference to others, according to W. F. Hyslop and H. Jackson, of New Zealand who are in Winnipeg, en route to their homeland. English money is used in New Zealand, they pointed out, and gets its full value only in the British Isles. Mr. Jackson left home in May, 1919, to purchase automobiles for the New Zealand Government, and has visited factories in Italy, France and England, while Mr. Hyslop, an importer of automobiles has surveyed these fields and also Belgium and Germany. No automobiles are manufactured in Naw Zealand, they said, as it is sparcely settled and primarily a farming country, but cars are widely used. Most of these imported have been from the United States but the rate of exchange is now forty per cent. against New Zealand's money so the supply is being sought elsewhere.

Much of this trade would come to Canada, if the cars were available here, they said, but practically the only Canadian cars seen in New Zealand are Fords, which are very popular. Over 2,500 were imported last year, and are used extensively in the Government service, notably in the Postal Department.

Of all the countries visited, Belgium is getting back to normal most rapidly, they thought. The indemnity paid by the Germans was a great help and there was no labor unrest as the workmen seemed anxious to get back to work and help the manufacturers. The motor industry there was flourishing, said Mr. Hyslop. There had been litle trouble about soldiers re-establishment in New Zealand, they thought, and little unemployment for those who wanted work, however, there was the same tendency there as in Canada for people to congregate in the cities, and one of the problems was to induce them to work in the country.

CONTRACTS FOR AMERICAN ATTRACTIONS ARE BEING CANCELLED IN TORONTO

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Because of high exchange rates, local theatres are faced with the necessity of cancelling their contracts for attractions from the United States, as American producers object to accepting Canadian money at a heavy discount. One local theatre is considering the engagement of a stock company for the balance of the season.

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—Vaudeville managers here report they are experiencing the same difficulty. In most cases the problem has been solved by the local managements paying the actors in American money, which threw the burden of the exchange onto the theatres. Slightly increased prices of admission have been announced by some theatres because of this and other "cost of living" increases.

These scholarships are to be granted on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

RAILWAY RATE INCREASE SAID TO BE INEVITABLE

Government Lines Said To Have Been Operated At Loss of $30,000,000

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—Faced with a loss of approximately thirty millions during the present fiscal year, it is regarded here as inevitable that the rates on government lines will have to be increased if the roads are to pay. This feature is now being discussed. The rate increase granted some time ago is claimed not to be meeting the ever-increasing cost of materials and operation.

Before the United States government hands back the lines it is anticipated that a large increase, probably reaching thirty or forty per cent., will have to be made, forcing similar action on Canadian lines, it is claimed. Unofficial figures show that the estimated loss on Canadian national lines will be in the neighborhood of nineteen million with an additional nine millions on the Grand Trunk Pacific. The Canadian Northern loss alone is estimated roughly at ten millions.

"If I were Chancellor of the Exchequer I would write off anything beyond this as a bad and doubtful asset."

Asquith also advocated that it would be better to forego loans to Great Britain's allies than to cripple them.

BUSINESS COLLEGE WINS FAST GAME FROM RIVERS TEAM

The Wheat City Business College won a hard fought hockey game in the Caledonian Rink, Monday night, when they defeated the fast Rivers team by the score of 7-3. Strengthened by Mallory and Metson the Wheat City boys uncorked unexpected strength especially when it came to scoring, and the Rivers sextette had to go home with the short end of the score. The play was very evenly divided and the visitors had the same amount of play in the first and third periods as the locals, the second period proving their undoing.

During the first period the two teams put up a fast brand of hockey and the Wheat City College men had their work cut out for them to nose out a 3-2 lead. Some clever work around the nets in taking rebounds resulted in the locals scoring three more in the second session, while the best Rivers could do was to reply with a lone counter. The game slowed down somewhat in the last session the Wheat City boys being content to play a defensive game, while the visitors tried in vain to solve the stonewall defense of the Collegians. The final score showed the count to be 7-3.

For the winners Mallory, Metson and Stewart were the main factors in giving the local team the verdict, although a great deal of credit is due to the defense in holding the Rivers men outside the goal area. Richards and Olson were the pick of the visitors, Richards scoring two goals for his team.

ITALIAN SOCIALIST DEMANDS REVISION OF VERSAILLES TREATY

Rome, Feb. 10—Italy must not join the Anglo-French alliance until "the Versailles Treaty is revised and all odious, unjust and harassing clauses abolished," said Deputy Fiammingo, ministerialist, in the Champer of Deputies Monday. He discussed the exchange situation and said the depreciation of the Italian lire, the French franc and the English pound was due to the fact that none of the Allies possessed credits in America.

Signor Grazidei, Socialist, asserted the war had been "advantageous to England, who inherited the German colonies."

He said Fiume must be internationalized, like the Suez Canal, the Straits of Gibraltar, and all other great pathways of world commerce."

Deputy Salvinini defended the policy pursued by former governments relative to the Dalmation Coast, and said that as soon as the Treaty of London had been perused at Belgrade it would be understood by Jugo-Slavia that Italy could not reduce her claims.

FARNEL'S TRIAL THURSDAY

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—The trial of John Farnel, charged with seditious utterances starts Thursday. Farnell is alleged to have made remarks just prior to the Main street riots.

CANADA'S PLACE

the 27 Admirals had British names. This predominance is most significant. A common speech inevitably produces like-mindedness.

Prof. W. A. Dunning, one of the foremost American thinkers, has recently said: "An intimate like-mindedness is the indispensable factor in permanent international amity."

How illuminating are the words penned by Wordsworth more than a century ago:

"We must be free or die who speak the tongue that Shakespeare spoke; the faith and morals hold which Milton held."

Many Common Aims

Prof. Giddings, the eminent economist, in an article written on "International Conciliation," April, 1917, pertinently said: "The English-speaking people of the world are together the largest body of human beings among whom nearly a complete intellectual and moral understanding is already achieved. They have reached high attainments in science and the arts, in education, in social order, in justice. They are highly organized; they cherish the traditions of their common history. To permit anything to endanger the moral solidarity of this neucleus of a perfected internationalism would be a crime unspeakable."

H. H. Powers, an outstanding American publicist, writing in "The Things Men Fight For" after the strained conditions which existed between the United States and Britain for a brief time in 1916, said: "Which will win I do not know. Which is best I will not say, but one thing I do know and will say, yea, I will proclaim it from the housetops,—the British civilization is ours. In it we live and move and have our being. Outside it we have no future. Let no man deceive us. Let us listen to no spacious sophistries about our composite people and our distinctive civilization. We speak one language, we cherish one literature, we recognize one political principle of temperate central rule and local freedom, and these are the language and literature and the ideals of Britain. Our civilization, like our language, is the gift of a single people, and the difference between here and there is hardly greater in civilization than in speech. And this civilization will survive or perish as a unit. If it triumphs in its present struggle, we share in its triumph. If it fails, we shall as certainly see these instincts, and these institutions discredited and ultimately discarded."

Canada's Special Place Among the English-Speaking Peoples

She is the natural and necessary interpreter of the other members of the group to each other.

Canada has come to a new appreciation of Britain. She has had interpreted afresh to her the "British mind." These four and a half years through which we have passed have done much to this end. There is a new loyalty now and a new attachment to the ancient love of "truth, pity, freedom and hardihood."

"A mighty brotherhood linked by a jealous interchange of good."

There is also a new recognition in the Old Land of the true Canadian spirit.

Canada understands more fully and is understood better by the United States than any others of the great seven. Never again shall it be said by anyone writing in the Old Country:

"Happily the British spirit is at war with the American spirit for the possession of Canada's soul."

Britain possesses our soul, but it is even truer that we possess our own soul. More than in any past time does the United States value the soul of Canada.

Need to Conserve Ideals

We need to conserve the new ideals won for us by our military heroes and accepted by us as a priceless gift from them. We need permanent attitude toward the right. The great victories our men have won will go for nothing if we are not conquerors of and for the spirit.

We Canadians are just learning to say "Our." Our idea of the individual of the community of the Nation and of the world must be more fully socialised. This will naturally modify our political philosophy and in large measure our conception of the function of government.

For Canada, right means more than ever before. It means even more than our "rights." The Canadian sergeant who said: "We stick it out because we know we are right" pronounced a lofty ideal from which we at home must never recede.

There shoul be a true and lasting re-action from the war. All this affects our place among the seven English-speaking commonwealths. Here, too, Canada may be the great interpreter and in many respects the outstanding leader.

Mr. P. A. Kennedy acted as chairman during the evening.

BERLIN DISCUSSES REPLY TO ENTENTE ON EXTRADITION

Await Response From Allies Regarding German Government Note of January 25th

Berlin, Feb. 10.—The committee on foreign affairs of the National Assembly will meet to consider the extradition question. It seems improbable that a reply to the Entente demand for the surrender of the Germans whose names are contained in the list recently delivered will be made until a response is received by the German government to its note of Jan. 25. In this note Germany asked the Allies to renounce the execution of the extradition article of the peace treaty, affirming that it would inevitably cause political and economic troubles the alternative being proposed that the trial of the persons involved be held in Germany with the participation of Allied representatives.

The newspapers declare unanimously that the attitude of the government toward the extradition question is unchanged.

The association of German regular soldiers carried out a big demonstration here Monday against acceptance of the extradition demand. Similar demonstrations were held in the provinces.

Cabinet Considers List

The cabinet met Monday and considered the list but nothing was made public as to the conclusions reached. In addition to the persons of Germans on the extradition list, the Allied powers demand access to archives and possession of all German documentary evidence, so that prosecution may be facilitated. The covering note is understood to declaare the Allies do not propose to grant amnesty to men not named in the list, but will reserve the right to prosecute them should they be apprehended on Entente soil.

Miss Elsa Scheiner, the only woman whose name appeared on the list of Germans demanded by the Allies, is a daughter of a prominent professor of Berlin University, and had charge of the women's concentration camp at Valenciennes during the war.

Refuse Trial in Switzerland

Zurich, Feb. 10.—Swiss newspapers publish what apparently is an official or semi-official note, saying the government would refuse to have Germans accused of war crimes by the Allies, tried in Switzerland in the event this is proposed by Germany.

The view is held here that Germany may suggest this in reply to the Entente note.

French Press Pessimistic

Paris, Feb. 10.—The more prominent names on the extradition list were published by the newspapers Monday. Most of them adopt a pessimistic attitude regarding the probability of Germany giving up the accused persons, and virtually all the papers dwell upon what one of them terms "the change in policy of Lloyd George."

Action Decided Upon Previously

Berlin, Feb. 10—A secret meeting of army and navy leaders a month ago in anticipation of a demand for extradition compiled a set of regulations for common action. These instructions, which are signed by Generals von Heeringen, von Kluck and Falkenhayn, as well as others, declaare that it is no violation of honor for one to place himself outside the pale of seizure by his own government or the Entente. Therefore they must refuse to surrender, refuse to recognize the legality of a foreign court and do nothing in the shape of personal defense, of otherwise acknowledge such a court, but make the following declaration in the German language:

"I have merely done my duty as a German soldier. As such, I refuse to recognize a foreign court and also decline to make any further statement."

Guild, and was always interested in anything pertaining to the welfare of the Parish. She was also a member of the Red Cross and as far as her health would permit helped in the patriotic work in the city.

Besides her husband, one daughter, Miss Kathleen Longworth, and two sons, Mr. F. R. Longworth and Mr. J. R. Longworth, all of Brandon, are left to mourn her loss. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. A. A. Anderson, of Albany, New York, and two brothers, Mr. R. Beer, Seattle, and Colonel S. Beer, South African Constabulary.

Mrs. Margaret Miller

Following a short service in St. Paul's Church Monday afternoon, at which Rev. J. George Miller officiated, the remains of the late Mrs. Margaret Miller, widow of the late C. S. Miller, were laid to rest beside her husband in Brandon cemetery. The pall bearers were Mr. H. J. Pugh, Alderman McKenzie, Messrs. Alex. Trotter, Robert Fortune, I. R. Strome and D. Shirriff. The service was attended by a great many friends of the deceased.

Coming to Brandon with her husband in 1882 from Goderich, Ont., the late Mrs. Miller's first home was on the site now occupied by the Pioneer Fruit Company. Later she moved to 427 Twelfth street, where Mr. Miller died in 1904 and the home was sold. For the past twelve years Mrs. Miller has been spending her Winters in Winnipeg with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Lang, and her Summers in Brandon at her former home, 339 Eleventh street. She became ill last Thursday at her daughter's home in Winnipeg and died on Saturday, at the age of eighty-two years. Of a bright, cheerful disposition the late Mrs. Miller was liked by all who knew her and many keenly regret her death. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lang of Winnipeg, and Mrs. W. B. Way of Moose Jaw, Sask., one sister, Miss Mary McQuarrie of this city, and three brothers, Messrs. Malcolm and Alexander McQuarrie of Vancouver, B.C., and John McQuarie of Glendale, Cal. Her two daughters and sister were with her at the time of her death.

The late Mr. Miller will be remembered by many Brandon people as one of the city's most prominent builders and contractors in the early days. He was contractor for the Central School, Nation Block, McDiarmid Block and many other large buildings in the city.

LABOR PLANS TO DEFEAT UNFRIENDLY CONGRESSMEN

Leaders of Organized Labor Busy In Non-Partizan Campaign All Over U. S.

Washington, Feb. 10—(United Press).—More than 500 leaders of organized labor soon will be at work throughout the country directing the national non-partisan political campaign, decided on by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, Vice-President Matthew Woll said Monday.

The campaign was planned to defeat members of Congress unfriendly to organized labor and put in their places men who will work to prevent the next congress from "repressing the rights of labor," according to a manifesto issued by the executive council.

The manifesto, mailed Monday to every union in the United States is intended to line up in support of the movement the full political power of the 4,000,000 American workmen affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, is directing the campaign.

The present Congress, labor leaders charge, has shown a distinctively unfriendly attitude toward labor through attempts to pass anti-strike and compulsory arbitration legislation.

AMERICANS TRY TO SWEEP MARKET LONDON FUR SALES

Prices So High That Bidding Has Been Wild—Skins Almost Fought For

London, Feb. 10.—Prices of furs at this week's London fur sales have been so high that scenes at the bidding have been of the wildest. Good chinchilla, which before the war cost 16 shillings a skin now fetches 40 pound, while fox before the war, was six or seven pounds, and is now 25 pounds. All the seal on the market was bought by a single American bidder at prices 340 per cent. higher than in October last. He outbid everyone else for every skin. "The skins were almost fought for," said the manager of one large international house, "that before the war would have been sold only in Whitechapel. Expensive furs have gone up most, but fur houses with a high reputation would not have kept on the premises the skins they now are obliged to sell at prices higher than really good furs in 1914."

Determined to Sweep Market

A dominating feature of this week's sales was the determination of the Americans to sweep the market at any price. Prices so far show the following rises per cent. above last October: Wolverine, chinchilla, stone martin, 100; martin, 75; otter and Russian sable, 50; fisher and lynx, 40; while silver and cross fox, 20 to 25; ermine, 10.

Startling Increase

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10.—The first two days of the fur sales here totalled $8,588,173. In contrast with these values, the total January sales in 1919 amounted to only $8,000,000 for the entire auction. The total April sales were eight million and the total October sales fifteen million.

MOUNTED POLICE TO FURNISH SOME FAIR ATTRACTIONS

At the Manitoba Winter Fair Which Opens Here March 1st

A SPECIAL FEATURE

This Year To Be Car Lots of Fat Cattle and Groups of Five

Entries are still pouring in for the greatest Winter Fair that has ever been held in this city. Only one Winter Fair will shade the Brandon exhibition in excellence this being the great International at Chicago. Although the entry list does not close until next Saturday, the entries received to date point to the fact that every available foot of space in the immense Winter Fair plant will be in use. Manager Smale states that it will be an exhibition crammed full of quality.

The evening program has received special attention from the management and a feature will be the attractive performances to be presented each evening by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They will stage a different program each evening, introducing many instructive as well as interesting features.

A special feature in the cattle section for this year will be the car lots and groups of five stall fed steers for which $3,000 dollars in prizes are offered. Six cars have been entered and a dozen groups of five. The fat cattle exhibit will have fully 300 high class stall fed cattle, which will be easily the greatest exhibit of this class ever shown in Canada.

In the Boys' Fat Calf Class, close to 100 entries have been received. This feature of the Fair has steadily grown, the entries in the first year being but six. All the cattle will be judged on Thursday March 4th and the fat animals will be sold by auction at the close of the night performance. The Live Stock Exchange in Winnipeg will close for that day and the members will attend in a body, while it is also expected that the members of the Provincial Legislature will attend in a body also on that day.

CATALO RANCHING NOW PROJECTED

Provided Government Will Sell Or Lend Buffalo To Start Herd

A proposition to conduct a ranch in the Peace River district which will raise catalo and buffalo is being put forward to the Dominion Government by W. G. Montgomery, formerly of Deloraine. Mr. Montgomery is well known to many Brandonites, having given the menagerie at the Fair grounds here its start several years ago when he presented several foxes, wolves, geese and cranes to the local Fair Association. Mr. Montgomery left for Whitewater on Monday afternoon to purchase some cattle for his ranch, after spending some time in the city.

Early last Spring, Mr. Montgomery took a journey up into the Peace River district. From Spirit River he travelled as far as he was able by wagon and then mule packed his outfit about 200 miles farther North. Looking for ranching territory, he finally located a range between the North Forks and Halfway rivers, which he staked out. During the Summer he bought many cattle and has now a well stocked range in the far Northern district.

The former Deloraine man thinks that it is a great country for the catalo, an animal which is a cross between a buffalo and a cow. He stated that in stopping off at Wainwright lately he was informed that although the cattle on that range were in a very poor condition on account of the shortage of feed, the catalo were heavy with beef fat. Their ability to get out and rustle for feed even in the deep snow is marked, said Mr. Montgomery. He is now endeavoring to persuade the Government to sell him some buffalo from their Wainwright range in order to get a start with his idea, and then he will raise the catalo for beef purposes, although Mr. Montgomery stated that a large amount of money could be made from the wool and milk of the catalo as well.

TRADE BETWEEN GERMANY AND U. S. REVIVING

Germany Passes Pre-war Levels In Export of Crockery To United States

Washington, Feb. 17.—Though a technical state of war exists between the United States and Germany, trade with that country is reviving rapidly and Germany, at least in one line of exports to this country, has passed pre-war levels, according to reports of the Department of Commerce.

Before the war Germany exported to this country china and porcelain ware amounting annually to approximately half a million dollars. During the war Japan and France gained control of this trade, but since the armistice Germany has made rapid strides to recapture it and has already surpassed pre-war figures.

During 1919, Germany exported to the United States undecorated china and porcelain valued at $671,756, an increase of more than 30 per cent. over pre-war years. Imports in this commodity from Japan and France totalled $182,743 and $731,036 respectively.

Total exports to Germany from the United States for the 11 months of last year totalled $25,464,237, while imports for the same period amounted to $8,643,546. Practically one-third of U.S. trade with Germany for this period was in November, when the total imports and exports amounted to more than $26,000,000.

NO SIGN OF A RIFT IN SYDNEY STRIKE CLOUD

Sydney, N.S.W., Feb. 17.—The labor and political rumpus in connection with the marine engineers' strike shows no signs of abating. Under the War Precautions Act, Premier Hughes sought to isolate the strike and the strikers by ordering the banks to withhold funds held at their credit, but a second announcement by the premier declares that the sequestration of money applies only to official union funds and not to private banking accounts.

Premier Holman, of New South Wales, who belongs to the same political party as Mr. Hughes, has split with the latter on the question, and strongly condemns the proclamation against the engineers. Mr. Holman asserts that Hughes' action is an "irresponsible, autocratic and grave abuse of an authority which was only given by the Government for the purposes of war.'

MEMORIAL IS A LIVE QUESTION: SUGGESTED SITES

Convention Hall Appears To Be Form of Memorial Favored By Many

The memorial question promises to be a very live one before it is finally settled. The matter is at present receiving the attention of a special committee appointed from the Council and a recommendation will probably be brought in shortly. There seems to be an opinion that the memorial will take the form of a convention hall, but just where it will be situated is another question. Several delegations have waited on His Worship Mayor Dinsdale lately, one of them pointing out the great need for a rest room in the convention hall if that form of a memorial is decided on.

Four or five sites have been submitted to the Council as ideal locations for the proposed convention hall. The property immediately to the rear of the present City Hall was favorably considered at the recent meeting of the Council, when one direct offer of sale was made to the City Fathers. It is even rumored that some plans have been tentatively drawn up which call for the convention hall to be built on the property to the rear of the City Hall and which would adjoin the present City Hall. Another site submitted was the old Sylvester corner on Eighth street and Princess avenue. It is also understood that Alderman McKenzie is very anxious to have the convention hall placed on his property where the Caledonian rink now stands. An offer has been submitted to the Council on this property, and if Alderman McKenzie's proposition that the sites and prices be submitted to the people for selection be carried out, there will be quite a selection offered before the list is declared closed.

It is possible that the memorial question will be discussed next Friday night when the City Council will hold a special meeting to go into the schedule of civic salaries and conditions presented some time ago by the civic union.

CANADIAN VIEW MAY BE APPROVED BY IMPERIALS

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press)—There is reason to believe that the stand taken by Canada in regard to the Lenroot reservation to the Peace Treaty will have the support of the Imperial authorities. The question of Canada's status in the League of Nations raised by the Lenroot reservation, has been the subject of a number of confidential communications which have passed lately between Ottawa and London. And, while the attitude of the Imperial Government will not be finally determined until the proposed reservations are officially submitted to the signatories of the treaty, it is regarded here as very improbable that Great Britain would assent to a course in vital opposition to the wishes of the overseas dominions.

South Africa, Australia and New Zealand, it is stated, are equally emphatic that their status and voting power in the league shall not be impaired. The suggestion is made, however, that a way out of present difficulties may be found eventually in such a revision of the League of Nations covenant as will preserve the status and voting power of the overseas dominions, and at the same time remove some of the objections raised in the United States Senate.

SUGGESTED PROGRAM FOR BOLSHEVIKI IN THE UNITED STATES

The document consists of a letter addressed to "Our American Comrades," signed by the President of the Third Internationale at Moscow, declaring the time ripe for operation of the Communist party in America. The program as given in the communication provides for the establishment of a government of workers of Sovietsfi overthrow of capitalists the management of factories by workers, and the seizure of food and supply organization.

TRUSTING TO LUCK COST EIGHT LIVES

Declares Finding of Commissioner Into Wreck on C. P. R. Near North Bay

Toronto, Feb. 17. — Eight people were killed because trainmen "trusted to luck" or failed to obey instructions, is the finding of Julian D. Loudon, special commissioner appointed by the Attorney-General to probe the cause of the recent wreck on the Canadian Pacific railway near North Bay.

It was the duty of Thomas Joseph Curley, rear trainman section one to protect the passengers by running back 30 telegraph poles and placing torpedoes on the rails to warn the oncoming flyer that the line was blocked. This Curley failed to do, according to the commissioner's findings.

Mr. Loudon also finds that John Silas Alexander, conductor of the first section, failed to do everything he might have done, the coroner says.

"He took no steps whatever to collect his trainmen and acquaint them to trainmen and to luck," reads the finding. "If no trainmen had gone backwards to protect the rear, I would consider that this conductor would have been as much to blame; but as Curley did go back, I find Alexander's carelessness did not cause the wreck," he added.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT TRACTOR SCHOOL

Mayor Dinsdale Welcomes Men to Brandon and Tells of Advantages of Trading Here

Speaking on the necessity for service and co-operation, His Worship Mayor Dinsdale, on behalf of the City, opened the ninth annual Tractor and Thresher School in the International Harvester Building at nine o'clock this morning. About one hundred farmers were in attendance from points in Southwestern Manitoba and Southeastern Saskatchewan. They listened with interest to Mayor Dinsdale who pointed out the advantages of Brandon as a distributing centre and told how it effected the farmer in the matter of quick shipment of repairs for their machines in the busy season.

Schools of this kind are put on by the Harvester Company every year to teach the proper operation of power machinery as used on the farm, and in this way the operator is able to get better service out of his machine.

Manager Brosnahan welcomed the students on behalf of the Company and placed at their disposal the equipment of the Harvester building and the services of the entire staff for the duration of the school. The first school commenced Monday and will continue until the 23rd, and the second school will be from February 23-28.

WELFARE OF CHILDREN IS BEING STUDIED

Movement Initiated As a Result of Great Convention Last Fall

One of the signs of the times is the very evident desire of parents and others interested in the welfare of children to face the problems of the day and try and solve them. Of course some try to belittle these problems and pooh-pooh the idea of accomplishing anything by talking about them. That Brandon parents include a good number of the former is evidenced by the interest that has been shown in a movement to have child problems discussed.

The movement was initiated in one of the churches following reports brought from a great convention held in Winnipeg last fall. The emphasis there had been placed on the need for fuller co-operation between the home and the Sunday school in religious training.

STRIKER'S EVIDENCE TO END STRIKE MAY REVEAL CONSPIRACY

Judge Metcalfe and R. C. Bonnar Again Clash at This Morning's Trial

Winnipeg, Feb. 17.—The evidence of the strikers to end the strike may turn out to be conclusive evidence of conspiracy, Justice Metcalfe declared [illegible] seven strike leaders for seditious conspiracy. This statement was provoked by the announcement of R. A. Bonnar that he intended getting from George Lovatt, ex-policeman and member of the strike committee then on the stand, evidence of attempts to end the strike to prove that there was no intent of conspiracy.

This was the second passage of arms between the judge and the defence counsel this morning. The first bid fair to take on a more serious aspect. Justice Metcalfe had objected to Mr. Bonnar's method of cross-examination and suggested that if the defence counsel persisted "something would happen."

CAR "GRANDE PRAIRIE" DESTROYED BY FIRE IN THE EDMONTON YARDS

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 17.—A serious fire broke out at 2.50 o'clock Monday morning in the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia yards on the St. Albert trail, West of Edmonton. The carsheds, a long frame building about 150 feet by 50 feet were destroyed, along with two coaches which were in process of being fitted up. The heaviest and most severe loss was the private car "Grande Prairie," which was being fixed up for the use of the general superintendent.

MINIMUM SALARY SCHOOL TEACHERS IS RECOMMENDATION

By Commission Which Studied Problems on Request of Provincial Government

SUGGEST A BOARD

To Make Recommendation Effective—General Shortage of Teachers

That the minimum annual salary for school teachers in Manitoba be fixed at $1,050 for second class and $950 for third class certificate teachers is the recommendation contained in the report of the Teachers' Commission appointed by the government to inquire into the subject. The recommendation includes the suggestion that a board be appointed to carry it into effect.

The report states that the task of solving the teachers' problem can only be accomplished step by step, and recommends for that purpose a permanent board composed of representatives of the school trustees and teachers with a disinterested person to act as chairman. This board, it is recommended, will be empowered to make orders relative to the standards of minimum wages for teachers; to determine what are reasonable increases to be allowed to teachers as a recognition of successful teaching experience and to investigate all cases of disagreement between teachers and trustees.

Makes Broad Survey

The report makes a very comprehensive survey of conditions as affecting Manitoba, the other provinces of the Dominion, and parts of the United States. The report is classified under the following five headings: 1. Survey of conditions and supply of teachers; 2. Cost of living; 3. Comparison of teachers' salaries and other occupations; 4. Review of steps taken by other provinces with regard to salaries; and 5. Recommendations.

Bad Conditions General

The Commission states in the first instance that the conditions in Manitoba are simply a part of the conditions that prevail over the North American continent. They are results of forces that have been long at work, and to which the majority of people have paid little or no attention. An endeavor has been made to ascertain the facts, as fully as possible, and to make such recommendations as in their opinion would be an improvement.

One of the most comprehensive and exhaustive analyses of conditions that has come to the attention of the commission is a report on teachers' salaries and salary schedules, issued by the National Educational Association of the United States in 1919. This report shows the actual shortage of teachers to be 50,000 for the whole United States, "but as about 120,000 inexperienced, immature, or erstwhile teachers had been introduced into the schools in order to keep them open," the real shortage is nearly 170,000 teachers. The investigation made it quite clear that most of the shortage was caused by teachers leaving schools, and entering various kinds of governmental, commercial and industrial employ, where the remuneration was higher, and working conditions more attractive. The increased demand in these lines was caused by the war; but it is continuing to operate, and "will do so until the public school service can be made more attractive financially than the other lines of work."

Shortage in New York

One would expect that a large city like New York should find no difficulty in keeping its teaching force up to strength; and yet "in February, 1919, in 278 of the schools of the city 19,901 registered pupils reporting at schools received absolutely no instruction." Reports from individual states of the union amply verify the general report quoted above.

Conditions in Ontario

The Minister of Education for Ontario says that the problem of the rural school in that province has become serious. Consolidation of sections seems to him the best plan yet devised to bring about improvement. But in another paragraph he points out that the salaries paid to teachers in rural schools should be increased.

RAILWAYS DO NOT AGREE WITH MEN WHO SHIP CATTLE

Ottawa, Feb. 12—(Canadian Press)—The major portion of the afternoon hearing before the Railway Commission Wednesday was occupied by counsel for the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railway, in discussing various points in the suggested livestock contract, on which they were unable to see eye to eye with the shippers.

During the afternoon a brief statement was made by Erie Osborne, representative of the Toronto Humane Society, who outlined certain improvements which might be made in order to eliminate cruelty in cattle shipment. W. R. Ingram, of the Swift Canadian Company, Winnipeg, set forth the attitude of the shippers, with regard to sending a man along with cattle shipments.

It was brought out that shippers only asked at the present time that the sending of a man in charge be made optional.

The Canadian Pacific Railway counsel objected to the clause allowing shippers thirty days in which to file notice of loss, damage or delay, and took the ground that fifteen days should be sufficient.

Mr. George F. Henderson, referring to the proposed livestock contract which has been printed and was distributed in the room, stated that he had talked it over with representatives of the railways and found that there was no great difference between them and the interest he represented save on a number of sections which he indicated.

F. J. Collyer was called upon to state his case for the Canadian Council of Agriculture. He read a letter from the council setting forth their suggestions for certain changes in the proposed livestock contract, covering such points as the basis for specified liability of carriers based on average price obtainable for livestock, and emphasizing the need for better accommodation of men travelling in charge of livestock and the need for continued provision of return transportation to attendants.

R. B. Bennett took the stand that shippers should not be charged a minimum weight unless the car provided was capable of carrying such weight. Frequently made-over box cars had been supplied by the carriers for lack of proper cars, and in such cases shippers asked that a reduced rate should be allowed for inferior equipment.

Shipper Responsible

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—In the opinion of Charles Murphy, General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway Western lines, the railways should not be required to take care of cattle en route. In a somewhat lengthy statement which he made to the Railway Commissioners when the livestock contract case was continued, Mr. Murphy argued that this was the responsibility of the shipper and not the carrier. The railways, he said, would need an army of men for the sole purpose of caring for cattle, if they were required to do so, and as agreements with the trainmen and agents precluded their being asked to do this kind of work, it would mean the creation of an entirely new department by the railways. The expense of this would be prohibitive.

Mr. Murphy opened his statement by emphasizing the point that the C. P. R. was interested in the development of the livestock industry and anxious to give the shippers the best possible service. He drew attention to the difficulties which the railways had to contend with in the shipment of cattle during the Winter owing to the very severe climate in the West, and stated that sometimes when cars containing cattle were shipped across the line, it was difficult to get them back. Turning to the question of attending to the cattle en route, he emphasized the point that this should be the shipper's responsibility, and stated that the Canadian Pacific Railway was running special stock trains with a coach attached for the accommodation of the attendants. The railwaymen, said Mr. Murphy, were willing to help out in caring for the animals when delays occurred, but they would resent having to do this as part of their duties.

Chief Commissioner Carvell asked Mr. Murphy for an estimate of the number of men who would be required to care for cattle en route on the railway in the West, but Mr. Murphy was unable to answer this.

The protection of attendants travelling with the cattle should, he thought, be provided for through the insurance companies.

JINGLE POT COAL MINE CLOSES DOWN FOR GOOD

Nanaimo, B.C., Feb. 12.—The famous Jingle Pot coal mine closed down for good Wednesday afternoon, the last cars of coal being hoisted at three o'clock. It is doubtful whether any mine in Canada, of such a small area, has proved so productive. It is of but 71 acres, and since it opened on October 29th, 1907, it has produced 800,000 tons. For some time it was sealed up owing to fire.

FREE KETCHUP DISAPPEARS BEFORE ADVANCING COSTS

No Longer Will Pass Restaurant Tables Bear Delectable Bottled "Come-on"

The Pas, Man., Feb. 12.—The last word on the best way of squelching the High Cost of Living has been announced here. The miners and inhabitants of the nearby district are said to be very depressed over the new mandate, which is all for economy, and nothing for comfort. The sad news says that the well-known ketchup bottle seen on the tables and counters in The Pas restaurants must be abolished. The story goes that in the old days hardy lumbermen prospectors were wont to drink the ketchup bottles empty while waiting for a luscious steak. The practice has been carried on to the present day and it is a common everyday occurrence to see a husky bushman tip the bottle to his lips, be it ketchup or Worcester sauce, and drink the contents to the dregs. It is expensive to the proprietors so they have abolished the counter bottles, and henceforth patrons will be served with a half-teaspoonful of sauce on a little round butter dish.

HALDANE DEFENDS PRE-WAR POLICY

London, Feb. 12.—(By Canadian Press).—Lord Haldane, who has been mercilessly criticized for pre-war leanings to Germany, said, speaking at a Cambridge University debate on the pre-war liberty policy, if he had tried to persuade the Germans Great Britain was not jealous of them, he was not sorry. The people in England did not understand the widespread belief in Germany that the British wanted to ring them around and the government told Germany in the strongest language diplomacy allowed that if she attacked France she must not reckon on British neutrality. The great purpose was to obviate war until Britain was able to sustain its burdens. In the main he was proud of the record of the Liberal Government.

FORMER CROWN PRINCE ACTED ON IMPULSE IN OFFERING TO SURRENDER

Amsterdam, Feb. 12. — Former Crown Prince Wilhelm of Germany sent his telegram to the heads of Allied Governments offering to surrender in place of Germans demanded in the Allied extradition list, almost on the impulse of the moment, according to an interview with Major Von Mulnhelm, published in the Telegraaf.

"The former heir to the German throne," said the Major, after confirming reports that a telegram had been sent, "took his resolution without thinking long about it. The return of Baron Von Lersner from Paris and the serious situation which has arisen in Berlin in consequence prompted the prince to send his telegram. He hopes by this to avert serious difficulties for Germany."

Dutch newspapers describe Wilhelm's action as a "beautiful gesture."

STRENUOUS EFFORT TO BELITTLE WORK OF WHEAT BOARD

And Value of Participation Certificates Statement at Convention in Saskatoon

STOP MANUFACTURE

Of Liquor Is Recommendation By Directors of Saskatchewan Grain Growers

Saskatoon, Feb. 11.—The report of the Central Board of Directors was presented to the Saskatoon Grain Growers' Convention today. The foremost matter touched on in the report was the question of the national marketing of wheat. The report indicated that the resolution from the Canadian Council of Agriculture will come before the convention in order that the delegates might express themselves either for or against establishing of the principle of the total abolition of speculation in the grain trade. "Strenuous efforts are being made to belittle the work of the Wheat Board," says the report, "and the value of participation certificates and an organized attempt, emanating from Winnipeg, has been made to purchase these certificates through elevator agents and local associations far below their value.'

Reference was made to the work done by officers of the association in connection with political organization and a special section of the report was devoted to a resume of the past season's crop condition.

In dealing with the prohibition question, the report says, "we are of opinion that nothing short of the prohibition of the manufacture of liquor will attain prohibition."

PROCEED WITH PLANS

For Erection of Most Modern Hospital—To Call For Tenders Soon

Complete arrangements with the Government with regard to the proposed hospital to be built here in the Spring have been completed, and the results obtained are quite satisfactory to both the Hospital Board and the delegation. The satisfactory arrangements just completed will now give the various committees connected with the building of the hospital a chance to proceed with all the plans they have in mind. It is expected that a canvass to raise the amount necessary to build one of the most modern up-to-date hospitals in Canada will be launched shortly. Tenders for the building will also be called for in a very short time, and the plans completed to have a start made on the building as soon as the weather is favorable.

PERMIT CARDS NOT REGARDED AS PROTECTION

To Workers By Strike Committee Declares Member of That Body

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—The Strike Committee regarded permits as authority to managers of the industries to whom they were issued to operate, and not as protection to workers, William Percy declared under cross-examination by R. A. Bonnar, K.C., defence counsel at the trial of the seven strike leaders today.

He admitted, however, that the Trades and Labor Council had no power to call or to stop the strike, and that it was called in response to instructions from the union membership itself. Percy's examination and reading of parts of the evidence of Wm. E. Davis, Minneapolis advertising man, who heard Wm. Ivens deliver a speech, occupied the whole of the morning session.

Davis quoted Ivens as saying "Parliament is in the Labor Temple and not in the City Hall." "If we stand firm for a short time, we will bring employers on their knees saying, what shall we do to be saved."

MANUFACTURERS OF ALBERTA ASK FOR FAIR TREATMENT

Request Premier Stewart and Cabinet Ministers To Tell Manufacturers of Legislation

Edmonton, Feb. 11.—"Give us an even chance with everybody else and don't pass legislation that will be unduly severe upon the manufacturing interests of Alberta. Let us at least know what legislation you are proposing before it passes. We are not antagonistic to labor but simply want to treat fairly and to be treated ourselves in the same way." That is what a delegation of Alberta manufacturers told Premier Stewart and the cabinet ministers in the interview on Tuesday.

"Why don't you and the Labor men get together" asked Hon. A. G. MacKay, "and thresh out some of your questions between you? You could agree on a good deal of legislation before it goes to the Legislature"

"I can tell you frankly and openly," was Premier Stewart's answer to the delegation, "this Government is down on close cororations. We are perfectly willing to consult with you or any organization or industry in regard to any legislation affecting it and we have no desire to pass laws that will affect anybody without his knowledge of it or having a chance to know about it."

The delegation which went from the Manufacturers' Congress in session here was headed by Charpter Robson, chairman of the Alberta section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

MONTREAL FUR SALE TO CREATE CANADIAN CENTRE

Why Should Not Buyers Come To Dominion Where Furs Are First Marketed

Winnipeg, Feb. 11—Local fur dealers are showing great interest in the first Canadian fur auction, which will be opened at Montreal, March 22. This is notwithstanding the fact that the big London, St. Louis and New York fur sales, at which almost the entire fur catch of the world has been bought and sold for many years, are now in progress or on the eve of commencement. The Montreal sale is being organized by the newly formed Canadian Fur Auction Sales Co., Ltd.

One Winnipeg man stated that while the Montreal sale was still in the experimental stages, if it was successful, as he believed it would be, it would mean that thousands of dollars made on the sale of Canadian furs in other countries would remain in Canada. It would mean that United States and European fur buyers must come to Canada for Canadian furs, instead of having those furs laid on their doorstep, so to speak. It would put Canada on the map as one of the great fur-handling countries, and not merely fur-producing. It would mean reaping a greater measure of benefit from the furs which she produces.

90 Per Cent Now Shipped Out

The same dealer expressed the opinion that Canadian fur houses have used about 10 per cent. of the fur trapped in Canada. The other 90 per cent., worth millions of dollars, has been shipped year after year direct to New York, St. Louis or London and the money derived from handling it went to those places. One object of the Montreal sale, he believed, was to keep at least part of that money in Canada. He hoped that Montreal might attract a portion of the huge fur catches from Hudson's Bay posts, hitherto shipped direct to England.

James Thomson, Land and Fur Commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company, said that the company would not make any statement about what it intends to do.

DEMAND CONTINUES FOR HEAVY HORSES

Geldings From Western Ontario Sold Well In Scotland

Toronto Mail and Empire: There were 250 members present at the annual meeting of the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada, and great interest in the proceedings was shown throughout, though the matter to which most importance seemed to be attached was the election of a vice-president for the ensuing year, which developed a warm contest between Fred Richardson of Columbus, Ont., and T. H. Hassard of Markham. The ballots, when counted, showed a majority in favor of Mr. Richardson.

Wm. McKirdy, of Napinka, was elected a member of the Board of Directors.

The directors report read by the secretary, Mr. H. Wheaton, gave a review of the 1919 season activities in heavy horse breeding, which showed that no great improvement either in the breeding or market situation had occurred, though such had been looked for a year ago as a result of the ending of the war. One encouraging feature, however, was that last Summer a shipment of 40 Clydesdale geldings was made from Western Ontario to Scotland, and the horses had sold at profitable prices. High freight rates, scarcity of shipping facilities and difficulty of arranging credits with European countries most in need of heavy horses were the chief reasons for lack of progress in the horse export business last year. Choice Clydesdale geldings are still selling in Scotland at from $1,300 to $1,500, said the report, and the whole European situation affords encouragement for the horse breeder, and especially the breeder of good draft horses of weight and quality. The total number of horses in Canada in 1919, as compared with 1918, showed an increase of 60,000. Ontario, however, had 13,408 horses less in 1919 than in 1918.

In 1919 several importations of Clydesdales, mostly stallions and young colts, were made by Canadian breeders, despite the high cost of the animals in Scotland, and these were well up to the standard of the horses brought across previous to the war. In this connection the directors of the association pointed out that cost of the animals and of transportation must necessitate the charging of a higher stallion fee. The past season's record of Clydesdales at the shows throughout the country was encouraging, especially as regards the geldings shown in harness.

DENTAL SURGEON'S APPEAL REFUSED

Case of Quebec Dentist Who Advertised Before the Privy Council

London, Feb. 12.—An interesting application was made to the Privy Council when the Governors of the Quebec College of Dental Surgeons applied for leave to appeal from the judgment of the King's Bench Court of Quebec, in connection with the Governors' proceedings against Mr. Gaston Mailot, a Montreal dentist.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux r presented the applicants.

The Governors were informed that the respondent, Mr. Mailot, was working for a dental firm which advertised contrary to the rules of the profession. The Governors it is alleged, instituted proceedings and employed detectives who were operated upon dentally by respondent. The Governors then summoned the respondent before them and proceeded to try him. Respondent secured a writ of prohibition against the Governors on the ground that they could not be both judges and prosecutors simultaneously.

The Privy Council refused leave of appeal in this instance, but intimated that proceedings might not be invalid if tried before a board which was unbiased.

FARMER'S STATE BANK OF BEMIDJI ROBBED—THIEF GIVES HIMSELF UP

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 12.—The Farmers' state bank of Bemidji was robbed of about $2,000 in currency at noon Wednesday by a lone bandit unmasked, who took all the cash in sight from B. K. Johnson, assistant cashier, at the point of a gun and locked him in a vault with Lillian Elmquist, stenographer, the only other employe then in the bank.

Postmaster A. P. Ritchie, passing the bank a few minutes later, discovered the employes locked in the vault and released them. Persons on the street nearby saw the robber fleeing, and followed him to a group of deserted sheds when they hastily organized a posse and demanded his surrender. He came out with the revolver in his hand and gave himself up. All the stolen money was found on him.

STRIKE AUSTRALIAN MARINE ENGINEERS IS MOST SERIOUS

Shipping Tied Up — Canadian Liner Niagara Helpless in Dock

Sydney, N.S.W., Feb. 12.—The crisis which has grown out of the strike of marine engineers has assumed national proportions. For several months shipping has been badly tied up. The Niagara, best known liner on the route to Canada, is one of the vessels lying helplessly in her dock.

The Commonwealth Government, acting under the War Precautions Act, has now taken a hand. A proclamation has been issued, declaring that the strike endangers the public safety and the defence of the commonwealth and that all persons are prohibited by word or deed from aiding in its continuation.

It is ordered that no person shall knowingly lend, give or contribute money or goods to the Marine Engineers' Institute or to any officer or member without the consent of the Attorney-General. No bank may hand over money to any agent of the institute.

Labor circles are excited and angry at the developments. The engineers have been refused their private savings from the government banks. A big upheaval in political affairs is possible. The Prime Minister is bitterly criticized in Labor circles for taking executive action regarding the strike instead of convening the newly elected parliament, which is due to meet in any case within a few days.

SWINBURNE BLAMES WOMEN

Says Britain Unmusical Because Women Take Active Part in Music

London, Feb. 12—(By Mail)—The women who were present at the Musical Association's lecture recently must have spent a very uncomfortable 60 minutes listening to an address which was little more than a discourse on the deficiencies of their sex. J. Swinburne had entitled his lecture "Women and Music," but he spent the greater part of the time in endeavoring to prove that women were not successes at most of the other arts besides music. His main argument in regard to the latter was that this country is unmusical because women take an active part in the art of music.

He supported this by arguing, firstly, that women in general were mentally the inferiors of men, and, secondly, that their minds were of the receptive as contrasted with the productive type.

"It is now commonly assumed," he said, "that women's brains are just like men's, and that they can do everything men can do just as well. The assumption is quite unfounded, and women have done nothing recently to contradict the experience of mankind through all the ages.

"How many women in the whole of England," he asked, "have taken their sewing machines to pieces to understand how they work? A woman cannot cut a pencil. She dabs her pen to the bottom of the ink pot, and then when the nib retires into the holder she puts another one in on top of it. All this is not a matter of training.

"Women," he adds, "are nowhere in science, although scientific training has been open to them for more than a generation."

Baltimore, Md., Feb., 12. — The steamship Lake Forsby, the first freighter of the new Wilbur F. Spice & Co. line to Hamburg must loan practically half her cargo at Norfolk because Baltimore manufacturers and exporters are unwilling to deal with the Germans under trade conditions. FARMERS' APPETITE IS WHETTED FOR MORE POLITICS

Early Years of Grain Growers Association Politics Taboo—Times Have Changed

Montreal, Feb. 13. — The Montreal Star says editorially: "In the early years of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association politics were taboo. Those who nursed it in the critical years of its youth saw that if the interests of the farmers were to be paramount they could not afford to be weakened by racial and political divisions. Yet, as the years passed, it became the training ground for aspiring politicians, and the men who rose to prominence in its councils cast ambitious eyes at the wider sphere of the Provincial and Federal arena.

"The sister organizations of other provinces were quicker to listen to the voice of the political charmer when he came piping to them, and even today there is a small, but silent group in the Saskatchewan organization that disapproves of taking active part in politics, as a body. But so far as Federal politics are concerned the die is cast.

Has its Penalties

"Entry into the field of Federal politics has brought its penalty, almost before he has tasted blood, the farmer's appetite is whetted, and there is a sharp tussle now between those who would restrict the activities of the members to the Federal field and the 'whole hoggers' who see in Provincial politics some fallow land which they would turn into acres for the sowing of the seed of their particular likes and tenets.

"It is a little difficult to follow the arguments of the "Federalists," and to allay the suspicion of playing politics, when its officials state that they are not anxious for the association to enter the Provincial field where a Liberal Government sits entrenched in power, but they have no objections to political action when directed against a Conservative or Unionist Government. If there was any sharp dividing line in the two spheres there might be reasonable excuse for non-interference in the one while the members were immersed in the other. Saskatchewan blotted out any semblance of such a division when, year after year, it passed resolutions on the floor of the Provincial house condemning the Federal government for this or that sin of commission of omission.

"You cannot eat your cake and have it, too, even in politics."

NATIONALIZATION OF MINES DOES NOT FIND FAVOR

London, Feb. 13.—(Canadian Press)—The miners get little consolation from the press over the defeat of the nationalization of mines in the House of Commons. The Times believes that the Prime Minister spoke the minds of the people when he said that they would fight to the last against dictation from a privileged minority. This was in illusion to the threatened industrial pressure, as to which the Daily Telegraph says that it is the Prussianism of a privileged caste and that it is well the issue has been plainly stated. The Daily Chronicle, after condemning the threats of violent measures, says that what the miners want is not nationalization but syndicalism, and it is a waste of time to argue about the former. The Express contends that nationalization would be fatal to the industry or the country and to the consumer, without conferring on the miners a single advantage unobtainable under private enterprise.

The Daily Mail advised an acceptance of the government's unification scheme, adding "the coalition as coal miner is an uncommercial risk which neither householder nor manufacturer means to take."

The Daily News, the only paper supporting the miners, says that by the attitude he adopted in the debate, Mr. Lloyd George presented the miners with an unanswerable case, adding that though the Prime Minister may be counting upon their answering his provocation in kind, they will hardly fall into the trap at this juncture.

INCREASED EXPORTS FROM CENTRAL ALBERTA INTO THE UNITED STATES

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 12.—Exports from Central Alberta to the United States, composed chiefly of grain and cattle, are increasing steadily, according to figures issued by Samuel Reat, United States consul in Calgary. During 1919, this consular district cleared goods to the invoice value of $10,994,387, or about $4,000,000 more than in 1918 and practically double the exports of 1917. Proportionate increases, it is estimated, were made by the rest of the province; although returns have not been received from United States consular agencies at Lethbridge and Edmonton. The exports in the last three years from Central Alberta follow: 1919, $10,994,387; 1918, $6,772,294; and in 1917, $5,593,438.

LONGEST HOCKEY BATTLE IN PROVINCE WON BY THE WINNIPEGS FROM VICS

The Winnipegs won the longest hockey battle ever staged in Manitoba senior hockey when they downed the doughty Vics in the Winnipeg City League Thursday night after ninety minutes of play. The score was 9-8. The great uphill fight by the losers was the feature of the game when they tied up the count after apparently being hopelessly in the rear. Three overtime periods were necessary, each team scoring one goal in the first overtime session, and repeated in the second, but the Pegs were there with the punch in the third period which added their third counter in overtime play. The win by the Pegs puts them out in front in the league standing.

The charge against Barton was that at Shilleagh in February 1919, he delivered a speech in which, referring to the imprisonment of the local Sinn Feiner Fleming, he said: "I do not make a threat, but if Fleming dies in jail there will be reprisals against Lord French (Viscount French, Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland) and Frank Brooke (member of the Viceroy's Advisory Council), who will suffer injuries as he did."

CANADA UNABLE TO SUPPLY BELGIAN DEMAND FOR 500 TONS OF FLAX

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Belgium is in the market for Canadian-grown flax, but Canada has none left to export. Belgian users sought to place orders in Canada for 500 tons of flax, but as the total crop in Canada last year was only some 600 tons, flax growing for fibre being very much in its infancy here, it was impossible to accept them. The small amount available for export was quickly snapped up by United States firms.

CLAIMS STATE HEALTH INSURANCE BENEFICIAL—COST IS INSIGNIFICANT

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 12.—Inability on the part of the average worker to provide the necessary safeguards for the health of his family is one of the chief causes of Bolshevism, E. S. H. Winn, chairman of the Provincial Commission on Health Insurance, said during the course of an address to the members of the retail bureau of the Board of Trade and Retail Merchants' Association. The average worker is not able, under present conditions, to buy health insurance, he declared, but pointed out that under State health insurance the cost would be spread over the entire community.

The actual cost of operation would be insignificant as was shown in the experience of the Workmen's Compensation Board, of which Mr. Winn is also chairman. By properly safeguarding the health of the worker, he said it would mean that productive efficiency would be increased.

RESTORATION OF SALMON FISHERIES ON FRASER RIVER

Said by Expert to be Reclamation Project of Small Expense and Certain Results

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 1.2—"Fraser River Salmon Situation, a Reclamation Project," is the title of an interesting brochure written by John Pease Babcock, assistant of the Provincial Commissioner of Fisheries. Mr. Babcock reiterates the warnings given on more than one occasion by the Provincial Department of Fisheries as to the need of drastic conservation methods in order that the Fraser River run may be prevented from becoming exterminated altogether, and concludes with the suggestion that the restoration of the sockeye salmon fisheries of the Fraser River systems is the greatest reclamation project in which Canada and the United States can jointly engage, and that, too, with the least expense and most certain results.

"The lake waters of the Fraser River basin cover an area of 1,514,000 acres, that when seeded by spawning sockeye as abundantly as they were seeded in 1897, 1901, 1905 and 1909, will produce annually a run of sockeye salmon from which may be taken sufficient fish to fill 1,927,602 cases, worth 30,000,000, without an overdraft on the run," says Mr. Babcock.

RIGHT TRIUMPHS

The people of Schleswig at the recent plebiscite, voted something like three to one to return to Denmark.

It was in 1864 that Bismarck, luring Austria into partnership in the criminal enterprise, seized the Danish duchies of Schleswig and Holstein on a trumped up claim and annexed them to Prussia. Having achieved this, Bismarck then provoked a quarrel with Austria over the spoils—Austria having discovered there was going to be no core for her—and in the Seven Weeks' War forever decided the question whether Prussia or Austria was to dominate the German states. It was all a part of the one grand scheme to aggrandize Prussia and to put Austria as an authority definitely to one side.

Despite more than half a century of forcible "assimilation," Schleswig proves now to be still Danish, and as a result of the war which Germans as unscrupulous as Bismarck, though less able, provoked to win more spoils, a large part of the long lost territory will go back to Denmark, its rightful owner.

Right wins in the long run. An empire built on pillage is stripped of its forcibly acquired territory—its loot. The end of Germany's long career of international burglary is defeat, humiliation and retribution.

PLAY NO FAVORITES

Proposals advanced by the Canadian Council of Agriculture for a change in the fiscal policy of the Dominion, provides food for thought among all classes. Especially is this true among the farmers. There is among them, especially in Western Canada, a fairly general agreement in condemnation of the Custom's tariff, as it at present exists, as a means of raising the revenues necessary for the operation of a government. The chief difficulty and the chief differences arise over methods to be employed to raise needed revenue if the tariff is abolished or drastically altered. Direct taxation, of incomes, while acceptable purely as a theory, cannot be said to have caught the popular fancy. It might have done so had the country been absolutely without experience of it. There has, however, been an income tax imposed on Canadians for just long enough to convince very many people that while the theory is fine, as far as they are personally concerned they will evade it by every means in their power. Income tax returns from farmers especially, are said to have been most unsatisfactory to those entrusted with enforcement of the law. Canadian farmers, as is probably true of agriculturalists as a class, do not keep books. Thousands of them, in fact the majority of them have found it impossible to make a clear and concise statement of their annual incomes. Then how can an income tax be collected?

Then there is another phase, another difficulty. Grain growers do not always make money. From one cause or another a season's operations may result in a substantial loss. This may be made up in the succeeding year by a bountiful harvest and the sale of the crop at a good figure. The profits for such a year may be so great that the operation of the income tax on the same basis as applied to people engaged in their occupations which annually yield a small profit, would amount almost to confiscation. Yet the farmers' profit averaged year in and year out might not amount to more than in the case of others whose small steady profit throughout the year cost them very little in taxation.

At the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association convention which is now in session at Saskatoon, a proposal is to be advanced that for the purposes of income taxation the farmers profits be calculated on a three year basis.

It is thus seen that the proposals as set forth by the Canadian Council of Agriculture may require amendment or minor alteration to meet even the needs of those who are popularly supposed to be the chief beneficiaries. Taxation of the incomes of farmers based on a three year period, rather than one year, it is true, involves no change in the principle of taxation, but continual presentation of proposals which are specifically designed to meet the wishes, claims, or needs of agriculturists, identifies the movement as one particularly concerned with the welfare of class rather than the whole citizenship.

The claim is made for "the Farmers' Platform," that it is a new national policy. A new national policy will be welcomed by very many people who require to be shown however that the new policy is such as will serve with equality all classes of the Canadian people, will tend to eliminate class distinctions whatever their basis, and to build up on the Northern half of this continent a contented and progressive nation, daughter in her Mother's house and Mistress in her own.

AMAZING CONDITIONS

The truth of the old saying that one half the world does not know how the other half lives is so obvious, and has been repeated so many times, that it is a "bromide." It is almost an annoyance to repeat it. Canadian soldiers in England, France, and the numerous theatres of war, plumbed the amazing depths of this truth, but when travelled Manitobans apply this saying to conditions in Chicago there is bound to be detected in some quarters, an amused smile. And yet it is true. The following editorial from the Chicago Daily News, one of the most reliable newspapers published in that city, depicts conditions such as few Canadians have any realization of. The editorial appears under the caption of "Murder as a Vocation." It follows:

Investigations following the recent murder of Maurice Enright at the door of his home by an expert killer armed with a sawed off shotgun and operating with scientific precision from an automobile make it clear that the professional assassin now has his important and duly recognized place in our social structure. He has become, in fact, the last word in underworld debate, the high card in the marked deck. He is Satan's choicest gift to the conspiring, remorseless, graft getting, blood letting crew, that from their hidden places of power exercise a sinister influence upon this heedless community.

The professional killer who thrives so amazingly under existing conditions is no miserable, fanatic, half crazed starveling of the slums. If he is not wealthy and powerful in his own right, at least he has wealthy and powerful friends and patrons. When he kills, killing seemingly is no murder so far as the complete functioning of the law is concerned. This is fully understood and cheerily acted upon by those who employ assassins as they would employ other help. Consequently in their eyes the one approved penalty for assassination has come to be retaliation in kind. The law is blind, palsied and feeble minded as they see it. Accordingly the officers of the law are relied upon only to do a tolerably liberal amount of bungling, useful in kicking up a dust after any atrocious murder, and in lulling the startled community back to its customary state of sublime trust in its costly and ponderous system of administering justice.

True, there are occasionally convicted of murder. Enright himself was found guilty of the Vincent Altman murder and so was forced to submit to a brief period of imprisonment in the penitentiary while his numerous and politically powerful partisans were inducing a sympathetic governor to pardon him. Then there is the interesting person, Tony Cifaldo, who, according to the police, may have wielded the sawed off shotgun when Enright was eliminated from the feverish activities of Chicago's underworld. Cifaldo, it seems, was so unfortunate as to serve eleven months in prison for having cut the throat of a fellow citizen with fatal results to the subject of his expert ministrations. The story goes that his professional fee for this piece of artistry was $50. He was released from prison speedily by the duly constituted authorities.

Gunmen's occasional spectacular killings in this city are not, of course, mere isolated crimes. They are the conspicuous mountain peaks rising above continuous ranges of atrocities hidden in the mists of criminal politics. Blackmail in its many forms, along with other lawless and filthy varieties of money grabbing, is conducted as a steady business under the menace of the automatic pistol and the sawed-off shotgun. Citizens of Chicago can break up this horrible combination of murder, extortion and satanic politics by electing to public office in this community only strong, wise, honest, fearless men — men chosen because they are strong, wise, honest and fearless.

There is reason to hope that State's Attorney Hoyne is about to solve the mystery of the Enright killing. Should he solve it, what then? Are the resources of justice in this community of sufficient potency to bring about the conviction and execution of the murderers?

PUBLIC INTEREST COMES FIRST

The announcement by the American Federation of Labor that it will throw its whole power into the election campaign in the United States, to nominate and elect the friends of organized labor and to defeat its enemies, is an announcement of entry into activities the right to participate in which one would be foolish to deny. It has no terrors for men who stand for definite ideals.

It is the right of organized labor to support its friends and oppose its enemies. So far as men oppose the just interests of organized labor they are no more friends of the public than they are of the unions; for it is in the public interest that labor, organized or unorganized, shall be treated justly in all respects.

It is just as well at this time to state that he is no friend of labor or the land in which he dwells, who puts the interests of organized labor above that of the public interest—who puts that or any other interest first. No single interest—be it labor, capital, farmer—can be permitted to dominate the whole.

It is but fair to assume, unless evidence to the contrary is forthcoming, that in going into politics the American Federation of Labor seeks to serve only the just interests of labor in due relation to the common interests of all. Any representative of labor, or any political bidder for the support of labor who seeks to put labor first, will invite and should incur the hearty opposition of all fair-minded citizens.

LET US GO FARTHER

The report presented by the Commission which the Provincial Government appointed to investigate the situation regarding public school teachers is reproduced in another column. Though the report is somewhat lengthy it is of such importance that every one who is interested in the welfare of Manitoba should read it understandingly. The report suggests that there should be a minimum salary of $1,050 for second class and $950 for third class certificate teachers. A further suggestion is made that a board should be appointed to carry into effect the recommendations.

It is apparent at once, that the Commission apparently realized the limited benefits which will accrue through the enforcement of payment of minimum salaries. It is well to have a minimum but the establishment and enforcement of a minimum salary will never rectify the conditions.

What is needed is an educated public opinion which will rightly regard the teaching profession as one of the most important occupations from the standpoint of its influence on the men and women of tomorrow; a full understanding of the need for the selection of the best men and women for this profession, for the sake not only of humanity but of the welfare of the nation. As we have not, nor are we likely to have, any process of drafting such individuals into the profession of teaching, then it is necessary to make this profession so attractive as to draw to it the most desirable class of young men and young women. And once having been attracted to it they should have not only the best of training to fit them for the greatest measure of service of which they are capable, but the avocation must be made so desirable as to retain them so long as they are capable of giving this service and provide them with a competence against the day when they may no longer be so employed.

A minimum salary, may, be it high enough, secure a supply of teachers sufficient to provide one for each school or each room, as the case may be. If it does this it will be justified. We need however something more and this a minimum salary will never provide—to retain in the profession the best brains and the ablest instructors. Since those are not likely to be the ones in receipt of the minimum wage, something more is necessary.

The people of Manitoba are indebted to the members of the Commission for the services they have rendered. Let us not stop there however. Let us as a people determine to follow along the path that has been indicated and follow it to its logical conclusion. If we do, we will win for ourselves and for future generations a rich and lasting blessing.

SUGAR GROWS ON FIR TREES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Discovery Made By Prof. Davidson of Great Value To Chemistry

Washington, Feb. 17.—Discovery of the growth of sugar on fir trees in British Columbia, announced in the current number of the American Forestry Magazine. The discovery, which is said to be of great value to chemistry, came as the result of the investigations of Prof. John Davidson, chief of the Botanical Department of the University of British Columbia at Vancouver.

Specimens of the product upon analysis are said to have indicated the presence of a large percentage of an extremely rare variety of sugar. While fir sugar is not expected to beet, the article advances the belief like the product of the cane and the beet, the article advances th belief that it will prove useful for experimental purposes. Indians have made use of the sugar in British Columbia for many years, the article states.

UNITED KINGDOM AND EGG SHORTAGE

Nearly 300 Eggs Fewer Per Family Used Than IN 1913

Eggs from other countries in 1913 represented 63 per head of the population in Great Britain whereas in 1918 only eight eggs per unit of population were received from overseas—a reduction equal to 87 per cent. To indicate the drop it may be stated that the actual decline of egg imports was 189,235,350 dozen, the weight of which, with cases, would have been upward of 157,000 tons. These figures reveal the fact, that whatever price consumers were willing to pay, there were last year nearly 300 eggs fewer per family than previously used.

Prior to the revolution in Russia, as a result of food shortage and closing of her outlets, the poultry stocks had decreased by 75 per cent. Germany and Austria-Hungary have been almost swept bare, and the same is true of Belgium, which supplied her own needs, but had none to spare. For various reasons, mainly by scarcity and high prices of feed. France has reduced her flocks of poultry by 50 per cent. As her consumption was relatively the highest of all European countries, for a long time to come she can have no surplus for export, even if she has not to import. Italy appears to have suffered least of alll in this respect. Before the war, however, her consumption was rapidly overtaking production.

So far as Denmark and the Netherlands are concerned, the fowls in Denmark now number only one-half as many as they did early in 1914, and in the Netherlands only one-fourth as many . . . Had it not been for supplies from Egypt, the United States of America and Canada which in this trade prior to 1914 were non-existent or negligible, the shortage of imports into Britain would have been much greater. At the same time the totals from these countries in 1918 were small, in the average amounting to 13,800 tons. Those from Egypt were equal to 2.19 per head of population in Great Britain, from Canada to 1.16 per head, and from the United States to 1.05 per head, the group representing less than two weeks' normal consumption.—London Morning Post.

FORMER EMPEROR MADE ATTEMPT TO ENTER HUNGARY

Budapest, Feb. 16.—Circumstantial details have been revealed of a plot by which it is alleged former Emperor Charles made a futile attempt to enter Hungary under a false passport and re-establish himself on the throne.

Documentary evidence said to be in the hands of the Government indicates that it had been planned for the ex-Emperor to cross the Austrian frontier under the name of Kaspar Kovacs, accompanied by three other persons, whose identity has not been definitely established. Then he was to proclaim his return with the expectation that his former subjects would support him, it is declared.

NATIONALIZATION OF MINES MOST IMPORTANT TOPIC

Opposite Views Expressed By Lord Haldane and Sir Auckland Geddes

London, Feb. 16.—Nationalization and threats of miners' strikes are engrossing topics now. Lord Haldane, hailed as a Labor party recruit, said in a speech at Oxford that he was strongly in favor of nationalization of industries as a solution of the labor problems, and that if the industries ware to be nationalized, new men and women must be trained.

At the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce dinner, Sir Auckland Geddes, President of the Board of Trade, described the miners' campaign as one of syndicalism. It would be impossible for the country to look for a prosperous future if men representing the government were allowed to control a vital industry, he said.

FEAR ABOLITION OF THE KILTS IN ARMY REFORMS

Scottish Territorial Association Says This Will Be Prejudicial To Recruiting

London, Feb. 16.—Suspicion that one of the coming army reforms is abolition of the kilts, is causing the Scottish Territorial Association to protest vigorously to the War Office, claiming this course to be very prejudicial to recruiting in the North of Scotland.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WANTS PROOF OF WILLIS' STATEMENT

Intends To Punish People Guilty Peddling Confiscated Liquor In Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.—A request for proof of the statement that "Bootleggers are peddling confiscated liquor about the streets of Winnipeg," was made Saturday to R. G. Willis, leader of the Conservative party in Manitoba, by Attorney-General T. H. Johnson.

Mr. Willis is reported to have made the statement in an address maligning the Norris Government, delivered at a public meeting in the Royal Alexandra Hotel Thursday evening.

Would Punish Guilty

Mr. Johnson's request, in the form of a letter, was sent to Mr. Willis Saturday morning After quoting the statement Willis is alleged to have made, the attorney-general wrote:

"Perhaps you would be good enough to lay such information before me for the purpose of assisting in punishing any parties who may have been guilty of violating the laws of our province."

Mr. Willis' charge was that liquor confiscated by the Manitoba Temperance Act administration department, was finding its way into the hands of bootleggers who were peddling it on the streets.

COMMISSION'S DUTY NOT PLEASANT ONE

Attitude of Berliners To British Officers One of Open Hostility

Berlin, Feb. 16.—The Entente Commission of officers is now in Berlin, one of whom is Flight-Commander John A. Barron, well known in Toronto. This commission is already having a disagreeable experience, and its officers meet with anything but hospitable treatment, not to say much risk. The matter of food is a serious one. The mark (23.8) has only the purchasing power of one penny, and, therefore, the allowance of 200 marks a day to the British officers does not provide for very substantial food. When eggs (boiled) are brought by the waiters, they are often either bad or empty. The people are divided into two classes—the rich and the poor. The latter are enraged against the farmers, and all are bitterly angry at having been misled into present conditions. The poor exclaim against the Allies because they say, "You all said you were fighting for the peace of nations, but this peace is not such a peace." Behind it all is serious hatred for the British, and this is shown on every opportunity to the Entente Commission officers who are British. The contempt with which the German soldier treats the Allied officers may lead to serious trouble, and the signs all indicate that the end may yet be serious.

BOLIVIA LAYS CLAIM TO CHILEAN PORT OVER WHICH THREE COUNTRIES DISPUTE

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 16.—Bolivia has formally laid claim to the Pacific port in the province of Arica, according to dispatches which say the Bolivian Chamber of Deputies has passed a resolution declaring: "The time has now come to incorporate in the dominion of the republic a port in Arica over which the bordering nations of Chile and Peru will have no defined rights." Arica is really a part of the province of Tacna, Northern Chile, dominion over which has been in dispute between Chile, Peru and Bolivia for thirty-seven years.

WIRELESS STATIONS FOR GREAT LAKES

U. S. Naval Department Is Selecting Number of Sites To Protect Lake Traffic

Detroit, Feb. 16. — United States Naval Department is erecting a wireless station on Windmill Point at the junction of Lake St. Clair and Detroit River near Detroit. The station will be one of the most powerful in the United States, and will add much to the safety of lake traffic, it is pointed out by Detroit shipping men. It will be under the direction of the Great Lakes Department of the Navy.

Brimley, Mich., has been selected for one of the sites for the numerous radio stations which will be erected in the near future, according to S. A. Greenleaf, of the district naval radio office at the Great Lakes. Brimley is an ideal site for a radio station because of easy access to electric power.

The Navy Department is also planning to establish several compass stations along the Lake Superior shore for the purpose of giving ships their proper bearings. This department has also taken over the wireless stations at Alpena, Buffalo, Detroit and Milwaukee, and it probably will erect wireless stations at Marquette, Ontonagon or Grand Marais.

PUBLIC WORKS ESTIMATES STAND AT $21,000,000

And This Is Said To Be Without An Appropriation For a Single New Undertaking

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Parliament will be asked, it is reported, to vote $21,000,000 at the approaching session for public works expenditures during the fiscal year, 1920-21. As the estimates for the department now stand, it is further understood, they do not include an appropriation for a single new undertaking. There are votes for carrying on certain works now under construction and for maintenance. In addition there are items which were voted last session, which have not been drawn upon and which will be re-voted during the coming session.

Among the works to carry on which appropriations will be voted, it is expected, are the harbor works at Toronto and in Courtenay Bay, St. John, N.B.; wharves at Fort William, a breakwater at Port Arthur, and a drydock at Esquimalt. Work on the Halifax harbor terminals will proceed, but it is under the Department of Railways. Application for subsidy for a drydock at Vancouver have been filed by several firms and are still under consideration by the Government. No contract, however, has as yet been awarded, and the question whether the Vancouver dock should be of the first or second class is said to have arisen.

Supplementary estimates frequently add to the appropriations for public works, voted under the main estimates presented during a session.

EARNED $5,000 A YEAR DURING WAR

St. Cathanines, Feb. 16.—E. J. S. Brown, of this city, who represents the Finance Department at Ottawa is closely investigating wages earned by foreigners and others during the war with a view to having them made to pay under the Income War Tax. Mr. Brown is of the opinion that many of the foreigners, including numerous Austrians, Turks and other nationals carefully concealed what they made and beat the Canadian Government out of its just due. As an example, he discovered a Welland Austrian, Mike Ennis who as a steel worker earned $5,000 in one year during the war. Ennis was fined $1,000.

Mr. Brown thinks there are other foreigners in the district who did quite as well and he intends to ferret them out. The charge against the Austrian was that he made false returns as to his income.

Foreigners were not the only violators of the law. In this city it was commonly spoken of as a fact that some munition workers were making as high as $12 a day.

UNITED FARMERS COMPLETE PLANS OF ORGANIZATION

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.—United Farmers of Manitoba have completed organization work in every Federal constituency and have decided to nominate an independent farmers' candidate in each riding for the next Dominion election, according to announcement made Saturday by C. H. Burnell, of the Central Executive Committee.

Start Canvass March 8th

A canvass of the electorate will be started March 8th, Mr. Burnell added. He expressed the belief that before the membership drive concluded March 13th, every individual farmer and farmer's wife in the province will have been invited to participate in the agrarian "forward movement." Approximately 20,000 farmers and farmwomen will be employed in the campaign and all officials of the U. F. M. express confidence that to them refusals will be a rarity.

Ten of the constituencies are organized to work under a uniform plan of campaign. Every eight townships in these ridings comprise a unit under the direction of a captain, who is pledged to enlist 16 canvassers, who in turn will enlist assistance in covering their respective districts.

Reports are Optimistic

"Pledges of service,' said Mr. Burnell, "are flowing into the central office and indications are clear that the people of rural Manitoba are lining up solidly behind the new National policy.

"There is no intention of slighting the urban voter," he went on, "but the farmers, having initiated this policy, are determined to back it with men and money first, and plans are being made to canvass the electorate of cities and towns immediately the rural drive is concluded."

FARMERS WANT TO PAY INCOME TAX PERIODICALLY

At End of Say Three Year Periods and on Basis of Total Profit

Regina, Feb. 11.—"Farmers should not be required to pay come tax annually," thinks C. W. Springford, Secretary of Elrose local of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, who is in Saskatoon to attend the provincial convent'on of that body. "Take my own case, I have had two crop failures, in which I have lost about $7,500. Suppose that this year I get a ten thousand dollar crop. My net income for three years will be $2,500, or $833 a year. But I have to pay income tax on that ten thousand dollars.

"It is not so bad in the case of the small farmers, but becomes a very serious matter when a man is farming on a large scale, because for larger incomes the tax becomes practically confiscatory. There is a man in our district whose liabilities, due to two crop failures amount to about $50,000. He can reasonably expect, whenever he does have a good crop, to get about $150,000. But the income tax would take nearly a third of that, while his actual annual income, spread over a three-year period, would probably be less than $30,000."

Resolution Passed

The following resolution, moved by Mr. Springfield and seconded by A. J. Lehmkuhl, was passed by the Elrose Grain Growers at their meeting January 31st, and will probably be discussed at the Saskatoon convention:

Whereas, we, the members of the Elrose Grain Growers' Association, No. 184, are entirely in harmony with the levying of an income tax to provide public revenue.

And, whereas, it does appear to us that if affects the agricultural classes as it does no other profession, in view of the fact that the financial returns of our labor and expense depends almost entirely upon climatic conditions, which has been amply proven during the past few years.

And, whereas, the present method of applying the income tax does not make any allowance for losses, incurred in carrying on during poor years being deducted from any prosperous season, or seasons, such as the losses incurred during the years 1918 and 1919 being deducted from the profits of 1920 should they exceed the exempted amount.

Therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of the Elrose Grain Growers' Association, No. 184, do hereby place ourselves on record as being opposed to the present method and strongly recommend that the amount of the income tax to be levied on the agricultural class to be arrived at by distributing it over a period of at least three years.

And further that any losses incurred in carrying on in a poor year or years, be deducted from the profits of any prosperous year or years, before the exempted amount is granted.

And further, that the income tax act be amended to allow these deductions being made.

And further, that a copy of this resolution and preamble be forwarder to each member of the Provincial Legislature, also to the Income Tax Commission, Ottawa, for their consideration.

London, Feb. 11.—The Government is being urged to introduce nickel coinage and experiments have been made, but no definite step has yet been taken. The report that a big contract has been made with the Mond Nickel Company, which has large interests in Canada, appears to be without foundation.

OTTAWA RETAIL MERCHANTS WANT CANADA TRADE CLUB

Organized To Assist In Closer Business Relations With Great Britain and France

Ottawa, Feb. 11. — The Ottawa branch of the Retail Merchants' Association at the annual meeting unanimously passed a resolution expressing the conviction it was desirable to develop domestic trade and recommended that the Dominion board be instructed to take steps to organize a Dominion-wide trade club, looking toward closer business relations with Great Britain and France.

There was considerable discussion regarding the adverse exchange rate and the concensus of opinion was that the only way to make United States business accept the Canadian dollar at par was to refuse to deal with them until they would do so.

KAISER'S INVESTMENTS IN ALBERTA AND BRITISH COLUMBIA ALL A MYTH

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press)—State Department officials take issue with statements contained in a Toronto newspaper editorial of last Saturday on "The Kaiser's Political Investments" in Alberta and British Columbia, where it was stated that some millions of dollars' worth of property were held by Alvo von Alvensleben, afterwards rounded up as a spy. A high official of the department stated to the Canadian Press, that, instead of Alvensleben having several million dollars' worth of property tied up ready to hand over to Wilhelm, the Canadian Government had spent some thousands of dollars to learn that this and other similar stories were in the nature of myths.

FIGURES SHOW TRADE INCREASE GREAT BRITAIN

Board of Trade Report For January Announces Advance In Export Trade

London, Feb. 11—The recent efforts to stimulate the export trade of Great Britain to assist in righting the exchange position are indicated in the Board of Trade figures for January. These figures show that the export for the time on record totalled more than £100,000,000, or in exact terms, £105,879,000, this being an increase of £58,000,000 over January of last year.

Exports of manufactured articles increased 100 per cent., including an advance of £15,000,000 in cotton textiles, £6,000,000 in woolens and £4,000,000 in iron and steel products.

While imports were still large, totalling £183,000,000, or £48,000,000 over January last year, these were largely essential products, food imports showing an increase of £18,000,000 and raw cotton of £22,000,000.

QUEBEC VACANCY AN OPPORTUNITY TO TEST STRENGTH

And Solidarity of Quebec Liberals —Will Government Issue Writ?

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—A special dispatch to the Free Press from its Ottawa correspondent reads:

The death of L. A. Lapointe M.P. for the St. James division for Montreal, provides the Government, if it decides to take it, an opportunity to test out Liberal solidarity in the province of Quebec, and at the same time to secure French-Canadian representation in the cabinet. It provides the further opportunity of challenging the tariff reform movement which is gaining ground in certain parts of the Dominion.

Excellent Field

The vacancy has occurred coincident with the setting forth of a new national policy by Senator J. S. McLennan, a practical endorsation of this policy by the Montreal Gazette, and an editorial approval of moderation by La Presse of Montreal. Mr. Lapointe was a supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for many years, bolted on the low tariff amendment of the opposition to the budget last year, declaring frankly that his country did not favor free trade, and was protectionist in its leanings. The impression here is that the St. James division provides an excellent field for the government to run a candidate on moderate protectionist lines. There is also a vacancy in Temiskaming, created by the death of the late Hon. Frank Cochrane, and another in Kamourski, created by the election of Ernest Lapointe in East Quebec.

Writs Not Issued Yet

Writs for bye-elections in these have not yet been issued. It is not of course anticipated that anything will be done until after the government caucus which will be held when the session meets. At the caucus it is anticipated that union will be organized into a party with name and platform. The process without doubt will result in a number of defections but the platform will probably be along the general lines laid down by Senator McClennan and the Gazette.

Whether it is decided to go back to the old name, Liberal-Conservative, or to adopt the name "National" or "Moderate" it is generally believed that the practical effect of the re-organization will be a reversion to Conservative principles. Vacancies in the cabinet will follow almost inevitably, and what more natural than that the Government to prevent dissolution and at the same time to force upon the public view the fact of its re-organization, should seek the election for new ministers in the vacant constituencies mentioned.

Effect of Win

The winning of even one seat in Quebec would have a "moral" effect which could not be disregarded. On the other hand, defeat and failure of the plan would give the government at least an opportunity to retrim its sails for the general election which must follow. One of the main difficulties which confronted Sir Robert Borden in reconstruction of his cabinet along national lines has always been the impossibility of securing French-Canadian representatives. Another difficulty has been that of commending any candidate in any constituency to the electorate owing to the fact that union has neither party nor platform. Ministers kept out of bye-election fights and left good candidates wherever government candidates ran to their own devices. They failed to run a man in Assiniboia because they could preach neither protection nor low tariff. They gave no support to the candidate in North Ontario for the same reason.

In fact, the government has only had its record to commend to the electorate and the electorate these days is not interested in records. Policies for the future are asked for. t is obvious that in the adoption of such a plan as above set forth the government must anticipate a probable break up during the session owing to defections on the budget. The general desire however, would be to give the government an opportunity to get upon its feet and such a test as is suggested would conceivably be welcomed by all elements in the House.

QUALITY OF HOGS AN IMPROVEMENT

Eighty-two Per Cent. of Hogs Offered During Past Year Graded Number One

Toronto, Feb. 11.—The best attended of the many live stock meetings held at the Carls-Rite Hotel was the annual meeting of the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association, at which over 100 members, including several from the Western Provinces, were present. In the absence of the President and Vice-President owing to illness, J. E. Brethour, of Burford, presided, and in his introductory remarks referred to the rapid decrease of the swine population of Canada within the past year as the most serious problem in the live stock history. The falling off, he explained, was almost entirely in the ranks of commercial hogs, however, and he was pleased to be able to announce that the breeders of pure-bred swine for breeding purposes was as well stocked as usual and ready to take advantage of increased demand for which he sincerely hoped. A satisfactory condition with regard to the industry, he said, was the quality of the hogs now offered on the markets is an improvement on any former period; the packers having informed him that 82 per cent. of the hogs offered within the past year have been graded No. One. He said that a condition of wonderment affected many of the producers on account of the low prices paid for hogs at the present time, considering the high cost of feed, and he explained that this was due to the artificial conditions on the English market, where the price for pork products is fixed. This, he declared, was a special detriment to the Canadian packers and producers, as it allowed no discrimination in favor of high quality. The speaker said that he did not wish to condemn the action of the Board of Commerce in fixing the price for hog products in Canada, but the effect of this action in his own business as a breeder had been a falling off of 75 per cent. in the demand for swine for breeding purposes within a month.

MODERN ENOCH ARDEN TO RETURN TO FAR NORTH

Law May Intervene With a Charge of Bigamy—All Parties Are Aged

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 11—Joseph L. Link—modern Enoch Arden—planned to leave for Alaska Tuesday—whence he came, with his pockets lined with gold.

Monday night Link talked over the details of his supposed death in 1911—with Julius Walters, who has taken Link's wife for his own. Mrs. Link, who, until Tuesday, thought she was Mrs. Minnie Link Walters, sat by and listened. The story sounded exactly like Tennyson's "Enoch Arden," except that in the eyes of the law there enters the question of bigamy. And, certain insurance companies may seek redress.

All of this modern trio are old folks—grey haired. Walters is seventy.

Authorities Tuesday were trying to further identify J. L. Link who was buried nine years ago instead of Joseph L. Link. And in the meantime, the modern Enoch Arden, after seeing his children, expected to go back to Alaska—never to return.

ONTARIO MERCHANT VISITS GERMANY

Says Each Person Rationed on Quarter Pound Meat a Week

London, Ont., Feb. 11.—Germany is still on the most severe war-time food rations, in which milk can be procured only on a doctor's certificate, and in which such staples as potatoes or other vegetables are sold by the card system, according to Bernard Lastar, a London merchant who is now traveling through Central Europe en route to Palestine. Lastar, in a letter received by his wife today, states that each person is rationed on a quarter of a pound of meat a week, while heads of families are allowed to buy from a quarter to a half pound each of greens, barley, rice or flour. Persons who are engaged in particularly arduous labor, or sailors, are allowed slightly greater supplies.

Only sufficient fuel to heat one room in a house is allowed. Mr. Lastar enclosed samples of German substitutes for cloth. One imitation tweed of very fair appearance is made of paper which when immersed in water melts into pulp. The price of clothing he says is from 30 to 35 times greater than before the war. Since the signing of the Armistice rates have continued to advance.

The German people, he claims, have voluntarily accepted further curtailments of food rations in order that supplies may be sent to relieve actual starvation in Austria. When crossing the border between Holland and Germany, he claims to have seen thousands of children brought up from Austria to be fed by the Dutch. "It was a heart-rending scene," he writes, "to see these children so pale and emaciated, with eyes almost standing out of their sockets, grabbing for food. Each detachment of children is kept at the border three weeks until they are fed, and then they are sent back and another lot brought forward."

Travelling is very difficult owing to a shortage of equipment. When a train arrives in a depot, he says, there is such a rush to board that it is as much as a man's life is worth to join the contest.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE ORGANIZATION TO DIE SAYS SPEAKER

But Spirit Will Live To Teach Women Arts and Science of Politics

Chicago, Feb. 11—(United Press)—The woman's suffrage organization will die, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt said here Tuesday. But its spirit will live. It will survive in an organization to teach women the arts and sciences of politics.

"That's something men never had," Mrs. Catt said. "They needed it badly, too."

Mrs. Catt was one of the suffrage leaders here in advance of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association's final meeting to extend from February 10th to February 18th.

"For fifty-one years this organization has struggled to see the day of women's suffrage," Mrs. Catt said. "That day is dawning. There will be no further use for the organization which fought to put the women on equal terms with men. What will become of the organization at this meeting, I cannot say. Probably a new league will be divided into state organizations to teach women in the ways and arts of the political world."

LARGE DEFICIT IN TELEPHONE SYSTEM SHOWN

Manitoba Government Telephones Commission Report Loss For 1919

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—Manitoba Government Telephones Commission finished the fiscal year with a deficit of $25,691.60, as against a net surplus of $18,766.80 in 1918, according to the annual report of the Commission tabled in the Legislature Monday evening. It is pointed out, however, that if from the deficit is deducted $22,138.54, being the amount of the military payroll, the net deficit on operations for 1919 is only $3,553.06.

Gross revenue during the year was $2,219,996.25, an increase of $216,688.40 over 1918, and gross expenditures were $1,731,501.10 in 1919, as against $1,493,899.61 in 1918.

Increase in expenditures is attributed to increased wages, cost of material and extension of service.

During the year a net gain of 7,094 substations was made. Of these, 4,877 were located in Winnipeg.

Net earnings for 1919 were $488,595.15, as against $509,408.24 in 1918, a net decrease in earnings of $20,913.09.

POWER FOR RADIALS IN OLD ONTARIO

Hamilton, Feb. 11—F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, has set at rest the doubts about the ability to provide power for the radials. He informed the City Council that the Chippawa Development project would be completed in September, 1921, and would have a canal capacity of 450,000 horse-power. Two generators ordered for delivery in May of 1921 would have a 10,000 capacity, and by July or August of 1922 an additional 250,000 horse-power would be available.

This means that in 1922 there would be approximately 475,000 horse-power available for municipalities, a lot more than would be necessary.

Regarding the Hydro radials, the chief engineer declared that the 200-mile stretch, including main and branch lines, would not require more than 12,000 horse-power, which would be but an infinitesimal part of the horse-power that would be available.

Answering Controller Aitchison, Engineer Gaby said it was not a fact that two generators had been burned out because of being overstrained. It was but one of many wild rumors that were going the rounds. Engineer Gaby also assured the Council that when the development project was completed ice troubles would be minimized by the new intake methods employed. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the Hydro engineer.

U.S AID GIVEN TO PREVENT RUIN

London, Feb. 11.—The Daily News publishes in an editorial the statement by the British Charge d'Affairs at Washington which, it considers, "says plainly some plain things that needed saying."

"It cannot be made too clear either here or in the United States," continues the editorial, "that hope of continued support of the United States during the transition to peace conditions, of the nations she decided to support in war in 1917, is prompted in no sense by a desire of benefit for Great Britain, but solely by anxiety that the desperate financial condition of many of the lesser European states shall not degenerate into actual ruin." Viscount Grey's pronouncement on the subject of America and the League of Nations forms one topic of serious conversation among diplomatists and politicians and in the clubs.

"It is recognized," says the Daily Mail, "as having a very important bearing upon present relations between the United States and this country. It is generally agreed that Viscount Grey's letter, by explaining the peculiar difficulties of the United States constitution, has done much to dispel any misunderstanding existing in this country as to the reasons for the League of Nations reservations."

LABOR GOVERNMENT IN ENGLAND, NEXT

Montreal, Feb. 11. — Great Britain will be governed by a Labor administration after the next election, according to the prophesy of S. K. Ratcliffe, of the editorial staff of the Manchester Guardian, while addressing a meeting here. Although Labor will win by an overwhelming majority, Ratcliffe said, he felt certain drastic changes would not be made, as the Labor party was at present led by the conservative element.

MARSHALL REGRETS FARMERS ARE NOT PROUD OF CALLING

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 11.—Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, addressing the farmers' section of the Board of Trade, expressed regret that few farmers were proud of their calling. He believes in more education for the farmer, and says it should start in the public schools.

The high cost of living would remain with us, or go higher, he stated, unless there was greater production. He wondered if it ever occurred to the men who constitute boards to regulate and control prices, that they would do something really of service if they got more hens to lay and find means for increasing production in other ways. Mr. Marshall strongly urged the farmers to induce men to go to the land. A committee of the local branch was appointed to try and induce men to go to the farms this coming Summer.

HOW IS CANADA TO WIN SETTLEMENT

Of Debts Owed By Germany and Pay Germans What Is Coming?

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—The plan to be adopted by Canada to secure settlement of Canadians' claims against citizens of recently enemy states and to liquidate debts owing by Canadians to enemy nationals is being discussed by the Cabinet in the immediate future. The point to be determined is whether or not Canada shall join in the plan for a system of international clearing-houses for the liquidation of claims which is set forth in the Treaty of Versailles. Under the plan laid down in the treaty there is to be a central clearing-house and subsidiary offices in each country which subscribes to the plan. Canada has the option of accepting the treaty scheme or of undertaking the settlement of claims directly with the Governments of erstwhile enemy states acting on behalf of their nationals. If the Dominion Government decides on the latter course it has been suggested that it might liquidate enemy property in its possession and utilize the proceeds to meet Canadian claims against enemy nationals, to compensate Canadians for property in enemy countries sequestrated during the war, and to serve as security for payment of claims to be brought before the Reparation Committee when it meets in Paris.

Canadians Owe $1,700,000

Canadians owe about $1,700,000 to citizens of Germany and Austria and the Canadian Government under the clearing house system would be called upon to collect this, with interest at five per cent. and at pre-war rates of exchange. On the other hand the debts of enemy nationals to Canadians amount to $2,000,000. These debts would have to be collected by the various enemy Governments. Furthermore, the Custodian of Enemy Property in Canada holds property to the value of about forty millions, largely represented by stocks and bonds and a little real estate.

There has been some suggestion that these properties be liquidated and the proceeds be employed temporarily for the establishment of credits for Central European countries and that Canadian claims against enemies be met from the resultant business. The whole subject, which is a complicated one, will have early consideration by the Government.

JURY ACQUITS DIXON ON CHARGE SEDITIOUS LIBEL

In Connection With Three Published Articles on Winnipeg General Strike

WARNING FOR DIXON

Justice Galt Says He Showed Himself in Alignment In Unlawful Strike

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.—Fred J. Dixon, member of the Manitoba Legislature for Centre Winnipeg, charged with seditious libel in connection with three published articles dealing with the Winnipeg general strike, was found not guilty by the jury in the Assize Court this morning. He was discharged at once. The charge against J. S. Woodsworth of seditious libel was withdrawn by the Crown, he intended evidence being the same as in the Dixon case, but the charge of seditious utterance against Woodsworth stands over to the Spring Assizes.

When the jury pronounced its verdict after deliberating on the case since 4.30 Saturday afternoon, Dixon's friends in court broke into cheers and applause until they were silenced by the court crier. Dixon stood in the prisoner's dock and heard the verdict of acquittal calmly.

Justice Galt, who heard the case, congratulated the accused on the verdict, and said, "at the same time I would like to warn you not to take part in future in such transactions. Whether through ignorance or force of circumstances, you have shown yourself to be in alignment in fomenting what was in my opinion an unlawful strike.

"Fortunately for you, the jury found you not guilty of seditious intent in writing those articles. Other articles that you have written showed that you advocated constitutional methods in attaining reform. Free speech of course is always allowed under our constitutional rights."

CANADA CANNOT ACCEPT IMPAIRMENT OF HER STATUS

In the League of Nations—Mr. Rowell's Statement is Most Decisive

New York, Feb. 16.—The general impression prevails here that the Hon. Mr. Rowell's statements that Canada would not accept any impairment of her status in the League of Nations has strengthened the hands of the group of Senators opposed to the Lenroot reservations.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—(Canadian Press)—"If the United States Senate should accept the Lenroot reservation, either in its original form or amended as now suggested, and should also adopt the preamble as proposed, Canada, as one of the nations of the British Empire and a party to the treaty, would be called upon to decide what action she should take under these conditions. There can be no possible doubt what Canada's decision will be. She can not and will not consent to any impairment of her status and voting rights under the treaty.

"Therefore when final action on the treaty is taken by the Government of the United States, if the ratification can only become effective on Canada's assent thereto, the ratification cannot go into effect so far as Canada is concerned, as Canada will not give that assent."

In these words, Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, and who during the absence of the Prime Minister, is acting Secretary of State for External Affairs outlined Canada's position toward the treaty fight in the United States at a mass meeting of war veterans last night.

The party broke up

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jane Lown

Saturday afternoon the remains of the late Mrs. John Lown who passed away, at the age of 86, in Rapid City last Thursday, were laid to rest in Brandon cemetery following a short service at Campbell & Campbell's undertaking parlors. Rev. J. George Miller officiated. The deceased was an old timer of the Rapid City district and had a host of friends who will regret her death. The late Mrs. Lown is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George Rogers, 421 Ninth street, and Mrs. W. H. McFarlin, Rapid City.

Irene White

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. White, 469 Burrows Avenue, Winnipeg, will sympathize with them in the loss of their small daughter, Irene, who passed away Saturday morning at the age of thirteen months. Mr. and Mrs. White formerly resided in Brandon.

Mrs. Annie Longworth

On Wednesday the remains of the late Mrs. Annie Longworth, beloved wife of Mr. J. H. Longworth, 222 Thirteenth street, were laid to rest in Brandon cemetery. The pall-bearers were Alderman G. B. Coleman, Messrs. R. G. Macdonald, J. B. Whitehead, E. L. Christie, H. F. Maley and I. A. Robinson.

Following a short service at the family residence the cortege proceeded to St. Matthew's Church where the impressive burial service of the Anglican faith was conducted by the Rector, Rev. E. A. Anderson. Mr. R. C. Macdonnell presided at the organ and the choir led the large number of people present in the singing of the hymns. As the late Mrs. Longworth was Vice-President of the Women's Auxiliary the members of that organization attended the service in a body. Many beautiful flowers were evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held by a host of friends in Brandon.

Mrs. Henrietta Reed Johnstone

The death occurred very suddenly at Vancouver, B.C. on February 10th of Mrs. Henrietta Reed Johnstone, beloved wife of Mr. Milton Johnstone, manager of the Merchants Bank at Vegreville, Alta., and daughter of Mr. W. H. Reed of Wapella, Sask., formerly of Brandon. The deceased, who was twenty-four years of age, accompanied her husband to Vancouver where they intended to spend the balance of the Winter. Just after arriving Mrs. Johnstone contracted influenza, which was followed by pneumonia complications to which she finally succumbed.

The late Mrs. Reed was born in Brandon and is a granddaughter of Mr. N. Reed and Mr. L. Nelles of this city. About eleven years ago she moved to Wapella with her parents and later married Mr. Johnstone and went to Vegreville to reside. There are a great many friends of the family in Brandon and district who will sympathize with them in their bereavement.

Mrs. Leo Maloney

It was with regret that many Brandon friends of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Maloney learned of the latter's death which occurred last Saturday in Winnipeg. The late Mrs. Maloney came to Brandon with her husband from St. Cloud, Minn. over eight years ago and resided here up to last November. Mr. Maloney was a traveller for the International Harvester Company and in November of last year was transferred to Winnipeg where he was promoted to Assistant Manager.

The death of Mrs. Maloney was particularly sad as she had given birth to a baby girl last Thursday and succumbed to pneumonia on Saturday. Mr. Maloney is at home suffering from the ravages of la grippe and the only other member of the family is a small girl of six years. Mrs. Elizabeth Brick, the late Mrs. Maloney's mother, and a nurse are looking after the baby.

FROM HUDSON'S BAY BY RAIL TO PATAGONIA

Project Advanced By Recent Pan-American Financial Conference At Washington

LINE NORTH AND SOUTH

Would Reduce Time Spent in Travelling 10,000 Miles by Many Days

New York, Feb. 16.—Realization of the dream of a railway from Hudson's Bay to Patagonia and Buenos Aires has been brought nearer as a result of the recent Pan-American Financial Confenerce in Washington, according to Charles M. Pepper, who in 1903, was appointed by President Roosevelt under authority of Congress to visit the several countries from Mexico Southward and report on the project. A journey by rail from the Arctic Circle to the tip of South America—approximately 10,000 miles could be made under good traffic conditions, it has been entimated, in 16 to 18 days. At present 24 days are required for the 5,871 mile sea voyage from New York to the capital of Argentine.

The general idea outlined in the Pepper report was that the different South and Central American nations in their railway construction should give special attention to the links in a through intercontinental trunk line North and South which, ultimately would be joined. Attention was also given to the building of branch lines and "feeders," especially in South America, on the theory that in time there would be through lines from the Atlantic to the Pacific which would form intersecting systems.

Subsequent Pan-American conferences held at Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires approved the irea and continued the Pan-American Railway Committee. The International High Commission, nod renamed as the Inter-American High Commission, which was the outgrowth of the first Pan-American Financial Conference held in Washington in 1915 also approved the project and urged its support by the various republics.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH IN FIRE WHICH DESTROYS PARTLY FINISHED HOUSE

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Childish fingers playing with matches and paper caused a fire at the home of Herbert Buckland, Stop 29, Lake Shore Road, which destroyed Mr. Buckland's home and burned to death four-year-old Orrie Buckland. Herbert Buckland, who was playing with his brother at the time, fortunately escaped, and Mr. Buckland, who returned home to find his house ablaze, was seriously burned about the face and hands in attempting to save his son.

Herbert, aged six, told his father that he and his brother were playing with matches and paper, and as a result the curtains caught fire. The flames soon enveloped the room, and Herbert called to his brother to get out, but Orrie, instead, attempted to beat out the flames with a broom, was overcome by the dense smoke, and fell a victim to the fire.

Mr. Buckland built the house himself, and had just stepped across to a neighbor to tell him that he expected to finish the structure that night, when he chanced to look toward his home and saw it in flames. He rushed to the spot, and hearing that Orrie was in the house attempted to enter the house by way of a window, but

M'MILLAN PARTY TO PROBE SECRETS OF BAFFIN LAND

Plan To Spend Two Years In North, Leaving Boston July 1, 1921

Boston, Feb. 16.—Secrets of Baffin Land, one of the portions of the Arctic stih unexplored, will be the objective of the McMillan expedition which is in preparation now for departure in the Summer of 1921. Although the region was visited several times before the Pilgrims crossed the Atlantic to Cape Cod, Baffin Land from the point of view of explorers and scientists is still one of the richest and most alluring fields of esearch in the North.

Its whole Western shore, more than 1,000 miles in length, is but vaguely defined on the chart. Eskimos have told wonderful tales of vast lakes and towering mountains in the interior, but white men have never visited that section. Its flora and fauna have never been studied, little is known of the movements of the tidal currents along its shores, and facts of geology, minerology and meteorology await the coming of scientific observers.

The party headed by Donald McMillan, Peary's lieutenant on the expedition that reached the North Pole, plans to leave Boston about July 1st, 1921, and to reach Baffin Land in less than a month, with good luck. The following Winter will be spent on the Western shore in latitude 69. The camp will probably be just South of the entrance of the dangerous Fury and Hecla strait where the ships of Captains Parry and Lyon, seekers of a Northwestern passage, were blocked a century ago. That is 160 miles North of the Arctic Circle and 700 miles South of Etah on the shores of Northwestern Greenland where MacMillan's Croakerland expedition passed four Winters.

To Explore Interior

During the Winter attempts will be made by dog teams to explore the coast Northward and in the following Summer the interior of the island will be penetrated. The plans for the expedition call for an absence of two years from this country. In case a longer stay is necessary, no relief expedition will be sent, according to present arrangements. If the ship is crushed in the ice, the party plans to retreat by dog teams to Fort Churchill, the trading post at the foot of Hudson's Bay and to return to civilization by way of Northwestern Canada.

The schooner Bowdin named for the college of which MacMillan is a graduate and a present faculty member, will carry the expedition. It is expected that the vessel, which has been especially designed for the work required of it, will be launched at East Boothbay, Me., the coming Summer. It is to be of the Gloucester fisherman knockout type, of 110 tons displacement, of unusually strong constructure and sheathed on the outside with iron wood to esist the grip of the ice as far as is possible. It will be approximately 87 feet in length with a draught of 9½ feet, and will be equipped with crude oil engines capable of developing 60 horse power. In addition to 2,000 gallons of crude oil, 500 gallons of kerosene and 20 tons of coal, the Bowdoin will carry in her hold stores and supplies for six men for two years.

The MacMillan Arctic Association just organized with Lieutenant Peary as President will back the expedition. It is composed of Bowdoin College alumni and other friends of the explorer.

WILSON OBJECTS TO SETTLEMENT OF ADRIATIC QUESTION

As Proposed by Lloyd George—Allied Premiers Draft a Reply

Washington, Feb. 16. — President Wilson, it was learned today, did not say in a note to the Entente regarding the Fiume question that the United States would no longer be able to concern itself in European affairs if a Fiume settlement were made without consulting America. The United States would still continue in the councils but would ignore such a settlement of the Fiume question.

Memorandum Delivered

Paris, Feb. 16.—Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambasasdor, according to the Temps, delivered to the Foreign Office a memorandum from President Wilson in which the President said he could not approve of Premier Lloyd George's proposed settlement of the Adriatic question, which has been submitted to the Jugo-Slav. The newspaper says that an identical memorandum was delivered to the British Foreign Office in London.

The Tempe says President Wilson allowed it to be understood that the United States would find it impossible to continue in conference if the Allies settled the Adriatic question without consulting the United States.

The premiers have drafted a reply to President Wilson's nate on the Adriatic question which will be transmitted through the American ambassadors at London and Paris, according to a member of Premier Millerand's staff, who arrived in Paris last night.

The greatest discretion is being observed as to the contents of the reply, and it will not be made public until after it is received by the President of the United States. However, another delay in the Adriatic settlement as a consequence of the incident is foreseen in French official circles.

WILSON CONFESSES MEMORY LAPSE DAY OF KILLING

During Last Few Years He Has Felt His Mind Weakening From Troubles

Saskatoon, Feb. 14.—In a written confession covering twelve foolscap pages, John Wilson, under sentence of death to die April 23rd for wife murder, declares that several times in the last few years he had felt his mind weakening and that his love for Jessie Patterson and remorse over the trouble he had with his accounts as a mounted policeman, caused him to suffer a complete lapse of memory on the day he killed him wife, Mary Wilson. His Worship to sit down.

Defendant sought to show that the Mayor had "butted in" at the meeting when he was not an elected member of it, had "spoiled the harmony" of proceedings with interruptions, and that because of this being done he told the Mayor he did not want to hear about constituted authority at that particular time, following this up with an order to sit down.

LANSING RESIGNS ON REQUEST OF PRESIDENT WILSON

Because of Differences Dating Back To Peace Conference At Paris

LETTERS PUBLISHED

Show Dissatisfaction of President Wilson With the Secretary of State

Washington, Feb. 14.—Robert Lansing ended his career as Secretary of State, Friday, after President Wilson has accused him of usurping Presidential powers, by calling meetings of the cabinet during Mr. Wilson's illness.

Correspondence between the President and Lansing, beginning Feb. 7th and ending Friday, was given out last night at the State Department. Lansing's resignation was accepted to take effect immediately. The correspondence is coldly polite and between the lines runs an undercurrent of animosity that dates back to the Peace Conference in Paris which both attended.

"I must say," remarks the President in one of his letters, "that it would relieve me of embarrassment, embarrassment of feeling your reluctance and divergence of judgment, if you would give up your present office and afford me the opportunity to select some one else whose mind would more willingly go along with mine."

POLICE SEARCH FOR "FENCES"

With Whom Stolen Securities Valued at Millions of Dollars Have Been Left

Montreal, Feb. 14.—A New York special dispatch says: "Admissions by four of the six men arrested in the last three days in conjunction with the plot to steal securities in the financial district aggregating $5,000, led the police Friday to inaugurate a country-wide search for "fences." Criminals operating in Wall Street for two years are believed to have disposed of stolen securities valued at millions of dollars.

It is known that in confessions made by Joseph and Irving Gluck and Herbert and Rudolph Bunora, who, with "Big Bill" Furey, are under $100,000 bail each on suspicion of being concerned in the theft of $107,000 in securities from twelve brokerage houses in the city, the youths revealed that certain "fences" in the financial district had branch offices in Washington, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and Toronto, and that hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of stolen securities had been sent to these out-of-town offices to be pladged as collateral with banking institutions.

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb 14.—At fifteen minutes after twelve noon Friday, 18 hours after 2,000 members of the Grain Growers' Association in convention here had decided to place the whole question of the provincial political activities of the organized Grain Growers in the hands of a committee of five, the association unanimously rescinded their previous action, accepted the absolute resignation of the committee from its duties, and passed the work over to the central board in conference with the board of the women's section.

Amid scenes of excitement, the like of which never have been seen in any previous convention of the association in history, J. B. Musselman, secretary, charged the association with being the catspaw of a clique who were out to use the organization to further their own political ends, and warned them that their attitude was placing the association in a state of absolute chaos.

The situation became so warm that President Maharg had to warn the delegates that they were permitting themselves to do things against which they had fought for years and were in danger of splitting the association into a thousand pieces.

Mr. Musselman charged the delegates with sitting silent while the central board, president and secretary were being made the objects of insidious attacks and of making no protest when they were misrepresented and maligned.

Mrs. Flatt, one of the three ladies on the committee of five, told the delegates that under no circumstances would the women appointed serve on the committee, with the result that by a unanimous vote the association rescinded the previous action.

Despite an obvious attempt on the part of some to have the whole question re-opened with a view to having another vote taken on the question of immediately entering the political field provincially, some of the delegates held the convention together and put through a motion that the formation of the provincial platform be left to the central board in consultation with the board of the women's section.

This means that the next general convention, a year from now, will have to accept or refuse the provincial platform prepared by the two boards named.

MICROBES THAT ARE POISONLESS IS LATEST PLAN

Capt. David Thomson, R.A.M.C., Announces Discovery in "The Lancet"

A discovery that may prove of immense benefit in protecting us from influenza and bronchial and nasal catarrh is announced n The Lancet (London) by Cajt. David Thomson, R.A.M.C. This is nothing less than making microbes poisonless

Microbes make us ill by secreting poisons, or toxins, of two kinds, called endotoxins and exotoxins. The latter are set free in the blood and are easily got rid of, but the former are not set free except by killing the microbes. Both toxins cause our bodies to generate what are called anti-bodies—that is to say, antidotes. The anti-body set up by the exotoxin can easily be separated from the blood and injected into that of another person who has been attacked or who needs to acquire immunity. hTis is the secret of our medical serums and antitoxins,

But it is not possible to separate the anti-bodies set up by the endotoxins, for these remain within the microbes. The only way to utilize them was to inject the microbes themselves, previously killed, into the veins of the person it was sought to protect. But the dead microbes contain also the toxin, so they have to be used in very small numbers, otherwise they would give the disease and not the immunity.

Capt. Thomson has discovered a way of dissolving the toxins from the microbes by washing them in weak acid solutions This leaves microbes containing the anti-body producing elements, but not the toxic.

Capt. Thomson dared to experiment upon himself. He has always, he says, been very susceptible to influenza and catarrh, and in October last innoculated himself twice with a toxineless mixture of 5,000 millions of the Pfeiffer bacillus, the pneumococci and the steptococci which are supposed to be the cause of such complaints. In the result he found himself perfectly protectedfi but a month later was attacked with a catarrh which he ascertained by bacteriological examination was due to a microbe named after its discoverer, Bacillus Friedlander. He then gave himself an injection of 500 millions of the bacillus in question, from which the toxine had previously been removed, and got rid of the attack in one day He has since experimented on 150 persons with the compound vaccine given above, and has only one mild case of catarrh among the lot. The immunity, he thinks, lasts for about three months and, except for a slight local redness and tenderness, no inconvenience follows the injection.

ENORMOUS SUMS OF MONEY IN U. S. NATIONAL BANKS

Banking Power Now Nine Times Greater Than Thirty Years Ago

Washington, Feb. 14.—Banking resources of the United States now total more than $45,000,000,000. Comptroller of the Currency, John S. Williams, stated in his annual report to Congress. Of this , national bank on November 17th, 1919, held $22,444,000,000, an increase of $11,585,000,000 since August, 1914, and state banks on June 30th, 1919 held $26,380,000,000, an increase of $11,705,000,000 since June, 1913. It represents a banking power nine times more than it was thirty years ago, Williams said. One person out of every six has a bank account, according to the report.

Williams suggested that the United States might solve the question of collecting its foreign balances by furnishing European countries the crude materials and machinery which the people need, so they may convert the raw products into articles and merchandise worth from "ten to a thousand times the value of the raw materials."

Use Home Products

"To bring foreign exchange back to the old gold party," Williams said, "foreign nations must avoid purchase and importations of luxuries and refuse even to import essentials when these can be produced at home." Williams also declared every possible effort should be made to increase the production abroad of these things for which a market can be found in this country.

Williams, touching on the high cost of living, said bankers could be of tremendous help in restraining speculation in commodities as well as securities, if they would impress on business men that for the long run, an "assurance of future payment and substantial profit can be had only by reducing present profits to the thinnest reasonable margin and limiting earnings, dividends and additions to surplus, to the most modest figures consistent with safety." He pointed out that while volumes of transactions as expressed in dollars, has exceeded all records, there have been actual reductions in output of mines and factories.

DRAFT OF NEW FRANCHISE ACT IS NEARLY READY

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The cabinet committee in charge of the drafting of a new franchise act has, it is understood, almost completed its work. The proposed new act is based on the assumption that former acts are to all intents and purposes obsolete. The War Times Election Act is not in good repute. The act of 1919 is designed only for byelections, and the old Dominion Act has, it is claimed, become largely unworkable owing to important changes in recent years in the method of preparing Provincial lists which were used as the basis for Federal voting.

The Federal franchise, for instance, has been conferred on women but in Quebec women have not yet been declared eligible to vote for representatives to the legislature. Other provinces have adopted new methods of preparing lists. Ontario, for instance providing that they shall be taken by enumeration only in anticipation of a general election. Altogether it is contended that Provincial lists cannot be generally made the basis for the Federal franchise.

It is stated that the new act will provide for the preparation of Dominion lists, but that wherever practicable, Provincial lists may be made the basis of the Federal.

The War Time Elections Act and the By-elections Act both provided for the preparation of lists by enumeration. The new act, will, it is understood, perpetrate the principle.

If a recent provincial list exists anywhere, the enumerators would have power to strike off persons who might be entitled to vote in the Provincial, but not in the Federal elections, and to add names of persons federally, but not provincially qualified. Where no Provincial lists exist brand new lists would have to be prepared.

Qualifications Revised

In the matter of qualifications many of the objectionable features of the War Time Elections Act will be abolished and the provisions of the by-elections act will be adopted. As a matter of fact the right to vote depends primarily on citizenship and under the amended Naturalization Act it is in the power of the Secretary of State to refuse or grant naturalization as well as to deprive and individual already naturalized of his citizenship for cause. Under the By-elections Act personal naturalization is required. That is to say an alien could not quality for the federal franchise through marriage with a British subject or through the naturalization of a parent. This reservation however did not apply to persons born on the North American continent. Under the By-elections Act moreover provision was made whereby a woman, otherwise qualified who had lost her citizenship through marriage with an alien could secure the franchise.

A further provision of the new act, it is rumored, will be a requirement that the sources of campaign funds be made public. Strong pressure is being brought to bear to have the principle of proportionate representation applied in future federal elections and the calling of a "speakers conference" has been mooted. Whether the principl is applied or not, it is fully believed that the next redistribution will increase the representation of urban centres.

INCREASED PAY FOR SLEEPING CAR PORTERS ON C.P.R.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—By an award of a Board of Conciliation filed with the Minister of Labor, the sleeping car porters employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway are to receive increased pay as follows: Sleeping and tourist car porters, $75 a month for the first year, $80 the second and $85 for third year men and after. The present rate is $75 a month. Observation, compartment and buffet sleeping car porters are to get $92.50 a month as compared with the present rate of $85. The increases date back to December 16th, 1919, and the recommendations made are to remain in effect for one year, unless changed at a conference to take place before May 1st of this year.

The award is signed by Judge C. Snider, of Hamilton, and U. E. Gillen, of Toronto. The majority award makes no recommendation on the dismissal of seven porters whose cases were heard by the board.

AFRICAN TRIBE PURIFIES RELATIVES OF DEAD CHIEF

Mission At Work in Ankole, a District To West of Ugand

Letters from Rev. John Roscoe, dated October and November, 1919, announce that the Mackie Ethnological Expedition is now at work among the Bahima, an important pastoral tribe of Ankole, a district to the West of Uganda, says The London Times.

The King and the native Prime Minister are doing all they can to help the expedition, and the principal chiefs are friendly. The Prime Minister has men at work collecting native medicines, some of which are extensively used, and may prove a value to science

The subjects hitherto investigated include the clans and their totems, relationship, rules of marriage, government, life in the cattle kraals, the distribution of cattle and the customs of burial and mourning in the royal family and in the families of chiefs.

Interesting information has been obtained as to the customs of adoption and inheritance

After a death the head of a clan comes and purifies the dead man's sister and she purifies her brother and all the property before he can inherit. Succession is in the male line, but there are customs pointing to an earlier practice of descent in the female line. The king's sister is bound to marry a prince from a neighboring pastoral tribe, who comes to live with his wife near the King of Ankole; yet the prince's brother, the king of the neighboring country, may never approach or see the King or Ankole.

Gen. Doumanis was sentenced to penal servitude for life, the dispatch says. Two others were acquitted.

A C.A.M.C. ambulance conveyed Isabella Angus, one of the two ladies who were in the car, to her home, in Moxam Court, River avenue, while the other lady, who had been somewhat shaken but uninjured, hurried away from the scene. "In my opinion, we shall be in the thick of a national strike in six weeks,' the Labor member is quoted as saying. "If it comes to a question of striking for an increase in wages or for nationalization, I think it will be for nationalization."

McKELVIE COMMUNITY CLUB STAGED "THE MINISTER'S BRIDE"

"The Minister's Bride" staged recently by some of the members of the McKelvie Community Club was a huge success from every viewpoint. Much credit is due the stage director, Miss G. The cast included, Mrs. C. A. Sopp, Mrs. C. Shields, Mrs. Boleyn and Mrs. Mumby, and Misses S. Chapman, E. Sopp, McRae, Finlay and Oversby, Messrs. PRESS FOSTERED WRONG IDEA OF PART U.S. PLAYED

Washington, Feb. 12.—Rear-Admiral William S. Sims, before the Senate committee investigating naval decorations, defended himself against charges that he had sought to "belittle the part of the American army and navy in the war."

Three members of the United States Congress had visited Admiral Sims in France during the war, and it was to these that the naval officer was supposed to have made the disparaging remarks. Representative Byrnes, called as a witness, declared that Admiral Sims stated to him that the armistice had been forced on the Allies through the failure of the American troops to break through the German lines, the failure being due to a breakdown of the American supply service. Mr. Byrnes said he reported this to President Wilson.

Admiral Sims, on the stand, denied that he had made such statements, except in repeating rumors then current in France, and which he warned his hearers not to believe. He further denied that he had told Mr. Byrnes that the American merchant marine could not be developed, and the seas should be left to Great Britain.

Senator Glass, who was a member of Congress at the time, was another witness. He said, however, that he understood the admiral, in telling what he had, to be reporting matters which he believed to be true, not aiming to discredit the American effort.

Admiral Sims said that his remarks had been misunderstood, or else confused with statements made by others. He had sought to disabuse the minds of his visitors of the belief that the Americans were "winning the war," because that was "not true, and hurting us with the Allies."

"All Americans who went on board were shocked at what I had to tell of the relative amount of work done by our officers," he said.

The American press fostered a disproportionate idea of the part the United States was playing in the war.

FINEST TIMBER LAND VANCOUVER ISLAND IS SOLD

Winnipeg Syndicate Completes Deal With Vancouver Firm —Price $500,000

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—J. S. Hough K.C., the trustee for a Winnipeg syndicate, has just completed the sale of block 93, Nelson district, Vancouver Island, containing upwards of 6,000 acres, to Bloedel, Stewart & Welch, Limited, of Vancouver, for approximately $500,000. This is claimed to be one of the finest tracts of timber at the coast, is situated within a distance of three miles from Union Bay, and is practically level, or sufficiently so to enable the operation of a logging railway on comparatively easy grades. The limits are said to contain from 350,000,000 to 400,000,000 feet of excellent fir, spruce, hemlock and cedar. The fact of its being crown granted means freedom from all government royalties and export duties, and this, together with its close proximity to tide water, and the low cost of operation, makes is one of the most desirable logging propositions in the coast country.

It is understood that the purchasers have already commenced the construction of a logging railway and a dock at Union Bay, and within two months will be in a position to begin active operations. It is likely that the greater portion of the logs will be taken to Bellington, Washington, and there manufactured at the mill of Mr. Bloedel, one of the members of the company.

The vendors are all residents of Winnipeg and have held the limits for many years.

J. P. MORGAN CO. NEW YORK GETS MANITOBA BONDS

Bonds Amounting to $2,498,000 Sold to Toronto Firm Returned to Government

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—It was learned semi-officially at the government buildings Wednesday that the recent trouble concerning the sale of provincial bonds to the amount of $2,498,000, in Toronto, resulted in immediate disposal of them to the J. P. Morgan Company of New York. The bonds were originally sold to a Toronto combination, which, however, a few days ago threw them back on the hands of the government.

Hon. Edward Brown left immediately for the East where, it was stated, he carried on negotiations resulting in the sale of the bonds to the New York corporation. It is stated that the bonds obtained a price which, in Canadian currency, amounts to approximately $105. The Provincial treasurer will issue a statement today.

FORTY CALGARY SCHOOL TEACHERS ILL WITH FLU

Calgary Herald: "Although there are 40 teachers off duty in the Calgary schools, the attendance is holding up fairly good." There is only about 12 per cent of the pupils absent in most of the schools and many of these are staying away because they are afraid of contracting the epidemic and not because they are sick.

The situation in the Stanley Jones, Alexandra and Haultain schools is more acute, as there are from 20 to 25 per cent. absent. If the situation in these schools becomes any worse it is likely that they will be closed within the next 24 hours.

WELFARE OF

As a result of this report a committee was appointed and authorized to go ahead and see to what extent the homes would welcome co-operation. A representative group of parents and others interested in children met at the home of Mrs. Fitzpatrick and discussed the whole situation, and decided that the only way to secure a representative opinion would be to have group meetings in different parts of the city and place the following concrete suggestions before them:

1. Would parents and others in your locality welcome an opportunity to meet occasionally at one of the homes and discuss some of the difficult problems that confront them in the bringing up of children?

2. How often would you think such a group could or would meet?

3. Would you think it advisable to have a general meeting of all groups occasionally, and how often?

4. Would you be willing to appoint a representative from your group to form a central executive committee for the groups?

Group meetings to discuss these suggestion were held in the following homes: Mrs. Strange, Rosser West; Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Munroe, Mrs. Norman Johnson, Mrs. A. W. H. Smith, Mrs. A. McGregor, Mrs. A. White, Mrs. McQueen. In every case the groups were favorable. Those attending expressed the view in many cases that such groups should be community groups open to anyone who might be sufficiently interested to attend. This view was heartily welcomed by those who initiated the movement. In some of these group meetings the interest was keen and arrangements were made for a first discussion meeting within the next week or two. In every case the group appointed a representative to a central executive, the representatives being Mrs. T. Grieve, Mrs. J. E. Matthews, Mrs. A. R. Wilde, Mrs. A. T. McNeil, Mrs. N. E. Johnson, Mrs. C. F. Stewart, Mrs. W. E. Strange, Mrs. R. Cross.

A meeting of this executive committee together with the original initiating committee met at the Y.W.C.A. on Eleventh street and decided to submit the following suggestions to the separate groups:

1. That the organization be known as "The Child Problems Club of Brandon."

2. That the purpose of the organization be: "To meet in small groups in homes for round table conferences on problems connected with the education and training of children."

3. That meetings of the groups be held monthly and preferably during the last week of each month.

4. That a general meeting of all groups be planned for the month of May, at which time a president and secretary should be elected.

5. That the representative from each group be responsible for arranging the first meeting of her group, and also for acting as secretary of her group, so that a report of meetings might be handed in to the central executive.

6. That a list of topics be submitted to the groups for their consideration so that they might decide what subjects should be discussed.

7. That the topic of the first meeting be 'Preventable Sickness."

The topics to be submitted were as follows: "Are children being spoilt by too easy discipline?" "How can little children be prepared for school and later be helped when at school?" "Movies—the good and bad in them." "How may the home do its part in the religious education of its children?" "The value of story-telling in the home." "What shall our children read?"

WENT A-WOOING WITH LOADED GUN

Lovelorn Toronto Swain Alleged to Have Pointed Revolver at Man

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 12.—When the uncle of the lady of his heart refused to allow Melville Hueston, Huron street, permission to visit the fair one, the angry young swain is alleged to have attempted to persuade the uncle to alter his mind at the business end of an ugly-looking automatic. Conseuently Hueston is under arrest on a charge of pointing a revolver at Albert Trinney, 120 Bay street. The gun was fully loaded. The arrest was made by plainclothesmen Sullivan and Parrish.

Mr. Trinney has an office at the above address. Apparently, the police say, he had no desire for Huestons association with his niece, so he forbade him to call on her. Whereupon Hueston is alleged to have bought himself a gun, and calling upon Mr. Trinney, to have levelled the weapon. Someone in the office, however, caught Hueston's arm from behind and Mr. Trinney and the man succeeded in wrenching the gun from Hueston's hand. The police were then called, and Hueston was handed over to them. The automatic was open and ready for action when taken from Hueston.

CANADIAN LIVE-STOCK MEETINGS MOST SUCCESSFUL

Large Attendances at All Meetings Despite Prevalence of Flu in Toronto

The annual meetings of the various Dominion livestock associations in Toronto were the most successful in their history, according to W. I. Smale, who along with fourteen other representative men from this Province attended the meetings. Over fifty members were present from Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan while the Eastern provinces were of course more heavily represented. Large attendances featured all the meetings despite an outbreak of the flu in Toronto.

Many resolutions affecting the livestock industry were passed and several of the resolutions were really ones that had been proposed in this city in January at the annual meeting here of the Provincial associations. The Western proposals were all well received and great success was reported from all associations. Mr. Smale and Mr. Gordon of Oak Lake were re-elected as directors of the Wool Growers.

Speaking of the flu epidemic in the East, Mr. Smale said that the conditions were pretty bad. However great precautions were taken and the meetings held by the livestock men did not suffer because of the prevalency of the disease. On their way home though several of the delegates were taken from the train with the flu, but Mr. Smale added that the flu now going the rounds is not near as bad as last year. People are able to be up and around as usual after five days illness, Mr. Smale said.

IMPERIAL VETERANS OF VANCOUVER HOLD A STORMY SESSION

Vancouver, Feb. 17.—Stormy scenes featured a special meeting of the Imperial Veterans held on Sunday evening to receive the report of the delegation which attended the recent Dominion convention at Winnipeg.

Following a brief resume of the convention presented by Comrade Dr. J. A. Montgomery chairman of the delegation, a lively debate marked the proceedings. As soon as Comrade Montgomery had concluded, three comrades demanded to know why President Crossland, of the Vancouver branch, had not been elected as Dominion President, according to the questions wired to the delegation. At this point, President Thomas, the new Dominion President, arose to speak, but could not get a hearing.

Comrade Mohtgomery explained the proceedings that had led to the election of Comrade Thomas as the executive head of the Dominion command. He stated that he, Dr. Montgomery, had been appointed to the Dominion committee, which had agreed to allow British Columbia delegates to elect the President, the Manitoba veterans being given the choice of the secretary-treasurer, the other provinces various executive offices. He added that when Comrade Crossland's name was proposed to the convention as Dominion president, objection was raised by a number of delegates who did not wish to vote for anyone who was not present.

New York, Feb. 13.—The New York Stock Exchange will erect a new building on Wall street, to cost $3,000,000.

MINIMUM SALARY

The Deputy Minister of Education for Saskatchewan reports in 1918 that in spite of training 899 teachers in Saskatchewan and receiving 609 who had taken training elsewhere, it was necessary to issue 98 permits. He also deplores the gradual disappearance of men from teaching. These conditions prevail in spite of the higher salaries paid in Saskatchewan. Alberta has established a minimum salary of $840 a year for teachers in an effort to stabilize the profession in that province. It has been found, however, that the establishment of this minimum has not adequately met the situation.

Manitoba Shortage

In Manitoba, when school opened at the beginning of September, 1919, there were about 200 schools unable to operate owing to the shortage of teachers, but most of these were placed in operation within the next three or four weeks. During the first eleven months of 1919 the Department of Education issued 337 permits to fill the gap. The latest figures available show that on December 1st, 1919, the number of permits in force was 259, most of which were in rural schools. This migration to Saskatchewan and Alberta is to a large extent caused, in the opinion of the commission, by the larger salaries paid in these provinces. In 1917 the average salary in Manitoba was $751, and in Saskatchewan $868. In this connection, however, it is only fair to point out that the average salary for Manitoba is the actual average cash paid out per teacher, while the figure for Saskatchewan represents the rate of pay per teacher. There is a large number of Saskatchewan schools that operate for only part of the year, and, consequently, the actual cash paid out per teacher is smaller than for Manitoba. But it must be remembered that it is the rate of pay while employed that proves the attractive feature. Other causes which would account for the shortage brought out by the evidence were the usual matrimonial inroads upon the ranks of the teachers, and the increased number of attractive openings for women in the commercial world during the period of the war, which absorbed a good many actual and prospective teachers.

Leakage Through Matrimony

From the above survey of conditions and supply of teachers, present and prospective, it is evident that both teachers and trustees and the public generally must realize the seriousness of the shortage of teachers, and that some method of co-operation must be attempted if the work of the Department of Education is to be effective. While there will always be a leakage by reason of the marriage of teachers, it is eminently desirable that no teacher should be allowed to leave the province or pass into other accupations on account of inadequate salary, which from the evidence submitted, the commission is of opinion is the chief factor in the migration which has taken place. The solution of the problem of the rural school lies to a large extent in the retention of properly qualified and competent teachers.

Recommendations of Commission

Under the head of 'recommendations" the report states:

"Your commissioners have had several suggestions for improving the conditions of the teaching profession and standardizing the profession as nearly as possible, and it would be well to dispose of them in the first instance, as they fall within the jurisdiction of trustees, and departmental bodies respectively."

The report then discusses the question of teachers' residences; better professional training of teachers; establishment of a pension fund; the establishment of salary schedules; and the organization of Municipal School Boards.

With regard to the evidence for a minimum salary for teachers in the public schools, the Commission has been faced with this fact—that such a minimum affects almost entirely women teachers. The difficulties which have emerged and which confront the Commission are so numerous and varied that, the report states, it is a hopeless task in a report such as this to adequately provide a remedy. If conditions throughout the province were uniform, then the fixing of a minimum salary would not be a difficult matter.

The Commission feels that its work is almost entirely preparatory work and has come to the conclusion that whatever recommendations are made could only be temporary and tentative, and some other method must be devised by which the question of salaries and schedules can be permanently and definitely fixed and revised from time to time.

Permanent Teachers' Board

The specific suggestion is in the appointment of a permanent board. The report reads: "We would advise the appointment of a permanent board, to be called the board of reference, or some other suitable title, to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, on the recommendation of the Minister of Education, and to consist of three persons, as follows: (a) A representative of the school trustees of the province (b) a representative of the school teachers of the province; (c) a disinterested person to be chairman of the board. This might be authorized and empowered somewhat as follows: (a) To ascertain and declare and make orders relative to standards of minimum wages for teachers; (b) to ascertain and declare what are reasonable increases to be allowed to teachers as a recognition of successful teaching experience and to make orders relative thereto, and to fix such increases. (c) To hold such investigation into all cases where it is made to appear to the board upon complaint of any person or organization that a disagreement between teachers and trustees has arisen, or wherever the board has reason to believe that such a disagreement is likely to arise, and to make such report thereon as seems to be just and reasonable, having regard to all the interests involved in such disputes and the special circumstances existing, or likely to come into existence, in the matter affected."

The report concludes with the statement that the placing of the profession on a proper footing is a matter of great difficulty and can only be done step by step and tentatively by a permanent body closely in touch with the situation and with power to adjust as circumstances would warrant.

The commissioners make the suggestion that this board should fix a minimum of $950 for third-class certificates and $1,050 for second-class certificates.

FATHER AND SON WEEK COMMENCES SUNDAY MARCH 21

Arrangements Being Made For Special References From Brandon Church Pulpits

ARRANGE FOR BANQUET

On Thursday, March 25th, To Be Attended By Fathers and Their Sons

Father and Son Week will be observed commencing Sunday, March 21st. Four Ministers have already signified their willingness to hold Father and Son services on this date in their churches. It is expected that others will also make special observance of the week in their sermons on that Sunday.

It was decided to have the annual observance of Father and Son week on the dates mentioned at a joint meeting of the Advisory Committee of Boys' Work and the executive of the Older 'Teen Age Boys held in the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening. It is expected that on Thursday, March 25th, a special Father and Son banquet will be held, but arrangements for this event have not yet been completed. Other programs will probably be arranged for other days and it is hoped that the general observance of the week will be greater than ever before.

Planning Athletic Meets

In co-operation with other "Meets" being held in the various cities throughout Canada in April, the Junior 'Teen Age Boys will hold an indoor athletic meet on Thursday, April 8th. The older 'teen age boys' athletic meet will be held Thursday, April 29th. The boys who take part will compete more for group honors than for individual recognition and their records will be sent to Toronto for comparison with the records of other boys' groups competing in the various cities. It is hoped to arrange for a monster outdoor athletic meet to take place in this city on May 24th.

CHURCHILL EXPLAINS BRITAIN'S POSITION SINCE GREAT WAR

Army Cannot Be Reduced

London, Feb. 24.—Hon. Winston Churchill addressing the House of Commons, said that Great Britain's army should be slightly bigger than before the war, but that she was returning to arrangements which in peace were identica. with those under which the country lived before the war. It was idle to pretend that Great Britain's pre-war army was proportionate to the risks she ran or to the important part she played and aspired to play in European diplomacy. That was why the German menace did not allow of any reduction to be made in the garrison of the British Empire. On the other hand, he explained, new responsibilities overseas had been placed on the country in consequence of the war, and, besides, the whole Eastern world, in which Britain was interested more than any other power, was in a state of extreme disquiet.

"Considering our burdens throughout the middle East, Constantinople, Egypt, Persia and Mesopotamia," Mr. Churchill said, "no relief can be expected until a real peace is made with Turkey. We have lost ground steadily during the whole of last year, and I trust that having disposed of our armies we shall not now take steps which would drive the Turkish people to despair, or undertake any new obligations because our resources are not equal to their needs.

Peace With Turkey

"We do not know when peace with Turkey will be made or what degree of acquiescence it will demand from the Turkish people. We do not know what aggressive actions the Russian Bolsheviki will take in this sphere. We do not know how far Viscount Milner's Commission may be able to reduce the contention in Egypt, we do not know when our responsibilities in Constantinople will terminate or when the expense of maintaining an international force there will be taken by an international body."

In replying to the debate, Mr. Churchill emphasized his confidence in what the country would say when the general election came to a government which, in abolishing conscription, had set an example to the whole world, "even to pious America."

Captain William Wedgewood Benn interjected:

"A disgraceful sneerer."

Mr. Churchill retorted to Captain Benn, who is slight of stature, but who, however, has won the D.S.O., and numerous other honors for valor in the late war, "any honorable friend would really not develop more indignation than he can contain."

The army vote for 75,000,000 pounds, on account of which the debate was raised, was agreed by 215 against 52.

PORT ARTHUR-NIPIGON ROAD TO BE PARTIALLY BUILT THIS SUMMER

Port Arthur, Ont., Feb. 24. — The road to Nipigon will be continued this Summer. This statement was made by J. F. Whitson, Road Commissioner for Ontario, in a letter to the President of the Port Arthur Board of Trade. Mr. Whitson further says that the bridge across the McKenzie River will be commenced in the early Spring. He does not say how much is going to be done this year, but promises all that conditions will permit. Grading and gravelling the road from Dorion to Loon will also be continued.

PROMPT ARREST OF MAN SUSPECTED OF BURGLARY

Acting On Information From Brandon, Winnipeg Police Recover Property

Some clever ferreting by Detective Barlow of the local police force resulted in the capture of Edward Kazmierczuk in Winnipeg Monday evening. Kazmierczuk will now be brought back to Brandon on the charge of having broken into the second hand store of Freedman Bros. last Sunday morning. A letter from the Winnipeg Police Department states that the articles which were stolen have been recovered with the exception of the revolver. The Winnipeg police say Kazmierczuk has confessed theft.

Kazmierczuk registered at one of the local hotels under the name of Edward Bruce and is known here as the "Casso Kid." He was staying here last week with a negro friend of his and late Saturday asked the negro for a loan of money to go to Winnipeg where he hoped to cash a money order. He left the city rather hurriedly on Sunday morning, and Detective Barlow who was assigned to the case brought out the above facts and later discovered other circumstances which lead to Kazmierczuk being suspected as the thief. Accordingly a wire was sent to Winnipeg, notifying the police there to look out for him, and the arrest took place Monday night. In the letter from Winnipeg received this morning, it is stated that the watches, club bag and boots have been recovered, but that the revolver has yet to be located.

TEN MILLION PEOPLE MAY BE ON VERGE OF STARVATION NEXT SUMMER

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Dr. J. W. Robertson, C.M.G., speaking before the Canadian club on Monday, said that in Europe today there were between ten and fifteen million people who, during the coming Summer, will be either on the verge of destitution or absolutely starving. As Canadian Minister of Food Supplies, Dr. Robertson said that, while Canadians were clamoring for the Government to pull prices down, European Governments were trying to keep them up because there was little hope of production without good prices. Canada's reputation now was such that she would get the world's best prices for all she had to sell.

"My own opinion is that we shall, in the next few years, do well in agriculture, with profits in response to effort."

LEDUC, ALBERTA, CENTRE OF THRIVING DISTRICT

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 24.—Five or six thousand dollars a day is a fairly good income. It represents the revenue which farmers in the Leduc district derive from the marketing of grain, livestock and general farm produce on days when weather, roads and railway car accommodation are especially favorable. Taken the season through it will be seen that the total value of the district's farm production looks like the financial statement of the Standard Oil Company in a palmy year. Over 750,000 bushels of excellent grain has already been shipped, with the balance in the elevators. Owing to a protracted freight car shortage the grain movement has been slow for the most part of the Winter and only recently outgoing shipments were speeded up sufficiently to permit hauling from the farms to reach capacity.

DEATH OF YOUNG BUSINESS MAN

John H. Hines, Served as Major With 79th—Death Occurred In Trinidad

The announcement of the death in Trinidad, February 6th, of Mr. John H. Hines, formerly Manager of the Hanbury Hardware Company in this city, will be regretted by a large number of friends in Brandon. A cable announcing the death of Mr. Hines was sent from Trinidad to Mr. A. W. Kreutziger of Brandon, but never arrived, owing to wire trouble en route. The first intimation of the death of this well known Brandon man was received in a letter from Mr. Kreutziger this morning.

The late Mr. Hines was born at Brantford, Ont. and came to Brandon in 1907. He was for a number of years President and Manager of the Hanbury Hardware Company and also Manager of the Manitoba Hardware and Lumber Company. Mr. Hines had been identified with the militia for twenty-two years and held the long service medal. He joined the Dufferin Rifles in Brantford and when he came to Brandon was for some time Paymaster of the Twelfth Manitoba Dragoons. Upon the formation of the Seventy-ninth Battalion the late Mr. Hines was given the rank of Major in this unit and proceeded overseas with the Battalion and later to France. Returned to Canada on sick leave, Mr. Hines upon recovery, went back to England in February, 1917, and was attached to the Forestry Corps until September, 1918, when he was again sent home on sick leave.

Early in the year the late Mr. Hines went to Trinidad accompanied by his mother, sister and brother, where they intended to spend the Winter. Mr. Hines became very ill with dysentry and died about ten days after his arrival in Trinidad.

The late Mr. Hines was a prominent member of the Masonic Lodge and always took a keen interest in affairs of the city.

NORTHERN DOG RACE PROMISES BEST IN HISTORY

Over a Course of 100 Miles From The Pas To Sturgeon Landing and Return

WELL KNOWN DRIVERS

Alaskan Musher, Walter Gerne, Enters His String of Malamutes

The Pas, Man., Feb. 24. — Alaska malmutes, collies, greyhounds, sheep dogs and Northern huskies are the species of animals entered in the Hudson's Bay Dog Derby classic which will be held here on March 17th. The race is run from The Pas to Sturgeon Landing and return, a distance of 100 miles, for a purse of $1,000 and the Derby Cup. The teams will be sent away from scratch after dark on Tuesday, March 16th, finishing it is expected 12 hours later on the Saskatchewan river. It is a no-stop race and the first over the finishing line wil be declared the winner.

Previous races have been run in blizzards making the trails blind and the going very rough, tiring the dogs [illegible] With anything like fair weather conditions this time may be bettered by three to four hours. The entry of Walter Gerne, the Alaska musher, with his string of malamutes has made is difficult to select the favorite. Eliminating Gerne from consideration experienced dog men believe Larry McKay, of Grand Rapids, looms up the most promising. McKay finished second in last year's derby. He drives a wild Barren Lands wolf team, nervous and fierce with enough fleetness of foot to outdistance anything in the race if they can be controlled and kept to the trail.

The Hayes and Campbell brothers are well drilled in derby fixtures and like the other large number of entries they are keeping to the bush, training their teams and laying low for surprises. So far the entry list comprises the following well known mushers: Larry McKay, Joe St. Goddard, Jack and Bill Hayes, Gabriel and Bateese Campbell, Chas. Dysart, Bill Grayson, Vednon Walker, Walter Broosk, J. Bjorkman, Jack Quickley, Billy Rusick, Walter Ross, Chas. Partridge, Billy Lundy, Adam Ballentine, Sam. PROVINCIAL TREASURER CLAIMS SURPLUS

For the Fiscal Year Ending December 31, In Annual Budget Speech

ACCUMULATED SURPLUS

For Five Years of Norris Administration Amounts To $680,599

Winnipeg, Feb. 24.—A surplus of $441,285 for the fiscal year ending December 31st, was claimed by the Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer, in his annual budget speech delivered in the legislature this afternoon, which he said was the largest in the history of the province. It made, he said, an accumulated surplus of $680,599 for the five years of the Norris administration.

The revenue for year was $8,986,076 which exceeds the estimate by $535,676, chief increase being $147,878 in school lands, $104,000 in automobile licenses and $120,000 in telephones.

The gross debt of the province, he said, was now $39,820,877, but deducting from this the revenue bearing debt to the extent of $22,647,510, and unexpended capital and investments, the net debt was shown as $12,769,672.

"It is a revival that we need," he added. "The gospel is adequate to meet the situation."

In the late recent financial campaign of the Forward Movement the Griswold Circuit did splendidly and practically secured their objective of $3,000. This is a Union Church and not a Methodist as previously mentioned.

MANY RESOLUTIONS TO BE SUBMITTED TO PARLIAMENT

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The order paper for the coming session is already adorned with several interesting items. J. H. Burnham, M.P. for West Peterboro, has a resolution calling for a full and free discussion of the "desperate" conditions arising out of the high cost of living and the price of fuel. General Sir Sam Hughes, from the hospital at Toronto, has sent in a resolution calling upon the House to vindicate the action taken by Major Hirsch and Captain McCaulay in connection with the Guelph novitiate raid. The resolution affirms that these men acted to the letter upon instructions of their superiors and that their action in every case was satisfactory, "tact and discretion being used towards the parties immediately concerned."

Civil Service Considered

General Hughes has another resolution on the paper, which reads as follows: "That in the opinion of this House the best interests of Canada and its people would be served and the principles of responsible government would be maintained by a system of political patronage wherein appointments to and promotions in both the outside and inside civil service would be brought under the specific consideration and recommendation of members of parliament or the defeated candidates of the party in power always having due regard for the stability of the service, the promotion of deserving officers and the proper conduct of the business of the country, and that the Civil Service Act be amended in conformity therewith and also to place the civil service commission in an unequivocal position consistnt with its dignity and importance in a new sphere of action."

J. H. Sinclair, of Guysboro, desires to know whether it is the government's intention to restore the law making bank notes redeemable by gold. He also wants to know "who is Col. John A. Cooper, who in an interview purporting to have been given to the Boston Globe, declared himself to be the first representative the Canadian Government ever sent to a foreign country."

ALDERMEN AND MEMBERS OF FAIR BOARDS MEET

Summer Fair Officers Declare Government Practically Promises To Guarantee Bonds

$25,000 ANNUAL GRANT

Contingent Upon Grant of $15,000 Annually By City of Brandon

A joint meeting of the Summer Fair Board and the Manitoba Winter Fair and Live Stock Association was held in the City Hall on Thursday afternoon at which the Mayor and all the members of the City Council were present. The meeting was called at the request of the Winter Fair officers in order to get a report on the proposals taken before the Legislature by the special delegation from the Summer Fair Board some time ago.

It was announced by the Summer Fair officers that the Government had practically promised to guarantee the bonds of the Winter Fair to the extent of $300,000 and also to give an annual grant of $25,000. A bill embodying these features is to be introduced shortly before the House, it is stated. Solicitors are at present preparing the necessary legislation which will give effect to it.

The proposed legislation which would result in the taking over of the Manitoba Winter Fair and Live Stock Association by the Summer Fair was read to the meeting by G. R. Coldwell K.C. and appeared to be satisfactory to all parties. The only question left to decide then was the granting of $15,000 per year to the Summer Fair by the city, and after a short discussion the aldermen decided to ask the City Solicitor to draw up legislation which would guarantee the Summer Fair the above amount for a period of twenty years, commencing 1921, subject of course to the approval of the ratepayers. It was pointed out that in return for the grant the city would be relieved of the $210,000 bond guarantee to the Summer and Winter Fairs.

The delegation from the Summer Fair Board consisted of Messrs. P. Payne, W. I. Smale, N. W. Kerr, W. Ferguson, S. A. Coxe and W. A. Cameron, while the delegation from the Winter Fair Association consisted of Messrs. K. Campbell, J. Inglis and O. L. Harwood.

MYSTERY ATTACHED TO ARRIVAL OF SIR OLIVER LODGE

Toronto, Feb. 20.—There is an element of mystery for some people in the coming of Sir Oliver Lodge to Toronto. For three days his reservations have been made at the King Edward hotel, and still he does not appear. Nobody knows exactly why he is coming so far in advance of the date of his lecture at Massey Hall. The anouncement gives March 12th as the night of his address.

It has been hinted in some circles that the distinguished scientist will quietly experiment in Toronto. It had been even hinted that his son Raymond has intimated through a local medium, that he desired to speak to his father, especially while he is in Toronto, and that this message has been sent to Sir Oliver's secretary.

In the meantime the hotel officials are feeling the stress of uncertainty as day after day passes and their guest does not arrive.

CALGARY CONTRACTORS DECLINE GOVERNMENT CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 20.—Although Bennett and White, contractors, Calgary, were awarded the contract by the Dominion Government for the construction of the bridge across the Bow river at Banff, they have declined for the reason that when they were tendering they stipulated that they should be informed within 10 days whether their tender was accepted. However, the Government exceeded this time limit by 20 days.

The Government accepted Bennett and White's conditions as laid down in their tender, so no penalty will be attached to the company. Its accepted figure was $190,000. An Ottawa concern was next with $204,000.

STATE INSURANCE MAY BECOME LAW IN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—Manitoba will have a state insurance law before the present session of the legislature is ended, an official of the province in close touch with workmen's compensation declared Thursday.

"The case for state insurance has been made so clear and so strong by the visiting experts, Myles M. Dawson and F. H. Hinsdale," the official said, "that it is generally accepted that no time should be lost in establishing Manitoba system. I understand a bill is being prepared."

The official said that the law would create a Provincial Insurance Department presided over by a board of three. He thought it probable that the present commission to administrate the Workmen's Compensation Act would remain as chairman of the board and executiv head of the department. There would be a representative of organized labor, probably from the running trades, which were deeply affected, and a representative from the employers

Saves Commissions

State insurance, the official said, would mean that the province would collect the premiums from employers instead of the companies doing this as at present. The saving in operation would enable the rate of compensation to be raised to 66 2-3 per cent. and would admit of big increases in the sums payable to widows and orphans.

The official gave it as his opinion that the policies written by the companies for this year would stand, but he thought the new act, when passed, would be followed by the immediate appointment of the new board. The department would be ready, in that case, to collect the premiums and handle the compensation insurance for 1921.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTH ANNIVERSARY WIDELY CELEBRATED

Americans Everywhere To Honor Memory of Great Statesman and Leader

Sunday will be the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the first President of the United States, and will be celebrated all over the world by Americans.

February twenty-second became a day of banquets and balls in the days when Washington was able to attend them. Before the Revolution the birthdays of the crawned heads of England were celebrated with enthusiasm in the then colonies but the war wiped all such celebrations off the calendar and substituted the birthday of Gen. Washington.

The first Washington birthday celebration to be recorded is said to have been the one held in Richmond in 1782. The following acount of it appeared in The Virginia Gazette, or the American Advertiser of Richmond:

Great Joy Prevailed

"Tuesday last being the birthday of his excellency, Gen. Washington, our illustrious commander-in-chief, the same was commemorated here with the utmost demonstrations of joy." The day was February 11th, according to the old calendar, which was still used in some places for some purposes. In fact, as late as 1815, the stone which was placed on the site of the birthplace of Washington, in Westmoreland county, Virginia, bore the following inscription: "Here the 11th of February, 1732, George Washington was born."

In 1783, February 11th was commemorated at Talbot courthouse in Maryland. On the same day a number of men met in New York—one had written an ode, another brought a list of toasts and before separating, it was agreed to assemble in the future on the same anniversary.

On Washington's birthday anniversary in 1784, the New York Gazette said:

"On this day the hero enters the 53rd year of his age. Shall such a day pass unnoticed? No, let a temperate manifestation of joy express the sense we feel in the blessings that arose upon America on that day, which gave birth to Washington. Let us call our children around us and tell them the many blessings they owe to him and to those illustrious characters who have assisted him in the great work of the emancipation of our country, and urge them by such examples to transmit the delights of freedom and independence to their posterity."

The Gazette's wish that the day be marked by "a temperate manifestation of joy" was realized, for the British had evacuated New York the previous October and the city, which was gradually recovering from the distresses of a long war, held demonstrations which made up in patriotism for what was lacking in elaborateness, as the following newspaper description shows:

Wednesday last being the birthday of his excellency, Gen. Washington, the same was celebrated here by all the true friends of American independence and constitutional liberty, with that hilarity and manly decorum ever attendant on the Sons of Freedom. In the evening an entertainment was given on board the East India ship in this harbor to a very brilliant and respectable company, and a discharge of thirteen cannon was fired on this joyful occasion."

Tammany Celebrates

The Tammany society of New York, which had been organized less than a year when February 22nd, 1790 rolled around, celebrated the occasion as is shown by an account which appeared in a New York paper:

"At the meeting of the Society of St. Tammany at their wigwam in this city on Monday evening last, after finishing the ordinary business of the evening, it was unanimously resolved: That the twenty-second day of February be from this day and ever after be commemorated by this society as the birthday of the illustrious George Washington, President of the United States.

"SMILING JACK" O'BRIEN RETAINED SMILE UNTIL HANGMAN ADJUSTED CAP

Chicago, Feb. 21.—"Smiling Jack" O'Brien retained his smile to the last Friday, when he was hanged for the murder of Policeman Richard Burke. The hanging was held up an hour while awaiting the arrival of the Cook grand jury. The grand jury members desired to be on hand to see that the execution was carried out in accordance with the law.

Sheriff Charles Peters' plan to have other prisoners in the jail witness the hanging was declared to be illegal by States Attorney Macklay Hoyne. All prisoners were removed from sight of the scaffold.

FOREST PROTECTION AND NEWSPAPERS

Popular Interest in Forestry Should be Stimulated to Assure Newsprint Supply

Newspapers are absolutely dependent upon the forest, through the medium of the paper-maker, for their existence. It is not surprising therefore, that the publishers are taking an active interest in the source of their raw material. Since its inception, the Commission of Conservation has advocated the protection of the forests from fire, the regulation of cutting, the burning of slash, the regulation of settlers' clearing fires under the permit system, and the requirement that railways take adequate precautions against the occurrence and spread of fires due to railway agencies. With the adoption of these measures, towards which an excellent beginning has been made, the forest will have a reasonable chance of existence. It will eventually reproduce itself, and continue the supply of pulpwood. Much, however, still remains to be accomplished in these directions.

Immense areas of Canada are suitable only for forest growth. These should be permanently set apart, existing young growth protected, and denuded areas replanted. The crop—for the forest is a crop—while a long-time investment, would be a paying one, and would assure the continuance of the pulpwood supply. The price of pulpwood and its product, newsprint, today, is high, and will very probably remain so, due to the heavy demand on the higher cost of production. The intensified cutting of the forest to meet this demand makes it necessary that every precaution be taken to protect what we have and to take measures for the reproduction or replanting of forests on our cut-over or burned-over lands to add to the supply.

In the interests of self-preservation, the newspapers should do everything possible to educate public opinion on the necessity of taking care of our forests.

ENGLAND DOMINATES WORLD'S BUSINESS

Resident of United States Says His Country Not Alive To Situation

One of the ablest business men in the country, says the Wall Street Journal, a director in many corporations and whose varied interests compel him to keep posted internationally, says:

"The United States is the only country that is not alive to the international situation. England is getting away with the world's business. The fall in sterling gives her a 25 per cent protection against imports and a 25 per cent stimulus to exports, but back of her is a country with still lower exchanges and England as mistress of the seas is gathering up the cheap goods that Europe is starting to pour forth and is passing them over the world at handsome profits. She buys low in Europe and will soon be selling at high prices in the States."

"In three years England will be the commanding commercial and trading power of the world, and as she has stood as the bulwark for democracy and freedom I shall not regret it. I rather think she is entitled to all she can get. She has been on the seas and in international trade for a long time and she knows markets over the earth as does no other nation."

"All Europe is poor and will sell to her cheaply. The impoverished labor of Europe will pour wealth into the British Empire and John Bull will pass it around the world for banking commissions, insurance profits, shipping gains, and gains by exchanges everywhere."

SOLDIERS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR INCREASED USE DRUGS IN CANADA; PROBE STARTED

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press)—Emphatic denial of the charge that returned soldiers are to any large extent responsible for the deplorable increase in the use of opium and other habit-forming drugs, was made by the Federal Health Department, which is conducting a thorough probe into the drug business in Canada.

Some astounding facts have been brought to light by the department since it took over the operation of the act regulating habit-forming drugs two months ago. Less than 50 per cent. of the drugs used in Canada are necessary.

FARMERS' RESENTMENT MAY CURTAIL PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES

Washington, Feb. 20.—The farmers of the United States may go on strike. Recent Questionnaires were sent by Post Office Department all over the country to farmers in connection with a move to bring the producer and consumer closer together by extending parcel post facilities. Some 70,000 replies have been received. The majority of the farmers complain bitterly of the shortage of labor and the high wages they are forced to pay, and declare they will reduce or suspend production because they do not propose to labor 14 to 16 hours a day to supply the necessities of life to "highly paid, short hour urban resident consumers."

LORD LEVERHULME A RECENT CONVERT TO PROHIBITION

London, Feb. 20.—Lord Leverhulme, the big British soap manufacturer, recently a visitor to the Canadian West, gave the following as his views on prohibition:

"I am converted to prohibition. There is no doubt but that the enormous majority of people on the American continent are in favor of it. In my experience it was an exception to find anyone to protest, and in my opinion the possibility of a reversal of the dry policy is very remote. England owes the United States about $5,000,000,000, and if we were to save on our liquor bill at the rate the United States is doing, we should pay off our debt in five years. While I should prefer that alcohol should be obtainable and that through strength of will rather than by law it should not be consumed, I believe the policy of going dry in America means that in the world's race, the United States has thrown away a heavy weight while England, who is already behind in the race is adding to its weight."

ELOQUENT PLEA FOR EQUALITY REMOVAL OF ALL INJUSTICES

By Dr. Michael Clark, M.P., Red Deer, Alberta, Before Members of Canadian Club

That the democracy of Canada, for which men fought, will be lost unless equality of opportunity and freedom are given and all injustice removed, was the keynote of a splendid address by Dr. Michael Clark, M.P. for Red Deer. Dr. Clark spoke to the Canadian Club in the Prince Edward Hotel, Wednesday evening and the large number who turned out to hear the brilliant Canadian statesman, heard a very interesting and timely address. The speaker referred to four classes of people that were causing distrubing thoughts in the minds of Canadian people today, and he stated that there must be some real cause.

The disquiet and unrest of the present day, Dr. Clark termed as class consciousness. The exclusive class organization is passing away and will soon be a matter of history. The member for Red Deer declared that it is a better thing to be a man than a member of a class; a better thing to be a Canadian than a farmer, and better to be a citizen of the British Empire than a Canadian, and a still greater thing to be a citizen of the world than a citizen of the British Empire. Paternalism in the Government must go, and the resources of the country kept for the people. Giving the people equality of opportunity and removing the injustice which is causing the disturbance of today will, make Canada a better country to live in, declared Dr. Clark.

Brandon Plays Good Part

In commencing his address Dr. Clark said that he had always been interested in the part Brandon was playing in the agricultural affairs of Canada, and he was especially interested in the two great fairs held here each year. Speaking of Dr. H. P. Whidden, Dr. Clark said that the Brandon member had made a distinct place for himself in the House of Commons and that he always hold the interest of the House when he spoke.

"The words unrest and disquiet are on everybody's thoughts," said Dr. Clark. The disquiet among men is class consciousness. There is new activity among old organizations and new formations, but there should be no cause for regret that there is a disturbed condition in the thoughts of men. On the contrary we should have been surprised if there wasn't as the newspapers had prepared us all through the war to expect changed times after the war had been won.

Canada could not escape what is a world movement. It is unthinkable that over half a million men should enlist from Canada and over 60,000 give up their lives, and the people of Canada not moved by it. We should hail the honest thoughts of men everywhere. There is no ground for fear and suspicion in new movements, instead of approaching the new classes with fear and suspicion we should try to arrive at a mutual understanding and try to have the fullest sympathy with them.

The Veterans Not Satisfied

The new activities are disturbing, said Dr. Clark. We have the Veterans to handle and we have to be sympathetic with them. The promises we made to them before they went overseas should never be lost sight of, and they should receive our full sympathy. We must try to get at the root of the trouble which is disturbing all the classes in the body politic. "If we find that there is anything wrong, let's get down to putting it right," said the member from Red Deer. The sense of injustice is bothering the Veterans most. They say that they went overseas to fight for Canada and at $1.10 per day, and then come back to find those whom they left comparatively poor, now riding around in limousines. This is a simple fact, and the Veterans feel that it is essentially unjust. "As long as there is a wrong in Canada, there will be disquiet," declared Dr. Clark.

Working Men Too

The working men, too, have to be dealt with, as they are bulking large in the public eye at the present time. The speaker said that he had often pictured himself as a working man standing at a bench all day long. He wondered if he would be content. Some arrangement might perhaps be made to remedy the condition, but the main thing is to find the root of the trouble. The working class are linking up with the Veterans in thinking that there is injustice. Dr. Clark said that he did not think it possible to produce equality, but that we could produce equality of opportunity. If we did this we would be making for a better Canada.

The farmers are another class that has to be considered in these days. Speaking as a farmer himself, Dr. Clark said that to be candid he thought the farmers were not having too bad a time of it since the war. It is a privilege with the farmer to grumble. He doesn't realize, said Dr. Clark, that he has a good part of his living before he starts handling money. "It's mighty comforting to know that the eggs are out in the barn, and that you have some good bacon stored away, without worrying over where it is to come from," said Dr. Clark. There is no use the farmer starting a strike for a six hour day because they realize that they cannot get through their work in that time. However, long hours and monotonous labor and no profits do not make for an agreeable state of mind. Before the war farming was not a lucrative business, and therefore we must approach this great class with sympathy and understanding.

Women and Emotion

The new class is the women. Men have told us that women would settle great questions by emotion rather than by reason, but the speaker stated that it would be a good thing possibly if we had a little more emotion at times. It was emotion that sent the men across to Europe to fight and that kind of emotion is needed in our life today. The women of England are taking an active interest in the League of Nations movement, and it is the speaker's opinion that if the women over the whole world take up the movement it will mean the end of war.

Not New Experiences

The experiences we are passing through are not new experiences. Class consciousness is not new it is only the classes that are new. The ruling class of Canada is undoubtedly the wealthy class. "If we have been giving special privileges to men to mop up Canada in resources then that must cease, or the war will have been fought in vain. The men say they fought for freedom and democracy in Europe and therefore we must have it in Canada," declared the Red Deer member. We must tear up the trouble which is disturbing the community and make Canada's democracy a fact and a reality.

Exclusive Class Organization Passing Phase

Exclusive class organization is a passing hase and it never was good for the country. Class consciousness will inevitably become class selfishness, but later it may grow to be a national consciousness. It is a greater thing to be a man than a member of a class; a greater thing to be a Canadian than a farmer; a greater thing to be a member of the British Empire than a Canadian; and a still greater thing to be a citizen of the world than a citizen of the British Empire. It is the real thing to unite for a common interest, but the policy must be one also or honesty and sincerity.

Class consciousness develops paternalism in the government and this leads to a dangerous government. We must make the laws just. We are becoming fadists and one of our greatest fads is for governing one another. We don't want a dose of paternalism in Canada where we have untold resources. We want the men to go to it themselves having an equality of opportunity, and then it will be making Canada a land for the people. What we really need most is a good dose of the old-fashioned virtues, industry and frugality. The Canadian today is doing his bit who is attending to his honest duty day by day.

"We have great room for gratitude that we are living in Canada today. There are three or four million people actually starving to death in Europe. I wonder where the cause for grouch is," said Dr. Clark. "We have a wonderful heritage and we want to work at it, and with gratitude. It is by the practice of the virtues of industry and frugality that we will place Canada in the leading place among the nations of the world."

PREDICT BIG CROPS AND LOW PRICES U. S. THIS SUMMER

If Farm Production is Equal to Average of Past Ten Years

Washington, Feb. 20.—A big drop in food prices will come this Summer, government experts predict, if farm production is equal to or greater than the production average for the 10-year period just closed.

A 100 per cent. production is due, according to the law of averages, records of the Agricultural Department showed.

There are many factors in the situation which tend toward big crops this Summer and lower prices.

Prices of farm products are now unusually high, a situation which the farmer certainly will take advantage of by planting increased acreage.

Production is still near the peak brought about by war stimulation, and has not yet begun to relax.

VIENNA GRAVES ROBBED

Vienna, Feb. 20.—Systematic vandalism and robbery in cemeteries has led to demands for police protection. Newspapers say graves have been despoiled, articles stolen and coffins smashed for firewood.

MANITOBA SCHOOL ACT VIOLATED IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Reports Made to Government by Orangemen—Government Says Nothing Wrong

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—Reports of flagrant violations of the Manitoba School Act in reference to bilingual teaching in rural schools were laid before the Provincial Government by a delegation of Orangemen, headed by John Easton and Thomas Boyd. No details in connection with the conference were given out.

"We do not claim the reports are true," said Mr. Easton. "We merely came to present them to the Government for investigation. The Government tells us there is nothing wrong in the districts named, but we have the word of Dr. R. S. Thornton that each matter will be investigated and reported back to us."

TEN I. W. W. FACE CHARGE OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER FOR KILLING OF OFFICER

Montesano, Wash., Feb. 20.—With the list of defendants narrowed from 11 to 10, the defense in the I.W.W. murder trial opened here Thursday. Bert Faulkner, one of the 11, was released from the first degree murder case, when Judge Wilson ruled evidence against him as insufficient to warrant placing his case before the jury.

The alleged insanity of Clorin Roberts, another defendant, will again be discussed, it is said, when Dr. Arthur P. Calhoun, of Seattle, takes the stand to testify regarding his mental condition.

Defense Attorney Vanderveer will try early in his case to establish an alibi for Eugene Barnett, alleged to have fired the bullet that killed Warren O. Grimm. Grimm commanded the American Legion men on parade on Armistice day.

BRITAIN RELIES LARGELY ON AIR FORCE DEFENSE

Persia and Mesopotamia Guarded by Airmen for First Time in History

Washington, Feb. 20.—Great Britain relies largely on her air forces for the defence of Persia and Mesopotamia, according to official advices received here. Sir Winston Churchill, War Minister, recently informed parliament that air bases have been established at Bagdad and Karachi, the latter a port on the Arabian Sea and the terminus of an important railway.

Military experts here attach great importance to this announcement because it is an innovation in military strategy in two important particulars. It is the first time authorities say, that air forces have been relied upon to so large a degree purely for defence. Also the impossibility of conducting operations in desert regions has been overcome by carrying on the operations in the air.

The British maintain communication between Aleppo, near the Mediterranean Set, and Bagdad, and between Bagdad and Karachi. Much of this is an impenetrable desert, including the Arabian desert and the Great Salt and Dasht-I-Lut deserts. British authorities have feared that Bolsheviki troops which have penetrated Turkestan, might enter Afghanistan and attack Persia from the flank. It is believed that the airial forces have been organized partially to meet this threatened danger.

MEXICANS SEIZE CANADIAN WHISKEY WORTH A MILLION

Attempt to Ship Through U. S. and Smuggle into Mexico Ends in Failure

Laredo, Texas, Feb. 19.—A million dollars' worth of Canadian whiskey has been seized by Mexican authorities on the border. Shipments were sent from Canada in bond through the United States in an attempt to smuggle it into Mexico.

GREAT INCREASE IN B.C. CATTLE HERDS DURING THE SUMMER OF 1919

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 19.—The Live Stock Department here reports a great increase in the herds of cattle in the province within the past year. The chief areas of increase are the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Peace River country. Owing to drought conditions in Southern Alberta many cattle have been shipped in within the past year. There has also been an increase in the Cariboo district. The number of pure bred cattle is steadily growing and the health of live stock throughout the province is reported as excellent.

PRETTY YOUNG CALGARY WOMAN CONFESSES TO FORGING MANY CHEQUES

Calgary, Feb. 20.—Confessing, according to the police, to the forgery of cheques amounting to hundreds of dollars, Joyce Laura Pearcey, a pretty young Calgary woman, revealed a series of forgeries which both she and her mother successfully carried out in Calgary and Edmonton. Miss Parcey and her mother are now under arrest.

Miss Pearcey, it is said, confessed also to having stolen the ninety-two cheques for $5,000, which were missed from the paymaster's office at the armories some months ago.

Miss Pearcey began her Calgary career Tuesday afternoon, when she took four blank cheques on the Bank of Toronto, signed them with the name of Lowney and company, per E. J. Roberts, local manager, and filled them out for amounts of $150 each. She was caught after attempting to cash the fourth one.

KERENSKY THROWN INTO BAKU PRISON

London, Feb. 20.—Alexander Kerensky, former Russian premier, whose regime was overthrown by the Bolsheviki in November, 1917, has been imprisoned in the Caucaus, according to a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen quoting the Esthonian newspaper Varanas. The message says that Kerensky recently proceeded to the Caucasus on board a British steamer for the purpose of inducing the population to promise their support to the Russian democratic centre party. The Caucasian leaders, however, gave him a cold reception, it is asserted, and on his arrival at Baku he was arrested and thrown into prison.

NEW SUMMER ROAD TO RICE LAKE GOLD FIELDS PROPOSED

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—Recommendations by V. H. Campbell, engineer of the Provincial Reclamation Department for the construction of a Summer road to the Rice Lake goldfields, were received by Hon George A. Grierson, Minister of Public Works Wednesday. Mr. Campbell recommended that communications with the goldfields be opened by means of a water transportation and the construction of a Summer road 14 miles long, to cost approximately $15,000 He also recommended as the best method of opening the goldfields, the construction of a light railway from Great Falls, on the Winnipeg railway, into the interior, a project which would entail an expenditure of approximately $350,000. It was announced that the latter recommendation would not be considered by the Government at present.

The plan which will receive government approval is the water and land route, it is stated. Launches will be employed to traverse the Wanipigon river to Bellevue landing, a distance of four miles. From there a Summer road will be constructed for a distance of 14 miles to Caribou Lake, in the heart of the mining county. This road would traverse a country, part of which is thickly covered with spruce and poplar and the remainder with granite boulders. From Caribou Lake, the major portion of the mines are within easy canoe distance.

It was also announced that the construction of the road would be contingent upon an undertaking on the part of the mine owners to furnish the launches necessary to carry material over the water route. On the road recommendation by Mr. Campbell there is only one portage, in contrast to the present one, which has 15.

OPINION GROWS THERE MUST BE CONSERVATION

Of Canadian Forests Against Inordinate Demands for Lumber and Newsprint

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—That some method will have to be devised for the conservation of Canadian forests against the inordinate demand for lumber and newsprint from South of the boundary is generally admitted here. At the present time the United States is consuming 85 per cent. of the output of Canadian pulp mills and wants the other 15 per cent., which by order is supposed to be reserved for Canadian consumption. One Canadian company in Quebec is at present being proceeded against because it has refused to supply Canadian consumers, and is alleged to be "hoarding" the 15 per cent. supposed to be reserved.

Probably, a more serious feature of the situation, however, is the fact that, owing to the tremendous demand from the United States for Canadian lumber, it is almost impossible for Canadians to secure any lumber at all. The situation is particularly acute in the Western provinces and complaint has been made to the Board of Commerce.

The situation has several serious aspects. Apart entirely from the imminent danger of the denuding of the Canadian forests is the more immediate menace to settlement, immigration and housing. Soldier settlements on the prairies is being threatened by the prospect on the part of prospective settlers of being content with sod shacks. Rent profiteering is being encouraged by the virtual impossibility of building at prices which the United States is willing to pay for Canada's entire output. In fact the situation is becoming decidedly acute.

MEIGHEN FAVORS TARIFF FOR REVENUE

So Informs Members of Winnipeg Board of Trade at Annual Meeting

Winnipeg, Feb. 19.—Declaring himself as a believer in a moderate tariff for the purposes of revenue, especially at the present time, as essential for assuring the maintenance and expansion of Canadian industry, the retention of Canadian workmen and the growth of the Canadian nation, Hon. Arthur Meighen, M.P., Minister of the Interior, addressed a company of 500 at the annual banquet of the Winnipeg Board of Trade at the Fort Garry Hotel Wednesday night. Mr. Meighen preceded this conclusion by a review of the financial position of Canada, and also quoted from reports issued by the late Food Control Board in support of his contention that no official organization in Canada had even been subjected to such villification.

The position of Canada in relation to the League of Nations was discussed by the minister in the early portion of his almost two-hour address. He explained that he had been asked to make reference to the present position of the United States and Canada as a world nation, and the apprehended challenge of that status. "We as Canadians, profoundly regret that the country which should seek to challenge our place in the league should be our good neighbors in the republic to the South," he said The government of Canada, he pointed out, had taken a determined stand on the issue, and "Canada demands and insists on her own rights, and on being given recognition in the league of which we are a part," he added, amidst the applause of the company.

FINE HEREFORDS TO BE SOLD HERE

Jas. I. Moffatt of Carroll to Dispose of Forty Head March 3rd

Forty head of the best Herefords from Echo Grove Stock Farm will be sold in the Winter Fair Arena on March 3rd, when the second draft sale of these high class Herefords will take place. Mr. Jas. I. Moffatt, of Carroll, Man. was a visitor in Brandon on Wednesday making arrangements for the issuing of sale catalogues and stated that they were on the whole the finest Herefords that had ever left his farm.

The high class stock shown from Echo Grove Farm for the past six years, is convincing proof that the foundation herd cannot be excelled. The Moffatt boys, with their calves in the Fat Calf Competition have a higher rating than any two boys, winning the competition for two years and eighth place the lowest.

The first sale of stock in 1919 was a huge success and this year even greater success is anticipated.

U. S. ARBITRATION LAW IS CHANGED AT LAST MINUTE

Expected That System of Arbitration Will Be Satisfactory To Labor

Washington, Feb. 19.—A permanent system of arbitration which it is believed will be satisfactory to labor, has been agreed upon by Senate and public conferees. Labor provsions were changed at the last minute because of recommendations made by Director-General Hines which are understood to represent the views of President Wilson. The plan adopted is similar to that proposed by the President as the means of settling the present railway wage dispute.

All anti-strike or compulsory arbitration features were previously elim- and the new system relies entirely upon public opinion for its enforcement.

The conference report, which will be submitted to the House today, creates a railway board of labor appeals and allows the formation of railway adjustment boards whenever satisfactory to both parties and employes. The boards are of a temporary natur eand may handle disputes over hours, grievances and working conditions, but not wages.

After a failure of the adjustment boards to agree, an appeal can be taken to the appeals board which has the exclusive jurisdiction of all disputes concerning wages, this provision being added to insure uniform wages throughout the country.

GREAT DEAL OF GAME

Officers of the patrol vessel Bear say the ice pack is further South now than at any time in their experience and the pack is literally black with walrus and other animals.

NEW YORK GLOBE SAYS "CANADA IS RIGHT" IN INSISTING ON VOTE

New York, Feb. 19.—The New York Globe, under the heading "Canada is Right," said editorially on Saturday: "Most enlightened Americans will be in hearty sympathy with the protest of the Canadian Government against the acceptance of any reservations that would deprive Canada of her vote and full standing in the league. Our interest as well as our sense of justice should lead us to give hearty assent; for even those who are blind with hatred of England ought to see that a practically independent Canada, with a vote and discretion of her own, is a safer neighbor than one that gets dust in its eyes whenever a whiff of wind blows along Downing street.

The interests of the United States in the league will be amply protected by the provision, which England and her dominions are quite willing to endorse, that no member of the British Empire shall vote in any dispute in which the empire or any of its members is a party. On other matters the colonies are as likely to vote with the United States as against her; or, if a battle of votes were attempted, we can rally to our support the votes of Cuba, Haihi, Honduras, Nicaragua and Panama, which we can control as easily as England can control the votes of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India."

FAILURE OF STATE SOCIALISM

Will nationalization of industry provide a panacea for existing social, economic and industrial conditions? Any attempt to answer this question in the affirmative should be supported by the experience of some country where it has been tried. This may be difficult because it appears as if there are only two lands where it has been given a trial. One of these is Russia. Because of the contention that has oftimes been set forth that it is difficult to ascertain exactly what is taking place in Russia, the results of the experiments there are set aside for the time being. There is another land where nationalization has been given a trial—Queensland, one of the largest of the Australian states. What has been the result in Queensland? A Labor-Socialist Parliament was elected there in 1915 and there has been a generous "nationalization" of industries. For eight successive years, before the Labor Ministry came into power, the state finances showed, at the end of each year, a small amount on the credit side. Since the Ryan Government took office and introduced nationalization of first one thing and then another, there has been a succession of ever increasing deficits. Perhaps this may not be wholly due to the measures adopted by this Socialistic Government, but for it the Ryan Government's Socialistic ventures are very largely responsible.

Among the ventures which this Government failed to operate successfully were the railways which were taken over and operated at a loss, and the provision of cheap meat or fish, though plants were commendeered and a trawler operated. In state ventures in mining they were no more successful though attempts were made to operate coal and arsenic mines. In the importation of carbide and the operation of a rock crusher, disastrous failure greeted their efforts, and they even failed to operate a saloon so as to show a profit. One thing this government has been most successful in and that is in boosting the tax rate. The workers are no more contented than before for there were more strikes in proportion to the population than in any of the other Australian states.

Attempts at nationalization have made capital timid and this government which attempts to nationalize insists that capital must "create employment by investing money in development work or work of benefit to the state."

As a crowning climax, it is authoratively stated that the cost of living there is greatly in excess of that in the other states in the Commonwealth.

More detailed information as to conditions in Australia will be found in another column and it should be remembered when considering the article that the statistics therein set forth are taken from the report of the Queensland Auditor General for the year 1918-1919.

CANADA IS RIGHT

There is a large volume of public opinion in the United States which is, and has been, consistently in line with the best thought in Allied lands during the period of war and the days of reconstruction. At times their thought has not been the dominant one—it would be surprising if it had in a country into which the bowels of Europe have for years poured streams of humanity. And yet these supporters of the right have never wavered. They are not wavering today.

Many of the great journals in the New England States have given expression to sentiments of sympathy with Allied aims in the past and today are supporting Canada's contention that she should be recognized as a member of the League of Nations with all the rights, privileges and obligations pertaining thereto. The Duluth Herald, published in the middle Western States, is one of the papers, published in a region where there are immense numbers of foreign born residents, that has always held high the torch. It is doing so still. In reference to Canada's position in the League of Nations a recent issue contains the following:

Canada has notified Great Britain that she objects to any change in the Covenant of the League of Nations that makes her less than a full member of the League of Nations, with a full vote in its assembly.

And Canada is right. We in her place would do the same, and could do no less in self pect.

Though a part of the British commonwealth and loyal to it, Canada is a self-governing nation and a great one. As such she is entitled to the right of full membership in the league.

Even if that were not so manifestly true, Canada by her deeds and sacrifices in the war has earned and doubly deserves that right. So have Australia and New Zealand. A glance at their casualty lists, and a comparison of them with ours, makes that judgment inescapable.

The objection to the "six British votes" in the assembly—which must act unanimously on any important question so that six votes are quite the same thing—is demagogic, dishonest and a shameful travesty on the boasted American spirit of fair play. It is a wanton affront to Canada and her sister dominions, and as a matter of right and decency it ought to be dropped.

BUYING IN BRITAIN

Not for many years have so many Canadian buyers gone to Great Brittain to purchase goods for sale in Canada as are going this year, says an exchange. They will buy many commodities which would have been purchased in the United States under ordinary exchange conditions. The dealer who buys in the British Islands gets a premium on Canadian money. He who buys in the United States pays money which is discounted 15 to 20 per cent. This transfer of custom from the United States to Great Britain helps, as far as it goes, to correct the exchange condition. It promotes a habit which may prevent the return of this situation. For countries acquire habits in trade which continue after the original reasons have passed away.

In seeking British products Canadian people are not only helping themselves out of an awkward situation but are assisting Great Britain to redress her own adverse balance of trade. Canadians are under no legal prohibition from trade with Germany but they will be restrained by sentiment and by custom for many years to come. The trade they had with Germany will be carried on with other countries, mostly with Great Britain and to some extent with France. Supplies of many things have run low in Canada. There is a vast demand for products of many kinds. Much more will be produced in Canada now that the industries are released from war demands, and the Canadian workers are set free from war service. But imports will also increase and it will be a great national and imperial advantage if Great Britain, who is by far the best customer for Canadian products, should find Canada one of her best customers.

MEIGHEN LEADS OFF

Hon. Arthur Meighen's comprehensive address in Winnipeg the other night and the announcement from Ottawa that election writs have been issued for three Federal by-elections, indicate that there is to be a recrudescence of political activity on the part of the Union Government. They may appear also to indicate that a decision has been reached on issues vital to the success of the Unionists. Mr. Meighen's speech was barren of any suggestion as to what these decisions may be, but his defence of the Government's legislation and record, indicate that there will be no meek submission to the direction of events from unfriendly or hostile sources. There is a healthy activity on the part of certain elements within Government circles and a vigorous attempt to secure dominance may easily be anticipated.

On the other hand it may well be that the Minister of the Interior and other Cabinet members associated with him, have decided they have not the right and that this is not the proper time, to make decisions concerning political policies and other questions of vital importance, but that it is the time for a fair presentation of progressive legislation and calling a halt on the efforts of traducers and unfair criticisms. If, this is the state of affairs, the Hon. Arthur Meighen has made a fair start. In a magnificent effort at Winnipeg he notified critics that they no longer have the field to themselves. The sphinx like silence has been broken and unfair criticism and critics will be sharply brought to book. Since the Honorable Arthur has taken the field it is certain that some of the sniping will cease. Few among the snipers care to risk an exchange with so valiant and experienced an opponent. If the efforts of the Minister of the Interior are directed towards this end, leaving to the caucus of Unionists in Ottawa early in March, to decide momentous questions of policy and the selection of a leader, there will be general agreement with the procedure.

On one point the Hon. Arthur Meighen left no room for doubt. This is his personal position regarding the tariff. Hon. Arthur Meighen has nailed his colors to the mast. He favors a moderate tariff for revenue producing purposes at the same time supporting the creation of a tariff board whose principal business would be to see that the tariff is not made use of by certain classes to further their own interests.

This position is in sharp contrast with that of another gentleman who now seeks to influence the destinies of Canada from the cross benches, but in the immediate future as Premier of Canada. It is thought by some that the Minister of the Interior is out of line with popular thought even in that section of the country from whch the Government of which he is a member commanded at election time, a large measure of support. Hon. T. A. Crerar as leader of the Farmers' party, proposes abolition of protection and to raise the revenues necessary to carry on the Government of this country mostly by taxation. When the clash of ideals comes as it must come on this very question, the apparent strength of one view in one particular section of the country may not prove sufficient to ensure its being carried into effect. Whether it does or not, the straightforward declaration on the part of the Hon. Arthur Meighen is a direct challenge to it and provides a rallying point for those who cannot see that the fiscal proposals of the Hon. T. A. Crerar have been sufficiently developed to warrant confidence that the Government of Canada can be maintained, and the immense sums required to liquidate the debts, secure by the methods he advocates.

Before the three by-elections for which writs have been issued, are held, the Unionist members of the House of Commons will have met in caucus. As a result of the deliberations statements of vital importance will be issued. The caucus need have no concern with the past, it must look to the future [illegible] general elections are not the by-elections, will be fought and won or lost on the merits of the proposals on matters of policy and the question of leadership, which should be issued therefrom.

TWO REASONS

A Genoa dispatch states that thousands of Poles, Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs are there returning home from the United States, largely because they cannot stand prohibition. Undoubtedly that is what they say. The American people might well reply that in their sober senses they cannot stand those fellows.

ABOLISH THE PRIVILEGE

Books printed in the German and Austrian languages are admitted free into Canada while on English language books duty must be paid. Inquiry at the Custom's Department at Ottawa reveals this to be a fact.

A useful duty has been performed by the agency that learned this fact and made it public. It is no doubt a hang over from the days when there was in this country some sort of fetish concerning the desirability of German art and literature.

Now that public attention has been drawn to this undesirable condition of affairs a speedy remedy is assured. German and Austrian language books should not be debarred entry under certain conditions, but the position of superiority accorded them under the tariff should be demolished and that speedily.

KEMNAY COMMUNITY CLUB

A very successful meetng of the Community Club of Kemnay was held Friday night and was very well attended. Rev. H. A program of songs, readings and a dalogue given by Miss Gregg and Mr. Howard of Brandon College were very much enjoyed. The proceeds of the concert amounting to $14.60, were donated to the Brandon College Gymnasium Fund.

WINTER FAIR ATTRACTS MORE ENTRIES THAN IN PREVIOUS YEARS

More Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine and Poultry Than In Any Previous Year — Quality Never Better

The entries for the big Winter Fair to be held next week have borne out the prediction that this year's Fair will be the largest ever held in this city. Manager Smale stated this morning that the horse exhibit is the largest and finest in quality that has ever entered the show rings in Western Canada. Entries in this class have been received from many points in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Manitoba. The cattle show will be everything that was predicted for it. The beef cattle exhibit will be the greatest ever shown in Canada, over 300 stall fed beef cattle already being entered.

The sheep and swine exhibits are twice as large as last year, while the poultry show has 500 more birds entered this year than in the 1919 show. A feature of this branch of the big Winter Fair is that entries have been received from about fifty exhibitors who have never shown birds at the Winter Fair previously. The accommodation for the exhibits is what is worrying the officials most as the large list of entries warrants every available bit of space being taken up before the show commences. A large number of men are already at work getting the various departments in shape to receive the entries, the first of which are expected to arrive on Thursday night.

A letter was received from Premier Norris this morning stating that the members of the Legislature would attend the Winter Fair on Wednesday night and would most probably stop over for the judging of the cattle on Thursday. The members of the Winnipeg Stock Exchange will also be along on Thursday.

A 15 YEARS' FIRE

Just think! That is the time through which Mr. H. C. Buckley endured all the fiery torture of itching, burning eczema. His life was a perfect misery until Zam-Buk—the great herbal skin cure—brought complete relief.

Mr. Buckley, who lives at 461 East Broadway, Portland, Oregon, writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with eczema, and although I tried many so-called 'eczema cures,' nothing seemed capable of dealing with a case like mine. It was not until I had Zam-Buk recommended to me that I began to have hope. This wonderful skin healer soon brought about a change for the better. As I persevered with Zam-Buk the burning sensation got less. I found Zam-Buk wonderfully soothing. Gradually the patches of soreness and the inflammation were reduced, and complete and permanent cure finally resulted. I would strongly advise all afflicted with eczema to give Zam-Buk a trial. It will give them satisfaction. They will not be disappointed."

No skin disease can resist the potent healing forces stored up in Zam-Buk, which is unequalled for old wounds, ulcers, abscesses, bad legs, scalp sores, blood-poisoning, piles, scalds, burns, cuts and all skin injuries. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box.

THOUSANDS OF ANIMALS KILLED ON RAILWAY TRACKS

Each Year—Menace To Human Life As Well As Property Loss

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—'It is a common saying that distant pastures look green," said W. H, D'Arcy, general claims agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in discussion of the large number of cattle killed on the right of way of the railway company.

"During the period from January 1, 1919, to September 15, 1919, there were killed on this railway on the territory between Fort William and Field, B.C., 1348 animals. The divison of which Souris is the centre was lowest, with 36 killed, and the Lethbridge division was the largest with 348 killed. Other divisions having a large death list were Medicine Hat with 267; Portage la Prairie with 142, and Edmonton with 108.

Big Loss

"But the point I am trying to make is that for a period of eight and one-half months there was lost to the country nearly 1,400 head of fat cattle, milch cows, sheep and hogs, and no reasonable excuse can be given for it. Recently an engineer rounding a curve discovered a drove of horses on the track and before he could stop 17 were killed.

"Where the railway is not fenced, or if fenced, where the fences are in a state of temporary disrepair from any cause, and the animals in consequence gain access to the railway from adjoining owners' land, there is some excuse for this, and the railway company is always prepared to accept the full responsibility in such cases. But it is a remarkable fact that over 60 per cent of animals killed got on the track direct from public highways where they are allowed to be at large, and an additional 15 per cent are struck right on public crossings between the cattle guards. In other words, in 75 per cent of the cases the question of railway fences is not involved. So it will readily be seen that the prevention of 75 per cent of this lamentable economic waste is a matter that rests entirely in the hands of live stock owners themselves.

A Grave Danger

"I have so far touched only on one feature of this loss and that is the monetary one to the country. The most serious feature is the danger to life. By danger to life I mean the [illegible] of having the locomotive [illegible]om the track and a consequ[illegible] up of cars and this is just as liable to happen to a passenger train as to a freight. Between automobile drivers trying to race across the track ahead of trains and the danger of cattle on the track causing a derailment the life of a locomotive engineer has become anything but a bed of roses.

What is the Remedy?

"What is the remedy? I believe the Saskatchewan Government has recently decided to have all animals restrained from running at large and the Railway Association of Canada has become impressed with the daily slaughter of cattle that it is about to ask all municipal officers to co-operate with the railway officials to see that animals running at large be impounded and where pounds are not provided to arrange with public officials to have them established.

"But in the interest of safety it should become a public duty to help in this matter. Lives are endangered every day by this dereliction of owners It takes only a small animal to throw an engne off the track and a consequent piling up of cars and loss of life. Locomotive engineers may be able to stop in time to avert danger, but the person really responsible is the one who allows his cattle to run at large.

IRELAND MAY ADOPT PROHIBITION OF LIQUOR THUS LEADING EUROPE

Dublin, Feb. 18.—Ireland is likely to be the first in Europe to adopt prohibition the results of the recent municipal elections show. In Dublin scarcely a man connected with the liquor trade has a seat in the new council; and similar results are reported all over the country. This has been brought about largelyby the reason of a numberof women being elected.

NEW SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE IN ALBERTA

To Be Opened Soon—Ceremonial Opening of Legislature of That Province

Edmonton, Feb. 18. — The completion of three new schools of agriculture, provision for the commencing of work on a number of public institutions of an educational character and provision for large additional expenditures for telephone extensions in the Province, were among the announcements contained in the speech from the Throne, which was read before a notable gathering by Lieutenant-Governor R. G. Brett at the opening of the third session of the fourth Legislative Assembly of the province Tuesday afternoon. Other subjects touched on included an invitation for the attention of the legislature to the subject of natural resources, increased organization for promoting the health of the people, the appending of legislation to the Irrigation act, and complimentary reference to the visits of the Prince of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire.

With pomp and ceremony that exceeded even the functions before the war, the assembly was opened at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Lieutenant-governor in the presence of a brilliant gathering of military and civic dignitaries, and leaders of social circles in Alberta.

Induct New Speaker

The opening ceremony was more notable because of the induction into office of a new speaker of the House, Captain Charles S. Pingle, who succeeds the late Hon. C. S. Fisher in that capacity. Captain Pingle was formally nominated by Hon. Charles Stewart, Premier of Alberta, and the nomination was seconded by Hon. J. R. Boyle, Attorney-general. There was no other candidate proposed, and the new speaker took his place without dissent. The debate on the speech from the Throne will open on Thursday, when the speech will be moved by Joseph McCallum, Government member from Hand Hills. It is expected that the debate will occupy most of the time of the House next week, while the machinery for getting various bills in readiness for presentation is working and committees are being organized.

INDIANS PROTEST CLOSING OF THE FALL MUSKRAT HUNT: FOOD DEPENDS ON IT

The Pas, Man., Feb. 18.—A vigorous protest will be made from the North to a proposed amendment to the Provincial Game Act closing the Fall muskrat hunt. The Indians declare they depend upon the fall hunt to put them in food and clothing to face the Winter, and in addition when they took treaty with Queen Victoria in 1876 it was implied in the articles that the red men would have rights to hunt and trap fur bearing animals upon lands other than those settled upon by the whites. The white fur men claim that closing the Fall season does not have the effect of conserving the muskrats, for upon the contrary, nature eliminates them at periods. When there is low water there are no muskrats and when the waters are high the muskrats are plentiful, is the argument they advance.

VON LERSNER URGES GERMANS TO REFUSE TO SURRENDER WAR GUILTY

Berlin, Feb. 18. — Baron Kurt von Lersner, former head of the German delegation in Paris, in an article in the Lokal Anzeiger, urged Germany's refusal of the Allied demands for the surrender of Germans war guilty.

Von Lersner resigned his Paris post rather than transmit the Allied list to Berlin. Great Britain, Roumania and Jugo Slavia will yield to Germany's refusal, von Lersner said, while Italy, Japan and the United States were not interested. Poland and Belgium, he believed, are opposed to extradition of the accused Germans, while France is inwardly convinced that the Allied demands cannot be fulfilled.

TRAPPER DONE TO DEATH BY HIS DOGS NEAR NORTH INDIAN LAKE: LOST IN SNOW

The Pas, Man., Feb. 18.—The police investigation of the death of J. F. Eagen, a trapper at North Indian Lake, indicates that he was done to death by his husky dogs. Lost on the barren lands for four days, out of grub and battling with the fierce cold, he lay down exhausted and fell asleep. His head was wholly eaten away to the shoulders.

North Indian Lake is 400 miles North of this place on the fringe of the barren lands. Eagen and his partner, Jack Ford, staked out their trapping line there in the late Fall, and it was while on a tour of the line that Eagen became bewildered and lost in a snow blizzard.

MARTENS DEFIES SENATE COMMITTEE

Soviet Representative Refuses To Reveal Secret Instructions From His Government

Washington, Feb. 18.—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Soviet representative in the United States, on Tuesday defied the Senate Foreign Relations sub-Committee and refused to reveal secret instructions from his government. These documents have been hidden, he said and he declined to disclose their location. Some have been destroyed, he said.

Chairman Moses read a letter received from the Packard Motor Car Company denying it has sought trade with Soviet Russia. Martens had filed the name of this company as one which had expressed a willingness to sell to the Soviets. The Westinghouse Electric Company likewise denied it attempted to make contracts with Martens.

Describes Nationalization

Martens described the Soviet ideas of nationalization and the appropriation of land and property without compensation. Counsel for Martens made an effort to block questions regarding Martens' political views but was overruled.

Martens declined to approve or disapprove statements by the editor of Pravado, official Soviet organ, who urged violent revolution to accomplish the overthrow of capitalism.

Ellis asked where the Soviet gold came from that is proposed to be used in the purchase of American gold.

"From the Russian people" Martens replied.

"How have they been compensated?" Ellis asked.

"It is still theirs," Martens answered All shareholders received compensation when the banks were nationalized, he explained.

Reads Proclamations

Ellis read from Soviet proclamations announcing nationalization of livestock and other property.

"You are proposing to send over hides that were appropriated from the Russian people," Ellis suggested.

"They were appropriated by 150,000 000 people and if they want to do that you can't stop them," answered Martens.

The Russian Soviet Government confiscated all property without compensation because it belonged to the people and had been unrightfully taken from them in the days of serfdom, Martens said.

Ellis read from the constitution of the Communist party advocating victory for Socialism throughout the world.

"And that includes the United States?" he asked.

"Of course," answered Martens.

JURY TRYING I. W. W. TO VISIT SCENE OF MURDERS

Montesano, Wash., Feb. 18. — The jury trying the 11 I.W.W. for the murders of Armistice Day in Centralia, will be taken to the scene of the alleged massacre this week. Attorneys for both sides have indicated a willingness to have this done. Frank Van Glider, chief of the Intelligence Department, who was standing beside Grimm when the latter was shot, will be called early. Prosecutors said he will positively refute the claim of Defence Attorney Vanderveer that Grimm was shot while leading an attack on the hall.

Five members of the so-called Labor jury are now daily attendants at the trial. They have been occupying a bench just outside the rail, where they have been making copious notes.

TEXTILE MANUFACTURERS WILL NOT NEED EXTRA TIME TO REPLY TO BOARD

Ottawa, Ont, Feb. 18.—Textile manufacturers are satisfactorily answering the questions sent to them by the Board of Commerce. The answers are voluminous, and it is anticipated that few will exceed the limit of time granted to them for the sending in of their answers. The time for receiving them expired Tuesday and it is not expected that an extension will be necessary. It is believed that the mass of information received will be of invaluable use in ascertaining basic costs. If it is found that the textile manufacturers are unduly enhancing prices, it is in the power of the board to recommend a reduction or removal of the protective duties.

NEW POWER TRANSMISSION LINE TO BE CONSTRUCTED FROM PORTAGE TO MORDEN

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—It was officially announced at the Parliament buildings Tuesday that the next task to be undertaken by the Provincial Power Commission will be the construction of a power transmission line to Morden. This line will leave the present one to Portage la Prairie at Oakville, and will follow a route which will ensure power to Roland and Carmen. Active construction work will commence as soon as the spring break-up permits.

PROVINCIAL GOVT. MAY BUILD LINE TO FLIN FLON MINE

Estimated Cost $2,500,000—Canadian National Railways May Operate the Same

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—The Provincial Government, according to official information, is considering the construction of a railway from The Pas to the Copper Lake mining district at an estimated cost of $2,500,000. This would provide railway connection with the Flin Flon mine.

It is understood that the Government will make the appropriation but will not ommence construction of the line until the development of the Flin Flon mine has assured the necessary tonnage to justify the construction. It is also understood that the Government will endeavor to get an undertaking from the Canadian National Railway to operate the line if it is constructed.

POLICEMAN KILLS TWO BURGLARS AT SOUND BEACH, CONN.

Greenwich, Con., Feb. 18.—Two alleged burglars were killed at Sound Beach in a gun duel in the dark with Alden L. McMurtrey, a state policeman. The shooting occurred in the cellar of the Summer home of Mrs. Eliza G. Morris at Point, Sound Beach. One of the supposed burglars, John Noccia, 30, was killed outright by a bullet through the stomach, while the other Anthony Forlenzo, 25, died in the Greenwich hospital.

McMurtrey was wounded in the right arm. Addison Bacon, a constable who was with McMurtrey was injured in the shoulder.

FRENCH DEBATE FOREIGN POLICIES

More Than Score of Vital Questions Raised—Are Germans Disarming?

Paris, France, Feb. 18—A great debate on foreign affairs has opened in the new French Chamber of Deputies. No better picture of France's apprehensions as to the future could be offered than is contained in the inclusive series of questions asked of the Government by Deputy Cornudet.

The questions run, somewhat as follows:

Can the government enforce the indemnities due from Germany?

Are the allies still united in policy?

Has the unprecedented and powerful reparations commission been constituted?

Is America represented?

Is it true that Germany has not kept her engagements regarding coal deliveries?

Can she make the prescribed gold payments?

As to U.S.-British-French Pact

Is the Franco-Anglo-American alliance going to be realized?

Is Germany really disarming as provided by the treaty?

Are the forts on the right bank of the Rhine being dismantled?

Is the league of nations actually going to work, and what will be France's situation if it does not?

Is the United States represented?

Leaving out the United States, to what extent can France rely on defensive aid from Great Britain and Belgium?

Are France and Great Britain agreed in their Russian policy?

Is the resumption of commercial relations with Russia possible in the present state of the Russian railways?

What kind of monarchy is being formed in Hungary?

Is it true that Great Britain has informed Poland that she can no longer help her?

What about the question of the Adriatic, "which may bring war at any moment between our Jugo Slav and Indian friends?

Holdings in Turkey at Stake

What about Turkey? More than half of Turkey's private enterprises are in French hands and France holds sixty per cent. of the Ottoman debt. What is the government going to do to safeguard these interests? What is to become of Constantinople?

What about French interests in Syria, Palestine, Cilicia and Port Alexandria?

Has the new government formed a coherent foreign policy?

Is the government concerning itself sufficiently with the spread of French moral influence throughout the world?

If, before the end of the debate, which may last several days, the government answers all these questions it will have defined France's probable relations during the next few months to some of Europe's gravest problems.

STATE SOCIALISM MISERABLE FAILURE IN QUEENSLAND

According To Statistics Taken From Report of Auditor General for 1918-1919

STRIKES ARE INCREASING

While Cost of Living Is Higher Than In Any Other Australian State

While the cannons roared in Flanders and the battles raged in France, labor joined with capital in straining every nerve to produce the sinews of war; but when peace came to that shell-torn strip of country over which mighty armies had contended for nearly five years industrial strife broke out all over the world.

In the present industrial unrest a bigger principle is involved than that workers generally seem to desire, the shorter hours and higher pay. The introduction of a system of collective ownership, or nationalization, whereby in their parliance, "the worker will receive full product of his labor."

Now, how many of those men who shout the loudest for "nationalization" have the faintest idea how their theory will work in practice? Apart from Russia—whose ghastly example no sane workingman desires to follow—is there any country where industries have been nationalized on a large scale? Yes, there is Queensland, one of the largest of the Australian states, which elected a Labor-Socialist Parliament in 1915, and which since then has had a surfeit of "nationalized" industries.

Labor Government

In 1915 a Government composed of Liberals was ousted by the Labor party, led by Thomas Joseph Ryan, and he immediately entered into a veritable orgy of State Socialism. It must be remembered that Queensland, in spite of its area of 670,500 square miles contains only 680,000 people,the population of a Canadian city about the size of Toronto, Ont. Therefore the sums of money mentioned while not seeming large, entail considerable strain on such a small number of people. For eight successive years before the Labor Minstry come into power the State finances showed, at the end of each year a small amount on the credit side, Since the Ryan Labor Government took charge there has been a succession of ever-increasing deficiencies.

One of the Labor Party's election cries was: "Cheap meat for the workers," and soon after it got its fat into the trough it commandeered twenty-nine sheep and cattle stations, or ranches, paying the owners in bonds bearing only 4½ per cent interest, although the government cannot borrow money at less than 5 2-3 per cent. Twelve out of these twenty-nine stations were run at a heavy loss, one being saddled with an indebtedness of $1,200,000. When the accounts are lumped, the total result shows the losses to out-balance considerably the profits. In order to distribute the meat to the workers, State butcheries were established, but—and this is important—they were not supplied with meat from the State cattle ranches. Meat was commandeered from private cattle farmers, for the State butcher shops at 3¾d. (about 7½ cents) a pound, while the cattle from the State ranches was sold for export at the highest market rate. Even in spite of commandeering meat at their own price, the State butcheries were unable to make both ends meet, for on a turnover of $2,750,000, net sales exceeded purchases by $97,500, which will not pay the interest on the capital invested.

An interesting point about the State butcheries is that they are few in number—not a dozen all told—and that they have been established only in towns that returned a Labor member to Parliament. To be exact one is at work in a constituency represented by the Opposition but in this case the shop was established when Labor held the seat but a subsequent by-election resulted in its defeat.

All Losing Enterprises

When Labor took the reins the railways were paying working expenses and interest and showed a small profit. Labor's first year of control (1916) showed a loss of $2,541,220; in 1917 the loss was $3,668,940, and in 1918 $5,140,040—these deficits being in spite of increased freights and rates. A special ecort was made in 1919, and as a result of "the most stringent economy" the loss was increased to $7,106,640! At this time the Ministry was borrowing money at £5 13s. 6d. per £100 to build lines that returned only 13s. 9d. per £100—and every mile of line was losing on the average $1,125 a year.

Another State enterprise established under the Socialistic regime was a State trawler, which was going to smite the profiteering fishmongers on the solar plexus and make fish as cheap and plentiful as promissory notes. The State trawler, which cost $162,060, absorbed in May and June last $11,130, and by that generous expenditure caught fish to the value of $680. The State fish shops, which were going to retail the fish caught by the State trawler direct to the people, showed in its balance sheet: Receipts, $301,395; expenditure, $350,085; loss, $48,690.

A State coal mine was opened at Warra, also with the idea of dealing a coup de grace to the profiteers. It was such a huge failure it had to be shut down, the dead loss being $237,265.

Paid $500 a Ton

Complaint was made to the Ministry that the profiteering was rampant in carbide, so the Government imported Japanese carbide at $500 a ton. At the time carbide could be bought for limited stocks at $200 a ton, and in Sydney at $250 a ton.

For the purpose of providing work for insistent supporters, a State arsenic mine was established, and so far $45,000 has been spent on it without a cent being returned. In three months the State lime crusher loaded the taxpayers with a debit of $2,055. For a start the cost of crushing the lime was about $78.50 a ton, and it can be imagined the farmers did not relish such an expensive product. Then labor rolled up its sleeves and, by a prodigious effort, brought the cost down to $25 a ton, but even then buyers held aloof. Eventually the lime was retailed at $5.50 a ton, and the State lime crusher was shut down.

A State liquor saloon was opened with a flourish of trumpets and copious emanations of hot air from politicians, but it is now in debt, and no further 'pubs" have been started. The State farms have failed to make ends meet, and the State Produce Agency, which was going to eliminate the "middleman," is also on the wrong side of the ledger.

Yearly Boost of Tax Rate

In its frantic endeavor to make the revenue keep pace with the expenditure the Labor Government ruthlessly increased the taxation. In 1915 taxation stood at $5.70 per head of population, and the State showed small surpluses every year. In the first year after the Labor Government came into office (1916) the taxes were increased to $8.68 per head; in 1917 they were $9.46 per head; in 1918, $10.54, and in 1919, $16.20 per head—an increase of 190.5 per cent. in four years.

On a small community of 680,000 people there has been an increase in direct taxation alone of $9,000,000 during a period when great additional demands were being made upon the people by the Federal Government for unavoidable war expenditure. There is no other state in the Commonwealth of Australia with such a record as Queensland during the last four years.

The percentage increases as shown in the annual report of the Auditor-General for the state are: Population, 5.6 per cent.; receipts, 30.7 per cent.; expenditure, 33.2 per cent.; taxation, 190.5 per cent.

As all the war expenditure was borne by the Federal Government, labor has no excuse for bleeding the citizens so outrageously.

Bigger Ratio of Strikes

In spite of all these Socialistic schemes this "nationalizing" of industries, which were to be run for the benefit of the people and which were to make the capitalist an habitue of the State Unemployment Bureau, no one in Queensland is any the happier. There are more strikes there, in proportion to inhabitants, than in any other State in the Union, and as the strikers are the men upon whom the Government relies for support, it is afraid to do anything but give in to them. There is irony in the fact many of the strikes take place on State enterprises, but as the Ministry is the servant of the unions, the men generally get what they want. But they have to strike to get it. The Labor Government is like any other employer—it hangs out until the last gasp.

One of the disquieting features of State Socialism was revealed at Townsville (Queensland) recently when a strike occurred there. Attacks were made by the strikers upon the employers and their representatives, and the local police force was powerless to cope with the disorders. Shops were broken into and firearms stolen, and many shots were fired in the streets. A strong force of police was dispatched to Townsville by special train, but the train crews were in league with the strikers, and when the train reached a certain distance it was abandoned by the crew, who refused to transport the protectors of law and order to the scene.

Employes Have No Voice

The Labor Premier, Thomas Joseph Ryan, having got the State into such a chaotic condition, has now resigned the Premiership and is a candidate for Federal honors. His last act before quitting was to introduce an unemployment insurance scheme, under which every man who is out of work will receive (from a fund to which the employers will be compelled to subscribe) about $4.50 a week for a single man and just under $9 for a man with a family. The employer must pay into the fund $10 per employe for the first year, and any sum the Government may think fit in subsequent years. The amount after the first year is unlimited, the Labor party fixing it according to the demands on the fund. Another clause in the bill gives the Labor Council power to order the employer to do anything it thinks fit in order to provide employment.

Fearing that the employers might decide to retire from business rather than be compelled to subsidize the unemployed, it is proposed to manufacture employers. Any person with a taxable income above a certain amount may be ordered, should the "council of irresponsibles" think fit, "to create employment by investing money in development work or work of benefit to the State."

While much is said about making the employer find work, nothing in the bill provides for the men doing the work well, or even accepting a job when it is found for them. A Gilbertian feature of the bill is that it is the settled policy of the Labor Ministry to do away with employers and to "Nationalize" everything; yet under this Act Labor proposes to increase the number of employers by main force.

Cost of Living Highest There

The statistics quoted in this article are taken from the report of the Queensland Auditor-General for 1918-1919. They bear such damaging evidence against political control by Socialists that it would not be surprising if the next bill introduced were one to abolish the office of Auditor-General; for what is the use of having control of the destinies of a country and to go about orating from soap boxes and tree stumps of the wonderful success of the Labor-Socialist policy when a man whom the Government itself pays produces a report which shows such a ghastly series of failures.

And on top of it all the Commonwealth Statistician lately published figures which show, under the Labor regime in Queensland the cost of living is greatly in excess of that of the other Australian States.

"Laws of the Herd and Flock" is the title of an engrossing na ure article in Rod and Gun in Canada for February. George R. elton, the well-known Western writer, is the author of this article, which is only one of ten stories and articles in this issue of Canada's leading sportsmen's monthly.

GERMAN TRIAL FOR DISOBEDIENCE OF LAWS OF WAR

Preliminary Proceedings Undertaken At Leipzig By Minister of Justice

Berlin, Feb. 23.—Preliminary proceedings in several cases of Germans accused of violations of the laws of war have already been begun, and progress is being made in the collection of documentary matter, Dr. Scheffer, Minister of Justice, told the representative of the Zwoelf Uhr Blatt. The minister said that the accused persons would be tried at Leipzig by a court consisting of the customary seven judges.

To Call Witnesses

German witnesses will be here in according with the prescriptions of criminal trial regulations abroad if they do not care to come to Germany. It was indicated a German examining magistrate would go to other countries to be present at the taking of evidence.

Accused persons who do not respond to the summons to appear before the Imperial Court will have to be arrestod, and German authorities will in any case do everything to expedite proceedings as far as possible. On the principle that each accused would necessarily have to be tried individually, Dr. Scheiffer energetically emphasized the fact that the government regarded it an affair of honor to punish those really guilty. The government however, was not obeying the Entente's will in carrying out the trial, he asserted, but was fulfilling the requirements of the "ordered state and its own feelings of what was just."

BAD LIQUOR IS SHIPPED IN FROM OTHER PROVINCES

Purchasers Now Seek Authority To Return Such Liquor To the Wholesalers

Winnipeg, Feb. 23. — Much bad liquor has been unloaded on Winnipeg people, who have ordered "liquid refreshment" from points outside the province, it was stated Saturday on good authority. These purchasers are seeking permission from the Liquor License Department to return this liquor to the wholesalers who filled their orders. No liquor can be exported from the province under the Manitoba Temperance Act as it now stands, unless by special permission of the authorities. This places the purchaser at the mercy of the seller, it was stated.

Complaints are being received by the department that liquor inferior to the samples furnished is being supplied to Manitoba customers by dealers outside the province. In some medical orders have been incorrectly filled, whiskey being sent in the place of other liquors, it is said. In some instances part of the deposit price has been kept "on credit," it was declared Saturday.

The department is investigating the charges made, it was learned.

CHARGE BY BOARD OF COMMERCE THAT CANNERS HAVE FORMED A COMBINE

Ottawa, Feb. 23—(Canadian Press)—Declaring that the Dominion Canners, Limited, of Hamilton, and the Canadian Canners, Limited, Toronto, have formed a combine which is operating to the detriment of and against public interest, the Board of Commerce has called a meeting at Toronto, March 22nd, to deal with the matter. The complaint of the Board against the two canning companies charges that they have, in association with various other incorporated companies, partnerships and persons at present unknown, formed and are now operating combines which have relation to canned fruits, vegetables, berries and other canned goods intended for human consumption.

AMERICANS ARE NOT ANXIOUS ABOUT THEIR OWN SAFETY

Admiral Sims States People Resent Criticism of Anything American

Philadelphia, Feb. 23.—Admiral William S. Sims, orator at the University Day exercises of the University of Pennsylvania, criticized the tendency of Americans to resent adverse comment upon military unpreparedness of the United States. "The missing element in Americanism," said the Admiral, "is that it does not include solicitude for our safety. The government, and to a certain extent our people, resent criticism of anything American. This is a dangerous attitude that has cost us many thousands of lives and many million in treasure."

In European countries, Admiral Sims said, the national defence is a live issue. The consequence is that Americans know less about the elements of warfare and less about the actual condition of their military forces than the people of any other great power, and this is dangerous, he declared.

EXHIBITION OF FUR-BEARING ANIMALS THIS YEAR IN EAST

Convention Decides To Hold Exposition In Montreal Next Fall

Montreal, Feb. 23.—At the conclusion of the convention of the fur industry and wild life conference here Saturday, it was unanimously decided that steps should be taken to organize an international exposition of fur-bearing animals, especially the silver fox, at Montreal during the coming Fall.

Senator Lorn C. Webster advocated the establishment of a fur auction market for Canadian furs in Montreal and estimated the total production of furs at $30,000,000, a considerable trade which should be kept at home. A number of Canadian firms and foreign buyers had, he said, promised to attend the first auction to be held here in the week of March 22nd, when four or five million dollars' worth of Canadian furs will be put on the open market.

SPOTTERS' EVIDENCE HAS NO STANDING

In Magistrate Sir Hugh John Macdonald's Court—Not Worth Considering

Magistrate Sir Hugh J. Macdonald, Police Commissioner, has condemned the suggestion of Provincial Morals Inspector Alex. McCurdy to use "spotters" to rid Winnipeg of immorality.

"I certainly do not approve of it, and if Mr. McCurdy's evidence against eight houses of immorality is based on the evidence of 'spotters' it is not worth considering," the magistrate declared.

"As a magistrate, I would not accept the statement of a spotter made on oath. I believe a man who stoops low enough to be a spotter would commit perjury to secure a conviction. A spotter is the lowest living type of man in existence."

No action will be taken by the Police Commission in connection with McCurdy's challenge to be given a chance to "clean" the city, Sir Hugh thought.

Police Chief Newton said he would not ask McCurdy for his evidence.

"Mr. McCurdy is working under Inspector J. N. McLean, of the temperance department. Let him submit his evidence to Mr. McLean, who is his superior officer," he said.

MANUFACTURERS ARE CHARGED WITH SHARP PRACTICE BY PAPER

Calgary, Feb. 23.—The Herald says: Persistent rumor throughout the West couples Canadian manufacturers with a bit of sharp practice which, if they are guilty of, calls for speedy action by the Board of Commerce. Owing to the depr ciation of the Canadian dollar across the border there is a general increase in pr es of American-made goods sold in the Canadian market. The rumor circulating has it that manufacturers of similar lines of goods in Canada are advancing prices in line with advances on American goods with no legitimate cau e.

Is there any truth in the rumor and if there is, what does the Board of Commerce propose to do about it.

TAKING ARCHANGEL BY BOLSHEVIKI CAUSE OF DISMAY

London, Feb. 23.—The report from Moscow that Bolshevists have captured Archangel was received with some dismay in parliamentary circles here, and even Labor members profess no jubilation at the Bolshevists' latest triumph. Asked for his opinion of the situation, Colonel John Ward, who is credited with a more exact knowledge of Russian affairs than any living Englishman, said: "It was expected the Bolshevists would take the town. I know the Soviet Government had given orders that the throat of every member of the Archangel government should be cut when the town was occupied. An orgy of murder will go on and Archangel will suffer the same as other towns where the Bolshevists have been successful. One thing is certain, the anti-Bolshevist population will be wiped out."

Fear Absolute Autocracy

Labor members who have hitherto applauded the Soviet Government's military success are now distrustful of the Bolshevist future, and fear that more of these recurring victories will result in an absolute autocracy, likely to sweep away Lenine and the Soviet government and lead to a dictatorship more severe than the Czarist regime. The Bolshevist army is described as second in efficiency, equipment and numbers only to the French. Almost all Czarist generals are in its ranks, and the situation will soon be ripe for the seizure of power by some autocrat who will dominate Europe as did Napoleon after the French revolution, it is said.

GOVT. TO CONTINUE ACTION AGAINST PRICE BROTHERS

Second Hearing on Tuesday In Action Against Newsprint Firm

Ottawa, Feb. 23—(Canadian Press)—The next step in the government's action against Price Brothers, Ltd., Quebec, to compel that firm to market its newsprint paper in Canada is a hearing before the Board of Commerce Tuesday of counsel for Price Brothers, who have been invited to present their case and to show cause why certain ad interim clauses of the board's order No. 2, dated February 6th, should not be made a permanent order. The board's order was filed in the Exchequer Court of Canada Friday. Price Brothers have not complied with the order, which directed that stated quantities of newsprint should be shipped from their Quebec mills to publishing firms in Montreal. One of these firms, publishing the Montreal Herald, has since announced that it will have to suspend publication of the paper unless newsprint is forthcoming at once.

FRENCH AVIATION NOW PARALYZED

French Paper Asks That Something Be Done To Assist Air Force

Paris, Feb. 23.—Pleas that "something be done for French aviation," which is described to be in a "state of paralysis," are made by the newspaper Liberte, which asserts the "next war" will be won or lost through the state of efficiency attained by air forces in peace times. It is argued the commercial airplane should be capable of being transformed into a war machine in the shortest period of time, and that the country should have enough civil aviators to put into the fields a powerful fleet of planes during the first days of any conflict. Such a fleet would have a tremendous advantage, it is pointed out, in bombing towns and points of strategic importance.

Great Britain has appropriated 15,000,000 pounds sterling for its air service, 2,000,000 pounds being for civil aviation, the newspaper states.

VIENNA HAS ONLY SUFFICIENT FOOD FOR ONE MONTH

Financial Chaos—City a Picture of Desolate Misery—Children Starving

New York, Feb. 23.—A cable message at the offices of the American Relief Association from the representative in Vienna, tells of conditions of financial chaos and extreme want and suffering rampant there.

"The crown is worth less than half a cent," the message stated. "There is no coal and street cars have stopped running. People, badly clad, walk miles to work.

"Vienna is a picture of desolate, almost helpless misery Last fall 225,000 was a fair estimate of the number of under-nourished children in Vienna, today we believe 300,000 would be more correct. We are informed that the city has sufficient foodstuffs to last only one month, even at the present starvation rate."

LOOK TO WOMEN TO BETTER CONDITIONS

And Maintain Public Welfare, According To Winnipeg Woman In East

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, of Winnipeg, speaking Saturday night at a special meeting of the Alumnae Society of McGill University, held at the Royal Victoria College, said that upon the men of the Dominion will fall the burden of the reconstruction work in Canada after the ravages of war, but the part of the women will be to be largely responsible for the bettering of social conditions and the maintenance of public welfare.

Women of the Western Provinces had, she claimed, brought about legislation providing for better working conditions and better wages for the factory and department store employes of the West, and in Manitoba alone $200,000 had been granted to provide mothers' pensions. She contrasted the refusal of Quebec to allow women to practice law here and the failure of women to secure the franchise in Quebec with the fact that women sat in several of the Western legislatures.

NO PRACTICAL FIELD FOR RED CROSS WORK NOW

According To Decision By Manitoba Red Cross Society At Annual Meeting

A MINISTERING BODY

To Other Organizations Engaged in Peace Work—Ready For Emergencies

At the annual meeting of the Manitoba Red Cross Society held in Winnipeg on Tuesday, the election of officers for 1920 took place. Mrs. J. S. Willmott, President of the Red Cross Society in this city, was appointed a member of the Provincial Advisory Council, and Mr. H. J. Jugh, formerly President of the Brandon Red Cross Finance Board, was elected a member of the Executive Board.

The future peace policy of the Society was outlined at this meeting and was unanimously adopted.

The committee presenting the report, recommended that a sum of $300,000 be set aside for the purpose of carrying on post war work, to extend over a period of ten years, before any appropriation is made from the society's funds for the peace-time operations. The report emphasizes the necessity of effectively competing such work as was undertaken by the society arising directly from the war. It further points out that cases reserving Red Cross assistance will arise indirectly from the results of the war, and to provide for such emergency, $7,000 will be set aside annually. The three working committees of the society—the Military Hospital Committee, Convalescent Soldiers' Committee, and Home Coming Committee, will continue to carry on, the first two, at any rate, for two years, and the latter will be dispensed with at the end of the present year.

The report says: "As at present there is no practical field open for the Red Cross Society as a peace activity, the society's peace policy must develop in a natural manner, but until a definite field presents itself, the society in the meantime must fulfill the functions of a ministering body to other organizations engaged in peace work.

In the capacity of an auxiliary body the Red Cross Society will act in peace as in war—to aid in promotion of health, prevention of diseases and the mitigation of suffering. As a result of consultation with various bodies and organizations the Red Cross will confine its activities to (a) emergency work; (b) continued medical and nursing service in isolated districts of the province; (c) child welfare; (d) increase in the number of graduate nurses; (e) improvement in the training given and the creation of a post graduate course for nurses in connection with the University of Manitoba.

Among recommendations made in the report is that a register of doctors and nurses and of volunteer workers, to constitute an emergency medical and nursing service, equipped with necessary materials and personnel, to meet any emergency that might arise from war disasters, or epidemic. It is suggested to place this register at the disposal of the government department in charge of such relief work. The Red Cross Society is recommended to undertake to create and maintain such a register.

To Provide Nurses

By a request from the Provincial Board of Health, the Society will undertake to provide nurses for the following districts in the province: Port Nelson, on the Great Winnipeg Water Works Railway, and in the Amaranth and Ashern localities. It was pointed out that $10,000 would be required for the maintenance of the four nurses. Assistance will be given to the Victorian Order of Nurses, who, it was shown, are unable to answer the numerous calls for nursing attention from municipalities adjoining the city. Four additional nurses will be placed at the disposal of the V. O. of Nurses at an estimated cost of $6,000.

In Winnipeg, the society will assist in purely nursing service to the poor, and in development of the social service work in the city.

Although no recommendations were made in the report for Child Welfare nor for nursing training, the committee has recommended that a sum not exceeding $25,000 a year be allotted to these endeavors after further investigation and consideration.

The Manitoba branch will appropriate the sum of $160,000 to cover the estimated expenditure of the above program for a period of three years. A further sum of $40,000 will be appropriated for relief assistance to the civil population of Austria. This amount will not be used unless the need for assistance seriously arises.

NEW BILL GIVES WINNIPEG 10 SEATS COUNTRY 2 MORE

Winnipeg, Feb. 19.—Winnipeg will receive ten seats, and rural Manitoba will be given at least two more than it has now under the terms of the Redistribution Bill now being prepared by the Provincial Government, according to reliable information obtained at the parliament buildings. At present there are six Winnipeg seats and 43 rural seats.

The Government caucus Tuesday night considered the proposed Electoral Divisions Act amendments and the Election Act amendments, which Hon. T. H. Johnson is sponsoring in the house. There was a small attendance of members, it was reported, and accordingly few definite decisions were reached.

It has practically been decided, it was stated, to separate Elmwood district of Winnipeg from Elmwood constituency, the urban portion being incorporated in the city riding, and the rural portion becoming a purely rural constituency.

The two new rural ridings are to be created in the district between Lakes Manitoba and Winnipeg. Gimli, St. George, Rockwood and Lakeside are the ridings which will be affected if the plesent plan goes through.

A suggestion has been made that the constituencies of The Pas and Rupert's Land, comprising the whole of Northern Manitoba, be combined into one riding, owing to the paucity of inhabitants. The idea is opposed on the ground that no single member could hope to adequately represent so extensive a territory, and it is expected there will be no change.

BODY OF UNKNOWN FOUND ON TRACK

Toronto, Feb. 19.—Notified by Canadian Pacific Railway officials that a dead body, believed to be that of Samuel A. McIlroy, late of the 15th Battalion, had been found badly mangled on the Montreal-Toronto track just East of the city Monday night, Secretary Stubbs, of the Red Triangle club, was amazed a few minutes after he had attempted to communicate with McIlroy's family, to hear the voice of the supposed corpse calling him on the telephone.

The information received by Mr. Stubbs was that the body had on it discharge papers bearing McIlroy's name and regimental number. The explanation given later by McIlroy was that some time ago the documents were stolen.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials think the body is that of a man recently seen wandering aimlessly around Brockville. It has not yet been identified.

SPLENDID REPORT FROM GRISWOLD METHODISTS IN FORWARD MOVEMENT

Splendid reports are still being received from the surrounding district where the financial campaign of the Forward Movement is still progressing. The amount asked for from the Methodists of the Griswold circuit was $3,000. The people there accepted the allotment and the division of it was made as follows. Griswold 2,000, Terence $700 and Huntington $300. Up to the present Griswold has obtained $1,800 with the balance of $200 guaranteed. Terence has gone over the top with enthusiasm and there are still several subscriptions expected. This added to the sum of almost $7,000 which has been raised during the past nine months for a new church and furnishings, makes a record of which any community of the size of Terence might be proud.

The people of Huntington district have been unfortunate for the past three or four years in not having good crops and while they have great sympathy with the movement have as yet only been able to secure $100 of their objective. It is hoped that the balance will be raised before the campaign closes.

The Methodists of Justice and Douglas have also passed their objective of $2,800 and secured so for $3,300. Of this amount the members of the Douglas Church secured $1,400.

TEACHERS START CAMPAIGN FOR HIGHER SALARIES

Dr. McLellan Issues Impassioned Appeal To Canadian People For Increased Salaries

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—That the teaching profession all over Canada is at present underpaid, thus taking away all inducements to those who would otherwise devote their lives to it, and that a nation-wide propaganda should be immediately instituted to offset this condition, as well as to awaken public interest in the fundamentally important nature of the teaching profession as the basis of national advancement, were some of the features of Tuesday's opening session of the National Council of Educationalists.

A committee of three was appointed to bring in a report, on how best such a campaign can be undertaken. This committee will report before the close of the conference Thursday evening.

Dr. McLellan, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., made an impassioned appeal for a propaganda which would stir the people of Canada to a sense of their obligations toward teaching as a profession.

"Teachers' salaries are too small in all provinces," he declared, "and there is no inducement to men or women to give up their lives to this noble profession."

Next to the clergy, the teacher had more to do than any other person with the moral and spiritual welfare of the race, he added.

Of a genial disposition, the late Judge Walker was very well known and during his residence in Brandon made many friends in the city.

LARGE RAILROAD MERGER PLANNED FOR THIS MONTH

Three Railroads To Amalgamate Under Plans Formed By Late J. J. Hill

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—A merger of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington railroads into one great transcontinental system shortly after governmental control is relinquished this month, was forecasted in high railroad circles here.

It is reported that the merger is being planned along lines conceived by the late James J. Hill.

The merger was actually completed by James J. Hill, when he was in control of the roads, but was dissolved because, it is understood, the Federal government regarded the combination as illegal. It is claimed that legislation before Congress and the present government attitude would not prohibit the merger.

The three roads have a combined mileage of 27,000. It has been stated here that one reason of the merger is to take care of $400,000,000 in Burlington bonds which fall due in 1921.

THOUSAND ARRESTS IN U. S. FIRST MONTH DRY LAW

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Kramer Ready To Enforce Law

Washington, Feb. 18.—More than a thousand arrests marked the first month of constitutional prohibition, Federal Prohibition Commissioner Kramer estimated Tuesday, in an interview. Announcement of the exact number of arrests will not be possible until reports are received February 25th. With approximately 1,500 agents in the service, the prohibition enforcement agency is almost completely organized, according to Kramer. But only a start has been made toward solving the problem of making the country dry, Kramer said.

"The most important results of the first month are intangible," he said. "The development of first importance is the very evident change in the attitude of the citizenry toward the law, especially in the Eastern cities. It is rapidly becoming plain that the people of the country are giving their entire support to securing the law. At first this was not clearly apparent, although it might have been assumed to be so from the fact that the constitutional amendment was adopted. But at first it seemed as if enforcing the law would depend entirely upon the officials.

"Now, however, there is a distinct change noticeable in public opinion. In Boston, for instance, the police, backed completely by public sentiment, are enforcing that clause of the law which makes it necessary to remove all liquor signs from buildings formerly occupied by saloons. The buildings rapidly are being converted to other uses. All traces of the former traffic in liquor are rapidly disappearing."

SILVER FOUND IN MAYO DISTRICT SOUTHEAST DAWSON

Strike Promises To Rival Cobalt—Samples Are the Richest For Years

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 18.—Several weeks ago in the course of a debate in the House of Commons, in London, a member remarked that all was by no means lost, because a great new strike of silver, that promised to rival Cobalt, had been made in the far distant Ypkon. Some accounts regarding this discovery have just reached Vancouver. The strike occurred in the Mayo district close to Stewart river and about 200 miles Southeast of Dawson.

A former Governor-General of the Yukon Territory, who is now living in Vancouver, knows the district well and is assured that the find may in reality turn out to be the greatest ever made in Canada. J. E. Binet, a native of Montreal, who went to the Yukon in 1895, even before the great placer discoveries, has reached here with samples which remind mining men here of the richest pockets which twenty years ago made famous the Payne and Slocan Star and other well known mines of the Slocan district of Kootenay.

The assays run from one hundred and fifty to fifteen hundred dollars to a ton. Binet says there are literally mountains of it. The finds have been above the timber line where the rock lies absolutely bare, and ore bodies have been traced for some miles across the country. Last Summer the Yukon Gold Company, owned by the Guggenheims, bought the most promising claims, paying about $45,000, and one of the company's leading experts spent the season in the camp.

Work All Winter

They are workng all this Winter. At present the ore is being sent out by sleds to the banks of the Stewart river, 45 miles away, and from there will be shipped by steamer to Whitehorse and probably to the Anyox smelter in the Spring. The one individual who has made a success of shipping ore is Thomas Aitken, who two years ago staked the Silver King. He mined and sent to the smelter 3,500 tons of picked ore, which brought a return of half a million dollars, nearly 60 per cent. of which was profit. The Guggenheims are now stated to be planning to put in a concentrating plant.

Mr. Binet says there are 165 miners in the district, which was prospected for gold in the early days by Dawson miners who ascended the Klondike river and crossed the divide into the Questan creek, which is close to Mayo. The principal work is now being done on claims on Kino hill, Haldane, Patterson and Cameron mountains.

U S CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SAYS BRITAIN IS SOUND

Both Financially and Commercially—London is Centre of Europe

London, Feb. 24.—Great Britain is fundamentally sound, both financially and commercially, says the American Chamber of Commerce of London in a statement referring to difference in the financial position of Great Brittain and the continental European countries. The chamber expresses belief that the recent unprecedented drop in sterling exchange in the United States makes it particularly desirable that the opinions on each side of the Atlantic concerning this question should be understood on the other side.

After a thorough discussion with the leaders of British finance, illuminated largely by the addresses of the chairman of five leading British banks to their stockholders in annual meetings, the chamber of commerce has prepared a message to the American business public. The message reads as follows: The collapse of the pound sterling in New York is no index to Great Britain's financial strength or weakness. London is today, as before the war, the monetary centre of Europe. With inadequate assistance from American credit in Europe, Great Britain has been forced to supply the credit needs of the continent as well as those of her own traders. Dollar exchange is really "New-York-Europe" no "New York-London" exchange.

Will Write Off Half Debts

Great Britain is neither bankrupt nor anywhere near it, although her external debt is larger than ever before in her history. This debt was incurred mainly to supply the needs of her continental allies and she is owed approximately twice as much as she owes America. While the United States may fairly expect to collect all her British debt, Great Britain is preparing to write off 50 per cent. of her continental debts.

"In spite of these facts British business and finance are in a fundamentally sound condition. Businessmen and workers are recovering from the demoralizing effects of the war. Their customary energy is reviving, and British factories are increasing their output. According to estimates made public by one bank chairman the present year's exports will produce a profit of from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000. The expression 'We are rounding the corner' is now heard on all sides. Neither British bankers nor the British Government expect, or ask, further government or long term loans from the United States.

"Appeals for American credit on behalf of the destitute areas of Europe should not be misconstrued as veiled appeals for assistance to Great Britain. Such emphatically is not the case. British bankers and businessmen look to American bankers and businessmen only for such friendly facilities as they have enjoyed and have themselves afforded in the past."

REFINERS WANT TO RAISE SUGAR PRICE 2c POUND

Montreal, Feb. 21.—A petition to be allowed to increase the price of sugar by two cents a pound, bringing the cost to the retailers to eighteen cents a pound, was made on the Board of Commerce Friday by the refining companies.

The refiners were represented by J. W. McConnell, of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company, and F. G. O'Grady, of the Atlantic Sugar Refining Company. They submitted documentary evidence in support of their claim tending to show that sugar was three cents a pound cheaper in Canada than in the United States. It was pointed out that owing to a strike in the Cuban port 18,000 tons of sugar ordered by Montreal refiners for January did not arrive, while only five thousand tons of a 30,000 ton order for February had reached here. The refiners accordingly had to buy in the United States, it was contended. The consequence was that the Canadian refiners were running at a loss.

FIRE STARTS IN HOUSE WITH SEVEN FLU PATIENTS ALONE AND HELPLESS

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 21—(Special)—Some members of the fire department discovered an unusually distressing state of affairs in a house to which they were called. An alarm of fire took them to the home of Steve Derata. As there was no sign of life about the house the firemen forced their way in. They found Derata, his wife and five children all so ill of influenza that they could not move to help themselves and might have been burned to death or suffocated but for the discovery of the fire by outsiders.

MAPLE SUGAR MAY WIN PLACE WORLD'S MARKETS

Provided Adulteration Can Be Stopped — Offer By British Firm

Ottawa, Feb. 21—(Canadian Press) With the idea of placing the maple sugar industry of Canada on a world market basis, representations have been made to the government to forbid the export of adulterated maple sugar products. A representative of a large English firm waited upon the government this week and stated they would place the Canadian product on every market within the empire, also in other countries, providing a guarantee could be given that the product was entirely pure.

The government feels, however, that it is impracticable to give a guarantee. In addition, the adulteration might easily take place after the product reaches England.

Meanwhile the Canadian authorities are still seizing large quantities of the adulterated product, 6,000 pounds of syrup being confiscated in Winnipeg and another carload in Montreal within the past week. Prosecution followed in one case and the wholesale grocery firm was convicted.

BARE MAJORITY IS SUFFICIENT

To Secure Enactment of Dominion Legislation Prohibiting Liquor Imports

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—There is no likelihood of a government bill this session, it is authoritatively stated, to amend the Prohibition Act of last session as to require a two-thirds majority before action is taken on a provincial referendum. The act provides that if, on a referendum, a province decides by a simple majority that importation of intoxicating liquors within its boundaries should be prohibited, the Dominion Government will then prohibit importation into that province. The suggestion has been made that instead of a simple majority, a two-thirds vote should be required and the possibility of a private member's bill to this effect is mooted. But it is stated, there has been no government measure under consideration.

MANITOBA GREAT FAIR IN FULL SWING: FINE EVENING PROGRAM

Manitoba's great Winter Fair is now in full swing, the Hon. Valentine Winkler officially declaring the big show open Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Official Opening of Fair

Before introducing the Hon. Valentine Winkler, President J. D. McGregor stated that this is the twelfth fair to be held in Brandon of this kind. The object of the fair has always been to improve the stock of the Province. At the first show only seven cattle had been entered but today over 300 are entered in the various classes, and of a quality that would do credit to any show in America.

In 1914 the Boys' Fat Calf Competition was inaugurated and though the prizes offered at that time were remarkably good that year there were only seven entries. At the present show there are 76 entries by 76 boys who have cared for and looked after their stock. The entry list for this competition is the largest of its kind in America. Mr. McGregor stated that the only way to make for the success of the Province in agricultural and stock shows, was to start with the boys. Speaking of the poultry exhibit he said that it is the largest of its kind ever held in Canada with over 4000 birds entered. The beef cattle show is also record breaking with over 300 entries.

That much credit to the success of the Winter Fair is due to Hon. Mr. Winkler for his assistance, was the tribute paid the Minister of Agriculture by Mr. McGregor. He said that there never was a time even in the darkest days of the Winter Fair when the Hon. Valentine Winkler did not come to its assistance. The President also gave credit to the members of the Winnipeg Stock Exchange for paying such good prices to the boys for their fat stock.

Glad to Open Fair

In his opening remarks, the Hon. Valentine Winkler said he felt honored to come to Brandon and open the great Winter Fair. He made reference to the fairs held here and the people of the immediate district. Brandon had first found its place in growing country and is now making its name in the way it is championing agriculture and stock raising. Anything raised in Brandon or from Brandon is significant in the world of agriculture. The air around Brandon seems charged with the activity of agricultural pursuits.

The Minister of Agriculture made reference to the first fair Brandon had held when eight horses and seven cattle had been entered. Chicago may have greater numbers at its great International Fair, but he questioned whether it has much on the local fair in the way of quality. Brandon owes much of the success of the fair to the public spirit of its people.

There are many outstanding exhibits at the present fair, Hon. Mr. Winkler declared. In connection with the Boys' Calf show, we will do well to remember that the boys of today are to be the experts of tomorrow. If the other provinces don't follow Manitoba with as much success in this department of the fat stock show, this province will soon outstrip its competitors.

Praises Efficiency of Those in Charge

The success of the fair is in a large measure due to the efforts of its officials and the men who have always taken an active interest in the conducting of the fair. He mentioned J. D. McGregor, John Inglis, John Scarffe and a score of others who were pioneers in the handling of the Winter Fair. He mentioned the Board of Directors, as composed of men who having business to take care of could still find time to become experts in agricultural matters. The Minister of Agriculture said that he believed that Brandon has secured the best fair manager in Canada in the person of W. I. Smale and that the success of the fair was in no little way due to his efforts. The Hon. Valentine Winkler then declared the twelfth Winter Fair officially open.

The Musical Ride

The first item on the program for the evening was a musical ride by the members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Twenty-two horsemen took part in the ride which was executed with perfect precision and was greatly cheered by the audience. Then followed the parade of stallions and nearly 150 of the best horses of all classes were in the show ring at one time. They made an imposing appearance and the quality of the animals was remarked on by all stock men. Certainly no finer exhibit of heavy horses has ever been seen at this Show and it will take some good work by the judges to single out the championships from among the great number of high quality horses as were seen in the show ring on Monday night.

Fat Calves of Wonderful Quality

After the Mounted Police had put on a wrestling on horseback event in which Number One team won the boys brought in their entries in the Fat Calf Competition. All the entries were in the show ring and were led by their youthful owners and keepers. The quality of animals in this competition is very high and a prediction has been made that over twenty animals will grade better than the calf that won the championship last year. Only two or three calves in the ring Monday night looked to be out of the running for the honors in this class, and the judges are also going to have a job on their hands to pick out the winner from among the 76 entries in this competition.

A game of push-ball by the Mounties wound up the evening's performance. This is the first time that this feature has ever been staged here and it proved very interesting to the spectators. Four clowns furnished the comedy in the ring.

U. S. SYSTEM OF CAR-DEMURRAGE NOT FOR CANADA

Decision of Board of Railway Commissioners and Reasons Therefore

Montreal, March 2.—An important decision of the Board of Railway Commissions rejecting the proposition to apply in Canada the United States system of "average demurrage" on cars, was received Monday by the transportation bureau of the Montreal Board of Trade. By the United States plan, a credit of a day is allowed for each car released within the first 24 hours of free time, and a debit charged for each 24 hours after the car is detained beyond the first 48 hours of free time. At the end of the month, if credits equal or exceed debits, no demurrage of the charge is made; if not, demurrage is only charged on the difference.

The rejection of this plan is based on the reason that the average system is discriminatory in principle, and it has not been proved that it will work out to increase car supply available at any given time.

SASKATCHEWAN BIRD SANCTUARIES NOW ABOLISHED

Lands Being Thrown Open For Settlement—Protection Area Too Small

Saskatoon, Sask., March 2. — Many lands that were formerly reserved for bird sanctuaries, in the vicinity of lakes in the province of Saskatchewan, have now been thrown open for soldier settlement, states Major M. A. MacInnes, of the Dominion Lands Office. In a large number of cases these lands, being in close proximity to bodies of water, are of the very best quality and they will be a considerable addition to the land already available for settlement. The tracts which were thus reserved usually comprise from two to three sections surrounding lakes, this belt of protection sometimes reaching back half a mile from the water. It is now found that the protection area is too small to afford the birds protection, as settlement is steadily encroaching. Formerly no one was allowed to trespass on these reserves for shooting purposes and this applied to all families of birds, wild fowl included. The ban is now lifted in these cases.

WELSHMEN HONOR MEMORY OF SAINT IN JOYOUS STYLE

Services of Lloyd George In War and Peace Eulogistically Referred To

MAYORAL GREETINGS

No Welshman Ever Appears Before Him In His Official Capacity Says Fraser

Joyous, exuberant enthusiasm marked every feature of the proceedings when the Welsh residents of the city and district met to honor the memory of St. David, the patron saint of the principality of Wales, at the Congregational Church on Monday night.

His Worship, Mayor Dinsdale, conveyed the greetings of the Brandon City Council, and in doing so, reminiscently referred to his schoolday when it occasionally fell to the lot of a Welsh teacher to administer needed correction. Magistrate Fraser, in an interlude of a characteristically facetious speech, solemnly declared that no Welshman had ever appeared before him in his magisterial capacity, though His Worship, reluctantly confessed that an occasional Scotchman appeared on some minor offence before him. Rev. M. L. Orchard dealt with eloquence on the services that the great Welshman, David Lloyd George, had rendered during the war as well as in times of peace.

The meeting was preceded with a sumptuous supper prepared by the Welsh ladies of St. David's society, of whom Mrs. Ross Forbes was convenor. Mr. John Davies presided over the post-prandial proceedings and made a capital chairman and toastster. Mr. Harold Forshaw performed the duties of accompanist.

The program opened with a vocal solo by Mr. Humphrey Davies whom, the chairman announced, had won the baritone championship of the province last year, in Winnipeg. Mr. Davies was in his best form on Monday evening and as an encore gave an exceptionally good rendering of "Off to Tipperary in the Morning."

The Toasts

Principal Ambrose Evans, of Kemnay, responding to the toast of "Our Native Land" ascribed the inherent love of freedom of the Welsh people mountains. He declared that the Britons had never been conquered by the Romans or Saxons but that the national characteristics and language had remained unimpaired throughout the centuries to this day.

Mr. J. G. Davies submitted "Our about doing good." He contended that while St. David had won no wars, produced no great invention or discovered no new lands, it was to the everlasting glory of the Welsh people, that they had set a day apart to honor the memory of a man, dead over fifteen hundred years, simply because it could be said of him "He went about doing good. He contended that men of character alone could be assured of support in seeking public positions in the old land, and that if it were known that Lloyd-George was even capable of uttering a falsehood, he would be torn relentlessly from his seat of authority.

Other items of an exceedingly interesting program were contributed by Miss Gwen Davies, piano and vocal solos. Viola Davies, a reading: "The Bridge of Sighs." Piano and vocal selections by the tiny mites Delys and Elaine Evans, of Kemnay. Piano solo by Miss Dilys Davies. Original folk-lore songs by Principal Evans, etc.

THE SCHOOL AS THE PRIMARY SOCIAL AGENCY

Fred C. Middleton Delivers Addresses to Normal School Students

THE NEW DEMOCRACY

Differs in Four Ways from Old—Features the Idea of Service

"The School as the Primary Social Agency in the Community," was the subject of an address given by Fred. C. Middleton, Community Secretary of the Social Service Council of Manitoba, today, to the students at the Normal School. This is the third lecture on Community Organization and Rural Sociology which Mr. Middleton has given to the students this week.

Continuing his address, the speaker said "It is the duty of the school to progressively produce in the child the social reaction or response. This could be done through the avenue of the regular school activities. In like manner the school should develop in the child the moral impulse and so teach the opportunities and responsibilities of Canadian citizenship through home building, parenthood, and commercial and industrial vocations that the challenge of the day in these directions would provide moral equivalents for war, appealing to the unselfish and the heroic."

New Democracy

For his address on Wednesday Mr. Middleton chose for his subject, "The Community Club and the New Democracy." Mr. Middleton maintained that the old democracy had failed as surely as had the autocracy. "So there was an insistent demand for a new democracy, which would differ from the old in at least four ways. It would be social, rather than individual, co-operative, the idea of service, rather than that of being served, and finally it would be spiritual and not material in its outlook. The greatest need of today is to Christianize democracy. The Community Club through its forum and get-together activities will be one of the mediums through which this new democracy will be established in the local community."

The Community Club Idea

Speaking of the Community Club on Tuesday, Mr. Middleton defined a club as "A group of neighbors who without regard to their vocation, social standing, political affiliation or denominational preference, agree to live by the principles of human brotherhood in their relations each with the other that their community will be a better place in which to live." The organization has a three-fold program of community activities represented in the Club slogan, "Think Together, Work Together, and Play Together." This program is carried out by five standing committees—Public Forum, Better Business, Public Health, Young People, Recreation and Entertainment. To make rural life in Manitoba more wholesome, more attractive, more complete, is the task ahead of the movement and with over fifty centres organized in the Province there are good prospects that the task will be accomplished."

HOME RULE AS IN CANADA WOULD SATISFY IRISH

De Valera and Other Sinn Fein Leaders Said to Favor This

Dublin, Feb. 26. — De Valera and other Sinn Fein leaders are prepared to accept the scheme of Dominion home rule with a constitution based on the Canadian plan, according to prominent Sinn Feiners here. Anything else will be refused unhesitatingly, even complete separation, which is not now seriously considered by real heads. The only danger is that they may be forced to maintain the Republican idea because the followers who are enamored of it may refuse to allow them to depart from it. Certainly it is a fact that the continued policy of repression is forcing hundreds of Irishmen, previously Nationalist, into the ranks of the rabid enemies of the present movement.

Though only a few people are affected by the new curfew order here, the latest restriction upon personal liberty is widening the breach, making more impossible the likelihood of reaching any complete basis of understanding, and it is also encouraging acts of reprisal. That the danger of continued murders of police is far from lessened by the order, is shown by the steadily increasing resignations from the force which are taking place daily.

Board of Commerce Abolishes Control of Price of Sugar as a Test

IS BOARD EFFECTIVE?

Refiners Price for Sugar 16c a Pound When Control Was Released

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—For the specified purpose of proving whether or not the activities of the Board of Commerce have been effective in keeping down excess profits in Canada, the Board today abolished its control of sugar, and the fixed price of sixteen cents a pound at the refineries no longer obtains. The cost of production has undoubtedly increased since the order was made fixing the price on January 8th, and the Board feels that some concession should be made to dealers.

TIMBER FAMINE PREDICTED IF WOOD IS NOT PRESERVED

Cutting Operations Must Be Revolutionized, States Forestry Expert

Winnipeg, Feb. 27.—Actual timber famine was forecasted in an address before the forestry convention Thursday afternoon by Geo. Tunstell, of the Dominion Forestry Branch. He declared this was inevitable unless cutting operations are revolutionized and reforestation of waste lands undertaken.

Mr. Tunstell said the timber famine would be keenly felt inside of fifty years. Lumber prices, he said, had not reached a point where timber could be "grown" at a profit.

Canada's annual lumber cut averages around 4,000,000,000 feet, Mr. Tunstell said. It would make, said Mr. Tunstell, a belt of inch boards circling the earth at the equator 29 feet wide—some midway boulevard! This cut would load a freight train 1,668 miles long. It would build 260,000 houses.

The pulpwood forests of the Eastern United States are practically exhausted, Mr. Tunstell said, and that country is looking to the forests of Canada. The cut in Canada would no doubt be increased. The annual cut today was over 3,000,000 cords. It would make a continuous pile of wood four feet high and four feet wide for 4,545 miles. This cut was to be increased.

The pulpwood requirements of the United States, Mr. Tunstell said, were 5,500,000 cords annually.

Fire protection for forests was strongly urged by Mr. Tunstell, which caused annually millions of dollars of loss. There were far too few men on patrol and the equipment was not adequate.

50,000,000 Feet Cut in Province

Information secured from an authorative source Thursday is to the effect that Manitoba's lumber cut this year will be 50,000,000 feet, well up to the average. Of this the Finger Company at The Pas will cut 25,000,000 feet; T. A. Burrows, at Birch River, will cut 10,000,000 feet; the Red Deer company at Red Deer Lake will cut 8,000,000 feet, the McArthur mill at Winnipegosis will cut 5,000,000 feet, and numerous small mills in the Riding and Duck mountains alone will cut an aggregate of 10,000,000 feet.

MONTH OLD BABE SAVES MOTHER A TERM IN JAIL

Police Did Not Press For Sentence Because of the Circumstances

Moose Jaw News: To her one month old baby a married woman of Moose Jaw, who is known to the police as a periodic and incurable alcoholic, owes her escape from a six months' term in the Prince Albert jail.

She was arrested on River street Friday night on a charge of being a vagrant and creating a disturbance by being drunk and disorderly in a public place. She pleaded guilty when arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. V. Milward in the Police Court this morning, and was let go on six months' suspended sentence, when Chief Johnson informed the court of the existence of the one month old tot.

The woman, who unfortunately, cannot resist alcohol, told the court this morning that the liquor was given her by A. Berry, who was sentenced to serve six months at hard labor. She has been before the court several times and her only weakness is for alcohol.

WINNIPEG WATER DISTRICT SELLS BONDS, NEW YORK: WAUGH ARRANGES DEAL

Winnipeg, Feb. 27.—The Greater Winnipeg Water District has sold in New York a $750,000 block of debentures and took a 30-day option on the sale of additional debentures aggregating $1,250,000.

The deal was put through by R. D. Waugh, chief commissioner of the district, and City Treasurer H. C. Thompson, who left for New York last Sunday. The offer they accepted was received from the Dominion Securities Corporation and Wood, Gundy and Company which in turn, disposed of the debentures in New York.

The offer received covered the purchase of $750,000 six per cent. ten-year debentures at 87.25 payable in New York funds. The option deal is on the same terms. On the basis of the present rate of exchange this means 5.78 per cent. interest in Canadian funds. According to Alderman Frank O. Fowler, the offer was a great improvement on that submitted recently in response to the call for tenders.

Officers of the district set out to dispose of debentures aggregating $1,000,000 and to arrange for the refinancing of $2,000,000 debentures to expire next April.

He was also a commodore of the Grand Trunk club more than once, and came of a family, four other brothers of which were champion canoeists, while a sister was a lady sculling champion.

FARM LABORERS NOW ORGANIZED

High Wages To Farm Help Discouraging Production Says U. S. Department of Agriculture

Washington, Feb. 27.—Farm hands, now receiving highest wages in history, are organizing labor unions in many sections of the country, a survey of the situation showed Thursday. Wages demanded are discouraging food production, the Agricultural Department asserted in an official statement. Reduced food production is likely to result, the statement said. This means higher prices of necessities.

Approximately 20,000 farm hands are now members of local unions, officials estimated at the American Federation of Labor. Exact figures on the number were not available, although the unions are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. American Federation of Labor officials declare they are taking no direct steps to persuade farm hands to organize. Such unions have been in existence many months, they said. According to labor leaders, the organization movement is spontaneous and initiated by the men themselves.

IMPORT MORE GOODS FROM THE MOTHER COUNTRY

T. B. Macaulay Discusses Exchange Situation and Suggests Remedy

GIVING U. S. PREFERENCE

Solution Is For Each Part of Empire Developing Resources To Supply Other Parts

In view of the state of exchange at the present time, the following interview with Mr. T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada will be read with great interest. Mr. Macaulay puts forth a remedy for the present high rate of exchange and calls for immediate action.

How do you account for the collapse in sterling exchange? Mr. Macaulay was asked.

"Britain's imports from both the United States and Canada," he replied "have for many years been vastly in excess of her exports to this continent. The war has of course enormously accentuated the situation. Trade between two countries is essentially in the nature of barter. To pay for the excess of her imports from us over her exports to us, the Mother Country has but one thing to offer, such bonds, stocks and other securities as our people may be willing to buy. The heavy discount on sterling exchange shows that the supply of these securities is beginning to run short.

"But what will happen when all the securities which Americans and Canadians will purchase shall have been shipped across?

"He would be a brave man who would venture to prophecy how low the value of the pound may go when that happens. It must of necessity then drop until it becomes so low that exports from this continent will be reduced to a minimum, and imports by us from the Mother Country stimulated until they balance the exports. I need not emphasize how disastrous a severe curtailment of our exports would be to our farmers and manufacturers, for we would have huge surplus stocks on hand which would cause great unemployment and crashing values.

"We do not wish the fall of sterling exchange to put a stop to our exports, yet this can only be averted by a switching of a large volume of our importations from the United States to the Mother Country. If we wish to retain our market in Britain, and to get paid for our exports, our people must confine their own purchases so far as possible to the Mother Country and the rest of the Empire.

A Patriotic Service

"Every person who buys from the Mother Country, instead of the United States performs a patriotic service, for he helps to improve the value of sterling exchange, and avoids increasing the premium on American exchange. The heavy premium on New York funds, and the huge discount on sterling funds, are the natural and inevitable result of our purchasing chiefly from the United States, while selling chiefly to Britain.

"The laws of supply and demand working within the channels provided by the tariff, will no doubt ultimately stabilize exchange at some point much below present quotations, but the point of stabilization will depend very largely upon the provisions of our tariff.

"Let us consider how the situation affects our imports. Let us assume that a Canadian merchant desires to import $10,000 worth of a certain article. Let us further, for convenience, assume that the pound has already dropped to $3.50 in Montreal, and that New York exchange has risen to 20 per cent. His $10,000 in Canadian money would have a purchasing power of but $8,333 in the United States. On the other hand, his money will have a purchasing power in Britain of £2,860, which at the nominal value of $4.86 2-3, to the pound would be equal to $13,900. In other words, exchange thus penalizes him nearly $1,700 if he buys in the United States, and encourages him to the extent of $3,900 if he buys in Britain, a combined difference of say $5,600, or fifty-six per cent. He could pay fifty-six per cent. more in Britain and still get his goods as cheaply as if he had bought them in the United States. To this must be added the fact that we give a preference to the British manufacturer.

"Americans being thus handicapped, one would naturally expect our imports from Britain to have already risen to a value sufficient to prevent any further fall in the rate of exchange. This, however, is not so, and we must look for causes. We remember that for five years Britain's manufacturing industries devoted themselves exclusively to war work, and a shortage arose in all classes of goods, such as we here do not realize. British manufacturers have since been strained to keep pace with their home demands. Then, too, they have had markets in nearby Europe, where the shortage was even greater. We further remember that in cotton goods, and many other articles the raw materials themselves came chiefly from the United States, and the cost of these has been increased by the rate of exchange, so that on such articles British manufacturers do not benefit heavily.

Giving U.S. Preference

"We come now, however, to a remarkable fact. We are supposed to give British manufacturers a preference over Americans of about one-third of the duty, but are we really doing this now? Will I be believed when I say that on the contrary our customs regulations have actually wiped out entirely that supposed preference to Britain and have replaced it by a preference in favor of the United States? Let us take the case of the merchant I have just mentioned. If the rate of duty be thirty per cent. with one-third preference, one would naturally suppose that he would pay a duty of $3,000 if he purchased from the United States, and but $2,000 if he purchased from Britain. That is the clear intention of our preference. But what does actually happen? Although both purchases would cost him precisely the same amount in Canadian money, if he buys from the United States he pays duty on only $8,333, while if he purchases from Britain he pays duty on $13,900. Under the rules of the Customs Department the pound sterling is assumed to be worth $4.86 2-3, though its real value is, of course, much less. On the basis of exchange which we have assumed, the invoices on British goods are arbitrarily and wrongfully increased by thirty-nine per cent beyond the real amount paid for the goods in Canadian currency. We patriotically claim that we are giving to the Mother Country a preference of thirty-three per cent. and then overcharge her thirty-nine per cent. On the other hand the Customs Department with equal arbitrariness, assumes that the American dollar is worth no more than the Canadian dollar. By overcharging duties in the other, we give the American exporter a very substantial preference over Britain, and we wonder then how our British imports do not increase as they should, and that sterling exchange is so low.

"It was quite reasonable to assume for Customs purposes the nominal gold values of the currencies of other lands, when real values were always close to par. This has been the practice in the United States as well as Canada. Now, however, the situation is entirely changed. The failure to recognize the actual present values of the pound sterling and of the American dollar is defeating the British preference, playing into the hands of the United States, handicapping the Mother Country, increasing the premium on New York funds, and lowering the value of sterling. It is one cause of the possible collapse of British Exchange with which we are now threatened. The Department of Customs should immediately rule that sterling be taken at its actual value, and that the customs due on invoices from the United States should be paid by drafts on New York, and not by Canadian funds. If the Department wishes to avoid the trouble of naming the rate of Exchange from day to day, it could do so by agreeing to accept payment of duties on British goods by drafts on London for the percentage of the sterling invoice. That some remedy be devised at once is essential for the safety of the nation, and will in any case be a mere act of justice. The interests of the Mother Country and of Canada in this matter are identical, and we can do much to help each other.

"The permanent solution of our exchange problem lies in the consolidation of the Empire, so that every part shall be developed to its capacity to supply the raw materials, foodstuffs and other needs of the other parts, and then all parts, by trading together, will make the Empire and all its members prosperous, populous and commercially independent."

MAN'S GOLDEN AGE BETWEEN 50 AND 60

One Likes Joking As Much As Ever and Loves Beauty and Truth

After sixty-one one must not take too many chances with one's self; but I should say that the golden age of man is between fifty and sixty when one may safely take them. One has peace then from the different passions; if one has been tolerably industrious one is tolerably prosperous; one has fairly learned one's trade or has mastered one's art; age seems as far off as youth; one is not so much afraid of death as earlier; one likes joking as much as ever and loves beauty and truth as much; family cares are well out of the way; if one has married timely one no longed nightly walks the floor with even the youngest child; the marriage ring is then a circle half rounded in eternity. It is a blessed time; it is indeed the golden age, and no age after it is more than silvern.

The best age after it may be that between eighty and ninety, but one cannot make so sure of ninety as of seventy in the procession of years, and that is where the gold turns silver. But silver is one of the precious metals, too, and it need not have any alloy of the baser ones. I do not say how it will be in the years between ninety and a hundred. I am not yet confronted with that question. Still, all is not gold between eighty and ninety, as it is between fifty and sixty.

In that time, if one has made oneself wanted in the world, one is still wanted; but between eighty and ninety, if one is still wanted, is one wanted as much as ever? It is a painful question, but one must not shirk it; and in trying for the answer one must not do less than one's utmost, at a time when one's utmost will cost more effort than before. This is a disadvantage of living so long, but we cannot change the conditioning if we wish to live.

There is always the question whether one does wish to live, but for the averagely happy or unhappy man, I should say yes, yes, yes. We could ignore the fact that there are some men so unhappy beyond the vast average that they cannot wish to live. These kill themselves, but, speaking without statistics, I do not believe these are often people of eighty and after. Apparently life is seldom so unbearable with these that one almost never hears of their suicide.—W. D. Howells, in Harper's Magazine.

COST OF LIVING HIGH IN CALIFORNIA

12,000 Persons From Prairie Provinces Winter In Southern Area

Winnipeg, Feb. 25.—Figures gathered from various authoritative sources on the tourist traffic indicate that 12,000 persons from the Prairie Provinces spent the early part of the Winter in California. At least, approximately that number purchased tickets from the three middle West provinces for destinations located in the Southern area.

A local business man, who returned on Saturday from a trip to the Canadian and American coast cities, declared many of the Canadians had found the drain on their purses from the rate on exchange and high prices more serious than they had anticipated and were returning to spend the remainder of their winter vacation in Vancouver and Victoria.

There was a noticeable increase in the cost of living in California, he said. Rents, provisions and clothing had advanced greatly, as well as hotel rates. He had personal knowledge of a suite rented for the winter at $75, being raised on February 1st to $100. The tenants preferred to return to Canada rather than pay the advance. Hotel accommodation was difficult to get, even at the high prices prevailing.

Hundreds Returning

"Hundreds of Canadian tourists are leaving California to finish the winter in Vancouver or Victoria," a Winnipeg woman wintering in California, states in a letter received in Winnipeg on Monday. "Railway rates have gone up twenty per cent., and it is cheaper to travel by boat," she writes. "Both ways the rush has been so great that although I had our tickets for Vancouver two weeks ago, I have been unable so far to reserve berths."

Muskogee, Okla., Feb. 25. — Judge Robert Williams, in Federal court here, has issued an injunction asked by the National Security Company restraining the guardian of Jackson Barnett, said to be the wealthiest Indian in the world, and Federal Indian officials here from giving away any portion of the Indian's fortune.

Barnett disappeared from his farm near Henryetta last Saturday and it was learned Tuesday he had eloped with Mrs. Emma Lowe, of Kansas City, and was married at Coffeyville, Kansas.

Gabe E. Parker, superintendent of the Indian agency here, said when told of the wedding, that the government would take immediate steps to have the marriage annulled on the ground that Barnett "is an incompetent and a ward of the government."

COLLEGE TEAM WINS CLOSE GAME FROM M'GREGOR

Winning Goal Scored Within One Minute of End of Game

The Wheat City Business College team won a hard fought hockey game from the MacGregor team Tuesday night by the score of 6-5, the winning goal being scored a few minutes before time was called. There was little to choose between the two teams, and the game should have ended a tie, as the last counter secured by the Wheat City men was away off side. However Billy Creighton's attention was being taken up by a MacGregor man who claimed that their team had scored a goal, and so the referee did not see the offside.

The local team had much the better of the play in the first period leading 2-1 at the close of this session. The visitors used a splendid system of combination all through the game and feeding their star centre man, Bell, with the counters which kept the MacGregor team in the game. The second period saw the College players keep out in front by a one goal margin, the score reading 4-3, both sides putting up some good hockey and furnishing some speedy work. The third period was closely fought with the MacGregor men twice tieing up the count. The Wheat City men had hard luck in not scoring more often in this period as the puck twice struck the posts and bounded out into play again. With the score a tie and one minute to go, one of the locals scored what proved to be the winning tally by a hard shot from the side.

Bell, the visitors right wing and later centre player, was the best man on the ice. He travelled the whole length of the ice with the puck on many occasions and was practically the whole MacGregor team. It was his good work that made the score as close as it was. Bruce also played a nice game for the visitors. For the winners, Metson put up a great game being effective in both his defense and rushing plays. Deans and Stewart in goal were prominent in the Wheat City win.

The following were the line-ups:

Left Defense
Fox	Metson

Berry	Crawford

CAUCUS HELD BY LIBERAL LEADERS

Conference For Purpose of Discussing Policy To Be Followed In Coming Session

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—The first meeting of the Liberal party leaders took place Tuesday morning in the temporary offices of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition. Robb, Huntingdon, chief Liberal whip; E. B. Devlin, Wright, and others.

It is understood the conference was called for the purpose of discussing the policy to be followed on various matters which are expected to come before Parliament shortly after the opening. D. D. McKenzie, former Liberal house leader, was not in attendance, though he was in the city. However, he had been in consultation with the present leader during a visit to the city last week.

Dr. H. S. Beland, former Postmaster-General also did not attend the meeting during its earlier stages, but as he had only reached the capital Tuesday morning he was expected to be present before it closed.

PROF. CRENSHAW WANTS SMOKE-MAKING MATERIAL USED TO SIGNAL MARS

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Feb. 25.—Use of the United States Government's surplus of smoke-making material left over from the war in signalling Mars was suggested by James J. Crenshaw, associate professor of chemistry at Bryn Mawr College, who served in the chemical warfare section of the American Expeditionary forces. Smoke screens, hundreds of miles in width, he believes, would be more likely to be discovered by possible Martians than the geometrical designs which Sir Oliver Lodge suggested to be laid out on the Sahara desert.

The government has enough smoke-making material to create a tremendous screen or spot on the earth and this material can be used for no other purpose. Prof. Crenshaw advocated covering an area as big as the state of Pennsylvania with either black smoke or white smoke.

RAILROAD RATES A BIG QUESTION

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—The old question of the alleged discrimination against British Columbia by the railway companies in the matter of freight and passenger rates was given an airing Tuesday morning at the convention of the United Farmers of British Columbia.

President Copeland, of Lumby, B.C., brought forward the resolution covering the matter, pointing out that on a shipment of grain from the Okanagan Valley to Vancouver the shipper was compelled to pay approximately thirty cents per hundred. The distance was 390 miles, and shippers from Calgary to Fort William a distance of 1,262 miles, paid practically the same rate. He thought the difference was altogether ridiculous. He believed that concerted action on the part of the farmers and business men would result in a change.

WINNIPEG MAY HAVE TO REBUILD MILES OF SEWERS

Winnipeg, Feb. 25.—The Bannatyne Avenue sewer, between Olivia and Emily streets, under the East wings of the General Hospital, is so seriously damaged by alkali that it may collapse and menace the hospital foundations, James Smith, manager of the city's plumbing and sewer department, informed the Fire, Water and Light Committee Monday afternoon.

Approximately 20 miles of trunk concrete sewers under Winnipeg streets, and possibly 25 miles of subtrunk sewers have disintegrated, Mr. Smith declared.

Predicts More Trouble

City Engineer W. P. Brereton and Archibald Blackie endorsed Mr. Smith's statements. The engineer forecasted huge capital expenditures to protect the system while the chemist predicted further defects.

The Works and Property Committee was asked to deal with the situation. Mr. Smith recommended that a new sewer be built under the curved portion of Bannatyne avenue in front of the hospital. The new wings were erected over the old street.

The sewer under Harrow street, between Grosvenor and Yale avenues, caved in.

OPPOSITION FROM HIGH OFFICIALS FELT BY BOARD

It Is Stated That Resignations From Board of Commerce May Be Looked For Soon

Ottawa, Feb. 25—The Board of Commerce and Civil Service Commission, and a certain lack of sympathy with the Board's activities higher up, may lead to resignations from the Board. It is stated that the Board, owing to the interference of the commission under its powers by the new act, is unable to secure the appointment of men suitable for the carrying out of certain important enquiries and that, for instance, the textile investigation cannot, as a consequence, be properly proceeded with.

Support Is Lukewarm

As a matter of fact, the Government itself appears to be decidedly lukewarm in its support of the Board. On several occasions it has given a sympathetic ear to the representations of manufacturers, and on one occasion in the case of the textile manufacturers, had to be reprimanded by the Board as it (the government) has no jurisdiction in the matter of changing the Board's order, and practically was warned to keep its hands off.

Reference to Supreme Council

The Board has brought a reference before the Supreme Court to have its powers confirmed in certain important matters of jurisdiction. The interests who are challenging the power of the Board are represented by a most formidable array of eminent counsel, while W. F. O'Conner, of the Board, is forced to play a lone hand. The fact has not escaped attention at Ottawa.

The Board will no doubt come in for considerable discussion at the coming session. In the meantime, however, there are strong indications of an approaching clash which may lead to retirements.

NEWSPRINT MAKERS DENIED RIGHT TO APPEAL FROM BOARD OF COMMERCE ORDER

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—Price Brothers of Quebec, were Tuesday afternoon denied leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from the order of the Board of Commerce dated Feb. 6, ordering them to market their newsprint paper in Canada at a fixed price of $80 per ton, and the board ordered that one of the two partners in the firm be brought before it on Saturday morning next, "by legal process if necessary."

BRITISH GIRL WHO 'VAMPED' SOLDIER IS DEPORTED

Soldier's Wife Obtains Decree From Vancouver Court—Gets Weekly Allowance

Vancouver, Feb. 25.—The first case recorded where Canadian Government immigration officials have deported a British subject because she "vamped" a soldier with a long and honorable career at the front, furnishes a human interest story unique in Vancouver's official records.

In 1914, Reginald Barton left a wife and three young sons to fight for king and country, and was four years in France, most of the time sergeant of the famous 7th British Columbia battalion.

In London he met Marie van der Vorgen, a British subject of Dutch parentage. He returned to his family here in April last year, borrowed money from the Soldiers' Settlement Board and set up farming 30 miles from Vancouver.

Marie, who is 26 and very pretty, a graduate of the Khaki university in London, followed him here in August. She had no difficulty in obtaining a position as school teacher in a school near the Barton home. Two weeks ago she called at the Barton home and proposed that the wife give up her husband and her children, saying that she would not only educate the kiddies but would provide funds for Mrs. Barton's support.

In the midst of the conversation the husband returned and though he appeared to be greatly surprised to learn that Marie was in the country, declared emphatically that he intended to live with her.

Mrs. Barton brought her case to the Vancouver courts, proved the facts related and obtained an order for a weekly allowance from her husband. She has returned to her former home in Saskatoon to reside.

C.P.R. SHIPS AUTOS ON FLAT CARS

Lethbridge Herald: A new routing of motor cars, with new transportation arrangements, has been adopted from one point of the States to another through Canada. This, incidentally, is quite a compliment to the C.P.R. in the using of its service in the uses and benefits which are evidently gained thereby in the routing. Forty-eight flat cars, each containing four autos, all set up ready to be driven off the cars, passed through the city on Wednesday, going to Portland, Oregon, from Duluth. This is the second trainload of motor cars which has come through from one point in the States to another via Canada. The first one consisted of forty-five cars, which were split up at Dunmore, twenty-seven going through Lethbridge to Portland from Duluth, and the balance to Seattle via Sumas, near Vancouver.

The flat car arrangement for conveying autos intact is a special one. There is a steel frame built on the cars with a chain braced on which the cars rest on the steel works. The cars are first covered with cheesecloth over which there is laid a covering of tarpaulin.

The new arrangement for transporting autos has been in use in the East for about a year, but is a novelty in the West, the two last trainloads being the first to come through here.

ARE YOU LISTED?

Recently a New York brokerage concern charged with charming dollars out of gullible get-rich-quick aspirants failed—a phenomenon that doesn't happen nearly often enough—and in the sale of its assets the richest item was what was declared to be a very valuable "customers' list" of twenty-five thousand names. Its value was estimated at least half that many dollars.

In other words, a list of "suckers" was the chief stock in trade of this gold-brick broker. It is made up of names and addresses of people who have swallowed the sort of bait this broker put forth, and the idea of its value is based on the belief—backed by experience—that fully seventy-five per cent. of the people who bite once will bite again.

The burnt child dreads the fire, but the stung sucker bites again! The burnt child has some sense, but the confirmed sucker has none.

If the country wasn't so full of suckers, it would not be so full of gold-brick brokers. If the stung sucker had as much sense as the burnt child, the seller of fake stocks would go out of business. Being what he is, a confirmed and born victim of sharpers, the sucker keeps the game going, and if one sharper goes out of business his sucker list is an asset which another sharper will readily buy.

This is one list, compiled by one broker. There are many such brokers, and many such lists. Is your name on such a list? You can tell by your mail. If it is, think it over, and go to the burnt child to learn wisdom.

HOW NOT TO GO ABOUT IT

There are some facts regarding the Russian situation that are becoming clearer with the passage of time. One of these is that it is a far cry from the Kerensky Government, with its everybody talk-at-once proclivities to the iron discipline that is presently enforced by the Trotzky regime. The Russian people are awakening from their dream of a government by the people for the people to find that a small group of men — the Moscow Soviet—has its heel on their necks and that they are as far away from democratic ideals of government as was Russia under Peter the Great.

The Russian people have swapped one tyrant for another. Local soviets are no longer elected by popular vote, and not one person in five ever did have an opportunity to vote. These local soviets are the creatures of the Moscow Soviet of People's Commissaries. Nationalization of industries as provided by the Russians, has proven a failure. A land of plenty has been brought to the verge of starvation by a system under which men have to be driven to work at the point of the bayonet. Seeing the necessity for this Trotzky has gone in for it thoroughly, and such industry as is carried on is done by conscripted men working twelve hours a day. The present government has failed even in providing such necessities of life as food, fuel and transportation.

It is indeed a bad sign that the only organization in Russia which has not failed is the army. The secret of its success is not hard to find. Aside from the Soviet official class those in the army are the only people who can obtain sufficient food and clothing. Others may die of exposure and want but the army must be well fed and warm to be efficient.

Within the past week authentic reports have been received in Canada concerning the condition of the Russian people living in cities. There has been a complete breakdown in transportation and there is consequently no coal and little food. People are tearing down buildings to provide fuel to keep them from freezing to death.

The conclusion is being forced on people that the Russians now find themselves in infinitely worse circumstances than when under the despotic rule of the czars. Poor Russia's struggle for freedom seems to be a horrible example of how not to go about it.

CIVILIZATION ASHAMED

Dispatches from Egypt tell of massacres of Armenians in the region of Marash in Turkish Asia Minor. According to reports, not less than 20,000 Armenians have been slain by the Turks. The atrocities are said to have been committed since French troops evacuated the district.

Coming at this particular time when the question of kicking the Turk, bag and baggage, out of Europe, is being considered and varying influences are at work, it may be just as well to await confirmation of the report. Circulation and acceptance of such a report is calculated to inflame anger and exert pressure on Governments to take steps which while they may reflect popular sentiment at the moment, may not even be in the interests of the Armenians who have suffered more at the hands of the inhuman Turks than the human tongue can recite.

Civilization demands that no matter what else is done, the Turk be stripper of authority or power to inflict his will on other peoples. It is bad enough when Turk meets Turk and life is forfeit, but the world is determined that though it may be impossible to prevent such happenings, it is and must be possible to limit the power of the Turks in inflict torture on other races. They must no longer stand with their reet on the necks of prostrate Armenians and carve them as they will. A heavy score will be held against the nation that obstructs willfully or negligently, the consumation of covenants or ratification of treaties which will forever put a stop to such massacres. Armenia drenched in blood is a rebuke of which ivilization is heartily ashamed.

BREAK IN VICTORY BOND PRICES

The break in the price of Victory Bonds is causing considerable comment throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. During the campaigns for the sale of these bonds it was said by the Hon. Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance and others speaking on behalf of the Government, that these bonds would always be worth their face value.

It is true that the conditions which have caused a slump are most abnormal and exceptional and that very many complications might result through the Government taking such steps as would prevent a break in price. Yet such action would have been keeping faith with the people and might have been preferable from that standpoint alone.

Holders of Victory Bonds are reminded that immediately following the break in price on the Winnipeg market the purchases exceeded fresh offerings by about half a million, and it is the opinion of some men close in touch with the bond market that the issue will have recovered from the discount inside of a few weeks.

Those holders of Victory Bonds who are in pressing need of funds may deposit them as collateral security at the bank for the short period while the depression lasts and if as expected the price is restored to par by better, then dispose of them, taking a smaller loss than would be incurred by a sale in the depressed market.

PRINCESS LED LAND ARMY FAREWELL PARTY

Workers Were Decorated With Distinguished Service Bars—Many Stay On Farms

Come out of the towns,
And on to the downs,
Where a girl gets brown and strong,
With swinging pace
And morning face
She does her work to song.
The children shall not starve,
The soldiers must have bread.
We'll dig and sow and reap and mow,
And England shall be fed.

It is the land army song, and lasses of the army opened their country throats and sang it to Princess Mary till the painted roof of Drapers' Hall, London, rang, and only the kings and queens of England on the panels between the marble pillars were not moved.

The princess, with whom walked Lord Lee and Lord Ernle Miss Talbott Mrs Lyttleton and Miss Dorothy Yorke, had a triumphal pathway through the middle of the hall when she arrived.

Forty of the girls stood with long wands crowned with roses held to make an arch of flowers and as the girlish figure, in gray crepe de chine with a silver hat, passed under it the girls sang "God Save the King."

But when she stood on the dais and faced them and they raised their own song, the pretty pink of her cheeks flushed a deep rose. She wore the country color. She became a maiden of open air cheeks like themselves and ready to share the joys of the evening to the full.

Leaf and Berry Circlets

It was a striking scene before her, those ranks on ranks of bonny lasses in their white smocks and slouch hats, each with a boutonniere of red and green—their army's color— and the long archway of roses between would have been striking anywhere; but in the sumptuous hall of the Drapers' Company, whose guests they and the princess were, at the army's farewell rally, it was forever memorable.

A bevy of girls whose heads were wreathed with green leaves and red berries walked to the dais and handed to the princess a beautiful rush basket ornamented with needlework fruits wrought by themselves, and in it a volume of the "Landswoman" tied with their colors. With a smile of delight and a pretty bow and "Thank you," the princess took the gift.

Then Lord Ernle spoke in glowing terms of the girls' work afield — how they toiled "to song" and fed their country, and were brave and devoted all the time. And immediately the long tale of heroines who gained the distinguished service bar was unfolded by Miss Talbot, while one by one the girls strode under the roses to have the bar pinned on their breasts.

Courage of the Land Army

Then the princess spoke. Lifting her clear voice in the dead quietness to the far end of the hall, she said:

"I have watched with much interest the organization and growth of the land army and today I realize more than ever all that it has accomplished, and, moreover, what skill and courage have on many occasions been displayed by its members. I am glad to know that although the women's land army is to be demobilized an association is being formed to carry on its tradition among all women land workers.

"I congratulate the president of the Board of Agriculture and the women's branch on the work they have done, and I wish you all every happiness in the future."

When the girls' cheers subsided Lord Lee announced that the government would make a gift to all of them who intend to remain on the land of a complete new outfit. There was more cheering, but all that had passed was a small noise compared with the 'Hip, hip, hooray!" called for by one of the girls for the princess—all standing and waving their arms.

Princess Pulls Snap Crackers

And then to supper—to tables loaded with baked meats and delicacies and piles of snapping mottoes—laid in two of the court rooms.

Princess Mary caught all the merriment as well as the color of the occasion. She leaned across the table this way and that continually to snap crackers with the girls, she signed their autograph albums, and one came back with her book saying: "Isn't she just sweet, and she is going to keep with us to the end." But the princess' merriment reached its height when she turned and saw Lord Ernle at her side wearing a tall and tasseled fool's cap and on the other side Canon Dalton, master of the Drapers' Company with a purple cocked hat. There were shouts of laughter on every hand.

And that was the spirit of the feast and of the concert which followed it. There were morris dancing and a clog dance, songs by the girls a dance of three Cumberland lasses to a mouth organ accompaniment, recitations and fun and innocent pleasure until after 10 o'clock, when the "uniquely happy occasion," as Miss Talbot called it, came to an end."—London Mail.

RAISING DRAFT HORSES PAYS ON EXPENSIVE LAND

Horses produced where they are used are economical sources of power. In these columns this fact often has been emphasized in one way or another by practical horsemen, says the Breeders' Gazette. The mounting cost of tractors and trucks, and of their repairs contrasts strongly with the moderate cost of those things—horses included—which are produced by farmers at home. There is comparatively little labor expended upon growing horses; most of it is incidental to other farm operations, and is done with the other chores as a matter of course. With a few minutes here and a few minutes there the work is done by the regular farm help. The feeds are supplied at the cost of producing them, and often the horses gather for themselves feeds of low cash value which would otherwise be wasted in the fields where they grew. Horses are produced at less cost than any other farm animals because on the best managed farms their dams pay their own way in work while they are raising colts.

It is a generally accepted principle of sound economics that home production pays. Factories produce a large percentage of their own supplies and accessories, saving money which otherwise would go as profit to other factories and middlemen. Farmers always have lived upon narrow margins of profit, largely because of this produce-at-home policy. The farmer is more largely both producer and consumer of the things with which he works and upon which he lives than any other man. That saves middlemen's profits. The horses which he works he gets at the absolute cost of production, no "velvet" being handed to anybody. This advantage seems to have been overlooked by Southern cotton-growers for many years, until adversity forced them to plant gardens, corn and legumes, and to raise hogs, cattle and mules. Now prosperity smiles where advancing poverty had previously stared them in the face.

Disregarding detailed figures on the cost of horse production, we come face to face with the well known fact that horse breeders are usually money-makers, whether raising pedigree stock or merely grade geldings and mares for their own use and ultimately for market. Horses and prosperity seem to be closely associated. The greatest draft horse producing States are those of high-priced lands, well improved farms, good homes and well-to-do farmers. This can scarcely be coincidence. The horses have much to do with the happy combination. This has been well proved by farm surveys which show that the men who raise a few colts each year are also the men with large labor incomes.

Every man on the job thinks he knows more than the boss.

Winnipeg, March 1. — Manitoba's share of the $20,000,000 set aside by the Federal Government for road construction for the next five years will amount to approximately $1,600,000, according to the terms of the Canada Highway Act which reached the provincial public works department Saturday.

ASK PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT TO INCREASE GRANTS

Winnipeg, Feb. 26.—The Manitoba Trustees' Association will ask the Dominion Government to set aside November 11th of each year to be known and observed as a national Thanksgiving day. A resolution to this effect was passed at Wednesday morning's session of the annual convention in progress at Westminster church. The Provincial Government will be asked to increase the grants to school boards in proportion to the advance made in the salaries of teachers, according to another resolution passed. The Department of Education will be asked to establish a bureau for the obtaining and distribution of books and supplies to the schools. An address on "Child Welfare" was delivered by Helen McMurchy, Department of Education, Toronto. More than 700 trustees attended the session.

Dr. McMurchy's Address

Dr. McMurchy declared the old idea that infant mortality really meant the "survival of the fittest" was proven fallacious and that the causes which killed one child in ten left the other nine maimed or impaired in health to a more or less extent.

Infant mortality was found to be in direct relation to the income of the father, she stated, and quoted from statistics compiled by the United States Bureau of Child Welfare in support of her contention. This meant that the payment of a living wage was a vital thing to the state.

In Canada, where the death rate was about 100 infants out of every 1,000, 40 of these died in the first few days or within one month of birth. This meant that the mothers were not cared for. The death rate of mothers was about five out of every 1,000.

Dr. Grant, of Upper Canada College, addressed the session on "Part Time Education."

RURAL CREDITS ACT TO BE AMENDED BY LEGISLATURE

Winnipeg, Feb. 26.—As a result of a deadlock which has taken place between the banks and the administration department of the Rural Credit Societies, amendments to the Rural Credits Act will be introduced at the present session of the Legislature, to empower this department to open deposit credits in the provinces and dispense with the financial assistance of the banks entirely.

The banks have refused to continue to advance money at an interest rate of 6 per cent. and demand an increase of ½ per cent.

This statement was made Wednesday by George W. Prout, M.L.A., who has administered the Rural Credits Act since it was placed on the provincial statute books.

Mr. Prout stated that the members of the Government had expressed a firm decision to oppose the increase in interest rates asked for by the bankers and that in order to meet the situation the necessary power to take deposits would be given by the legislature. These deposit offices, he said, would be in operation probably within a few weeks. The amount of money required under the act for the present year is estimated at $3,000,000.

Four Per Cent. Likely Rate

While the details of the plan had not yet been completed, Mr. Prout stated that from opinions expressed by members of the government the probable rate of interest on deposits would be four per cent., payable every three months. The unit of deposits will be $100 and the depositor will be free to withdraw at any time. In the meantime, it was stated on official authority, the Provincial Government will stand behind the rural credits and give the necessary financial support until the deposit certificates to be given to each depositor will be guaranteed by the Provincial Treasury.

The bankers, said Mr. Prout, in defending their stand for a higher rate of interest, stated that the low interest rate on the rural credits has affected $175,000,000 of business.

The deadlock has for the present brought the rural credits to a standstill. Although numerous loans have been approved, the banks have declined to advance the money. There are 60 rural credit societies in the province.

AN IDEAL LANDLORD

New York, Feb. 26. — George C. Kelly, a landlord and an anti-profiteer, has maintained the pre-war rental for his apartments. Wednesday his tenants got together and decided to force increases of $5 and $7 per month upon him. Now he announces he will spend the extra money in improving the apartments.

DIOCESE OF RUPERT'S LAND MAY ADOPT DUPLEX ENVELOPES

A suggested system whereby each parish in the Diocese of Rupert's Land will be asked for a lump sum to cover contributions to all diocesan funds is now being sent out in the form of a draft program to the different deaneries in the Diocese. The plan provides that the money thus received should be divided up on a percentage basis, according to the needs of the different funds.

In order to make the system effective it is suggested in the program that the duplex envelope should be used in each church. The Brandon Anglican churches are already using these envelopes and have been for some time. Contributions to the local church are placed in one envelope and to the Diocese fund in the other. This necessitates the Parish Treasurer keeping two accounts, one for the church and the other for the mission funds. Although many city churches are now using this system of giving the country churches in several cases are still contributing in the old way—a certain amount to each fund. If the plan receives the endorsation of the majority of the deaneries it will put the system of giving to missions on a much sounder basis than formerly.

TYPHOID CARRIER SEEKS LIBERTY

Evidence In Chicago Case Shows That Bacteriological Infection Is Found In Mummies

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Evidence of bacteriological infection has been found in the bodies of Egyptian mummies and there is evidence that pre-historic dinosauria suffered from tubercular bacilli. Dr. Arthur I. Kendall, Professor of Bacteriology at Northwestern University, testified in a suit in which Mrs. George A. Barmore sought to establish her right to liberty. The Department of Health declared Mrs. Barmore was a typhoid carrier and a menace to public health. Dr. Kendall explained that a person may be a typhoid carrier and spread disease, but never himself contract the disease. A number of prominent bacteriologists from various universities have been summoned to testify in the case.

The city health department asserts that five cases of typhoid have been traced to association with Mrs. Barmore.

MONTREAL STAR SAYS FARMERS WILL LOSE IF THEY ENTER POLITICS

Montreal, Feb. 25.—The objections of W. F. Laidman, of Vernon, B.C., to the British Columbia farmers organizing for political purposes "as a waste of effort which could be better spent in pushing business," is approved by the Montreal Star.

The Star informs the farmers that, although it is plain that they are the most powerful class in the Dominion, they are neither so great nor so powerful as the combination of all classes that would be formed against them. The result of their entering politics would be the alignment in opposing camps of rural and urban populations—in other words, political civil war. The interests of the farmers would not be advanced, but retarded, by the inevitable antagonism of the other classes, declares the paper.

NEW STEAMSHIP SERVICE STARTS

First Government Vessel On New Route Leaves With Large Cargo

Vancouver, Feb. 25.—Five hundred tons of newsprint, two million feet of lumber, twenty thousand cases of salmon, and American automobiles and sewing machines, were the chief feature of a cargo shipped Monday aboard the steamer Canadian Importer, inaugurating the Canadian Government steamship service to Australia and New Zealand. This is the Importer's maiden voyage and she is being followed by three other vessels of the same tonnage (8,000 tons) built in Coughlan's yards here. An immense amount of freight is offering and the new service promises success from the start.

British Columbia lumber manufacturers are reaping a harvest through the high prices and the advantage of American exchange, for 20 per cent of the British Columbia cut goes to the United States. Cuba is the newest market for British Columbia timber. The steamer Mont Cervin, which last week brought 5,000 tons of sugar here, is now loading 2,000,000 feet dressed lumber for Havana.

GOOD ROADS ARE NECESSARY TO DEVELOP TRADE

Brandon To Press For Construction of Highway From Boundary North To Dauphin

Tuesday was a Good Roads night in Brandon. For two hours the subject of good roads was dealt with exhaustively and the culmination was the endorsation of a resolution to be sent the Manitoba Motor League, which Mr. Nearing assured the meeting to be the greatest single factor in securing under the Good Roads Act, drafted by Messrs. McDiarmid, Brosanhan and Townsley, and passed by the Board of Trade, gave thanks for past efforts, and asked assistance in securing upder the Good Roads Act, the building of a good road from the Sunshine Highway at the boundary of North Dakota through Boissevain, Brandon, Minnedosa to Dauphin crossing the five main highways to be built East and West. The Motor League was invited to send canvassers here to secure members and in the event of doing so they will be assisted. The other business was a change in classification of membership fees; a resolution urging completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway; adoption of a new scale of membership fees and the naming of the Finance Committee as an exemption board to pass on classification. Mr. A. E. McKenzie said that on Friday and Saturday of this week representatives from the Boards of Trade of Western Canada cities will assemble in this city to arrange for a general convention of all Boards of Trade.

Change in Fees

Whitby Kerr introduced a constitutional amendment reducing the corporation membership fees from fifty to twenty-five dollars and creating a new classification under a five dollar fee. It is hoped by this classification to secure memberships from many citizens who are not in business but who are or should be interested. Members of the "Big Five" were specifically mentioned. On motion this was adopted. To work this out A. E. McKenzie suggested that the Finance and Membership Committees constitute an Exemption Board, to ensure the entry of members under their proper classification. It was pointed out by J. S. Maxwell that though the fees were twenty-five, ten and five dollars the privileges were identical. The suggestion was adopted.

Complete Hudson's Bay Railway

A resolution was ordered sent the Dominion Government urging the importance of immediate completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway. J. S. Willmott introduced a resolution to this effect and it briefly dwelt on the advantages to be gained by such action.

Centralization of the Provincial Good Roads in Winnipeg was objected to by J. S. Willmott. He declared that centralization of good roads in Winnipeg would prove as injurious to rural Manitoba as centralization of train service. He suggested roads leading to different centres. Geo. Nearing wet out to get maps, and in his absence G. R. Coldwell pointed out that carping at centralization in Winnipeg would do no good. What should be done is to survey our needs and press for them, not put obstructions in the way of others seeking to work out plans. He advised the utmost caution in objecting to what was suggested by other centres. Mr. Coldwell urged that Brandon press for the construction of North and South roads through this city. The return of Mr. Nearing with the maps and his explanation of the present situation caused all objections to be dropped to the trunk highways East and West. Mr. Nearing claimed that the Manitoba Motor League, headed by Ace Emmett was the greatest single factor in securing the location of Good Roads and urged that Brandon had done little or nothing towards helping the Motor League only having 100 members while there are 884 motor owners in this city. Support for the Motor League he urged as necessary if Brandon is to be served by good roads.

F. W. Hobson urged pressing for a North and South highway and after he explained the value of good road connections North to Minnedosa and Dauphin, J. C. Brosnaham told of the trade value of the South country. When the committee recommended the construction of a good road from the Sunshine Highway through Boisevain, Brandon, Minnedosa and Dauphin, there was hearty agreement.

Lewis, deputy fire warden for Ontario, gave the Mutual Fire Underwriters' Association of Ontario at the annual convention here, details of a "lightning rod act," which he said would be introduced in the legislature at the coming session, and, if passed, would result in reducing the farm fires to a minimum. This act would give fire marshals authority to require that any farm building valued at $2,000 or containing that value in food, must have lightning rods on it. The act will also apply to grain elevators, flour storage warehouses and mills.

NO ROOM IN CANADA FOR PEOPLE WHO WILL NOT OBEY OUR LAW

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Director of Foreign Education in Saskatchewan, addressed the Toronto Board of Trade Tuesday afternoon, and said that one of the great problems in Saskatchewan was that of the Mennonites. "We are determined to solve it," he said. "There is no room in Canada for people who will not obey our laws. The people would respond but are being led away by their deputies. The people are afraid of excommunication," he said.

On the question of salaries to school teachers, Dr. Anderson said it was hoped that $1,500, with free house and fuel, could be paid to teachers in the future. The teaching of music was encouraged in the schools, he said, and also sports.

COLORADO COAL MINERS MAKE HIGH WAGES AND OWN AUTOMOBILES

Washington, Feb. 25. — Some Colorado coal miners receive $3,500 per year, F. H. Weitzel, of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, told the Senate Coal Investigating Committee Tuesday. Arguing that the miners were adequately paid by the old wage scale, he stated that employes of his company in 1918 owned 218 automobiles valued at $181,850, and in 1919 this increased to 246 automobiles valued at $245,600. He said that the recent 14 per cent. wage increase granted the miners will ultimately add $6,000,000 to the burden on consumers in Colorado.

BASIC REASON FOR HIGH COST OF SHOES IS NOT THE RETAILER

Boston, Feb. 25.—The basic reason for the high price of shoes lies in the price of leather and the manufacturer, the leather jobber and packer have reaped the greatest gain, the state commission on necessaries of life asserts in a report. Retail dealers, the commission finds, have made little if any more profits than in 1913.

The report shows that the cost of manufacturing an average pair of medium cost shoes advanced 185 per cent. from 1913 to 1919. In the former year the average cost was $2.55, and in 1919 it was $7.26.

WITHDRAW THEFT CHARGE AGAINST BARNEY O'NEIL

A charge of theft against Barney O'Neil, alias Pruxton, alias Stewart, alias Lee Prunty, was withdrawn by the Crown this morning. The accused was alleged to have stolen a watch and some papers from a Mr. Lee Prunty of Kincaid, Saskatchewan, and it was on this charge that the Winnipeg police had a warrant for O'Neil's arrest. In the Police Court this morning, O'Neil said that both he and Mr. Lee prunty had been drinking together and that Lee Prunty had handed over his papers for safe keeping, and that the watch was given by Lee Prunty to the accused as a sort of gift.

After the evidence had been submitted the Crown withdrew the charge of theft, and the papers and watch were returned to Mr. Lee Prunty, their rightful owner. O'Neil is still being held awaiting the decision of Magistrate Fraser on the vagrancy charge heard against O'Neil on Monday.

HUGE DROP IN QUOTATIONS ON VICTORY BONDS

Bonds Held At or Above Par On Tuesday Now Sell At a Discount

Within the past twenty-four hours the Victory Bond market for bonds due 1933, has dropped three and a quarter cents. On Tuesday, Victory Bonds maturing in 1933, were quoted at 102¼ and today they are worth 99. Bonds due 1922-23 were at par Tuesday and today they are quoted at 98. All Victory Bonds are quoted below par with the exception of those due 1937 which are at par. Today's quotations are as follows: Bonds due 1922-23 quoted at 98; 1924, 96½; 1927, 99; 1933, 99; 1934, 96; and 1937, 100.

Local bond dealers give as a reason for the drop in price, the increased number of Victory Bonds that are being sold so that investors may purchase industrial or municipal securities which will yield them an interest of probably seven per cent. This has flooded the market with Victory Bonds and falling Government support the price dropped.

MAN FOUND FROZEN ON LITTLE USED BUSH TRAIL

Sharpewood, Man., Feb. 25.—On an old bush road leading East to the Fisher branch trail, Eldred Sketchly was found with both feet and one hand badly frozen. It was by the merest chance this man was found, as the trail he was on is very little used and a few more hours exposure might have proved fatal.

After being cared for, Sketchly, who came from Winnipeg, was taken to his friends whom he had set out to visit, and had been expecting him daily.

DIRECT ACTIONISTS ARE HEADING COUNTRY TO A REVOLUTION

Cardiff Wales, Feb. 25.—In view of the agitation among certain elements of the miners to use direct action to enforce their demands, much prominence is given to a speech by Thos. Richards member of the House and General Secretary of the Welsh Miners' Federation, in which he declared that the working class needed a talking to.

The workers, Mr. Richards said, were beginning to "boss the show," and boss everyone. He appealed to them to be careful how they used their power.

"The direct actionists are heading the country to a revolution," Mr. Richards asserted. "The British workingman is the freest subject on God's earth and to follow the direct action will-o'-the-wisp will ruin him and put progress back a hundred years."

ANOTHER VERSION OF CONDITIONS IN RUSSIAN CAPITAL

Typhus, Cholera and Influenza Taking Heavy Toll of Depleted Population

CONDITIONS INTOLERABLE

Three Thousand Deaths a Day — Bodies Dropped Through Ice Into Neva

Hensingfors, Finland, Feb. 25.—Reports of serious living conditions at Petrograd have been received by Professor Hermann Zeidler, of Viborg, showing that typhus, cholera and influenza are taking a heavy toll of the depleted population. Professor Zeidler will have charge of the Russian Red Cross relief work at Petrograd, when Russia is opened again to the outside world.

The reports state that up to January 15th deaths in Petrograd were reaching 3,000 a day. The coffin factories could turn out only 1,000 coffins daily, and most of the bodies were being carried into the country on sleds and left in the snow. Many bodies were being dropped through the ice in the River Neva. Funerals were prohibited owing to the scarcity of horses and the depressing effect of funeral processions on the people.

"Living conditions are intolerable," said Professor Zeidler. "It costs thirty thousand Lenine rubles a day for food alone."

Petrograd at night is without light and there is very little water. Houses are flooded by the bursting of frozen pipes. The sewers are stopped and sanitary conditions are deplorable.

Hospital Conditions Bad

"A month ago the number of typhus cases was 300 a day and steadily increasing. Hospital conditions are indescribably bad. There is no linen for the beds, no medicines, no soap and no disinfectants, the last supply of sublimate having given out January 1st, when thirty-five disinfecting stations were closed.

"The people have given up hope and they do not wish to live. They make grim jokes among themselves as to how much longer they will hold out."

Professor Zeidler's information about conditions in Petrograd is wholly at variance with the cheerful account given to the Associated Press correspondent by Sergius Zorin, a member of the Bolsheviki committee from Petrograd, that came to the frontier to receive the Russians deported from the United States.

Zorin said that every resident was obtaining one and one-quarter pounds of bread daily, while Professor Zeidler asserts that two ounces of flour is all that can be supplied, even to the favored classes, the non-Bolsheviki receiving none at all. Zorin declared there was no source of wood fuel and that some coal had been received from the South. On the other hand, Professor Zeidler says:

"Wood is so difficult to get that the people are not permitted to use it in stoves. Those living in tenements had to get warm in the rooms on the lower floors and sleep there. They count themselves lucky if the temperature of a room is one degree above the freezing point."

Resolution Urging Seizure of Large Stocks By Branch War Veterans

WOULD PROHIBIT SALE

Of Hearst Papers In Canada Because of Anti-British Propaganda

Toronto, Feb. 25.—At a meeting of the Beaches branch of the Great War Veterans last night a resolution was passed demanding that the government seize all liquors held in private homes over thirty-six quarts, the surplus to be sold by the government and devoted to veterans' use. One member claimed knowledge of a Toronto citizen having stocked seven carloads of whiskey, claiming this was "profiteering."

Another resolution demanded prohibition of the sale of Hearst newspapers in Canada, denouncing them as carrying a "lying scurrilious anti-British propaganda."

PASHA INTIMACY HARD TO EXPLAIN

Paris, Feb. 25.—The former French Premier, Joseph Caillaux, charged with treason and with dealings with the Germans and conspiring to bring about a dishonorable peace, gave testimony Tuesday before the Senate sitting as a high court. Caillaux's explanations of his relations with Bolo Pasha, Pierre Lenoir, M. Duval and Miguel Almereya, three of whom explated their crimes on execution hill at Vincennes, while the last named died under strange circumstances in Fresnes prison, occupied the whole session.

M. Caillaux disposed of Lenoir, Duval and Almereya, with nonchalance and in a comparatively short time, but the ghost of Bolo Pasha hovered about the ex-Premier for long hours, and the accused seemed to realize that the crucial point of the examination had been reached, and he experienced greater difficulties in extricating himself from his social relations with the executed traitor, which he now apparently feels were too intimate.

MOFFATT CATTLE WITHDRAWN FROM THE WINTER FAIR

Jas. I. Moffatt, of Carroll, Man., Issues Statement Concerning Affair

In reference to the withdrawal of the Moffatt cattle from the Winter Fair, many stories are going the rounds. The cattle were taken away after a meeting of the Board of Directors at which their withdrawal for infraction of the rules in the Boys' Fat Calf Competition, was ordered. The Directors issued no statement.

Mr. Moffatt's Explanation

James I. Moffatt of Carroll, Man. today made the following statement: The calf, Bonnie Lad, was bought and shown at Chicago. In going to Chicago he had to stand the tuberculain test and this was taken by the State Veterinary. To my disappointment I found that the test was not sufficient for admittance into Canada, but that this had to be done by a Federal man. A retest was not possible for sixty days. After more delay in getting a Veterinary, due to sickness, entry was not possible for a longer time than this. The calf was shipped to me and was entered in the Boys' Fat Calf Competition. On my arrival on Sunday morning, I took the matter up with Mr. Smale and gave him the particulars as above. He said that as the calf had not been fed by the boy it could not be shown in the competition. He suggested that the calf be withdrawn from the Boys competition and to allow it to be shown in the open competition. This being satisfactory to me I withdrew the calf.

On Monday afternoon a meeting was called by President McGregor of the Directors of the Winter Fair and I told him the same story, at the same time feeling that I had made a serious mistake and not thinking it would be taken up as it has been. At this time the statement was made that I entered the calf as sired by one of our own bulls. This is incorrect. The whole mistake is over the care of the calf by my son Robert for the time required. I have broken a rule for the first time in my whole career in the show business and feel it keenly and trust that the public will not be too harsh as it was a mistake made without due consideration. At this meeting it was resolved that the Moffatt exhibit be excluded from the Winter Fairs of 1920 and 1921, this ruling not affecting the sons of Mr. Moffatt in the Calf competition or in the continuation class of this year.

UNITED STATES MAY RECOGNIZE SOVIET RUSSIA

Senator Hitchcock Declares Resumption of Relations "Very Near"—Will Allies Follow

Washington, March 1.—Recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States in the near future is predicted by Senate leaders. Senator Hitchcock declared resumption of relations with Russia is "very near." Senator Borah predicted recognition of Russia by the Allies within ten days, and action by the United States soon afterwards. All sides declared the situation is rapidly being brought to a climax by the feelers which the Soviet Government is now throwing out.

A resolution directing the president to extend recognition to Russia at once is pending in the Foreign Relations Committee, but members doubt if any action will be taken at once. Senator France, author of the resolution declared he would press for a hearing at the earliest possible date.

Basis of Proposals

Buenos Ayres, March 1.—What purports to be the basis of Great Britain's proposals to the Soviet of Russia, which James O'Grady, the British representative at Copenhagen, transmitted to Maxim Litvinoff, representative of the Soviets, are contained in a dispatch from the correspondent of the La Nacion in Rome:

"First—Tactic recognition of the Maximilist political regime.

"Second—Non-interference by Great Britain with respect to the international condition of those countries separated from former Russian rule on the West, namely Finland, Esthonia, Lithuania, Ukrainia and Poland.

"Third—Non-interference by Great Britain in the affairs of Siberia.

"Fourth—Demobilization of the Red army.

"Fifth—A promise by the Bolsheviki to recognize the independence of the meridional republics, especially Georgia.

"Sixth—Non-interference by Russia with the territories on the frontiers of Georgia and Persia.

"Seventh—Payment in gold for goods exported or imported between Russia and Great Britain.

"Eighth—A regime of commercial equality for Rusia and Great Britain in the autonomous state of the Western front.

The correspondent says the Moscow government is disposed to accept several of these points, but that it is firm against the fourth and sixth points.

FORMER FREE TRADER CHANGES VIEWS ON TARIFF

Repudiates Idea of Ruin Following a Change From Protection

Analyzing the relation of wages to the tariff, Dr. F. W. Taussig, of the Department of Economics in Columbia University, and until recently Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission in a special article in the Atlantic Monthly, considers the effect upon the United States of free trade. Dr. Taussig, who is a Democrat, who was appointed Chairman of the Tariff Commission by President Wilson, and who, before the war, might properly have been classed as an out-and-out free trader, has modified his views considerably and now states that there are conditions under which protection is desirable. While he repudiates the doctrine of universal ruin to American industries from free trade, he says:

"None the less the change would be absolutely large. There would be shutdowns, attempts to meet the situation by lowering wages, strikes, slow transfer of laborers to other regions and other industries, business failures, empty mills and villages, a trying readjustment of prices, and probably of the general scale of money wages, hard times, and uncertain employment.

Again he says: "So great are the difficulties of an abrupt shift from one industrial policy to another—the real ones, not the imaginary ones of universal collapse and perpetual ruin—that no country, it can safely be predicted, will ever adopt such a ruthless procedure If a change takes place it will be by slow and gradual steps; and the first steps will be for a short start in a new direction not at the moment of much consequence. Meanwhile, the bulk of the established industries will be safeguarded. And within the range of the industries thus protected it will remain true that wages can be kept high only so long as the protection is maintained."

ALBERTA WOOL GROWERS GET 58c A POUND FOR 2,115,000 POUND CROP

GIVING 'EM BEANS

An incident which is amusing Cumberland Anglicans a good deal occurred when Dean Quainton, formerly of Brandon, was speaking on behalf of the Forward Movement at Holy Trinity Church, says the Comox Argus.

The Dean, who is a very forceful speaker and wont to emphasize his points with gesticulations, has a habit of leaning over the pulpit at the end of each period. He had just wound up a very telling sentence and in his forceful manner brought down his clenched fist.

As it happened the nearest seat, that occupied by Churchwarden Mumford, is very near indeed to the pulpit, and the Dean's weighty and clenched fist descended upon Mr. Mumford's head. The impact was slight: but Mr. Mumford thinks that if the Dean comes again he will have his pew moved a few feet away.

It has been suggested by a sporting friend that the newspaper heading to this incident might be "Biffed on the Bean by the Dean."

MAYOR OF HAMILTON SAYS TEMPERANCE ACT IS CREATING BOLSHEVISM

Hamilton, Ont., March 1.—The Ontario Temperance Act is one of the rottenest laws ever placed on the statute books, declared Mayor Charles G. Booker, of Hamilton, in answer to criticisms of a recent speech made by His Worship on the O.T.A. "It teaches young men to be deceitful," the Mayor said. "It is class distinction of the worst type. The wealthy man's cellar is full. The poor man has to pay $2 to a doctor for a prescription and an extortionate amount for a bottle of whiskey. This law is creating Bolshevism. The manufacture of liquor should absolutely be stopped or sane legislation enacted."
