EIGHTH YEAR FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 29, 1887. PRICE ONE CENT

IN THE COMMITTE STAGE.

MR. REID'S AMENDMENT TO THE CRIMES BILL REJECTED.

Mr. Bright in a Letter Says That Coercion in Ireland Was Never More Necessary Than Now—Mr. Parnell Ill at His Home in Ireland.

LONDON, April 28.—In the House of Commons to-night the motion offered on April 26 by Robt. T. Reid, Liberal, that the House decline to proceed with any measure directed against tenants combining for relief, until a full measure for their relief from excessive rents was presented in Parliament, was rejected by a vote of 341 to 240.

A motion that the House go into committee on the Crimes Bill was then adopted.

In the debate before the vote on Mr. Reid's motion Thomas Power O'Connor said it was the duty of the Parnellites to delay the Crimes Bill as a hostage for satisfactory remedial measures. He accused Mr. Balfour, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, of gross ignorance respecting the state of that country, and contended that if he himself dealt with crime in England on the basis on which Ministers favoring coercion dealt with crime in Ireland he could show a state of things that was truly appalling.

Mr. Morley said the effect of the bill would be, not to prevent the withdrawal of capital from Ireland, but to drive out the labor that supported capital. The Government had its own weak case to thank for the prolonging of the discussion, the Opposition being compelled to extract information piecemeal. Firs the Government had said the bill was directed to suppress crimes, then that it was directed against combinations; now the Government said the measure was not aimed at combinations.

Bright Thinks Coercion Necessary.

LONDON, April 28.—Mr. Bright has written a letter in which he says: "No Government, Liberal or Conservative, is likely to promote a measure like that before Parliament except under a strong sense of its necessity. Such measures bring the Government much difficulty, rendering it unpopular and interfering with other measures with which the ministers are anxious to proceed. In 1881-2 I consented to measures of repression for the sake of law and order. I was then a member of the Government. What I thought needful then I think needful now, and I will not condemn the present bill because it is introduced by Conservatives."

Mr. Parnell Ill.

LONDON, April 28.—Mr. Parnell, who was expected to return to London to-day, is suffering from a cold and is confined to his house at Avondale, Ireland.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

An Article from Cardinal Manning Dealing With the Subject.

LONDON, April 28.—Next Saturday's issue of the Tablet will contain a special article by Cardinal Manning, in which he will contend that unless the rights of labor can be denied, the liberty of organization to protect them and the freedom founded upon them cannot be denied. Toward the end of the last century, the Cardinal says, the doctrine of political economy, under the plea of free contract, broke up the old relations between the employer and the employed, and the conflict between capital and labor then became perpetual. The power of capital is all but irresistible, for the poor must labor for the bread of life. Hunger lays the necessity upon them of laboring for the sake of their homes and themselves. When the law ceased to intervene, organizations for mutual defence straightway arose. The Knights of Labor and the British trade unions represent the rights of labor and the rights of association for its defence. The conflict between capital and labor is most unequal, the freedom of contract on which political economy glorifies itself hardly exists. It is surely the church's office to protect the poor and to protect their labor, which has built up the human commonwealth.

A Miser's Hoard.

MILWAUKEE, April 28.—A romantic discovery of hidden treasure in the cellar of a house on the South Side came to light to-day. Henry J. Peters, an old resident of the city, died nearly a year ago. He had borne the reputation of being a miser. On his deathbed he declined to make a will or give his wife information as to his affairs. Recently the sewer under the house became clogged and workmen were engaged to remedy the trouble. On taking up the flooring of the cellar, the men came across a heavy box securely locked. It was found to be filled with gold coin dollars, eagles and foreign money to the amount of nearly $20,000.

A Protest Against Non-Intercourse.

DULUTH, Minn., April 28.—The Board of Trade to-day took action on the fisheries question, unanimously adopting a memorial to the President, calling attention to the large amount of traffic between Duluth and Canadian ports and urging that freedom of trade and transportation between the Northwestern States and Territories, and Canada should not be restricted. The object is to secure the exemption of the Northwest from any general proclamation putting in force the retaliatory measures. It is said like action will be taken in other cities of the Northwest.

The Afghan Insurrection.

CALCUTTA, April 28.—It is semi-officially stated that if the Afghan insurgents succeed in overthrowing the Ameer the latter's downfall would not lead to complications between England and Russia, but that, on the contrary, projects are under consideration to enable the two powers jointly to arrange for the suppression of the brutal war and the subsequent administration of the whole country under a protected ruler.

Drowned in a Cellar.

MONTREAL, April 28.—Mrs. Rafferty, mother of Mr. Rafferty, grocer, corner Murray and Ottawa-streets, fell through a trap door in the store when going to serve a customer and was drowned in five feet of water. The water in the cellar was due to the flood. The deceased lady was about 70 years of age and much respected.

Murdered by a Saloonkeeper.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, April 28.—Dr. W. I. Northrup, a prominent physician at Haverhill, was murdered yesterday by Thos. McCoy, a saloonkeeper. Dr. Northrup had incurred the displeasure of the McCoy party by being active in favor of local option.

The Leaguer's Scheme.

QUEENSTOWN, April 28.—Mr. White, the agent of the Irish Woollen Manufacturing and Exporting Company, recently organized by Mr. Parnell, Mr. Davitt and other National Leaguers for the promotion of Irish industry, sailed to-day for New York on the steamer Adriatic.

A Fire in New York.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Early this evening fire was discovered in the large factory building, No. 223 to 227 Canal-street. The fire is still burning fiercely. Six or eight firms occupied the building. The largest was a fresco and wall paper manufactory. The loss is estimated at $230,000.

One Hundred and Fifty Lives Lost.

LONDON, April 28.—A despatch from Cooktown, Australia, announces that the steamer Benton, of Singapore, was sunk in a collision with a bark off the Island of Formosa, and that 160 persons were drowned. No Europeans were lost.

After Thirty Years' Retirement.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 28.—Mrs. W. G. Noah, the eminent tragic actress, who retired from the stage over thirty years ago, to-day at the age of 79 years appeared at the Elks' benefit as Lady Macbeth and received a great ovation. It was necessary to assist her on and off the stage.

MACDOUGALL—MACDONALD.

A Fashionable Wedding in Montreal Yesterday.

MONTREAL, April 28.—One of the most fashionable weddings which has taken place in Montreal for some time past was solemnized this afternoon at the Archbishop's Palace, the contracting parties being Mr. G. Campbell MacDougall, the well-known stock-broker, and Miss Mary Macdonald, fourth daughter of Hon. D. A. Macdonald, ex-Lieut.-Governor of Ontario. The bride, who looked as enchanting as ever, wore a very handsome bridal costume consisting of white satin petticoat, the apron front of which was richly trimmed with pearl and gold beads, train and bodice of watered silk. A tulle veil and wreath of orange blossoms completed this charming costume. The bride was attended by Miss Wheeler, daughter of Dr. Wheeler, and Miss Patterson, both of Montreal, and Miss Macdonald of Lancaster, Ont., who wore cream colored muslin delaine, the trimmings and sashes being brown watered silk, with hats of white straw with trimmings of brown silk and yellow roses. They also carried bouquets of Marechal Niels. The train bearers were Masters Willie and Donald Hingston, the young sons of Dr. Hingston and nephews of the bride. Mr. MacDougall was supported by Captain J. Try Davies as best man, and Messrs. Henry Joseph, and George F. Macdonald as ushers. After the ceremony the guests, who numbered over 150 and consisted of the elite of Montreal and many from Ontario, repaired to the house of Hon. D. A. Macdonald, 588 Sherbrooke-street, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. MacDougall left by the 4.10 p.m. Delaware and Hudson train for New York, and were accompanied to the depot by a large number of friends, who wished them every happiness. The testimonials of friendship for the bride and groom were of an unusually choice character and included handsome specimens of silvermakers' and jewelers' art and many handsome brass ornaments as well as elaborate gifts of high art needle work. Among the presents were many from friends in Toronto, Ottawa and other parts of Ontario, gifts being received from Sir John and Lady Macdonald and Lieut.-Gov. Robinson.

A CARLISLE HOTEL BURNED.

It is Supposed that an Incendiary Fired the Building.

HAMILTON, April 28.—A most disastrous fire occurred at the village of Carlisle early this morning. About 1.45 fire was discovered in a driving shed adjoining a hotel owned by Albert Eaton. The shed was a frame building, and it was only a short time before the flames spread to the hotel and barn. As there was no water supply the neighbors were unable to render any assistance in quenching the flames, and inside of an hour the three buildings were completely destroyed. The hotel has not been occupied for some time. D. Harris, stage-driver and mail-carrier between Hamilton and Carlisle, occupied the barn and driving shed. Mr. Harris' loss is a very severe one, amounting to $900. He lost four horses, two cows, two sets of harness, one covered stage and three sleighs. Mr. Harris went into the barn to try and save the horses, but the flames were so dense that he could not get them out. He was fortunate enough to save one colt and a cow. The hotel and barn were valued at $2000, and were not insured. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary, as no one lived in any of the buildings.

THE FLOOD ENTIRELY SUBSIDED.

Business Resumed at the Railway Station and Custom House.

MONTREAL, April 28.—Now that the water is below the level of the sewers the pumps have been stopped. Business has now been resumed at Bonaventure depot. The custom house clerks are also back to their old quarters in the freight sheds, which were badly flooded. Above Victoria Bridge the river is entirely clear, but the ship channel is still packed with ice. Navigation will probably open about May 8. Dr. Laberge to-day detailed half his available force to examine the sanitary condition of the recently flooded district. A disinfecting force is to follow.

An Englishman's Send-Off.

PORT HOPE, April 28.—Last evening a few friends of Mr. J. Lawrence gathered at the St. Lawrence Hall to bid him good-bye. Although Mr. Lawrence has been in this country only three months he has gained many friends. After-dinner speeches were made by Messrs. Beamish, Fairbairn, Mulholland, Strong, Comley, Baker, Chas. McGuire, Henderson, Mackie, Jeffray Budge and Col. Conway, U.S. Consul, all wishing himself and family a prosperous future. He leaves for Calgary to-day, and is starting a ranch about eleven miles from that place, taking with him four car loads of stock, amounting to about $6000 worth.

Fatal Accident at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 28.—A man supposed to be a stone-cutter named Carruthers, a recent arrival from England, employed in the Queenstown quarries, was killed by the cars in the Grand Trunk Railway yard here to-day. Whether he threw himself under the wheels or crawled under a train as shelter from the rain and was killed when it started is not known.

The Blonde With the Doll-like Face.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., April 28.—A sensational elopement occurred here on Monday which has just been disclosed. Mrs. Joseph Farnsworth, a blonde with a doll-like face, aged 25 years, ran away with her husband's father, aged 60 years. Mrs. Farnsworth left two small children.

A Dreadful Occurrence.

LONDON, April 28.—A despatch from Perth, the capital of Western Australia, says: "A hurricane swept the northeast coast on April 22. The pearl fishing fleet, numbering forty boats, was destroyed, and 550 persons perished.

Fever on Shipboard.

LONDON, April 28.—Capt. Roberts and three of the crew of the British ship City of Ottawa, which arrived at Newcastle yesterday from Mobile, died from fever during the voyage.

Oddfellows' Anniversary.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The sixty-eighth anniversary of the Independent Order of Oddfellows was celebrated in this city to-day by a grand performance at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Americans Snubbed.

From London Society.

The snubs administered by the Lord Chamberlain to American applicants for presentation at the first drawing-rooms have had a wholesome effect. It is now the third week in April, and as yet there is no prominent candidate for the much-coveted post of chief "blackscratcher" to the Prince of Wales. Mrs. Mackay has made no sign; neither, for the matter of that, has the prince. Mrs. Brown-Potter has come, and seen, and comported herself as our "Powder Puff" truly said last week, in a manner which may be put down as contingent or not, as you may please to read. Miss Adele Grant is not with us yet, and in the absence of any new Yankee notion and with the failure to come up to the scratch of last year's plaything, it seems probable that unless Buffalo Bill has a likely squaw in his following, "Americanism" as a royal pastime is at an end.

The Lucky Ones.

—The wholesale stock of Messrs. H. Hirshfeld & Co. has been purchased by McKendry & Co., 273 Yonge-street, at 40 cents on the dollar. The Waterloo House will be the scene of a panic when the stock is marked off. 246

MAJORITY OF THIRTY-TWO

THE FIRST PARTY DIVISION IN THE OTTAWA HOUSE.

The Vote Taken on the Queen's County Election Case—An Analysis of the Voting Shows the Government to have a Majority of Forty-four.

OTTAWA, April 28.—The seat of George F. Baird, M.P. for Queen's county, New Brunswick, in the Commons of Canada was vacant this afternoon and evening, and George F. Baird occupied a prominent position in the Senators' gallery, having on his right a gray-haired Senator from New Brunswick and Speaker Pugsley of the New Brunswick Legislature on the left, waiting for such time as the House should declare whether or not the seat allotted to him in the Commons chamber was his or the property in fee simple of George G. King, also of Queen's county, N.B. The case is important and interesting from the fact that it is the first of the kind, being unique in style and peculiar to the country. In the late contest George G. King was the Reform candidate in Queen's, N.B., and George F. Baird the Conservative standard bearer. The result of the poll showed that Mr. King had secured 1191 and Baird 1130 votes. But counsel for Mr. Baird objected that the election deposit of Mr. King had been made by a person other than that named in the law. The returning officer sustained the objection, ruled out all the votes cast for Mr. King, and declared Mr. Baird elected by 9 to 0, as the baseball reports say.

The afternoon sun mellowed by the stained glass windows played gently over the harsh lines with which nature has endowed the countenance of Mr. Skinner, the junior member for St. John, as he addressed the House in support of his motion that Mr. Baird be incontinently ejected from the building and his place be given to Mr. King. Mr. Skinner is a hard featured Scotch lawyer from the salt shores of the Bay of Fundy, an apostate from the Conservative party of some six months' standing and he leads the debate because Mr. Weldon, the New Brunswick member of the Reform leadership syndicate is absent owing to the sickness of his wife. He is not a good speaker, but delivered himself moderately well, notwithstanding, and showed no particular acerbity.

Mr. Thompson spoke moderately but very well, and was listened to with the greatest possible attention. In fact he was the only speaker of the afternoon who received close attention. This was not to be wondered at as the whole matter is a purely legal one, and the arguments consequently of a correspondingly technical, dry and, to people outside the profession, not understandable character.

Mr. Skinner, in opening the debate, said that at the outset it would be admitted that this was a very important question, as it concerned the rights and privileges of the people of a whole constituency, and if their rights were invaded it would establish a precedent for invading the rights and liberties of any of the constituencies. He held that there was no doubt of the duty of the returning officers. It was simply to declare elected the person who received the most votes, and it appeared from the returns that Mr. King had a majority of sixty-one votes over Mr. Baird. Despite this fact, however, on the simple objection that the deposit with Mr. King's nomination paper was invalid, the returning officer had ventured to throw out all the votes cast for Mr. King and to declare Mr. Baird elected. This the speaker held to be a clear violation of the law. He quoted from the English Election Act and from other authorities to show that it was mandatory upon the returning officer to count the ballots, cast up the votes and declare the majority candidate elected. He also read copious extracts from the case of the Queen v. The Mayor of Bangor, one being a declaration by Lord Lindsay that there was no doubt that the returning officer had no power to declare elected the candidate who had not the majority of the votes. It took Mr. Skinner about half an hour to wade through his authorities, from which he derived the opinion that the position he took, that Mr. King was legally elected, was amply sustained.

The Minister of Justice promptly took the floor to reply. He did not differ in any way from the mover of the motion as to the importance of the case in its proposed effect. But he did not agree with his view as to the course to be taken. The hon. gentleman, in seeking for precedents, had been forced to go back to a period which did not give them the weight that later deliverances would have. Forty years ago in England and ten years ago in Canada a radical change was made in the law and he had not ventured to quote a precedent since that change in the law. In effect, the motion asked the House to take back again to itself the powers to dispose of such cases, which ten years ago were handed over to the judiciary. This was not the first time that it had been claimed that returning officers had wrongfully declared persons elected to Parliament, but for precedents they would have to look to the records of the courts and not to the reports of Parliament. The only one thing that the Imperial Parliament reserved to itself, as illustrated by the case of Michael Davitt, was whether the person returned was a fit and proper person. All other questions, the number of votes cast included, had been relegated to the courts. In 1875 the same right was exercised by the House in the case of John Mitchell and the action taken was that a person civilly dead in the eye of the law had been declared elected and a new writ was issued. In the new election Mitchell was again returned, but the House did not declare his opponent elected. It simply reiterated its former decision and Mitchell's opponent had to resort to the courts to gain his seat. In the Kings County, P.E.I., case in 1882, the Canadian House did declare a certain person elected, but in that case it was claimed that one of the candidates was disqualified. That case was peculiar in that both candidates were declared returned and the House in examining into the qualification of one of the candidates did not seek after another candidate. He would give all weight to the case of the Queen v. The Mayor of Bangor, but he would call attention to the fact that the Returning Officer had no power to make a declaration or a return at all in that case. He would agree that the person who secured the greatest number of votes should ordinarily be declared elected, but the House in its zeal for justice should not forget that justice should not seat a person and declare him elected and unseat another person without any inquiry into his rights or whether he had rights. Rightly or wrongly, the gentleman who now held the seat had acquired rights, and, in his opinion, those rights should be inquired into by the Committee of Privileges and Elections—should be inquired into in a judicial spirit and without reference to party. The Opposition scorned this idea, but Mr. Thompson quietly squelched them by reading from Mr. Blake's speech on the King's county case in 1882, where that gentleman stated that in all cases within his experience the Committee on Privileges and Elections had acted judicially and fairly. They might state against him that Mr. Gladstone in the Mitchell case asked the Imperial Parliament not to refer to committee but to act—[hear, hear, from the Opposition]—but in that case Mr. Gladstone wanted Parliament not to declare anybody elected but to declare that the law, which said no felon could be elected, should be carried out and that Mitchell had not been elected. [Hear, hear from the Government.] He would ask them to consider what they proposed to do for Mr. Baird. They proposed to take from him the right of retort, the right of, when protested against, entering a cross petition. They proposed, in granting leave to appeal to the courts in this case, to have the singular anomaly of two jurisdictions in the case, one the jurisdiction of the House declaring Mr. King elected, and the other the jurisdiction of the courts to find out whether he was or not. And what position would they be in if after declaring Mr. King elected the courts should declare that he was not. In view of these facts he moved an amendment, which in substance proposed a reference of the case to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. Mills said the Minister of Justice first entered into an elaborate argument to prove that the House had no jurisdiction in the case, and wound up by proposing a reference of it to a committee of the House. He held that the Master of the Rolls in the Bangor case had not said that a return should not be made.

Mr. Thompson rose with the report of the case in his hands, and read the words of the Master of the Rolls to that effect.

Mr. Mills, nothing daunted, went on, and in a lengthy argument sought to show that the reason why he should not make a return was because of previous informalities. He held that the case simply amounted to this, that the candidate who received the greatest number of votes must be declared elected, and by the evidence before the House it was clear that the return made to the House was no return at all. If Mr. King had done anything wrong it was competent to enter a protest against him, and Mr. Baird's rights in that matter would not be affected at all if the House did its duty and seated the man who had been elected.

Mr. Charles H. Tupper, while his father, mother, wife and son and heir looked down on him from the Speaker's gallery, said that they must approach this matter purely as a question of law. In a long and well delivered legal argument he supported the contentions of the Minister of Justice, who, he said, had not been inconsistent in the course he had proposed. They had no precedent whatever for the course proposed by the Opposition. They had every precedent for the course proposed by the Minister of Justice. He held, too, that the returning officer, who certainly had some rights, seeing that he performed his duties in the face of an act imposing tremendous penalties for disobedience, should not be denounced until the case was tried and the evidence considered. The next effort of the speaker was to show that the matter in dispute was not properly before them, but if it was he would go considerably farther than any previous speaker. He held and supported the contention by a long legal argument that the returning officer had acted properly and in accordance with the powers vested in him. The fact of a candidate receiving the largest vote did not always carry with it the obligation that the returning officer must declare him elected. He would instance the case of Mitchell, in Tipperary, who was ineligible in consequence of being a convict. Mitchell received 3114 votes while his opponent, Moore, only received 746, yet the returning officer gave the seat to Moore, and the courts and Parliament sustained him. Mr. Tupper spoke for nearly two hours.

The other speakers were Messrs. Edgar, Lister, Ellis, Davin, Barron, Patterson, (Essex), Choquette, Mitchell, Sutherland, Lister, Foster, McDonald (Victoria), Paterson (Brant,) Sproule, Fisher and Sir Richard Cartwright.

Mr. Davin got off a good thing. While speaking Hon. David Mills interrupted him to say that he was loaded in the wrong way, whereupon the Opposition laughed consumedly. Mr. Davin waited until the noise subsided and then said: "One David said all men are liars and, of course, that means that any other David may be mistaken," whereat the Conservatives cheered tumultously.

Mr. Patterson of Essex fairly paralyzed the House. He is a strong Conservative, but must have had something wrong with his eye to-day judging by his actions. He not only supported the Opposition motion, which he had a perfect right to do if he wished, but he insulted the Ministry, which he certainly had no right to do. He started out by saying that the action of the returning officer was the greatest outrage on the people of Canada that had occurred within the past thirty years. The House to protect its own honor should call the returning officer before the bar of the House. After running on in this strain for a little while, amidst much Opposition applause, Mr. Pope said, "You are getting lots of applause from the other side."

This seemed to render Mr. Patterson frantic. Swinging his arms he attacked the Ministry with yelling fury. He was an independent man. He would not be run on by any one man or any Ministers. The Ministers might wink at this outrage, but he would represent the people, etc., etc., and the member for Essex fairly frothed in his fury. Nor did other candidates. An elaborately decorated footstool, worked in silk, presented to Sir John to-day by a committee of ladies of the association, commemorates the vote.

A number of the committees met to-day and elected chairmen as follows: Public Accounts, Mr. Rykert; Privileges and elections, Mr. Girouard; Railways and Canals, Sir Hector Langevin; Banking and Commerce, Mr. Hall, Sherbrooke; Agriculture and Colonization, Mr. Peter White; Expiring Laws, Mr. Robertson of Hastings.

A Thornbury delegation waited upon the Minister of Public Works to-day and asked that a sum be placed in the estimates to dredge their harbor.

The West Algoma Electoral District Agricultural Society in a petition to the Minister of Agriculture point out that there are between Thunder Bay and the Lake of the Woods 5,000,000 acres of good agricultural lands almost wholly unoccupied and that they are willing to invest $10,000 in an experimental farm there, if the Government will support it by a grant of $4000. The proposed location of the farm is at the junction of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the proposed Port Arthur, Duluth and Western Railways.

Mr. Davis, seconded by Mr. Small, to-day introduced a bill to incorporate the Chinook Belt and Peace River Railway Company. The principal promoters are Mr. Thomas Lally of Toronto and Mr. F. McKay, formerly of Toronto and now of Calgary.

In answer to a question to-day Sir Charles Tupper said that the consent of the Imperial Government had not been obtained to lay before the House the papers relating to commercial treaties in which Canada is interested, as that government objects to papers being brought down when the subject is still at issue, but he hoped at an early day to make a statement of interest to the House.

This afternoon Mr. Robillard formally asked the Government if it was their intention to build a new residence for the Governor-General, and if so, where? The reply was "No."

A return was laid on the table to-day showing the amount owing by the Exchange Bank to the Government of Canada at the time of the bank's failure and all the sums since paid on account of such indebtedness. The statement is as follows: Indebtedness on current account, $37,840; on special account, $200,000; interest, $3972; total, $241,812; payments, dividend 20 per cent, $48,362; dividend, 30 per cent, $72,543; dividend, 10 per cent, $24,181; total, $145,087, which leaves a balance of $96,725 still due the Government.

The receipts and expenditures for the current year up to April 20 last are: Receipts, $27,068,568; expenditures, $25,088,223.

This shows a surplus of over two millions this year, which it is expected will be slightly increased before the end of the fiscal year.

It is understood that the result of the investigation into the charges made against Mr. Borrowdail, Collector of Inland Revenue, Nova Scotia division, is the suspension of Deputy-Collector Dustan, who made the charges.

Mr. Connee, M.P.P., reached the city today and went around to No. 6 to see the boys. He got a warm welcome.

Mr. Taylor, one of the Conservative whips, emulated the example of the leading Opposition whip to-day and presented the press gallery with a box of cigars.

It is now said that the fisheries papers cannot possibly be got down before Monday.

For some days past it has been noticed that the ministers have dropped the habit of wearing roses which obtained last week. At the same time it became known that Senator Sanford had gone home and that a nice box that used to come to Ottawa from his Hamilton greenhouse now comes no more.

Hon. Thomas White gave a dinner party to-night, at which were present, among other guests, Sir Donald Smith, Adam and Miss Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny, Hon. and Mrs. Chapleau, Miss Hendries, Hamilton, Mr. Scarth, Mr. Daly, Mr. A. W. Ross, Mr. Ward, Mr. Moncreiff, M.P.'s, and Lord Boyle.

The Governor-General gave a small dinner party this evening. Among the parliamentarians present were Sir Charles Tupper and Dalton McCarthy.

LOBBY NOTES.

The Workings of the Departments and Other Matters.

OTTAWA, April 28.—The Fisheries Department purpose sending another exploring expedition to the northern waters of British Columbia this summer, to complete the work commenced last year by Hon. Mr. Foster and the investigation of Inspector Mowat. Mr. Mowat has demonstrated that the fishery wealth in the western waters is enormous, consisting of cod, black cod, halibut, mackerel, herring, and almost all kinds of salt-water fish. Compared with the Pacific coast fisheries, it is believed that those on our Atlantic coast are but a drop in the bucket or a fish in the barrel. This morning Hon. Mr. Foster was waited upon by a representative of one of the largest fishing companies doing business in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, who wished to secure all possible information regarding the British Columbia fishing banks. This gentleman is on his way to the Pacific Coast to prospect. If the result is favorable this firm will immediately commence operations in these waters, dry curing the fish for export.

It is stated in Militia Department circles that since the establishment of the factory at Quebec for the importation of Snider-Enfield ammunition from England has ceased, the Canadian article supplying the demand. Lieut.-Col. Panet, Deputy Minister of Militia, has just returned from an inspection of the factory and states that 1500 shells will be turned out this year and will be used by the Canadian artillery. If the experiment proves successful the manufacture of a reserve supply will be commenced.

Mr. Jamieson is also after the Canada Temperance Act. It will be remembered that last year he introduced a bill to amend the act, which was not reached. To-morrow he will reintroduce it.

The Young People's Association of St. John's Church the other evening held an entertainment, at which the most popular statesman of modern times was voted for. Gladstone, Bismarck, Blake, Tupper, Cartwright and Sir John were among those who had votes cast for them. Sir John's majority was about equal to the total votes cast for all the other candidates. An elaborately decorated footstool, worked in silk, presented to Sir John to-day by a committee of ladies of the association, commemorates the vote.

A number of the committees met to-day and elected chairmen as follows: Public Accounts, Mr. Rykert; Privileges and elections, Mr. Girouard; Railways and Canals, Sir Hector Langevin; Banking and Commerce, Mr. Hall, Sherbrooke; Agriculture and Colonization, Mr. Peter White; Expiring Laws, Mr. Robertson of Hastings.

In answer to a question to-day Sir Charles Tupper said that the consent of the Imperial Government had not been obtained to lay before the House the papers relating to commercial treaties in which Canada is interested, as that government objects to papers being brought down when the subject is still at issue, but he hoped at an early day to make a statement of interest to the House.

This afternoon Mr. Robillard formally asked the Government if it was their intention to build a new residence for the Governor-General, and if so, where? The reply was "No."

A return was laid on the table to-day showing the amount owing by the Exchange Bank to the Government of Canada at the time of the bank's failure and all the sums since paid on account of such indebtedness. The statement is as follows: Indebtedness on current account, $37,840; on special account, $200,000; interest, $3972; total, $241,812; payments, dividend 20 per cent, $48,362; dividend, 30 per cent, $72,543; dividend, 10 per cent, $24,181; total, $145,087, which leaves a balance of $96,725 still due the Government.

The receipts and expenditures for the current year up to April 20 last are: Receipts, $27,068,568; expenditures, $25,088,223.

This shows a surplus of over two millions this year, which it is expected will be slightly increased before the end of the fiscal year.

It is understood that the result of the investigation into the charges made against Mr. Borrowdail, Collector of Inland Revenue, Nova Scotia division, is the suspension of Deputy-Collector Dustan, who made the charges.

F. Mallory, Cobourg; John Craig, Woodstock; A. W. Smith, Simcoe; H. A. Nixon, St. George; F. Ruddell, Georgeton; J. C. Dance, Kingsmill; V. E. Fuller, Thomas Shaw, Bearbrook; M. W. Cook, Cooksville; S. J. Pearson, Meadowville. Mr. Awrey, M.P.P. for South Wentworth, and Mr. Archibald Blue, Assistant-Commissioner of Agriculture were also present.

Mr. V. E. Fuller was called to the chair, and Mr. Thomas Shaw of Hamilton was appointed Secretary. The object of the meeting was explained by the Chairman to be the discussion of various subjects and the organization of a body that would tend to give farmers the rights which the respective classes of the community owe them.

Mr. Awrey addressed the meeting with reference to the importance of the agricultural interest and the lack of attention which it received at the hands of public men. He urged the advisability of producing a class of stock that would be of a kind to Canada for her regular supplies, and so in reference to the butter industry and various other interests. He urged immediate action.

Mr. Thomas Shaw then read a carefully prepared paper on extension of Farmers' Institutes, and how they might be made more beneficial to the farmers of Ontario; after which, on motion of D. J. Hunter, seconded by T. Kells, it was decided to proceed at once with the organization of a central farmers' institute for the Province of Ontario.

A discussion on the best means of improving the butter industry resulted in the adoption of this resolution:

"That this meeting desires to place on record their opinion that the butter industry of Canada can be best raised to the position it ought to occupy by the establishment of creameries in Canada, and that every encouragement is due to the Ontario Creameries Association in their efforts to improve and establish creameries throughout Canada.

At the evening session it was decided to call the orginazation "The Permanent Canadian Farmer's Institute of Ontario," and these officers were elected: President, V. E. Fuller of Hamilton; Vice-President, J. Dryden, M.P.P., Brooklyn; Secretary-Treasurer, R. T. Shaw, Hamilton; Executive Committee, James Murdoch, Yeovil; M. D. Willard, Morrisburg; T. Kosmack, Northcote; Thos. Crowe, Chatham; D. Campbell, Nelson, A. H. Pettit, Grimsby; J. H. Wooley, Simcoe; J. Legge, Gananoque; James Cochrane, Kilsythe; D. M. McPherson, Glengarry.

The most important business of the session was taken up about 8.30. It was the consideration of the trade relations existing between the Dominion and the United States, and the farmers in discussing the question showed a lively appreciation of the matter in so far as it affected their interests. As the resolution adopted will show they are unanimously in favor of a broader trade policy with the United States. The debate was introduced by Messrs. Thomas Conant and Andrew Annis of Oshawa moving the following resolution:

That the Central Farmers' Institute unanimously and individually feel great want of a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada, and that this Institute will at all times urge the Dominion Government to obtain such reciprocity for us at the earliest possible moment.

The following amendment was put in by D. J. Hunter of Laurel, seconded by D. R. Ellis of Kimberly.

That in the opinion of this Institute a removal of all restrictions on trade between the Dominion of Canada and the United States is desirable, either by reciprocal treaty or otherwise, as may be agreed upon by the Governments of the respective countries, and that the officers of the Institute are hereby authorized to take such action in the premises as shall best promote the object of this resolution.

Mr. James McEwan, of Drayton, heartily endorsed the resolution, believing that with reciprocity times would be greatly improved. This feeling was widespread among farmers.

Col. Campbell thought the time was at hand when the farmers of this country should call upon the Government to take measures for the carrying out of more amicable trade relations with the United States. Some might accuse him of disloyalty for holding such views, but if it came to a question of Queen and country, his position would soon be ascertained.

Chairman Fuller called upon Mr. Anderson to take the chair while he spoke on the question. He referred to Mr. Wiman's message to him, which he had answered as a private individual, and he thought the executive officers should be empowered to carry the matter further. His business was carried on mostly with the United States, and if those opposed to reciprocity knew the amount of trade which might be carried on if commercial restrictions were withdrawn, there would not be one dissenter. A cry was made that the measure would be death to Canadian manufactures. If the Canadian manufacturers did not have the pluck and energy to hold their own against American competitors, all he could say was that they deserved to succumb. It was not the manufacturing so much as the agricultural interests that were at stake.

Mr. Joshua Legre of Gananoque said he lived in a manufacturing village and the manufacturers there would only be too glad to have the markets of the United States open to their goods.

Mr. James Cochrane of Owen Sound thought that it would be better to take another move and ask the Government of Great Britain for commercial union in food supplies.

Mr. D. R. Ellis thought that every farmer in Canada would throw up his hat if reciprocity were obtained.

Mr. Thos. Kells of Vandebur thought that the resolutions were premature. He had a little too much British blood in him to throw himself at the foot of Congress, and he would not support the resolution. He had advocated Canadian manufacturing interests in the past, but he believed that these interests now take care of themselves. The consideration of the matter was premature.

Mr. D. R. Ellis thought that now was the proper time. [Cries of hear, hear].

Mr. James Cochrane submitted the following addition to the amendment:

That in the event of failure to obtain reciprocity between the United States and the Dominion Government, the Imperial Parliament be asked for such trade relations as would admit colonial goods free of duty and place a heavy tax on foreign food supplies.

The amendment of Mr. Hunter, with the above addition was unanimously carried.

The Alleged Market of Sixty Millions.

Commercial union would open to Canadian producers a market of sixty millions of people for their products, instead of the present market of five millions only. It appears as if in Mr. Wiman's estimation this were the most taking of all the inducements he has to present to the Canadian people. This, it can be seen, is what he mostly calculates upon to "fetch" the natives. Regarding this glittering but utterly deceptive bait we propose to say a few words:

First, as regards grain, animals, and farm produce of all kinds. Under the old reciprocity treaty, when our farm produce was admitted free, we had for customers, not the whole people of the great republic, but merely that portion of them living in the New England States and in the State of New York. One exception only will we admit of—it is true that some years we have sent barley to Chicago, St. Louis and other western points. But that exception allowed for, let us ask a few questions. When, and to what amount, has there ever been any export of the produce of Canadian farms to Ohio, or to any state west or south of it? Nothing to speak of, as far as we have ever heard. This talk about a market of sixty millions is all wind, signifying nothing—mere idle indulgence in "glittering generalities." Come down, gentlemen, come down, be little more precise, and name those states among the forty, or thereabouts, which under commercial union would be profitable customers for Canadian farm produce. Do you expect to send wheat to Ohio, Illinois and Minnesota, cattle and hogs to Chicago, and peas to Iowa and Illinois? Not from Ontario, at all events, we should say. (Manitoba wheat might find a market south of the border, we admit, but concerning that we have something to say further on.) The truth is that our possible or probable market across the border for farm produce is not spread over the whole United States, with sixty millions population, but is limited to New England, and to York State.

Say that we place the present population of York State and of all New England together at ten millions, which is a liberal advance on the census figures of 1880. We must deduct from that at least two millions and a half for the strictly rural population of the region indicated—people who even under complete free trade would not average a consumption of ten cents' worth of Canadian produce per head per annum. Behold now what follows! Your alleged market of sixty millions is dwindled down to seven and a half millions, which is only one-eighth of the big figure with which you are trying to overpower us. Don't for Heaven's sake tell us that you are going to export farm produce from Canada to the Carolinas, to Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri and states farther south or west. It would be too much, you must be told beforehand that we cannot stand such nonsense as that. Positively the only exception we can make in your favor is with regard to the quantity of barley, be the same more or less, which might find a market in Chicago or other Western cities.

Gentlemen, we quite understand that it is the farmers you are trying to capture just now, and therefore we have devoted some little space to showing what your alleged market of sixty millions of people is a mere airy vision, nothing more; and that something like one-eighth of that number is all that would be [illegible] farmers for Canadian farmers. Touching [illegible] possibilities of a market over the border [illegible] manufactured articles, we shall be [illegible] this occasion.

[illegible] her weakest and Germany at her strongest comparatively. Ever since then France has been "pulling herself together," so to speak, although whether she is able yet to face Germany may be doubted. It is sure enough, however, that during the last ten or a dozen years France has been gaining greatly in military strength, both absolutely and relatively to Germany. In other words, time is working in favor of France; it being the fact that France gains considerably more in five years, or ten years, than Germany does. Of the two, France gains a good deal the more per annum in population, and in wealth also. Every year the fertile soil and brilliant sun of France are creating wealth at a rate which Germany can never hope to equal. The German military system is a marvel of honest and capable and economical administration; if it were not, no such numerous and efficient an army could be maintained out of the money voted for military purposes. The French military system is on a really economical scale, too, and under it probably not much money is wasted, except through such blunders as that of the costly Tonquin expedition. In the disgraceful period of the last Empire, things were different. Then the money that should have been used to buy supplies for the army was stolen right and left by jobbers and plunderers of all grades, the consequence being that when the great struggle came thousands of brave soldiers found themselves crippled and helpless for want of the most necessary camp supplies and munitions of war. As for this kind of thing, England knows how it is herself; even in our own time she has had her experiences of soldiers' shoes that were made only to sell, of bayonets that would bend like lead or break like pipestems, and such like. Well, common report says that French soldiers are well and honestly looked after now; and that in this respect things are very much changed from what they were in former days, when the greedy gang of Second Empire plunderers were allowed to rob the country almost as they pleased.

Now, supposing the military and economical administration of the Republic to be just possibly capable and efficient, it is evident that France must year by year keep gaining on Germany, as regards wealth, to begin with, and as a consequence in military strength too. In population the two countries are not far apart, and Germany shows the greater natural increase. But against this latter fact we must set these others—that France loses very little indeed by emigration, while emigration from Germany goes on with a rush. The indications are that this very year the flight of German emigrants from the fatherland will be something extraordinary. Now, are we to suppose that the Emperor and the Crown Prince, much more their trusty advisers Bismarck and Von Moltke, do not know all this? They know it all right well; and they are duly troubled at the prospect, we may be sure. Supposing this to be so, what more natural than to believe that they must be anxious to have the next fight out with France at an early day, before France gets too strong for Germany? For we take it as a fact not likely to be seriously disputed, that France is gaining on Germany a good deal every year in the elements of material strength. It seems incontestable that every year that passes is making the situation the better comparatively for France, and the worse for Germany. It is therefore highly probable that it will be German policy to hurry on the next war, while it will be French policy to delay and to postpone the dread event. The course and outcome of the present trouble on the Moselle can scarcely fail to throw a good deal of light on this particular subject.

A Mushroom Triumph for Mr. Wiman.

As will be seen in another column the discussion of the agricultural interests of Canada by the Central Farmers' Institute culminated in the carrying of a resolution favoring reciprocity with the United States. It is not The World's intention at the present time to discuss the wisdom or folly of this step, but it cannot conceal its regret that the farmers who met here yesterday should have allowed themselves to become the dupes of an ambitious annexationist in the United States. Reciprocity with the United States will not only be the death blow of Canadian industries, but it will be the entering of the thin end of the wedge which is aimed at the destruction of Canadian nationality itself. There are no class of Canadians so loyal to British institutions as the farmers of Ontario, and it is to be supposed that if these men saw in its true light the real meaning of the resolution which they carried yesterday, they would be the first to shrink from its consequences. Mr. Wiman may consider, now that his letter bewailing the condition of the Ontario farmers has received its first triumph, that the next step will follow, but we very much mistake Canadian sentiment and loyalty, if the triumph will not be of a very momentary character, and if the people of this country will not declare by an overwhelming majority that we are going to retain our nationality and our manufactures, and never allow the product of the farm and of the artisan to come in competition with those of a nation of sixty million people. If the farmers of Ontario are in such a deplorable condition as Mr. Wiman would have them believe, how can they be made wealthier by bringing about a state of affairs which will open up their market to the products of the United States, and at the same [illegible] dash away for years, if not for ever, the [illegible] ity of building a home market—the [illegible] antee of Canadian independence of [illegible] kets, and the only true way of de- [illegible] althy and vigorous nationality.

that place, her age being two and twenty. To make the affair as ridiculous as possible, if not gloomy, the frailty of the poor infatuated swain did not permit of his leaving his bed and the ceremony was conducted while he was in that novel condition. One does not know whether to pity the senility of age, which permits itself to be led away by fortune hunting belles; or feel ashamed of a young woman who should be so hard up for a husband as to marry a man just arrived at the borders of Styx. At all events the affair was novel and has led Philadelphia society to think that it's the money, it's the money everywhere.

According to The World's report from Ottawa, the Government is confronted by railroad bonus seekers, hailing from east and west, north and south. Some of these railroad schemes are commendable enterprises, but the building of some of the contemplated roads will have no more effect on the general prosperity of the country than a cart would be made to run smoother by encumbering it with four wheels. Some of those who are asking the Federal Government to grant subsidies to their pet railroad schemes were, a short time ago, the loudest declaimers against the increase of the national debt; and now they forget that the Government, if it should assist every railroad company asking for aid, would be doing what they condemned. There is only one way of putting a stop to these raids made on the Dominion treasury, and that is The World's proposition, to submit such questions to a vote of the people. If this were done it would be found that a large proportion of the applications made at the present time for Government aid would be voted down by overwhelming majorities.

A Pointer for the License Commissioners.

Editor World: It is stated on what appears to me to be good authority that the White House on the corner of Farley-avenue and Esther-street is to receive a license. The above is to a certain extent confirmed by the appearance of the name of F. B. Morrow (the new applicant) among the list of "certainties" made out by one of your city contemporaries. While unwilling to criticise the License Commissioners' work in advance of the publication of their list, I believe that a grave injustice will be perpetrated should this house be one of the favored ones. As a ratepayer of Toronto and a lover of justice I protest against the granting of a license to this house, considering that it has recently been the headquarters for the gang of counterfeiters who have been plying their nefarious schemes in this city, that the applicant for the license is a new one; that he is a family connection of the present holder of the license, and further, because I have reasons for knowing, that the whole thing is a plot to make money for Small, the present holder, by selling out should he be successful in obtaining the grant under cover of the new applicant. Already the name of a well-known ex-hotel keeper is mentioned as the buyer of the "good will" of this "corner." If on no other grounds, I submit that to grant a license to any new applicant in the face of the fact that seventy-four of the men who have invested their all in the business are to be cut off is an outrage on that spirit of fair play and justice which should animate the feelings and characterize the conduct of the commissioners in their difficult and delicate task. Granolithic Pavements.

Editor World: In reply to Messrs. Hamburger & Co.'s challenge to state where the "Stuart Patent Granolithic" had proved an utter failure, I beg to refer him to the building of the Royal Asylum of St. Ann's at Redhill, County of Surrey, England, where there was some 30,000 yards of it laid, and which has proved entirely unsatisfactory, and has had to be constantly repaired, and proved beyond doubt to the architects and those in charge as an utter failure for sidewalk purposes.

Messrs. Crickmay & Son of London, Eng., are the architects and Mr. George Wells was the inspector of works, who tells me that no pains was spared to do the work as well as it could possibly be done, and that the material used was the best manufactured. Mr. Wells is now a resident of this city and can be seen any time, and will be happy to give any information regarding his practical experience with this material. TORONTO STONE CO.

McMaster University.

Editor Ardarius: The bill creating the above university has passed its third reading, and will doubtless become law; but whether it will ever be an accomplished fact is matter of grave doubt. There are many reasons why it should not, and I propose to point out a few grounds on which the founding of such a useless and superfluous institution should be strenuously resisted. In stating my objections as a Baptist to the scheme, I wish to avoid the abuse and personalities to which some opponents of the measure have resorted, and yet frankly and fearlessly to express my views (and the views also of the vast majority I believe of Canadian Baptists) on this question.

1. No demand has ever been made by the Baptists for such a hill or such a university.

2. The matter has never been honestly or openly brought before the denomination and considered by them. Excepting the promoters and a few of their friends, it was not even known that such a measure was proposed, or if it has been mentioned, its full import has not been understood.

3. The only channel of communication for those who wished to oppose the measure, viz., the columns of the Canadian Baptist, has (notwithstanding all that may be stated to the contrary) been practically closed against them and discussion discouraged or virtually stifled.

4. That the vote of the Paris Convention, where we are assured the measure was "solidly" carried, was in no sense the vote of the denomination, and the reason for this is not far to seek, viz., that when delegates were appointed for that convention no instructions were given them as to how they should vote, and if they voted they could not voice the will of the denomination, because they did not know it—many of them not even being aware that such a measure would be introduced.

5. The majority of that convention consisted of ministers who go as such, and not as representatives of the churches, and I contend that many of them were unable on hearing such a hasty, and one-sided view of the matter as took place at the Paris Convention to pass a sound judgment on a question involving such delicate and intricate issues as this, and were doubtless largely influenced by the eloquent and learned promoters of the measure.

6. That the promoters of this scheme are not representative Canadian Baptists, and do not understand, and are not in true sympathy with Baptist work in Canada. Their training is foreign, their inclinations alien, and some of them, I believe, not even Canadian subjects; and to say the least, it comes with a very bad grace that, excepting the professional advocate, the measure should have to be supported by those whom rumor says are to be the future grantors of these much coveted degrees.

7. There are only about 20,000 Baptists in Ontario, and the majority of these are women, and the idea of a Baptist university for, say, 5000 male Baptists is too absurd to be seriously considered, and even for 20,000 Baptists is scarcely less absurd.

8. That the mere money guarantee of $700,000 is no assurance as to the status of the proposed university. There may be the greatest abuses notwithstanding. Nor is the extra restriction that the curriculum shall be equal to that of the Provincial University any extra protection, as Baptist examiners will be dealing with Baptist students.

9. No dissatisfaction or even a whisper of [illegible] h has ever been heard against the Provin- [illegible] University by Baptists. Many of our best [illegible] have graduated there, and look on this [illegible] ce" innovation with distrust and dis- [illegible]

RAIN INTERFERES WITH SOME OF THE LEAGUE GAMES.

Toronto Will Play Her Opening League Game in Syracuse To-morrow—Prospects of the Ontario Jockey Club Meeting—Junior Wanderers' Bicycle Club.

BUFFALO, April 28.—There were but two league games to-day, rain at Pittsburg and Washington preventing the opening games in those cities. At New York the Quaker City representatives opened for a defeat, due to the fact that in the seventh inning the Giants gauged Daily and batted for three runs, which sealed the game, as at the conclusion of the eighth play was stopped owing to darkness. Keefe was batted only for scattered hits. Score:

Philadelphia	01000110 x—	3	8	4

At Indianapolis the home club opened its career in the league to-day by a splendid game against the Detroits. The contest was really an old time pitcher's game, which, under the new rules, was rather an unexpected feature. The home club went to the bat and scored the first run. Detroit did not score till the third and helped again in the fourth. At the fifth opening the home club again tied the score and in the seventh Detroit was again one ahead. Neither scored in the eighth, but when the home club put in a single in the first half of the ninth and tied the score again, Indianapolis stock went up. The Michigan sluggers, however, rallied around and scored the winning run without difficulty. Both clubs had in their strongest batteries, Boyle pitching and Myers catching for the home team and Baldwin pitching and Bonnet catching for the visitors. Score:

Association Games.

BUFFALO, April 28.—The association was not more lucky than the league, as only two of its games were played to a conclusion. One, the Brooklyn Athletic game at Philadelphia, was stopped after two innings' play in which the Athletics had scored a run and the Brooklyns were blanked. The Baltimore-Metropolitan schedule at Baltimore was not filled. At St. Louis there was another slugging match with Cleveland, in which the Champions had a decided advantage early, but came near missing the game owing to a terrific batting streak which the Babies developed later on. King pitched for the home club and Crowell for Cleveland. Score:

Cleveland	0 1 0 0 0 5 2 3 0—	11	17	5

At Louisville Hecker went in the box for the home club and his excellent work inspired the home players with confidence. On the other hand the Cincinnatis put Smith in, and he was the nicest kind of a pie for Louisville. They not only batted him hard, but his erratic style of delivery gave them ample opportunity to run up their score:

Louisville	4 1 0 0 3 2 0 1 1—	12	19	3

The Ontario Jockey Club Meeting.

The prospects of the Ontario Jockey Club meeting May 21 and 24, continue to be of the brightest. The Governor-General and Lady Lansdowne will not only be present both days, and the guests of the club at the usual luncheon, but His Excellency has signified his intention of giving the Wilton Cup, the last race on the first day, the winner to have cup or specie, as he may prefer. Several other gentlemen have promised to find a portion of the added money, and it is likely therefore that the club's liberal prizes will not involve them in pecuniary disaster. It is expected that the Street Railway Company will run a dozen of their big buses from the end of their line down to the course. This would be an immense encouragement to intending spectators.

The Junior Wanderers' Bicycle Club.

For some time past a number of young bicycle riders have been agitating the forming of a club for boys, and as there are a lot of young riders in the city, the scheme has met with success, and a club has been formed. On Wednesday last a meeting was called at the Wanderers' club house, a room being kindly loaned for the purpose, and a number of boys were present and formed a club. It was decided to name the new organization the "Young Wanderers," and to admit into the riding ranks none but boys under 16. The fee is very small and any boys who ride and desire to join are invited to correspond with the secretary at 15 Wood-street. These officers were chosen: President, G. H. Orr; Captain, H. Lugadin; Lieutenant, Arthur Welch; Secretary-Treasurer, Jack Lalor; Bugler, H. Dorica. Already several names are enrolled, and as the club intend holding several trips and runs this season, a large membership is expected. This is a first-class move which will cause boy riders to take increased interest in the sport, and prove of great advantage in bringing forward the future record-breakers.

The Canadian Gentlemen's Tour.

Mr. G. G. S. Lindsey has secured the patronage of the Governor-General, and the Lieut.-Governors of all the provinces, for his cricket team's tour in England this summer. Liberal subscriptions were sent by all of these gentlemen. All the team, except Dr. Ogden, will play at Scarbright against the gentlemen of New York. The match there will be of particular interest, as the professional bowlers of the Staten Island and Scarbright clubs will be pitted against the visitors. However, a substantial victory is expected for the Canadians. The fixtures as noted in The World have been finally adopted and no changes will be made. Mr. Annand of Halifax will be as good as Harley; Boyd never intended going, he is an Englishman and there will therefore be no Englishmen on the team. Every courtesy has been extended the team, so that, an enjoyable time is expected. A well-known sporting man said yesterday that the Canadians would win at least two-thirds of their matches. He took the results of the American matches in 1884, and assumed the strength of the Canadians to be, from the last three international matches, at least 25 per cent. in favor of the Canadians as compared with the Americans, so that a comparison of results will show that, other things being equal, the per cent. of matches that will fall to the Canadian gentlemen will be as above indicated. A great deal of money has been wagered in New York that the Canadians will win one-half of their matches, and similar wagers have been made here. Dr. Ogden of Chicago will captain the team. He sails May 28 by the Anchor line. Most of the team will visit Paris, returning home Sept. 18 at the latest, about which time the Ontario Cricket Association has fixed the international match.

The Canadian Wheelmen's Association Guide Book for 1887 has just been issued. Its editors, Messrs. W. Donley and H. E. Tisdale of Simcoe are to be congratulated on turning out such a useful book for cyclists. It contains all the information that one can desire about wheeling, its road reports being especially valuable.

THE AMERICAN EXHIBITION.

Mr. Gladstone Visits it and Expresses His Admiration for Americans.

LONDON, April 28.—Mr. Gladstone and his wife to-day paid a visit to the grounds of the American exhibition and the camp of the Wild West show. A special performance was given for their entertainment. Mr. Gladstone sat and looked on with all the evidence of childlike delight. After the performance he was introduced to Red Shirt, one of the Indians. Mr. Gladstone spoke to him at length, and asked him if he noticed any difference between the English and Americans, or if he regarded them as brothers. Red Shirt replied that he "didn't notice much about the brotherhood." The 1500 workmen employed at the exhibition grounds cheered for Gladstone and Home Rule. Mr. Gladstone and his wife bowed repeatedly in answer to the salutations.

Mr. Gladstone was entertained at lunch by the managers of the exhibition. Col. Russell of Boston presided. Mr. Gladstone, replying to a toast to his health, said, among other things: "The institutions and progress of the United States have always been subjects of great interest to me. Ever since, very many years ago, I studied the life of Washington I became then aware, first of the magnitude of the destiny reserved for the Americans, and second of the fact that the period of the birth of the American States was of more interest than any other it was possible to study. When ever a youth desirous of studying political life consults me respecting a course of study in the field of history I always refer him to the early history of America. God Almighty made Englishmen and Americans kinsmen and they ought to have affection for one another. If they had not, humanity would cry shame upon them. I rejoice that the clouds which once obscured our mutual vision have almost vanished from our political sky and that the future is as bright and promising as the warmest-hearted among us could desire."

A THEOSOPHIST'S TRIALS.

The Troubles Which the New Cult Brought to a Professor.

From the Washington Critic.

Dr. Elliott Coues, the well known ornithologist of the Smithsonian Institution, has for several years been a member of the faculty of the Columbian University here. Of late, however, the Doctor has become impregnated with the doctrine of the theosophists. Although these beliefs are supposed to give even greater consolation than the Christian religion, the Doctor has had nothing but trouble ever since he accepted them. First, he was court-martialled and lost his commission in the army; then his wife got a divorce from him. Now he is compelled to retire from the faculty of the Columbian University, because the management will not permit him to teach theosophy to the students. He delivered an address before them a few weeks ago, which, according to precedent, should have been printed in the college publication with those of the rest of the faculty, but was not. The president, Dr. Welling, refused to print it because of the doctrines it taught, and forbade any further discussion of the subject before the students; whereupon the Doctor wrote an indignant letter resigning his chair. Last of all, he has tendered his resignation as lecturer on anatomy at the National Medical College.

Being asked for his reasons for taking this step, he said to a Critic reporter:

"It seems that my views on religious intolerance, scientific insolence and social tyranny are too liberal to find favor with the old-fashioned conservatism of a Baptist college. The college faculty passed a resolution not to publish the addresses delivered this year, for fear of offending the religious prejudices which I had satirized in my address. But I had already arranged for the publication of the address in book form, and it is now issuing from the press. In maintaining my position it was necessary that I should relieve my colleagues of all embarrassment by resigning."

She Knew Her Answer.

From Harper's Weekly.

A professor in a certain musical college once told me of a pupil who attended his lectures—a young woman from some remote place like Seattle or Los Angeles, who attracted his attention by her extreme devotion to her work, her regularity—in fact, by all that goes to make a pupil "solid" with the faculty. Moreover she was beautiful as the day, with a large and statuesque beauty, as of a strong, full nature, serene, calm, and undisturbed. But, alas! when examinations came and papers were handed in hers was found to be simply impossible. It was evident that behind that Juno-like brow there were no brains. In fact, such a paper was never seen before; even the spelling was ludicrous, while grammar and music were equally injured and outraged in every line. Tears could not move my stern friend, and his report was "not passed." But it was intimated to him that there were reasons why it was absolutely essential that the pupil should graduate, while her knowledge might be acquired afterward. Accordingly, she applied for a re-examination, and the questions were then something like this: 1. Is not the symphony the highest form of purely musical expression? 2. Was not Berlioz remarkable for his mastery of ingenious orchestral effects? 3. Is not Bach called the father of modern music? "And to my astonishment and gratification," said the professor, gravely, "to every one of these puzzling questions she answered, with great perspicacity, 'Yes,' and passed triumphantly—average mark in my class, 100 per cent."

Profit is Profit.

From the Chicago Herald.

The most inveterate scalper that ever operated in the Chicago grain market is Millionaire Hutchinson. A scalper, the uninitiated should be told, is a trader who jumps in and out with rapid deals, satisfied with small profits, and making as few losses as possible. Most operators want to double their money, and many stand for long profits. Not so Hutch. His orders to his brokers are to close out as soon as they can show a profit to his credit.

"What do you mean by a profit, Mr. Hutchinson?" inquired a young broker the other day, on receiving his first order from the scalper.

"Great heavens!" was the rejoinder, "haven't you been here long enough to know what a profit is?" "Yes, I know what a profit is, but I don't know what you consider a satisfactory profit." "A profit," Hutch then explained, "is a profit. Any profit should be satisfactory to a man who isn't a hog. Young man, $50 is a profit—yes, $10, or $5, or $1, or even ten cents. And if you can't do any better, one cent is better than nothing at all. Go along and fill that order, and be sure you earn me a profit, no matter how small." The broker said he had been trading on Hutchinson's account for seventeen successive days, filling several small orders each day, and in all that time he had not made a loss. Sometimes his profits were only sufficient to pay commissions and a dollar or two over, but the old man was always satisfied.

THE FUR SEAL FISHERIES.

The United States Ignore Canada in the Matter in Dispute.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Department of State is carefully considering the question of the jurisdiction of the United States over the Alaskan fur seal fisheries. The statement made in the Canadian Parliament yesterday to the effect that communications on the subject had been sent by that Government to Secretary Bayard is denied at the State Department, and it is said that all of the correspondence touching the fisheries has been carried on directly with the Government of Great Britain. This fact, it is believed, will explain the delay in hearing from the State Department, of which complaint has been made at Ottawa. The United States laws, under which certain British Columbian vessels were seized by the revenue cutter Corwin last season, are more than twenty years old, and the question of a conflict between them and the law of nations is one peculiarly knotty and difficult of settlement. The fact that this question has been raised strengthens the Department of State in its determination to continue to pursue the temperate course it has so far followed in the negotiations with Great Britain concerning the Canadian fisheries. The vast Alaskan fisheries are thought to be quite as important to this country as are the Nova Scotian inshore fisheries and the State Department is necessarily obliged to so shape its construction of the laws and treaties as to preserve the right of the United States to the exclusive enjoyment of the Alaskan fisheries, while maintaining the treaty rights of our fishermen in North American waters. It is held that there cannot be two constructions of the laws; and any position assumed by the Department must apply equally to Atlantic and Pacific waters.

To Erastus Wiman, New York.

From the Montreal Gazette.

Your farmer's letter is too long. You do not seem to thoroughly appreciate your subject. You know you put your foot in it when you talked about the personal interest of the commanders of Canadian fishing cruisers in making seizures of poaching vessels. You had better keep quiet for a few days, if you can, till your last production is forgotten. Canadians read American papers. They know that under your beautiful sugar-coating there is a bitter pill. The farmers of Canada have got their eye-teeth. They are not so wildly anxious for a commercial union as you desire. They are doing very well, thank you, as they are, and won't take any annexation in theirs just now. You know The Toronto World says you are the boss of an annexation bureau, and that you hire Canadian papers to print your manifestoes. You are too double-ended. A man cannot be a Canadian and a Yankee at one and the same time. You know your little racket with the Montreal Telegraph Company did not make the shareholders love you. It was very Jay Gouldish. Jay is a partner of yours, isn't he? His methods are not popular here, though. Neither are yours.

The City's Address to Her Majesty.

A committee of the City Council, consisting of Ald. Baxter (chairman), Shaw, Carlyle (St. Thomas), Frankland and McMillan, held a meeting yesterday to decide upon a jubilee address to the Queen. Ald. Baxter produced from his pocket a foolscap document, which, as subsequent events showed, was the aforesaid loyal address. He read it with pride to his brother aldermen, and they voted it worthy alike of the committee and the Council. Besides the numerous expressions of devotion and loyalty, Her Majesty is informed that an hospital for sick children in honor of her jubilee is about to be erected and called by her name, and her most gracious approval is solicited.

The committee decided to forward the address without submitting it to the Council, and it will be engrossed regardless of expense, "So that the Queen can hand it down to her children," as Ald. Carlyle remarked.

Notes about the Gallant Grens.

Owing to the bad weather last night the parade of the Royal Grenadiers was very weak, only about 200 men answering to their names. The regiment was put through a few movements by the senior major. The recruits' classes were well attended.

The monument to Privates Moor and Hughes is now about finished and will be in its place in Mount Pleasant Cemetery by Sunday week. If possible the regiment will parade on that day to see the memorial unveiled.

The regiment will not leave Toronto on May 24, but will let the citizens see their own soldier-boys in their own city.

The Governor-General will be here, and no doubt the colors will be trooped before His Excellency and the people of Toronto in one of the parks.

U.E.L. Address to the Queen and Lansdowne.

At a meeting of United Empire Loyalists, held yesterday afternoon in the City Hall, it was decided to forward a jubilee address to the Queen, and also to present one to Lord Lansdowne on the occasion of his visit to Toronto. Those present were Lieut.-Governor Robinson, Hon. G. W. Allan, A. McLean Howard, Dr. Canniff, John Playter, D. W. Clendinning, J. C. Dent, Dr. McNabb of Bowmanville, Rev. C. E. Thompson of Carleton, Cyrus Kilburn of Niagara and Dr. Bagart of Whitby. Dr. Canniff suggested the formation of an Historical Society, and a committee was appointed to confer with the officers of the Canadian Institute.

The Baptist College Graduates.

The sixth annual convocation exercises of the Toronto Baptist College were held last night in the Jarvis-street Baptist Church. Rev. Dr. Castle occupied the chair. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. J. B. Kennedy, B.A., H. E. Marder and J. M. Munro, the graduates in the full course. Prof. W. N. Clarke, D.D., made the address to the graduating class, comprising, in addition to those mentioned, these gentlemen, who have taken the English course: Alexander Dewar, W. L. Newton, F. A. Tinkham and T. C. Sowler.

Ald. Macdonald Wants to be Sheriff.

Ald. Macdonald has petitioned the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council to this effect: That if he is appointed Sheriff of the County of York as it was at the death of the late Sheriff Jarvis, without division into two shrievalties, he will pay to the province the sum of $5000 per annum in advance. The act recently passed, he says, does not make the division obligatory upon the Government, and he believes that it would not be in the interest nor for the convenience of the legal profession and the general public that the said office be divided.

The Yearly Expenditure on Parks.

The Property Committee yesterday, with Ald. Irwin presiding, adopted their estimates for the ensuing year. A total of $21,390 will be required for general purposes, while the following sums will be expended upon the various parks: Queen's Park, $5428; Riverdale, $1503; Island, $2916; High Park, $2000; Bellwoods, $3080; Ketchum, $247; Clarence Square, $276; St. Andrew's Square, $415; Bellevue Square, $1685.

Canadian Horses for New York.

This morning Frank Campbell, V.S., will take seven horses with him for the New York market. They are splendid specimens, all half-bred, and ought to bring big prices as hunters and dog cart horses in New York. Four were picked up in Hamilton and three in Toronto. Who pays the duty on these animals, The World inquired. The American purchaser, without a doubt, was the answer.

More Warehouses.

Two new warehouses have started on Bay-street, north of Barber & Ellis' building now going up. Three more are about to be started just west of the new red block on the south-west corner of Bay and Front. Directly opposite and east of the Queen's lawn Warrick & Sons have broken ground for a big establishment.

This is Called "Business."

From the Philadelphia Call.

Bank President: Sorry, but I can't accommodate you; your paper is not good.

Indignant customer: I remember when you were a poor man, twenty years ago, I lent you $1000 without security.

Bank President (pleasantly): I remember the circumstance, and I also remember how I wondered at your greenness. You probably have more sense now, and so have I. Good morning.

THE JUDGE IN BUFFALO.

WHAT HIS HONOR THINKS OF THE BISON CITY WATERWORKS.

How the Department Is Governed—A Model System by Which Every Man Does His Work Well—An Engine That Doesn't Cost Much for Repairs.

Judge McDougall returned yesterday morning from his trip of inspection to Buffalo. In his investigations in the Bison City he was accompanied by Mr. W. A. Foster, Q.C., Mr. J. J. Mason, Hamilton, expert accountant; Mr. H. F. Burrows, stenographer, and part of the time by Ald. Boustead, chairman of the Waterworks Committee

THE SCREW PROPELLER.

The Report of Experimental Trials Made in England.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Naval Department has received from England a report of the results of experiments made with a number of screw propellers applied to the Destructor, a war ship just built for the Spanish Government, that affords valuable data for marine engineers. Seven screw propellers were tried separately on this vessel, beginning with one 7 feet 5 inches in diameter, 9 feet 2 inches pitch, and 14 feet in area, which is about the standard size of screw for a vessel of the Destructor class. The size of the screw was gradually reduced to 7 feet 3 inches and 113 feet area, and the pitch increased to 9 feet two inches, with the result that the speed of the vessel was increased from 21 knots to 22.68 knots, while the engines were able to increase their indicated horse power from 3600 to 3800.

—"Golden Medical Discovery"—the great blood-purifier."

A Compositor's Correction.

From the Philadelphia Call.

There is a certain compositor who has for years been known around the various newspaper offices of this city as a hard drinker. Not long ago he entered the composing room of an afternoon newspaper for the purpose of getting a day's subbing. As usual, he was under the influence of the "rosy." There was a great temperance advocate, and he immediately took the semi-inebriated printer to task about his evil ways. "Do you know what will be the end of it all, Sam?" asked the moralist. Sam looked at his interrogator in a half-dazed manner, but made no reply. "Well, we'll get up some morning and see in the local reports an item like this: 'Found dead in a cell last night, Sam Dash.'" Sam immediately straightened up to his proudest height and said with considerable emphasis and oratorical flourish of his right hand: "Samuel P. Dash, by gosh."

—You need not cough all night and disturb your friends; there is no occasion for you running the risk of contracting inflammation of the lungs or consumption, while you can get Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine cures coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, and all throat and chest troubles. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which immediately relieves the throat and lungs from viscid phlegm.

No Reduced Rates for Actors.

From the Chicago News.

The agent of the Sara Bernhardt troupe Wednesday applied to the Western States Passenger Association for theatrical rates for the company from St. Louis to Chicago. This was promptly refused on the ground that the law prevented any discrimination. A proffer was made of a special train between the two points, but at a cost higher than the rates would be for the company on the regular trains.

—There are cases of consumption so far advanced that Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will not cure, but none so bad that it will not give relief. For coughs, colds, and all affections of the throat, lungs and chest, it is a specific which has never been known to fail. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, thereby removing the phlegm, and gives the diseased parts a chance to heal.

Umatilla Siwashes Remember Their Dead.

From the East Oregonian.

The Indians, about 200 strong, assembled yesterday on McKay Creek, near the county road leading to Pilot Rock, to commemorate the death of a young Indian named Barnhart, who had his feet frozen off several winters ago and died from the effects of it about this time last year. A wigwam about a hundred feet long was crowded yesterday with the friends, memory, consisting of ponies, blankets, money, and other valuables. The mother of young Barnhart, the deceased, received twenty ponies, a large number of blankets, some money, and a great quantity of other chattels from sympathetic friends. Others of the Indians were remembered by their friends also. It was an imposing spectacle to see them sitting around the sides of the wigwam, silent and dignified. In one end stood an aged man calling out the names of parties receiving presents, and in the other end of the wigwam an aged woman repeating his words in a voice which added solemnity to the occasion.

The Supply of Anthracite Coal.

From the New York Sun.

A Philadelphia paper gives the result of some official calculations recently made showing that the total anthracite area of Pennsylvania before mining commenced was 320,000 square miles, and, allowing 1000 tons to the acre, a foot in depth would give 320,000,000 tons; then, assuming the depth to average 30 feet, a grand total appears of 9,000,000,000 tons. At the present time the consumption averages about 60,000,000 tons a year—thus at the commencement of mining operations the supply was sufficient for 320 years.

Enjoy Life.—What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and liver complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as biliousness, indigestion, sick headache, costiveness, nervous prostration, dizziness of the head, palpitation of the heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents Try it. 135

What the Queen Wanted.

One of the first things Queen Victoria did on hearing that William IV. was dead and that she had succeeded to the throne was to call one of her mother's ladies-in-waiting. "Am I really Queen?" asked the excited princess. "You are, indeed, madame," replied the lady-in-waiting. "And I can do what I choose, by right?" continued Victoria. "Certainly, your majesty." "Then get me a cup of green tea. Mamma never would let me have it; now I mean to know what harm it can do me." And the young Queen drank three cups, had a violent fit of the shivers and has never liked tea since.

SEALED TENDERS

FOR PURCHASE OF LAND

Will be received by the undersigned up to

NOON OF THE TENTH DAY OF MAY NEXT,

for the purchase of the easterly and southerly portions of that part of lot 38, in the first concession Township of York, in the village of Windermere, and adjoining High Park (in the City of Toronto), and fronting on the beautiful sheet of spring water known as the Grenadier Pond and Humber Bay and Lake Shore Road or Queen-street. This is a good opportunity for capitalists and others to buy one of the finest properties in the suburbs of the city, having greater natural attractions than many other places which command a high price at present, owing to its proximity to High Park, said to be one of the finest natural Parks on the continent, and its unequaled water front on the Humber Bay for boating and bathing, the beach pier being over a mile long. The suburban trains run to this property; fare all-year round 7c. Street car lines are within one mile, and will no doubt be shortly extended to High Park, which is distant only four miles from corner King and Yonge streets, the centre of the city.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. For further particulars apply to
