HAMILTON NEWS

SOMETHING FOR THE SALOON

Hamilton Clergyman Says It is Well to Look at All the Facts.

WORKINGMAN NEEDS SUBSTITUTE

Assembly Halls or Institutes Should Be Provided—New Opera House Mooted.

Hamilton, Nov. 30.—The temperance situation was handled by Rev. Neil McPherson in St. Paul's Church tonight in a very effective sermon. The reverend gentleman said no sane man defends drunkenness. It is a debasing and horrible vice. He referred to a list of men who had their names in the papers as being opposed to the act, and said there was really nothing in that as no doubt those in favor of the act would publish a list just as long. Legislation could not be enforced when a large portion of the community are opposed to it. Stories told to awake sympathy cannot help the temperance cause. Mr. McPherson made a strong plea for the working man, whose time, he said, is largely spent in badly ventilated work shops, and when a day of discouragement comes, flies to the saloon and is temporarily happy. Unfortunately there is a social fascination about the saloon, and until the social element is acknowledged the temperance question will never be solved.

The speaker said where in Hamilton can a man be so well welcomed as in a saloon? Until we take this up and admit it, and make use of it, the temperance question will still be with us. If drunkenness is banished total provision for working men must be provided, such as assembly halls, institutes, etc. One of the saloon's worst features is that it is in the hands of private men who evade the law, but the druggists are not saints. Will they not be tempted in the same way the saloon men are?

The chief question is the substitution of the drug shop for the saloon.

The speaker urged his hearers to give the matter close attention before registering their votes.

Held a Paper Chase.

The boys of Highfield School held a paper chase at the Valley Farm on Saturday. The gentlemen in charge were: Mayor Hendrie, J H Collinson, E Fisher, Wm Hendrie, jr, J M Harris and E S DuMoulin. In the senior chase the order at the finish was Gwyn, Nordheimer and Stansbury. The juniors finished in this order: Bankies, Stevens and Osborne.

Incline Railway Assessment.

The question of the assessment of the Hamilton and Barton Incline Railway was argued before Judge Snider Saturday. His Honor held that in the technical sense it was not a street railway, therefore a difference will be made as to the mode of estimating the assessment of the concern. F. Mackelcan, K.C., was for the city, and Mewburn & Ambrose acted for the railway company.

Possible New Opera House.

There is a rumor that a new opera house will be built on the site at the corner of Bay and King-streets, where Mr. McGillivray's house stands. The necessity for a larger theatre here is very apparent.

Temperance Boys Parade.

A street parade of small boys carrying banners and suitable mootoes, under the guidance of Rev. W. B. Caswell, was organized Saturday morning. Some of the mottoes were: "Vote for boys, not for beer;" "Vote yes, and protect us;" "Dec. 4 vote yes."

Mrs. Jeffs Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jeffs, a respected resident of this city, died Saturday morning at her residence, 97 Walnut-street. She was in her 66th year, and leaves, besides her husband, Job Jeffs, 11 children. The funeral will take place Monday.

McKinley Let Go.

James McKinley, who was charged with shooting Fred Braund, appeared before the Magistrate and was committed for trial. He was taken before the county judge immediately, and, on pleading guilty to shooting and wounding, was let go on suspended sentence.

Mrs. Skingley was fined $5 or 14 days for not sending her children to school. She did not attend court.

Edward Williams was fined $2 for the same offence.

Opposed to Liquor Act.

A number of the leading business firms, banking institutions and wholesale houses, etc., of this city, have put themselves on record as being opposed to the Liquor Act. They say it is an unwise and impracticable measure, since it permits importation in any quantity from other provinces and countries, and would, therefore, merely transfer the drinking of intoxicants from well-regulated places to disreputable resorts and to the homes of the people.

Almost Asphyxiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoecker and their son, 9 years of age, had a narrow escape from being asphyxiated. About 4 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. Hoecker awoke, and, feeling a smothering sensation, arose and opened a window. This undoubtedly saved the lives of the family, as when daylight came they were in a very weak condition. A defective flue was responsible for the escaping gas. Mr. and Mrs. Hoecker were around as usual yesterday, but their son is still confined to his bed.

Minor Mention.

This evening Rev. Neil McLeckie, B.D., preached a Gaelic sermon at the Central Presbyterian Church in honor of the St. Andrew's Society.

Sanderson's Mountain Dew Scotch. ed

A meeting, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, was addressed by Bishop DuMoulin at Association Hall this afternoon. Several of the city clergy were on the platform, and Col. MacLaren acted as chairman.

To-day was S. S. anniversary Sunday at Simcoe-street Methodist Church. In the morning Rev. J. H. Hazelwood preached. Rev. G. F. Salton addressed the children at 3, and Rev. J. H Robinson in the evening.

FIGHT DRAWS TO A CLOSE

Prohibitionists Closing Their Ranks for Battle at the Polls on Thursday.

FATHER OF REFERENDUM SPEAKS

Rev. J. A. Macdonald Has Not Regretted Having Suggested the Measure.

Before a large congregation in the Metropolitan Church on Sunday morning, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Westminster, assumed the responsibility for the referendum, and said he had not regretted having suggested this means of feeling the pulse of the people. Back of all legislation, he said, there must be a strong moral purpose and a strong public opinion, especially if that legislation deals with the moral habits of the people. The saloon meets a great social need, he asserted, and the speaker left his hearers in doubt as to just what he meant until he was nearly thru with his discourse. Supporting the saloon was the financial interest, the desire for stimulants and the need of fellowship.

Bar-rooms were in the hands of men who were not restrained by conscience, and this was one of the reasons why there was a cry to do away with them. The present act was not prohibitory; he chose to call it a restrictive act. It does not touch the manufacture of liquor, and, therefore, the financial question was not worth speaking of. It simply closes the bar. The present campaign, he said, had thoroly discredited the bar-room. The bar-room was a burden on industry. For the most part it was supported by the wage-earners, and Mr. Macdonald went on to show that industry would flourish if the money spent over the bar were turned into other channels.

After pointing out that the government was constantly spending money on immigration and colonization, he asked would it not be better if we could preserve our own youth?

The treating system came in for strong condemnation. The whole system, whether you indulge in Scotch whisky or ice cream, is a stupid blunder. Good fellowship often means the destruction of the youth. The Liquor Act of 1902 will do away with treating. The act was not the best that could be desired, but it was a long step in the right direction.

Mr. Macdonald was glad that the act must be endorsed by a large percentage of the electors. If, said he, 212,723 electors go out Thursday when the the roads will not be good and vote "yes" on the proposition then no government will be safe in ignoring the wishes of the people. But if the act does not receive the endorsation of a sufficient number the work accomplished will not have been accomplished in vain. He outlined some restrictions that might be placed on the traffic. At least one-half of the bar-rooms, he thought, might be abolished. The make-believe hotels might be prohibited, and those remaining placed under the glare of electric lights. It might mean state control of the traffic, the dispensary system, the Gothenburg system, or the company system. Surely, in Ontario we can make some step in the direction of reform.

Then Mr. Macdonald told what he meant by saying the saloon meets a great social need. It is for those who vote for the act on Thursday to give something in place of the saloon. They must consider the improvement of the home. Look into the dinnerpail of some of the working men and you will see why the bar-room flourishes.

Evis of Intemperance.

"The Evils of Intemperance," was the theme discussed by Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., at the Metropolitan Church Sunday night. The speaker is the secretary for Temperance and Moral Reform of the Methodist Church, and prefaced his remarks by saying that he had attended 44 temperance meetings during the present campaign, and had delivered addresses at all but two of these gatherings. As an evidence of the interest the subject aroused, not an unoccupied seat could be found in the church after 7.30. The speaker declared that the fallacy of prohibition threatening personal liberty was about the only defence those favoring the liquor traffic were making. He felt that the hour of victory had arrived, but in the event of defeat the element favorable to prohibition would arise and continue the fight until success crowned their efforts. The question, "Shall we ever have prohibition?" in the speaker's estimation, had changed to the simpler one of "How soon shall we have prohibition?" Dr. Chown concluded his interesting address with an expression of pleasure over the opportunity he had enjoyed to take part in the crusade against the bar and the license system.

In the course of his remarks, Dr. Chown observed that Tammany, the political organization of New York, was the most execrated civic organization in the world, because it had reduced to a science the making of money out of the vices of the people. In principle, however, he did not think there was any difference between the methods of the New York organization and the license system of this country.

SURE OF SUCCESS.

Rev. J. L. Gordon Claims There Will Be a Moral Victory, Anyway.

"I am absolutely sure that we are going to win," said Rev. J. L. Gordon, in Bond-street Church last night, speaking on "The Question of the Hour." "We have won already. There is more than a possibility that we will poll the necessary 213,000 votes, but we shall any way have won a great moral victory, and if we poll 175,000 votes we shall makes the liquor traffic tremble, for it will be a notice to them that the day is not far off when they must quit."

The progress of civilization demanded the settlement of certain problems, he declared, and the liquor question was one of them. Canada was peculiarly suited by position and population to play a large part in this. He believed, that great problems would be worked out within the borders of this Dominion, and that the solutions of these problems will be held up as examples for all the rest of the world. The liquor traffic was becoming every day more and more monopolistic. "Look over the saloons of Toronto," he said, "and you will find saloon after saloon representing the same institution." The present act he termed the finest piece of temperance legislation ever evolved in the history of temperance. It was broad, shrewd and comprehensive, and carried with it the power of execution. It is the most reasonable proposition ever presented for restriction. It does away with the bar and with treating, and brings the traffic within the home, "and we can leave it to the women to attend to it there," he said. The treating or "setting-up" system was the most upsetting process. It would be enforced better than the liquor people desired, and they are startled to-day to find that the temperance hosts may, after all, "achieve the impossible." The argument of dives replacing the bars had not much force. The average drinker would not surrender his manhood or self-respect to bow his back to go underground for liquor. Most young men were ruined by their generosity. As to interfering with personal liberty, life was a mixture of law and liberty. "If you don't like it here, go to the United States, and if you don't like it there, you can go to Hong Kong or anywhere else." Prohibition had been found effective in the State of Maine, where lived long-headed Yankees, who "looked at a dollar longer and parted with it more lingeringly" than any other people.

SUNDAY AT MASSEY HALL.

Rev. Solomon Cleaver Addresses Thousands on the Referendum.

Massey Hall was crowded to the doors at the meeting of the Canadian Temperance League Sunday afternoon, and many found it necessary to stand thruout the entire service. The chair was occupied by George F. Marter, ex-M.L.A., who said that he felt thoroly comfortable in the position of chairman of a meeting of this character. "Among politicians of one stripe or the other, or with the temperance forces, there was not a discordant note in this contest," said Mr. Marter. "We are all pulling together." As an illustration of the effect of the liquor traffic on the crime of the province, the chairman quoted Warden Gilmour of the Central Prison, who a few days since took a census of the prisoners who were inmates of that institution from the effects of the liquor traffic, and they totalled 65 per cent. of the whole.

President J. S. Robertson referred to the tactics that were being adopted by the opponents of the measure as shown in the advertising matter, that they were circulating, and told of the big posters that the liquor sellers would place on the bill boards so soon as Sunday services thruout the city had been closed, and no opportunity given to refer to them. The league will close their week-night meetings with a grand mass meeting in Massey Hall to-night. The band of the 48th Highlanders will conduct a military concert from 7 to 8 o'clock. The speakers will be Rev Robert Johnston, D D, of London; W W Buchanan of Winnipeg, Rev Dr Potts, N W Rowell, K C, and others. The chair will be occupied by J. S. Robertson, president of the league.

The speaker of the afternoon was Rev. Solomon Cleaver of Sherbourne-street Methodist Church. He said that the fighting forces of the temperance army had been brought well to the front by this contest, and had set themselves in battle array against the arrogance of the liquor traffic and its flagrantly indecent methods. Is it that the bar-room makes men sober and decent citizens that the traffic were to-day fighting against its banishment? asked the speaker. "No," was the reply. It is because there is millions in it for the liquor seller and because this bill means its abolition.

The Liquor Act of 1902 meant the banishment of the bar-room. Its provisions had been crystalized into an act of parliament, and only the voting of "yes" by a sufficient number of the voters was needed to put it in force. Distinct from other liquor laws, no question can be raised as to its validity. The speaker declared it the best framed temperance measure that had been presented to the people.

The law could not be enforced, it was said. Trace this statement to its source and it would be found that it was the liquor sellers who had said so. A prohibitory law was ten times more easily enforced than a license law.

Next Sunday a jubilee meeting will be held by the Canadian Temperance League at 3 p.m., in Massey Hall, when among others the Hon. O. W. Stewart, who created such a favorable impression a fortnight ago, will be one of the principal speakers, and the Beveridges have been induced to remain over to take part in the service.

At 7 o'clock last evening the Beveridges sang in the Elm-street Methodist Church and platform addresses on the question of closing the bars were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Odery, pastor; A. R. Hassard, LL.B., and Mr. J. S. Robertson, president of the league.

HELD UP LAUNDRY DRIVER

Two Masked Men Forced Stephen Joyce to Give Up Contents of Money Pouch.

PURSE SNATCHED IN QUEEN'S PARK

"Curly" Tytler Arrested for Crime—Tilltapper Caught With the Booty on Him.

Two daring highway robberies and one case of tilltapping were reported to the police by the victims on Saturday, and two arrests were made. "Curly" Tytler was caught after he had snatched a chatelaine bag in Queen's Park, and Adolphe Laplante was arrested in connection with the tilltapping. The robbers in the most important of the three cases are still at large.

Laundry Man Held Up.

The police of No. 6 station are investigating this peculiar and startling highway robbery story, in which Stephen Joyce, a laundryman living at 92 Major-street, played the part of the victim. According to Joyce's story he was driving south on Shaw-street near the Bellwoods Park bridges about 9 o'clock on Saturday night when he was held up by two men, both of whom wore masks and carried revolvers. One of the highwaymen stopped his horse suddenly, while the other leaped into the vehicle beside the driver. Revolvers being pointed at his head Joyce offered no resistance, and the thieves with little difficulty rifled his pouch of all there was in it, amounting to upwards of $11. The highwaymen made their escape by running down into Bellwoods-avenue. Joyce immediately communicated with Detective Verney, who is now trying to learn the identity of the daring robbers, but he has not yet made much headway. Joyce's discription of his assailants is very meagre, for the reason, he points out, that they wore masks. He declares that when they stopped his horse and pointed the revolvers at him they talked as if they meant business. Joyce thought the easiest way out of the difficulty was to do their bidding, and he handed over his cash.

A robbery under similar circumstances was committed on Saturday night, Oct. 18, the victim being Harry Bollingbrooke, 20 Sullivan-street, a driver for the Princess Laundry. He was attacked by two men on Bordon-street and robbed of $15, and sustained injuries to his head, which, he said, were made by the butt end of a revolver in the hands of one of the highwaymen.

Arrested for Tilltapping.

The case of tilltapping was reported by Robert Oates, a storekeeper at 752 Broadview-avenue. Oates was in his store when a young man called and said he had been sent by a customer to get some coal oil. While the storekeeper was filling the order the young man leaped the counter and carried off the contents of the cash drawer, amounting to about $10. Oates had County Constable Brown interview the customer mentioned by the young man, and it was learned that Adolph Laplante, a young man formerly employed by her, answered the description of the thief. Constable Brown secured the assistance of Detective Forrest and Laplante was arrested yesterday morning on Church-street with nearly all of the stolen money in his possession. Oates had his till robbed once before, when Laplante was almost a daily visitor at the store. Laplante may be charged with robbing a city boarding house last September if the complainant can now be found.

Snatched Woman's Purse.

Mrs. R. W. Hayter, 238 West Bloor-street, is the complainant in the case of purse snatching. She was walking up the east side of Queen's Park near St. Joseph-street on Saturday afternoon when she was accosted by "Curly" Tytler of Harbord-street, who asked her the time of day. While Mrs. Hayter was taking her watch from her pocket Tytler snatched her chatelaine bag, containing about a $1 in silver and some car tickets, and ran away. Mrs. Hayter followed the man some distance until she met Probationers Latremouille and Thompson. The officers were joined by Policeman Welch (13) and Tytler was run down in the ravine behind the University gymnasium. The chatelaine bag was found in the prisoner's possession.

TURKEY CAUSES DISQUIET.

Acting on Theory That Vigor is Necessary Safeguard.

London, Nov. 30.—There are disquieting rumors from the Near East, where the light seldom shines when races are plotting against one another in congenial darkness. The danger from the revolutionary bands has apparently been averted, but the Turkish authorities are acting upon their old-time theory that rigorous administration is a necessary safeguard.

There are official denials and protestations, but there is evidence of barbarity in the treatment of Christian villagers in the Balkans, with the frequent use of the bastinado and more atrocious forms of torture. The reports of these outrages are probably exaggerated, but the embassies at Constantinople have received details of the high-handed conduct of the Turkish soldiers in extorting information from peasants respecting hiding places for arms and the membership of secret organizations.

A large military force is operating in the districts adjoining Bulgaria and Servia, and the refugees from the mountain villages are crossing the frontiers and relating piteous tales of persecution and injustice. There are forecasts of revolution and rebellion in the spring as a consequence of the atrocities in progress during the winter. The race feuds are irreconcilable, and Turkish rule is ever strenuous and implacable.

CHILDREN WERE INSURED.

Parents of Dead Little Ones Detained by the Police.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—After carrying on for a period of several weeks an investigation into the cause of the death of Annie Williams, aged 9 years, and her 3-year-old sister, Josephine, on Oct. 21 and 22 respectively, the police authorities have deemed it proper to detain the police station the parents of the dead children. The father, John W. Williams, was taken into custody late last night, and the wife was removed to a police station along with her other three small children. Annie and Josephine died of what the attending physician thinks was poison, and so notified the coroner. A chemical analysis, made by direction of the coroner, tended to prove the doctor's theory, and the arrest of the parents followed. It is said the dead children were insured, the elder one for $115 and the younger child for $30. Williams and his wife deny that they were the cause of the deaths of the two children.

Stanley Gun Club's Annual Match.

The two-day annual pigeon match of the Stanley Gun Club was concluded at the Woodbine on Saturday. The pigeons for the tournament were supplied by A. W. Bryan, proprietor Woodbine Hotel, and were an exceptionally fast lot.

The sport opened on Friday with a fine clear day, and no wind, and good scores were made. The strong southwest gale on Saturday made those who had not shot the first day hustle to get into the prize list, and competition was of the keenest until the last bird was grassed. Those who were fortunate enough to win prizes received them at the conclusion of the sport. The first three men were:

Class A, H. M. Sheppard.
Class B, D. Chapman.
Class C, Ald. W. T. Stewart.

Class A, 15 birds—H. Sheppard 14, F Westbrook 14, R. Buck 13, G. Briggs 13, J. Forman 13, J. Williamson 13, C. Burgess 12, A. Dey 11, C. Chapman 11, J. Townson 11, J. H. Thompson 10, A. Hulme 10, A. Stell 10, G. Mason 9, J. Douglas 9, E. Sanderson 9.

Class B, 15 birds—D. Chapman 14, J Lawson 13, F. Martin 12, T. Loudon 12, G. McGill 12, Plunkett 9, C. Ayre 9, H. Townson 9.

Class C, 15 birds—Ald. W. T. Stewart 13, E. Edwards 10, J. Hogarth 9, A. Bond 9, C. Wilson 9.

Mutilated by Ladrones.

Manila, Nov. 30.—The constabulary in the Zambales Province reports a repulsive incident of cruelty perpetrated by ladrones. Several columns of constabularly have been chasing the ladrones with the assistance of friendly natives. Five of the friendlies straggled from the column and were captured by ladrones, who amputated the tongue and gouged out the eyes of one friendly, and then sent him back to the constabulary. The fate of the other four is unknown.

Sporting Notes.

Joe Capron, champion of Canada, and one of the best all-round billiard players in the world, has been secured for a short engagement in Brooklyn this week. Capron is on his way to Paris to enter the championship tournament.

The first annual dinner of the Allied Trades' Leagues will be held at Webb's parlors on Friday evening.

General Sanitary Convention.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The general sanitary convention of American republics will be held in this city during the present week, beginning Tuesday.

W. J. Hendricks of Washington, general manager of the Cerberite Manufacturing Company, is at the Palmer House. He is en route to Sudbury, Ont., where a Canadian company is engaged in the manufacture of the new explosive. Cerberite is used largely in blasting, and the Canadian company expects an enormous business if the new transcontinental line is put thru.

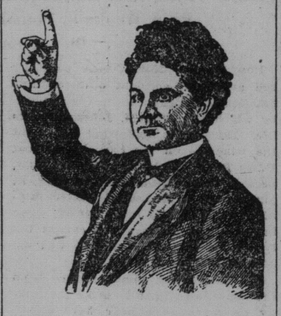
DOES MUNYON'S RHEUMATISM REMEDY CURE?

Fully Ten Thousand Vials Have Been Distributed Free to the Citizens of Toronto.

The Newspapers Will Publish Statements From the People—Testimonials Will Soon Appear—Prof. Munyon Can Refer to Many Thousands Who Have Been Cured.



"The noblest work in which man can engage is the relief of human suffering and the eradication of disease."—MUNYON.

The great free distribution of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is over and the actual test of this remarkable specific is going on at present in over ten thousand homes in this city. It is a supreme test—the most severe and crucial any preparation can undergo, namely, that of benefiting or actually curing this painful disease, and yet Prof. Munyon is positively confident of the result. He knows what his Rheumatism remedy will do—he knows that the tens of thousands of testimonials he has received demonstrate the efficacy of his product absolutely and convincingly.

The greatest victory possible is to overcome disease.

Think of a remedy that will relieve sharp, shooting pains in any part of the body in from one to three hours and effect a permanent cure in a few days.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure doesn't deaden the pain or send it to sleep only to come again, but it drives the disease from the system.

It purifies the blood. It neutralizes the acid and takes all inflammation and soreness away. Have you a lame or aching back or any form of lumbago or sciatica? This remedy will speedily cure it.

For two whole days the great crowds came and went, merchants, mechanics, lawyers, laborers, the man of leisure, the man of toil, all classes of our citizens were represented. Many women, wives, mothers and maidens were in the constantly changing throng.

Faster than the busy helpers could wait upon the throng came the anxious ones asking for a bottle of the Rheumatism Cure.

"I know it will cure me, because my neighbor was cured six years ago and never had a return of his trouble," said one.

"I received a vial the first day and already feel benefited. I want everyone to know what a Godsend it has been to me," said another. "If I continue to improve as I have done in the last twenty-four hours," said still another, "I will be able to throw away my canes." And so they went on.

It has been the greatest revival of excitement the city has ever witnessed and it has been all due to the fact that Prof. Munyon's former promises have been fulfilled and that his Rheumatism Specific does cure the disease.
