BEN SADI'S QUEST.

(AFTER GITTERMANN.)

Ben Sadi wandered many a weary year,
From youth to age, in search of Happiness.
In the king's house dwelt Pride and Show and Fear,
And in the poor man's hovel gaunt Distress.
And, turning from the hovel and the throne,
Where should he wander? In what distant zone
The secret Goddess find? The bitter pain
Of disappointment soured Ben Sadi's mind,
Filled him with sullen temper and disdain,
And unbelief in what he could not find.

It chanced, one day, he wandered through a wood,
Dark and forbidding, like his own ill mood,
When suddenly, between the tangled boughs,
He saw a hoary temple, ages old,
Where earth's first children went to pay their vows
Thick ivory clung in many a sombre fold
Around its columns, and its silent door,
Through which the winds had passed for centuries.
Ben Sadi trod its damp, unechoing floor,
And, fearing wizard-work, was ill at ease;
But, looking round, a little door he spied,
Standing half open, at the farther side,
And just above the door these words were writ:
Here fall no tears, here all are blest;
Enter to Happiness and rest.
With joy he wept, though scarce believing it.
"O blessed hour," he cried, "that ends my pain!
Ye weary, wandering years, not spent in vain!"
He pushed the door; it opened with all ease,
And peering in, and seeing by degrees,
He saw—
—he temple still its secret keeps,
And there, in perfect peace, Ben Sadi sleeps.

—S. S. CONANT, in Harper's Magazine for Aug.

NOTES AND NEWS.

UNITED STATES.

M. L. Sullivan, the great Ford County farmer in Illinois, has this year a single field of 20,000 acres, that will produce over 1,000,000 bushels of corn.

The other day an Ohio judge made out with much formality a set of papers committing an insane person to the Central Onio Lunatic Asylum—which was burned down years ago.

A Louisiana boy recently swallowed a two-bladed jack-knife, and has since felt no inconvenience from it. He is one ahead of Signor Benedetti, who doesn't pretend to digest cavalry sabres and such.

Of course, the man would be crazy who should advise your average baggage smasher to be careful, on general principles. But when it becomes matter of selfish interest to this human fiend such advice may not be utterly thrown away. One of the fraternity at Nashville, Tenn., flung down a box the other day, regardless as it were, and as the contents were not laces and such, but only nitro-glycerine, and the pesky thing recalcitrated, he has turned a short corner towards the theory of taking up tenderly and handling with care. Sic semper tyrannis.

In Philadelphia, on Saturday, information was received by the detective force that Mrs. Charles C. Herring, wife of the carpet dealer corner of Second and South streets, had received an infernal machine containing three pounds of powder. A note accompanied the box, stating it contained some newly patented articles. Circumstances being deemed suspicious, the box was carefully opened without accident, the entire family standing around it. The box, which was a foot long and eight inches wide, was full of powder, on the top of which was run through holes in a strip about fifty matches with heads arranged to almost touch a sliding lid covered with sand paper. If the box had not been cautiously opened an explosion would have injured, if not killed, some of them. Edward Wagner, a son-in-law, has been arrested on suspicion, Mr. Herring is the father in-law of Shuderichte, who murdered his wife last fall and then committed suicide.

GENERAL.

An exchange says: "A century usually produces precisely one great man." Which of us is it this time?

The girl Richards who walked a thousand miles in a thousand hours, in England, did it to earn $250 for her father.

The contributions for religious charities in England for the year 1873 amounted to over $8,000,000 in gold.

The number of female preachers now occupying the pulpit statedly or as supplies is put at thirty-eight.

It is said that more fires occur on Tuesday than any other, because it is ironing day. Why shouldn't Fry-day be as bad.

A young lady wants to know what kind of an animal Barnum's Hippodrome is. She was informed that it was not an elephant on Mr. Barnum's hands.

Wilkins says his girl waved her handkerchief at him as he passed the house last evening. In response he waved his coat-sleeve—which he uses as a handkerchief.

It is said that if the comet's tail were reduced to the density of charcoal, it could be carried in the waistcoat pocket. Let little boys who cry in vain for the moon turn their attention to the comet's narrative.

A miss, upon whose flaxen curls the suns of fourteen summers had shed their fervor, came home the other afternoon, weeping as if her heart would break, and meeting a playmate, exclaimed, in a paroxysm of grief—"O, Dora, we were engaged to be married, and Charley's got the measles!"

A wooden altar, imported for the use of a church, was recently refused free entry because it was not embraced in the meaning of the term "regalia." Neither is Scotch whiskey allowed free entry, and if that isn't "regal-ye," what is?

It doesn't pay to rob henroosts in England, that is if you get caught at it, for one George Smith, a seventy-year old chicken, stole a hen and was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude and seven years' police supervision.

It seems that the Bridgeporter Zeitung doesn't call "Dampfschleppschiffahrtsgesellschaft" a long word, but thinks the long word referred to as coming from its columns must have been "Amazonenstromkettendampfschleppschiffahrstaktiengeellschaftsvoisitzender."

The Windsor and Annapolis Railway Company have just completed and placed on their line 20 new freight and two first-class passenger cars for the St. John express, which will add very materially to the efficiency and comfort of the carrying business on that line. The present management of the W. & A. Company has evidenced a disposition to keep pace with, and even ahead of, the requirements of the times in regard to business and pleasure travel; and the beautiful country through which the road passes is rendered more enjoyable for passengers by the knowledge and experience that the line is in a high state of efficiency.

In speaking of the merciful tendencies of the age, Judy says, "In a short time we may expect the appointment of a committee to inquire into the desirability of abolishing harpoons in the capture of whales, and of substituting silken for hempen cord in the herring fishery."

A St. Paul despatch of July 20th says: Ex-Attorney General Clarke of Manitoba was struck twice on the head with a sling shot last night, in front of the Metropolitan Hotel, by some person to him unknown. This morning, as Clarke was leaving for the East, he was set upon by a crowd of ruffians from Minneapolis, headed by Mike Hay, Chief of Police of that city, who beat and kicked Clarke savagely, and but for the interference of one or two of our citizens he doubtless would have been killed. Clarke was taken into a railroad car and left on the train, but it is feared he is dangerously hurt, being in poor health. Hay was arrested and held for trial. He is one of the Minneapolis party who were imprisoned last year at Winnipeg, for an alleged attempt to kidnap Lord Gordon, and the murderous attack on Clarke is in revenge for his action as public prosecutor.

"I hate shams," said the leader of the Combination one day, addressing the House of Commons. Looks of amazement and ironical cheers greeted the unblushing announcement. Mr. Mackenzie hate shams, while "W." Ross sat on one of the treasury benches and drew seven thousand dollars a year for services which he was incapable of rendering! Mr. Mackenzie hate shams while he condemned coalitions, and yet formed one the moment he was called upon to construct a Cabinet! Mr. Mackenzie hate shams when he claimed to be a loyal subject of Her Majesty, and yet numbered among his colleagues men who have never concealed their enmity to the colonial connection, and their preference for Republican institutions! No wonder the Premier's assertion provoked laughter from the Opposition, and was heard with amazement by his own followers.—Ottawa Citizen.

In London, on July 2, Dr. Lankester held an inquest on the body of Miss Caroline Gough, aged sixteen years. On Monday night the deceased (who suffered from pains in the head) attended an evening party in Brunswick square, and returned home and went to bed. In the morning her maid was awakened by her restlessness, and applied cold water to her temples, which revived her a little, after which some tea was given her, and she apparently went to sleep. Some time after the maid was alarmed at her appearance, and aroused her household, and a doctor was sent for, who pronounced her dead. The post mortem examination showed a rupture of an artery, and extensive effusion of blood on the brain, causing death. The Coroner remarked that it was a pity to say anything against so healthful and pleasurable an exercise as dancing, but it most certainly produces apoplexy in certain cases. The jury returned a verdict accordingly.

The French Country in Canada.

After crossing the Victoria Bridge we frequently read from the car window the sign, "Traverse de Chemin du fer," and we realize that we are in the "French country." We become interested in the oddly built houses, and in the long lines of fences, only a few rods apart, yet parallel and stretching far out of sight. We had noticed the same curious features as we passed down the rapids to Montreal. During the occupation of this country by the French those who had been of service in war were rewarded by the French government with grants of land bordering on the St. Lawrence or its larger tributaries. These grants were termed seigniories, and within their limits all property, real or personal, was affected by the Coutume de Paris of 1666. The seigneurs (or grantees) held in feudal tenure, and to them were owing money and service from the censitaires. In 1855 the law of tenure was done away with, and even realty ceased to be affected by the act above noticed. The original seigniories contained from one hundred to five hundred square miles; the frontage (upon some stream) was narrow, but the depth was great, the proportion being as one to ten. On the death of the father the land was divided longitudinally, the eldest son taking the largest share and the younger sons taking fiefs. When roads were opened in the interior, latitudinal divisions were also made. But successive generations thus divided the paternal acres, and settling down at home, have so reduced the size of the farms that the land is "all longitude," the frontage often being thirty-three and a half feet and the depth two thousand feet, or as one to sixty. This causes the rows of old houses to have the appearance of a village street.

But what can we say of the farms? The poor soil is exhausted, and the whole French Country is overstocked with wretched and shiftless habitants. Thousands of them travel many miles to help the Vermont farmers, or to work in the brick-yards of New England. The summer over, they return with almost the only money they ever see, and which is too often exhausted before they reach home. Their cabins are of squared logs, the chinks filled with mortar; the gables are of sawed boards, and the roofs are of tin or wood. The open summer kitchen is exposed to every storm. Close by the adjoining coru-crib, and making a ladder for the rats, stands the ponderous cart, with wooden axles and double springs of the same material. Within call is the small-bodied but large-limbed "French horse," originally from Normandy, and as his master drives him he will first deal a blow, and then you will hear "Avaunt! Ah! pauvre cheval! vous avez un bon maitre!" The shaggy brown and white dog, unlike any other of his species also appears. It is well that these animals can subsist on little, and that little of the coarsest kind; for their masters have nothing more or better to give them. Besides onions and potatoes, pease form the chief diet; and so common is this staple that "pea-soup" is used derisively as a noun or adjective. Poultry and salt perk are the more substantial dishes, and the only meats on their bill of fare. Yet they have one luxury—the boudin or "blood-pudding." A fine pig is selected, the throat cut, and the blood allowed to drop into a pan; an old woman adds flour and other things, as experience suggests, and stirs the whole until it becomes cold. This delightful compound is then baked, and those who have eaten of it say that it is excellent.

Tobacco is not a luxury but a necessity with these people. After raising and curing it, they twist it into rolls like a Bologna sausage, and smoke the strong and filthy stuff in short clay pipes.

In person the habitants are small, and have the regular features of the French. If any beards are worn, they very thinly cover the face. Upon their heads are hats with narrow brims or caps without visors. Their clothing is of coarse woolen stuff, called "French gray." In cold weather several pairs of stockings cover their feet, which are then thrust into moccasins, or immense boots without heels, secured by a strap over the instep. For merely wet weather, or for standing on the ice, wooden shoes (sabots) are used. In personal habits cleanliness seems to be unknown. Small-pox prevails to an alarming extent. The language they speak does not arise to the dignity of patois. Even when French is spoken entirely, it has the English construction and idioms. They are poor, but seem to be happy, especially in the enjoyment of their numerous holidays, the number of which they ever strive to increase. On saints' days processions are formed, and all lookers-on are expected to uncover the head and kneel as they pass with banners and images.—From "On the Boundary Line," by F. G. Mather, in Harper's Magazine for August.

THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 23.

Importance of the Board of Trade.

The action of the Dominion Board of Trade is regarded, throughout the whole country, as expressive of the view taken of the Brown propositions, miscalled a draft treaty. by the industrial interests of Canada. The vote given in the Board of Trade room in the Maritime Bank Block killed that proposal so dead that nothing but the whip and spur of a patronage-giving and power-wielding Ministry can galvanize it into life. The Commercial Parliament of Canada condemned Geo. Brown, Alex. Mackenzie and their offers to the Washington Cabinet, and the politicians who worship the Grit phalanx are offended and ridicule the Board and its doings in every possible way. One of the office-seekers writes himself a letter describing the members of the Board as lawyers, lecturers, etc., for the purpose of creating the impression that the Dominion Board of Trade is not a good representation of the commercial and industrial interests of the country. Another sneers and sneers again in a way that displays a wonderful faculty of falsifying without resorting to direct lying. And thus the work goes on.

Perhaps these worthies will admit that the great Toronto dailies have what Murat Halstead boasts of, "a nose for news." How do they regard the doings of the Dominion Board of Trade? What is George Brown's estimate of the importance of the meeting? The answer is given in the length of the telegraphic reports received by the Globe and Mail. special reports of two columns and a half and two columns and a quarter in length. Their columns are long and their despatches were not stretched out by display heads. A two column and a half report by telegraph to George Brown's paper, on the proceedings of Saturday's session, shows how important the Dominion Board of Trade is considered. This is a sufficient answer to all the sneers of disappointed politicians. The greatest commercial body of the United States sends delegates from different business centres, the great newspapers of Ontario and Quebec send special reporters, one of the greatest papers of the metropolis of America sends a representative, reports of over two columns in length are telegraphed in reference to the proceedings of one day, an invitation is received to send delegates to the Commercial Parliament of England, and yet we are told that the body so honored, so reported, so watched, is an insignificant collection of small politicians and meddling lawyers and lecturers.

Tilton's Worst.

Mr. Theodore Tilton has blown his blast against the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher at last, unequivocally charging him, on oath, with having seduced Mrs. Tilton from the paths of virtue, and asserting that Mrs. Tilton and Mr Beecher both made confession and asked and obtained his forgiveness. The statement is supported by extracts from the letters of Mrs. Tilton and Mr. Beecher, just as the false charges against Sir John Macdonald were supported by garbled documentary evidence, and the explanation to be given by Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton may effectually dissipate every particle of the proof adduced. One thing is certain, and that is that it will require more than Theodore Tilton's oath to outweigh Mr. Beecher's statements in a matter of this kind, as Tilton has shown himself capable of lying only as a black sheep in the Christian fold or a Grit politician seeking an office can lie. Having undertaken to destroy Mr. Beecher's moral life this assassin will not stop at so trifling a matter as false swearing. He seems to be actuated with the same spirit that has animated those in every age who have struck down the leaders of men, only he stabs the reputation and not the body. It is hard to believe that Mr. Beecher was guilty of the crime charged to his account, and only his own confession or better proof than has yet been offered will make the world believe it.

Mrs. Tilton's statement must be allowed weight in this controversy. The Brooklyn Eagle says of it, and the statement has the semblance of being authoritative:

It may be interesting for the public to know, in a general way, how Mrs. Tilton appeared, and what she said when she gave her testimony. It should be understood beforehand that two of her intimate personal friends were with her on the occasion, and that we violate no faith in reproducing this matter, as neither Mrs. Tilton nor her friends make any secret of what she said or did.

As soon as Mrs. Tilton came into the room in which the committee were sitting, without waiting to be asked anything, she at once began her story.

She said that she experienced a sense of relief to find herself before an authorized tribunal to which she could safely speak the truth and the whole truth. She had, she said, too long forgotten herself in this trouble; that she had all along believed that no one who knew her personally would believe wrong of her, and she had, therefore, trusted herself to her reputation, and had in everything exerted herself to save Theodore, if possible.

She affirmed solemnly that her husband alone possessed her heart, her affections, and she should then and always do all she could to bring him back to the path of right. When Theodore first brought home and showed to her a copy of the Golden Age containing the reply to Bowen's letter, she told him on the spot that she could not stand by the statement made therein; that the intimations that there had been anything wrong between herself and Mr. Beecher were not true.

Mrs. Tilton further said that she revered and respected Mr. Beecher, as they all knew. She was then asked directly by the committee whether anything improper ever occurred between her and Mr. Beecher of any sort, kind, or description, in the nature of criminal intercourse, or any suggestion of any such thing, and she answered with great firmness "never." She said that the whole trouble, so far as she was concerned, arose from the perversion of a conversation which she undertook to repeat to Theodore as having occurred between Mr. Beecher and herself.

Further on this head no details were given or asked for, and it is understood that should it be necessary Mrs. Tilton will again go before the committee and give further particulars in this connection.

Mr. Beecher, our New York dispatch of to-day says, is out in defence of Mrs. Tilton, pronounces Theodore's statements unqualifiedly false, and postpones entering on his own defence. It would seem, to common people, that Mr. Beecher should give a clear and simple explanation of the correspondence that Tilton has published, a frank admission of any acts or words of his that could have been interpreted in a bad sense, and a direct denial of the crimes charged to him. Does he court notoriety and delight so much in being the central figure of so great a public scandal that he desires to keep up the mystery as ong as possible? How much longer will he pursue the policy of reservation? How many more times will he open his lips only for the purpose of adding to the mystery? People are ready and willing to acquit him if he will only give them a statement of facts on which to rest their faith.

The Reformed Episcopal Church.

The fact that Rev. Mr. Feltwell was invited here by a committee, and the whole animus of his discourse last evening, show that this is the beginning of a movement for the formation of a congregation of the Reformed Episcopal Church in St. John. Mr. Feltwell's appeal to evangelical Episcopalians to leave the "old body" was as earnest as the appeals of revivalists to sinners to repent. The ease with which every ritualistic rector has carried his points, even in churches where ritualism had been unknown, has angered and disheartened a large minority, and it only requires a little more pressure for the establishment of ritualistic uniformity to cause a numerous secession. It is hard for people to abandon the churches which they and their fathers have helped to build and endow, but "to this complexion must it come at last." The new Church seems to have taken a firm hold in the United States, and it is evidently destined to grow large as the Established Church grows ritualistic. Mr. Feltwell follows the example of the politicians at the last election—frightens his hearers about the danger of being swallowed up by Rome—and may possibly be as successful in achieving the work to which he has devoted himself.

One of the hardest charges yet made against the Dominion Government is that Rev. Mr. Bill's expenses on his European tour are paid by the Government, Mr. Bill being nominally an emigration agent.

A Westmoreland scandal case has come to a "most lame and impotent conclusion." Mr. Foster sued Mr. Curry for language used, and learned counsel were engaged on both sides—W. J. Gilbert and F. A. Morrison for plaintiff, and A. L. Palmer and D. L. Hanington for defendant—and a great forensic battle was expected. Mr. Foster, however, concluded that he did not want more than a shilling's worth of indemnity, and Mr. Curry, honestly believing that he had bestowed a full shilling's worth of epithets on Mr. Foster, withdrew his plea and consented to a shilling judgment against him. Each party pays his own costs.

Halifax, we must candidly admit, is ahead of St. John in many things. At Murray's Circus, now performing there, a youth stationed himself near the entrance to the tent and took the tickets of those who attempted to re-enter after being out for drinks between the acts. He was fined $10 or 50 days' imprisonment.

The English Church on the Road to Rome---"Come out of its Ranks and Save Yourselves and Your Children"---"Satan at the Sanctuary with a Showy Ritual."

Rev. Mr. Feltwell, of the Reformed Episcopal Church at Moncton, had rather a small audience at the Institute last evening. He is a dark, small-sized man, and is evidently earnest to the verge of fanaticism in all he says. The lecture was read from sheets, which he would often hold up between himself and his audience, and occupied an hour and a half in delivery. There was no praying, singing, benediction, or speech of introduction.

The lecturer began by saying that, by the grace of God and and at the invitation of a committee, he would address the meeting on the present state of the Episcopal Church in Great Britain and America. The necessity for the formation of the Reformed Church arose immediately after the issue of Dr. Pusey's work, a work that has been extensively circulated, and had a baleful influence. At the last meeting of the Evangelical Alliance the movement for the formation of the present Reformed Church began. God set his seal on it, and he might say that it embodied the spirit of the Alliance. It was gratifying to notice the spirit that animated those who met to form the Society. If any doubted that the work was of God they should be assured by its rapid spread. Surely this work is not ours—it is of God. We have laid down several broad positive and negative principles. The Reformed Church adheres to Episcopacy, but not as of God, and a liturgy. It condemns erroneous and strange doctrines, and teaches that regeneration is inseparably connected with baptism. The Apostles' Creed, except the words "descended into hell," is retained. On these words some clergymen of the Established Church found prayers for the dead. Some of these clergy follow strange doctrines, insidiously inculcating ritualism—the corrupting and soul-destroying doctrines of Rome. No true Episcopalian will remain in a church governed by Ritualists and High Churchmen, when God has opened a way of escape. Every effort to escape the Ritualistic yoke had been in vain. Evangelical ministers had petitioned to be allowed to omit certain passages that they could not conscientiously subscribe to, and had been refused. They had prayed that some restriction might be put on the Ritualistic millinery, gymnastic and Romanizing practices of some, and no word of condemnation had been uttered by the House of Bishops. The High Church party vote with the Ritualists against the Evangelicals, and thus control the Church, so that Evangelical teachers are forced to leave it. A clerical friend had been instrumental in rearing several churches on an Evangelical basis, and every one of them is now in the hands of the Sacerdotalists. Is it not time, then, for rebellion? The symbols with which some churches are adorned are wrong and an insult to God. The Reform Church has only two sacraments—Baptism and the Lord's Supper. We say take and eat this bread, take and drink this wine, thereby precluding the possibility of a sacerdotal interpretation. We regard the sacrament as a mere remembrance of Christ, just as Christ intended We do not attempt to base our acceptance of Episcopacy on an unbroken line of Bishops. The Episcopal Church has been too exclusive, and should long ago have recognized the work of grace done in the churches sneeringly termed sectaries. It claims to be the oldest church in Christendom and is at a stand-still in comparison with the societies it despises. The Church of England in these Provinces has been gradually losing ground. This was the hot-bed of the Episcopal Church, and there was no lack of funds, but her light is going out, and her career will soon be ended by a wholesale desertion or a union with Rome. Look at the number of Episcopalians who join the Catholics annually in England. Look at the petition of a number of ministers for the union of the Church with Rome. Is is not time for reform? The Reformed Episcopal Church alone can save Episcopalians. The Bishops are not the successors of the Apostles. Their office ceased with their lives, and there is no Scripture to support the belief that their powers could be delegated to others. An Episcopacy was adopted as a form of Church Government. Some Presbyters were elevated above others to the position of overseers or Bishops. Every city had a Bishop who had a congregation of his own, and the change to the present position of Bishops was gradual. It had been seen that Bishops could not be successors of the Apostles, for had not 700 Bishops assigned to a human being the attributes of Christ? If the Evangelical body is a helpless, hopeless minority, as is said, is t not time for this minority to come out from the tyranny of those who preach the Apostolic succession? We love the Church of England in its purity. We will not give up her incomparable forms of worship. We had been told to go into some of the sects, but that would please the Ritualists too well. We took the Prayer Book with us, expurgated it of Roman seeds, love it more than ever, and are Episcopalians still. We have been convinced, we are convinced, of the errors which certain parts of the Prayer Book countenance, and we have begun to use the Prayer Book Scripturally revised, and we now glory in the enjoyment of a sense of religious liberty that is the birth-right of every Episcopalian. In a ministry of fifteen years in the old body he had never been so happy as he is now. He no longer had to act a part. He no longer had to preach doctrines of which he did not wholly approve. The simple and majestic service of the Church had been transformed into a Ritualistic service—the voice of Jacob put into the mouth of Esau—and monasteries, veiled women, incense, etc., formed parts of the drapery of the false doctrines. Even auricular confession has been put in practice, the priest being a second master in the household—a master to whom the husband and father are inferior. He had heard of strange practices that obtained in Canada—of some that he would not mention. He read extracts from Ritualistic works, teaching the real presence and other Romish doctrines in the plainest language. One of the books from which he read was presented to a lady in his parish by the son of one of our highest dignitaries. Give the Ritualists time and our sons and daughters would soon be led to adopt these practices. Do come out from such influences for the sake of your children. But if you will not leave the old church look after your children, and be careful that they are not corrupted, when out of your sight, when attending the church and Sabbath school. The catechism is more important, in shaping their belief, than the whole mass of other theological literature. It has come to pass, even in Canada, that designing men have taught children doctrines that were conceded from their parents. One reverend doctor has declared from the pulpit that Protestantism is a failure, and the lecturer would accept the statement if the Church of England and the Episcopal Church of America were all of Protestantism. But, thank God, they were not. Protestantism had given the world free speech and religious liberty. An owl had allowed him to approach, in the day time, until he could almost grasp him, when he flew away with a wink of his eyes that seemed to say that he thought daylight a failure. Our people are educated to Roman doctrines by degrees. Why is it that all the perverts to Rome are from the Church of England? It is because the step from England to Rome is short. Protestantism or Romanism is clearly the issue before us in Church and State. He had lost all hope of the old Church, and begged those who were in it with their children to seek safety while it was not too late. Be not deceived by promises of relief from the Romanizing tendencies in the old Church. Read the speeches of the American and Canadian Bishops, and the doings of the Synods, and is there a sign of reformation? Episcopalians have not the power to remedy the evil. They must sit and listen to false doctrines. Many had left and joined other churches. Bishops admitted themselves unable to discipline Ritualistic "priests." Every layman who sits under these false teachings and gives of his substance for the support of those who practice Ritualism, is aiding in the work of sending recruits to Rome. Satan goes to the Sanctuary as an angel of light, and with a showy Ritual leads men from the worship of the Creator the worship of the creature, but the hosts of God are prepared to fight against the errors of the Churches of Rome and England, and the exclusiveness of some other churches. It will be well for us to remember that this divine breath of God will arouse thousands who are not children of God, and it is our duty to see that a right direction is given to their action. Christ Jesus, our Saviour, is the only remedy, the only cure, for the evils that afflict us. As Luther says, "Those who attempt to blow out God's fires only blow the ashes in their own eyes," and the lecturer read extracts from Bishop Johns' letter to show how this applied to that dignitary. The lecturer closed by devoutly forecasting the time when God's children will be one people, with one doctrine.

New Schoolhouse.

Portland has, at last, begun the construction of the schoolhouse near the Valley Church, a foundation for which was laid a year or so ago. The injury done to the exposed masonry has been repaired, and the work is to be pushed rapidly forward. It is an ambitious structure, 60x70 feet, and rather large for the locality. It is to be two stories high, with a French roof, and contain 10 school rooms and an exhibition hall. Each room will accommodate fifty pupils, the building accommodating five hundred in all. The work is to be done under the superintendence of Messrs. McKean & Fairweather.

City Police Court.

Margaret McCranke, a soiled and solitary woman, sat in the seat of the sinner, this morning, looking penitent and ashamed, a look she has learned to know is useful when before the Court. She was charged with lurking in an alley off Brussels street and failing to give a satisfactory account of herself. She hung her head and covered her face with her hand, although it would be hard to believe that one so hard-looking could have a vestige of womanly shame, and said: "I was not drunk." The officer who made the arrest stated that he saw her in the street late at night, loafing around, and advised her to go home. About 2 o'clock he "saw her and another fellow" go into an alley, and followed them in. They disappeared in the buildings, and, after a search, she was found in a hall. At first she said she lived there, and when he was going to rouse the people and enquire she said she lived elsewhere. So he decided to bring her to the Station. The magistrate, on enquiry of the Chief, learned that she had not been under arrest before since she got out of the penitentiary, and discharged her with some good advice, counselling her to remain at home nights instead of running the streets.

Yesterday afternoon Edward Barker, charged with assault on Martin Collins, was sentenced to two months' penitentiary, and Caroline Treadwell, charged with assaulting Mary Thompson, was allowed to go on payment of costs.

Portland Police Court.

Daniel Lafferty, drunk on Main street, also a common vagrant, fined $4, or 10 days jail.

John Shea, drunk on Main street, fined $4, or 10 days jail.

Samuel Scribner, who assaulted and battered Wm. McKinnon, was fined $10 for the exercising of his muscle in an unlawful manner.

"A rather heavy case," said Squire Tapley, when a little boy named George Segee gave evidence against Joseph Gormley and Abram Hector as being the ringleaders in an assault and battery committed upon him while going after his cows. Gormley said he didn't strike Segee, he was only acting as referee in the fight, but Segee's honest face spoke to the contrary. Gormley was fined $4, or 10 days jail; Hector was discharged.

Andrew Young and Catherine Durnion were found by the police, drunk, in the bushes out by the rope-walk, last night, about 11 o'clock. Fined $6 each.

The Lordly-Hatt case will be resumed this afternoon in order to take the evidence of the Rev. gentleman who united Mr. Lordly and Mrs. Hatt in marriage.

DISRAELI ON THE STATE OF EUROPE.

The Lord Mayor gave a banquet tonight to Her Majesty's ministers, at the Mansion House.

Mr. Disraeli in answering a toast to the Ministry, said that no one was able to view the state of Europe with complacency. Every one must deplore the anarchical condition of some of the most favored countries of Europe. The friendship of England was never more sought for by the leading powers of Europe and America. England would use her influence in the interests of peace.

Mr. Disraeli repudiated the principle that the country was not to be held responsible in the many questions which might arise abroad affecting the fortunes of the world.

He believes the influence of England might now be most effectively exercised to reconcile discordant and distant interests. She may assist distracted countries with sympathy and counsel, and resume a position worthy of her former prestige.

THE FRENCH SITUATION.

MacMahon has given his formal disapproval of M. Perier's constitutional bill, and the Left, in case this bill is rejected in the Assembly, Thursday, will move the dissolution of that body. MacMahon says he is not in favor of a monarchy or empire, and the law which created the septennate still less imposed upon him the task of constituting a definite Republic.

THE SPANISH CIVIL WAR.

The Republicans have defeated a detachment of Don Alphonso's army in the province of Cuenca, in which 700 prisoners taken at Cuenca were delivered and eight officers of Don Alphonso's staff captured.

The property of Carlist residents in Cuenca has been seized to indemnify the relatives of those killed during the siege.

The Carlists shot 160 Republican prisoners at Olot.

The Government has ordered a contribution to be levied on the partizans of Don Carlos.

NEW YORK, July 23.

BEECHER SPEAKS.

Mr. Beecher declines to enter at present on his own defence, but devotes his statement to a defence of the honor of Mrs. Tilton, though he stigmatizes Tilton's derogatory statements as unqualifiedly false.

AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC has arrived, and is now ready for delivery, gratis, by our druggists, to all who call for it. Our readers may be surprised to know that this little pamphlet, which has become so much a favorite in our section, has quite the largest circulation of any one book in the world, except the Bible It is printed in many languages, and scattered through many nations, as well as supplied to almost the entire population of our own vast domain. Every family should keep it, for it contains information which all are liable to require, when sickness overtakes them, and which may prove invaluable from being at hand in season. If you take our advice, you will call and get an AYER'S ALMANAC; and when got, keep it.

A BACHELOR'S CONSOLATION.

A Romance of the Needle.

BY ROCKAFELLOW.

I.

In a snug little cot, not a thousand miles off,
Lived a lonely, contented old "bach,"
Who cooked his own grub and dined by himself,
And had no one to sew on a patch.

II.

With his cat, and his dog, and his little pet mouse,
Our hero, 'twas said, wanted nothing;
But needles were sharp, and would frequently prick stick,
Those oft went with holes in his clothing.

III

There no doubt were misses and maids quite near
Who would fly to relieve his distresses,
But he oft had declared he could never abide
The appearance of hoopskirts and dresses.

IV.

Now, this lucky old bachelor heard by a friend,
Or read in his morning journal,
Of the wonderful stitching of sewing machines,
And considered the matter nocturnal.

V.

Having fully determined to get a machine,
He spent a whole day in inspection,
For an hour or so would never suffice
To select from so large a collection.

VI.

For some thought the "Wheeler & Wilson" the best,
And others the "Wilcox & Gibbs,"
While others affirmed that the agents of both
Were too much inclined to tell fibs.

VII.

And a few for the "Florence" were ready to fight,
While most liked the "New Family Singer;"
Another one swore the "Osborne" was best,
The last one, I think, was a shaker.

VIII.

So first to the "Wheeler & Wilson" he went,
Where he found them making a shirt,
At the end of each seam they used needle and thread,
And by experience he knew they would hurt.

IX.

Then down to the agent of "Florence" he went,
And told him the part that was slack,
So the "Florence" a certain advantage had gained
By the feed that could make it sew back.

X.

But our Bachelor friend was dissatisfied still,
For the "Florence" so complicate seemed,
He feared the minutiæ might "get out of fix,"
And could never be wholly redeemed.

XI.

Then they told him another advantage they had
Over other machines in the West,
That four different stitches with it they could make,
And from four he might sure get the best.

XII.

Our hero replied, "What's the use of the our!
If one of the stitches is best,
Why that is the right one to use all the time,
And what will you do with the rest?"

XII.

The "Howe" and the "Wilson" both vainly he tried,
The "Domestic" and "Osborne" as well,
But the "Howe" was too heavy, the "Wilson" too light,
And the "Osborne" broke down on a fell.

XIV.

The "Finkle & Lyon" or "Victor" he tried,
The "Ætna," "Elecs," "Leavitt" and "Weed,"
Till worried and vexed with his fruitless research,
He scarce hoped in the end to succeed.

XV.

After trying in vain many other Machines,
Without any hope of success,
He called where the "Singer New Family" was kept,
And they quickly relieved his distress.

XVI.

For here half a dozen machines were engaged
In stitching of different sorts,
Which they did so complete, and with so little noise
He acknowledged the truth of reports.

XVII.

In lightness of running, in stillness and speed,
In construction so simple, yet strong,
Sure none but the "New Family Singer" would vie,
Though he'd searched through the infinite throng.

XVIII.

Then the stitch was so neat, so elastic, so strong
That he vainly endeavored to break it,
And so many advantages in it combined
That he quickly decided to take it.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL — PURELY — DR. WALKER'S — CALIFORNIA — VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.
