East London Happenings of a Day

MANAGER KING TELLS A GOOD ONE

Head of the Street Railway Was Fishing Once—in Michigan.

Manager King, of the street Railway tells of a unique fishing experience he had in Michigan some time ago.

Mr. King was enjoying a day's fishing during his summer holidays.

The lakes in that region swarm with all kinds of fish, among them a very game species of pike.

He had cast out his line several times, using minnows as bait, but getting few bites, he had relaxed his vigilance.

Suddenly he felt a jerk on the line, and a big pike leapt out of the water in an effort to free himself.

Mr. King played his catch, allowing him to run out, then slowly reeling him in, in an effort to tire the fish.

Finally, when Mr. King had him about ready to land he discovered that his prize had escaped.

Sorrowfully he drew in his line to re-bait it, when to his amazement he saw the small minnow securely fastened to the hook.

The perch had been telescoped by the big pike, but, Jonaslike, had been coughed up again.

Evidently the pike was willing to lose a meal to avoid making one.

INTERESTING CASE IN EAST LONDON COURT

That of Gales Vs. Mackay, in Which Judgment Was Reserved.

A case involving a rather nice legal point was heard before Judge Elliott this morning in the East End division court.

Mrs. Ruby Gales, of Grey street, sued Henry Mackay, also of this city, to recover $60 damages for the removal of some outhouses from her property on the Hamilton road. Judgment was reserved.

Mackay was a tenant of Mrs. Gales', and when he decided to move he took with him some small buildings, claiming he had a right to do so under an agreement with the former owner of the property now owned by Mrs. Gales.

The buildings included a barn and a small shed. The barn Gales tore down, and the shed he moved bodily from the place.

J. C. Judd for plaintiff; E. T. Essery for defendant.

Another case of interest, on account of its character, was one in which A. H. Yerex sought to recover some $90 on a butter, eggs, milk and bread account from Mr. and Mrs. Jones-Iken. The plaintiff was awarded $78 40 and costs, and Mrs. Jones-Iken was declared a non-defendant.

The defendant had withheld payment on the account, claiming that plaintiff had taken possession of $35 worth of his furniture as security, and had refused to return the same. The counter claim was dismissed.

J. Macpherson for plaintiff; U. A. Buchner for defendant.

In all there were about 25 actions tried.

STORM SEWER FOR EAST END NEEDED

Would Cost $7,000—Ald. Rose Tells Why It Is Wanted.

At the meeting of the city council tonight the fate of the proposed storm-sewer for the East End will be decided.

The estimated cost of the sewer is $7,000. This may be struck off in order to bring down the tax rate.

Ald. Rose is very much in favor of the sewer. A drain is badly needed in that direction as the water during the winter made it necessary to close several factories for days at a time.

"The money expended in clearing the ditches in the East End would pay for the storm-sewer in about three years," said Ald. Rose.

"A bending factory on Horton street found it necessary to close down for over a week during the last winter. The water flooded the ground floor."

"The $7,000 would build a good sewer, the streets would not be flooded in the spring, it would not freeze, and many damage suits and threats of damage suits would be avoided."

The sewer will, if built, run on either Maitland, William or Adelaide streets.

ALD. ROSE SPEAKS OF CARLING'S CREEK

Tiling Depends Entirely on the Council Meeting Tonight.

"Whether Carling's Creek is tiled at Egerton street this year will depend entirely on the outcome of tonight's council meeting," said Ald. Rose, this morning. "If the council allows the $800 to stand in the estimates, the creek will be tiled immediately. If not, the work will be laid over till next year.

"We promised the residents of Egerton street last year that we would do the work if possible.

"The creek is in a very bad condition and should be tiled this year."

EAST END NOTES.

Mr. Albert DeWolfe, Montreal, spent Easter Sunday with his parents in the east end.

Things are very quiet around No. 2 fire hall these days. There has not been an alarm since April 14.

The work of putting in connections for the side-drains on Ottaway avenue sewer was completed yesterday.

Roy Oates, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Oates, of Eva street, is very low, having undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Men are at work today getting the baseball diamond at Queen's Park into good condition. The East End League season will open there Saturday.

Ald. Parsons was in St. Marys yesterday afternoon on business. While there he met the London detectives, who are working on the Moir case. The detectives had not seen Moir then, but were hot on his trail.

Among the Canadians who registered at the high commissioner's office in London, England, recently were Will H. Hayman and Edward C. Hayman, of East London; L. Downey, of Woodstock; V. Wells, Mount Forest; Willard Hopkins and Silas Hopkins, Niagara Falls, and F. Harley, of Guelph.

School Board Cuts Off Twelfth of Mill

In response to a request from the city council the board of education at a special meeting held yesterday, cut off $2,000 from the estimates presented at the last meeting of the board.

This amounts to about one-twelfth of a mill reduction on the tax rate.

Of the amount mentioned, $1,000 is represented by a saving of fuel, contingent with the installing of economical systems of heating in the Chesley avenue and St. George's schools, for which the council will issue debentures.

The new portion of the latter school already contains a modern system of heating, but the old section does not.

The issuing of debentures for the new seats in the Lorne avenue school cuts off $450 from the estimates, and the remaining $550 is represented in extra salaries for extra teachers in the Model school, which Inspector Edwards declares will probably not be needed.

In connection with the model school it is felt that the opening of the Stratford Model school, and the new Normal school there will fill all wants in that direction.

Those present at the meeting were, Chairman Graham, Trustees Westervelt, Weekes, Hamilton, MacRobert, Teasdall, Fitzgerald, McCormick and Granger.

Body Will Be Shipped To Springfield

Directions have been received at the Tecumseh House to send the body of Mr. Charles R. Babeuf, the Chicago traveler, who was found dead in his room at the hotel on Sunday evening, to Springfield, Ill.

The message was signed by the Oliver Typewriter Company, for whom the deceased was acting.

The body will be expressed this afternoon.

Inquiry at the Tecumseh House today failed to elicit anything new regarding the cause of Mr. Babeuf's death.

Coroner McLaren was also very reticent when questioned, and stated that nothing could be given out until Friday night, when the inquest will be resumed at the central police station at 8 o'clock.

Heart Failure.

It was learned that in all probability death was due to heart failure and not suicide, as was thought possible.

It has been learned that Mr. Babeuf worried greatly over the actions of his wife, whom he is alleged to have stated had eloped with a Hebrew traveler some time ago, while he (Babeuf) was away on business in Canada.

Dr. George D. Wilson, who made the postmortem, refused to make any statement as to the cause of death.

Writ for Damages Against D. McIntyre

A writ for unstated damages was issued today by Mr. U. A. Buchner, on behalf of Mr. Robert Henderson, of Carling street, city, against Mr. Daniel McIntyre, of Dorchester.

Mr. Henderson was out driving on the 17th of last September, when his horse became frightened by an automobile being driven or controlled by the defendant, and ran away, causing the plaintiff to become badly injured.

The accident took place near Frank's school house on the third concession of Westminster Township.

FUNERAL OF LATE DR. HUGH M'COLL

Remains of Widely-Known Physician Interred at St. Thomas.

The funeral of Dr. Hugh McColl was held from the family residence, 40 Askin street, this morning, and was of a private nature. Interment was made in the family plot in St. Thomas. The services were conducted by Rev. J. G. Stuart, assisted by Rev. Dr. McCrae, of Westminster. A deputation of citizens from Lapeer, Mich., where Dr. McColl lived, were present, and brought on behalf of the citizens of that place a heartfelt message of condolence to Dr. McColl's mother and sister. The Lapeer Medical Association, of which Dr. McColl was formerly president, also sent a message of condolence. From the church to which Dr. McColl belonged in Lapeer came a beautiful pillow. The pallbearers were Rev. Wm. Gauld, of Formosa, China; D. D. Elliott, Gavin Rowat, Alex. McQueen, Thomas Bayley and Donald Ferguson. Among others attending the funeral were Messrs. McLennan, Williams and Loder, of Lapeer, Mich., and Sheriff Middleton, of Hamilton.

PEOPLE ARE MUCH WORKED UP

Wyton, Kelly's Siding, Rebecca, St. Marys, Stratford and other points, but none of them were found to be true. Chief Williams declared that he had received not a word from his men since they left early last night.

Mistook Him for Moir.

A soldier at the barracks, who is tall and has a small black mustache, had an exciting experience this morning.

He lives outside the barracks, and while going into a neighbor's yard the woman screamed, mistaking him for Moir.

As soon as she discovered her mistake, she apologized, saying that she had heard so much about Moir that she was alarmed.

At the Barracks.

At Wolseley Barracks the shooting affair is still the chief topic of conversation among the men. They are very much exercised over the occurrence, and discuss it at much length.

So far very little new information has been divulged about Moir and his habits.

"He was not a regular," said one of the men today. "He was atached to the Medical Corps, and consequently we had little to do with him. Moir was acting as orderly to Col. Belton, and as a result was out of the barracks much of his time. He never fraternized with us, Pte. Morris and Pte. Clarke being the only two men who seemed to know much about him. From what most of us saw of him, there was nothing to lead us to believe that he would commit such a crime."

Didn't Have Fits.

"It was stated that he was subject to fits, presumably epileptic fits. Did he have any while in barracks?" was asked.

"Not a one, as far as I can remember," said one of the soldiers.

"He was healthy, and there seemed to be nothing of that nature, so far as I can learn. I have talked with nearly every soldier in barracks, and not one of them has heard anything of that at all. It must have been some other sickness than fits, I fancy."

ROUNDING UP BURGLAR GANG

tion Company. These men are still in jail, pending another arrest. If it is not made they will be sentenced this week. All are young men, and several of them have police court records. Large quantities of copper wire were stolen from the traction company, but most of it has been recovered.

A Daring Gang.

Recently a gang of more than usual daring has been entering private homes and have been fairly successful.

The most daring attempts that they are known to have made are those on the homes of Mr. I. Quick, on Colborne street, and of Mr. Bedggood, on Horton street.

At Mr. Quick's home they entered through a bedroom window, and apparently watched the family through a partly-open door while ransacking the bureau drawers. So quietly did they work that no one ever suspected that anyone was in the house. It is believed that one of the men must have hidden under the bed for a time, as mud stains were seen there later. It was not until Miss Quick entered the room that the fellow jumped through the window and made good his escape in the darkness. Tim Sullivan, who was arrested last night, is believed to have been one of the men concerned in this robbery and there is the strongest evidence that he was implicated in the robbery at the home of Mr. J. Raymond, 442 King street, as he had disposed of some of the jewelry stolen, but a little while before he was arrested. He and Johnston, who was found guilty of stealing from Mr. Bedggood's residence on Horton street, are believed to have been pals. Johnston walked coolly past Mr. Bedggood after rifling his house, while the family was down town on Saturday night. Fortunately Mr. Beddggood quickly discovered that his house had been broken into, and by prompt work, overtook the thief and pointed him out to the policeman. When arrested Johnston denied everything, but Mr. Bedggood's property was found on him, and he could give no explanation of how he came by it.

A Parsonage Entered.

It was stated this morning that a Methodist personage of the city was entered on Sunday night while the pastor and his family were at church, and that a sum of money had been taken. The family, when asked regarding the matter, stated that as far as they know their house had not been entered. The affair had not been reported at the police station.

MOIR'S ROSS RIFLE IS ADDED

case against Brown absolutely certain.

"We have plenty of identification of Moir, and he cannot escape."

Armed to the Teeth.

As would be expected, all the officers are armed. The majority of them have revolvers of the latest pattern, and are all dead-shots. With only his revolvers, Moir is at a greater disadvantage than if he had his rifle with him.

There will always be two men against him, perhaps more, and in that case there can be but one ending, death or capture.

Moir's Trial.

In case Moir is captured, the trial will take place at the fall assizes.

The adjourned spring assizes will take place on Saturday next, but as there is only one case to come before it, the Moir case cannot be tried. The coroner's inquest will take some time, and the preliminary investigation will also take some days. He will then come up at the fall assizes, to be held early in September.

The warrant for Moir's arrest is simply an ordinary warrant for the arrest of Pte. William Alexander Moir on a charge of murdering Color-Sergt. Harry Lloyd, and is sworn to by Sergt. Gilmour, of Wolseley Barracks.

Protection for the Officers.

This warrant is really a protection for the officers, in case of Moir resisting arrest. Without a warrant, the officers could not shoot, if he resisted arrest. With a warrant he can be shot if he resists.

This difference was brought vividly to the attention of Londoners in the case of Maida Brown.

Many citizens, among them being Rev. Dr. Johnston, claimed that P. C. Toohey had no warrant for Brown's arrest, and therefore Brown could not be charged with murder in killing, but at the worst, merely manslaughter, punishable in that case with imprisonment for twelve years.

A prisoner can demand that a warrant be produced, and it is to protect the officers that the precaution has been taken.

There are no such warrants calling for the arrest of a man "dead or alive."

The latter instructions are given in cases of extreme urgency, such as this.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Methods.

"Why does not the police department have a pair of bloodhounds?" said a police officer this afternoon.

"They would have been just the thing in a case of this kind. Had they been placed on the trail after the shooting, say, within an hour, there would have been no trouble in running Moir down.

"There was plenty of material to give the hounds a start, as all of Moir's kit was in the room. It would have been a very simple thing to have run down this murderer.

"They are being used with splendid results in the United States and are a terror to criminals. The latter have a sort of stuperstitious fear of the dogs, and very few criminals run amuck and shoot when the dogs are after them. A sort of primitive fear seizes them. The dogs do not cost so much money, and would be a very valuable asset to the police department."

New Advertiser Story

The Advertiser will begin a new story on Saturday. It is "The Crimson Blind," by Frederick White, and is a well written tale of love, mystery and adventure, by one of the most popular English authors of today.

Easter Dance.

The Easter dance given by Messrs. Dayton & McCormick at the Palace Academy last evening, proved a most enjoyable affair. The Academy was crowded with guests and the orchestra rendered a very popular programme. The last April hop will be given next Friday evening.

Music and Merriment.

A most enjoyable entertainment under the auspices of the Cadets of St. Mary's Church, East London, will be given in St. Mary's Hall on Wednesday evening. The evening promises to be one of music and merriment, as besides a play, an excellent programme has been arranged. The cadets expect to have new uniforms very shortly.

MOIR SHED SOLDIER'S CLOTHES

be a comparatively simple task. There many eyes would be looking for the murderer of Color-Sergt. Lloyd. There would be great vigilance exercised, and it would not bel ong until the betrayal of Moir would come.

Caught in London.

Not so long ago, a colored man shot another in Pittsburg, and got as far as London, where he was captured, and is now about to be tried for his crime.

The dogged, quiet man hunt in the country is hard. There is so much space to cover, so great an extent of territory to cover that the hunt becomes despairing.

However, the London officers are not afraid of difficult tasks. They rather relish them, for they have always shown to becided advantage when up against the game when it is hard.

The London Officers.

Last night five stalwart figures with blue caps and long coats could be seen heading towards the Grand Trunk station.

In the pockets of their overcoats there were ominous bulges. From the top of each pocket protruded the butt of a revolver.

These were no common revolvers, but the best.

Detectives Nickle and Egelton possess two of the most modern Smith & Wesson 44-caliber revolvers, guns that shoot accurately for a great distance, and true. In a little bit of gunplay with these officers, Moir would not have an enviable job. Both are marksmen of more than usual excellence. "Shorty Billy" Doyle was riddled with these guns.

Took a Freight.

There was not a passenger train to be taken to the scene of the hide-out, so the officers took a freight.

They left here shortly after 11 o'clock, and arrived in St. Marys at an early hour this morning.

They immediately picked up the trail, and thoroughly covered the ground between there and Stratford. They walked all the way and made inquiries as to the whereabouts of Moir.

No evidence that he had been seen after Sunday afternoon was discovered, and as there are many railroads leading from the Stratford district, the hunt becomes rather puzzling.

Moir is getting rid of his soldier clothes rapidly. He discarded his cap at Wyton. This morning it was stated that he had got a raincoat, thus adding to his raiment.

Amusements

"The Barber of Seville," Rossini's famous old opera, was presented before a very small audience at the Grand last night by the Dunsmure-Van Den Berg Grand Opera Company.

All the voices were excellent, and the acting was of a high order.

Madame Monti-Baldini, the well-known dramatic soprano, sang the leading role of Rosini, and she was excellent.

Mr. John Dunsmure, formerly of the Bostonians, sang the part of Bosfito, and his rich, powerful bass charmed his hearers. It is a voice of tremendous volume, perhaps the purest bass ever heard in the Grand.

Mr. Edward Le Hay as Bartolo was excellent, as was also Roman Kleko as Figaro.

Between the second and third act, Jacques Kimberger rendered a violin solo, which created a sensation, and he was compelled to give two encores.

"Ma's New Husband."

"Ma's New Husband," billed for appearance at the Grand tomorrow evening, is a three-act farce comedy with music with a most original story and extremely amusing characters. The plot deals with the lovemaking of a widow and a brokendown actor, who, in order to tide over their difficulties, pose as mother and son. She is assisted by a wealthy cousin, in whose home all the complications arise. The cousin engages a tutor for the supposed boy and with other guests in the house to add to the complications, the fun waxes fast and furious. Among the musical hits introduced are "A Kiss," "A Quiet Little Game," "Jokes," "Get Your Tip From Me," and "The Professor."

George Primrose Minstrels.

The attraction at the Grand Friday evening will be George Primrose and his big minstrel company, which is said to be the grandest and most elaborate in the world, and judging from the list of comedians, singers, dancers and musicians associated with Mr. Primrose, it is safe to say that this is no idle boast. Theatergoers of today will not content themselves with the minstrel performances that have been presented in the past, consisting of a few ordinary musicians, singers and vaudeville acts. Mr. Primrose being aware of this fact, has therefore selected the best vocal talent in the country, as well as an operatic orchestra of picked musicians, also the greatest comedians and dancers in the minstrel world.
