BRITANNIA
LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY,
No. 1, Princes Street, Bank, London.

CAPITAL—ONE MILLION STERLING.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 5 Vict., Chap. 9.

REDUCED RATES OF PREMIUM—HALF CREDIT RATES OF PREMIUM.

THE great and decided success which has attended this Institution, has induced the Directors to REDUCE the RATES originally required in British North America, to the ordinary European Rates. The result of such Reduction is to enable parties to avail themselves of the important benefits to Life Assurance at much lower Rates of Premium than those of any other Assurance Company transacting business in Canada.

The Directors have also resolved to extend, to British North America, the advantages afforded by the HALF CREDIT RATES of PREMIUM which have been so highly approved, and are so generally adopted by Policy Holders in the United Kingdom. The most liberal conditions are likewise offered to the Assured, in the limits in which they may proceed by sea or land, to other parts of North America without affecting their interest in their respective Policies.

ERASMUS R. FOSTER,
Resident Director.
London, January 1, 1847.

Napoleon and Pius VII.

[The materials for this interesting sketch are taken mostly from Alison, Thiers, Lamartine, Michelet, Capefigue, Bourrienne.]

At the autumn of 1804, the Court was at Fontainebleau. The Consulate, for ten years, passed to the Empire, with the consent of all the Orders of the State. The Senate, by a decree, declared the First Consul to be Emperor of the French; and the people, to whom the question of succession had been referred, had, by a majority of three millions to three thousand, decided that the imperial dignity should be hereditary in his family. History, as Alison observes when recording the fact, affords no instance of a nation having so unanimously taken refuge from the ills of agitation and anarchy under the cold shade of despotism.

A new order of things having commenced, all, as may easily be imagined, was in a state of transformation and change in the composition of the Court, as well as in the arrangements of the Imperial Household. Under the Republican regime, a great degree of simplicity had prevailed in the appointments of the various Departments of the State, as well as in the domestic economy of family circles; it could not, however, be called unpretending; there was a certain affectation in it, evidently assumed with a view to contrast, even in minute particulars, the system of the Republic with that of the old Monarchy—the plainness of the one with the profuseness of the other. But this was not fated to last long; it had already been giving way under the Consulate, and was now disappearing altogether in accordance with the views of the new Monarch. Titles and dignities were to be restored; Court formalities were to be revived; ancient usages, and ancient rules instituted. The old nobility sprung from the feudal system, and dating, as some of them did, from the Crusades, having been swept away by the revolutionary storm, their places were to be supplied, as supporters of the Throne, by a new race of men. During this period of transition and change, the movement of the chateau was unceasing. Arrivals and departures were taking place almost every hour, to which very different degrees of importance were attached. One arrival, however, was spoken of, as having a more than ordinary interest; it was that of the dignitary who, as it was then understood, was to place the Imperial Crown on the brow of the new Sovereign. "To recall," observes Alison, "as Napoleon was anxious to do on every occasion, the memory of Charlemagne, the first French Emperor of the West," the Pope had been invited, with an urgency which it would not have been prudent to resist, to be present at the consecration, and had accordingly crossed the Alps for the purpose.

Whatever may have been the views which originally prompted the invention—whether it was to play a mere secondary part in a Court pageant, or a leading one, as the public at first supposed—or whether such notions were swept away by some new deluge of ideas, as Chateaubriand somewhere says:—"It is now pretty clear that the presence of the Pontiff at the ceremony was a matter of consideration, and that the real motive was that which came out in their interview, as will appear in the sequel." Be this as it may, it was evident to all that the Emperor awaited his coming with impatience; and when his approach was announced—though preparations had been carefully made for their first meeting—the arrangements were such as to give it an air of impromptu. It was on the road at some distance from Fontainebleau that the Emperor met the Pope; the Potentate alighted from his horse, the Pontiff from his travelling chaise, and a coach being at hand, as if accidentally, they ascended its steps at the same moment from opposite sides, so that precedence was neither taken nor given. How Italian the artifice!

They had not ridden long together when Bonaparte, quitting the coach, got on horseback, and returned to the chateau at a gallop, with scarcely an attendant. The drum beat to arms, the guard turned out; but before they had time to fall in and salute, he had alighted, and was mounting the steps of the vestibule.

It was always so with him; he gave such vivacity to all his movements, such energy to all his actions, that speed seemed a necessary condition of his existence. Still, so natural was it to him, that it did not wear the semblance of hurry. Scarcely had the beat of the drum been heard at the gate, before the clatter of his heels resounded in the hall, as the flash of a cannon precedes the report.

This time, however, he hesitated, artful and even agitated. On entering the saloon, he paced it like one who waited with impatience. Having taken a few turns from one end to the other, he moved to a window, and began beating a march with his fingers on the window frame. The rolling of a carriage was heard in the court, he ceased to beat, and after a short pause stamped on the floor, as if impatient at seeing something done too slowly; then stepping hastily to the door, opened it—it was for the Pope.

Pius VII. entered alone; Bonaparte closed the door after him. The Pope was tall, but stooped somewhat; his countenance, elongated and sallow, wore an expression of suffering, which seemed to have been induced upon a habitual tone of elevation and courtesy. His eyes were black and large, and on his lips, which were slightly opened, played a smile indicative at once of urbanity and benevolence. He wore on his head a white calotte or headpiece, partially covering his hair, which was naturally black, but now blended with some silver locks; on his shoulders he had a camail or cape of red velvet, and his long robe reached to his feet. Those who have seen his portrait by Lawrence, though taken ten or eleven years later, will recognise at once the correctness of this description. As he entered the room he moved slowly, with a calm and measured step, like that of an aged female; and having taken his seat in an arm chair, he turned his eyes towards the floor, and seemed to wait for what the other Italian was going to say.

Bonaparte, as all know, was short in stature, being below the middle height; but in all other respects he was, at the period here referred to, very different in personal appearance from what he became subsequently. Far from having that fullness which approached to corpulence—that sallow puffiness of cheek which verged on the unhealthy—or that heaviness of limb, or general obesity, which threatened infirmity—he was slender in frame, but firm and well proportioned; yet there was something which indicated premature wear, by hardship in the field and toil in the cabinet; he was quick and nervous in every movement, rapid and almost convulsive in his gestures when excited. Still he could be as easy and graceful in attitude and elegant in manner. Even then he stooped a little, so that his shoulders inclined forward, which gave something of fullness to his chest. His face was thin and elongated; but what a forehead! What eyes! What beauty in the contour of his intellectual visage! In repose, its habitual expression was reflective and concentrated, with a strong trait of melancholy.

Bonaparte ceased not to pace the room after the Pope had entered. After a while, slacking his curve somewhat, and having taken a turn round the chair, as if making a reconnoissance, he stopped short, and resumed the thread of the conversation which had been commenced in the carriage, and abruptly broken off.

"I repeat, Holy Father, I am not an esprit fort, nor do I like wood-cutters or iconoclasts. I assure you that, in spite of my old Republicans, I will go to mass."

These words he turned off towards the Pope, as if he were giving him a dash of the incense box; then paused to observe their effect. He seemed to imagine that, after the impieties of the Republican regime, such an avowal ought to produce a decided effect.

Pius, however, remained unmoved; he continued, as before, to look steadily downwards, and pressing firmly with his hands the angle-bones that tipped the arms of his chair, seemed to have assuming the fixity of a statue, to say, "I must submit to listen to all the profane things which it may please him to say to me."

Seeing this, Bonaparte took a turn round the room, and another round the chair, which stood in the middle of it, appearing but little satisfied with his adversary, and still less with himself for the tone of levity with which he had resumed the conversation. He at once changed his manner, and began to speak more composedly, still remaining standing. As he passed to and fro, he glanced at the solemn and venerable figure, and relaxed the grave visage of the Pontiff, gazing him now and then in profile, never in front, in a kind appearing anxious as to the impression his words may make.

"One thing I must say, Holy Father, hangs heavily upon me; it is, that you seem to consent to the coronation as constituting an objection to the concordat. As you sit there before me, you have the air of a martyr, and assume an attitude of resignation, as if you were making an offering of your sorrows up to Heaven. But surely you are not a prisoner; such a yoke your position in any sense; grand Dieu! you are free as air."

Pius smiled and looked him full in the face. He seemed to feel how enormous was the exigence of that despotic character, which requires—and all such natures do the like—not only obedience, but submission, absolute submission, and that, too, wearing the air of devotion to their will.

"Yes," continued Bonaparte, with increasing energy, "you are free, perfectly free; you may return to Rome; the road is open to you; no one detains you."

Pius sighed, slightly raised his right hand, and looked upwards without uttering a word; then slowly inclining his head downwards, stopped to look attentively at a golden cross which hung from his neck. Bonaparte continued speaking, but his steps became more [illegible] and his tone had a marked degree of mildness to his tone, and of courtesy to his expression.

"Holy Father," said he, "if the gravity of your character did not forbid me, I would say that you are somewhat ungrateful. You do not seem to retain a sufficient recollection of the services which France has rendered to you. If I am not much mistaken, the Conclave of Venice, which elected you, appeared to have taken its inspiration from my Italian campaigns, and from some words which I let fall with regard to you. It cannot be said that Austria behaved well to you; far from it; and I was really sorry for it. If my memory does not deceive me, you were obliged to return to Rome by sea, as you could not have ventured to cross the Austrian territories."

He stopped short, as if waiting for a reply from his silent guest. Pius, however, but silently inclined his head, and then sunk back into a sort of apathy, which seemed inconsistent with even listening; whilst Bonaparte, putting his foot on the rim of a stool, pushed it near the Pope's chair, and thus continued:—"It was, in good truth, as a Catholic, that such an incident gave me pain; for though I have never had time to study theology, I have great confidence in the power of the Church; it has a prodigious vitality. Voltaire did it some damage in his time, but I shall let loose upon him some unfrocked oratorians; you'll be pleased, if I mistake not, at the result. Now see, you and I may do many things in common by and by, if you wish it." Then, with an air at once juvenile and careless, he continued—"For my part I do not see—I am weary of conjecturing—what objection you can have to establish your Seat in Paris, as it formerly was in Avignon. I will cede to you the Palace of the Tuileries; I seldom occupy it. You will find there your apartments prepared for you; at most, you need but think yourself indispensable to me, and fill up your fund in consequence, as you drape yourself in your old dame's robe—I'll have you to know that such sins do not in the least impose on me; and if you permit me, of course, I'll deal with your robe as Charles XII. did with that of the Grand Vizier—I'll send it to you with a dash of my spur!"

He ceased. Throughout this tirade Pius maintained the same immobility of attitude, the same intent on his lap. At its close, however, he just looked up, smiled with something of bitterness, and signed as he slowly articulated the word, "Ecce ancilla Domini!"

Bonaparte at that moment was at the further end of the room, leaning on the chimney-piece. Suddenly starting at the word, and turning round, his whole person seemed to dilate, and his features to expand as passion rose within him. His look became fixed, and his eyes flashed; then with the impetuosity of an arrow he rushed towards the old man, as if with some fell purpose. But he suddenly checked himself in the middle of the room, and contented from the table a [illegible] chair, which he placed in a position opposite the unfortunate old man, and threw himself on it and in utter exhaustion. It would be difficult to say which was the more astonished, the spectator of rage, or his immediately subsequent object of it.

In some minutes the storm seemed gone; [illegible]

THIRTY-NINE PAINTINGS, as follows:

Edinburgh, Scene of Sentimental Fiddler, by Thos. Jones Barker	£120 0 0
"Round him rush the people crying, 'Tell us all, oh tell us true!' Where are they who went to battle, Randolph, Murray, sworn to you? Where are they, our brothers, children? Have they met the English foe? Why art thou alone, unfollowed? Is it weal, or is it woe?" Like a corpse the grisly warrior looks from out his helm of steel; But no word he speaks to answer, only with his armed heel Chides his weary steed, half urged up the city streets (hey ho!). Fathers, sisters, mothers, children, shrieking, praying by his side. 'By the God that made thee, Randolph! tell us what misfortune hath come?' Then he lifts his clown bassnet, and the saker's voice is dumb!"

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

DR. HALSEY'S FOREST WINE.

FROM the late earlier and great success, this Wine is fast becoming the universal medicine among every class of people. Hence on the most reliable testimony for general Debility, Nervous Affections, Consumptive Decline, Complaints of the Kidneys, Heart, Lungs, and, there all, for diseases arising from impure Blood and taints in the System, certainly numbers of the Medical Faculty have sanctioned and advised the use of it.

After S. B. STANLY, a celebrated Physician, in a letter from Princeton, New Jersey, dated November 16, 1849, declares that he will take occasions he had never seen anything to call his attention to the Forest Wine and Pills, and he then time selected several cases of Constitutional Debility and Scrofulous Affections which it cured in an incredible short time. Among the members of the Medical Faculty of New York, who have witnessed the great results of the Forest Wine, and recommended it in numerous cases, will be found the names of the celebrated Dr. M. T. Goodman, Dr. S. I. Mott, Dr. L. Cruzenman, Dr. Collins, Dr. William Brown, Dr. Marvin, Dr. J. M. Nielson, and others.

TESTIMONY of Johnson Barber, a highly respectable citizen of Waverly Place, New York:—

Dr. G. W. HALSEY:—DEAR SIR,—I esteem the Forest Wine as the King of Medicines. It has done for me in five weeks which Medical Physicians failed to do in as many years. In 1845, I became a victim of the Heart Disease and Nervous Affections, which have been growing on me ever since, until I became just the Forest Wine and Pills, at intervals I had tried several hundred dollars for medical advice. During the last two years I was obliged to keep my house nearly all the time, and I gave up business in consequence of my ill health. I had nearly lost all hope of recovery, my complaint was of that close order which "nature shrinks and life lay into a burthen." Seeing your Forest Wine advertised I concluded to give it a trial, and before finishing the third pint I felt like a different person, and was able to resume business again, entirely cured, by taking five bottles. For the benefit of those afflicted with similar complaints you are at liberty to publish this. Yours, &c.,

JOHNSON BURKE, Waverly Place, N. Y.

HEMPSTEAD, Dec. 1, 1847.

Dr. HALSEY:—A bottle of your Forest Wine and box of Pills, which I procured of Mr. James Civil, (your Agent for this place,) has done cures for me. I had been for a year or upwards of a year, afflicted with a distressful cough, pain in the breast, general debility, and loss of appetite. I became almost a skeleton, and had been unable to leave my room for more than two months; my friends thought I had the Consumption, and despaired of my recovery. I could not obtain any permanent relief from any medicine I had taken, or any physician; until your Wine and Pills were procured. The first dose of the Pills brought up from my stomach much phlegm and greenish matter, and my appetite began to return immediately, my cough left me, and in less than two weeks I was almost well. I now enjoy better health than I ever did before, having increased twenty five pounds in seven weeks. Your Forest Wine and Pills are highly valued in this vicinity, and I owe my recovery entirely to their virtues. Yours, respectfully,

MARTIN CALDWELL.

The following Certificate, voluntarily given by Mr. E. G. Massey, a respectable and well-known citizen of Cohoes, New York, is an evidence which must have all doubt of the great efficacy of the Forest Wine in GENERAL DEBILITY, REGULAR AFFECTIONS OF THE SPINE AND KIDNEYS:—

This is to certify, that I have used Dr. Halsey's Forest Wine in my family with the most decided success. My wife was badly afflicted with Neuralgia, or Pain in the Spine and Kidneys, and general Debility. She found speedy relief, and restored her health, by the use of the Forest Wine.

I can speak from knowledge of the excellent medicine, and cheerfully recommend it for the good of others who may be suffering with similar complaints. If any wish to call on me with which the accompanying complaints, or who are afflicted with the above, or any similar disease, may safely rely on its virtues.

Cohoes, March 6, 1850. E. G. MUSSEY.

More Testimony from Cohoes.

Dr. G. W. HALSEY:—DEAR SIR,—My wife last autumn was reduced to a low state of Debility. My family Physician advised her to take your Forest Wine. Accordingly I went to Mr. Terry's agent for this town, and procured a bottle of it, which restored her in a very short time to perfect health.

HENRY DONALDSON.

Cohoes, April 18, 1850.

The testimony of upwards of three hundred individuals, some of whom were afflicted with dreadful disturbances, and considered incurable, may be seen at Dr. Halsey's principal Office. The following are some of them residing in this city:—

Mr. Aaron S. Smith, 167, Prince Street, Office in Wall Street, was long severely afflicted with a disease of the kidneys and bladder. The best medical skill endeavored to purpose. He tried the Forest Wine, and it met his case, and he was completely cured by the use of four bottles and a box of the Forest Pills.

Mr. Jacob Bell, Merchant, in Pearl Street, was for four years a martyr to severe Rheumatic pains, and could find no relief until he used the Forest Wine and Pills, and recovered by taking six bottles and less than a box of the Pills.

The remarkable efficacy of the Forest Wine is very striking in the case of the Hon. S. I. Brown, of Virginia, who was cured in a few hours' time of a severe attack of Bilious Diarrhea and general prostration of bodily energy. On the arrival of this gentleman in New York in March, he was so weak and nervous, from the effects of his illness, that he could not write, and required assistance to enable him to write his name. The Wine was sent for, and he recovered by the use of less than a bottle of the Wine and a single dose of the Pills.

The Forest Wine and Pills are recommended as an efficient and certain cure in all the following complaints:—

Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Piles, Dropsical Tendency, Bilious Diarrhea, Nervous Headache and unhealthy Color of the Skin, Remittent, Ague and Fever, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Complaints incident only to Females, Languishing Weakness, Night Sweats, Hectic Disorders, General Ill Health and Impaired State of the Constitution.

☞ General Depot for Halsey's Forest Wine, No. 251, Grand Street, New York. One Dollar per Bottle, or Six Bottles for Five Dollars. Twenty Five Cents per Box for the Pills.

For Sale by Wm. LYMAN & Co., and all respectable Druggists.

HALSEY'S CURE-ALL.

THIS Article is a delightful Aromatic Liquid, of extraordinary powers for the cure of Dyspeptic Complaints and painful Disorders.

Such is its virtues in the cure of Rheumatism and Gout, originating from Fresh Wounds, Agues, Chills, and Old Rheumatic Affections, that incurables have been permanently cured by its use in an incredible short time.

The most excruciating suffering, caused from Burns, Scalds, Bruises, and other accidents, are at once relieved by it, and entirely cured in a few days' time.

The most acute and painful Toothache is cured by it in a few minutes.

Swelled Face and Sore Throat, produced by bad colds, are quickly relieved by its use.

It is highly efficacious in Headaches and Tic-doloreux, producing immediate relief.

The following are some of the Complaints in which the Cure-All is most recommended, by its great efficacy as an internal application:—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, Lumbago, Back, Pain in the Side, Bones and Joints, Sciatica, Contracted Sinews, Stiffness of the Joints, Sprains, Bruises, Strains, Tumors, Ear Scalds, Chilblains, Glandular Tumors, Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Kicks, Stiffness and Pain in the Feet or Brazes, Scald Head, Sore Nipples, Ankles and Swellings, Corns, Bunions, Inflammation, Pains and Swellings of the Feet, Mumps, Boil Throat, Rheumatic Sores, Fresh Wounds, and Injuries of every description.

Agents for Montreal:—R. W. Rexford, S. J. Lyman & Co., and Dr. Picault.

Agents for Quebec:—J. Munson, and J. Bowles.

CRAMP AND PAIN KILLER.

THE MORE BLOOD-STAINED, BEST KNOWN Pain Killer of all Medicines. Affections, Cramp, Pain in the Side, Back, and Limbs, Sprains, Bruises, Strains, Tumors, Ear Scalds, Chilblains, Corns, Bunions, Inflammation, Pains and Swellings of the Feet, Mumps, Boil Throat, Rheumatic Sores, Fresh Wounds, and Injuries of every description.

THIS celebrated Medicine has effected many truly astonishing cures in cases of Old Pain, Rheumatism, Lame Back, Bruises, Sprains, Cramp, Pain in the Side, Back, and Limbs, Sprains, Bruises, Strains, Tumors, Ear Scalds, Chilblains, Corns, Bunions, Inflammation, Pains and Swellings of the Feet, Mumps, Boil Throat, Rheumatic Sores, Fresh Wounds, and Injuries of every description.

We solicit particular attention to the fact that it does not stain, as Liniment of Opium in any form. Neither does it leave a disagreeable odor, as Camphor.

It does not deaden the life of tissues, nor produce the burning sensation of Spirits of Hartshorn.

It does not weaken the peristaltic motion of the bowels, producing Costiveness, and its attendant evils, but as a preventive of diarrhœa, and of proper and healthy action in the stomach and bowels.

IN ALL RHEUMATIC AFFECTIONS, Lame Pains, &c., it has proved surprisingly successful, rarely failing to cure, even in the worst cases, in a few successive dressings. (See Certificates). In these cases, the parts affected should be freely bathed, and then rubbed briskly, but briskly—not hard enough to hurt the patient, till an irritation is produced on the surface, and in severe cases the patient should take half a teaspoonful on sugar or sweetened water.

CRAMP IN THE STOMACH, OR BILIOUS CHOLIC.

We believe it will never fail to speedily cure. It should be a teaspoonful at a dose, on sugar or molasses, or in any manner the patient can take it best, and the dose may be repeated freely twice, and if the illness or twenty minutes the patient does not feel relief, repeat the dose.

DYSENTERY OR DIARRHŒA

Are speedily and easily cured by it. It should be given a teaspoonful at a time, once in an hour or two, or oftener in severe cases, and bathe the stomach and bowels with the liniment.

EVEN THE CHOLERA,

Which during the past season has taken off such fearful numbers, has been cured by it. Cases in point occurred in Burlington, where it has been early and freely applied in Dysentery, which is generally the precursor of Cholera. It was found to yield to its remedy, and CURTIS & PERKINS' CRAMP AND PAIN KILLER, was the medicine used in the family by the first Physicians, and, as stated by the Press, on the first, the great remedy to be used.

As a dressing for Cuts, Wounds, Bruises, &c., it is without a rival. As also in cases of Sore Throat, Sore Throat, &c.—relieving the pain and healing without scar.

FOR TOOTHACHE

It is, nine times out of ten, a CURE. We believe it will never fail, unless the tooth is utterly decayed, if the tooth is hollow, saturate a little lint and put it in the cavity. Hold it there, and the pain will leave in a few minutes. If the face is swollen bathe with it.

Bathing the head with it is generally a cure for the Headache.

We are constantly receiving certificates from every part of the country, many of which may be seen in newspapers, and in pamphlets, which may be obtained gratis of our agents.

P. S.—It is the best HORSE AND OX LINIMENT in the world.

Please read the following statement from Rev. Joshua Bonham, Esq., of Dixmont, Me.:—

DIXMONT, July 21, 1849.

Messrs. Curtis & Perkins:—For two years past I have been entirely prostrated with the Rheumatism; both of my knees were swelled to twice their original size—my right knee came out on my lowest bone, appearing like a part of the bone thrown out. Another bone was thrown out of my wrist. In short, I endured the most excruciating pains for nearly three years, during which time I employed the services of three of the most eminent physicians, and tried a great number of medicines and prescriptions, without the least benefit or alleviation, when I had the good fortune to procure a bottle of Cramp and Pain Killer, prepared by Messrs. Curtis & Perkins, of Bangor. Soon after taking it I found I could get some rest nights, and the pain became less violent. I have continued to take it and apply it externally, until I have used eight bottles. I feel myself now free from the rheumatism. The swelling in my knees and joints has gone, both in my limbs and lower, and I am entirely relieved from pain. I have been able to do a good day's work at any time for the last three months, for a man of my age. No doubt your Cramp and Pain Killer is my the vast amount of benefit I have received from this article. I believe it is the best article in the world for Rheumatism. I have also used it for Cramp and pain in the stomach, and always found immediate relief.

PLANTAGENET WATER.

Among the objects of attraction at the late Industrial Fair, the celebrated Plantagenet Water held a conspicuous place, and its exhibition was attended, we learn, with the most favorable results. The demand at the Depot for this health-giving Water was so great, that it was with great difficulty strangers and visitors in the city could be supplied. The celebrity of these Mineral Springs has been so thoroughly and extensively established that testimony of the highest character, and of a most decisive character, of the highly respectable certificates given in our paper of to-day will, if possible, increase their reputation, and add to their value throughout the Province. The testimonials of the Medical Men of Montreal are highly favorable to the character and quality of these Springs. Dr. Nelson and Gibb placing them above all other Mineral waters on this Continent.

"I believe I was one of the first to call the attention of this city to the virtues of the Plantagenet Spring Water, and since that time I have prescribed it to a very large number of my patients with invariable advantage.

"Two members of my family, of long and severe constitutional disease, have derived great benefit from the use of the Water. One had nearly lost all power in the right arm, the result of a severe and protracted attack of Rheumatism; the other was extremely debilitated from a complication of the digestive and alimentary organs.

"The administration of the Water is attended with the happiest result in constipation, arising from sedentary habits, and in aged persons.

"In heartburn, morning sickness, and the other complaints to which women are subject under certain circumstances, it acts most agreeably and efficiently. In all these derangements, as well as in others, where a gentle action of the bowels is desirable, it should be taken in another quantities at a time, but more frequently.

"From an extensive experience I can well confident with the operation of the Water; I have prescribed it in considerable quantities, and I deem it preferable to any other of the Mineral Waters I am acquainted with. I look upon the Mineral Waters as a great boon conferred by Providence on mankind.

"WM. NELSON, M. D., V. P. C. M.

"Phy. & Sur., Canada Lond."

"Many months experience in the use of the Plantagenet Waters in my practice have fully convinced me of their value as a remedial agent, and I have not yet met with an only single occasion to regret their use. I find that they seldom disagree with the stomach, and always act on a gentle aperient and alterative, and from their composition, they possess, in addition, a considerably tonic property.

"Certainly, too much has not been said in their favor, for they are, probably, the most valuable Waters on this Continent.

"GIDEON D. GIBB, M. D.,

"Licentiate Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, "Physician to the Montreal Dispensary.

"Montreal, 5th August, 1852."

The following certificate is from the Hon. Peter McGill, a Member of the Legislative Council of the Province, and President of the Bank of Montreal:—

"CHATEAU LA RIVIERE, Montreal, 1849.

"DEAR SIR,—Having during the year past used the Plantagenet Water, so well known and so highly commended to public favor by many of our most eminent Medical Practitioners, I can bear testimony to its salutary effects on my own immediate health, and doubt not its efficacy in contributing to strengthen and invigorate the constitution of those who may freely use it. The quantity of the water has been generally sent to my residence in the City, and my own experience of its excellent qualities fully warrants me in giving my testimony to its beneficial effects.
