Disasters.

Schr Harry White, Hopkins, Fernandina. The H W brought into port the crew of British schooner Maggie A Smith, Capt John Ralston, which was lost at sea in the passage from St John, N B, for Boston. Capt Ralston reports that he left port on the 6th inst, and on the following day a heavy Northwest gale began, which caused the vessel to spring a leak, the high winds constantly sweeping her decks, carrying away boat and everything moveable. All hands were set at work pumping, and the schooner put before the wind, as it was impossible to heave to without danger of sinking. The gale continued to blow them to leeward, and on Saturday morning they found themselves in the Gulf Stream, when they took a S E gale and were driven back to Cable Island, which was in sight on Sunday night, when the vessel was steered for Mount Desert, with an Easterly wind. After sighting that Island, a thick snow storm set in, and they ran for Cape Ann as the only safe course; but the wind had hauled to WSW, and it was found impossible to reach it. In the meantime the men became exhausted with continued pumping; the vessel was badly strained and the leak increasing. On Wednesday morning they were overtaken by the schooner Harry White, when 40 miles from Cape Cod. A heavy gale was blowing, and it was found a work of great difficulty to save the men, but it was finally accomplished after five hours' effort, during which the boat used was nearly swamped on the last trip. The mariners saved nothing from the wreck, which was in a sinking condition when abandoned. One of the crew was so badly disabled by exposure that it was necessary to send him to the hospital. The Maggie A Smith was 74 tons burthen, and was owned by Messrs Scammell Bros of St John, N B. No insurance. The cargo of lumber was owned by Mr Gibson, of the same place.

Brig Florence, Dickson, from Matanzas for New York, with sugar, was towed into Bermuda 22d ult, with loss of foremast, and nearly all attached, and vessel leaking badly, having encountered a terrific gale on 15th. Was compelled to bear away for Bermuda. She remained in port 8th inst, repairing, and a portion of her cargo was discharged.
