WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1894.

The postmaster general of Canada, received on Wednesday last, a communication from the director of the International Postal and Philatelic exposition held at Milan, Italy, during the summer, stating that the first prize, consisting of a diploma of honor, had been awarded to the Dominion of Canada for the best display of postal appliances. The exhibit was an amplification of the Canadian postal display made at the World's Fair, for which first prize was granted Canada over all other postal departments of the world.

Out of the multiplicity of reports, regarding the war between China and Japan, it seems now to be apparent that since the capture of Port Arthur by the Japanese, China feels herself utterly beaten. The latest reports indicate that Pekin will be captured before very long, unless the Chinese agree to the terms upon which the Japanese are willing to terminate hostilities. The terms, so far as can be understood, demand a large money indemnity, as well as territorial cessions, and the relinquishment of suzerainty over Corea. The negotiations looking towards peace seem to have been brought about through the good offices of United States Minister Denby, at Pekin. Whether or not the bellicose parties will agree upon terms of peace remains yet uncertain. Should they fail, and the capture of Pekin take place, the last vestige of the Tartar-Chinese dynasty, which has controlled the country for two hundred and fifty years shall disappear. What developments of the situation the next few days may disclose, it is impossible to conjecture.

The annual St. Andrew's Dinner, under the auspices of the Caledonian Club of P. E. Island, was held at the Queen Hotel on Monday evening last, and was one of the most, if not the most successful social events in the history of the club. The sons of the heather, with their friends and guests, forgathered to the number of nearly seventy, and the dinner was in every way worthy of the occasion, and in the highest degree creditable to the management of the Queen. Mr. James Paton, President of the Club, presided, supported on his right by His Honor Lieut. Governor Howlan, Hon. D. Laird and Premier Peters, and on the left by Hon. A. A. McDonald, Chief, Mayor Dawson and D. J. Kane, Esq., U. S. Consul. The vice chair was worthily filled by Mr. John McPhee, Vice-President. When full justice had been done the viands, President Paton rapped for order, and inaugurated the intellectual part of the banquet in an appropriate and pithy address. He then announced that letters of regret had been received from His Lordship Bishop McDonald, Chief Justice Sullivan, Judge Hodgson, Judge Fitzgerald, Rev. Father Reid, Lieut. Col. Jas. D. Irving, Halifax, John W. Morrison, Esq., and Captain Weeks. After reading some of these letters the following toast list was taken up:

The Queen.

The day and 'a Wha Honor It.—Hon D Laird.

The President of the United States.—Consul Kane.

Song.—Mr Wm McKay.

The Governor General of Canada—Senator McDonald.

The Parliament of Canada—Jas McIsaac Esq.

The Lieutenant Governor.—Lieut. Gov. Howlan.

The Land o' the Heather—Rev. Mr. Fullerton.

Song—Geo I Foster.

The Local Legislature—Premier Peters.

The Land We Live In—Rev G M Campbell.

Our Guests—His Worship Mayor Dawson.

The Bench and Bar—Mr. Jas. H. Good.

Song.

The Naval and Military Forces of the Empire—Lieut Col Moore.

Sister Societies—Peter McCourt, Esq.

The Press—Mr W L Cotton and Mr M. J McDonald.

The Lassies O'!—M J McDonald and Arthur Mellish.

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

The Chief of the Club (Hon A A McDonald)—proposed by D. O'M. Reddin, jr.

The President—proposed by Mr. John McPhee.

Absent friends, with particular reference to Lieut.-Colonel Irving, D. A. G. Halifax—proposed by Hon. D. Laird and responded to by A. McNeill, Esq.

The Managing Committee—proposed by Mr. J. S. McDonald and responded to by Mr. John McPhee.

Our Host and Hostess—proposed by Mr. McPhee and responded to by Mr. Archibald.

The toasts were drunk in cold water, and the speeches were of a high order, genuinely eloquent and sparkling with many scintillations of wit. The haggis was introduced with regulation honors and Mr. Chas. Webster recited in good style Burns' address to the "Chieftain o' the puddin' race." Mr. G. I. Foster presided at the piano, and the songs of McKay, Whear and Foster were capital. In the wee sma' hours Auld Lang Syne was sung and the company dispersed, all more than pleased with the evening's entertainment.

The Montre[illegible], an independent journ[illegible] frequently sympathizes [illegible] the grits, is very anxi[illegible] the leaders should av[illegible] errors which brought [illegible] party the disaster of [illegible] sees that their trade p[illegible] to-day is no more defini[illegible] that of 1891 and will [illegible] together when the sear[illegible] of a campaign is tu[illegible] on it. If there is one thing more than another, in connection with the tariff question, which the general public has been desirous of finding out, it is the platform of our Liberal friends. This seems to have been so protean in its nature that it was impossible, at any time to conjecture what form it might assume within twenty-four hours. Consequently when Mr. L. H. Davies, Leader of the Maritime Grits, was reported as having said in a speech at Woodstock, N. B., on Friday night last, that he was in favor of levying an equal rate of duty on imports of all kinds, it was naturally assumed that this was the new Grit tariff platform. It was felt that although such a platform [illegible] many defects, among others the taxing of forty or fifty million dollars worth of imports now free, it was at least something definite, that could be discussed on its merits. The St. John Sun taking this view of the situation, dealt with the matter in a leading article on Saturday. But our Liberal friends lost no time in explaining away this theory. Mr. Davies wrote a letter to the Sun, stating that he was not correctly reported, and that he did not lay down any such platform as the one in question. On the contrary, he says he denounced it. So that our friends of the Opposition, so far as a tariff platform is concerned, are as much at sea as ever, and keep the public as much as ever in the dark. As Mr. Pickwick would say. Droll, very droll!

Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian high commissioner at London, in a letter to Sir John Leng, member of the house of commons for Dundee, in reference to the recent utterances of Herbert Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, in regard to Canadian cattle, says the fact that pleuro-pneumonia has not spread in Canada, as it would have done if the contentions of Mr. Gardner were well founded, shows that the disease does not exist in the Dominion. He dwells on the fact that the government inquiry into the matter revealed that there is a difference of opinion as to the nature of the disease which the Canadians insist is not pleuro pneumonia, but the effect of the ocean passage on the cattle shipped to Great Britain. No symptoms of pleuro-pneumonia have been discovered in the living. Diseases in Canadian cattle, as are generally found in Great Britain, have only been discovered by post mortem examination. Sir Charles concluded by saying that the Canadian government is much aggrieved that their representations based on independent inquiries, have not led to the removal of the restrictions placed by the board of agriculture on the importation of Canadian cattle.

His Honor Lieut. Governor Howlan is carrying forward and amplifying his laudable work of inculcating in the minds of our youth notions of genuine patriotism and true national sentiment. Last week we alluded to what he had done for the schools and convents, in presenting them with patriotic songs and offering for competition, a medal for the best essay on "Canada and its Resources." On Friday last, he visited the Prince of Wales College and after distributing copies of the patriotic song, already referred to, made the pleasing announcement that he offered a gold medal to the student writing the best essay on "Canada." He took advantage of the occasion to address to the students, a few words of kindly advice. He briefly referred to his own school-boy days, and pointed out the advantages the youth of our day enjoyed in the matter of acquiring an education. He paid a glowing tribute to Canada and strongly impressed upon the children the importance of becoming familiar with its history. Our country was one of which we might well feel proud. He referred to the high and honorable position taken in the educational world by some former students of Prince of Wales College. Mr. Laird had gone forth from its halls and was now occupying a professorship in one of the leading seats of learning in the neighboring Republic. Prof. Schurman, another student, was President of the great University of Cornell. These are examples worthy of emulation. On Monday His Honor visited Upper Prince Street school and emphasized what he had already said at West Kent regarding the medal for the best essay on "Canada and its Resources." He was received with the greatest enthusiasm, the pupils singing "Canada Forever."

JOHN BURNS, M P, the English labor leader, addressed a large audience in New York, Monday night. When he described himself as an international Socialist he was greeted with an outburst of applause.

A Chat with Our Subscribers.

If any subscriber does not receive his paper regularly we shall esteem it favor to be immediately notified of that fact by postal card.

Owing to the pressure upon our space we are obliged to defer till next week the publication of the names of those who pay. We trust that the ensuing week will be the best yet. Remember Christmas is drawing near.

We are particularly grateful to the large number who sent their subscriptions during the past week. Queen's County carries off the palm this time. If our friends in Kings desire to be in the front rank when the day of reckoning comes they better be up and doing.

The Earl of Jersey, who presided at the Colonial conference recently held in Ottawa, has submitted his report to the Imperial Parliament. His conclusions are largely in sympathy with the conference decision on cable, steamships and trade relations within the Empire. He urges the Government to remove any restrictions in the way of International trade.

The autumn session of the United Congress opened on Monday last. The President's message was a lengthy one, touching on many topics, such as South America, Hawaii, the China-Japan war, the Czar's death, etc.. It shows the deficit of last year to be over six million dollars, and estimates next year's deficit at twenty million. It supports the Postmaster-General in his demand for increased postage on second class matter.

Newfoundland Fisheries.

In order to obtain possession of all the facts connected with the Newfoundland fisheries the secretary of the United States treasury in October, 1893, assigned T. Aubrey Byrne, special treasury employe, to the duty of studying and reporting the conditions existing in this branch of business. Mr. Byrne's report is now in the hands of the secretary of the treasury, and charges that through the systematic frauds of the importors and the culpable negligence of certain custom officers the treasury has been deprived of large amounts of duties. The report states that over 95 per cent. of the salted herring coming from Newfoundland have been openly purchased in that country in inland waters on the southern coast, outside the limits where under the treaty of 1878 fish might be taken, dried and cured. It apears that the fishing vessels sailing from the United States carry cargoes which are bartered for fish caugh by Newfoundland fishermen. As the fish thus produred are not the product of the American fisheries, and being used for food, are not "fish for bait," they are dutiable under United States laws. The treaty of Washington, which was abrogated by the Pan-American treaty of January 1885, made concessions to American fishermen, but these concessions were confined to the sea fisheries and did not, it is claimed in the report, include the herring fisheries, they being restricted to a region within three miles of the coast. In order to evade the United States revenue laws, it is said a scheme was put into practice by which the Newfoundland fishermen would become quasi employes of the United States vessels, under which pretence they would really sell to the latter fish caught by them. It is further claimed that the treasury department has been led by means of misrepresentation to make several decisions affirming the right of free entry of fish so caught. Mr. Byrne estiamtes that during the past nine fishing seasons there have been imported at eastern ports 262,528 barrels of frozen herring weighing 63,016,620 pounds; of salted herring 62,543 barrels, weighing 21,935,600 pounds, and that the total loss to revenue on the above has been $243,454.

Railroad Fatalaties.

A passenger train on the New York and New England railroad struck a barge containing the Southbridge Purples football eleven as it was crossing the tracks at Centre Street, Southbridge Mass., on Thursday last on the way to the football field to play the Worcester Polytechnic institute eleven. As a result of the disaster two young men are dead and three others will probably die. Eleven received serious injuries. One of the dead leaves a wife and two children. On the same day a passenger train on the valley division of the New York, Naw Haven and Hartford Railroad, entering Hartford, Conn., struck a freight engine of the New Xork and New England at a grade crossing. The engineer was terribly mangled and instantly killed. The body was extricated an hour after. The passenger train was derailed, but no one killed.

Edward Wayne an electrotyper, of 542 Jersey avenue, Jersey City, while interceding for his son, Edward Wayne, jr., who has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for policy gambling, on Monday last offered Judge Hudspeth of the Hudson Court of Common Pleas a bribe of $5,000 to set the prisoner free. Judge Hudspeth publicly exposed Wayne and the man is now keeping his son company in the county jail.

The high commissioner for Canada has sent to the minister of agriculture at Ottawa a list of seven United States steamships arriving at ports in the United Kingdom recently, and carrying sheep among which were found animals affected by scab. The large number of sheep, 121,303, exported from Canada during the season were not found to be infected by this disease. The utmost vigilance is exercised by the inspectors of the department of agriculture to prevent sheep scabs going aboard.

The Whitewayite press of St. John's Nfld are still clamorous for the dismissal of the present ministry and the recalling of their leaders to power. They threaten a popular uprising if the present government retains power, and serve the warning on the governor that he will be held responsible for any expenditures of money undertaken by authority of the present goverment, as they only number 14 against the Whitwayite 22. It is understood that the government is retaining office by the express desire of Governor O'Brien and the Rosebery cabinet so that negotiations for the loan which is now needed may be satisfactorily carried out. There is much public feeling on the subject in St John's which is strongly Whitewayite.

Now the Prohibitory Law is Enforced in Bangor, Maine.

The Bangor Daily Commercial of the 30th ult., contains an account of the union Thanksgiving Service held in the Bangor City Hall, on the previous day, Thanksgiving day, from which we take the following extract: Rev. Edward McSweeney was the last speaker and spoke on local topics. In the course of his remarks referring to the prohibitory law Father McSweeney said that it was not enforced because, lacking the support of public opinion and sympathy, it was impotent and impracticable—there could be no dispute on that point, as the plain facts were too well known. The speaker did not call for the organization of public support of the law, because the practical results of the attempts at enforcement had always been unsatisfactory. The law was impotent, and the policy of the civil authorities here in Bangor was such that it left lovers and defenders of good morals "between the devil and the deep sea"—there was in Bangor at present, neither prohibition nor reasonable restriction of the liquor traffic.

No matter what may be our wishes or our hopes in this matter, we have to look at the facts as they really are—consider the existing condition of things. The speaker had before asked for enforcement of the law on Sunday, but the request had not been heeded, and various weak excuses were anvanced for the toleration of the present order of things. The law is on the statute books, yet we have neither prohibition nor restriction. There should be an end of this humbug. Give us enforcement of the law, or a least reasonable limitation of the traffic in liquor, or kill the law!

What about the lack of restriction even on Sunday? Occasionally a poor woman is brought into court and fined for Sunday liquor selling, while all the numerous other offenders go unmolested. A few small cases are prosecuted, while from the foot of Exchange street to Union street the sale of liquor and worse offences go steadily on without let or hindrance, week day and Sunday, early and late. Small boys had been arrested by the police and vigorously prosecuted for playing ball on Sunday in the streets or parks—these trifles were snapped up while the substantial and deplorable features of Sunday desecration were allowed to pass unnoticed. This is the work of unfaithful servants of the law, and the people should call them to account.

Let us have no trifling nor lame excuses. The speaker demanded the enactment of a municipal statute that would protect Sunday from desecration. Who is it, he asked, that by negligence and indifference debauches the morals of the masses? It is not the drunkards, the abandoned sinners, not these, but intelligent, upright, honest men in the official ranks and outside.

Sin is rampant and vice that is usually hidden to some extent boldly manifests itself in the streets. The speaker declared that he was no purist nor spasmodical reformer, but he went in to point out certain eyesores to decency which could not well be overlooked by a man who sees as he goes. It was to the defiance of female depravity, the bold prominence of prostitution, that he referred. Was the subject one too delicate to be approached? Parents must protect the morals of their young from the contamination which is the inevitable result of unbridled license of shame.

In conclusion, Father McSweeney reiterated what he had all along declared—that he made no attack upon any particular person or official, that it was of a deplorable condition that he had complained, his remarks being entirely impersonal. It was refreshing to note, he said, the evidences manifest in the past four years that Americans were becoming more independent of old political ties, and that the love of country was first and strongest in the hearts of the people. Love of country is best shown in jealous care of the morals of the young.

"Bring your consciences as individuals into your work as citizens," said Father McSweeney, "and public conscience will approve and support!"

The able and stirring address of Father McSweeney was received with warm applause and was generally commented on during the day.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the clergymen of the city who arranged for the meeting, and to the speakers. The audience sang American, with cornet and piano accompaniment, and benediction was pronounced by Rev. Father McSweeney.

Rough Ocean Trips.

Three Warren steamers, the Angloman, Evans, Roman, Lewis, and Palestine, Whiteway, arrived at Boston, from Liverpool on Thursday last, making the largest number of ocean steamships of one line that ever entered the port of Boston in a single day. The Leyland liner, Lancastrian, Muir, also arrived from Liverpool. All four vessels report tempestuous voyages. The Roman was three days late reaching port. The Palestine was six days overdue, and the other two vessels were twenty-four hours late. Captain Whiteway, of the Palestine, said the trip was the roughest and longest he ever had, November 21st, a mountainous wave engulfed the forward part of the vessel and swept everything. Only careful manipulation saved the ship. The wave struck the strongly built iron house forward and completely ripped up the hurricane deck. Another volume of water stove in the saloon bulkhead, flooded the cabin with water and destroyed much valuable property. A life boat was smashed, and the private saloon was flooded and many valuable papers, including the ship's manifesto, ruined. The Palestine made only twenty miles that day. The steamer Roman also encountered the hurricane, November 21, a heavy sea carried away the ventilators and other fittings. The Roman made only half a mile an hour during the twenty-four hours the storm lasted. The vessel was hove-to for several hours. The Leyland liner Lancastrian and the Angloman also encountered similar weather, but escaped with little damage.

The schooner Druid, with lumber from Quaco, N. B., was fouled by an unknown schooner in Portsmouth Harbor on Thursday last. She had bulwarks stove in and jibstay carried away.

Winnipeg advices says that eighty per cent of the wheat available for export in Manitoba and the Teritories has been shipped out. The balance will be taken out during the winter and most of it will probably be stored in Fort William until navigation opens.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The British steamer "Albertina" towed into London on Monday came into olision with a large steamer which sank immediately in a denes fog. It is feared she was a passenger steamer.

Advices from Berthier, Quebec, says that the beet root sugar manufacturing will pay this year $75,000 to the farmers. The output is 3,000 barrels which will be increased to 8,000 next year.

New York advices of Thursday last say that orders issued from the headquarters of the American Sugar Refinery to shut down all refineries of the company in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other cities. Fifty thousand operatives will be affected.

The schooner Eagle Wing collided near Boston on Thursday last with the schooner Rettie, of St. John for Boston with a load of lumber. The Eagle Wing struck the Rettie head on, cutting her down below the water line, so that she became water-logged in a few minutes.

Quebec Province immigration agent has received 8,631 new comers during the past eighteen months, distributing them througbout the Province. During the past fiscal year the number was 2,953, being 1,927 English, 153 Irish, 297 French, 95 Belgian, 66 Scotch, 82 German and 333 other nations.

The four masted schr Annie Pardee, of New Haven, with coal for Boston went ashore on Wednesday last off Saybrook reefs Conn. She was dashed to pieces on the rocks. Four of the crew were washed overboard and drowned. Three others were clinging to the rigging. The weather was extremely cold and blowing a gale.

The Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association of Winnipeg, will tender a reception to Sir C. H. Tupper on his return from the Pacific coast, and a public meeting will be held, at which Sir Charles will deliver an address. Hon. Messrs Wallace and Wood went as far as Winnipeg with the minister of marine.

A solemn service was held on Thursday last at Notre Dame church Montreal for the repose of the souls of persons buried in the Cote Des Neiges cemetery. From 1642 to the present time, 263,865 persons have been interred in the Catholic cemtery, and the city of the dead behind Mount Royal is almost as populous as Montreal itself.

A sad accident occurred in the C. P R., station yard, Fredericton, N. B., on Friday last, by which a young man—Harry Parker, aged 24, who came from Woodstock a few weeks ago—lost his life. Deceased was a locomotive engineer and was employed during the night in shunting work. Shortly before six o'clock he was making up the Woodstock accommodation train and his brakesman, Hartley Smith, having gone down to attend to a switch he undertook to couple his engine to the passenger cars himself. For this purpose he jumped from the caboose of the locomotive and having run to the passenger train allowed the engine to back itself while he stood at the end of the first car ready to place the coupling pin. The locomotive came forcibly down upon the car and catching Parker at the abdomen crushed him at once into unconsciousness until nine o'clock, when he expired.

Four of the prisoners who escaped from the Dorchester penitentiary at different times this fall and were recaptured were tried on Wednesday last. Robert Horne got two additional years. His term would have been up in Feb. ruary next. Oliver Jones got two years for escaping, and two years more for breaking into George W. Chandler's house at Dorchester, after escaping and another two years for entering Henry R. Emerson's house. Jones trails from St. John, and was in originally for three years. He has now nine years to serve. William Boutilleier was sentenced to five years altogether, two for escaping, two more for entering one house and one year for entering another. William Johnson (colored) got two years for escaping, and five years more for breaking into three different houses before being recaptured, or seven years in all. He had but fourteen months to serve when he escaped.

The first skating accident of the season occurred at Ottrwa Thursday evening and resulted in the drowning of Henry R. Moore, aged 27, a second class clerk in the auditor general's department. It appears that Moore and a companion named W. H. Walker a clerk in the governor general's office, went skating up the Rideau canal, and when at the boom across Dows Lake, Walker broke through the ice. Moore gallantly sprang to the rescue and also broke through the ice, Walker managed to scramble out, and missing his companion called for help which was quickly at hand, but nothing could be seen of Moore except his hat on the ice, and up to a late hour the body had not been recovered. Moore was a native of Meadford, where his father is a prosperous miller. He graduated from Toronto university in 1890, and shortly after entered the auditor general's department, where he proved so efficient that he speedily rose to a second class clerkship.

Simply Awful

Worst Case of Scrofula the Doctors Ever Saw

Completely Cured by HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

"When I was 4 or 5 years old I had a scrofulous sore on the middle finger of my left hand, which got so bad that the doctors cut the finger off, and later took off more than half my hand. Then the sore broke out on my arm, came out on my neck and face on both sides, nearly destroying the sight of one eye, also on my right arm. Doctors said it was the Worst Case of Scrofula they ever saw. It was simply awful! Five years ago I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Gradually I found that the sores were beginning to heal. I kept on till I had taken ten bottles, ten dollars! Just think of what a return I got for that investment! A thousand per cent! Yes, many thousand. For the past 4 years I have had no sores. I Work all the Time. Before, I could do no work. I know not what to say strong enough to express my gratitude to Hood's Sarsaparilla for my perfect cure." GEORGE W. TURNER, Farmer, Galway, Saratoga county, N. Y.
